THE WEEK WITH THE CHURCHES

Presbyterian Church.
(Rev. S. Xenophon Cross, Pastor).
Worship comes to us of the wonderfully successful meetings being conducted by Mr. Shallerross in Wayne. We expect Mr. Shallerross with us to begin a three-weeks series of meetings next Sunday, March 29. Professor Burma, tenor singer of Chicago, will be here to assist in the singing. Prof. Burma is highly spoken of and seems to have more than pleased where he has assisted Mr. Shallerross in union-meetings. We invite every Christian in Wayne to assist in these meetings. We invite every person in Wayne to attend and take such part as you may feel led to take. There are no "one" meetings; they are for everybody. All Christians, in all churches are asked and urged to cooperate in the "one" meetings. They may and should be a grand climax to our religious efforts in Wayne this winter. All can safely unite under Mr. Shallerross. Mr. Shallerross is a man of unique personality, a speaker of more than ordinary power, a gentleman of perfect courtesy. He is "in" with a message, a burning message, and his words are like arrows tipped with fire. To hear him once means that you will want to hear him again.

The Rev. Barzilai M. Long, D. D., of Lincoln will speak at the Presbyterian church this (Thursday) evening. There will be a song and praise service at 7:30 and Dr. Long will speak at 8 o'clock. All are invited to hear Dr. Long, and no one can afford to miss hearing him. This is in place of the meeting previously announced for Wednesday evening.

The German Evangelical Lutheran Church.
(Rev. R. Moehring, Pastor).
At 10:30 Sunday-morning will be held confirmation services. Those in the class to be confirmed are: Miss Emma Kugler, Miss Sofia Gonic, Miss Matilda Gonic, Fred Vellers and Hans Hlofhor. Special services will be held at 3 o'clock on the afternoon of Good Friday.

St. Paul's English Lutheran Church.
(Rev. F. E. Blessing, Pastor).
Sunday school at 10:00 a. m. Morning Worship at 11:00. Subject: "The Triumphant Christ," Matt. 21:1-11.

Luther League 6:45 p. m. Subject: "The Testimony of the Multitude," Matt. 21:11. The leader will be Miss Viola Willis.

Evening worship at 7:45. Subject: "Coming to Christ," Phil. 22:10, 11.

Next Sunday being Palm Sunday, our thoughts are turned to the closing days of the Christ upon earth. We follow Him in thought as he spends his last Sabbath in the quiet rural village of Bethany. At sunset and the Sabbath is over, a final feast is made in the house of Simon, once a leper. Lazarus, the man raised from the dead, one of the party: Martha for the time remaining her old ways, and Mary sitting her heart with his love, until swayed by an irresistible impulse she pours on him, the contents of an alabaster box of ointment. It is a striking scene, but it soon changes and we see the Christ making for Jerusalem. At first he is a pilgrim, but as he goes the multitude gathered about him, as he rides in the dignity of a King. Amid glad shouts of "Hosanna! Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord; Hosanna in the highest," he is ushered into the city in triumph.

There will be good music at both services. Axel Vennerberg will sing solo in the morning.

We wish to close the Lenten season with a week of services which begin next Sunday evening. We welcome all to these services. The services will be as follows: Monday evening at 7:45, "The Aloneness of Christ," Luke 9:36; Tuesday evening at 7:45, "The All Sufficient Christ," 2 Cor. 12:9; Wednesday evening at 7:45, "The Divine Voice," Gen. 3:9; Thursday evening at 7:45, "The Opening of the Son's Lute," Luke 3:33; Friday evening at 7:45, "The Magnetism of the Cross," John 12:32.

The Ladies' Aid society will meet this week on Thursday at the home of Mrs. E. C. Tweed. Miss Flohr will entertain.

Catechetical class Saturday afternoon at hall past.

A special invitation is extended to all; come, you are welcome.

Methodist Church.
(Rev. A. S. Buell, Pastor).
The subject for next Sunday morning's sermon will be "Friday of Passion Week: A Day of Suffering and Sacrifice." This is one of the Passion week series leading up to Easter Sunday. The evening message will be on "The Cup of Fire of the Holy Grail."

Dr. E. E. Hosman, district superintendent, was with us and preached for us last Sunday evening. The sermon last Sunday morning was a helpful study of the events in the life of our Saviour on Friday of Passion week. Anyone following the last week of the Saviour's life and ministry must be wonderfully impressed with the manly beauty and charm of that life, and as we see Him we love Him more than all besides. Did you get one of the little booklets "His Last Week"? If not you had better get one next Sunday morning.

