LONG SCHOOL VACATIONS.
Norfolk Daily News. All over the country colleges have been thronged with students for summer courses here, where schools have been running about as usual, music pupils have been studying music and private educational institutions of all kinds have continued their work. And all over the country the public schools have been closed for three or four months, great and costly educational plants have been lying unproductive, the continuous progress of instruction interrupted and millions of children left in compli-boy's illness to roam the streets or bury their distracted parents.

The long summer vacation is rational enough in the country, where boys and girls have to help with the farm chores in the summer. In pioneer times nearly all school children had such duties. But is that a sufficient reason for turning present day children into school for a quarter of a year in the cities? Few of them have any vacation duties. Few of them need so long a rest. Most of them develop into a temporary nuisance to their families and communities, when the term of the past year fades from their memories and the power of mental application ebbs away.

A month's vacation would probably be far better for city schools.

CHURCH CALENDAR

Methodist Church.

(Rev. A. S. Buell, Pastor.)

The union services closed Sunday evening with a sermon by Rev. S. X. Cross in the Baptist church.

Brother Cross gave a splendid message on the power of personal influence in the everyday life.

There was a good attendance, and a general feeling of worship.

Rev. F. E. Blessing of the Lutheran church was not present owing to an attack of grip.

There has been an element of uncertainty in the open air meetings this summer on account of the unusual cold and wet weather making it necessary several times to go to one of the churches for the service, but notwithstanding that fact the services have been pleasant and helpful.

We are glad for the vision of the Christian life which enables us to be loyal to our own church while we live to love every other church that exalts our Christ.

Beginning next Sunday each church assumes its own regular evening service. There will be regular preaching service each Sunday at 10:30 in the morning followed by Sabbath school.

In the evening the Epworth League will meet at 7 o'clock in the building.

Prayer meeting on Wednesday next Sunday morning will be "Com-mem-ation." For the evening the subject will be "Elijah on Mt. Carmel."

Remember the prayer meeting every Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. Get the prayer meeting habit. We had a splendid prayer meeting service last week. We expect to have another next week.

Will you share it with us? Vacation time is over; let us all find our places next Sunday in church, Sunday school, and Epworth League, and take hold with a will for the new year.

Have you decided what you are to give on the benevolences? Brother C. A. Grothe is treasurer of that fund. Do not fail to report to him right away. Why not plan to go to the annual conference in Omaha September 22, and attend the evangelistic meetings conducted by Billy Sunday.

You are most cordially invited to attend the church with a welcome for you next Sunday.

Presbyterian Church.

(Rev. S. Xenophon Cross, Pastor.)

United Service. Morning worship at 10:30. Sunday school at 11:30.

Vesper service. The subject of the evening at 7 o'clock will be "The Prince of the Strong." The subject of the address at the evening meeting will be "The Helpfulness of Higher Manhood." Let us make next Sunday a great membership day in the Sunday school and start the season right! A good attendance has been maintained through the summer months. The Y. P. S. C. E. is to be congratulated for the beautiful new year cards being presented to the members of the society. If you promise to come to the meetings, the committee will be pleased to give you a card.

Church giving is a means of grace, and is fully appointed. It is helpful and real. A fine investment of your time. It develops the best powers of the man. But! How easily neglected. Absence from next Sabbath's services will make it easy to stay away the next week. The slightest irregularity in attendance will work serious havoc with a good habit. Then reach for an excuse. We shall find plenty except good ones. Most excuses analyzed mean "I don't want to go." If you will attend church regularly one quarter, you will want to go. Try the remedy. Begin next Sabbath.

Christian Endeavorers notice: There will be a campfire council in Bressler's grove Friday, September 3, at 7:30. All members and those contemplating becoming members will meet at the church at 6 o'clock and walk out together. Everybody boost for a good time.

First Baptist Church.

(Rev. B. P. Rinchardson, Pastor.)

Last Sunday was a good day with us—in the morning and in the evening. The house was well filled. Bro. Cross gave a most practical sermon in the evening. It would have been good to have had every Christian man in town present. He made a strong plea for a longer life of usefulness among Christian people.

Sunday will be our communion service. The pastor will give a brief communion address.

