TEACHERS' MEETING AT NORFOLK LAST WEEK GENERAL SESSION WORK

Scholarly Speeches by Leading Educators—New Officers—The Resolutions.

Both in attendance and in interest the meeting of the North Nebraska Teachers' association in Norfolk last week was a marked success. President E. S. Cowan of Albion and his assistants had planned well. The programs of the general sessions and of the sectional meetings were filled with good things. At the general session, Friday morning President U. S. Conn delivered a strong address on "Rural Schools," giving many practical suggestions for their improvement. His address brought forth many favorable comments, and several of his ideas were used by the committee on resolutions in its report.

Following President Conn, Dr. Henry Suzzallo of New York, spoke on "The New Social Importance of Training for Recreation." His main contention was that there must be a plan for recreation in every life if that life is to reach its highest usefulness. Recreation, it taken at all, is taken in the wrong way. As modern life becomes more and more strenuous, there is more and more a need for planned and definite "recreation" or renewal of the moral, intellectual and physical man.

In the afternoon, at the close of the sectional meetings, Dr. A. D. Thomas, state superintendent, gave what he chose to call two addresses. The first consisted of an explanation of the new school legislation and of the new plans of the department of education. The second part was an eloquent plea for the elevation of ethical standards in teaching.

The evening program consisted of a concert by the Musical Art quartet.

Superintendent Morton of Ashland opened the program Saturday morning with an address on "The Socialized Recitation." He was followed by Mrs. Mitchell who spoke on the subject "I wonder if I am Educated?" Both addresses were well received by a large audience.

The music for the association was furnished by the Norfolk school, the Laurel high school quartet and the Otto-Voco Concert company. Superintendent E. H. Price, Neligh, was elected president for next year. Mrs. M. Miller, West Point, vice president; E. D. Lundak, Wakefield, secretary; N. A. Hansel, Madison, treasurer. The enrollment reached 389.

WAYNE REALLY WINS IN NORFOLK CONTEST

The question of classifying the production given by Ward Randol of the Wayne high school, at the declaratory contest at the meeting of the Northeast Nebraska Teachers' association in Norfolk last Thursday night caused him to lose first place in the humorous section. The three judges were unanimous in saying he was entitled to first place, but decided that his selection did not belong in the humorous class, and accordingly he was ruled out of consideration. The committee of the association accepted his entry into the humorous section, and it is not believed to have been the duty of the judges to determine whether it belonged there or not. As understood, it did not devolve on the judges to say whether a selection was meritorious, dramatic or tragic. They were supposed to accept the classification and figure out merit according to the usual rules of judging, which manifestly would have given Randol the honor. The Norfolk Daily News' report of the contest makes this reference to the young man's indignation: "Because the Wayne contest, Ward Randol, had been classified in the humorous instead of the dramatic class, he lost a big first prize. Randol had 'Cold Molasses' as his subject and the judges unanimously decided him to be the first prize winner. The discovery of the wrong classification, however, resulted in his disqualification. Randol made a very presentation of his subject and President Kuns of the association expressed regret at the misapprehension of Mr. Kuns was chairman of the contest."

Following are the winners of the three sections of the contest as reported by the judges:

- Oratorical Class.
First—Chair, Gentleman, Atkinson.
- Second—Vibha, Richie, Coleridge.
- Dramatic Class.
First—Hildreth, Goff, Pierce.
- Second—Bruce, Orris, Stanton.
- Third—Louise, Williamson, Albion.
- Humorous Class.
First—Martha Hoogner, Wakefield.

