before going to Colorado Springs, spent three years in Florida. Through inadvertence in the makeup of last week's Herald, the announcement of the birth of a son to Mr. and Mrs. Walter Savage was omitted. The child was born Monday, June 14, and Mr. Savage let his carnival company take care of itself, while he remained here for a day to get acquainted with his little heir. F. L. Neely, traveling salesman, and not equal to last year's crop for seed, makes the advice sound and worth following by every farmer. Norfolk News, June 21: Walter Savage of Wayne was in Norfolk Friday and secured permission from the city officials to put on his carnival show in Norfolk for five days, commencing July 5. The Carlson lot on Norfolk avenue and Second St., has been selected for the location of the carnival. City Clerk Stafford says the show comes well recommended and is said to be thoroughly clean. Henry Klopning was called to Neola, Ia., Friday by word that his father who is 84 years old, had suffered serious injuries in a runaway accident. The father was driving from his home near Weston, to Neola to visit his daughter who lives there, and when nearing that place his team ran away. Among injuries were a number of broken ribs. At midnight Thursday night Mr. Klopning was apprised by telephone of the accident and started morning left for Neola. Rev. A. H. House, pastor of the First Congregational church at Danvers, Mass., arrived here Saturday on his way home from a trip to the Pacific coast, accompanied by his mother who had been living for a time with relatives in Utah. Rev. Mr. House is a brother of Dr. J. T. House of the Wayne State Normal faculty, and spent several days visiting that gentleman and family, re-suming his journey home yesterday. It was his first visit in Nebraska in seventeen years. The mother remains here until August when she will visit a son at Peru. John T. Bressler and Phil H. Kohl arrived home Saturday evening

THE GIRL GRADUATE

In school, academy and college she forth the modest culture girl her lovely head so stuffed with knowledge it fairly brags her treasures out. We all lean back in admiration when she stands up to make her speech, the finest product of the nation's education...

They will be happy when wading to the knees in gurg and piling dead on every shore, each moment growing scarier? It's madness systematic now, the very king will trifle his plow for something he can slaughter with, that there the harvestists used to grow, red Death is stalking to and fro, pale Famine, his dread daughter, with? If I were king, I would fight, I'd surely be better off, I'd surely be better off, I'd surely be better off...

MODERATELY GOOD.

A load of water will never hurt you, if modestly it's borne, it's faintly rich who's too angelic for week days, makes us mourn, The gloomy mortal who by a chorle or joke is deeply vexed, the turgid person who's still disburin' the precept and the text, is dull and dreary, the mocker who wears his hate to see him come, oh, gent so pious, please don't come nigh us—your creed is too blamed high! The saint who humbles, when some one stumbles, that man's forever lost; it's but a song of grief, his words are all a frost. Not what we're saying, as we go straying down this tinnish globe, not words or phrases, though loud as blazes, will gain us hard and robe. It's what we're doing, what we're purposing our course with other kites, that will be counted when we have mounted the ladder to the Gates. A drink of water to tramps who totter with weakness in the sun will help us better than text and letter of what we're doing, what we're purposing our course with other kites, that will be counted when we have mounted the ladder to the Gates.

THE IDLE RICH.

I'm fond of coin, but I don't itch for it, being the rich, who have long green to burn their wealth, could not well employ, for I could never much enjoy the bone I do not earn. Oh, every coin of mine is just with honest, rich transparent sweat, until it has been dried; it represents no treasure, no hoard, no "smoot's" pump and pride. I grind my anthem mill at home, and every time I make a pome, I take in fifty cents; I get more pleasure building in this hard-earned, sweat, stained green, than do the wealthy agents. Their coin comes easy as the rain, it represents no stress or strain, no toil in shop or den; they use their wealth to buy and sell, like taking water from a well: the hole fills up again. We do not value much the thing which, like an everlasting spring, wells up, year after year; if you'd appreciate a bone, you have to earn it with a pome, and soak it with a tear. I'd rather have the rusty dime for which I labored overtime, and sprained a knee or slat, than have the large and shining luck that Fortune handed me, or Luck; get wise, rich lad, to that.

THE CHERRY PIE.

In joyous June man casts his eye on the blushing cherry pie, and feels that life is not in vain, that destiny is safe and sane. In June the roses hold the gaze, and fill with

MELANCHOLY DAYS.

