COMMENCEMENT WEEK AND CLOSE OF SCHOOL CLASS PLAY DRAWS CROWD

Dramatic Production Wins Deserved Encouragement—The Baccalaureate Sermon.

This week marks the close of another year of the Wayne city schools. Tonight the graduating program will be presented at the Methodist church and the commencement exercises will be held at the home of Charles Fordyce of the Nebraska state university. Nineteen students who have finished the course provided for the city schools will be awarded diplomas. The school year has been a very pleasant one and both the students and teachers have both enjoyed a vacation.

The opening of the series of closing events was presentation of the class play, "The Dream that was the True," at the Wayne opera house last Friday evening. The audience filled both the main floor and galleries, and the close attention and frequent applause accorded the dramatic effort of the young people showed due appreciation of the performers reflected talent and careful training in the different parts represented.

The play consisted of three acts. The plot was laid in a factory town, and the first act presented the scene in a boarding house. Gordon Clay, foreman of a factory, tells Nan Worthington of an impending strike in Norton's factory. Nan promises to do what she can to better the condition of the hands by detecting and uncovering mistakes in the strike. In the second act the manager is on, and Norton refuses to come to terms. Gordon tells his identity and demands settlement for his factory interest in the factory. In the last act Nan's effort at improving factory conditions proved successful, and the plot ended happily.

The gross cash proceeds of the entertainment amounted to $125, and it is understood that the plan of the senior class is to use the net proceeds to buy a veto for the high school.

The baccalaureate sermon was preached by Rev. S. Xenophon Cross at the Methodist church Sunday morning and was much appreciated by a large audience. Following is an epitome of the sermon.

1 Thess. 5:1
"Only one life to live! What shall we do with it? How make the most of this brief and precious life?"

"We are all here to receive advice to offer to those making this observation, and asking these all-important questions. He said: 'Prove all things, hold fast that which is good.' Paul evidently did not mean to 'prove' by either experience or experiment, but by comparison with a standard. His standard was that of Eternal Values."

"Let us apply that test to the classes of things we meet in life and eliminate those which do not meet the test, but incorporate into the fabric of our lives the good. We will find some things that may at once be put out of life as not worth while."

"We may first of all put out of life all that is not meeting the test, all that in the white light of the Eternal Day, there is no place for deceit or hypocrisy of any kind. Be what you are; do not pretend."

"Secondly, we may put out of life all that is not in spirit and in truthfulness. It is not right to worry and it doesn't pay."

"Again, get rid of discontent. Some are discontented because of unsatisfactory environment. Some because of a supposed lack of opportunity. I know of no successful man who will say that a pleasing environment is indispensable to success. God placed you where you are, and you are to be satisfied with it, and to gain spiritual muscle by overcoming."

"But what are the 'good' things to which we are advised to 'hold fast'? First, the right use of time. We have all the time we need, but we do not wisely divide it. The biggest spendthrift is not he who throws away his money, but he who squanders time."

"It is good to early lay hold of a life-work. Blessed is he who is not content to be content, and is doing it. In choosing a work, ask three things: Is it legitimate? Is it individual? Is it vital? We may not safely engage in work that conflicts with any known duty. Choose a work that you can do best and that the community needs most.

"Lay hold of life's happiness as though it were a bird. True happiness is not something that depends upon a change in the temperature or a condition of the atmosphere. Happiness is divine reward for work well done."

"Friendship is life's common-sense and relationship. An education that tends to destroy the common instincts of son and daughter, brother and sister, fatherhood and motherhood, is a cursed thing. The nearest to heavenly joy, perhaps, that we mortals know are those of home and friends. Do not sacrifice the richest prize life offers for 'your career.'"

"Hold fast life's friendships; friendship means discipline. It means much to have a friend; more to be a friend. Friendship formed in the great hereafter cannot be more precious or sacred than those made here on earth in high school days. Be worthy of one true friend. 'Who binds together and cements these life ingredients, faith is good. Hold fast to faith; faith in God and man.'"

"Putting out of your lives insincerity, worry, discontent and incorporating into your lives a right use of time, devotion to work, happiness because of work well done, love, friendship and faith; man cannot keep you from making a perfect success of life—and God will not fail."

MRS. M. A. PHILLIPS, Principal.

CITY SCHOOL NOTES

Graduating exercises will be held at the Methodist church this evening. An admission fee of 10 cents will be charged.

At least four boys will represent the Wayne high school at the field meet to be held at Harrington Saturday. The boys have been working out recently, and hope to win honors for Wayne High.

A large number of visitors viewed the exhibit of work done in the art and vocational departments, displayed in the music room last Thursday and Friday. The work book binding called forth many favorable comments.

According to the new plan of half-year promotion, the A and B divisions of each grade will be one-half year apart in their work. Those who are promoted from one grade to the other, will, therefore, be in the B division for the first half year, and in the A division the last half year.

Miss Mabel Dayton has issued in visitors to all the teachers of the city schools, for a 6-30 breakfast at the high school parlors, Friday morning in honor of those teachers who will not teach in Wayne next year. They are A. E. Nordgren, Mrs. Louise Muffey and Misses Nina Husock and Della Abbott.

It has been an annual custom for the seniors to have a day and the juniors a half day for a picnic. Both classes chose yesterday for the affair. The rain having spoiled their plans, the seniors enjoyed a picnic dinner in the high school garden, while the juniors had a progressive victrola party at the Ingham and Foster homes.

The junior class gave a very interesting and entertaining program last Friday morning. Numbers presented were selection by the junior mail quartet, paper, "The High School Class," Ward Randolph White; reading, Ralph Ingham; solo, Edith White; reading, LeRoy Owen; selection, quartet. This was the last program for the year and was of a very high order.

THE WEEK'S WEATHER IS MOSTLY BUGHOUSE

FROST FOLLOWS HOT WAVE

Tender Vegetation Nipped—Much Needed Rain Finally Comes and Soaks Ground

The weather the past week has presented both summer and winter varieties. Last Thursday and Friday were intensely hot, and people who had not already changed to Jean and airy sub-stimulant transparencies, promptly did so. Then on Saturday Old Boreas put in an appearance and drove the hot wind away. Saturday night a light frost descended and nipped some tender vegetation. Sunday, Monday and Tuesday nights other frosts, akin to the first, came and performed, leaving waste other tender vegetation. As a result, gardens were considerably hurt, and a good deal of replanting will necessarily follow. It is reported that frost nipped corn that was just appearing above the ground in some sections. People were over-coats and built fires for comfort. The weather was up to this point unanimously adjudged unwise. However, the elements experienced a turn for the better yesterday morning. A much-needed rain came and soaked into the ground, finding and refreshing the roots of vegetation in a most satisfactory manner. The rain was cold and not enjoyable to the human touch, but was none the less welcome and is a source of invaluable benefit. The weather department holds out hope for continued copious rains and a change from dry to milder and more friendly zephyrus.

STANTON IS TO HOLD RACE MEET IN JULY

Stanton, Neb., May 19.—At a mass meeting of citizens Monday night a Stanton speed association was organized with about forty members and $2,800 was raised for the purpose of putting on a race meet in Stanton on Friday and Saturday, July 2 and 3. It is expected that this will be a big event as it will include with it Independence day festivities on July 3.

There will be $300 in purses and horses will be entered from all parts of the state. There will be four races each day, consisting of trot, pace and running events.

A new $1,000 pavilion is to be erected and the track has been re-modelled and is now one of the best single race tracks in this section. There are about a dozen horses here now in training.

ANNUAL MEMORIAL DAY PROCLAMATION

ISSUED BY THE GOVERNOR

Calls Attention to Appropriate Observances—May 31 Instead of 30, This Year.

Lincoln, May 19.—Governor McPherson today designated Monday, May 31, to be observed as Memorial Day, as May 30 is Sunday. The proclamation is as follows: "No day in the year has been more generally observed than Decoration Day and Memorial day. This year May 30 falls on Sunday, and by reason thereof Monday, the 31st, will be the legal holiday. Some localities intend to observe Sunday, the 30th, for religious exercises and for Decoration day services."

It seems more fitting this year than ever that the day be universally observed. The flowers that fall on the graves of our deceased soldiers and friends will seem like a baptism of peace on the soil of our native land. And our national songs should breathe with a fervency of spirit going out in anthems of praise to Almighty God for the conditions of peace and good will that prevail in the hearts of our countrymen. Our flag means more to us than ever before. It floats, untroubled, in the breeze and really speaks to the world saying, 'My race give I unto you. The eyes of all appear to be resting on our banner. Let it be the rallying point to which the vexed and fretted kingdoms of the world may come and find peace.'

NORMAL SENIORS ARE GIVEN USUAL HONOR

One of the most pleasant and high class events of the school year was the junior-senior banquet, given in the gymnasium of the State Normal School on Saturday evening, May 15. The room was beautifully decorated in the junior class colors, gold and brown, to represent a palatial dining room. The tables were arranged around the room, while in the center was a star-shaped constructed bower made with ferns and senior colors, maroon and gray, in which Mr. John Sassano, the Sioux City harpist, played during the evening for the delight of those present.

The banquet was prepared largely by the members of the junior class and was served in seven courses, each a complete artistic effect. The tables were decorated with crystal chandeliers with yellow shades, and delicate yellow roses arranged in Japanese flower baskets.

The subjects of the toasts were:

names of songs and each was introduced by a verse of a song played upon the school victrola.

Toasts.

Toastmaster, Earl H. Schroter. Greetings, Frank Strahan, car of horses to Chicago; Henry Klopping, two cars of hogs to Sioux City; E. A. Chichester, two cars cattle to South Omaha; Ed Hagerman, car cattle to Omaha; Herman Prevert, car cattle to Omaha; Dan McManis, car cattle to Omaha; D. W. McManis, car cattle to Omaha; Phillip Damm, car cattle to Omaha; A. B. Jacobs, car of hogs to Sioux City.

At the conclusion of the toasts, the host and shrouded figure of Father Time with his scythe entered and snuffed out the candles. All left the beautiful banquet room voting the junior class prince of enter-tainment.

SENIORS ENJOY OUTING.

The senior class of the Normal left Wayne at 6:30 Thursday morning for the home of Cella Gilderleeve. The large grove, beautiful lawn, and home of the Gilderleeves was turned over to the seniors. About 9 o'clock a delicious breakfast consisting of Parker house rolls, fried eggs and bacon, coffee and oranges was served—in the grove.

After breakfast, everyone hied to the lawn, where games of croquet, ball teams, volleyball and lunch were played. Several high-standing feasts were performed on the grounds, and at 2 o'clock the dinner was served and every one's stomachs for the grove where hot hamburger sandwiches, baked beans, potato chips, pickles, doughnuts, rolls, ice cream and cake were partaken of.

In the afternoon a tug war took place in which the girls were victorious. Horseshoe, water fights, tricks of all kinds, pit, Somerset, croquet and a big ball game served as amusements for the rest of the day.

After a delicious supper of roasted and boiled wienies, baked potatoes, green coffee, rolls and apples, the seniors gave fifteen rakes to the Gilderleeves and departed for Wayne. They arrived home at exactly 10 o'clock, singing "When We Come to the End of a Perfect Day."

EXPLOSION OF TANK DAMAGES BUILDING

Wausa, Neb., May 19.—The front of the Larson & Holst hardware and furniture store was wrecked by the explosion of a large gasoline tank yesterday morning. The underground tank had been taken up to cattle to Omaha. It was supposed to be entirely empty but while F. T. Olson was soldering if the whole end blew out. The force of the explosion blew out the plate glass windows in the back of the store and wrecked the whole east half of the solid glass front which was about 100 feet away. No fire resulted from the explosion and no one was injured.