Wayne State Normal was chairman, reported the following in part: "We wish to express our faith in the rural school, and our appreciation of the excellent work it is doing under somewhat discouraging conditions. In the great revival of educational interest and the material improvement of school programs and school practices, evident upon every hand, the rural school has fully participated. To better rural school conditions, and secure greater efficiency in its work, we believe the following recommendations are fundamental: 1. A more thorough organization and cooperation of the various community interests through the leadership of the county superintendent and the rural school teacher. 2. A more adequate supervision by giving the county superintendent one or more supervising principals to assist him in directing the educational affairs of the rural schools. 3. Higher minimum qualifications for teachers, the minimum not being less than a tenth-grade education. 4. Normal training specifically and consciously organized for rural teaching. 5. The abolishing of the third grade county certificate now issued at the discretion of county superintendents. 6. Enforce School Consolidation. To this end we also express our approval of State Supt. Thomas' efforts further to improve and standardize the rural schools of our state. Especially do we approve of Henry Kol No. 74 which is intended to facilitate the consolidation of

They visited relatives at Salem for six weeks and then journeyed to Sacramento where they spent some time. From there they went to San Francisco, and then down the coast to Los Angeles. They spent the winter with relatives in the Imperial valley. They found the coast cities dull and the winter buildings empty and hundreds of unemployed. THE WEEK WITH THE CHURCHES

Methodist Church.
(Rev. A. S. Buell, Pastor.)
The theme for next Sunday morning's sermon will be "An Easter Message: The Resurrection." This concludes the Passion week series. The Sunday evening service will be a sacred-Easter-service by the choir.

The regular mid-week service including the prayer meeting and all social functions will be omitted this week on account of the special evangelistic meetings in the Presbyterian church.

The men's chorus pleased the Sunday school audience last Sunday morning. This is a large chorus of men for regular work in the different services of the church. Hear them next Sunday.

The Young People's class which was started in the Sunday school last Sabbath promises a great success. If you are not in Sunday school be sure to register in this class next Sunday.

The Epworth League community social was another social victory for the young people of the church and community. This was held in the church basement last Friday evening. Some of the complimentary remarks at the close of the program were: "The best time I ever had." "It was great." Be on the lookout for the next number some time after the Presbyterian evangelistic services close.

The Ladies' Aid bazaar and supper were well attended on last Thursday evening. It does not seem much trouble to get the people to come to a fifty-cent supper when it can be had for twenty-five cents. The ladies were pleased and the social features of these gatherings will be worth while.

The Woman's Home Missionary society will meet with Mrs. E. S. Blair, next Thursday afternoon. The ladies are all invited to attend.

We trust that our people will all be able to attend and will assist in every possible way in the special evangelistic meetings at the Presbyterian church this week.

Special for Easter.
The following Easter program will be carried out at the M. E. church next Sunday evening: Hymn, "The Lord is Risen Again."

First Baptist Church.
(Rev. B. P. Richardson, Pastor.)
We had two unusually good services last Sunday. The largest Sunday morning audience for many months. The amount of our missionary budget was quickly raised at the morning service. So another year we have fully paid our appropriation as a church, while the ladies paid a few dollars over what was asked of them. We thank the people for their generous response to these appeals. We baptised four at the evening hour. Others still remain to be baptized.

Sunday morning will be our communion service. At this time the home church fellowship will be given to all our members. We hope all can be present. The pastor will give a brief address on the subject: "The blessedness of belief in Christ."

Miss Pearl Hughes will lead the young people's evening Sunday school. There will be a confirmation service. Let us make it one of great meaning.

The pastor will preach at 7:30 in the evening. The sermon will be preceded by a good song service.

Monday morning the pastor will leave for Lincoln to help Mr. Waldo in special meetings at the East Lincoln Baptist church. Prof. Del will also assist in these meetings. Bro. Waldo writes that they are bending all efforts in real preparation for a great meeting.

The Sunday services will be maintained during the pastor's absence, but the Wednesday evening meetings will be discontinued, so our people can attend the special meetings at the Presbyterian church.

Tomorrow (Friday) afternoon, the meeting for Bible study and prayer will be held at the home of Mrs. Donagan. Mrs. Nichols will be the leader. We feel that this prayer circle is one of the gracious results of our special meetings. Prayer can do great things for the Kingdom. Let us pray.

