NUMBER TWELVE

BY AN EMINENT DIVINE.

An eminent divine once said: "The man who has a bank account, even though it be small, always walks more erect, and has a larger measure of self-respect than the man who has not. He should not a bank be as sacred, and a contributor to manhood, as well as a church. Why should not a banker be a minister of God to the people equally with the priest or teacher? The man who has his neighbor to a home is a builder of altars, whose incense is fragrant with the odors of heaven. No man can afford to waste.

"It is worth a lifetime of scrupulous economy; in the evening of life, one can be spared but one own beside. The reason so many are friendless, and so many families homeless, is, the price comes too high. To sacrifice habits that neither enlarge one's scope of vision, nor brings any permanent joy, to the average man a burdensome task. The time to begin sacrificing is at the entrance into life."

Morning worship every Sunday at 11 o'clock. The subject of the sermon next Sunday morning will be "The Man Whom God Called a Fool," Luke 12:20. Christ was unfolding some of his great truths to His disciples and a vast multitude when he was suddenly interrupted by a man, who had been wronged out of his share of an earthly inheritance. He now appeals to Christ for redress. He wants Christ to play the part of a small attorney and get his inheritance restored to him. This Jesus deliberately declines to do indicating that he has come into the world for higher work than worldly arbitration. But Jesus does far better for the poor man than he had become a lawyer for him. He wears him against covetousness and indicates that "A man's life consisteth not in the abundance of the things which he possesseth."

To DRINK UP the reason he retains a hangover about a certain rich man whose whole concern was to multiply his possessions, but who is surprised by death while doing so. He leaves his wealth behind him, and enters the other-world utterly poor. By his parable Christ impresses upon the mind of the man that a spiritual inheritance is of much more value than a worldly inheritance.

Union services will be held on the Court House lawn Sunday evening at 7 o'clock if the weather will permit.

Luther League will be held in the Sunday school room of the church after the Union service.

The Ladies' Aid society will meet at the home of Mrs. Christ Flohrs, on Thursday of this week.

All attend the vesper services at the court house lawn at 7 o'clock. Every member of every church should support these union gospel meetings.

All who have received one of those cards come to the prayer meeting next Wednesday evening and receive another card and invite another person.

We can have good prayer meetings if you will engage in earnest and honest prayer and lead obedient lives in answer to our prayers.

Parents who have son or daughter to send to college, and young people who are to choose their college, will do well to make choice of an institution of "predominating Christian temper and influence—Evangelical." A topic we should discuss is a school curriculum imbued with spirituality. If this were secured the whole social and political situation would be changed, and all good and desirable reforms would follow in train.

FARMER NEAR WAUSA TAKES HIS OWN LIFE

Wausa, Neb., July 19.—A. A. Holmes, a farmer living nine miles northeast of here in Cedar county, committed suicide late Saturday evening by shooting himself in the head of the wound. It is believed he was prompted by financial difficulties to end his life. He was in Wausa Wednesday and bought the rifle with which he shot himself. He was a teacher and was living with his mother. He had formerly lived in Plattsmouth and the body was taken there for burial.

Several years ago one of his sisters committed suicide by shooting. About two weeks ago Holmes told his mother that Sunday, July 18, would be his final day.

FOUR POUND HAILSTONES.

Premont, Neb., July 19.—Hailstones weighing four pounds fell on the George Huffman farm near Ames Sunday forenoon, according to Huffman, who says some of the icy spheres, the acorns fields in that vicinity were ruined and the corn crop will be almost a total loss.

"The damage in the vicinity of Premont is not as extensive as first thought. The storm came from the northwest to the southeast and a mile north of the town there was no damage. The northwest part of the county escaped.

Several hailstones were washed out of Hooper and scattered south of Fremont and Magnan bridge northeast of Hooper across the Rikhorn river is closed to traffic on account of damage to the approach. The North-eastern tracks in the vicinity of Hooper were damaged by the high water for the third time in a week Sunday causing delay to trains. Many fields of wheat that had been cut are flooded.