The Sunday school is making some new adjustments in its classes this week. A young people's class has been organized with Professor O. R. Bowen as teacher and Mrs. A. S. Buell assistant teacher. Miss Jennie Boyce is president of the young ladies' department, and Elmer Kappert is president of the young men's department. Young people in the town and Normal who are not in Sunday school are invited to become members of this class. Professor Bowen's talk on "Decisions in the Sunday school last Sunday morning was a splendid presentation of that important theme.

At the official board meeting Monday evening arrangements were made for a home coming for our church and Sunday school on Sunday, May 2, with Dr. J. O. Randall of Philadelphia, secretary of the general conference, commission on evangelism, in charge of the services. Dr. Randall is a man of wide experience and a pleasing and powerful preacher of the gospel. We trust that all of the membership and friends of the Methodist church who have been kept away from the services so long on account of the bad roads and other good reasons, will be back to the regular services now with the coming of the spring-time.

The Epworth League will hold a community social in the church Friday evening.

The Ladies' Aid society is holding a breakfast and supper in the church this Thursday.

The federated district convention of the Norfolk district Methodist Episcopal church will be held in Plainville, Nebraska, April 28, 29, and 30. The convention includes district conferences, the district Sunday school institute, the district Epworth League convention and the Brotherhood convention. Dr. J. O. Randall of Philadelphia, an expert Sunday school worker from Chicago with other efficient workers will be present. This is to be one of the greatest district conventions ever planned for the Norfolk district. We expect that each department of the church will have a full delegation at the convention.

The special meetings, which had continued for two weeks, closed last Sunday evening. In many ways they were most successful. The audiences were uniformly good, and the spirit of each service was deep. The sermons by Rev. Walden were all of a very high class. They were strong, clear and forceful. He was loyal to truth as he saw truth, was sympathetic, yet fearless in its presentation. As some have said a stronger series of sermons perhaps have never been preached in Wayne. The addresses he gave down town were of a peculiarly strong type. They appealed to men's hearts and intellects. Many a Christian man is stronger in his faith by reason of these sermons.

Prof. Fred Deal's work was no less commendable. He filled his place most excellently. Only words of praise were spoken of him. He knows how to sing, and how to get others to sing. The choir enjoyed his leadership, and his friendliness. He worked hard and faithfully. We feel like congratulating the church and Wayne, on having two such men in our midst.

We want to express our thanks for the faithful service of our singers and organist. They all worked hard and were at their post. But we also want to thank the outside friends, who so faithfully and nobly assisted us in the singing. We were able to hold such meetings, only through the cooperation of all the other churches. We appreciated very much the part the other pastors had in the meetings. One night every one was present. Nearly every night one or more were present.

At the morning services we will have the ordinance of baptism. Let all who are yet to be baptized, be ready Sunday morning. Seven were baptized last week.

The missionary committee will

THE CHAMPION AT NELIGH.
Neligh, Neb., March 22.—Frank J. Marshall, of Brooklyn, N. Y., champion chess player of the United States, was in Neligh last week and won all of the many games played during one afternoon and evening at the Commercial club room. One of the interesting features was one game he played blindfold and called on his mind to his opponents. A large number of the chess experts of the city combined against the champion but he was successful in each instance. Mrs. Stanley Clements was the only lady player against Mr. Marshall.

It was marvellous quite a feat for the town the size of Neligh to entertain a man of Mr. Marshall's reputation. This and Wayne are the only towns in this section of the state which he visited.

First Baptist Church.
(Rev. E. P. Richardson, Pastor).
Our Revival Meetings.
The special meetings, which had continued for two weeks, closed last Sunday evening. In many ways they were most successful. The audiences were uniformly good, and the spirit of each service was deep. The sermons by Rev. Walden were all of a very high class. They were strong, clear and forceful. He was loyal to truth as he saw truth, was sympathetic, yet fearless in its presentation. As some have said a stronger series of sermons perhaps have never been preached in Wayne. The addresses he gave down town were of a peculiarly strong type. They appealed to men's hearts and intellects. Many a Christian man is stronger in his faith by reason of these sermons.

Prof. Fred Deal's work was no less commendable. He filled his place most excellently. Only words of praise were spoken of him. He knows how to sing, and how to get others to sing. The choir enjoyed his leadership, and his friendliness. He worked hard and faithfully. We feel like congratulating the church and Wayne, on having two such men in our midst.

We want to express our thanks for the faithful service of our singers and organist. They all worked hard and were at their post. But we also want to thank the outside friends, who so faithfully and nobly assisted us in the singing. We were able to hold such meetings, only through the cooperation of all the other churches. We appreciated very much the part the other pastors had in the meetings. One night every one was present. Nearly every night one or more were present.