GET IN THE GAME.

(Sixty.)

To all the foolish and the wise— Let dust appear to dust as if you can. The time is ripe to swat the flies. And swat the flies we must.

These insects carry germs to all of our maladies the worst.

If to the same we would not fall, The fly must tumble first.

Seize, then, an instrument of woe And, with each passing breath, Smite till the final farseeing foe— Lies still and cold in death.

SUNDAY LIGHT FROST

HITS THIS SECTION

A light frost is reported to have struck this section Sunday night. But some who have investigated believe no damage was done. The frost was not severe enough to hurt growing corn. It is hoped and believed that September will furnish plenty of warm sunshine, and if that event, with no killing frost until October 1, northeast Nebraska will roll up the biggest corn-crop in its history.

Norfolk Daily News, August 30: A light frost is recorded in railroad reports from the vicinity of Long Pine and on the Albion line Sunday night and early Monday morning, but the reports say that there is nothing that indicates any damage from the frost. The night was cold and the government thermometer in Norfolk showed 37 degrees, only 10 degrees above the freezing point. Warmer weather is promised by the weather bureau.

Coldest in History.

Washington, Aug. 31.—The summer's coldest weather was experienced today over the northern part of the country from the Rockies to the Atlantic and south for some distance. The lowest temperatures ever recorded in August were reported to the weather bureau from the Ohio valley, Indiana, Illinois, eastern Missouri and Texas. In the far west high temperatures continued.

Washington, Aug. 30.—Abnormally low temperatures prevail today over the upper Mississippi and lower Missouri river valley sections and the upper lake regions. In some places, the weather bureau reported today, the thermometer showed temperatures which made records for the month of August. Frosts were reported in many places. In some instances they were heavy and caused considerable damage to crops.

Over almost all of the sections mentioned the temperatures were from 10 to 23 degrees below the seasonal average. The cold came from the Canadian northwest and will reach the east coast, reaching the Atlantic states tomorrow. Frost was predicted as probable.

the heavy wind of Saturday had twisted the corn in all directions and that several fields were badly lodged. Warm sun, however, he predicted would bring this corn around in good shape. One small field about three miles from Norfolk is reported to be badly stripped of grain by hail, but hail damage was not found in any other part of this locality.

Cornstalks Loaded.

Many of the farmers southwest of Norfolk are already finishing thrashing and much of the wheat is still in the shock. The alfalfa crop has been so great that one or two farmers are finding difficulty because of lack of room to stack their hay. The corn is in excellent condition and on a par with that around Norfolk. This field in Fairview precinct are almost over-loaded, the giant stalks carrying two to four ears of well developed corn. In the absence of frost these prospects for farmers here for the biggest corn year in the history of the county.

Several small bridges and culverts were washed out by the heavy rain of Saturday morning. One of the bridges which has been washed out is that around Norfolk. This field in Fairview precinct are almost over-loaded, the giant stalks carrying two to four ears of well developed corn. In the absence of frost these prospects for farmers here for the biggest corn year in the history of the county.

At the Norfolk Cereal and Flour Mills Saturday large shipments of the new grain were received. C. S. Bridge, owner of the mill, announced that the farmers are now facing the turning point and much of the old corn which has been held is being sold. One farmer who has fed his stock on corn for several months finds that he has 2000 bushels of the old crop on hand and with a large yield in view, "It is about to sell this old product."

Says Light Frost Helps Corn.

Frank Tannehill, who has for many years reported crop conditions to the United States agricultural department from this vicinity, reported Monday afternoon from a 300 mile drive around Norfolk for the purpose of ascertaining the true condition of the growing corn.

"The corn is late," says Mr. Tannehill. "For ten miles around Norfolk the corn is ahead of any of that of the entire state of 300 miles. The corn everywhere is in good condition. There was frost Sunday night but just enough to do the corn good by stopping the growth of the leaves and developing the ears. There was no damage from the frost."

Nebraska Corn Undamaged.

Lincoln, Aug. 30.—Reports of light frosts in northern and western sections of Nebraska were received by local weather bureau this morning. The low places were generally affected, but no damage to the corn crop is feared. Small garden truck was slightly injured.