POISONED CANDY

Lincoln, July 20.—"Here this is for you and nobody else," remarked an 18-year-old youth in gray trousers as he dismounted from his wheel in front of 920 H street, and handed Mrs. James Myers a box of chocolates of well known manufacture.

She was resting on the porch a moment preparatory to leaving on her usual Sunday excursion to the state hospital to visit her husband who is in a ward there. She got nothing more about the youth but unwrapped the candy and took it up to show her aunt.

Laughing at the insinuations of her aunt that it might be poisoned Mrs. Myers ate a piece. She quickly exuded a strong odor of perfume. Another piece followed. At the third piece she began to feel a peculiar burning in her mouth and throat. She left the last morsel half eaten and went into the yard. The burning increased.

In alarm she told her son, Carl, about the sensation, and he called the police. By the time they had arrived with Dr. N. O. Reynolds, a city physician, she was very ill and lying in her room.

After officers and the physicians worked with her with emetics and a stomach pump for two hours she rallied and fared.

Over the phone this morning she said she was all right except that her mouth and her throat were terribly sore, so that it interfered with her talking.

There is no clue to the poisoner.

SENATOR PHIL H. KOHL FOR GOVERNORSHIP MAY DECIDE TO ENTER RACE

Sen. Phil H. Kohl of Wayne County, Nebraska, reports following his visit to the Capital City last week.

Senator Phil H. Kohl of Wayne county returned from Lincoln last Friday may decide to enter the contest for the democratic nomination for governor next year according to reports from the capital city following his visit there. It is understood he will decide to make the race if the present governor concludes not to run for a third term. Location is considered in favor of Mr. Kohl. The north part of the state has never had a candidate for governor. While it is true that Governor James came from Dakota City, he was not elected to that office, but was elected secretary of state and succeeded to the governorship on the impeachment of Governor David Butler.

The Omaha Bee of Friday and Saturday contained the following article regarding the prospects of Senator Kohl as a candidate.

Lincoln, July 15.—Senator Phil H. Kohl of Wayne, president pro tem of the last senate, is in the city today conferring with democratic leaders regarding his candidacy for the democratic nomination for governor.

Should Governor Morehead make up his mind the demand is such that he should accept the nomination for a third term. Senator Kohl will not be a candidate. However, should the governor absolutely refuse to allow his name to be used in connection with a third term for governor, Senator Kohl will get in the race.

He said today he was receiving numerous letters urging him to come out, and so he came to Lincoln to see whether the nomination would make the race or not. It is pretty well known that a third term does not appeal to the governor. He has his eye on the senatorship and it is not thought he will consider anything but that.

Lincoln, July 16.—The advent of Senator Philip Kohl of Wayne into the political field as a possible candidate for the democratic nomination for governor, depending upon whether Governor Morehead will be a candidate for a third term, created a "democratic political stir" in the city. It is reported that Mayor Charles Bryan of Lincoln is going to attempt to hold that nomination himself. There are also reports that the present governor enters the field for the gubernatorial nomination there will be a concerted attack on the part of opponents of the "peace prophet" on the Bryan benches, and that the Bryan friends will find their strength in their efforts to take the governorship.

Judge Thomas of Seward has been maneuvering around Lincoln hobnobbing with democratic politicians for several days. The judge is quiet when it comes to discussing his activity at the present time, but some venture the opinion that Seward county may have a candidate for the democratic nomination when the next battle begins.

If the political mixup in the democratic ranks can only be fixed up the valiant but very much worried followers of Thomas Jefferson are of the opinion that they can hold, but just how to fix things up between Mr. Bryan and Senator Hitchcock has not been divulged by anyone.

The probable appointment of a brother-in-law, Tommy Allen to the district attorneyship and the bumping of Judge Tibbets as postmaster of Lincoln, in the minds of a large number indicates that the president is going to give Bryan what he desires in an effort to lean him legal to the democratic administration.