At the morning services we will have the ordinance of baptism. Let all who are yet to be baptized, be ready Sunday morning. Seven were baptized last week.

LAW PROFESSION AND ITS OPPORTUNITIES
ATTORNEY DAVIS SPEAKS

He Explains to State Normal Students the Demand for More Honest Lawyers.

Attorney A. R. Davis addressed the students of the Normal Friday morning upon the subject, "Law and Its Opportunities." Speaking of the evolution of law, he said that in the thirteenth century there were only a few crimes, but severe punishments. In the eighteenth century the number of crimes had reached the total of two hundred. At first it was easy to convict one charged with crime, but this has been changed so that now everything is in favor of the accused. Mr. Davis thinks that, perhaps, the pendulum has swung too far in favor of the accused. "The state should busy itself as much in protecting society as in protecting criminals.

As to the qualifications for a lawyer—the profession named those possessed by Abraham Lincoln. It is important that one be a student because laws are multiplying rapidly. Moreover, in the practice of law it is necessary to know what different courts are, and what opinion does not count. The lawyer must be a student of the technicalities of law and court proceedings.

In this country there is one lawyer to 850 population. In Nebraska the ratio is one to 856, while in North Carolina it is one to 1,600. The profession of law seems to be overcrowded. Yet Mr. Davis declared that there is an increasing demand for the honest lawyer whose purpose is to keep people out of courts. He also believes that there is an increasing demand for women in the profession. There are now as many women practicing law in the United States as there are lawyers in Nebraska. The woman lawyer is a twentieth-century product.

Mr. Davis declared that there is no aristocracy among lawyers, except that determined by learning and character. One need not hesitate to enter the profession if he purposes to win by fair dealing and integrity. Honest lawyers are in demand. Admissions to the practice of law does not make a lawyer, but merely a student of a great profession. Mr. Davis is an interesting speaker, and his address was entertaining as well as helpful and instructive.

HERALD EXCHANGE GLEANINGS OF WEEK

Full Pockets.
Fairbury News.—The fashion-makers now state that "men's trousers are to have full pockets next season." Good!—That is especially cheering news. It will be the first case on record where men's pockets became full under a democratic administration.

New One on the Ford.
Colonge Blade.—Here's another on the Ford: A company were out pleasure riding in one of them and the driver detected trouble so got out and was busy under the hood. A lady in the party asked what was the matter and was informed that the engine was missing. "I hope,"

says she, "it's found by an honest man."

Supt. C. L. Culler Re-elected.
Harrington Herald.—At a recent meeting of the Harrington school board, Supt. C. L. Culler was re-elected and a majority of the other members of the present teaching force. Some of the teachers had other plans for next year and did not desire re-election. Mr. H. H. Hahn, the popular instructor and athlete, will not be back next year and his place will be filled by Miss Donaldson. Mrs. Culler will not teach next year and the Misses Conn and Atern will not return. Otherwise, the faculty next year will be the same as this.

At this meeting also the school board took another important step and decided to add a normal-training course next year to the high school curriculum. The department will start out with a class of thirty and the school will receive an additional appropriation of $380 from the state on account of the new course.

Billy Sunday's Earnings.
Bixby in Lincoln Journal.—Don't overwork your imagination. On the street the other day we heard a well-informed man say he believed Billy Sunday was several times a millionaire. William is well to do, but by no means rich as reported. In the last ten years his average earnings have been something over $36,000 a year. $700 a week or $100 per day. One-tenth of this sum he religiously devotes to church and charity, leaving but $90 a day for the support of his family. The village preacher who struggles along on $700 a year, or less than $2 a day may feel that this is hardly a fair shake, but he should console himself with the thought that the field of exhortation is open to all and the fellow who cops the persimmon is the one with the longest reach. No preacher in the United States works as hard as Mr. Sunday, and that also is an item not to be overlooked.

Wayne Men at Bloomfield.
The Bloomfield Journal makes the following mention of speeches given before an educational meeting at Bloomfield by two members of the Wayne State Normal faculty:

Prof. Lackey, instructor of agriculture in the Wayne Normal was the first speaker. He pointed out the unlimited opportunities awaiting young men in the field of scientific agriculture and the advantages a trained man in farming has over one following in the old rut. He was of the opinion that for a young man born and raised on a farm and having an agricultural college education, there is no field or endeavor so full of possibilities as the profession of farm demonstrator, now just being adopted by many states.—There are about 300 such men already employed in the United States, and as their value is just beginning to be appreciated it is very likely that each year the demand for these demonstrators will be greatly increased. Nebraska now has nine county demonstrators and several other counties have arranged for them, but have been unable to get the men qualified to fill the positions.