Lowest Since 1887.

Chicago, Aug. 30.—Overcoats and furnace fires were popular here today with the temperature registering 42 degrees. Only twice before in the history of the local weather bureau has the mercury dropped as low in August. This was in 1872 and again in 1887.

Some Damage in Iowa.

Waterloo, Io., Aug. 30.—Heavy frosts in some instances taking the form of ice, were reported in this section last night. The government thermometer here registered 34 above. All tender vegetation, including melons, late potatoes and some sweet corn, is said to have been damaged. Field corn probably escaped damage in this county but reports from the north Iowa counties were that this cereal suffered more serious damage.

Hail Does Some Damage.

Norfolk Daily News, August 31: Friday night's rain, wind and hail did more damage than was at first believed. Fred Schneider, who was in Norfolk from a farm eight miles east of Norfolk announced that as late as Saturday morning the hail stones were lying four inches deep in the vicinity of his farm. The stones were of medium size and the ground was covered with them. He reports little damage in that vicinity, although indications are that it was hit the hardest by the hail.

John Tannehill made a long automobile trip over Madison county in his car Sunday afternoon, covering half of the Nicholas oil territory in this district which takes in a sixty-five miles radius south and southwest of Norfolk. He found that reported from all sides of Wisner yesterday morning, but it was very light, and no visible damage was done to corn or gardens.

Chicago, Aug. 31.—Today marks the passing of the coldest and most unseasonable August Chicago has experienced. June and July were in the same category. July temperatures were 3 degrees below normal; June was 2.5 degrees and August 4.4 degrees under the average.

In summer, according to the weather bureau, there is usually a high barometric pressure around the Bermudas sending warm southerly winds toward Chicago. This year the high pressure has been mostly in Canada and as a result Chicago has had inordinately cool weather.

"Ten Nights in a Bar Room" Teaches Wonderful Lesson.

"Ten-Nights in a Bar Room," one of the most stirring and truthful temperance stories ever written, will appear in this city for one performance, Wednesday, September 15, arrangements having been made with the Terry-Kenyon Terry company to present it. The play is from the pen of T. S. Arthur, the evils of the destructive liquor traffic being well depicted in his drama, teaching a moral lesson that could never be forgotten by following the downfall of the young man that takes for his partner old Satan and the king of all destroyers, "Alcohol."

The presenting company is made up of the very best actors obtainable and the scenic and electrical effects are such that a most complete production is assured, in fact equal to the larger organizations that play the cities, no expense having been spared to make this one of the "best attractions" touring this part of the country this season.

Terry's solo concert band will give two concerts on the main street during their engagement in this city.

It sometimes takes rotgut quite awhile to get in its work but all it asks is steady employment to produce results.

Nine Thousand Acres

NORTHEAST NEBRASKA'S

Richest Land--All the Butterfield Farms

Will Be Sold

The Opportunity of a Lifetime to Get a Farm of 160 Acres or More in This Fertile, Sure-Crop Zone, on Easy Terms; Only Twenty-five Per Cent Need Be Paid Down--Balance Whenever It Suits YOU. Your Chance To Get a Choice Farm

On account of the failing health of W. H. Butterfield, and in order to be relieved of the burdensome details of actively operating almost twenty-five separate farms, our entire group of improved farms in Knox and Pierce counties, Neb., (near Wausa and Osmond), the cream of Northeastern Nebraska's wonderfully productive and far-famed soil--will be sold at once. These are the very finest of farm lands. Every acre of this soil was carefully selected by W. H. Butterfield, who began buying the choicest tracts in Pierce and Knox counties as long ago as 1886. There are no sandy lands in this group. There are no foul weeds on these farms. Every foot of this ground has been kept in the best possible condition by constant and systematic fertilization. Thousands of cattle have been fed on this land, constantly increasing the fertility of the soil. As a result, all of these lands produce bigger crops each succeeding year. This land is a deep, rich, chocolate-brown soil with a yellow clay subsoil. There is no better land in all of Northeastern Nebraska than that which is now offered to you in small or large tracts at low prices and upon unusually easy terms. We will cut any or all of these lands into farms of any size to suit you, from a quarter section up. You can get any of this land with a small payment of twenty-five per cent down and the balance at any time it suits you, the deferred payments bearing 6 per cent interest. ¶ If you ever hope to have a farm of your own, this is your golden opportunity. Never before in the history of Northeastern Nebraska has such a chance as this been presented; probably such a chance will never come again. If you are in business and want to invest your surplus in the choicest of Nebraska land, land that has never known a crop failure, this is the opportunity of a lifetime to pick up an unusual bargain in gilt-edge farm land that has proved its value. ¶ All of the big fortunes of the middle west have been made in investments in good land. The man who succeeds in a big way is the man who takes advantage of unusual opportunities, such as are presented in this instance. ¶ We will gladly show you any of these lands. The earlier you look the bigger will be the selection for you to choose from. At such prices as we have put upon these farms, prices purposely made low in order to quickly dispose of the entire property, rapid sales are sure, so don't delay.