The families of Mrs. Cross and Mr. and Mrs. Kopp have the deep sympathy of the church people during these days of illness. We trust the sick will be amiable us.

St. Paul's English Lutheran Church.
(Rev. F. E. Blossing, Pastor.)
Sunday school at 9:45 a. m. The superintendent and teachers are very anxious to have every member present next Sunday morning. Make a special effort to be present.

Morning service at 10:30. Easter Sunday will be observed in a very appropriate way. At the ladies are contemplating some valuable changes in their program.

A cordial invitation is extended to all who wish to worship with us.

The German Evangelical Lutheran Church.
(Rev. R. Moering, Pastor.)
Continuation services were held last Sunday and five young people were confirmed. A good service was had and a large crowd was present. On Good Friday special services will be held at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. On Easter Sunday the service will begin at 10:30. The Holy Communion will be observed at that service.

Presbyterian Church.
Rev. S. Xenophon Cross, Pastor.
The church members began with a much larger attendance than was anticipated, and the attendance and interest have steadily grown from the very first. The evangelists, Shallcross and Buma, appearing in person, are able to attract to the meetings. Come to the meetings, whatever church you belong to, and whether or not you belong to any church.

come at once and help form the nucleus under the leadership of Mr. S. S. Buma. Why not consecrate to service whatever talent you have in music, at least for a three weeks of these meetings. We appreciate the presence, to start out with, of several of the singers of the various church choirs in the city. Come and join the chorus.

All Christians, of all denominations, are cordially invited to participate and actively cooperate in these meetings. Mr. Shallcross does preach Christ, but not dogma or denomination. Even from the mere standpoint of ordinary interest, you will miss something that you cannot afford to miss, if you miss a single evening of this series of meetings. Come tonight.

The service next Sunday morning will consist of an Easter program which will be the highlight of children and the reception of new members into the church. The service will begin at 10:30, sharp. The children of the Sunday school will give the second part of the program which will be a missionary program. The Easter offering will be for foreign missions.

At the evening service, Mr. Shallcross will preach on the theme: "The Risen Christ." Mr. Buma will have charge of the music at the evening service. Let us attend divine service on the joyous Easter day. Come with a large measure of Easter joy, in your heart and be a blessing to others. If the Easter message has come to you, bear the message to some other one.

The "union" spirit that is characterizing these meetings is very encouraging. We serve one Master, why should we not be one in spirit and in action? When these meetings have closed, may all Christians be able to sing with a spirit never felt before, "Bless be the HF that binds our hearts in Christian Love!"

SUNDAY SCHOOL UNION.
The American Sunday School Union has just closed another year of successful work in the planting and care for community Sunday schools in needy rural and mining communities.

This is the oldest Sunday School missionary society in the United States, and employs more missionaries than any similar organization in the world.

Rev. Joseph Wells is superintendent for the western district, with headquarters at Des Moines. His record of results accomplished in a western district is as follows:

Sunday schools started.....	264
Teachers appointed.....	876
Children enrolled.....	7,837

NEW FACTORS IN WARFARE.
Chicago Evening Post.—Three of the most important factors in warfare as it is today conducted are of American origin—the submarine, the aeroplane and the telephone. The two former are the spectacular nature of Europe's struggle; the latter is the essential, untiring nervous system of the great military organizations in the field. If the three were to be eliminated, the whole character of the war would be changed. Without the submarine Germany's fleet might have been unable to keep in hiding; without the aeroplane the possibility of surprise attacks and sudden decisive encounter

It is here, so the almanac says, But out on the street I am chilly— Whenever it barely fair forth— The breath of the breeze knocks me silly— Whenever it blows from the north— This winter has sure been a hummer, With many a frigid surprise— Now mine for the joys of the summer— I want to be swatting the flies.

