

PLAINTIVE WAIL OF CARROLL INDEX MAN

HERALD ACCUSED OF PLOT. Dark Motives Assigned to Wayne Paper by Confessedly Unequal Competitor. The Herald will reproduce here with the literary exultation of the Carroll Index, concerning Carroll representation in this paper, so people generally, living at that place and vicinity may be given an opportunity to read it.

OUR ANSWER TO THE HERALD.

In answer to the Wayne Herald's attempt to "pull the wool" over the eyes of Carroll business men, we regard to Carroll news being published in that paper, we will endeavor to give to the general public a fair and just view of the matter.

The Herald's attempt to persuade another one. In answer to the charge of injustice because of the appearance of Carroll news in this Herald, this paper took occasion to point out that the Herald's subscribers at Carroll and vicinity if the Index editor could have his way, and such pointing out was unwarranted.

The Herald editor would have the people of Carroll believe that he is advertising this town in violation of the law. He is not. He is simply advertising the town in the same manner as any other newspaper.

work occurred these words: "It is more convenient to take a paper embracing everything of interest rather than being compelled to take a paper which is not interested in serving the same purpose." The above self-explanatory, and plainly showing that the Herald hopes to do a paper containing Carroll news.

The Herald has not only never reflected an opinion on any other papers of the map, but has never boasted of superiority in circulation or prestige. To assume that a county seat paper, generally circulated and presenting an epitome of the news of each locality, should be treated with such contempt is surely showing peculiar weakness which no other paper in the county elsewhere would feel compelled to admit.

About two years ago, at a meeting of the Carroll Association, the "Big R" of the Wayne Herald prepared a paper to be read before the business men of the county, the tendency of which was to "pull the wool" over the eyes of the people.

Here are a few more facts to be carefully considered by the business men and citizens in and about Carroll. The Herald has added to our subscription list three hundred new names, and has had a circulation of over one hundred, about eighty of whom have quit this paper because they are not interested in the news of the Wayne Herald.

of the Herald's correspondence. It cannot be sure that he would not have lost them, anyway. Further, the Herald serves many more than eighty through the Carroll post-office. The Herald would say that approximately 800 of the Herald's territory, served through that postoffice, and over 1000 Winslow route and one Wayne route, are regular readers of this paper.

The Herald is devoting considerable space to the "Index editor," and his "progress," without a precedent in the history of journalism. He designs to tear down enterprise and thwart progress. To lead a selfish purpose he would deny people the advantages of multiplying printing facilities and improved news service.

The Herald believes in "fewer and better papers," and a wise and discriminating public will agree with its position. At one time Wayne had four newspapers; later three; now two. As long as the demand is fully met by two, there is no possible chance for a third one.

The Herald's "progress" is being measured by the number of advertisements it has. It has a circulation of over one hundred, about eighty of whom have quit this paper because they are not interested in the news of the Wayne Herald.