Read What Uncle Sam Says About Northeastern Nebraska Land.

In a bulletin issued by the census bureau of the United States Government entitled, "Agriculture: Nebraska," the following authoritative statement as to quality of Northeastern Nebraska appears on p. 3: "The eastern portion of Nebraska, constituting a broad belt nearly parallel with the Missouri river, lies within the glaciated portion of the Great Plains, and the soils are derived principally from a heavy layer of the LOESS which overlies the glacial till." The LOESS soil formation is found in the United States only in this immediate portion of the Missouri Valley; nowhere else is it known excepting in the valley of the Danube, the valley of the Rhine, and in China. It is the richest and most fertile soil on earth.

Would Roosevelt plunge a whole nation into war and bloodshed in the name of reason, or mechanical play on some way?—It rather looks so.

The Pierce County Leader issued a special booster edition of twenty-four pages last week, and in literary, technical, mechanical, and up and print, its effort is creditable, and should be a source of valuable advertising for the town and county.

The question whether suggests that the time is near at hand when we can talk to Mars may have been prompted by his opinion by evidence furnished by the European war that it is getting near the earth, indicated by the influence for battle and bloodshed.

If Wayne merchants contemplate extra efforts to increase trade and prosperity, they had better start now. It is time to begin doing it. Omaha and Sioux City will soon invite attention from this county. Let Wayne dealers stir themselves, and show people they can do better by trading at home.

As a large majority of property owners are in favor of paving, there is no good reason to delay steps preparatory to the commencement of work next spring. If preliminary details are delayed until spring, another year will pass before the improvement can be made. The Commercial club ought to realize on the sentiment now crystallized by setting at work a law committee with paving in view.

It is gratifying to note promise of continued peace between the United States and Germany. Neither country wants trouble with the other. Germany is in a desperate struggle for supremacy in Europe, and its desperation has not been confined to a neutral and friendly nation. Its realization of a critical situation, and readiness to make amends and avoid cause for future complications will be welcomed by all Americans desirous of continued peace and good will.

HOPE FOR FUTURE.

At this time when a large part of the so-called civilized world is in the throes of a bitter war, the hope is felt that there can be no semblance of competition between the sacrifice of life unless the world, going through a crucible of fire, is permanently lifted to a higher standard of civilization, where love and fellowship prevail, and all enmity and vengeance are banished from the hearts of all human beings. Hope of a change for the better in civilization is suggested by the following word picture by the late Robert G. Ingersoll:

"A vision of the future rises: 'I see our country filled with happy homes, with firesides of content—the foremost land of all the earth. 'Tis a world where thrones have crumbled and the kings are dust. The aristocracy of idleness has perished from the earth. 'Tis a world without a slave. Man at last is free. Nature's forces have been subdued. Lightning and light, wind and water, frost and flame, and all the secret, subtle powers of earth and air are the fearless toilers for the human race.

"I see a world at peace, adorned with every form of art, with music's myriad voices, thrilled, while lips are rich, with words of love and truth—a world in which no evil exists, no prisoner's sorrow, no wailing of the mother whose shadow does not fall—a world where labor reaps its full reward, where work and worth go hand in hand; where the poor girl trying to win bread with the needle—the mother that has called the asp of the breast of the poor—is not driven to the desperate choice of crime or death, or suicide or shame. I see a world where the beggar's outstretched hand, the sinner's heaving sigh, the piteous wail of woe, the livid lips of lies, the cruel eyes of scorn.