STOCK SHIPMENTS

Among those who shipped stock from Wayne the past week were: Otto Fleer, two cars cattle to Chicago; Frank Strahan, car of horses to Chicago; Henry Klopping, two cars of hogs to Sioux City; E. A. Chichester, two cars cattle to South Omaha; Ed Hagerman, car cattle to Omaha; Herman Prevert, car cattle to Omaha; Dan McManis, car cattle to Omaha; D. W. McManis, car cattle to Omaha; Phillip Damm, car cattle to Omaha; A. B. Jacobs, car of hogs to Sioux City.

DANDELIONS NOW ON DEFENSIVE IN WAYNE

FIGHT TO FINISH STARTED

Eradicating "Dining" Week From Many Lawns—Wayne City Aroused to Action.

Citizens of Wayne have rallied to the front in response to the invitation for united effort to rid the city of the dandelion pest. Dandelions have been overrunning yards and public highways and if permitted to continue unchecked would take complete possession. They have already about done so in some instances.

School children, and church and social organizations are aroused to a determination to rescue the city from the persistent pest. It is expected such societies will look after the school and city hall grounds. It is hoped the fight will not be relaxed until not one dandelion is left. During the past week people have been busy carrying on the war of extermination, and the Herald will give the most complete report of the work so far fully succeeded. Others at work will have finished the task in time to publish their names next week. With no dandelions in Wayne, the city will present an infinitely more sightly and attractive appearance and the time and effort will be abundantly rewarded. The Herald's list may miss some who are not at this time known, but who deserve to be mentioned. Any such should be reported and given due credit. People who succeed in ridding their premises of dandelions by next Wednesday, or who know of neighbors who have done so will confer a favor by phoning the facts to this office:

The houses not reported to date follows: William Weber, John Massie, LeRoy Ley, John Harrington, Mrs. Chas. Shulties, Herman Milder, P. G. James, Peter Coyle, Judge A. A. Welch, H. C. Henney, W. M. Dayton, Ross Assenheimer, Misses Honora Bressler, Ed Miller, Phil H. Kohl, Mrs. Melick, Mrs. A. H. Ellis, C. A. Chace, William Dammeyer, Mrs. Bert Carpenter, C. F. Carpenter, Harry Craven, Chas. E. Bessinger, Mrs. E. A. Kiverson, Mellor, C. A. Berry, Prof. F. H. Britch, Prof. C. H. Bright, Prof. R. J. Huntmer, C. W. Duncan, Dea. H. H. Hahn, and the court house lawn.

GOOD ROADS MEETING CITY HALL SATURDAY

At the city hall in Wayne, next Saturday afternoon, at 3 o'clock, will be held a meeting to consider and adopt plans for road improvement. Those calling the meeting have a plan to build better roads, and are interested in good roads, and it is expected that a movement of signal importance to Wayne and the surrounding territory will be started. Road improvement to facilitate travel and shipments to market, is an annual demand, and Wayne should lead in such enterprise. Let the proposed meeting be largely attended, and the interest manifested accord with the importance of the subject.

BIRTH RECORD.

A daughter was born Friday, May 14, to Mr. and Mrs. Curt Thompson, four miles south of Wayne. Word was received in Wayne of the birth of a son to Mr. and Mrs. Foss at San Diego, May 15. Mrs. Foss was formerly Miss Jessie Tucker of Wayne.

George Sprague of Sheldon, was an over Sunday visitor of his brother, C. E. Sprague in Wayne.

The Baptist Ladies' union will serve dinner in the basement of the church on Decoration day, Monday, May 31.

B. W. Tillman who had been visiting at the William Mellor home in Wayne, left Monday for St. Joseph, Mo.

Miss Luella Bunt of Huron, S. D., arrived Monday evening for a visit with Mrs. John Debeck and other friends in Wayne.

Mrs. E. L. Whipple and little daughter who had been visiting Mrs. Ed Murrill in Wayne, returned Monday to their home at Laurel.

Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Hayden and daughter, spent the day at the L. E. Panabaker home, returning Sunday evening.

Rev. B. P. Richardson was called to Hartington Friday to conduct the funeral of the late Mrs. D. A. Jones, mother of Mrs. Fred Kimball of that place.

Mrs. H. H. Tangeman of Carroll, visited friends in Wayne between trains Saturday. She was returning to her home from Winsdore where she visited Mrs. H. Trautwein.

John Beckert, living ten miles east of Wayne, was killed by a horse last Friday, breaking one of his ribs. Dr. G. J. Hess was called and rendered the necessary attention.

Miss Hilda Larson who is attending school in Omaha, spent Sunday at her home in Wayne. She returned Monday afternoon, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. L. Larson, who remained for a few days.

Miss Irma James arrived Monday evening from Tremont, Utah, where she taught the school the past year, to spend the vacation at her home in Wayne. Miss James will teach next year at Ashland, Ore.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Owen-left Monday morning for Omaha, to see Mrs. Owens' brother, Charles Rusk, of Rushville, Neb., who recently underwent an operation in an Omaha hospital. They returned Wednesday.

Miss Birdie Cross went to Carroll Monday for a few days' visit with her sister, Miss Cross recently recovered from typhoid fever, and expects to return next week to her duties as bookkeeper in J. A. Hensley's store.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Rennick who had been visiting at the A. C. Deener home and with other relatives in and around Wayne, left Monday afternoon for Tekamah for a visit with Mrs. Rennick's parents, Rev. Mrs. D. W. Mattinger.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Freese and William Moore returned Sunday from Council Bluffs, where they attended the funeral of James Moore who died last week at Oakland, Cal. The deceased was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Freese, and a brother of William Moore.

R. Phillen writes from Twin Falls, Idaho: "That growing apples are about the size of cherries, and that peaches are still further developed. He says Idaho strawberries will be on the market in about three weeks. He reports that himself and wife are well."

Mrs. L. E. Panabaker received word the first of the week that her sister, Mrs. E. Stevens, was in a hospital at Ft. Collins, Colo., having lately undergone an operation. Her condition is very critical. Mrs. Stevens was formerly a resident of Wayne and is well known here.

The Sons of Herman are requested to remember that this order's annual memorial day comes the last Sunday in May, and all members are urged to attend. An appropriate program will be rendered.

THE TOWN OF DUNNING.

The Blaine County Booster has a brief writup of Dunning, the town near which W. H. Weber's ranch is located. Many friends of Mr. Weber have made inquiries about the town and will be interested in reading the account, which follows:

Dunning has many advantages which make her a favored trading town for the adjacent territory. Located on a railroad, her merchants are enterprising, she possesses up-to-date dry goods, grocery, hardware, drug stores, accommodating hotels, cafes, bank and lumberyard; union and unity within the ranks of republicans.

Promises Support in Critic.

While feeling free to criticize the democratic administration in matters of policy, it was the sense of the meeting that republicans at this time rise above partisanship in recognition of the president as spokesman of the country in the present national crisis and in this connection the following resolution offered by E. E. Hammond of Fremont was adopted:

"Whereas, It is the hope and desire of every citizen that our own beloved country may sustain itself in a position of honor and preserve the peace and welfare of the nation; therefore be it resolved, That in this critical situation we are all American citizens, the president of the United States is our president, his position with respect to our foreign relations in this hour of danger is our position and we hereby express our sym-livered through our ambassador at Berlin, no one connects the authorship with the signature. On the contrary, its formulation and composition are universally accredited to the president. Why should not the note have been signed 'Wilson'? Why should a great world-republican in the forms of ancient monarchy? After having emancipated ourselves from so many other shackles of medievalism; why should we keep up this pretense in the circuitous communication of diplomacy? Originally the intermediaries in such cases served as convenient buffers for a divine-ruler sovereign so that his mighty decrees and promises uttered by another even though at his own direction. We have made some progress, but are still loaded down with survivals that keep us hundreds of years behind the times in all our international transactions.

REPUBLICANS MEET.

Omaha, May 15.—At the organization of the Nebraska republican publicity Association at the Hotel Fontenelle last evening. Historical evidence that the republican party is the party of real progress and prosperity was presented, supported as Americans was pledged to President Wilson in the present crisis and a publicity campaign started for the dissemination of republican policies in this state during the forthcoming national and state campaign.

The spirit of the meeting was the welding together of elements of the party of men who have been contestants and who now expect to stand shoulder-to-shoulder as patriotic brothers. The following officers of the new association were elected: Frank Curtis of Sargent, president; A. B. Richards of Emerson, secretary; Martin W. Dimary of Omaha, secretary; L. J. Dunn of Lincoln, treasurer.

The officers will serve with the following on the executive committee: A. B. Richards, Emerson; Arthur C. Smith, Omaha; C. B. Ponce; Lincoln; John F. Cordell, McCook; J. J. McCarthy, Ponce; N. P. McDonald, Kearney; Paul Jensen, Nebraska City.

Attacks on Administration.

Severe attacks were made by the speakers upon the democratic "mal administration" with reference to financial and Mexican policies. There was unanimity of opinion that great opportunity faces the republican party in the present crisis and that for the country will result from

DARLING AT HARTINGTON.

In the course of an address before the commercial club at Hartington last week, Nels Darling, who spoke at a chauntage in Wayne a few years ago, said this in part as follows: "The whole history of man's intellectual growth and moral development is parallel with the history of his appreciation and realization of the value of co-operation. Primitive man was the individual raised to the highest exponent. He lived into himself alone. He had no thought of the rights of others or of such things as duty to his fellows. Every man owes much to society. Many die hopelessly in debt.

"This is the age of specialization and increased efficiency by and through that specialization.

"The whole trend of nature is to declimate the useless, and the economic trend of the times is to cut out the unnecessary cogs in the machinery. We are bound to differ as to what the unnecessary cogs are, but in the end the selection will be correctly made. The inefficient must go. If this town is needed, it will thrive. If it makes itself a great use in the community of which it is a part, it will thrive. If the merchant is efficient, his days will be long. If the farmer is efficient, the soil will in time fall by the wayside.

"The thing I am talking is the preservation of the community through an increased knowledge of duty in citizenship in the community. Do not excite ill feeling. Do not create prejudice, but work on the line that all men are brothers and that there is a mutual interest between the town and the country, and that while they may differ as to business methods they can stand on the common ground of fairness one with the other and a mutual helpfulness."

We are not writing this article to criticize any one's method of doing business, but merely to let the public know why we have concluded to do our business in what we consider the best way for ourselves and our customers. In years gone by, we have been approached many times by both farmers and townspeople, regarding the selling price of Wayne Flour. The farmer wanted to buy at wholesale prices. Our answer was: "Bring your wheat and exchange for flour, bran and shorts, and you get you flour at wholesale prices." Which was and is true. To our townspeople our only answer was: "Don't you want your local merchant to live? He has all kinds of expenses and must have some profit for services rendered." These answers did not always satisfy; still business continued, but not the same as before; competition grew stronger, profits smaller, trade lighter, from year to year. Invidiously but gradually THE MAIL ORDER HOUSE began to appear on the local business horizon. Almost invisible at first, but each year growing larger and more menacing, until the business public found, to their amazement, that thousands of dollars of trade which rightfully belonged to each county, village, or city, had gone to the windy city's mail order houses. There have been countless remedies suggested and hundreds of them tried, but in almost every instance found wanting. They say PATRONIZE HOME INDUSTRY, HOME MERCHANTS, AND HOME PRODUCTS. The orders for merchandise continued to pour out of your beautiful county, village or city just the same. The one vital question is: HOW CAN WE PREVENT this cash business from leaving us? We do not pretend to answer this question which is of such momentous and financial importance to a community. As for our own individual business, "The Manufacture and Sale of Wayne Flour," we have concluded to meet this great disturber of local trade by selling our product to ANY ONE wishing same, at wholesale prices.