The Herald has heard no opposition to the present officers, and how many of them will be willing to serve again, this paper does not know. HERALD EXCHANGE GLEANINGS OF WEEK
About Time
Sioux City Journal: If President Roosevelt is to have a homecoming at the psychological moment next year it is time for him to be laying his plans for going away somewhere.
For Congress.
Fremont Herald: Mr. Metcalf says in his Nebraska that the Republicans of this district are talking L. James Nichols of Madison as being Friday for the job now held by congressman Stephens of Fremont.
Will Need Breath Expert.
Fairbury News: The Kansas legislature has passed a law imposing heavy penalties upon any person who lingers on his breath who runs an automobile. But how are they going to prove it? Certainly no person in Kansas can qualify as a breath expert.
As to Prosperity.
Norfolk News: A year ago gold values we sent to Germany goods valued at over $3,000,000. This last January it had fallen to about 6,000,000. This is what war does. And the much vaunted South American trade that was going to roll on prospectively for this country, where is that? For the entire war period the balance of South American trade is against us to the appreciable amount of over eighty million dollars. No, if anyone thinks this country is prospering as a result of the European war he has another thing coming.
Billy Sunday.
Sixty in Lincoln Journal-Gazette according to Billy Sunday, was the head cheerer and the whole works. "Who's that gabazoo?" asked David. Then he "gave Goliath the once over." Here the evangelist illustrated the effect on the giant of himself falling off full length on the platform. The language accompanying the occular demonstration was "Banned! David soaked him in the coco between the lamps and Goliath went to the map and took the cocoo." Dave chopped his head off and Goliath's gang beat it, and then he stirred the truth-busters with this appeal:
"Say, are you riding a blind bag of a gospel train? I'll know in a minute whether you're men or parrots. If you're a man you'll fight one way down these sides to take my hand. Oh, I'll have your number! I'll know whether you've got gasoline or dishwater in your veins, whether you're real or a four-flusher!"
America's Sympathies.
A correspondent of the Johnstown, Pa., Democrat writes to that paper asking: "With whom do we Americans sympathize in the pending European war?" and the Democrat answers as follows:
"With the German, Russian, French, Belgian and English boys who man the trenches. With the mothers who bore these boys. With the fathers who saw them grow to manhood and loved them as they grew. With the women who were pledged to these boys. With the children they left when they marched to the front. With the poor peasant woman who struggles against the pangs of war engendered poverty. With those who in the cities cry out for food. With the men who fight for fatherland, hating war in their hearts. With the great artists like Kresler, who must turn their marvelous method of producing fingers to work of destruction. With the people who must lead out their days with lives forever blighted by this war. With the innocent whose fields have been trampled under foot by marching armies. With all the hosts of those who, under the press of a mistaken patriotism must offer up their lives. These are the ones with whom we sympathize."

"Fainting Bertha" Again.
Sioux City Journal: March 18.—"Fainting Bertha Liebek" known intimately to the jungs, the porcupines and the "oomens" of the Sioux City, Omaha and Lincoln and many another city of the middle west, for her skill at simulating lapse of consciousness, her ability to pluck sympathy from chivalrous gentlemen who go to her aid, and her periodical reformations, has turned the penitentiary at Lincoln, Neb., topsy turvy in a short period of incarceration there, according to a story appearing yesterday in the Chicago Tribune. When the hosts of those who were during the 1914 automobile show. At that time she had reformed permanently again. She disposed of little red booklets containing her life history and an introduction by the Rev. Mr. Savidge, a mission worker of Omaha, who at that time was convinced that she was a brand plucked from the burning.