"I see a race without disease of flesh or brain—shapely, strong, and functional, and as I look, life-lengthened, I see deeper, loce canopies the earth, and over all in the great domes shines the eternal star of human hope."

LIFE AND DEATH

Help keep Wayne on the map. Get over being peevish by becoming a booster.

If you don't like Wayne and can't help make a better, make one. So act that Wayne will be a synonym for animation and achievement.

If you do nothing for society, you become a barnacle which hampers society. The fewer dead ones in Wayne's commercial arteries, the easier traveling will be.

Generous public spirit manifested in public and private improvements is an effective specific for most organic troubles or mental depressions. It is recommended the world over.

Beulah Wayne was here, but it wasn't worth $5-an-acre. Now it is worth $200 an acre. Is it necessary to tip a house over on a man to jolt his understanding into seeing that?

Then let's join hands and make the town bigger and better and worth still more to the land. Don't leave money as the only key to the satisfaction of your heirs. Enable them to say of you after you are gone: "He was broad-gauged, open-hearted, kindly and generous. He helped liberally in building up this public improvement which we now enjoy. We rejoice that the public shares with us in revering his memory. May eternity reward him."

If you have an all-gone feeling, but no ambition, no desire to speak kindly to your neighbor and dilate on the beauties of nature and the dulcetness of song birds, you need an operation which you can perform yourself, without suffering from a serious form of exclusiveness, selfishness, tightwadness. Your liver is out of order. Flood it with sunshine and then reflect the same all about you, extending hand, hand, and shaking out helpful dollars for public enterprise and public betterment. It is a simple operation.

Wayne has a magnificent scenery. Shapely evergreens studing the closely cropped prairie, add variety to the solemn grandeur of glistening marble shafts, and soft zephyrs caress the inviting hillside, whispering solace and hope to those lingering near. But in the meantime, let us get up and doing. Let us antidote the miasma of mortuary content with the digitals of helpful enterprise. In the meantime let us do something worth while for society, so we will not be forgotten thirty years hence. Just clod like has been stamped in a two-by-seven in yonder hillside of beauty and silence.

RURAL CREDITS

Wallace's Farmer: Under the general term "rural credits" is meant a great variety of schemes, the object of most of which is to enable the farmer to borrow money at a low rate of interest. One plan is to have the government guarantee the local banks on loans of 60 percent of the appraised value. This idea, or something similar, prevails largely in the western states. The result of the adoption of this plan would be the wild speculation in land that was ever dreamed of and an inflation of the currency which could not help but be disastrous in the extreme.

Another plan proposed is for the government to use its credit for the resulting funds to be loaned to farmers on mortgages, these mortgages sold in the open market for more funds and so on indefinitely. This proposition is being advanced by the Missouri legislature and it will require a referendum at the next election before it goes into force. The workings of this will be watched with a great deal of interest. In other states in Kansas it takes the form of the extension into the farming sections of the building and loan associations of the cities. The practical workings of this will be watched with interest also.

Mr. Herrick has been an advocate of rural credit, based on his experience gained as minister to France. He thinks that the result will be best attained by a cooperative bank and he has his ideas of the bank as follows:

"The main use of its funds is to buy farm supplies in bulk at wholesale, to retail to its members at a lower price, or on better terms than they could obtain for themselves, if each were standing alone. In other words, the bank's grand object is to assemble the individual resources of its members and organize and strengthen them. If this is all that the cooperative bank does, or even its main purpose, we really don't see the necessity for it in the corn belt; for many of the cooperative elevators and creameries do this work for their members, not with regard to all their supplies, but with such staples as coal, salt and flour.

Mr. Herrick believes that this bank for the purchase of supplies will be naturally set in cooperative marketing. The marketing end, however, has been fairly well worked out through the cooperative elevators. These same associations, as well as the creamery and other cooperative organizations, perhaps with a little change in their contributions, could be made to serve the same purpose, that Mr. Herrick hopes to secure through the cooperative bank.