Senator Hitchcock's followers say that the appointment of Allen is not fixed and that the turning over of the postoffice job to Tibbets is only a temporary affair, which will be knocked galley west when Hitchcock goes to Washington and gets the ears of the powers.

WHY BRUNER WAS CHOSEN Letter of explanation written by Dr. Wm. E. Carr, pastor of the Hartington, Nebraska, July 12, 1915.

Dear Editor: My friend, A. H. Crescey, Esq. has asked me to explain through the papers the action of the committee appointed by the Governor to select a citizen of Nebraska for special honors at the Panama-Pacific exposition. I told him I would explain through the local papers, in Lincoln for such explanation is necessary. There are seven eleven named on the committee. Eight were written. The writer offered a resolution which was adopted without amendment. This resolution provided that we take an informal or nominating election, especially to discuss the candidates. It was received, and on the informal ballot, it did not take the committee long to fall into line. The whole proceeding from start to finish, culminating in the election of Bruner, did not last to exceed one hour.

The reason for the election of Bruner are not hard to give. We were called upon to choose a citizen of Nebraska distinguished in statesmanship, literature, science, art or invention, etc. That was the way it read. Now the committee looked at the matter this way—agriculture is the basis of all civilization. Nebraska is the most distinctively farming state in the American Union. If there is any branch of science that deserves recognition above all others in this state, it is agriculture. Lawrence Bruner is the professor of entomology (science of insects) at the agricultural college at Lincoln. He is the man who can tell you what snakes should not shoot, and can tell you just how you yourself can protect your farms from destructive insects. Eighteen years ago Argentina, South America was overrun with locusts. The Argentine government called on our government for help. Our government sent Bruner down there and he remained there two years. In South America, the name of Lawrence Bruner is as great as the name of Pasteur in France. There are only two entomologists in the world that rank with him.

Lawrence Bruner is an American born German; fifty-nine years old. In religion, he is, an exception among scientists, for he is, not an agnostic, but a devout and orthodox Lutheran. He has lived all but two years of his life in Nebraska. A. W. B. Bruner.

HOW TO LIVE.

(Bixby in Lincoln Journal.)

The human body is a wonderful piece of machinery, the product of destruction and reconstruction going forward almost simultaneously.

It is not only highly important that material for a rebuilding of healthful tissues be supplied in regular and abundant quantities, but the waste must be promptly disposed of or serious trouble is sure to follow.

Relieved excreta of every sort develop poisons (toxins) that promote all manner of distempers and result in the untimely taking off of more than two-thirds of the human race, outside of those killed in wicked and useless wars.

Nature has provided splendid means for conserving health, but we overlook the observance of hygienic regulations, trusting if anything goes wrong in the vital machinery, to chemical poisons, of which we know nothing, administered by those who must guess at results.

Fifty persons were taken to the Bayonne hospital and the rioters paraded. The injured include both rioters and guards.
Crowd Attacks Guards.
It was stated that the guards did not fire but were pelted with sticks and stones and had fired a number of pistol shots. Then the rioters responded with a round from their revolvers and the three men were wounded. The crowd then advanced on the rioters and Inspector Daniel Cady who is in charge of the police at the plant, followed the attack called on Fire Chief Albert Davis for assistance.

RECEIVED A LOW BOW.

go scribbles and sitting down, did full justice to what was set before him. Next day he signalled his intention of departing and ordered a carriage when to his astonishment, a carriage and four down to come with him to his destination. He inquired with some apprehension what he was to pay for all this grandeur and was so answered: "I had been invited when he received a low bow and the answer: 'Nothing whatever, your royal highness.' He was not so thoroughly mystified, but the next night on looking at his boots, which he had bought in London and before he had been to Dover, he found 'H. S. H. the Prince of Orange' written inside them. They had been originally made for the prince, who was then in England, and for the hand of Princess Charlotte, and notice had been given that all his expenses in the country should be paid down to the charge of the government.

The End In View.

If you mean to get nobly and seek to know the best things which God hath put within the hearts of men you must put your mind on that end and not what will happen to you because of it.
George Eliot.