The QUALITY of our products is all that any one could desire. Those who have tried them know and those who have not should try at prices named above.

SAVE YOUR MONEY AND BE SATISFIED.

Any one wishing to buy 500 or 1000 pounds of flour can leave same at mill to suit convenience.

ANCIENT TIMEPIECE IN WAKEFIELD HOME

TWO HUNDRED YEARS OLD

In Possession of W. S. Ebersole and Still Keeping Good Time.

(Written for the Herald.)

The old, old song of "My Grandfather's Clock" would have to take a back seat if compared with the story of an old clock that has been handed down from generation to generation for two hundred years, and is now owned by W. S. Ebersole of Wakefield, Neb.

Many admirers of quaint old relics who have visited the Ebersole home have availed themselves of the opportunity to feast their eyes upon this antique clock, and then let their minds wander back to long about the year 1715; and then wonder if it can be possible. It is possible, however, and today this famous old timepiece stands erect and ticks off the seconds, the minutes, the days and the years as faithfully as ever.

striking the hours and keeping perfect time.

The clock came into the Ebersole family in 1763 and has been handed down from one generation to another since that time. It was considered very old when the Ebersoles got it, and as it has been in their family for one hundred and fifty-two years it is thought to be at least two hundred years old.

W. S. Ebersole, who now owns the clock, has a copy of a memorial of the Ebersole family which was edited by A. M. Ebersole, of Ottowa, Ill., in 1879. The memorial contains the following: "Joseph H. sends me a very interesting account of the Ebersole clock. Grandfather bought it of an old woman who had probably brought it from the Fatherland and used it many years. It was in 1763, I repeat, ticking during his life and that generation, and the next, when his father got it; then the next, and Joseph took it and it ticks, as faithfully as ever. This clock has served four generations."

It is ticked for the Ebersoles for one hundred and sixteen years. Dear it; who can? "Mirabile dictu" (Wonderful to Tell.)" It was thirty-six years ago when this memorial was written and at that time the writer thought it was wonderful. Still the clock is keeping good time, so it is all the more wonderful.

Besides, the family memorial, which gives the above information regarding the clock, Mr. Ebersole remembers many things that his father told him about the clock. Mr. Ebersole says that the old lady from whom the clock was purchased, had brought it from Germany and owned it during her housekeeping life; and that she had bought it second handed. During the war of 1812 the weights were taken off, they being filled with lead, and the lead was used to make bullets to be used in the war.

After the war was over, the weights were again filled with lead and replaced. Engraved on the dial is the name and date: "Joseph Ebersole, 1815," that being the date he inherited it from his father. The clock stands eighty-seven feet high. The case is of solid black walnut and from all appearances made by hand. The works are not of wood as one would naturally suppose, but of brass and steel. The weights hang on cord and are wound every twenty-four hours by putting a cord

It strikes the hour on a large clear bell that can be heard in all parts of the house.

The Ebersoles settled in Dauphin county, Pennsylvania in 1763. Mr. Ebersole made a trip back to his old home nine years ago and at that time brought the clock home with him. It belonged to him, by inheritance, but for some time had been in the home of his sister. In order to gain possession, he promised his sister that he would buy her the best clock that could be bought in Newport. This she accepted and the old family keepsake came to Wakefield. Since that time it has only been necessary to clean it once and put new cords in it occasionally to keep it running.

MEETING DISCUSSES AUTOMOBILE ROUTES

Several auto loads of Wayne boosters tried to Allen Friday afternoon on invitation, to a meeting of representatives of Sioux City and northeast Nebraska towns looking to the establishment and uniform marking of an automobile route from Sioux City to O'Neill and one from Sioux City to Norfolk. The visitors were greeted cordially by Allen business men and were generally treated to lemonade and cigars.

The crowd assembled in the Odd Fellows' hall and was called to order by W. S. Hart who officiated as chairman. The purpose of the meeting was explained and members of different delegations responded to invitations to talk. E. Cunningham, C. E. Carhart, E. O. Gardner and L. A. Kiplinger were the Wayne representatives who spoke. They set forth Wayne's interest in both of better roads and in support of any movement that would run an automobile route through town.

After a thorough discussion and understanding of the enterprise under consideration it was voted to appoint one committee to figure out a feasible route from Sioux City to O'Neill, and another committee to select a route from Sioux City to Norfolk. The five members of one committee were to be taken from five towns on a line from Allen to O'Neill, and the other from Wakefield, Wayne, Winslow, Hoskins and Norfolk. It was unanimously voted that the committees and other representatives of towns interested meet in Wayne Wednesday, June 2, to make selection of routes and form a permanent organization to carry on the movement. It is expected that the Wayne Commercial club will make due arrangements to properly entertain the visitors on that day.

All speeches at the Allen meeting reflected enthusiastic interest not only in the proposed routes, but in road improvement generally. The initial meeting at the instance of the enterprising citizens of Allen is believed to be the beginning of a determined effort in furtherance of important road building in northeast Nebraska.

BE MEN.

(St. Louis Globe-Democrat.) Did you tackle the trouble that came your way With a resolute heart and cheerful,

Or hid your face from the light of day With a carven soul and fearful?

Oh, trouble, a ton of trouble's an ounce, And a trouble is what you make it. Or it isn't the fact of your hurt That counts, but the way you take it?

But only how did you take it? You are beaten to earth, Well, Well, what's that? Come up with a smiling face.

It's nothing about you to fall down flat. But to lie there, that's the disgrace, The harder you're thrown, the higher you'll bounce, Be proud of your blackened eye.

It isn't the fact you're licked that counts. It's how did you fight, and why? And tho' you be done to death, what then, Provided you did what you could? It you hated your part in the world of men.

Why, the harder will call that good, Death comes with a crawl, or comes with a pounce, But whether he's slow or spry, It isn't the fact you're dead that counts.

But only, how did you die? CHAMPION DEBATER

Lincoln, Neb., May 17.—Leonard W. Klein of Blue Springs is the champion high school debater of the state for 1915. This was the result of the judges' decision Saturday at the close of the annual high school debate in which the champions of various debating districts of high schools of the state met. Aaron S. Spier of Lincoln was awarded second place and Donald G. Moore of Geneva third.

Eleven district champions debated the question: "Resolved, That the United States Should Adopt Government Ownership and Operation of Railways." Seven of the speakers upheld the affirmative and four the negative. One champion, Miss Nell Tash of Alliance, failed to appear.

Besides the place winners the following debaters spoke:

Rutgers C. Van Brunt, Beatrice; Donald D. Elliott, West Point; Ralph Brooks, Sargent; Frank Faux, South Omaha; Frank Harrington, Omaha; Walter E. Christensen, Oakland; Dale Lantz, Kearney; Raymond Werts, Trenton.

Prof. M. M. Fogg, head of the state high school debating league, presided with Dean W. C. Hastings of the college of law, Prof. G. N. Foster, of the college of law, and Albert Watkins, of the state historical society, as judges.

The government's message to Germany was evidently prepared with the utmost care, and was manifestly designed to express firmness without giving offense.

To school graduates: Continue to keep busy and do not permit habits of idleness to develop. Active, earnest employment in laudable endeavor cannot fail to be rewarded with success.

When Frohman who went down with the Lusitania, faced death, he is quoted as having expressed himself as pleased to go, saying in effect that he could conceive of no more agreeable experience. Many people who shrink in actual death, are thought of leaving the flesh are not only freed from death, but welcome the prospect as transition approaches. It is as natural to go as to come, and there is no reason to approach the inevitable change with fear and trembling.

Words used in praise and with the best of intention sometimes jar the nerves. In a set of resolutions, Wayne is referred to in a most complimentary fashion as a "little city," which "little" is entirely unmeaning, though to residents who think their city cuts considerable of a swath in the world, it causes some of a jolt and rather modifies the encomiums accompanying it. To an over-sensitive individual, such a snub of a circumstance like this "Sounded 16, you are a nice little boy, and have done us a great favor. Take this nickel and buy an ice cream cone."

The Herald has had in mind for some time the need of employing for the city schools, in addition to the superintendent, a man skilled in business methods and the exercise of discretion and tact, a disciplinarian along lines that cannot be given adequate attention by the superintendent. It would seem that the need was a foundation for the essentials to get along well with each other and the public. Each one needs the development of a better business method, more confidence, and a doubtful, cautious, that arise, to be instructed to do the right thing at the right time, taught correct habits of talking, acting, dressing and eating. The superintendent and other members of the faculty are all added to the list with duties and could not well be asked to shoulder greater burdens. They give attention to the things suggested as far as possible, but cannot be expected to accomplish results that are beyond their power as specialists. Since considering this need, the Herald has been given to understand that teaching forces have been supplemented in some schools by business managers. The possibility for good in special effort in that direction would seem to be almost unlimited.

S. J. Gustafson, president of the State Farmers' Union, is quoted as saying that farmers do not want to increase the production of crops because such increase would lower prices and increase production at a slow pace with increased production for many years in the past, as shown by high prices for farm products, and with all possible effort to raise more crops in the future, it is reasonably certain that the market will not be well for this individual to delay his advice for short crops until over-production has glutted markets and caused a decline in values? Rather, why doesn't he encourage farmers to increase production and thus realize more in dollars from their acres if he is so powerfully interested in their welfare? Few farmers would feel like reducing their crop output through fear of over-supply which has not happened in many years, and which would not happen again. Gustafson's position, if he is so powerfully interested in the welfare of the farmers, would seem to be to increase the prosperity of the farmers and reduce their land values by increasing production.

Development and progress, he shows a contemptuous disregard of consumers working in mills and other lines of endeavor. The Omaha Bee recently referred to the newspaper achievement of Frank O. Edgecombe who is totally blind, but who has produced a pronounced success of the business. Mr. Edgecombe's paper, the Geneva Signal, is one of the two Nebraska rural publications singled out by the Oregon university as among the best in the United States. (The Wayne Herald is the other one.) As pointed out by the Bee, Mr. Edgecombe has been blind for twenty-three years, never seeing the excellent paper which he produces. Besides owning the prize paper at Geneva, Mr. Edgecombe owns a large block of stock in the Beatrice Daily Express. Prior to his venture at Beatrice he had a controlling interest in the Nebraska Farmer. We studied Mr. Edgecombe at short range at frequent intervals for 3 years at Beatrice, but never had the courage to ask him about his eyesight, suspecting that he would be sensitive on that point. Of course he is a man of brains—keen, alert, and ambitious. We found he had a great concentration of mind and could work out details more rapidly and clearly than the man who could see. Objects of sight do not break in to interrupt his interference with his facility of thought. Once he has the facts, he sifts them quickly and his conclusions are sure. He has no patience with a sluggard. His habits are regular. When the morning paper comes, he reads it through and then does the work with other exchanges. A few lines of an article are read to him and he quickly indicates to his reader whether he wants to hear more or jump to something else. He works out a system in handling his business. Mr. Edgecombe is a newspaper man, though not a leader, and not a trailer. In view of his handicap, his success is wonderful and most creditable.