Mr. Herrick voices his objection to the western type of farm credit associations in the following: "Government aid is the rock upon which the cooperative movement has been dashed. Particularly in this case with land credit. The bills which have received most attention in congress provide for state aid, tax exemption and other privileges to such a pronounced degree that if any of them became a law, it would set the farmers apart as a class by themselves. To be pampered and sponsored at public expense and, consequently, to want bring down upon them the enmity of all other classes."

Undoubtedly there must be some kind of cooperative movement, and we believe that such a movement is the only one that can be successful, but it will have to vary with the varying conditions in a country of such varied and diversified interests. Credit banks of the German and Irish type succeed in Jewish farm colonies in New England. They would be an utter failure in the west, because the farmers would not submit to limited or unlimited liability for the debts of the association, not to supervision by a committee as to what the individual did with the borrowed money.

In many sections of the corn belt, land loans can be secured at satisfactory rates from banks and insurance companies. In the older sections, banks are furnishing credit to those worthy of it at as low rates as allowed to business men. What is needed most by the farm folk is better methods of disposing of their minor products, and this can not be accomplished until, in the first place, they learn to standardize these products.

...all this we have simply been trying to give some insight into the breadth of the field covered by the subject usually known as farm credits. We have not been trying to offer any solution, for which the farmers will only be prepared after protracted study and more or less experience, some of it probably unpleasant.

GETTING CATTLE ON FEED. Wallace's Farmer: There 's

likely to be a great demand for feeding cattle this year, in order to find a market for hay that has been damaged by rain until it is not marketable, and for corn that is fit only for silage. Farmers who have a few head of cattle, say half a carload, have not been able to get them this fall even at a big price, because in doing so they would be selling the best customers for their unmerchanted hay. We suspect that a good many men who have not fed cattle heretofore will feed these small bunches of them, and we therefore venture to make some suggestions as to how to get them on feed.

It is a first principle in feeding that the diet of animals should not be too suddenly changed. The temptation will be to keep them on grass as long as they continue to thrive, and then when the grass is done, to put them on corn in grain. In doing this, they will violate what we have long regarded as a first principle in getting cattle on feed. Many farmers think that they can get their cattle on feed in two or three days; more farmers that they can do it in a week. If they will consult any experienced cattle feeder, he will tell them that he takes from three to six weeks to make the change from grass to grain.

The best way we have ever found to get cattle on feed in the fall is to commence when the corn is in the roasting ear stage, and feed them a stack a day to begin with, while still on bluegrass pasture. Increase the feed gradually for three or four weeks. The system will not know anything of the change; there will be no arrest of growth or development, and no intestinal disorders. Cattle that sour, as they are apt to do when put on feed suddenly, do not thrive.

It is an easy matter to change from corn fodder with the grain, stalk and all, to snapped corn, that is, corn with the husk. Even this change should not be made suddenly, but gradually. By and by the feeding process goes on, the change can be made to ear corn, and by to shelled corn, but this change should not be made without first mixing the shelled corn with ear corn. In short, every change should be made from grass to grain, should be made so gradually that the digestive system of the animal will not notice it. This, you will discover, is the way of all experienced and successful feeders.

Lambs are probably the easiest animals to put on feed, and in apparent violation of the principles above outlined, appear, but not really, if you turn lambs into the corn field, you will notice that they pay no attention to the corn at first. They have not learned to eat it. They pay strict attention to the weeds and to any clover to which they may have access. They gradually take hold of the blades, and then of the down ears or ears within their reach. They thus gradually put themselves on feed as skillfully as any experienced feeder could get cattle. The dog will hold grass, ewes and wethers that have learned to eat corn. They will soon break it down; but it is quite safe to put lambs into a corn field, particularly where there are plenty of weeds, as will be the case in most fields this year.

IN THE NAME OF RELIGION.