The Wrong Car.

There is the old story of the man who boarded three cars, only to find that he had boarded the wrong one. He wanted a fourth in a high state of irritation, he waxed a terrible profane in his conversation with the conductor. A severely pious-looking old man sitting near the door overheard and remarked a little sharply: "You are in the wrong car, but you are on the road to perdition!"
"Well, if I'm not on the wrong car again" was the retort of the unabashed passenger.—Every Week.

Not Infallible.

The new system of memory training was being taught at a village school, and the teacher was becoming enthusiastic.
"Let us see," he said, "addressing the bright pupil, 'in order to fix a thing in your mind you should conjure up some sort of picture in your mind's eye, remembering that the English word that you are on the road to perdition!'"
"Well, if I'm not on the wrong car again" was the retort of the unabashed passenger.—Every Week.

BE A BOOSTER.

George Groshnick was once singing the long conductor's song in "Soldier in which he sang of his refrain, "Soldier I to myself said 'I was something ought to be at the back of the stage. Groshnick himself wasn't aware of the occurrence, but he wouldn't see the sign that he was there and turned their backs on him.
At the same moment the stage manager shouted from the wings to Groshnick: "Don't stop singing! Go on, go on!"
Groshnick immediately grasped the situation and sang—
"Soldier I to myself said 'I was something ought to be at the back of the stage. Groshnick himself wasn't aware of the occurrence, but he wouldn't see the sign that he was there and turned their backs on him."

San Francisco, July 20.—Theodore Roosevelt, former president of the United States, was given an enthusiastic reception on his arrival here to-night from Portland, Ore.
The colonel was a central figure of the ferry boat that carried him across the bay and a big and noisy crowd met him at the ferry depot.

"SNAKE SCARES CROWD."
Newman Grove, Neb., July 21.—There was quite a commotion Tuesday when a big snake was taken from a crowd of several hundred people who were on the street at that time. Some of the women went into hysterics, while the men talked about the snake.
The snake had been taken from a show that was exhibiting here.

ALLEN, NEB., WOMAN ESCAPES THE KNIFE

For years Mrs. J. H. Jeffrey of Allen, Neb., suffered from serious illness, had dangerous stomach derangement. Mr. Jeffrey learned of May's Wonderful Remedy. He investigated. He wrote to a man who had used it. He assured of the absolute safety, he gave a dose to Mrs. Jeffrey. The help it gave his wife is told in a letter he wrote to a Sioux City druggist.

Uncle Walt The Poet Philosopher

E. Z. MARK.

We ask him to invest in town the cash he has to spare, he offers such propositions, however, with such a happy air: "Your money, local enterprise," remarks this lofty gent, looks pretty lulling to my eyes. It won't pay six per cent. I won't unlock my treasure chest for less than six per cent. When I have money to invest, I want big dividends. And so sends his cash away (with big results in view) for silver mines in far Catboy on hills in Timbuctoo. He has a limited collection of clover, upon the Wall Street play; he's buying Greenland orange groves; and earthquakes in Japan. Oh, anything that's far away, that's booming by unknown sharks, looks bigger than a load of hay to all the P. Z. Marks. His one large pile is dwindling fast. "I will soon have moneyed hence; and soon he'll find the dismal past, and wish he'd had some sense. Meanwhile my heart's on my mill, and every day and night, and we are putting in our till the doubletons, clean and bright."

Tired Business Man.

The business man is tired with tears in his eyes and the rest he's long desired is still stepping him. His worries has upon to be a public wheeze, and grief marks him for his own, and will not give him ease for all his wishes he has a chance to run him down, and deliriously put his leg for kopeck, yen and crown. Is there a scheme on deck to paint railway tracks? The merchant's shapely neck is first on the feed line. Is there a kindly man to send the poor some ducks? The weary business man must chuck up seven bucks. Is there a project big to sign the village pump? The business man must dig deep for the village pump. He has a heart for an excellent theatrical fable, devised by Jack of Jill, the business man must take some trouble from his till. The hoboes in the jail must have a Christmas tree; oh, business hand, let the hoboes get out and free! A widow needs a pup, to keep the tramps away, oh, merchant, loosen up, be liberal today! A rool creature in the county poorhouse needs one day of business man, shall you do it for him? The business man must fall for every such demand, his back against the wall, his checkbook in his hand.