The melancholy days have come the saddest of the year, when you determined to be glum, produce the flowing fear, when you refuse to see the joys surrounding every gent, and thus discount other boys, and sit up discontent. A grand fellow will travel far and long before its work is done; and it will cure the hopeful song, and spoil all kinds of fun. Men start downtown with buoyant tread, and things seem on the boom, when you come forth with blistered head, and fill them up with gloom. There'd be no melancholy days, our lives would all be fair, if it were not for melancholy days who always preach despair. We'd shake of every kind of grief, if Jonah didn't come, the pessimist who holds a brief for all things on the bum. So if you really cannot rise above the sob and wail, and see the azure in the skies, and hear the nightingale, let some dark cave be your abode, where men can't hear you howl, and let your comrades be the toad, the raven and the owl.

THE FIGHTING NATIONS.

"Another nation takes up arms, and trades its peace for war's alarms, and all of war's atrocity; why do all countries wish to scrap and thus incarnadine the map? They have a sense of paucity. The latest comer to the fray is welcomed with a "Hi, hoory!" Come out! The more the merrier! The foe has come, that should be spilled, and heads of men who should be killed, no dig in like a terrier!" The farmer leaves his fields of grain, his useful labors, safe and sane, the smith becomes a warrior, from every trade and helpful art, for crimson tints the new depart, who, with more the sorrier, that all the nations of the earth, that they forsake all things of worth, and think cent the sunny days; all kinds of roses I endorse—he has the soul of a miser. In these, when the roses fine when by the garden paths—they shine. But when to cast per tacks we get, and sift the facts already yet, we must admit the rose is not the kind of fruit that hits the spot. When we have appetite to burn—let them for cherry pie we yearn. The gods who roost up there on high must often long for cherry pie, for canned ambrosia has a taste reminding one of recent paste, and drinking nectar from a cask must be rather dreary. Since the lighter would wish his eye, if he could swipe a cherry pie, the kind old-fashioned wives produce, and revel in its crust and juice! The cherry pie, just slightly tart, the nobler work of modern art. Since I'm a kid, and am doted the pleasure of new June bride, I'll think of love no more, but I will have a nice June cherry pie.

THE EARLY DAYS IN TWO COUNTIES.

From the Wayne Herald, July 5, 1894. Mrs. P. M. Northrop entertained the Monday club in honor of Mrs. M. C. Wilson of Stanton, Mo. Miss Mabel Morgan was given a surprise party by her girl friends in honor of her birthday anniversary. Rev. H. H. Millard delivered a Fourth of July oration at Wakefield. A strike of railroad employees caused irregular train service. Wayne celebrated the Fourth of July. Judge Norris was the orator of the day. A picnic was held at the Henry Woodson of Stanton, Mo. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fuller entertained a party of friends and relatives in honor of their crystal wedding anniversary. S. D. Relyea and J. J. Ditz went to Hartington on their bicycles. A. C. Brown of Stanton, Mo., was a member of the senior class of the normal college, died July 3 of pneumonia. The little daughter of G. Joynt and son of Larkin, Kas., visited her sister, Mrs. Henry Key. The Wayne band and a crowd of Wayne people were in Wisner the Fourth of July. From the Ponca Journal, July 4, 1884. W. F. Norris left for Wayne yesterday, where he will orate for Waynites today. Notwithstanding the difficulties of getting the corn started, on account of poor seed, many being obliged to replant in many cases more than once, the crop looks healthier, thriftier and is farther advanced now than at this season in the previous half dozen years. The stalks tall and strong and promise an abundant crop. What looks well, especially old ground. The straw is not heavy but the heads are large and plump, and if they fill

NO. 1 Hard Oats are doing very well and will make an average turnout. The potato crop promises a good yield if the vines can withstand the ravages of the bugs, which are reported more numerous in some localities than they have been before for years. Ponca is a good wheat and corn market, also an unrivalled hog market, and first rate butter and egg market. Recently it has blossomed out into a chicken market with fluctuations in prices. The following incident will show: A few days ago Mr. McQuaid noticed three chickens passing across his lot and made the remark that he wished he could sell them. Whereupon, Phil Beller asked the price, and being told that it was ten cents, handed over the money. Beller then caught the chickens and immediately sold them for $100. Thus you see how rapidly the price of the fowls advanced. Beller was ahead on this little transaction 90 cents. In a day or two Mr. Stough called and claimed that McQuaid had sold his (Stough's) chickens. Mr. McQuaid then paid Stough $100 for them, thereby getting 90 cents behind in the game. Thus in the fluctuations and vicissitudes of the chicken market, it is seen that what is one man's loss is another man's gain.

