

WOLLSCHLAGER LAND SELLS AT AUCTION

TWO FARMS DISPOSED OF

One of 320 Acres at $100.50 an Acre—The Other Sells at $125 an Acre—Crowd Attends

The two farms, one of 320 acres and the other of 240 acres, belonging to the estate of Caroline Wollschlager, were sold at auction at the court house yesterday afternoon. A large crowd attended, and Col. E. and D. H. Cunningham were in charge of the sale.

The 320-acre tract was offered for $80, but quickly advanced to $99.50, and was left at that point while Col. E. Cunningham who had the talking introduced the other farm of 240 acres. The price on this tract started at $80, but quickly advanced to $100.50, and was sold to Carl Bronzinski at that price.

The farms are located six miles northwest of Winslow, and five miles east of Hoskins, and are considered very desirable properties.

NEWS OF THE WAYNE SCHOOLS FOR WEEK

Mrs. A. H. Ellis and Mrs. E. S. Blair were visitors in the eighth grade this week.

WEEK'S INSTITUTE FOR WAYNE TEACHERS

THE SUBJECTS HANDLED

Lectures by Department Heads of State Normal—Interesting Discussions

The annual city teachers' institute was held at the high school building this week, beginning Monday afternoon and continuing until Thursday. Lectures were given by members of the State Normal faculty, covering subjects with which they are especially familiar. Great interest was shown by the discussions which followed the lectures.

Monday-afternoon Prof. G. H. Bright spoke on "Essentials in Arithmetic." He said pupils are often taught to begin formal arithmetic too early in age, when they are incapable of deep reasoning. He emphasized the need for thorough drill in the fundamentals and in fractions and advised eliminating parts of the formal arithmetic which will be of no practical use in later life. He advised teachers to keep students from following model problems.

Following Prof. Bright, Prof. E. E. Lackey of the department of agriculture and geography, spoke on "Essentials in Geography." He said that geography was more than learning facts and names, that the student should be made to

A LINCOLN LEGEND

By Charlotte Brewster Jordan

"The farmers in central Illinois claim that Abraham did not sing for a year after he died." "From Lincoln and Hay's 'The Abolition Lincoln'— Just fifty years ago to day— The brown thrush checked its liquid song! How could it trill its roundelay when one who loved All helpless things lay mute and cold! When hands Which hid had raised the fallen deadings up And placed them gently back in their home nest Were not about to sing for him again? For a year, the legends say, did throats sing song. Again, then o'er the hushed and mourning world They poured their carols forth once more as though Rejoicing that the spirit dawned for which Their comrades hourly prayed, had broken o'er The stricken earth's bosom, and that more Endure that tender, all-compassionate heart Whose deathless fair is now become avowed wide— As universal as the air, as high— And deeply rooted as the rugged hills.

ANOTHER ADDRESS GIVEN ON VOCATIONS

SOCIETY MORE COMPLEX

Thus the Need of More Vocational Guidance for Young Men and Women of Today—

Last Friday morning Dr. J. T. Hickman addressed the students on the subject of "Vocational Guidance." The address should have been heard by every student in school. But, alas, those who think "chapel talk" worth while" missed the opportunity. The subject was interesting and helpful throughout. Among other things, he said that there is an increasing need for vocational guidance because society is becoming more complex. Furthermore, the child during adolescence experiences a desire to achieve and to serve which often causes him not only to leave school but also to make a poor selection of occupation. The school, therefore, should give the youth just at the time when he experiences this world-ambition to serve also a world-wide of chances. As a result he would be slower to select and more willing to prepare for greater service thus utilizing his energy not only for his own but also for the common good.

Dr. House advocated a course of study in vocational guidance for secondary schools and higher institutions of learning. The youth should be presented with accurate surveys of occupations and be led to count the cost of getting ready for a job. He should be able to find society's need for his energies and ability. He should be motivated to make the best possible preparation for doing the thing for which he feels he is really fitted. In other words, the youth's ambition should be socialized at this time so that afterwards it can never be narrowly selfish. In short, the object of such a course should be the utilization of the world's energies for the welfare of society. In this connection, the youth should be taught that business is life, and that it should assume its place in common good. On the other hand, society should see to it that its business is conducted in such a way as not to destroy men, women and children. Brief outlines of the work in law and farming were given as illustrations of what might be done in a course in vocational guidance.

At the regular meeting of the library board Tuesday evening it was voted to place the reference books of the library in circulation.

Publication of the personal tax list as provided for by the new law is made compulsory, and so the same will appear in the papers of Wayne county in due time. It will be an interesting publication.

Frank Kelly, formerly of Hartington, but who has of late years been living on a homestead in Wyoming, was a Wayne visitor yesterday. He was at one time proprietor of the Hartington News, disposing of the plant to his son, Geo. Kelly, who recently sold the paper.