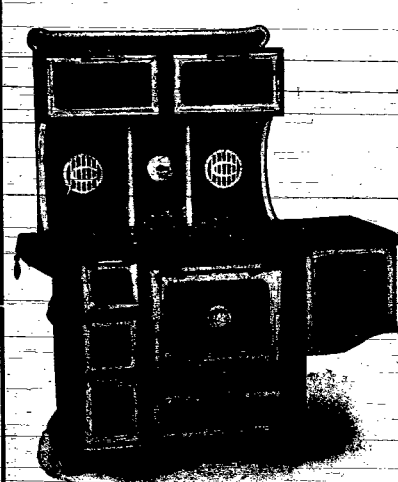

of every window that she could reach, has thrown it down at guards, wailer or fellow prisoners without discrimination; has kept the other prisoners awake at night by her screams, and has terrorized the nurses and physicians with her attempts at suicide.
The article continues:
"Fainting Bertha is not new to 'Fainting Bertha.' Several years ago she was an inmate of Joliet, Ill., penitentiary, but managed to escape, it never was known just how. However, the authorities were so glad to get rid of her that they made no great effort of recapture her."
"Prior to her incarceration at Joliet she spent several months in the Missouri state prison. She was pardoned from that institution at the earnest request of almost every body around the place. And it was not on account of her good behavior while there either. She was so much of a nuisance that she simply was not wanted."
"Prior to her experience in Missouri she was in the Iowa penitentiary, and still earlier was an inmate of the Nebraska prison. The Kansas and Colorado penitentiaries in turn gave her shelter."
"Despite the fact that she is one of the best known women crooks in the middle western country, the public looks with a kindly eye upon Bertha. Her stunt is so absolutely unique that its recall by a victim always calls out a smile from the police, while her victims are grieved by their friends. In Omaha, Council Bluffs and other cities in which Bertha is well known a pretty girl may faint and die before any man will come to her assistance. They are all afraid that the sufferer is Bertha throwing a faint." And if the latter is really Bertha, she is the man who attempts to assist her. If he has anything of value about his person Bertha will get it.
"I just can't help it," she told Preacher Savidge, of Omaha, who made an attempt to help her reform. "Men are so easy."
"But Bertha does not keep her plunder very long; the first needy person she meets will get just about everything 'Fainting Bertha' has in her purse at the time."

THE WEEK WITH THE CHURCHES

First Baptist Church.
(Rev. H. P. Richardson, Pastor.)
The revival meetings continue with renewed interest and power, in many ways the meetings are reaching the lives of the people. Only strong words of praise are spoken of Brethren Waldo and Deal. They are men of unquestioned loyalty to truth and the kingdom of Christ.
The forenoon downtown meetings for the men have been especially good. Mr. Waldo's messages have gripped the minds and hearts of those who have heard him. To-morrow (Friday) morning, at 10 o'clock the meeting will be held at Jones' book store. Mr. Waldo will speak on the subject "The Last Mile." Professor Deal will sing.
The afternoon meetings at the church are deeply helpful and inspiring to all who can attend. The messages here are for christian people especially.

Every service next Sunday will be strongly evangelistic. Let us make this day count. Work and prayer will bring results. Help these brethren while they are with us.

Methodist Church.
(Rev. A. S. Buell, Pastor.)
The subject for next Sunday morning's sermon, containing the Passion week series, will be "Thursday, the Day of Fellowship." The subject for the evening sermon will be "The Cup of Fire, or the Holy Grail."
The ladies of the church are planning a supper and bazaar to be held in the church Thursday evening, March 25.
The Woman's Foreign Missionary society meets on Friday afternoon of this week with Mrs. Bruner.
We are pleased to note the interest shown in the special meetings being held in the Baptist church and hope that this week may see a great victory for our Christ and his church. Let us do all we can to help in the advance work of the kingdom. We are glad to note that some of our singers have been helping in the chorus choir and hope that more may be enabled to help this week.

The pastor went to the Grace church seven miles south of Wayne and preached for Rev. C. E. Connell on Sunday afternoon. Rev. Connell was sick.

Professor I. H. Bittel reviewed the Sunday school lesson before the school last Sunday morning. We always know that when the professor has a part on the program that it will be well cared for. Superintendent Bowen will speak in the Sunday school next Sunday morning on the subject "Decision Day in the Sunday School."
A company of Epworth leaguers took a sleigh ride to the Grace church Sunday afternoon and attended church and Sunday school services there.
The league will have another of their community socials in the church Friday evening, March 26, unless there are special meetings going on in some of the sister churches. In that event the social will not be held.

Presbyterian Church.
(Rev. S. Xenophon Cross, Pastor.)
The sermon subject for next Sunday morning will be "The Bartered Birthright."
There will be special music at both morning and evening services. In the morning there will be an anthem, and a solo by Mrs. Ingham in the evening.
Men are especially invited to visit and become members of the class that is being reorganized under the leadership of A. R. Davis. There is already a goodly number in this class, but there is still room for one more.
If you cannot become a regular student in the Bible school, nevertheless, always welcome as a visitor. If you cannot come every Sunday, but would like to enroll in a class and come when you can, there is provision for that.
This is a good time to come again.
Parents are reminded of the opportunities their children are not improving if they are not out at the Junior Endeavor meetings, each Sunday afternoon at 3:30. Mrs. J. G. Mimes is the efficient superintendent of the "Junior" and the boys and girls are receiving excellent training for service in days to come. If your child has not been coming, send him Sunday.
The leader of the Y. P. S. C. E. meeting on next Sunday evening will be Miss Bessie Dunn.
The topic is, "Favorite Books of the Bible," and the text may be read in John 1:5; xxi, 20-25. The leader and prayer meeting committee will meet for a five-minute prayer service before the regular meeting. Remember the C. E. hour, 6:30. Be on time and come in a reverential mood. The pastor's aid committee will get "Remember" ready for distribution this week.