When the corn belt just now is where are they to get their feeding cattle or sheep? It is plain that they must either grow them or buy them. If we buy them, it must be from somebody who has them to sell, and who can sell them to us at a profit to himself; and if we buy them, we want to get them at such a price as will give us at least a prospect of reasonable profit. For the last twenty years we have been dependent on the range for the great bulk of our feeding steers; but the ranchman now asks us (we are speaking now from the standpoint of the cattle raiser) for $100 per pound as finished stock brings on the market. We are told that Iowa farmers are contracting for calves not yet dropped, for delivery next fall, at from $35 to $40 a head. The ranchman has the long count of the doublet and now, for the reason that he had big grass last year. If we can judge from the reports of the rainfall, he is going to have it again this year. Abnormally heavy rain-fall on the range encourages the dry farmer. He will extend his operations, and the range will be cut up more and more; but just as surely as the years come, cycles of dry years will follow cycles of wet ones. This has been the law of the universe in all countries as far as we have any records of precipitation. When these dry years come (and the cattle feeder must necessarily look ahead), what shall we do for feeders? Possibly there will be another emptying of the range, as has occurred in times past, and its products may be cheapened for a time, but for a time only. Therefore, we can not depend in the future, as we have in the past, on the ranchman or the range man furnishing us either calves or sheep at prices we can afford to pay. Where, then, shall we buy them?

Canada may in time furnish us some. Mexico may furnish us some after they quit fighting each other. We have there and containing the best of them, and the Appalachian range may furnish us some as well in the past. But from none of these sections will we get feeding steers equal in quality to those we have been buying from the western range for the last twenty years or so. The man who has been furnishing us feeding cattle of high quality, due to the fact that they have been for a quarter of a century buying the best beef bulls; and the thanks of feeders in the corn belt are due to the breeders of these bulls. No one has attempted to argue that Wayne county is second to any other in quality of citizenship or in material resources. But well as the town and balance of the county have done in the past, more than the development of a more realistic if people would get together and work together, both in country and town. Jealousy and envy are twin evils that hamper progress in all lines.

More magnanimity and co-operation are needed than we have had. It is possible by superior advantages. These suggestions are inspired by the following lines on the "home town" by an author whose identity we do not know:

If you want to live in the kind of town you like, Like the kind of a town you'd like, You needn't slip your clothes in a grip And start on a long, long hike, You only find what you like, By your own hand. For there's nothing that's really new, It's a knock at yourself when you want to knock your town, It isn't your town—it's you.

Real towns are not made by men afraid. Best somebody else gets ahead. When everybody works and nobody shirks, You can raise a town from the dead. And if while you make your personal stake, Your neighbor can make one, too, Your town will be what you want to see. It isn't your town—it's you.

WHERE WILL THE CORN BELT GET ITS FEEDERS? Wallace's Farmer. It is one of the fundamental articles of our agricultural creed, that the growing and feeding of our stock is essential to the maintenance of soil fertility. What so-called worm-out soil lacks mainly is vegetable matter. Speaking generally, vegetable matter can be obtained only by part of them must go to dairying and the other to beef raising, allowing them to be with the dams, and finishing them for baby beef. If there is any other way out, we would like to learn of it. We would like to have definite figures as to the cost of growing calves to the cost of growing steers to the cost of growing hogs to the cost of growing sheep to the cost of growing pigs. We know there are a great many men who do this; and they have grown rich; but would like to know whether their wealth has come from this method of growing cattle, or from the advance in the price of land. Another thing we would like to know is what price of land is the limit on which the ordinary run of cattle, or even the best cattle, can be grown with profit. For this will determine what the public will be able to pay for the future. No matter how you look at it, there is a mighty big problem here for breeders and feeders to consider. Breeders of special purpose dairy cattle have done great service to the public by greatly increasing the number of pounds of butter-fat per cow. The experiment stations have done great service in showing what kind of a balanced ration we must feed this dairy cow. But these past services do not seem to have solved the problem, nor do discussions to the relative value of breeds have much to do with it. If land values are to be kept up in the corn belt, there must be live stock growing of some kind, and that of it must be cattle. It is being done at a profit. We must either get our feeders of high quality from the range, or we must get them of high quality from the farms. If our land reaches a price where we can not really make money by raising the calves run with the cows, then we must turn from some man who has raised them at a price, and who can sell them to us at a profit, while affording him a profit, into us to feed them at a profit to us, but at a loss to him.

The same is true of sheep. Half a century ago, sheep breeders pulled up hard against the problem of how they could keep sheep for the price of the wool. In our boyhood days, we heard of New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio were covered with flocks of Merino sheep. Like the girl in Solomon's song, and like Aberdeen Angus cattle, they disappeared because they could not change with the times. They solved that problem by bringing in mutton sheep. France solved it by developing the mutton sheep into the Rambouillet, for both wool and mutton. The sheepsman of the range has been following similar methods, and to the great benefit of our sheep feeders in the corn belt. As the range declines, so that we can not buy the lambs nor the older sheep, we shall have to raise them on our own farms, or buy them from men who can sell them to us at a profit.

Few live stock breeders or feeders are feeling particularly happy just now. Feeders have gone through the worst season they have ever had, and breeders of all breeds of cattle have been tremendously annoyed by the foot and mouth disease and by the quarantine restrictions of the various states. It is not surprising that many in the feeders' ranks are sympathetic with the range men, but possibly after all this is as good a time as any to take up the better question: Where shall we get our feeding steers, or feeding sheep? Who can sell them to us at a price that will justify us in accepting the price of land. Another thing we would like to know is what price of land is the limit on which the ordinary run of cattle, or even the best cattle, can be grown with profit. For this will determine what the public will be able to pay for the future. No matter how you look at it, there is a mighty big problem here for breeders and feeders to consider.

Arrangements are being made for good music and entertainment. Your friends will be there. YOU must not miss it. Remember that just for writing your name in our guestbook, you will receive 50 booster coupons which you may keep or give to one of your booster friends.

Remember that we said we were going to give away several Edgin Gold Watches? Well, Bonnie Moran is wearing one of them, for finding the Booster Button. The others will be given during the next few weeks in the following way: One watch will be given at the end of each four consecutive weeks after the count on Monday, May 31, to the Booster who casts the most Booster Coupons during the period of four weeks. All coupons cast in these contests count on the grand prize for the best booster in the Booster-Club Campaign, but all booster start even in each watch contest of 4 weeks; thus each booster, high or low in the club has the same opportunity in each watch contest. Any booster having won a watch from the store will not be allowed to enter the following watch contests.

The first watch contest is from Monday, May 31, to Monday, June 28. Next Monday the first count of Booster Coupons will be made. Help your favorite to stand high.

The Booster club can be made a source of pleasure and entertainment for your patrons and friends. We want you to feel, and make your friends feel, that our store is your headquarters. We expect to have a musical entertainment every Saturday afternoon and evening, to which everybody is cordially invited. Each booster will have an opportunity to furnish the entertainment, either personally or through some of her friends or patrons. The names of those furnishing the entertainment will be announced in advance. Come in and have us tell you more about it and save a date for you. On Thursday and Saturday next week will be the first PATRON CLUB SALE. The leader or Patron's Special, will be seven spoons of Coats' Thread for 25c. Supply your needs and help your booster.

On May 28, 1915, beginning with Monday's count of coupons, the race will be on for the weekly prizes of beautiful silverware. Come to the store and see them. Talk it over with your booster.

We expect to have a musical entertainment every Saturday afternoon and evening, to which everybody is cordially invited. Each booster will have an opportunity to furnish the entertainment, either personally or through some of her friends or patrons. The names of those furnishing the entertainment will be announced in advance. Come in and have us tell you more about it and save a date for you. On Thursday and Saturday next week will be the first PATRON CLUB SALE. The leader or Patron's Special, will be seven spoons of Coats' Thread for 25c. Supply your needs and help your booster.

On May 28, 1915, beginning with Monday's count of coupons, the race will be on for the weekly prizes of beautiful silverware. Come to the store and see them. Talk it over with your booster.

great many men who do this; and they have grown rich; but would like to know whether their wealth has come from this method of growing cattle, or from the advance in the price of land. Another thing we would like to know is what price of land is the limit on which the ordinary run of cattle, or even the best cattle, can be grown with profit. For this will determine what the public will be able to pay for the future. No matter how you look at it, there is a mighty big problem here for breeders and feeders to consider.

Breeders of special purpose dairy cattle have done great service to the public by greatly increasing the number of pounds of butter-fat per cow. The experiment stations have done great service in showing what kind of a balanced ration we must feed this dairy cow. But these past services do not seem to have solved the problem, nor do discussions to the relative value of breeds have much to do with it. If land values are to be kept up in the corn belt, there must be live stock growing of some kind, and that of it must be cattle. It is being done at a profit. We must either get our feeders of high quality from the range, or we must get them of high quality from the farms. If our land reaches a price where we can not really make money by raising the calves run with the cows, then we must turn from some man who has raised them at a price, and who can sell them to us at a profit, while affording him a profit, into us to feed them at a profit to us, but at a loss to him.

The same is true of sheep. Half a century ago, sheep breeders pulled up hard against the problem of how they could keep sheep for the price of the wool. In our boyhood days, we heard of New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio were covered with flocks of Merino sheep. Like the girl in Solomon's song, and like Aberdeen Angus cattle, they disappeared because they could not change with the times. They solved that problem by bringing in mutton sheep. France solved it by developing the mutton sheep into the Rambouillet, for both wool and mutton. The sheepsman of the range has been following similar methods, and to the great benefit of our sheep feeders in the corn belt. As the range declines, so that we can not buy the lambs nor the older sheep, we shall have to raise them on our own farms, or buy them from men who can sell them to us at a profit.

The "button hunt" conducted by Ahern's, the "Booster Store," last Saturday, created a great deal of interest in their booster business campaign now going on. Beginning at noon, scores of young people with Booster Coupons in their hands began their hunt for the booster button which would entitle them to the gold watch. All on the streets of Wayne were stopped and asked if they could be added for the gold watch, and at 4:30 Bonnie Moran found the right person in Dr. Vail, and he is now the proud possessor of a genuine Elgin timepiece in a guaranteed gold case. Next Saturday is to be the general registration day, and at over 12 years of age who call at the store and leave their names will be given fifty votes on piano which they can save for their favorite booster. Be sure and register Saturday, and get these votes for your booster friends. A musical program by one of the boosters will be given at 2 o'clock. Come and enjoy it.—Ahern's, the Booster Store. M201d

HOW BUSINESS MEN CAN HELP FARMERS

By E. D. Evans, of Adams County, read at agricultural extension conference, Lincoln, Neb., Jan. 22, 1915, and reproduced in the issue of the Nebraska Farmer of May 12.—Nebraska, as has been pointed out by the State Agricultural Experiment Station, is the basis of the prosperity of all other branches of business. It is, therefore, reasonable and logical that other enterprises which have conditions created by the labor of the farmer should take an interest in making the farms more productive and the conditions of farm life more attractive.

The farmer is apt to think that the forces which control in the business life of the cities look upon him too much in the light of a cow to be milked, rather than a co-worker for the creation and upbuilding of a prosperous community—a prosperity which he shares and under conditions that make for the development of brotherhood and the realization of a social and business democracy. This notion is doubtless largely a figment of the imagination. For myself, I have never seen a help from any source that tends to make the work of the farmer more efficient and the results more certain. That the so-called ranch farmers—men who are interested in the general result, but who are not operative—tend to degrade the conditions that confront the real farmer, I am fully persuaded. It is true, of course, that farmers have much to learn. This will be true a hundred years from now. It is likewise true of the cities, and of the schools, and of the teaching and preaching.