Dean H. H. Hahn of the Wayne Normal was the next speaker, his talk being along the line of cooperation between teachers and patrons and that to give the child the best in the school course he must be viewed from the standpoint of the teacher, the home and society. Mr. Hahn stated that less than half the students in the public schools get past the eighth grade and urged that efforts be made to increase the amount in the high schools. He made a warm defense of present methods of teaching as against the systems of the "good old days." Mr. Hahn is a decidedly interesting talker and his wide experience in school work entitled him to speak authoritatively on this subject.

Cedar County Man.
Harrington News: F. J. O'Gara, pathologist, chief in charge of the agricultural investigations of the American Smelting and Refining Co. of Salt Lake City, Utah, was in Harrington visiting his brother, County Attorney P. F. O'Gara. Friday of last week. He went Saturday to Lincoln where he delivered two lectures at the state university on botanical and geological subjects. From there he departed for his home in Salt Lake City.

Dr. O'Gara was born and raised in Cedar county and has seen a great deal of the world in his professional experience, not only in America, but also in Europe, visiting the principal cities of Switzerland, Germany, Holland, France, Belgium, the British Isles, Russia and Scandinavians and is personally acquainted with the leading botanists and geologists of those countries and while yet a man of middle age is recognized as one of the leaders in this useful profession. He has not been in Harrington for 15 years and it certainly was a pleasure to meet him again and listen to his experience on scientific research.

Curbing a Free Press.
Fremont Tribune.—The editor of the New York Times, Mr. Charles K. Miller, uttered some plain truths the other day, directed to the members of a congressional investigating committee, which was inquiring into stories printed in his paper concerning important federal legislation.

Mr. Miller believed the committee exceeded its legitimate scope by asking questions it had no right to propound. He said so. He said that when he had answered it emphatically in a general way it would not be necessary for the reporters to catch him in detail. He also said to the committee: "Continued inquiries along the line of this investigation it seems to me would be to reduce the press of the United States to the condition of the press of some of the capitals of Europe, where it is known as the 'reptile press' where it crawls on its belly every day to the foreign office and government officials to get its orders."

It isn't supposable that the people of the United States will ever consent to have its free press thus humiliated and crippled in its opportunity for public service. One of our most highly prized constitutional guarantees is that "the freedom of the press shall not be abridged." There is a great deal being said these days about curtailing what have long been recognized privileges of the press. That the press is to some extent responsible for this attitude is probably true. Abuses of its liberties set people against it, even to the extent of withdrawing its guaranty of freedom. Nevertheless, the fact remains that when this is done the foundation of democracy will be crumbling. The protection of the people against their spoliation rests largely in a free press. When the press is muzzled and restricted unreasonably and hampered in its privileges to freely discuss men and measures—exploitation of the people will be immeasurably easier than now.

The only way the press can preserve its power is to keep itself free from suspicion, to be honest with the public.

A Beginning.
So quietly that the step is hardly noticed, the Nebraska legislature of 1915 has made a modest beginning toward shortening the ballot and simplifying county government. The office of coroner will end with the close of present coroners' terms of office. No coroner will be elected next year. Their functions will be divided between the county attorney and the sheriff, where they logically belong.

The office of coroner is of great antiquity. There is no man in England who is back to King Alfred and there are coroners still. The truth is that their antiquity, like the butt buttons on the backs of our frock coats, is about the only present excuse for their existence. In the violent days of antiquity the coroner was an important official of a statute of King Edward required that coroners should be knights or "of the most select and most lawful men of the county." But the functions of the coroner have narrowed and his importance and dignity in England as in the United States, have greatly dwindled. The holding of inquests is now about their only function, and the office formerly held by knights or "the most select and most lawful men of the county" has become a sinecure for political physicians or a place for rival undertakers to fight over. In metropolitan cities, New York for example, the coroner's office has been a center of scandal. The movement to abolish the office and accomplish its work on more modern lines is wide spread.

The high fair to be only completed at the present legislature in the direction of simplified government. There is much more that could be done, especially as to counties, whose offices are with one or two exceptions in control of the legislature unrestricted by constitutional requirements. The weight of the coroner achievement is not to be underestimated, however. Only persons innocent of political ways will imagine it was an easy thing to abolish even this minor elective office. An office once created is well nigh immortal under our political system and methods. The legislature is to be praised for this beginning, small as it looks. At another session, the ice thus broken, more rapid short ballot progress may be made.
