EDUCATIONAL.
Once more the mills of learning grind, and fill with grist the round of mind. The boys and girls have come from play, to store a lot of facts away in pigeonholes behind their ears, where they'll be found in future years. All patiently the teachers teach the freckled-boy, the female peach, expounding here the A.B.C. explaining there the rule of three. It is the noblest work of all performed on this old mundane ball, this showing kids the path that leads to mighty thoughts and noble deeds. We all know that, and so we pay the teacher, eleven bits a day. We're free with coin to statesmen chairs, who hold down divers kinds of snails; we hand them all the wealth they want, and pay their mileage when they hunt, and all they give us in return is eloquence and wit to burn. But hand out decent living pay to country teachers, how way! It is the custom of the land to sweat and strive that useful hard!

BALMY PEACE.
In nearly all parts of the world the death-dealing miasma is hurled; but here, on our shore, the cannon don't roar, and the flags of the captives are furled. The farmer is threshing his hay, and storing his pumpkins away, and shucking his oats and shearing his sheeps, improving the bright Autumn day. The housewife is baking her pies, awaiting the Hogging dinner, and over her head is no shadow of dread, no terror or fear in her eyes. Oh, here in our fair country, the blessings of peace still abide, it has windows of grain and no windows of fire, no blood-drunken soldiers here ride. In peace we can harvest our rice in peace on our cucumbers we lie, in peace we can sit by the fire-side and knit in peace we can marry and die. All eyes had the miasma explain, "The peace we enjoy is a pleads, "Judge not my sins, but judge me by my deeds. I'll cut more wood, and keep more buckwheat warm, than any dude who is the mousetrap of a human being, by having a man appear; they view the whiskers that conceal his ears, the tangled hair that forms a messy rug, the shirriff front stained with juice of nasy plug; the coat that needs a soaking in the trough; the wretched fumes that from their smokers' hobs, and they exclaim: "Get hept! Sklad! Sklad! Sklad! We have no place for such a ho as you!" True words, twelf in careless, slovenly chaps, that they must carry heavy hand-cans.

THE MONEY GOES.
Poor father-often has the blues, the stricken soul within him groans; the children need eight pairs of shoes, and he has only seven; hence, the boys and girls have to scrimp down with flossy guesses, scraps and tucks; he'll send her shopping through the town, but he has only seven bucks. The boys are all in need of suits, to clothe their shapely limbs and trim necks, and he himself wants fudger boots, but he has only seven plunks. The blizzards from the arctic pole will soon be rolling down upon us, when can he buy second coal when he has only seven cents? And there are taxes for gas and bills for prunes and bills for hay, and bills for puffs in window class. Expenses face him every-where, what wonder if grief-father sighs, when he wonders if his face is sour, when he has only seven chips? But somehow he will do the trick, and feed the tribe that on his cans, for good old father is a brack, although he has but seven beans.

GAY SHIRTS.
With stripes of yellow, blue and green, the kind of shirts we're wearing now would jar the antlers from a cow. Who are the gay and giddy firts who hand down fashions in men's shirts? Do they wear brains from side to side, or are they merely color blind? When I lag down the village street, I wear sane shoes upon my feet; my outer garments all are mild by freaks of fashion under shed, my hips an unassuming one, my collar smooth, approaching dun. My fags don't shock the public eye, I am no rainbow in disguise. But modest folks feel pained and hurt when they behold my screaming shirt. "Since when," they ask, "O shirt! soul, have you become a bar-tender's pole?" "Since I have got fashions in the town. She'd rather see me lying dead and planted where the daisies spread, than wearing garments out of date, and hence this shirt, whose hues I hate. West-gaudy stripes and gorgeous bars, and purple dots and yellow stars, my shirt is cutting lots of grass, and nurses are shying as they pass.