To battle with weeds is my glory, From morning till night in the field— And this is the end of the story That I had intended to write.

Dr. T. T. Jones was in Winside on business Tuesday.

WORDS
(Sixty in Lincoln Journal.)
The robins and bluebirds 'have spoken,'
And all of us now must admit
The backbone of winter is broken—
But why don't the cold weather quit?

For driving the cattle to graze,
The season for sprouting and growing

Peg of My Heart

By J. HARTLEY MANNERS

A Comedy of Youth Founded by W. MANNING on His Great Play of the Same Title - Illustrations From the Synopsis of the Play

Copyright, 1912, by Dodd, Mead & Company

SYNOPSIS.

Frank O'Connell, young Irish patriot, is shot and wounded by British soldiers while making a home for the blind. He is aided by Angela Kingsnorth, an English society girl who defends him.

Angela takes O'Connell to her brother's home and helps to nurse him. He recovers, and she and he get together as friends.

O'Connell when well is sent to jail for disturbing the peace. He finally wins Angela, that he has finally won her.

O'Connell and Angela wed. She is opposed by the Irish cause, her brother, a member of parliament, is very angry.

The happy couple come to America to live. A daughter is born to them. Angela's brother refuses to help the couple in any way.

O'Connell marries his daughter Margaret and calls her "Peg." O'Connell receives a most important letter from England, which persuades him to return.

O'Connell allows Peg to visit England at her uncle's request. The elder Kingsnorth's heart had finally softened toward his dead sister's little girl.

Peg goes to the home of the Chicago family in England and in the direction of Mr. Hawkes, Kingsnorth's attorney, as Kingsnorth suddenly dies.

She first meets Earl Chesterton and Brent, a married man in love with Ethel. She intruaps them by accident in a secret meeting.

CHAPTER XIII.

"Is all your money gone?" Brent asked Ethel.

"I think so."

"Dear mamma knows as little about business as she does about me. Until I met Ethel, she was always had a good thing in her hand and she had a daughter. If I bolt with her her husband (husband will be destroyed)."

"How?" she asked eagerly.

"Well, and she looked at me again with that cold, hard scrutiny. Lost money do you mean?"

"I love you!" He kissed her hand repeatedly. "I love you!" He took her in his arms and pressed her to him. She struggled with him, as if under the influence of some drug. As she did this, she saw her father's face in the distance.

"Please don't! It's so hot this morning!"

As she turned away from him she saw her father's face in the distance. He had turned to them, was the strongest, looked little figure of a man. How long had she been in the room?

Ethel turned to Brent. He was quite different from the man who was striking her slight mistake.

Ethel was furious. It was incredible that Brent could have been so indiscreet.

How on earth did that creature get there without their hearing or seeing her?

Ethel went straight to the demure little figure sitting on the chair.

Peg's journey to England was one of the unharpest memories of her life. He undertook the voyage deliberately to please her father, because he told her that she would be the only one to feel his feeling of pleasing him was one of a sudden resentment at being made to separate from him.

She refused all advances of friendship aboard ship. No one dared speak to her. She wanted to be alone in her room. She had a fever of one of the men, who would keep a sharp lookout for her.

This seemed O'Farrell by his side. He took quite a liking to Peg and the dog and did many little, gracious acts to minister to the comfort of both of them.

Besides, I have no English money. Peg had pleaded that O'Farrell should take it. He had been so free to her all the way over.

Hawkes' increased authority, as O'Farrell's shilling, thanked him for the money.

Hawkes returned the dollar to Peg but she gently to the kindly said, "I don't want to take it."

She told the captain to drive to a certain railway station and in a few moments they were bowing along and had entered a new country and a new town. They reached the railway station, and they had not been there half an hour they were on a train bound for the north of England.

During the journey Hawkes conferred no information. He bought papers and newspapers and offered her lunch. This Peg refused. She said the ship had not agreed with her. She did not think she would want food for a long time to come.