Weather Limits Yield. It is not true, as some persons seem to think, that farmers by mixing a little brains with their muscle can just as well as not add five or ten per cent to their corn and wheat yields. This is illustrated in a very marked manner on the farm of a man who has been prominent in organized and unorganized agriculture in Nebraska for a quarter of a century. His average yield for 1914 was the largest average for forty years of wheat-raising, while on the same ground farmed in identically the same way, much of the wheat of the 1913 crop would not pay for the harvesting. This land was taken over by the farmer in 1870, and occupied and farmed ever since by the original homesteader—the Hon. S. C. Bassett, of Gibbon.

No one will admit more readily than those who have the work in hand that the farmers assist the public in understanding and, in the possible, overcome the many difficulties that meet or are partly successful. Some things learned this year have to be unlearned next year. Yet the work must go on and help from any source is everything.

But production is not well coming. It has frequently happened that the larger crop brings the less money. The spread between the price received by the consumer and the price paid to the farmer is becoming a fair discussion of an important public question? If so, I see no reason why the railroads should pay for their extortion.

The Railroad Campaign. At the present time a big effort is being made to give the public an idea on everything the farmer does. And in this case Jones does not pay the freight, but the farmer does. Every paper of consequence in the middle west is being flooded with advertisements and paid for by the railroads. As a result, a fair discussion of an important public question? If so, I see no reason why the railroads should pay for their extortion.

It is apparent that the railroads want to have their interests published for their interest worth as matters of public importance. Why do they make this donation of perhaps a million dollars to the press of the middle west? Is it to stir up the newspapers in an active defense of the railroads, or is it to draw the attention of their critics or perhaps even to altogether? In all these railroad advertisements you cannot but notice that no attempt is made to bring the liberal to which the railroads ask to have raised are unreasonably low, and yet that it is the only legal or equitable reason why rates should be increased. No mention is made of earnings invested in permanent improvements that should be allowed to earn interest. The roads are silent in their advertisements in regard to the 72 per cent of water injected into the securities of a western railroad recently organized.

session at Chicago, the expert statistician for the railroads stated that the earnings of forty-three representative western roads show that their revenues have increased by reason of productive efficiency so that they can pay interest on bonds, dividends on stock issues, including water, care for depreciation and surplus and still have $50,000,000 with which to pay the men higher wages, and the men were asking for only $19,000,000. It was shown at the same time that the tractor power of the engine had increased 100 per cent in recent years, and that the average tractor is 85 per cent greater than it was fifteen years ago. You will find no mention in the railroad advertisements of the enormous cheapening of operation by reason of these and other factors.

Fifteen railroads now control the transportation situation west of the Mississippi river, all of them having surplus resources and carrying big money. These are the roads which are asking that the farmers of the middle west be required to reduce the value of their products by reason of increased freight rates. Even when the lines are run on a straight-for funds, it does not appear that the increase should come from middle west business. Middle west rates are already higher than rates on through business. The burden of proof under the interstate commerce law rests upon the railroads to establish that the proposed rates are just and equitable.

Railroads Earning Enough. By their own reports it is shown that the Union Pacific, the Burlington and the Northwestern, the Rock Island and others of the fifteen dominant western railroads, are earning big dividends and keeping up their surplus. We can but admire their nerve in asking for these increases and in trying to make the people believe that they are the railroads are entitled to them. The fact is that the roads do not show any dividends paid, but it does show an enormous sum spent for "miscellaneous purposes." Before this inquiry is finished it may be shown what those purposes really are.

According to Mr. Clifford Thorne, chairman of the Iowa Railway Commission, the earnings of the railroads have been increasing steadily since the panic of 1893. The average dividend is now almost double what it was in 1893. The same can be said of what it was twenty-five years ago. Their securities are selling well since 1896 they have averaged higher than industrial securities.

In the eastern rate case it was pointed out that the operating systems concerned were able to pay during the past year all operating expenses, all costs of maintenance, and an 8 per cent dividend on all capital stock including the water. At least three-fourths of the $30,000,000 annual increase in rates is being paid to the roads will be added to the burden of consumers.

Bias of The Newspapers. One of the striking features of the publicity campaign being carried on by the railroads says Mr. Thorne, is that it is impossible to get facts concerning the railroads without the controversy into any large metropolitan daily, or into any large magazine published in the United States. These publications are controlled and largely owned by men who are in sympathy with the railroads and other big business closely allied to them.

This assertion of Mr. Thorne is not mere guess work. To get the people's side of the case into those newspapers and magazines has been tried, repeatedly, by the railroads. Only in the railroad press has found a fair discussion of an important public question? If so, I see no reason why the railroads should pay for their extortion.

What I suggest to the association of business men of which Mr. Hildreth is secretary, the Agricultural Development Commission of Nebraska, is to organize ostensibly to assist farmers, but to have the real object to prevent the proposed increase in freight rates on western railroads. An increase that if granted would detract from the value of every bushel of corn, wheat and oats, every ton of hay and every hog, sheep or steer sold, and lower the returns of the men and women who produced them.

HERALD EXCHANGE GLEANINGS OF WEEK

Talks to the Farmers. Omaha Trade Exhibit: If farmers do not trade with you, or in your town, no one can tell you why so well as the farmers themselves. Talk with the farmers yourself, talk business with them, even if they do not come to you first, and get the farmers to talk to the merchants and other business men of your town as a body.

Who Can It Mean? Fairbury News: A man who stands in with the "bosses," draws succor from their sustaining hand, accepts honors and emoluments at their behest, "takes care" of their friends and obeys their every command all through his career, and if possible, may grow part and parcel of their machinery by turning state's evidence on his deathbed; but somehow it is human nature to have a great deal more respect for the fellow who dies game and refuses to squeal on his pals.

Visit Schools. Collier's: About now is a mighty good time to visit the school that you have not seen all winter. Roads are better, the children are getting into the spring energy, and their work and play, the year's instruction has had plenty of time to soak in, and the school year will end next month. For some years you've been paying taxes to be spent on educational work—get around there now and see what the school has done. You may be seeing what your children get out of these taxes. You would go fast enough if the schoolhouse was your factory or orchard or pasture, and see children are the one really important crop that our country raises.

The Tongue of Slander. Hartington Herald: What a cruel, relentless thing the tongue of slander is, anyway. It starts some evil report about somebody, and it goes on and on, and may be as pure as the driven snow, that cruel, remorseless rumor pursues him or her through many wearisome days and nights and does not cease its pursuit until it has laid its victim low in the dust of public humiliation and public contempt.

Fla. Beetles Injuring Vegetables. Battle Creek Enterprise: Many complaints have come to the Nebraska college at Gretna regarding the flea beetles that are eating the leaves of radish, cabbage and other vegetables of this family at the present time. The beetles that seem to be doing most of the damage are the cabbage flea beetle, the shiny, bluish-black species, and another kind, known as the striped flea beetle, which has a small yellow stripe on each side of the back. When the beetles or the leaves on which they are working are touched, they jump away from the leaves. They can be driven away from gardens by dusting with finely sifted ashes or air-slaked lime. To each pint of the finely sifted ashes or lime add one tablespoonful of kerosene or two finely crushed moth-balls, thoroughly mix the mixture on the plants from a coffee-can, the bottom of which has been punched with many small holes.

Farmer and Townsman. Lincoln Journal: An old, old issue broke into flame at the meeting of the Commercial club in Lincoln this week when President Gustafson of the Farmers' union notified the town people that the farmers do not care for their advice or assistance. The Commercial club men had been talking about encouraging agricultural fairs and employing farm demonstrators and other such schemes of rural improvement. The rejoinder of the representative of the farmers was a broad-shouldered rebuff from the farmers' perspective, regarded as objects needing instruction and assistance, and would like the town folks to attend to their own business. He said that town people want to get cheaper products from the farmers.

Foot and Mouth in Illinois. St. Louis Globe-Democrat: With the end of the present session of the Illinois Assembly almost in sight, Gov. Danne is under necessity of sending a special message urging speedy action on a long pending appropriation bill to reimburse the state for cattle slaughtered to suppress the foot and mouth epidemic of last year. Such action was urgent when the session began, early in January. Hundreds of livestock had been killed by the disease, and the property of those who had been deprived of their animals, through no fault of their own, were admittedly entitled to relief. The quick adoption of a bill was at that time contemplated. The development of milder disease among members has deferred it for some time now.

Rickenbacher Photographed at 85 Miles an Hour

Here is the latest stunt in photography—photographing the racing faces of Eddie Rickenbacher and his mechanic Lansbury while traveling over the Indianapolis Speedway course at better than 85 miles an hour in his Maxwell Racing Car. The lower picture shows C. Latta, a mechanic for the Maxwell Company, strapped to the hood of Rickenbacher's new Maxwell at the Speedway last Friday after "Rick" had tuned up the big racer. The picture above shows what Latta got while riding backward at eighty-five miles an hour. Rickenbacher is driving one of the new 200-inch displacement Maxwell racers which have been entered in the 500-Mile-International Sweepstakes Race May 29th.

course would be eminently practical, and the governor is, no doubt, putting the case moderately in saying only that "several complaints have reached me from stock raisers that they are suffering from failure to receive compensation justly due."

There must be many such complaints not nearly all of which reach the executive office. We have already indicated the possibility of this bill being held up, somewhere along the line, for the purpose of hanging onto such a measure of unquestioned justice, fees or emoluments, some of which come near increasing the present definition of "graft." Adjourning without action will mean the loss of some members—from foot disease next year.

food is in the hands of the farmers and the land owners. The town man who gets tired of being called a parasite and determines to grow his own food is not free to do so, before he can do that he must purchase the privilege from some one already possessing it. farmer, they deserved the rebuff Mr. Gustafson gave them. But if anyone thinks to make a class interest in agriculture, going it alone, existing for itself alone, thinking of nothing but to squeeze the last penny into its own pocket, he is going backward. Progress lies in the opposite direction.

FARM DEMONSTRATORS.

—Fremont Tribune.—The farmer who fights the farm demonstrator is merely fighting his neighbor farmer. Farmers are the ones who are standing sponsors for the demonstrator. When he does any business it is through their co-operation with him. In nine counties in Nebraska he is now working with them and getting big results. This is not very many counties but the number will grow till they all have one.

PAY DOG TAX.

It is time to pay the annual dog tax, and unless the same is paid without delay, dogs will be destroyed. Payments should be made to the city clerk who will issue receipts. Geo. Miner, Marshal.

Whooping Cough.

"When my daughter had whooping cough she coughed so hard at one time that she had hemorrhage of the lungs. I was terribly alarmed about her condition. Seeing Chamberlain's Cough Remedy so highly recommended, I got her a bottle and it relieved the cough at once. Before she had finished two bottles of this remedy she was entirely well," writes Mrs. S. F. Grimes, Crooksville, Ohio. Obtainable everywhere.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, but can be cured by the use of the Serravallo Tonic, which is a constitutional remedy. Deafness is caused by inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this becomes inflamed, the membrane covering the drum becomes thickened, and the drum vibrates to a lesser extent, and the hearing is impaired. The Serravallo Tonic cures this condition, restores the membrane to its normal condition, and the hearing is restored. It is a constitutional remedy, and does not act on the drum, but on the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. It is a natural remedy, and does not contain any harmful ingredients. It is a safe and reliable remedy, and is the only one that can be depended upon for a permanent cure. It is sold by all druggists, and is also sold by the Serravallo Tonic Co., Toledo, Ohio.

Maxwell Wins Test Over 40 Cars

Result of the great Yale University Sheffield Scientific School Test. Of the forty automobiles tested at the famous Sheffield Scientific School laboratory the Maxwell stands first in economy of Gasoline consumption.

MECHANICAL ENGINEERING DEPARTMENT
SHEFFIELD SCIENTIFIC SCHOOL
YALE UNIVERSITY
NEW HAVEN, CONNECTICUT
May 1st 1915.