SAVINGS SERMONETTE

Number Eight THRIFTY WOMEN Marriage is a partnership in which husband and wife share responsibilities. The wife is as important as the husband, at least we wouldn't care to suggest to the well ordered housewife that she isn't, and the net income of man and wife in the well-regulated household usually belongs to both. The wife who has a fixed income for household purposes is in very much the same position as the woman who earns a weekly salary, and should manage to lay aside a fixed sum each week in the Savings Bank, and so help to make provision for the future needs of herself and family. It frequently happens that a thrifty woman, unknown to other members of her household, will manage to save a dollar here and there where a man could not. Many a family has been carried over periods of misfortune by the foresight of the wife and mother.

the second wet and cold period just after the eggs had hatched.

This was highly destructive to the insects; they seem to be unable to withstand wet and cold weather when young. Now there is but little possibility of damage being done. In some localities the bugs may be quite numerous and in those sections it would be well for farmers to safeguard their corn and other late crops. Of course, it is too late now to keep them from injuring the wheat. In dry weather the dusty furrow harrows are effective in checking the migration of the chinch bugs from the wheat to the cornfields. If the weather is wet it is necessary to use oil, creosote or coal tar in the furrows. About one barrel of oil is required for eighty rods of furrow. The furrows should be made immediately after harvest, or sooner, if the bugs begin to migrate before that time.

It's the Soap Not the Name That Counts

Lots of people think of soap merely as a cleansing agent. They see that it removes dirt, and that is all they do not think. Be careful of the soap you use. Never use soap with free alkali in it. Always be sure that the soap you buy will accomplish the purpose for which it was intended without harmful results. When you want a medicinal soap, an antiseptic soap, a bath soap, or a shampoo wash, get it at our store and you secure exactly what you want. Our soap knowledge is at your disposal.

RAIN AND HAIL OVER NEBRASKA ON FRIDAY

Omaha, June 20.—With heavy and continued rains again Friday night over about all the country from the lakes to the mountains, the Omaha roads are finding themselves somewhat crippled and at the same time the farmers of the winter wheat and corn belt are crying for dry weather and sunshine.

According to reports to the railroads, portions of Kansas and Nebraska were not only drenched by torrid rains but also by hail today, but by destructive hail storms.

Friday night, Galtenberg was in the path of a hailstorm that covered an area some two miles wide and 10 to fifteen miles in length, northward into Nebraska.

At and around Holdrege in Phelps county a destructive hailstorm passed over a large area of country early in the evening, beating crops into the ground and doing considerable damage in the towns.

At Superior in the extreme south part of the state there was a heavy rain all night and about 4:45 o'clock in the morning hail commenced to fall, continuing incessantly until 5:30 o'clock.

Out in the country, east and west of Omaha, according to railroad reports, the storm was as severe as in the city. Great damage was done to farm buildings and many young calves that happened to be in the open at the early hour at which the storm passed over were killed.

With about all the passenger business that they can accommodate under normal conditions, the trains of rains have played havoc with the railroads. They are all moving their trains but not on schedule.

The Beatrice branch of the Union Pacific down into Kansas is out of commission on account of the high water in the Blue river. At Stockport the track is under water, while in the vicinity of Manhattan, Kan., the extent of the damage cannot be ascertained as telegraph communications have been cut off with the Kansas division.

At and around Holdrege the water is the highest in fifteen years. Several washouts are reported in this locality and a number on the Wyoming branch. East of Superior, two miles out of track was under water Friday night.

APPRECIATING AMERICA

Herbert N. Casson: What is the matter with the United States? As I have been residing in London since the beginning of the war I have been hearing this question asked on all sides.

Why are the American factories not running night-and-day? Why are the railroads not opening up new territories and getting ready to receive millions of immigrants who have already made up their minds to leave Europe as soon as the war is over?