Grant S. Mears returned last evening from Lincoln, having concluded his services as representative of this county in the Nebraska house. Phil H. Kohl, who was leader in the senate, is expected home this evening. Both gentlemen performed acceptably in support of the Wayne State Normal, in which all are interested.

Last Monday Clarence Linton received notice of his election to the superintendency of the schools at Dakota City. Mr. Linton was invited to meet the members of the board a few days ago for personal interview and his election followed. He will succeed Supt. Conrad Jacobson, who will have charge of the schools at Bancroft next year.

Mrs. Henry Ley reports that while she was in attendance at the federated club meeting in Randolph last week, she asked Miss Charlotte Templeton, state librarian, who was also there, when she was coming to Wayne to inspect the library, and that her reply was that she did not need to come as it was one of the best equipped and best managed libraries in the state.

ANNUAL CONCERT OF MUSIC DEPARTMENT

The stormy weather of Thursday evening kept many away from the annual concert of the music department, but those who braved the inclement conditions were more than repaid for the effort. It has always been the custom of the department in these annual performances to render only high grade music and after long and careful practice. As a result those who attended know that they are to hear the best music. Last year the rendition of the "Rose Maiden" brought deserved encomiums. Last Thursday added the music of the opera "Martha" to the list of notable triumphs.

The part of Lady Harriet Durham, the heroine of the tale, was sung by Miss Grace Adams, with fine appreciation, and she was supported in the duet parts by the perfect taste and beautiful voice of Miss Grace Adams. The music department has again more than made good. The spirited work already pitched to a high key.

Mrs. E. W. Johnson was in Wayne between trains Friday, on her way to Randolph from Oakland, Mo. Johnson, formerly telegraph operator in Wayne, is now agent at Randolph.

Mrs. C. C. Gow and Misses Norfolk and Beatrice Gow of Norfolk, spent Friday and Saturday in Wayne with Mrs. Gow's sister, Miss Belle Temple and with Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Chery and other relatives.

Misses Laura and Alma Hildekamp and Miss Clara Echtenkamp, who attended the wedding of Miss Alvina Meyer and Albert Echtenkamp last week, returned Monday to their home at Arlington.

G. W. Kingston of Carroll, was in Wayne Monday on his way to South Omaha to market a load of cattle. He said he was going to find out his reward for wading through snow and looking after the animals during the winter.

The following all from Arlington, were here Thursday to attend the wedding of Miss Alvina Meyer and Albert Echtenkamp, which took place Thursday. Mrs. Louisa Echtenkamp, Louis Hildekamp, Gottlieb Echtenkamp, Louis Echtenkamp, Leonard Echtenkamp, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Hildekamp, Ed Stork, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Smith, George Smith, Will Smith, Misses Laura and Alma Hildekamp and Miss Clara Echtenkamp.

LEE'S SURRENDER IS OBSERVED IN WAYNE

On Friday was observed the surrender of General Robert E. Lee to General U. S. Grant, and the local G. A. R. and W. R. C. remembered the occasion with an appropriate program in the afternoon in the Odd Fellows' hall. A number of friends attended, and shared with them in the celebration of the event.

A. R. Davis presided, and announced the program. The Sherbahn-Ballard-Plumleigh orchestra furnished stirring instrumental music, and S. S. Buma and Rev. W. J. Shallicross sang a number of war songs which were thoroughly appreciated.

Rev. F. E. Blessing, Rev. S. X. Cross and Rev. W. J. Shallicross made speeches in the order named. Each spoke in terms of praise of the patriotic struggle which ended fifty years before, and of the worthy cause which inspired the suffering and sacrifice.

At the close of the program, the generous ladies of the W. R. C. served refreshments of ice cream and cake and salad. Grape juice, furnished by Mrs. John Grimsley, was also enjoyed.

While the remnant of the Civil war heroes is rapidly growing smaller, and the remaining veterans show marks of age and infirmity, the survivors have been recollection of the experiences which they suffered, and still have the same spirit of patriotism which fired their hearts over a half century ago.

MEYER-PEEL

The marriage of Will F. Meyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. K. Henry Meyer, to Miss Mary Peel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Peel, took place in the German Lutheran church in Wayne Thursday, April 15. The bride was given away by Rev. M. Moehring, performing the ceremony. Miss Meyer, Carl Peel, Emma Meyer and Gusta Sturdeholfe were the attendants.

Following the ceremony a reception was given in honor of the newly-wedded couple at the home of the bride's parents, and a large crowd of relatives and friends attended and wished the happy occasion. A sumptuous supper was served, followed by dancing and a social time.

Mr. Meyer and bride will live on a farm nine miles southeast of Wayne, and have the hearty good wishes of a host of friends.

SMASHED MOTORCYCLE.

Omaha, April 12.—When Motorcycle officer Lynch Wheeler suddenly appeared in front of E. J. Ambruster of Stanton, Neb., while the latter was trying out a new automobile near Twenty-fourth and Union streets, the Stanton man became so confused he ran into Wheeler and smashed the officer's motorcycle. Wheeler himself was badly shaken up, but not hurt seriously. Ambruster's auto escaped injury, and he assumed all blame for the accident, offering to pay for the damages to the motorcycle, so he was not arrested.