Bixby in Lincoln Journal: For the love of heaven, what things are going on in the name of religion. Here comes the advance man of the Sunday aggregation who instructs the ministers of Omaha as to what will and will not be expected of them when the fight is on. The most man in solemn phrases the stipulated goose-step pace behind their leader. They must not deliver sermons in slang while he is in the city; nor call him "Billy," nor assume to be his superior in any terms with him. If any coarse language is to be used he will use it himself. The local preachers are to understand; if they never did before, that they are pawns and not major pieces in the game of the big Sunday in the big tabernacle. Probably the advance man knows what he is talking about, but your Uncle as allowed to business men. What is needed most by the farm folk is better methods of disposing of their minor products, and this can not be accomplished until, in the first place, they learn to standardize these products.

There are a great many people visiting the two expositions, but they are spending very little money. Voget says, "Hard times are evident all over the west and the contrast when the borders of Nebraska are reached, he says, is very great. Voget says the prosperity of Nebraska is recognized on the western coast and the prospects of great crops in the middle states is being discussed. Voget went to Wayne Monday and expects to open his conservatory here for the season on September 6."

GREAT TEMPERANCE DRAMA COMING SOON.

Terry's "Ten Nights in a Bar Room" is the most successful of its kind in the city with its assistants and made arrangements for the performance of this well known play, to give one performance in this city Wednesday, September 15, securing the Tots near Anderson's ice house, to place the company's mainman who is a professional actor, and which is claimed to be the largest carried by any traveling dramatic company having a seating capacity of over two thousand people.

For the past twenty-six years Terry has been foremost in the production of "Ten Nights in a Bar Room" and this year are even bigger and better than ever, now requiring two sixty foot Pullman cars to transport the enormous amount of baggage, trappings and other necessary apparatus that is used in the stupendous production of "Ten Nights in a Bar Room."

Two free band concerts will be given on the main streets by the Terry Challenge Band of sixteen pieces, and no doubt will be a big attraction show-day.

Remember the time, see that all tickets read "Terry's."

MR. BRYAN THEN AND NOW.

Lincoln Journal: When Lincoln people are traveling in other states they are invariably asked questions concerning Mr. Bryan. How does he stand at home? Is he going to run for the presidency again? Is it true that he is worth a million? And so on. Nothing is so grand as a republican more than to hear about the fame of Mr. Bryan and to realize that he is a man in more advertising than all of the rest of the city's attractions combined. After partisanship died down a bit the republicans began joining with the democrats in saying a good word for our distinguished fellow citizen and in openly rejoicing in his fame and personal popularity. The travelers are beginning to come back from their summer journeys this year, and they bring news about Mr. Bryan. The resignation has put a dent in his popularity that no one of his most devoted friends can overlook or deny. All they can say is that his voice is only temporary and that he will be back on the next wave again, just as he always has in the past. But there can be no doubt that the feeling just now is unfavorable and in many localities bitterly hostile. It is there—is a returning sentimentality to well as well it would be interesting to hear his report.

Lawrence People Well Pleased with Terry's "Ten Nights in a Bar Room."

Terry's shows have visited Lawrence for the past ten years and always played the large houses whether they played the theatre or were in their tent. The shows that they have presented here have always given the best of satisfaction, and the people connected with the company the most agreeable that we have ever had the pleasure of meeting in the theatrical profession. This year's presentation surpasses anything that has ever appeared under the well known Terry banner, that of the old temperance drama, "Ten Nights in a Bar Room."

This play made famous from the old days of the temperance movement, has just been presented in the main tent theatre being taken and many standing wherever space could be found. The performance must have pleased judging from the close attention that was shown throughout the action of the performance, and the hearty applause that was manifested. Another criterion is the number of people that spoke so very highly of the show after seeing it, and the fact that every one remained seated until the final curtain. Probably all the temperance workers, ministers and other societies that work for the uplift of the down-fallen have not done any more good than the moral temperance lesson that was interpreted in the play last night, and we heartily endorse its success and long life.

The presentation was correctly given with all the necessary scenic and electrical effects, and the presenting cast were all good, in fact equal to many of the larger city shows.

Terry has not overlooked his musical program in this show, and it is one of the crowning features with the show. The Challenge-Band of 16 men gave two splendid programs in front of Lawrence hotel, and drew rounds of applause from the hundreds of people that were fortunate in hearing them.—Daily Times, Lawrence, Kas.

The big Terry show will present "Ten Nights in a Bar Room" here one day only, Wednesday, September 15.—Don't miss it.