After a while they first with the rest, and excitement of the ship's arrival, Peg fell asleep.

In a few hours they reached their destination. She had her baggage and she was with her baggage and she was with her baggage and she was with her baggage.

After the cab had gone through a few streets it stopped before a big building. Hawkes got out, and the man who was with him, and with some final admonitions to Peg, disappeared through the swinging doors of the town hall.

The cab now drove to a very handsome house. The name of the house was "The White House." The name of the house was "The White House." The name of the house was "The White House."

They were the same. Once more she was in the city. She had been in the city. She had been in the city. She had been in the city.

Ethel turned abruptly to Brent and found that she was looking at the odd little stranger somewhat admiringly. She saw a beautiful complexion and turned back to Peg quickly.

"You say you have never been here a minute?"

"That's all," replied Peg. "I was a minute."

"Were you talking when you came in?"

Ethel could scarcely conceal her rage. "Did you hear what I said?"

"Some of it—not much," said Peg. "What did you hear?"

"These don't let's do this morning!" said Peg, with no attempt at irony, just as if she were stating a fact.

Ethel flushed angrily. Brent smiled. "You refuse to say why you're here or who you are?"

"Ethel again turned to the perplexed Brent. "Ethel?"

"Extraordinary!" and Brent shook his head. "The position was unbearable. Ethel decided instantly how to relieve it."

her manner alarmed him. He had not too far.

"Suppose my mother had walked in?"

"I'm just going," said Brent. "I'm just going."

"I'm just going," said Brent. "I'm just going."

"I'm just going," said Brent. "I'm just going."

"I'm just going," said Brent. "I'm just going."

"I'm just going," said Brent. "I'm just going."

"I'm just going," said Brent. "I'm just going."

"I'm just going," said Brent. "I'm just going."

"I'm just going," said Brent. "I'm just going."

Maxwell

"The Wonder Car"

You can own an exact duplicate of "Wild Bill" Turner's or Billy Carlson's record-breaking Maxwells

Think of owning one of these same Maxwells—think of driving it wherever you want to—over any kind of roads—up any kind of hills, wherever four wheels can go, the same car for $695.

Remember, every 1915 Maxwell is an exact duplicate of the regular stock Maxwell Touring Cars in which "Wild Bill" Turner broke the world's record up Mt. Hamilton, 21 1/2 miles in 48 1/2 minutes, beating the world's record by 1 1/2 minutes, and "Billy" Carlson broke the world's record up Mt. Wilson, California, making nine miles (up an elevation of 6,000 feet) in 29 minutes and 1 second, beating the previous world's record by 13 minutes.

That's the kind of hill-climber you get when you get a Maxwell. Now about speed and endurance—here are some recent Maxwell Racing Car records: Barney Oldfield in a Maxwell Racing Car broke the world's non-stop record at Corona, California, for 300 miles, averaging 86.3 miles per hour. Think of it—not a stop made! Then, right on top of this marvelous motor record, along came "Billy"

Carlson in his Maxwell Racer and made still another 300 miles non-stop record in the San Diego race. Again a Maxwell Racer ran 300 miles without a stop! These Maxwell Racing Cars are built by the same Designers, the same Chief Engineer, that build the regular Maxwell Cars; and the same Maxwell Laboratory Tested Steel is used in them that is used in the regular stock Maxwell Touring Cars.

But, aside from hill-climbing and speed, power and endurance records, here are some of the facts about Maxwell comfort, Maxwell special features, Maxwell beauty and Maxwell service.

Read This List of Expensive Features. The 1915 Maxwell Has These Features And Many Others.