"Safety First"

The ONE MINUTE Electric and Power Washers are built exactly alike except that one is equipped with the electric motor, for city use, and the other with pulley, for engine power. Both are absolutely safe, so far as any piece of machinery can be made safe. Gears are all housed in, and safety cutouts for the washer and also for the wringer are applied for instant use in case of emergency. No other electric or power washer is better provided with safety appliances, and of course you know the record of ONE MINUTE Washers for service and durability. Free demonstration any time.

You can't flood the cylinder of this FAIRBANKS-MORSE OIL BURNING ENGINE. You can't carbonize the cylinder. It can't miss fire. It can't cost anything for batteries, because it doesn't use any. Look at these special features and several more. Made in popular sizes, mounted on hand or team trucks. Tractors also.

has all the good things found on other makes and so many special patented features that no other oil stoves have it. It is no wonder they sell all around competitive makes. You'll say so, too, if you just look at it.

The local tennis association met Monday evening and reorganized by electing the following officers: Frank Morgan, president; Geo. Rose, secretary and treasurer. The matter of dues was discussed, but not definitely settled. Adams County Democrat: An indignant subscriber said: "When you write of Germans in your paper you use a CAPITAL G, and when you write of the Allies you use a small a. Why not be neutral?" The city marshal calls public attention to the importance of cleaning premises and ridding them of unsightly and unsanitary filth. If a clean-up policy is pursued early and vigorously, the taxpayers' bills will be less pressing and conditions generally will be made more healthful. With assurance of prohibition in Iowa, Sioux City liquor dealers had South Sioux City, across the river in Nebraska, in mind as an outlet for their surplus stock. But South

Sioux City, having recently voted dry, they are now looking elsewhere. There is talk of starting a new town just over the line in South Dakota. This week J. H. Vibber sold the Wayne Cleanatic Works to Stanley Woodworth who had been employed by Mr. Vibber to handle the work of the institution. Mr. Woodworth has had long experience in the business and with such machinery will be able to render service of the highest class. Rev. F. E. Blessing went to Emerson Tuesday afternoon to attend the fifty-third semi-annual convention of the North Platte conference of the Nebraska Synod. The sessions will last three days and Rev. Mr. Blessing has a place on the program: Thursday afternoon he will discuss the question "How May Our Young People become Efficient Factors in Church Life." Normal Advocate: The little town of Hoskins raised $18 in a few minutes one day last week for the betterment of the roads leading into that place. The day was known as good roads day there, and an auto club of forty members was formed. A number of new cars were charged which made $200, and then the businessmen added $18 to that amount. That will do the town more good than all the baseball clubs in the country. You get good roads and you'll get the people.

TWO JUDGES FOR THIS JUDICIAL DISTRICT

Lincoln, Neb., April 12.—In the house a short session was held and house roll No. 413, the Nichols bill providing for a redistribution of the Eighth and Ninth judicial districts, was taken up. The original bill provided for the taking of Stanton county from the Eighth district and placing it in the Ninth and providing for an extra judge for the latter district. The senate amended the bill by taking Cuming county also from the Eighth district and putting it in the Ninth. Peterson of Lancaster attempted to get an amendment in providing for a fourth judge in the Lancaster county district but this failed and the bill was adopted with the two districts affected now standing as follows: Eighth—Cedar, Dakota, Dixon and Thurston, one judge. Ninth—Antelope, Knox, Madison, Pierce, Wayne, Stanton and Cuming, with two judges.

ELKHORN RIVER FLOOD.

Norfolk Daily News, April 12: Several small buildings were washed away from the Elkhorn river. Norfolk Sunday morning when the flood in the Elkhorn river reached its crest. The slaughter house belonging to E. E. Conrad, located south of town, disappeared into the river. The house was the only one of its kind and other contents. One horse was lost at this place. Southwest of town where valuable farm land was inundated some other livestock was lost. The river began going down rapidly Sunday afternoon and before Sunday night it had dropped about eight inches for its highest mark.

Going Down at O'Neill.

At O'Neill the river had receded rapidly Sunday and Monday morning more than a foot of recession being reported. There was no further danger of floods, according to railroad reports. The Northfork river continues to recede and reports from points north and west of Norfolk indicate that most of the snow which would drain into the river has disappeared. From localities tributary to the Elkhorn river, however, it is reported that all the snow has not disappeared and that the river will continue at its present height for a few days. In the lowlands along the Elkhorn the water extends over a mile in width. Hay land around O'Neill is inundated and the water abounds with thousands of ducks and geese.

VARIETY STORE AD.