"It goes without saying that if you do not know the Sunday school church to amount to anything, you will have to be there. A good music program is prepared. The subject of the address will be, "The Salt of the Earth." A good line of church work for you to take up would be to host the Sunday evening meetings. Make the attendance correspond in some measure to the fine attendance on Sunday mornings. Help by coming yourself and bringing somebody.

St. Paul's English Lutheran Church.
(Rev. F. E. Blessing, Pastor.)
Sunday school at 10 a. m.
Morning worship at 11.
Luther League at 6:45 p. m.
Evening worship at 7:45.
The morning sermon will be based upon the subject "Face to Face With God." Isaiah vi, 1-5. There is a value in seeing a man face to face with whom you are to deal. It is much more satisfactory to talk business with a man face to face, than to write to him about it. So when we deal in divine things, it is much better to see God face to face, even though our vision is somewhat clouded, and we do look through the glass darkly. When Isaiah began to prophesy, God appeared to him in a vision, but after the lapse of a few years God saw that it was necessary to bring Isaiah face to face with him again, and He appears to him in a vision, so does He bring men face to face with Him today.
In the evening the pastor will speak upon the subject "Why Tarkest Thou," Acts xxii, 16.
Luther League subject will be "Open Discipleship," John xiii, 38-40. The leader will be Miss Stella Skiles.
Keep in mind the Lenten services

Peg of My Heart

By J. HARTLEY MANNERS
A Comedy of Youth Founded by Mr. Mannings on "The Comedy of the Sea" and the traditions from photographs of the Play Copyright, 1913, by Dodd, Mead & Company.

SYNOPSIS.

Frank O'Connell, young Irish parson, is shot and wounded by British soldiers while making a home rule speech. He is aided by Angela Kingsnorth, an English society girl, who later marries him. Angela takes O'Connell to her brother's home and helps to nurse him. He recovers, and he and the girl become fast friends. O'Connell when well is sent to jail for disturbing the peace. He marries Angela, who has finished his sentence. O'Connell and Angela wed. She has espoused the Irish cause. Her brother, a member of parliament, is very angry. The young couple come to America to live. A daughter is born to them. Angela's brother refuses to help the couple in any way. Angela dies.

CHAPTER IX. Peg's Future.

ON the day of the chance of solving the double difficulty of Peg's future was passed. But the drama was so disastrous to him—that he hesitated about even telling her.

When O'Connell walked in and picked up the letter, she watched him eagerly. She felt, for some strange reason, that they were going to reach a ledge in their lives when the seal was broken and the contents disclosed. Superstition was strong in Peg, and that day she had been nervous without reason and excited.

O'Connell read the letter through twice, slowly the first time, quickly the second. A look of bewilderment came over his face and he was so amazed at the letter in his hand.

"It was it from him all?" asked Peg, her father, who she was examining the letter in her hand.

"Yes, Peg," answered her father, and the voice sounded hollow and spiritless.

"I didn't know you had friends in England," said Peg, eyeing the letter.

"No, father," Peg cried passionately, "but what you wrote. Whatever the road will think it out by itself. Peg, leave me for awhile—alone. I want to think it out by myself—alone."

"I'll never leave you, now!" "I'll never leave you for a spell and come back in half an hour and find the incense I'll find it all out in me."

She went down and scratched the furniture in his forehead with the tips of her fingers and kissed him and then, obedient to the awful Michael, she together they were running down the street toward the little patch of ground where the children played and among whom Michael was a prime favorite.