Why are there no city American drummers in London right now, trying to sell $200,000,000 worth of American goods in place of the goods that were bought last year from Germany and Austria?

Why does the United States know so little about the world? If I could afford it, I would charter the Mauretania and Olympic and convey a party of 5,000 American advertisers to Europe for a trip of education.

I would let them look at the United States from the scene of war. I would give them a look at real trouble. I would let them see trains packed with the maimed and the dying.

I would let them hear from fragmentary survivors, the incredible story of battalions—150 miles wide, and armies that are greater than the entire population of Texas.

I would let them see graves 100 yards long and full—and Belgium the country that was nothing new but 12,000 square miles of wreckage. Then, when they began to understand to some slight extent the magnitude and awfulness of this war, I would say to them:

Now go back and appreciate the United States. Realize your opportunities. Don't start digging trenches when nobody is firing at you. Don't fall down when you have not been hit. Don't be blind to the most glorious chance you ever have had in your life.

Get ready for the most tremendous business boom that any nation ever had. Build your factories bigger. Train more salesmen. Borrow more money. Go ahead and thank God that you are living in a land that is at peace at a time when nearly the whole world is at war.

Restored to Good Health. I was sick for four years with stomach trouble. writes Mrs. Olga Casson. I was so weak that I almost faint and felt so weak that I almost gave up hope of being cured.

Notice of Administrator's Sale

In the District Court of Wayne county, Nebraska. In the matter of the application of William Koepke, Administrator of the estate of Fritz Botel, deceased, for leave to sell real estate.

Notice is hereby given that in pursuance of an order of the Hon. Asson-A. Welch, Judge of the District Court of Wayne county, Nebraska, made on the 31st day of August, 1914, for the sale of the real estate hereinafter described, there will be sold at public vendue to the highest bidder at the south front door of the court house in the city of Wayne, at 3 o'clock p. m., on the following described real estate:

The south-half of the northwest quarter (54 NW 1/4) of section thirty-one (31), township twenty-five (25), north range three (3), east of the 6th P. M. in Wayne county, Nebraska. Said sale will remain open one hour, and said land will be sold subject to a mortgage for $10,000 bearing 5 per cent interest, due July 1st, 1916.

Terms of sale: One-third cash and balance on three years time with 6 per cent interest, secured by a mortgage on said real estate. Dated at Wayne, Nebraska, this 17th day of June, 1915. Administrator of Estate of Fritz Botel, Deceased. J174

In the County Court of Wayne County, Nebraska. In the matter of the adoption of Ruth Marie Von Beulwitz, a minor child.

All persons interested will take notice that on the 10th day of June A. D. 1915, Herman Jochens and Ann Jochens, filed their petition for the adoption of one Ruth Marie Von Beulwitz, that said matter will be heard by the County Court at the County Court room in said county on the 12th day of July, A. D. 1915, at the hour of 9 o'clock a. m., at which time and place objections to said proposed adoption will be heard.

It is further ordered that service of this notice be had by publication of same once each week for four successive weeks in the Wayne Herald, a newspaper printed and published in said county.

Witness my hand and official seal this 16th day of June, A. D. 1915. (Seal) JAMES BRITTON, 1714 County Judge.

SHERIFF'S SALE

By virtue of an order of sale, to me directed, issued by the clerk of the district court of Wayne county, Nebraska, upon a decree rendered therein at the September, 1914, term thereof, in an action pending in said court wherein James Blair, plaintiff and C. N. Anderson and Jane Anderson, were defendants, I will, on the 22nd day of July, 1915, at 3 o'clock p. m., at the door of the office of the clerk of said court, in the court house in Wayne, in said county, sell to the highest bidder for cash, the following described real estate, to wit: The northeast quarter (NE 1/4), of section eighth (18), township twenty-six (26), range one (1), east of the 6th P. M., in Wayne county, Nebraska. To satisfy the aforesaid decree, the amount due thereon being $11,162.46 with interest at 10 per cent from September 8, 1914, and costs and accruing costs.

Dated at Wayne, Nebraska, this 15th day of June, 1915. GEO. T. PORTER, Sheriff. J175

ALLEN, NEB., WOMAN ESCAPES THE KNIFE

For years Mrs. L. H. Jeffrey of Allen, Neb., suffered from serious illness. She had dangerous stomach derangement.