Omaha Tribune: "If we should announce that J. C. Nuss of the Wayne Variety Store ran in the Wayne paper, many would say, oh, hand that was no good, because too crowded. 'We believe it was a good ad.' They would be right. The headline 'Of Mutual Interest,' the rest was solid reading matter with a few words set in bold face. The story was there, all right, and we'll wager it was read. Which all goes to show that you can't set down any hard and fast rules for a good ad.' The good ad is the one that induces people to buy the goods advertised.

THE WEEK WITH THE CHURCHES

The German Evangelical Lutheran Church.
(Rev. R. Moehring, Pastor.)
Next Sunday there will be Sunday school at 10 o'clock and preaching at 11 o'clock.

Methodist Church.
(Rev. A. S. Buell, Pastor.)
Next Sunday morning will be communion service.
Evening sermon at 8 o'clock, subject: "The power of the greater in meeting with the lesser."
The Epworth League Devotional meeting last Sunday evening was one of the most helpful held this year. Professor Nordgren was the leader and there was a real spirit of devotion and unusual interest in the lessons. It would seem a pity for anyone to miss such a devotional service. Let everyone come next Sunday.

The Ladies of the Home Missionary Society expect the ladies of the Winslow Home Missionary Society to meet with them in their regular meeting at the home of Miss Bressler next Friday afternoon.

The Districts of Lincoln are to spend one week in Wayne housing the Sunday school interests in all of the churches from April 20 to 26. The church home coming day for the Methodists is set for May 2, with Dr. J. O. Randall of Philadelphia to preach. Every body invited to all of these services.

Presbyterian Church.
(Rev. S. Xenophon Cross, Pastor.)
There was a very large attendance at both services on Sunday. In the evening, the house was crowded, some being unable to secure seats.
The closing cottage prayer meeting will be held tomorrow, Friday, from 8 to 9 o'clock, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Ringland. There should be a large attendance at this meeting.

The annual spring meeting of the Niagara Presbytery will be at Norfolk, next Tuesday and Wednesday. Rev. S. Xenophon Cross and A. J. Ferguson will attend as delegates. F. G. Philleo is the alternate delegate.

See the program of the coming District C. E. convention to be held in Wayne, April 27, 28 and 29. The full program appears in this issue of the Herald. This is an excellent program and is open to the public. All are very cordially invited to all the sessions of the convention.

Arrangements have been made to have Paul Simpson Dietrick and Mrs. Dietrick for a six-day Sunday school campaign beginning next Tuesday. The meetings will be held during the week at the English Lutheran church. On Sunday morning, as the program is now arranged, Mr. Dietrick will speak in the M. E. church and the other churches will hold the regular services. The Sunday afternoon service will be in the district church, and the Sunday morning meeting will be in the Presbyterian church.

First Baptist Church.
(Rev. B. P. Richardson, Pastor.)
The morning service last Sunday which was conducted by Brother

Clarence Linton was full of interest and showed much thought on the part of the leader.
The Sunday school keeps up in attendance and interest, and yet there is room for more in every class.
Brother-Rince Rogers, leader of the evening service, was encouraged by an attentive audience composed largely of young people.
We are highly favored by the presence of such noble men as Linton and Rogers, who are a source of great strength to the church.

Charing Church.
Pastor Richard Bristell is leading in evangelistic services, that the spirit is being manifested there in great power, some thirty having come forward during the first week of the meeting, and as our pastor will remain there over next Sunday. Professor Bristell has kindly consented to speak for us next Sunday morning.

Y. P. U. Sunday evening as usual, by Miss Myrie Evans.
No preaching in the evening on account of evangelistic meetings at the Presbyterian church, which many wish to attend.

The prayer club will meet with Mrs. M. M. Solomon, English afternoon. Wednesday evening prayer meeting as usual next week, and it is expected that the pastor will be in his accustomed place and all services held as usual on Sunday, the 25th.

St. Paul's English Lutheran Church.
(Rev. F. E. Blessing, Pastor.)
Sunday school every Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. Parents, do not overlook the importance of the Sunday school. Do not only send your children, but come and bring them with you.

Morning worship at 11 o'clock. The subject of the sermon for next Sunday morning will be "The Temple of Life," Luke 23:47. In the new book of Kings we read that when Solomon had the temple all of the material was made ready in solitude, the house when it was in building, was built of stone made ready before it was brought thither, so that there was neither hammer nor saw nor any tool of iron heard in the house while it was in building. This was a great temple. But a greater temple is being reared by each man today. The material which composes this temple is prepared and shaped in retirement in the silent solitude of the quietness of the home. At last it stands before man, the product of his labor, his temple. The great temple of King Solomon, and the temple of the Mormons in Salt Lake City, are grand, but they can in no way compare with the great temple of life, human character.

For several Sunday evenings the pastor will speak upon the subject of prayer. Next Sunday evening subject will be "The Call to Prayer."

Luther League meets at 6:45. All young people are asked to be present. Come and enjoy the hour with us. You will profit by it.

The Ladies Aid Society met last Thursday with Mrs. Hurstad. New plans are discussed, whereby the meetings could be made more profitable. Next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. W. C. Martin on Thursday, April 22.