Attractive Streamline Body Pure streamline body; graceful crown fenders, with all rivets concealed. All the grain, style and snap that you will see in any of the highest priced cars. A High-Tension Magneto Nearly all the high priced cars have high tension magnetos. A high tension magneto gives positive ignition. The Simplex magneto, with which the Maxwell is equipped, is recognized as one of the best magnetos made. Lock Side Drive—Central Control Let the side of your seat shifting lever in center of driving seat—without control—has been accepted by leading makers of expensive automobiles as the best of all most preferable for the driver, that is, the Maxwell has it. The Maxwell is the only car which has this feature as standard. Three-Speed Sliding Gear Transmission All high priced cars have sliding gear transmission. It is a waste of space, but it is the best. If the motor has the power, sliding gears will	pull the car out of any mud or sand. The Maxwell has three-speed selective sliding gear transmission because Maxwell engineers do not consider any other type to be worthy of the Maxwell car. Double-Shock Radiator with Shock Absorbing Device The Maxwell radiator is of handsome design, gracefully curved, and is built up like a trough. It is the expensive double shock type and has ample cooling capacity. The radiator is mounted on the frame by means of a shock absorbing device on each side, which returns the angle of all twists and distortions of the frame, caused by roughness of the road. The shock absorbing device also minimizes the possibility of radiator leaks. The Roomy Eight 5-Passenger Body Adjustable Front Seat The 1915 Maxwell has a roomy 5-passenger body. The front seat is adjustable, you can move it far into or far back. This makes the car really comfortable for the driver. No cramped seats for tall people or uncomfortable reaching for short people. Most drivers' seats are made to fit anyone—of it no one.	Low "Up-keep" Carburetor The carburetor used on the Maxwell was especially designed for it after long and severe tests under every conceivable condition. Economy tests conducted by hundreds of dealers and owners in different sections of the country have proved its economy, its quick response to throttle—its extremely low consumption of gasoline. It has been termed the "low-upkeep" carburetor. Irreversible Steering Gear The greatest margin of safety has been provided in the steering gear of the 1915 Maxwell. The steering gear is of the irreversible type of the expensive world-wide-gear type and its superiority over every other type lies in its many adjustments. At no time is more than a fourth of the bearing surface of the gear teeth in contact with the worm in use. When needed, a new bearing surface may be had, adjusting the gear a quarter of a turn, in about the Maxwell steering gear has four times the advantage of any other kind. Heart-Car Comfort What surprises most people is the smooth, buoy-	ant riding qualities of the Maxwell. The spring suspension of the 1915 Maxwell is the same sound combination of long semi-elliptical front springs and the three-quarter elliptical rear springs that is found in the most luxury, high priced cars. The Maxwell offers you every essential of the highest priced machines at a fifth of their cost. One Size of Tire—Anti-Skids on Rear The Maxwell car is one of the easiest cars in the world on tires. Maxwell owners carry but one spare tire and but one size of spare tires. Economy—real 20 inch x 2 1/2 inch tires are used on all wheels. A famous make of anti-skid tires are supplied on rear wheels. A Dependable Electric Starter For $15 extra, you can have your Maxwell delivered equipped with the famous Simplex-Leaf electric starter. This starter is efficient, trouble-free and easily operated. And the Maxwell is completely equipped from the clear vision, ventilating windshield at the front to the spare tire carrier at the rear. When you buy a Maxwell you have nothing extra to buy.
--	--	---	---

The Maxwell Company's Guarantee of Service to Maxwell Owners

No other automobile is backed by a more reliable service than that guaranteed every Maxwell owner. More than 2,000 Maxwell dealers in every part of this country—are always ready to give expert advice, to make adjustments, and to supply new parts at reasonable prices. This splendid Maxwell dealer service organization is perfected and completed by the chain of Maxwell owned and Maxwell operated Service Branches. Sixteen great Maxwell Service Stations are so located throughout the country that a Maxwell dealer can supply any part for an owner within a few hours if not in his stock. Maxwell Service is one of the great advantages enjoyed by Maxwell owners.

Order a Maxwell from us now, and when you want it delivered, we will give you your car—not an excuse on delivery day