Mr. Jeffrey learned of May's Wonderful Remedy. He investigated. He wrote to the man who had used it. Assured of the absolute safety, he gave a dose to Mrs. Jeffrey. The help it gave him is told in a letter he wrote to a Sioux City druggist.

"I wish to say a few words in commendation of May's Wonderful Remedy for what it has done for my wife. She has been troubled with gall stones for several years. I saw George's advertisement of the wonderful stomach remedy, so I sent for a bottle. It gave her relief. The dose was so large that I was afraid to give it."

"I wrote to J. F. Myers of Book Street, Sioux City, and he wrote that it was perfectly safe. My wife took it with very satisfactory results. She has had no more of a cough or gall stones. She got some more to complete the cure."

May's Wonderful Remedy gives permanent results for stomach, liver and intestinal ailments. Eat as much and whatever you like. So more distress after eating. Pressure of gas in the stomach and under the heart. Get one bottle of your druggist now and try it on an absolute guarantee. If not satisfied, your money will be returned.

How's This? We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. It is guaranteed to cure. Price 75 cents per bottle. Sold by all Druggists.

BETTER OUTLOOK FOR CATTLE

Wallace's Farmer. Cattle dealers in the corn belt, speaking generally have been hard hit during the last winter. They laid in their herds a year or more ago, and before the war began, paying around seven cents and over per pound. They confidently expected, and especially after the war opened, a spread of two cents which would justify them in feeding, and they were not wrong. They figured that corn and hog would maintain about normal prices. The war opened, with its great disturbance in ocean transportation and the great depression in business, men being able to buy breadstuffs at thousands. Then came the great advance in the price of wheat due to war, and the sympathy here advanced in the price of corn. Feeders soon saw that there was to be very little of any profit in feeding cattle this winter, just on the heels of the outbreak of the war came the foot and mouth disease, which the Department of agriculture permitted to spread over a large section of the cattle country before it really washed out. Somebody "blundered" some where just who or when nobody yet knows. After the extent of the spread of the disease became public, a good many people became afraid to get their, not knowing anything about the disease. Still, it is evident there would be no profit, but heavy loss, a loss which has crippled some pretty seriously, and particularly feeders in sections under quarantine, who when the quarantine was partially removed, were obliged to ship their cattle to the quarantined sections, where the packers, with natural heartlessness, promptly took about a dollar a hundred of the price. This was a steal, pure and simple. Verily, those were dark days for the farmer. Still, the evidence shows the farmers must largely depend in the future, as in the past, for a market for their corn.

When things come to the worst, they begin to mend, and there is a brighter outlook for the stockman and cattle feeder. The market for hogs is immediate, but also the remote future. The price has advanced very considerably, so that those who are putting their cattle on the market now and have not been required to feed them to near-weight and over-feeding, may make a little profit. The demand for live cattle to the armies of France has begun, and will no doubt continue; for France has for some time been removed her duty on the coast.

At how long this war will continue, no one knows. It looks now, though it would be a long and bitter contest, drawn out until the nations of Europe are exhausted, and the farmers who have lost sons and the crushing burden of debt ahead, will compel the governments of the various nations to stop and consider terms of peace. It looks that way now, but no one knows. One thing is certain, however: After this war is over, the cattle stock of all Europe will be very greatly reduced. Careful as they may be to save their best heifers and continuing feeding, nothing they can do will keep up the cattle stock, and Europe will have to be largely relocked. If we had an open range west of us, as there was thirty years ago, there would be no trouble in producing almost any desired number of cattle. But this has been cut up by homesteaders and dry farmers until large sections of it can not be used, and we can not expect to grow cattle as cheaply in the future as we have in the past. Therefore, cattle will not be multiplied so easily as in former days.

Therefore, so far as the human eye can see, we are likely to have some prices for beef and pork and mutton and wool and tanned skins for a number of years to come. The men who last winter were so disgusted with the failure of the government to control disease and the extortion of the packers and commission men, that they resolutely were making up their minds to quit, and quit it they did, and now their pastures have made a mistake, as we warned them they would at the time. The human stomach is always like beef, and vegetarianism is not likely to get such a hold on the public as it is now. There is no use of food, it can not be grown so cheaply as in the past, and there will be profit to the experienced feeder, who will keep on in the future as in the past, following practices which he has found to be profitable, and which has not changed because of one year of adversity. The farmer does not quit growing grain because a hail storm has destroyed his crop. He does not quit growing corn because in a year of deficient rainfall he has had half a crop, or because he has soft corn from deficient heat. He keeps right on in the even tenor of his way, guided by his experience in the past.