The North Platte Conference of the English Nebraska Synod will meet at Emerson, Neb., this week. We extend a cordial invitation to all who wish to worship with us.

THE PRAIRIE CHICKEN.

Bixby in Lincoln Journal: Writing from Beatrice, Rev. V. F. Clark says: "In the good old territorial days of Nebraska—so long ago only the faintest kind of a man who wishes for a better country is willing to admit how long I was a boy on these beautiful prairies. Of the music of the wild-birds, the chirping of a boy's car, and a boy's heart, none pleased me more than the soft cooing or wooing of the prairie chicken in the early morning. People told me that the bird said, 'It is good and cool.' I am sure you have heard it to the same music. While it is true that the bird served a very practical purpose in our humble homes, and I have caught scores of them in traps, yet there was always something about it that appealed to my nature, and I have often wished that I could atone for the necessary evil committed against the bird in those early days. I have wondered if the prairie music would not sing to you about this bird as it did to Shelly about the skylark, so that you could immortalize it before it is quite extinct.

It has been said that one cannot fall in love in order. Some with the fall in love to order. Some with the writing of immortal verse. One then the chances are even that the effort will prove a disappointment.

It is a good deal like the spearing fish for two weeks to bring forth a shooper, but are more likely to bury the spear in the sand. It we write an ode to the prairie chicken it must be done quickly. Shelly is said to have wretchedly failed for two weeks to bring forth the poem immortalizing the skylark and himself at the same time. That the prairie chicken deserves the best that can be said of any bird is very true, and we will make the effort right now regardless.

ON WALKING ALONE.

Kansas City Star: One of the pleasantest things in life is going on a journey, but I like to go by myself. I cannot see the wit of walking and talking at the same time.

William Hazlitt

One of the pleasantest of paradoxes is that the solitary walker does not walk alone. First there is the human companionship.

For a part of the way one walks with John, then Tom, then Dick. Something by the roadside, a sight, a sound, a fragrance, may bring Susie, or Barbara, or Phoebe out of twenty years ago to amble withal by your side. The bunch of spry good fellows you have tramped the woods with or the mountains, or maybe you sailed the seas with, may come out of that snowbank or that little patch of park woods yonder. They never stay till you are of them; they think and talk what you wish them to think and talk; you do not have even the trouble of consciously wishing. Like the amiable comers and goers in an amiable dream they come and go inconspicuously.

So no vagrant thoughts, a breeze, a smell, a sight, may bring a sensation in memory as it may bring a friend in memory. The sensation finds you free to receive it when you are alone. A book, a song, a verse, may equally fill your vacuum. Or you may keep it a vacuum—a sort of Nirvana.

We know that Wordsworth was sometimes accompanied by friends when he wandered the lake country, for he has said so. We know from the internal evidence that mostly he was alone when he gathered and stored the thoughts that in too deep for tears, when he revisited the banks of the Wye, and when, through him, were announced the intimations of immortality.

"The world is too much with us"—when we are walking with another. When we are walking with another we are alone with him. Perhaps then we are talking of cabages when we would rather be talking of the things that kings when our souls would rather be attuned to higher notes by a subtle suggestion of cabages.

CLEAN UP.

People are not clean up as they are allowed to be in their residence and business districts, and haul away ashes and rubbish. To insure a sanitary and sightly condition, prompt attention to ridding premises of filth is necessary.

Here is What You Will Find Built Into Every American Steel Post

Service—The American Steel Fence Post will give much more and much better service than can be expected of wood posts, because every American Post is just like every other AMERICAN POST, and you get the benefit of every post in the fence from year to year, while the wood posts burn, rot and decay from the start.

Strength—Line posts strong enough to hold up any wire fence and furnish all necessary resistance. End and corner posts so strong that they will maintain any wire fence made.

Quality—Made of suitable high-class steel, heavily coated with zinc inside and outside.

Adaptability—Adapted to all conditions and will prove absolutely satisfactory wherever a good wire fence is desired, no matter how heavy the wire or how hard the usage after the fence is erected.

Durability—AMERICAN STEEL POSTS have been in service since 1898, in every section of the United States, and the oldest posts are today as good as when set.

—the red-hot novel of the season, a book that simply can't be beat!"

EARLY STRAWBERRIES.

The first of the season these strawberries are—they come without freezing—from regions afar. They cost like blue blazes, like road-rangers they sugar and each berry weighs the H. C. of 1. They're sickly and pallid, their bloom is a fake, too sour for a salad, too green for a cake. I swallow them slowly, they thrive my gums, their taste is unwholesome, they're worse than green plums. But when they are swallowed, I fix up a tale with falsehoods unthought-of by friends I recite. "I'd berries for dinner! They cost seven wads, but they were a smashing feast for the poor!" My friends crowd up closer to hear my glory, then go to the grocer some berries to buy, those berries so bitter and hard as a wedge, that poison a critter, and set teeth on edge. And having consumed them in sorrow and woe and having convinced them they buoyantly go, and tell of the splendor of berries and dream so luscious, so tender, an "ocean's dream!" Thus truth is all neglected and soon of its bloom they men are horns-waxed and fed their doom.