The Biever Motor Car Company,
1079 Chapel Street
New Haven, Conn.
Gentlemen:-
I am enclosing report of test of your Maxwell automobile recently made in our laboratory.
I should like to add the following comments:

- 1. RELIABILITY OF TEST.
A preliminary test was made on April 19th, using a new car which was rather stiff. The showing was so good that we decided to make a second test. This was made on April 30th, using same car. On this test, the car showed less stiffness and the performance was better than on the first car. The second test was supervised by our most careful experts, and the results, I believe to be perfectly reliable.
- 2. MILEAGE.
The efficiency of the Maxwell automobile as indicated by the number of miles on a level road, is exceptionally high. This mileage record is better than that of any one of forty automobiles tested in our laboratory to date.
- 3. MOTOR PERFORMANCE.
The efficiency of the motor and carburetor as indicated by the pounds of gasoline used per hour per horse-power at rear tires, is exceedingly good, and indicates very perfect carburetor action over the whole range of speed and load. This record like that on a mileage per gallon, is the best one that we have had.

Very truly yours,
E. H. Lockwood

Mrs. Fleming and little daughter, Miss Edna, were in Winside Tuesday. Winside veterinary surgeon, arrived in Winside Wednesday. We understand the family will occupy the rooms on the second floor of the E. B. Henderson house.

Mrs. R. H. Jones and son of Plattville, and her daughter, Mrs. W. H. Mason and son of Roswell, New Mexico, arrived in Winside Tues-attended by the pupils and some of their parents. Miss Ethel Clayton, teacher of the rural school of the same district, and her pupils enjoyed a picnic on the same day in the Wilson grove. Needless to say all of the children enjoyed themselves immensely. It seems that the teachers who opened school a week early and had only one week's vacation at Christmas were decidedly wise and unusually fortunate as they had nice weather for their closing day, and what the others will have next week is beyond the power of man to guess, as already in one week we have enjoyed extreme heat and cold as well as a heavy rain and some snow.

MOSES-REED.

At the home of the bride's parents, took place the marriage of their daughter, Ida Bell Reed, to Franz Irving Moses, Wednesday, May 19, at 9:30 a. m.

While the bride's brother Roy played the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, the bridal party descended the stairs, and took their places in the parlor, where Rev. Mr. Draiss pronounced the words which make them man and wife.

While Roy and Miss Russell played various piano selections, the bride and groom received the congratulations of the friends and relatives present.

The bride was dressed de meteor, trimmed with chantly lace, and pearls, and carried a bouquet of white carnations and roses. The groom wore the conventional black.

After the ceremony, a sumptuous four-course breakfast was served at which the bride's school classmates, Abbie Lund, Esther Tillson, Stella George Patterson visited friends in Pilger Thursday and Friday.

Mrs. W. S. Brown and Mrs. Mary Stubbs of Wayne, spent the day at the Everett Lindsay home last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Winegar went to Norfolk Saturday night, and were guests of Mr. and Mrs. David Townsend. They returned Sunday evening.

Miss Merric Moses arrived from Crete, Neb., Tuesday to visit her brother, H. S. Moses, and family, and attend the wedding of her brother Irvie.

A wee little lady, calling herself Dorothy Jean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Taylor, arrived in Pilger Friday morning. Mrs. Taylor is staying with her mother, Mrs. William Patterson, of Pilger.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Grace Methodist church which was to have met Wednesday with Mrs. Ed Lindsay, was postponed on account of the serious illness of Mrs. Brigham, mother of Mrs. Everett Lindsay.

Mr. and Mrs. William Beneshoff arrived from Lindsay, Cal., Friday morning and are visiting in this neighborhood with their daughters, Mrs. Ed Timley and Mrs. Art August.

Mr. and Mrs. Beneshoff expect to stay in Nebraska all summer.

Mrs. H. S. Moses, Mrs. Art Auer, Miss Ella Baird, and Miss Nell Juhlin went to Winside Saturday afternoon to see the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Lindley at the home of Mrs. Bert Lewis. Miss Juhlin acting as minister and Miss Baird as groom in a mock wedding ceremony.

ist on Thursday and Friday of last week.

George Porter of Wayne, was visiting at the home of his son, Donald Tuesday.

Miss Helene Schemel spent Saturday and Sunday at Hoskins with home folks.

The young folks enjoyed a dance at the Morris Aherm home Saturday evening.

Miss Florence Spike entertained a few friends at her home on Sunday evening in honor of her eighteenth birthday. A pleasant evening was spent.

On Friday last week William Bellows and Bud Davis purchased the A. C. Goltz general merchandise store. They took possession Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Morris spent Sunday at the home of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Heeren. Mr. Heeren who has been ill for some time, is not much improved.

Mr. and Mrs. John Peterson entertained at dinner Friday evening Mr. and Mrs. Will E. James and baby Mr. and Mrs. Dave Theophilus and son, and Miss Lizzie Theophilus.

Mrs. Evan Jones passed away at her home west of Carroll on Monday morning at 7:30 o'clock. The cause of her death was kidney troubles, she was convalescing from, and although she had been ill for some time, death came rather suddenly. All that loving hands and tender nursing could do was done, but to no avail. She leaves to mourn her loss a husband and four children. They are Mrs. Cecyl Morris, Winnie and Owen and our son, Owen. The deceased was a member of the Welsh Congregational church, a devoted wife and mother, and a trustworthy friend. The funeral services were held Wednesday at 2 o'clock and interment was made in the Welsh cemetery. The heartfelt sympathy of the entire community is with the family in their hour of sorrow and bereavement.

LAST ONE IN SERIES OF VOCATION TALKS JOURNALISM IS TREATED

Editor of Herald Contrasts Old-time and Present-day Newspaper Service.

The lecture course on vocational and industrial education, arranged for the students of the Wayne State Normal was closed with presentation of "Journalism and Its Opportunities," by E. W. Huse of the Wayne Herald. In the beginning of the series of addresses Huse announced that the course had a double purpose: first, to give the students an appreciation of how the world does its work along the lines discussed; and, secondly, to arouse an interest on part of those preparing for teaching in vocational guidance, and to give others a broader field, and perhaps, some assistance, for the selection of a vocation. Mr. Huse's excellent address was a fitting close of this venture in normal school work. The address follows in full: Signed: E. W. Huse.

fortitude of character. He needs all these essentials to meet existing requirements and face the page of the future without feeling of shame or need of explanation.

"I have pointed out briefly what seems to me the difference between publishers of today and those of a former period. This change of attitude is the 'big thing' in the field more attractive than in the old days for the young man or woman adapted to the service and who is not afraid of work. Compensation in dollars depends on the capacity of the individual to push forward and do things efficiently and acceptably.

"In conclusion I will add my contribution to the symposium on 'Rural Journalism.' I furnished the copy for the 'Some Possibilities' though on it I have trespassed somewhat in the foregoing. Such contribution follows:

"Rural Journalism."

"It is to be assumed that any young man undertaking journalism is prompted by personal choice. Otherwise he should turn attention to some other line. He ought to be moved by predilection. Like the proficient musician, landscape painter or cartoonist, the truly literary man has a gift which, through earnest effort and training, may become highly developed. Possession of the right talent is quite as necessary for the success of rural-as of metropolitan journalism, and grounded with important native ability and inclination, the young man may well be encouraged to train himself for the newspaper field as a life work.

"Among fundamentals, I would give the supreme value of sound character. To attain the highest results in journalism, the responsible force directing the country weekly, like the city daily, cannot also carry a load of vitiating habits. Health of body and mind is a power for poise, consistency and endurance, inspires popular confidence and respect, and presents a personal record that does not need apology or defense. In the course of character building, the young journalist, training to meet new and advanced requirements, will form habits of high and generous thinking. He will learn that thoughts constitute a potent force for good or evil, and will disdain setting them in motion to the injury of an individual or a community. On a foundation of such character he can, as the poet writes, 'demands, point out menacing evils without bringing reproach on himself and thus destroying the desired effect of his effort.'

"Besides ability, distinction, exacting habits of work. Many men only indifferently because of the mistaken conviction that keen brains give advanced assurance of success. It is not so. An alert mind, ever on the job, not seeking advantages in hidden cunning, but presenting an unassuming attitude of magnanimity, in touch with the public need and public good, is essential to highest possible achievement.

"The tendency in country journalism is toward more and better newspapers, and the advantages to the public in decreased number and greater efficiency are much like those accruing to consolidated rural schools—'better equipment,' better service, better patronage. News value is the chief public demand. Let a newspaper present the news of its territory impartially and attractively, and it will not suffer lack of supporters. Events in the country and neighboring towns deserve the same attention given to happenings in the city. Generous and unbiased consideration of every part of a district sought to be covered by a newspaper is indispensable to the attainment of a high standard. Rural Journalism brings ample and varied to the man of ability and lofty ideals."

FIVE TRAMPS BURNED TO DEATH IN TRAIN

Nebraska City, Neb., May 17.—Fourteen cars in a Missouri Pacific northbound freight train were destroyed by fire this morning at a block two miles south of here. At least five tramps were burned to death. Two cars of silver bullion for the Omaha smelter melted and ran like water into a pasture.

The train, consisting of thirty-three cars, in charge of Conductor E. King, was coming north and within two miles of this city. It is supposed that one of the cars containing gasoline jumped the track, carrying a number of other cars with it. There was an explosion about the time the train left the track, throwing burning gasoline over the major portion of the train.

The trainmen unhooked seventeen cars next to the engine and brought them to the city, and when they got back the fire was so hot that they could not get any of the other cars. The engine and the cars with their contents, which were coal, oil, gasoline and some coal. The fire was intensely hot, and it was a difficult task to get near the blaze after it got started.

Tramps Burned to Death.

Shed "The Tramps" and the train crew could hear men screaming in the cars and they were powerless to aid them as everything was covered with burning gasoline. The train crew are sure there were not perhaps more. Hugh Kipper, with a large automobile, pulled the engine and two cars of freight away from the rear end of the train, which did not leave the rails.

Six Men Aboard.

A tramp, who was arrested for robbing "toy stores" at Fairfax, and who escaped alive, with part of his plunder on his person, says he is confident not less than six tramps were aboard the train, and one of them was his partner with the remainder of the plunder. The five tramps that are known to have been cremated alive were in the box-car of a refrigerator car.

GIRL KIDNAPED BY INDIAN HALFBREED

Stobran, Neb., May 18.—Ruby Hill, 15-year-old daughter of Art Hill, a farmer living 15 miles east of here, has been brought back from Fairfax, where she was found with Henry Denny, a half-breed, and 100 men are searching for Denny who is believed to have doped the girl and kidnaped her at a dance Saturday night. The couple was found in Fairfax after bloodhounds had been used to locate their trail and Denny escaped from the office of the hotel after he had been taken by the authorities.

Bloodhounds Lost Scout.—The 14th girl met Denny at the dance Saturday night, which was given near her home in the vicinity of the Santee agency. Late that night she was kidnaped. Denny is suspected of having something to do with her disappearance and the following day bloodhounds from Mitchell, S. D., were put on the trail. The dogs traced the couple to the home of Denny's father, near here, and then lost the scent.

It appears now that after leaving the dance Denny took the girl to the home of an Indian on the Santee reservation and they spent the night there. Sunday they came to Nebraska and went to the home of Ed Denny, father of Henry, on the river near here. From there Henry, Denny and Miss Hill rode horse back to Verdell, and this is supposed to be the reason the bloodhounds lost the trail at the father's home. Ed Denny and a woman who is believed to have been his wife, came to Nebraska and were seen to buy tickets for Verdell. The four were then traced to Fairfax where the couple was found.