THE SPORTING LIFE.

The farmers sadly rattle off soggy felts and wet, and say: "Our job's a gamble, none knows which way to bet. We think we have a reason for planting oats and cherries, but we don't think the season will boost such kind of crops; and then they send wet weather a deluge and repeat, and we cry all together: 'We should have planted wheat.' Our warfare is exciting, most exciting, as life up a farm! Talk not of stress and danger, of battlefields and fights, before the barred granger, of dreadful days and nights! If he could pump his battle, he could pump a rest, he'd think the quiet, charming, a spell he'd earned so well. In shooting fogs or strangers there is no mental strain, like that endured by grangers who fight the drought or rain. This is the best and the most snug in packing round a gun, as in a fight that's costing the farmer all his money. This farming is a scramble for goals we seldom win, a hazard and gamble, a scandal and a sin.

THE EMPLOYERS.

The men who do the heavy toiling, when flies are bad and heat is boiling, are often plucked in grief abiding, they think their fate is sad and dismal. They are struck with the wintry days, that fortune favors their employers, who wear glad rags and ride in motors, and look with scorn on sweating totes. But they who wear the purple raiment, with a bow and arrow, and make the payment, have griefs to burn, as well as fellows who wield the sledge or pump the bellows. They hurn the midnight oil and wonder how in the name of patent medicine, the most of men, in a pack of cards, they keep the damned old business going. They're jotted now by Wall Street Spotters: how will they pay the honest toilers, who envy them their lot so easy, who live in quiet dignity, they're jotted. The whistle blows; the man of labor, goes home to gossip with his neighbor, to smoke his pipe, tell stories, funny, and cure all capital and money. Oh, how we forget, what'er their sphere is; we should not envy them, a brother, but sympathize with one another.

THE DIZZY DAUGHTER.

Mary Jane, you dizzy daisy, what storm near Irvington and between the rain and six or seven inches, were the damage done. One of the buildings were burnt. Small washouts occurred from the heavy rain between Nebraska and Hooper, delaying trains for several hours. Bridge is Washed Out. The rain fell in tremendous proportions in this vicinity about 6 o'clock Sunday morning. A bridge east of town on the C. & N. W. R. R. was washed out and the creek which it spanned was over its bank for the first time this season. The water now down the country roads east of here is big streams but the hail which accompanied the rain did no damage. The rain and hail were preceded by heavy wind but no damage is reported in this vicinity. The damaging hail and rain around Fremont and Irvington, which exceeded those places about 10 o'clock Sunday morning. Omaha, July 19.—The first hail storm of the summer in Omaha was the worst for many years visited this city shortly before noon Sunday. Although it lasted but fifteen minutes, it left in its wake a toll of damage that will readily run into thousands of dollars. According to the information available the storm reached its crest in Iowa from Sioux City to Bellevue. Three sections of the city appear to have experienced the heaviest of the hail, these being Jackson and Central. Farman street, where the stores, the size of hens' eggs were reported, and the vicinity of Lake Manawa, where the greatest damage was done. Greenhouse Damage $40,000. The five greenhouses in Council Bluffs was damaged to the extent of $40,000. Following a forenoon of threatening weather conditions the storm struck Omaha at 11:30 a. m. and first began falling from the first and in the downtown sections the stones varied in size from that of a pea to nearly as large as a hen's egg. The hail was soon accompanied by a torrential fall of rain and soon thereafter there were running creak-deck with water—which soon choked the storm sewers and overflowed into basements in many places. Heavy damage was reported in basements throughout the Farman street district.

OUR NEIGHBORS.