COMPLAINT OF ALFALEA.
Wallace Farmer: A good many of our readers who are getting only two or three tons of alfalfa per acre would do well to remember that alfalfa is as hungry for lime as a pig is for good, rich slop, or as the growing farm boy is for buckwheat cakes and sausage gravy on a cold morning, or for extension on a hot August day. In fact, it is useless to expect a profitable growth of alfalfa on an acid soil. This is also true of red clover or any other clover and especially vetch clover.
These three years ago an Indiana farmer wrote us about putting a field in alfalfa. He followed our suggestions, and the next year sent us samples of alfalfa which for growth far exceeded anything we had ever seen. His explanation was that after a depth of four feet under his level black soil there is a layer of oyster shell or clam-shell. The alfalfa had gone down through it, and was luxuriating in lime. An Illinois farmer through his alfalfa field, on which he had applied lime, happened to pass along over several spots on which the alfalfa was some inches higher than immediately around it. These were the places where the ground limestone had been slumped from the wagon before spreading it with a shovel.
Alfalfa is hungry for lime, and the best way to apply it is in the shape of ground limestone. On account of the acid character of the soil, it can be obtained without any great expense in almost any part of the corn belt. (We take some pride in having helped to induce the Iowa railroad to agree to the rate on crushed limestone.)
Don't hesitate to put on lime, even if you are not growing alfalfa. We suspect that many of the failures in growing clover, of which farmers often complain, are due to the fact that the land is deficient in lime. There was at first sufficient lime in almost all the glaciated soils (not in all of them, for the glaciations are somewhat unlike in that respect). But thirty, forty or fifty years of farming have washed the lime out of these soils. We will have to keep on applying it for all time to come at the rate of a couple of tons every four or five years, if we expect to continue growing green alfalfa.

It is hardly worth while to apply less than two tons to the acre. Inasmuch as it can be had in full carload lots at much cheaper rate than less quantities, no man ought to think of buying less than fifty tons, which will cover twenty-five acres. On alfalfa that is inclined to turn yellow and look sickly, it will pay him to put on four tons. You are not in any danger of putting too much lime on your land.

Farmers the country over are just beginning to realize the value of lime. Farmers in Pennsylvania recognized it a half century ago and more. They used slaked lime or burnt lime, however, and used it at the rate of a hundred bushels to the acre—that being "the minimum" amount that could be spread with a shovel. Where lime can be burned cheaply, as in some of the older sections of the country, where wood is available, coal cheap, and a limestone quarry on nearly every farm, that is probably the best way. But under western conditions, buy ground limestone. The finer it is ground the better. Even the eastern states are finding that out, and are getting portable crushers. One will not have to go to a long distance to get crushers wherever there are beds of limestone, and where the soil properly refuses to grow alfalfa or clover unless lime is applied.

Alfalfa is in many respects a peculiar plant and peculiar crop. It is claimed that it is so. Don't forget that it is hungry for lime. You are not in the least danger of throwing away your money in providing limestone for any land that produces less than three tons of alfalfa per acre, or on which you have difficulty in a normal season in securing a full stand and a good crop of clover.

There came the following letter from Mr. Hines: "I have received the medicine you shipped me a few days ago, and my wife has received so much benefit from it that we have decided to order four more treatments of Mrs. Wonderful Remedy. The result of the treatment so far is simply wonderful. Mrs. Wonderful Remedy gives permanent results for stomach, liver and general ailments. Eat as much and as late as you like. You are aging a little when you begin to appreciate a good night's sleep. A woman thinks she could support a family by keeping a cow if only one would support the cow. Some men are always threatening to run someone out of town, but are afraid of their own shadows.

WAKEFIELD

J. H. Mitchell is in Norfolk this week serving on the federal jury. Mrs. Grace Long was the guest of Miss Bessie Bieth and Dakota City friends Sunday. Fleetwood and Marion left Tuesday for a two weeks' visit with the former's parents at Stromsburg. Vivian is being entertained in the Mathewson home during their absence. Alice Ebersole underwent an operation for appendicitis at the St. Joseph's hospital in Sioux City Saturday. This makes four of the Ebersole family who have been operated on for appendicitis within the past few years. The Epworth League held a ladies' social at the home of S. E. Mills Friday evening. Chas. Beebe won the prize for the worst dressed man and Miss Rubidge for the most appropriately dressed lady. Needless to say a good time was had by all. The teachers of the Presbyterian Sunday school entertained the scholars and their parents in the church basement Friday evening. Charades, a spelling bee, and other games furnished the entertainment. The refreshments were served. The members of the Sunday school brought their birthday pennies to go towards the support of the leper boy in Siam.

While here Mr. Huff rented the John Schallus farm for the coming year and will move to Wayne county next spring. The Ladies' Aid society of the Grace church met last Thursday with Mrs. A. C. Dean. After an excellent picnic dinner the ladies spent the afternoon sewing for a bazaar. Visitors at dinner were James Baird, George Patterson, Misses Julia and Matilda Granquist. The young people's class of the Grace church gave a picnic roast at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Van Norman last Friday night. In spite of the threatening rain there was a good crowd and the young people were pleased to have the receipts amount to over $16. The double wedding party, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Rennie and Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Melburn, returned from a visit in Omaha and Lincoln last Wednesday and gave the Brennans a merry chase Saturday night. Six automobiles conveyed twenty-one from Brenna to Pilger intent on a charivari. Arriving at the James Rennie home a crowd was informed the wedding party was at the Carey home. From this home they were sent to Patterson's home to be told the newly weds had been gone "just fifteen minutes." Undaunted the Brenna crowd separated.