TOILING ON.

We are forever forgetting that our stay on earth is brief and we waste the time in fretting, hunting for all kinds of grief, making moan about the weather, magnifying every ill, as we toil along together to the bonanza and on the hill. All our little griefs and worries will for sake us in a day; every dark affliction hurries anxious to be on its way, but we lassio it and tether every trouble we can naid, as we toil along together to the bonanza, to the wale. Life should be a cheerful ramble, but we make it one of woes, and we howl about the bramble till we overlook the rose. We ignore the scented heather, looking for the thistle clump, as we toil along together to the bonanza by the dump. There's so much to make us joyous, there's so much that's good and bright! There's so little to annoy us, if our hearts were only right! Why bawl forth, foam Jung's of leather—protest here when a man has got a head—stung together to the bonanza in the dell!

SYMPTOMS.

A man can read an almanac, and learn that he is sick; then he will groan about his back, in which he's found a crick. Before he read that book of dulle, he never knew a smart; he was a hale and healthy soul, with sunshine in his heart. But now he hangs about his coop, his head bent to his knees; he has the symptoms of the croup, of hoof and mouth disease. A man as sound as a silver dollar, when he gets a cold, his goat, will purchase nostrums by the box, and send them down his throat. Of grievous aches and pains he'll whine, as sunny days go by, and go into a slow decline, and of his symptoms he says: "The 'symptoms' brand will cough three times, and to the drugstore skip, and blow for-dope his hard-earned times, and say, 'I have the grip!' and when his cough has pulled its freight, 'I still am sick,' says he; 'my present symptoms indicate I have the 'housemaid's knee.'" Our cares are much like pains and aches which keep that fellow sore; the most of them are flimsy fakes—just symptoms, nothing more. We wear away our little lives, and weep and walk the floor, and read our horrids and beat our wives for shadows, nothing more.

LOOKING FORWARD.

I often wonder how this globe will struggle on when I cash in, when I put on my long white robe and sleep with cold but peaceful grin. I find it hard to realize that sun and moon and stars will shine that clouds will drift along the skies when everlasting sleep is mine. What is the use of keeping up the long procession of the spheres, when I'm beneath the but-tercup, with gibbets in my eyes and aching knees? I don't know what it's like to be up and down, of starless dark or glaring light, when I from all these scenes am gone, down to a million years of night? Young men will vow the same sweet vows, and maids with sugar-tongued lips will promise to be churchyard maple's boughs, and crack not that I'm resting near. And to the altar, up the aisle, the blooming bride of June will go, and yell will ring and daisies smile, and I'll be too bloated dead to know. Ah, when they called me in to dinner I lived and loved and shut the door; and when this little journey's done, I'll go to rest without a roar.

Uncle Walt The Poet Philosopher

WHEN SHIPS COME IN.
When our ships come in from the sea of dreams, where the scented berries blow their winter plumes and our golden schemes will, there in an hour come true. No more to rot for a paper's pay, no longer to hew and spin, we shall all be glad on that joyous day, the day when our ships come in. There are many things I would like to do, if I only had the price; I'd give the orphan a needed shoe, the widow a cake of ice; I'd help the pastor repair the church, but I'm always short of tin; to raise a dime takes a lengthy search, and will till my ship comes in. I'd help the poor in a lavish way, if I were a millionaire; I'd feed them oysters three times a day, and banish their grief and care. I'd like to battle with stark disease in slums that are dark with sin, but I can't get busy with things like these till my good old ship comes in. I do no good as I plug along, for I'm always dreaming dreams; I haven't the money to combat wrong, or baffle the wicked's schemes. I'll do fine things on future days—to that theory my faith I pin, when over the sea and over the bay, my beautiful ship comes in.

CRITICAL JUDGMENT.

My head ached fierce while I was reading the latest work of Oppenheim; and, weary of such mental feeding, I said, "Such fiction is a crime. His characters are merely spectres, who through the tiresome chapters run, his dukes and diplomats and rectors are sawdust dummies, every one. A book should mirror human action, and show the author's studied men, if it would give me satisfaction—but this man needs a whipping-rod." Long it was when health again had found me, "I'll read that novel now," I said, for it, of all the books around me, was just the one I hadn't read. I found it then a four-time winner, a ripping yarn that hit the spot, and when they called me in to dinner I answered, "Seal! I want it not! That man is capable of treason, who'd leave a book like this to eat