Nathaniel Kingsnorth's twenty years before he died, they were a few weeks to London occasionally when his presence was required on one or another of the boards of which he was a director.

Kingsnorth did not answer any of her questions.

"No way dismayed Mrs. Chichester continued to write periodically. She wrote him when her son Alaric was coming to college.

"When he was stricken with an illness from which no hope of recovery was held out to him he at once began writing me letters."

The one letter hated of his life had been against the man who had taken his sister in marriage and in so doing had ruined her.

He took no interest in the news. He was so busy with the details of his treatment of Angela burnt into him. He especially resented that of the mere child.

"The thought of Angela's death and wondering if she were like his poor dead sister. She was to see the girl down at the office."

One morning, after a restless, feverish night, he sent for his lawyer and told him to call on Mr. Chichester. He found out if the child was still living and if so where.

The next day he altered his entire will and made Margaret O'Connell a special legacy. Ten days later a cable came.

"I consent to my daughter's visiting you," said Mrs. Chichester.

"It's a fine one he's been to me all his life. And it was a grand way she treated me mother when she was young."

"I'll go to him," she said.

"No, Peg," he said.

"I'll go to him," she said.

COMMUNICATION BY A WINSIDE FARMER

Communication—written by W. H. Morris of the Winside vicinity, and appearing in the National Field, Atlanta, Georgia, is published here with request. The article is a plea for organization among farmers to protect their interests and promote their welfare. All agree that the organization along high broad lines is eminently right. However, many will not agree that farmers have been discriminated against, or that they are not as well off materially and otherwise as any other class in the world. As a matter of fact, people minutely acquainted with conditions in the industrial and commercial world today will contrast them sharply with the good fortune of the farmers' lot. The concluding paragraph, asking for discussion and an understanding as to what is needed and wanted, is most germane. The Herald would be pleased to publish other signed communications discussing the points suggested. W. H. MORRIS' article follows:

God has given man several sources of production, such as soil, mine, forest and sea, but the first occupation given man was farming. Man is the only being God created who works with tools; he requires them to farm, mine and manufacture. Man gets busy, and as the farmer had to feed and clothe all, he was a little bit busier than the rest of them, so he let to the others to market his produce and today they are taking advantage of this and he is matched. They took time to organize so as to do things in their best advantage and today we find that they are governing many.

Shall we blame them for this? Out from a moral standpoint, as long as we, the majority, permit it to be so. But when we think of the needs of the world, we find many "Love thy neighbor as thyself." We know that this injunction has been violated in a letter to a friend in Hingham at the close of the year. "We are drawing to the close of one of the bloodiest wars in the history of any country, and this is a thing more brutal than this war impeding—a greedy monopoly.

A short time ago a crowd visited President Wilson and the crowd was composed of railroad presidents, superintendents, managers, etc. They had much to say about the earnings of the roads. Bonds were coming due, money was needed for improvement. The Emperor had lessened the volume of their business, etc. They wanted President Wilson to ease up on their sympathy of the people. Railroads have done much towards building up the country, but they are entitled to a fair return for their money invested, but I do not believe that the government ought to raise rates as justly. Last year the railroads earned above expense $500,000,000.

One government has received orders for over $4,000,000,000 worth of food, clothing and war supplies, and still they buy it by laying off men. Our bankers, with the increased export of meat and shortage in livestock, are not satisfied with the market in 1914 and are making a short of last year in pounds and price, although meat is as high as any time.

Rockefeller Foundation, established 1913, with an endowment of $100,000,000 in securities, whose value is now $108,000,000. Annual revenue (estimated), $6,000,000. Sage foundation, established 1907, with an endowment of $8,000,000. Annual income (estimated) $800,000. Carnegie Foundation for teachers' pensions, Carnegie Institute and Carnegie Corporation to establish libraries, established from 1892 to 1911, and endowed with $62,000,000 worth of U. S. Steel Corporation stock. The Carnegie Corporation has $3,100,000. How about this "robber Peter to pay Paul" plan? No more of them howl for the starving ones of the war, and every 25 cents they get out of us to prolong the war will make hundreds of dollars for them. The sufferers of the war are the common people, and we feel for them, but was there ever a war that has stopped by anything else but the shortage of supplies. It is not the object of every general to get off supplies rather than kill. Why? Because the men in the trenches and their families will have to pay off the debt that the war has made, so they must not let them starve.