The words of the philosopher—yourself, is what the Grand Book teaches, to lay your hatreds on the shelf, and think all people neighbors. To such a height we cannot soar, such precepts we're defining. We do not love our man next door and waste, and effort-seeing. He has no more grievous faults that love could n'er abate; when, and ordinary language fails them, we'd enumerate them. His sins are measured by the yard, his sins are measured against his neighbor. We are all neighbors, we have to be exclusive. We're always looking for the sins of those who live around us; we say they bruise our moral skins, and worry and confound us. For their virtues, we are lifted, and in their faults we're screaming; we seldom look about to find their qualities receding. If we would turn ourselves to look for sinners in 'other halves, and not our own, we'd see a whole lot of sinners. We'd see a whole lot of sinners, we'd see a whole lot of sinners, we'd see a whole lot of sinners. We'd see a whole lot of sinners, we'd see a whole lot of sinners. We'd see a whole lot of sinners, we'd see a whole lot of sinners.

WM. FLEGE GOES TO PRISON.

Ponca, Neb., July 16. Sheriff Mankell yesterday morning took William Flege to the state penitentiary at Lincoln on charges of burglarizing a farm in the vicinity, made a hard fight against conviction, twice securing a new trial at the hands of the supreme court. The third effort to acquit the prisoner was unsuccessful. Flege has spent most of his fortune in fighting the case. He was convicted on circumstantial evidence and strenuously denies his guilt. It is probable that crops will be sacrificed for a pardon as early date.

NORTH NEBRASKA HIT BY HAIL ON SATURDAY

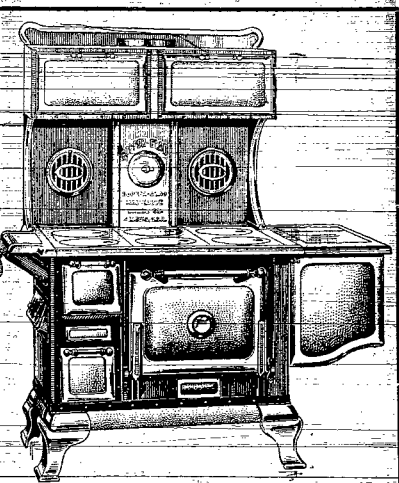

Creighton, Neb., July 19.—Three hard and windy storms and a solid hail have caused damage to crops near Creighton. A heavy hail storm about 10:30 o'clock Saturday morning destroyed the crops in a strip of quarter of a mile wide and about eight miles long, just west of the city. At the Joe Huignets farm all the windows were broken and some of the siding stripped off on the north side of the house. Crops in the path of the storm were beaten down and will be practically a total loss. In fifteen minutes 7 of an inch of rain fell. Saturday evening and Sunday morning there were severe electrical storms accompanied by heavy rains.

Heavy Storm Near Fremont.

Norfolk Daily News, July 19. Damaging hail, rain and electrical storms Sunday morning caused havoc with crops and buildings in Norfolk. Several fields of corn were cut to pieces around Irvington and some oats fields were laid flat. Lightning struck the tower of the Northwestern passenger depot at Fremont and dislodged several long iron rods worth of damage. Dr. Stewart of Cedar Bluffs, Neb., who was standing on the depot platform was struck in the leg by a falling brick and sustained a slight wound on one leg. The hail storm covered a wide territory between Cedar Bluffs and Fremont and a large section around Irvington.

Wagon Broken in Train.

"Who did you tell?" "The clerk and the doorwalker and everybody who would listen to me."

"The impudent creature! I'll never buy a pair of gloves there again."

"That's just what I said," Pinkerton put in. "I said you never would."

"What did they say to that?" "They implied again."

"Well, that settles it. I never will buy anything there now. Where are the gloves?"

"Let me have them, please. Sold, indeed, I'll take it if they are."

"Mrs. Pinkerton unstrapped the package. As she took out the gloves she blushed slightly."

"What?" "Why, I've bought a pair of gloves."