Girl Is Broken Hearted

The girl is broken hearted over the affair and does not seem to remember much that took place. Investigation is running high here and the country is being searched high and low for the missing halfbreed. He is a burly man and as white as the average white man.

A charge of white slavery will be placed against him, if he is caught, it is understood.

After an investigation it was denied that the couple had been married.

Agent Charles Burton of the Santee agency is personally aiding in the search for Denny.

BIBLE STUDY CIRCLE

The Girl's Bible circle met Saturday evening with Mrs. E. B. Young. The attendance was good. The following officers were elected: Miss Emma Abbott, president; Miss Mabel Gossard, vice president; Miss Ella Benschou, second vice president; Miss Alma Harris; secretary; Miss May Hiscox, treasurer; Miss Nora Gilbert, reporter; Miss Lillie Goldsmith, organist. The circle meets next Saturday evening at the home of Mrs. Scofield.

SINKING OF LUSITANIA.

"St. Louis Journal": While the loss of life in the sinking of the Lusitania is appalling, a number of American notables being included in the list of dead, the present indication is that the public will take its cue from the government at Washington and try to maintain an attitude of repression while a decision is being reached as to methods of dealing with the situation. In the matter of encroachment of American rights the assault on the Lusitania, sailing under our flag, is more serious than the later attack on the British Lusitania. The destruction of the Lusitania can and probably will be explained as an accident—and reparation offered—conducting to cool consideration of the Lusitania affair it must be remembered that from the beginning of the so called submarine blockade Germany has claimed the right to deal summarily with all merchant ships sailing under the enemy's flag. The summary treatment of the Lusitania differs in no essential from the treatment of dozens of other vessels in the last few months. Nor is it the first time American life has been sacrificed. The first American fatality was recorded when the British ship Falaba was torpedoed several weeks ago. In palliation of the inhumanity of the attack on the Lusitania it is to be said, too, that official advertisements were published at the instance of the German government, warning

American travelers not to venture into the war zone of the allies' ships, and that passengers were warned individually that the Lusitania was to be torpedoed.

The question at the bottom of the Lusitania incident, the Gulfight incident and all preceding submarine operations is whether Germany can be justified in enforcing such a loose and generally ineffective blockade as she has been maintaining in the vicinity of the British Isles. If the American decision should be that the operations are unjustifiable the question would come up. Can anything be done to prevent their continuance? Germany has paid no attention so far to American protests. There has been no indication of popular demand that we shall go to war to enforce our claimed shipping rights in the war zone. As a matter of cold fact there seems to be no way in which our enlistment in the war could injure Germany. The indication is that sober second thought will call for further patience in bearing the relatively small portion of the war burden that has fallen on our shoulders, supplemented, perhaps, by such withdrawal of American risk taking in the war zone as may be dictated by common sense.

WAYNE STATE NORMAL COMMENCEMENT WEEK

SERIES OF FINAL EVENTS

Program Opens With Baccalaureate Sermon Sunday, May 23—Commencement May 28.

The fifth annual commencement of the Wayne State Normal school will open on Sunday, May 23, and the entire week will be crowded full of events that will be of interest not only to the citizens of Wayne but to the people of northeast Nebraska. The class was fortunate in arrangements made for the baccalaureate services. Dr. P. L. Wharton is Lincoln's most popular pulpit orator. He has held the pastorate of large churches in the east and has frequent calls to fill engagements on the lecture platform.

Friday, May 28, will be the big day. Forty-nine young men and young women, the largest class in the history of the school, will be graduated from the higher courses. The magnificent new administration building will be open for the occasion and the first public exercises held in the auditorium, a room that is a model for convenience, comfort, and architectural beauty. Hon. Gilbert M. Hitchcock, the commencement orator, has a national reputation. He is an eloquent and forceful speaker, and his presence in Wayne on class day makes the event of more than ordinary interest. At this time also will be announced the winner of the "Mines Gold Medal" and the "Frank S. Morgan Cup."

With the exception of the class play, which will be given under the auspices of the senior class, no admission fee will be charged for any of the exercises of the school, and most cordial invitation is extended to the public to be present. The complete program for the week follows:

BOARD OF EQUALIZATION.
 Notice is hereby given that the board of county commissioners, the county assessor and the county clerk will sit as a board of equalization, commencing on Tuesday, the 15th day of June, 1915, for the purpose of reviewing and revising the assessor's books, and hearing any and all complaints regarding the assessment of personal property and additional improvements that have been added since the last assessment. It is urged that as many of you as can call and look-over your assessment both real and personal, as this will not only aid us in avoiding any gross errors, but also that the board will continue in session for not less than three (3) days, and all complaints or protests must be made at this time.
 Witness my hand and seal this 15th day of May, A. D., 1915.
 (Seal) CHAS. W. REYNOLDS, County Clerk.

HAPPY HEALTH-HINTS.

ALLEN, NEB., WOMAN ESCAPES THE KNIFE. For Mrs. L. H. Jeffrey of Allen, Neb., suffering from serious illness. She had dangerous stomach derangement. Mr. Jeffrey learned of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy. He wrote to a man who had used it. He assured the absolute safety. He gave a dose to Mrs. Jeffrey. The next day she was told in a letter to write to a Sioux City druggist. He sent her a bottle of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy. She had been troubled with all sorts of troubles for years. I saw George H. Mayr's advertisement of his wonderful stomach remedy. I sent for a bottle. I wrote to J. P. Myers of Book Street, Sioux City, and he wrote that it was perfectly safe. I wrote to him. He passed out half a cupful of calf stomach. She got some more to complete the cure. Mayr's Wonderful Remedy gives powerful strength to stomach, liver and intestinal ailments. But so much and whatever you like. No more distress after eating. Pressure of gas in the stomach and abdominal troubles. Get one bottle of your druggist now and try it. It is an absolute guarantee. If not satisfied, factory money will be returned.

Jones left Tuesday for Des Moines to attend the meeting of the board of trustees of Still college and the Iowa State Osteopathic association. Dr. Jones read a paper

Kiplinger. Games were played and music on the victrola was enjoyed. A dainty two-course luncheon was served. About fifty guests were present each day. The Westminster Guild met Monday evening with Miss Mabel Dayton. This was the last meeting of the season and was the occasion of the annual picnic. Because of the cool weather the evening was spent indoors, and a regular picnic supper was served buffet style. Music was furnished during the evening by Miss Janet Garolough and Miss Bessie Durrie. The special feature of Raynolds and Mrs. J. Woodward Jones won prizes. The officers for the next year were elected at this time as follows: Mrs. D. W. Kinn, president; Mrs. C. M. Craven, vice president; Mrs. H. B. Jones, secretary; Mrs. Ray Reynolds, treasurer. The Young Peoples' class of the Methodist Sunday school had an indoor picnic at the church dining room Tuesday evening. The room was decorated with forest boughs, which gave it the appearance of a picnic grove. The supper was elaborate and bounteous and was enjoyed by all.

SELLING FOOD SUPPLIES.

Omaha Examiner—The newspaper man who makes a practice of looking over his exchanges must be greatly impressed with the great amount of space given to advertising food products. Formerly the bulk of newspaper advertising was done by about four classes of dealers: Dry goods, men's clothing and furnishings, furniture, millinery. These classes of retailers still furnish a big section of newspaper advertising. But there has been a great tendency for advertising to spread out into other lines of business, particularly into food products. A good number of market men, provision stores and grocers have advertised for years. Many of them have seen their trade grow large and permanent thereby. But in a great many cases their publicity work was confined to small and rather routine notices, with no detailed information about their goods. While this kind of notice helped fix their business in the public mind, it could have been made far more effective. The typical food products advertising of today, with which many of our exchanges are fairly loaded, is a simple price list of special bargains. Markets focus attention on a few special values, as a means of getting the public in the habit of visiting the place. A typical advertisement now lies on our desk. It simply consists of about twenty items of special value in black type, each giving the price. "Pot roast, clear lean meat," "Fresh killed fowl," "Pure lard," "Native dandelions," "Extra large grape fruit," "Large navel oranges" are typical items. This advertising must pay, or it would not be used so freely. In these high cost of living times, it would be read with closer attention by the average householder and his wife, than the biggest bait that has been reported in black headlines for three months.

HANGING OF THE CREPE

Sioux City Journal: It is the opinion of the distinguished paragon who delivers commencement addresses—the gentleman with the long coattails whose mission in life is to impress upon the sturdy youths and blushing maids who make up class of '15 from Portland, Me., to Portland—Ore., the behoarance of the frigidity of the world of which they are about to become citizens and workers—to bear down upon them a realizing sense of the awful responsibilities they are taking upon themselves in contrast to the caring duties of the classroom—to bring them to understand that the task of making a living and maintaining a reputation is little less disheartening in its difficulties than disheartening to them, that which in biological times was assigned to the well known Mr. Sisyphus.

It is the business of commencement orators to give advice. At one time so many were commencement orators obsessed with this notion and so thoroughly have they obsessed others with the same notion, the board of education probably would refuse to address the bill to a commencement address which was not made up largely of words of counsel. Perhaps it is too much to expect that when men are in the business of giving advice would descend to take any of their own medicine. But here's a suggestion nevertheless: Why not give the young folks instead of alarming them? Why not tell them the truth—that life is pretty much the same sort of a problem, whether it be in the nursery—in the classroom—in the shop—in the home that the effort is being made to solve it? Why not pass a few more flowers and hang less crepe in this business of escorting the graduates over the well known threshold?

Our own Leslie M. Shaw recently delivered a commencement oration in Omaha, and in large measure it was a creditable effort, which can be said of most of Mr. Shaw's addresses. But it was not without the stereotyped suggestion that it is a cold, cold world which the graduates will have to face and that success is only for those who are willing to sacrifice comfort and the pleasure in order to attain it. For instance, he told how P. D. Armour used to eat his lunch while he was lying in a barber's chair and at the same time dictate letters to his stenographer—"the price he paid for writing his name under every sky and in every language." Indeed graduates would be hard put to it if they were to attempt to follow the advice that is handed out to them. Mr. Shaw offers Mr. Armour as one after whom young folks may well model their lives. If Dr. Woods Hutchinson happened to be the commencement orator, he would be just as likely to pick up Mr. Armour lying in a barber's chair eating lunch and dictating letters, as at most horrible of horrible examples. He would tell his hearers that, had the great packer taken time for his meals and played more golf and dictated fewer letters, he would not have died, but he had lived on his allotted span, but might be alive and well today.

It long has been the fashion to make light of the aches and aches of which the girls in white and the boys in black are wont to relieve themselves at the occasion of their graduation. Is the average commencement address of the more nature orator to be taken a whole lot more seriously?

The following articles were adopted: Article 1. This association shall be called the Northeast Nebraska Breeders' and Shippers' Association. Article 2. The particular business and object of this association shall be the improvement of breeds of live stock stock; the interchange of breeds; the purchase of other commodities; among the several members of this association, the securing of prompt and adequate shipping facilities, equalization of shipping rates and equitable stock yard rates; the mutual protection of its members from damage by third parties, and that of the members hereof in the transaction of the business of such members; and such other things as are incidental to the accomplishment of the business above set forth.

Article 3. Any live stock breeder or shipper, or other commodity being a resident of third congressional district may become a member of this association by paying to the treasurer a membership fee of $2.50 and subscribing to the articles of this association and shall remain such member upon paying such assessments and dues thereafter as the proper officers of this association hereafter named shall fix and levy for such member.