DISCREET PUBLISHERS.

Hartington Herald: It is becoming customary among the better class of newspapers to use some discretion in regard to the advertisements they print in order that the public may be guided to some extent in their buying. A person who has confidence in a newspaper should be able to say, "this newspaper carries an ad for such and such a product, that it must be a good place to trade," or "I do not find an ad of such a firm in this paper; there must be a reason for it," and thus have a valuable guide in the selection of stores where he is going to trade. It is not an easy matter for a publisher to refuse good money for any kind of an advertisement, but it becomes his duty occasionally to do it. If he knows of reasons why he can not conscientiously recommend any place of business as a safe place to do his trade for such and such a product, it is his duty to refrain from his duty if he does not warn the public of that fact.

Bilious Attacks.

When you have a bilious attack your liver fails to perform its functions. You become constipated. The food you eat ferments in your stomach instead of digesting. This inflames the stomach and causes nausea, vomiting and a terrible headache. Take Chamberlain's Tablets. They will tone up your liver, clean out your stomach and you will soon be free from all fermenting in your quarters. Obtainable everywhere. Adv.

BEAUTY OF GREEN GRASS.

Omaha Examiner.—One of the charms of the man who owns an individual house is the production of a flourishing and well grassed lawn. In the aggregate an enormous amount of effort is expended in this task. It all pays, for nothing gives a neighborhood such an appearance of refinement as well trimmed grass. A dwelling may have a profusion of lovely flowers. But if the grass around the house and beds is untidy and untrimmed the whole effect is disorderly. The beauty of the flower-seed seems almost to attract attention to the disorder or lack of grass. Pretty lawns are not found only in the wealthier quarters of a town. There are one expects them as a matter of course. They represent largely the effort of the hard-working people. Many mechanics will get out on their lawns before breakfast, moving and weeding, or work on them after supper until dark. Frequently one sees the wife separating the lawn mower while the man is gone to the shop. The production of a good thick, grassy lawn is not always easy, even if the supply of water is sufficient. In many soils the grass must be sown and seeded with constant fertilizing, seeding and tilling. A quart of grass seed may produce but scattering, reluctant and isolated spears, while the dandelions and other weeds grow with malevolent and insolent ease.

most always affects the neighborhood. It tends to make real estate more valuable as far as its influence extends. There are few people who are content for long to keep an untrimmed, thin and weedy lawn adjoining one that is carefully tended.

SUMMER ADVERTISING.

Omaha Trade Exhibit. One of the questions concerning retail advertising is discussed in Chicago next week is the time for advertising; that is, is it better to extend the greatest amount of money and effort when the season is naturally dull or when the season is naturally brisk.

It has always been a tendency on the part of retailers to come in strong with advertising during the holiday season and to hold off during the summer months, on the theory that the summer is the time when people spend more money during the holidays of the winter than during the hot days of summer.

But people spend some money during the summer; in fact, quite a considerable amount, and there is really just as much reason for advertising then as in the winter. Many men who claim to have made a study of the topic say there are many more persons who merchants should advertise when business is naturally slow than when it is naturally good. For any pain, burn, scald or bruise, apply Dr. Thomas' Eucletic Oil—the household remedy. Two sizes 25c and 50c at all drug stores. Adv.

neighbor, or do people wish you would move out? Can you leave a good impression with them? Are you an efficient talker? One of the most delightful and pleasant arts is ability to talk intelligently and agreeably. Are you an efficient husband and father? Are you able to command the respect of your wife and children? Are you an efficient animal? Do you get the best results from the food you eat? How do you stand in the neighborhood in which you live? Are you efficient as a Hives, eczema, itch or salt rheum sets you crazy. Can't bear the touch of your clothing—Doan's Ointment is fine for skin itching. All druggists sell it, 50c a box.

When you return to the old home town for a vacation you naturally expect the home paper to say that you have been doing well in a business way.