NEWS LETTER FROM STATE LEGISLATURE

Lincoln, Neb., April 13.—The thirty-fourth session of the legislature was still alive on Monday night, awaiting the concurrence of house and senate committees on the appropriation bills, carrying the salary and maintenance of all state officers, employees, and institutions. In Sunday sessions of both houses and senate all the remaining bills were disposed of by passage or definite postponement, leaving only the concurrence on appropriation in which matter there were wide differences between senate and house. All day Sunday conference committees struggled with these differences and succeeded in adjusting many of the appropriation bills carrying single items, but the largest and the most important of these bills were referred to the senate and negotiations there were continued through Monday with the result above outlined. In the matter of the big appropriation for the house part of the hard fought issues of the session and considerable passion feeling has been aroused over it. Opponents of the bill have persistently represented it as a scheme to build up a strong political machine in Omaha for R. B. Howell, late republican candidate for governor, while the supporters of the bill have disclaimed any such result for it and since the veto by the governor, have broadly intimated that the governor was repaying some big interests technical adjustment had been set for Thursday, April 8. Among the happenings of the week of general interest was the veto of S. P. 2 by Governor Morehead. This was the bill creating public lighting in Omaha at the hands of the Omaha Water Board, and was not really a municipal lighting project, as its Omaha supporters claimed, as it involved the city authorities of Omaha in all of its provisions and vested all authority in the present water board. These facts Governor Morehead brought out in his veto message and also that under present laws the city of Omaha could enter the public lighting field whenever the citizens desired to do so. Following the veto the bill was again placed on its passage in the senate and the veto sustained by a vote of nine to four. It developed in the last debate that a majority of the members of both senate and house had united in a memorial to the governor requesting him to veto the bill. This bill represented one of the hard fought issues of the session and considerable passion feeling has been aroused over it. Opponents of the bill have persistently represented it as a scheme to build up a strong political machine in Omaha for R. B. Howell, late republican candidate for governor, while the supporters of the bill have disclaimed any such result for it and since the veto by the governor, have broadly intimated that the governor was repaying some big interests in Omaha for support given his candidacy at the last election. Be all this as it may, the fact remains that the bill is distinctly dead and should municipal lighting be desired by Omaha the city can proceed to secure it under existing laws that give ample opportunity. The senate has killed the house bill creating the rural credit banks. This bill provoked among urban farmers, for later on banks coming up to thirty-five years and at the same time left this class of banks with authority to transact practically all forms of commercial banking. "Conservative" opinion in the senate was to the effect that this was a most dangerous amalgamation of banking ideas and that disaster was the almost certain outcome of this financial experiment, wherefore the senate took the axe to what was a very favorite measure of the farmers' lobby present at this session and put it in its grave with little apology. Quincy of Douglas offered a resolution of protest and approval to be sent to President Woodrow Wilson as an expression of the Nebraska senate towards him, inadvertently Quincy introduced in this resolution a warm and ardent endorsement of Theodore Roosevelt and James Bryan. There are democrats in the state senate, quite a number of them in fact, who do not believe that Mr. Bryan ever led the ten commandments, delivered the sermon on the mount, invented the multiplication table, or erected the forty-second problem of Euclid. These patriots would have naught to do with Mr. Quincy's glorification of Mr. Bryan, and diplomatically sent the resolution to a committee of long high executives whose special business it would be to amputate any direct reference to the peerless leader. This was done; the resolution returned to the senate, denatured and non-existent, all reference to the chief executive of the nation carrying the good wishes and support of all Nebraska. Other happenings of the closing seven days may be briefly listed as follows: The house killed the one-fourth mile speed limit bill, the bill authorizing the construction of a building by a narrow margin; killed the senate bill providing a constitutional amendment for the election of supreme court judges by congressional districts, although this was a platform pledge; killed the proposal to make a four-year term for all county officers by extending present terms to 1918; killed the more or less famous insurance rate bill S. F. 46, on third reading, after having recommended it the day before by 63 votes. The bill received only 45 approving votes. This was one of the hottest contests of the session, and the bill was the object of attention from the day it was introduced. Smokey an attempt to again revive the bill by patching its provisions as a substitute for another insurance bill pending in the senate. So arranged, but the senate refused on this issue that the senate insisted its justice to hear no more of it, but instantly killing the substitute proposal. The house has approved S. F. 9, the Shumway bill providing for the long time at Norton's request for the same under the jurisdiction of the senate sifting committee, which committee refused to report it out, being unanimously opposed to the measure. The vote taken on this issue was a majority in favor of the bill over the head of the sifting committee, and give it immediate consideration and final vote in the senate. This effort failed by a vote of nineteen to fourteen. In the development of this many members, aware that Norton's request had been held for weeks in the senate sifting committee at Mr. Norton's request, were not at all favorable to taking the bill away from the sifting committee, where it had gone as the result of Norton's dictation. The senate has passed the house bill creating a supreme court commission of three to assist in disposing of the present accumulated docket. In its final form the bill authorizes the commission to suggest members of the commission and the supreme court to appoint. It is understood that there are already not less than one hundred candidates open or receptive for the three appointments to be made. The senate has passed H. R. 478, providing for publication in newspapers of the personal tax assessments in each county. Senate amendments make the bill mandatory on county boards where the house bill was optional. The house concurred in these senate amendments. On Friday last United States Senator Gilbert M. Hitchcock appeared before the house by invitation and delivered an address which was received with apparent general approval. Though the line of the senator's argument and advice differed quite materially from the trend and actions of the house during this session, the senator's speech was conservative and in a large degree accorded with those of those fundamental theories of government which had proven wise by actual trial in the past. As the house has shown a desire for all sorts of experimental government, including the abolition of the state senate, the sentiments which they so generously applauded are certainly not those they have been following during the winter. As an illustration of the rush with which legislation has been crowded through during the closing days of the session on Saturday last the senate disposed of nearly forty bills in final passage at one sitting and the house has duplicated this record several times in the past few days. This has been a most successful consideration of legislative enactments at the rate of twenty bills per hour, where some of the bills comprised fifty to one hundred pages of typewritten matter, is clearly impossible and that faulty and improperly drawn laws are occasionally enacted can not be wondered at. An interesting report of this flood of enactments in the house and senate at the last minute is practically impossible, in addition to which it may be fairly said that the great majority of these laws are of a trivial character or effect, in many cases a mere local condition in some isolated spot in the state. The public warehouse bill, redeeming a democratic platform pledge was one of those that have not attracted attention. Even its supporters do not seriously claim it to be a working measure, but that it satisfies the pledge and will hurt no one. Abraham Lincoln's birthday was made a state holiday in one of the last bills passed by the house. An effort to give Loup-eater county an additional judge died in the morning although recommended in a special message by the governor. Factory inspection was stiffened. Water power districts were organized, and a college of pharmacy at the university created by bills in the last batch. Attempts to seriously change the game laws of the state and repeal hunting and fishing licenses in county of residence were the result of messages on the 10th and 11th days and went to oblivion along with about seventy-five senate bills and a hundred house bills which were indefinitely postponed by a single action. Late Monday night the conference committees on the big salaries and maintenance bills reached agreement and reported. Awaiting the enactment of the bills senate and house recessed until the clerical work on the bills could be performed. Many members are leaving for home Monday night and Tuesday will see less than a quorum in each house to concur in the amendments and hear the last fall of the government measures to adjourn, some of which will be offered Tuesday and the thirty-fourth session come to an end. ## "The Wonder Car"