We wonder when John D. sent his ship to the war zone if there was any thought given to the widows and children out in tents in this winter weather, not knowing where their bread was coming from, or of the thousands of American women who labor in the fields, some of them for 50 cents a day, striving to keep body and soul together, caused by greed and speculation in their produce.

When we reflect on the past and the present, we can prepare for the future.

Statistics show us that one hundred families own the face and underlay of Mexico. Is it any wonder that 35,000,000 people are starving promiscuously; they had reached the stage where they did not know what a dollar meant now. Why? Because they lacked organization and cooperation.

Why do the greedy corporations board up their millions? What does it cost to make man stay under their feet? The greedy ones are now making money fast; they have put their figure on all war material. Some of our manufacturers are selling war material to other nations cheaper than they are selling to us.

There is a paper called "The Christian Herald." This paper should know who are the church builders, who are the ones who give a cup of cold water in its name to the little ones, yet it detests the government for not helping the farmer.

We have the F. E. & C. U. of A., an organization whose local meetings are held in a local convention to all, who members know each other and discuss matters of interest to all; in other words, brings the city to the farm. Denmark has proved that this pays, because they get 90 cents of the consumer's dollar. New Zealand gets 94 cents; still the consumer gets more for his money. Among the nations there are no countries where peace flourishes more than in these. Why should we who live in this land of the free only get 80 cents on the dollar? We still have the ballot, and our country occupies about a per cent of the earth's surface, has about 7 per cent of its population; it produces 70 per cent of the corn raised, 60 per cent of cotton and petroleum, 85 per cent of the copper, 40 per cent of iron ore and 20d. 35 per cent of the tobacco, 30 per cent of the lead, 20 per cent of the stock, and 20 per cent of the wheat, timber and gold produced in the world.

Our forefathers fought and died to make this country; it is ours. When we ask for rural credits, we are not asking for special favors; farmers cannot see returns in ninety days as other businesses do, the quickest is one year, and the special privileges that are granted. The government loans our money to big business, 2 per cent to 4 per cent, and permits them to charge us 8 per cent and 10 per cent on the ninety-day business basis; still Uncle Sam brings of his farms worth $41,000,000,000, and less systems more tenants each year. If this system is kept up it will mean rabbit manure.

Now let us get behind the move to let Uncle Sam know what we want; get together and talk the matter over so all will know for what we want.

If a big vein of coal is found here, and we believe there is no doubt but such a vein is waiting to be found at short distance below, you will see an excitement and boom; ahead of anything ever before seen in northern Nebraska. It will be an excitement equal to, but more permanent than that in the Pennsylvania oil diggings. When that time comes, happy will be the man who owns land. Even a few acres will make him rich. If such a vein should be found this spring, capitalists would rush in without delay, mines would be opened, and this town would become as large as Sioux City within a year.

Farmers, mechanics, railroaders, laborers, rely on Do. Thomas' Electric Oil. Fine for cuts, burns, bruises. Should be kept in every home. 25c and 50c.

CARROLL.

The position of the Index in pleading with people to shut off Carroll news service to the Herald in order to compel people to take the Index, is so silly and untenable, being without precedent, that this paper has reproduced the Index article on the first page. Carroll people who have renewed subscriptions to the Herald during the past week, mentioning with anxiety the correspondence from that point, as well as the balance of the Herald read in Carroll and vicinity, may rest assured that the service will not be interrupted. Carroll readers can reasonably suspect that the Index is better paper than it would be if it had no competition in the Herald-Herald Editor. MRS. C. C.