Article 4. The officers shall consist of President, Vice President, Secretary, Treasurer and of Board of Seven Directors, who shall be elected by ballot at the annual meeting of June, of each year, at two (2) o'clock p. m. the term of office for all of said officers shall be for one year, the term commencing from and after the date of said annual meeting, and they shall hold such office one year thereafter, and until their successors are elected and accepted.

Article 5. The said President, Secretary, Treasurer and Directors a majority of whom shall constitute a quorum, shall constitute a board for the management of the business of the society, and shall have full power to fix the dues, assessments and perform all other business of the association not herein expressed.

Article 6. The President by and with the advice and consent of the Directors, or majority of the Directors, may appoint such other agents and attorneys for said association who shall act in their behalf as said president or directors, or majority of same, may see fit.

Article 7. In the event any member of this association may upon request receive the advice from, or counsel with the attorneys relative to the business of said association without charge to such member except as the dues and assessments received from said member may be expended for the service for such legal service; said attorneys to receive such compensation as they may earn for services rendered, by and from said association.

Article 7. That in the event any member of this association deems himself aggrieved or damaged by any third party, or that he have cause of action therefor to recover his legal rights, he shall submit his statement and account therefor to the secretary of said association and no action shall be brought, maintained or any costs or expenses made thereon, for which said association shall be taxed or charged without the written approval of the president thereof. Filed with the secretary in said matter.

Article 8. The secretary shall keep record of the members of the association and of the dues and assessments levied against such members and the payment thereof by each of them, and he shall perform the duties usually pertaining to such office and such duties as the board of directors may from time to time prescribe and require as a compensation, therefor; such fees as the board of directors shall prescribe.

Article 9. The president, by virtue of his office, shall be deemed for all purposes, an official member and chairman of the board of directors.

Article 10. The annual dues and assessments levied or assessed against any member of this association shall in no case exceed the sum of $2.50.

Article 11. The treasurer shall receive and take charge of all the moneys of the association and shall pay out the same only by the order of the president, countersigned by the secretary, or shall keep a correct account of the receipts and expenditures and render an account thereof to the board upon request. In the event any money is received by any of the officers or attorneys of said association due to any individual member of this association by reason of the payment or settlement of any claim, suit or other matter, such officer or attorney shall immediately deliver same to the treasurer of said association who shall make a record of such transaction and forward the amount thereof without charge to the member entitled thereto.

Article 12. It shall be the duty of the board of directors to adopt and publish among the members such rules, regulations and by-laws as may be considered necessary to regulate and carry out the object and purpose for which this association was formed.

Article 13. The headquarters of said association shall be at Wayne, Nebraska, where all annual meetings and other meetings of said association and the Board of Directors, shall meet for the transaction of the business of the association.

Article 14. That the articles of association may be amended at any annual meeting by a majority vote of the members present and voted thereon and may be amended at any meeting of the Board of Directors by a two-thirds vote of the entire Board of Directors.

THE WEEK WITH THE CHURCHES

German Evangelical Lutheran Church. Rev. K. Mochring, Pastor. Sunday, May 23, Pentecost services will be held, preaching at 10:30 followed by the last communion. There will be no Sunday school.

First Baptist Church. (Rev. B. P. Richardson, Pastor.) We are glad to see the Home Department of our Sunday school growing so rapidly. Miss Elsie Gilbert and her helpers are pushing the work in a noble way. We are sure these workers will bring cheer and help to a number of our "shut-ins." The boy scouts' class has formed a ball team. The boys are enthusiastic over the outlook. Teams in other day schools are being organized and some lively games are being arranged for. Let the community baseball interest center in the work among the boys. It will pay to help these young lives in their clean sport.

The pastor was called to Hartington last Saturday to conduct the funeral service of Mrs. Jones, the mother of Mrs. Fred Kimball. "The Real Test of a Man," will be the subject of the pastor's sermon Sunday morning.

Miss Laura Conover will lead the young people's meeting Sunday evening.

The baccalaureate service of the Normal will be held in the church Sunday evening. This will be a union service, and Dr. Fletcher L. Wharton of Lincoln will be the preacher.

Tomorrow (Friday) afternoon, the prayer circle will meet with Mrs. Richardson. These meetings are well attended and full of helpfulness. These are busy times for all of us, but in all our going let us not forget our need of the hours of worship. Prayer meeting Wednesday evening.

Methodist Church. (Rev. A. S. Bueh, Pastor.) Those present last Sunday morning report an unusually helpful message when Miss Troutman of Topeka, Kansas, spoke in the interest of the Woman's Foreign Missionary society of the Methodist Episcopal church.

Rev. S. X. Cross delivered the baccalaureate sermon for the high school graduating class in the Methodist church Sunday evening to a large and appreciative audience. We should test things by the standards revealed in the bible and ascribe worth to things in the light of their eternal values. It was a very helpful message and might prove profitable advice for others as well as for the high school graduates. Two anthems were splendidly rendered by the large choir. The choir has the habit of keeping the music end of the services up in splendid shape.

Memorial services will be held in the Methodist church next Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock. The sermon will be preached by the pastor. Seats will be reserved for the G. A. R. and relief organizations. There will be no evening service on account of the church meeting and service for the Wayne Normal college graduates in the Baptist church.

SAVINGS SERMONETTE NUMBER THREE

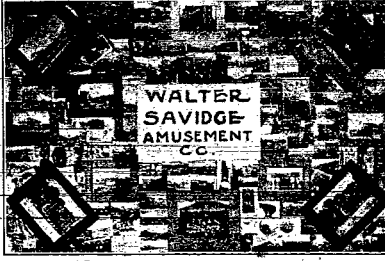

What a Savings Account Does. A savings account encourages thrift, economy and principles of right living, and makes for self-sufficiency that more enduring and larger results may follow to bless and cheer the life. It broadens and develops his character and aiding him to master and overcome the temptations to yield. Those who have the savings and passions of our human nature which dissipate our earnings. It makes us better men and women, works for our uprightness of conduct, and adds an endearing charm to our household which we shall never forget. It broadens our patriotism and endears us to our country, and makes us more worthy citizens and inspires and increases in us the spirit of a generation. It smooths out the rugged places in life, and greets our pathway with sweet forget-me-nots, and makes our life over "Sweet Home, though it be ever-so humble."

St. Paul's English Lutheran Church. (Rev. P. E. Blessing, Pastor) Sunday school every Sunday morning at 10 o'clock.

Morning worship at 11 o'clock. Luther League at 7 o'clock.

Union service at the Baptist church at 8 o'clock.

Next Sunday is Whitsunday or Pentecost. Pentecost marks the beginning of the definite temporal ministry of the Holy Ghost. True, the Holy Ghost had been in the world before the time of the first day of Pentecost, acting in creation and in inspiring the prophets. As Christ had an earthly ministry that began at Bethlehem and ended at Olivet, so the Holy Spirit, in His turn, has a definite temporal ministry, that began at Pentecost. As the cradle in Bethlehem contained the infant Jesus, so the upper room was the cradle of the infant church. One was the birthplace of the Head, the other was the birthplace of the body, so that Augustine very rightly called Pentecost the "birthday of the Holy Ghost." The subject of the sermon for Sunday morning will be "The Spirit Filled Life," Acts 2:4. The subject of the discussion at Luther League will be "The Holy Spirit as Fire," Acts 2:1-3.

Last Thursday afternoon some of the ladies of the church met and organized a "Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary society." The ladies are very much interested in their work, and will hold their first regular meeting June 3. The book used as the basis of study is called "In Red Man's Land." The following officers were elected: Mrs. A. D. Erickson, president; Miss Rosa J. Venheimer, vice president; Mrs. F. E. Blessing, secretary; Miss C. Ziegler, treasurer. The ladies' Aid society will meet at the parsonage on next Thursday afternoon. A cordial invitation is extended to all who wish to worship with us.

Presbyterian Church. (Rev. S. Xenophon Cross, Pastor.) The following is copied from an "open letter" sent out by the church Efficiency Bureau: Make your church more efficient. Are you applying the principles of scientific management and modern efficiency standards and methods in "every part" of your church, as a whole and in every department? All new methods and inventions, all efficiency principles, had their origin with God. Man simply discovers and uses living forces and laws. Shall not God's most important work—the salvation and conservation physically, morally, and especially spiritually—of human lives made in the divine image, benefit by these God-originated ideas? Do you realize how dividends are increasing in those banks and factories and stores which seek utmost efficiency, and are decreasing elsewhere? Have not been backsliding and "street paving" become science? "The survival of the efficient" is taking the place of the "survival of the fittest," for "fit" and "efficient" are almost synonyms.

Sincers and jeers rewarded the first "experts" who talked of scientific management and methods in agriculture, a generation ago. "Only crazy men," it said, would try to improve methods of farming used for many hundred years, or listen to theories from agricultural colleges. But the "crazy" farmers who sought and heeded the suggestions of scientific specialists as to farm methods and management, soil analysis and fertilization and conservation, seed and breed improvement, scientific rations and crop rotation, efficient machinery and seasonable plowing, etc., have bought at sheriff's sale the holdings of multitudes of the ultra-conservative "sneerer." The same will be increasingly true in churches.—God's armies and schools and harvest fields.

PSYCHOLOGY OF BUSINESS. Wallace's Farmer: "Psychology" is a big word. We have to use big words once in a while to get some of our younger readers familiar with them. It means simply "a state of mind." The point we wish to make now is that the condition of business is primarily a state of mind, or if not primarily at least in part. The experiment has been tried over and over again by physicians and officers of governing men on the street, telling him how bad he looks or inquiring in a solicitous way about his health. If this is done half a dozen times or more during the day, that man, no matter how well he may be, will go home-side by night, or at least feeling that he needs to consult a doctor. It is much the same way with business. If every man you meet and ask about business gives you a hard time story, shakes his head and says "Nothing doing!" no matter how prosperous your own business may be, you will begin to retrace. You can't help being influenced by them. Plenty of money in that, although it does necessitate being at home mornings and evenings, and milking is a business many farmers do not love: some of them will have to come to it if they are to thrive. Why should we hesitate about buying improved live stock? The outlook for live stock farmers is better than for any other class of farmers in the corn belt, for cattle are growing scarcer, and population increasing and they can not be supplied in a year or two or five. European countries will be coming to us for horses to take the place of the hundred of thousands of horses that have been killed in battle or used for food. It is no time for a man to launch out into extravagant ways of living, nor to go in debt, nor to speculate; but it is time for him to get into a frame of mind which belongs to prosperity rather than invites to adversity.

getting good cows and milking them? Or the other hand, if a man puts the best face on things, keeps the corner of his mouth turned up instead of down and talks cheerfully in this state of mind is infectious. If any large number of people in the country, or in the city either, get the notion that hard times are coming, then hard times come in advance. If a man, no matter how well off goes into a bank looking for a loan, and asks timidly and doubtfully for credit, he is very likely not to get credit at that bank. On the other hand, if another goes in with an air of confidence and presents his case in a business-like way, telling all the facts that the banker has a right to know, he will probably get credit, though he may be no more worthy of credit than the man who has been refused. Why should we fear? Why should bankers hesitate to lend to men who have usually good credit? Why should the farmer take his money out of the bank and slip it into an old stocking? We don't believe many of them are doing that; but it is possible to get up a state of mind in which men will do just this foolish thing. Why should we hesitate about will be conducted on that day at 10:30 a. m. at the Methodist church and the sermon will be preached by Rev. A. S. Bueh, pastor of the Methodist church.

On Decoration day, May 31, the following program will be carried out at the opera house at 2 o'clock in the afternoon: Music by Orchestra. Prayer, Rev. Richardson. Music, Male Quartet.