38,000 owners have given the "acid test" to 38,000 Maxwells in the last 18 months

Every car made in the gigantic Maxwell factories is just as finely finished, just as handsome an automobile as if it were especially made to be exhibited at the New York Automobile Show, or some dealer's fancy Showrooms.

BUT—and here is a great big BUT—38,000 of these Maxwell Cars have actually been turned out and have actually been driven thousands of miles by 38,000 Maxwell owners. These owners have driven their Maxwells up hill and down hill—over all kinds of country roads and over city streets, everywhere that four wheels will go. Most of these 38,000 Maxwells have been rained on, snowed on, and put to every kind of a rough and tumble test that time and use can give a car—and that's what we mean by the "Acid Test." If you have any neighbors among these 38,000 happy owners, ask them to tell you all about their experience with their Maxwells.

If you don't happen to know any neighbors who own Maxwells, here are a few facts to think about—things to consider—then you can come in and see this "Wonder Car" and add up these facts for yourself.

But don't forget this—the Maxwell we will show you is an exact duplicate of these 38,000 tried and true Maxwells that have stood the rough and tumble "Acid Test."

And Here Are Some Vital Points to Think Of

Satisfaction and Service in a Nutshell
To the automobile owner satisfaction and service means a car of beauty, dependability and economy. One that gives him the best value for his money. One that is easy and simple to operate. One that is durable and economical in the use of materials and labor. One that is safe, comfortable, and gives him the best of all—easy and satisfactory service.

All This Has Been Accomplished in the Maxwell
Through the best engineering and scientific methods, the most careful engineering, the most reliable resources and the accumulated experience of almost four years of automobile experience, the Maxwell organization have accomplished what a few years ago many said was impossible.

The Maxwell is Not the Result of an Experiment
It was not luck or the result of an experiment that made the Maxwell of today possible. It was the result of a long and careful study of the needs of the automobile owner. It was the result of a long and careful study of the needs of the automobile owner. It was the result of a long and careful study of the needs of the automobile owner.

Every Feature of Mechanical Construction
Every feature of mechanical construction that is to be found in cars selling at many times its price will be found in the Maxwell. And in addition there are many mechanical features that are strictly Maxwell ideas. How we have improved the lamp, made them reliable by using extra bracing and eliminating the shock, made them dust-proof, oil-proof, and water-proof, and given us the means by which we have protected the motor and distributor, and the way in which the Maxwell has provided for the lubrication and the cooling of the motor, and the way in which it has provided for the service for every twelve months of wear, has no registers have equipped Maxwell with a spring tension that adjusts itself to any pressure on the belt, makes the