Telephone Rate Problems

To give good service it is essential that our telephone plant should be well constructed, kept in good repair and efficiently operated, and that extensions and improvements should be made from time to time to take care of new patrons.

Our telephone rates are as low as possible and yet pay living wages to our employees, pay our taxes and other expenses, and finally earn for our present stockholders enough interest on their investment so we will be able to get new money for extensions and improvements.

Telephone Costs Going Up

For some time the price of telephone equipment has been increasing and in some localities there has been a feeling that we should pay higher wages or allow shorter working hours.

These conditions have made it a serious problem for this company to get enough money at the present rates to pay expenses and earn a fair rate of interest for the men and women who have their money invested in the property.

THE MOST IMPORTANT TIMELY HOUSE DRESS

New York, Sept. 29.—On Monday housewife, be she wife or married, do not prepare breakfast in a ribboned and be-ribboned morning robe, or dinner in a passe afternoon frock. She delights in her trim, smart, short-skirted, sleeveless, developed in some fresh material which may be tubed every Monday morning. Her hair is drawn back daintily and she is cleanly and often confined in the privacy of the same material as the housewife, to protect the hair from heat or cooking odors.

The Material of the House Dress. Gingham, chambray and crepe are the staple fabrics for these dresses, but someone who desired to simplify matters still further, decided that plain white cotton or quaker starched gingham or chambray, that soft, white cotton crepe, which washes so easily, requires no ironing, does not wrinkle, and is fresher looking, was more practical for these dresses than the old-time fabrics which require starch and careful laundering.

These smocks are fashioned of dark blue linen, chambray, duck and similar materials, often trimmed with smocking in contrasting thread. They are especially practical to slip on over an afternoon frock when there is some slight task to be performed, which might possibly result in a spot or stain on the gown. The woman who delights in regarding a picture frame or bric-a-brac on a piece of furniture, will also find this convenient as they are easily slipped on in a somewhat heavier material than the regulation apron and, therefore, offer more protection.

Bungalow or All-Enveloping Apron. These large all-enveloping aprons, also, small part in the housekeeper's scheme of things. Crepe is being used considerably for these aprons, but gingham still holds first place. This is a garment that requires a bit of ingenuity to make it look fresh. Percale-striped, or patterned in some conventionalized design, is attractive, too, and there are a number of other wash fabrics, such as duck, for instance, that are used.

Pockets and Trimmings. Large, roomy pockets are features of both dresses and aprons. They come in very handy for carrying a dust cloth, a short handled duster or wash broom, pair of shears, or some other article to be used in various times during the morning. Besides being useful, they break the severity of the dress and render it more becoming.

Buttons are used to trim these dresses, too; but they must be a washable button—bone or crocked Pearl buttons, which are not removable, are apt to break when the garment is laundered. The large pearl or bone buttons, however, the shanks of which may be slipped through buttonholes, eyes secured with a bar and removed when the frock goes to the tub, are the height of the practical. The skirts which unbutton from belt to hem and may be laid out flat on the ironing board, is another laudable feature.

Another way to brighten the house dress without making it fussy is to pipe the neck edge, armholes, cuffs, down the front and around the pockets, with the contrasting bias tape. This comes in linen or cotton in many attractive colorings; also in stripes and checks, and makes most effective trimming for both dresses and aprons, also for children's wash dresses. It may be purchased by the piece, comes folded, ready for use, and being bias, may be applied readily to armholes and neck edges.

Detachable Sleeves. With never a thought of the washboard or the flat iron, one of our big dressmakers, in the early spring designed a dainty tennis coat. This costume had a huge detachable sleeve on one side for tennis balls, and detachable sleeves that the sleeves were arranged to button on to a drop-shoulder, they could be removed when playing and buttoned on again when the game was over. It was a pretty notion, and a highly practical one for the tennis girl; it was still more practical for the housewife and the reality has become decidedly popular with a permanent and promises to find a permanent place in the wardrobe.

Practical housekeepers are obliged to climb a ladder now and then to hang pictures, drape a curtain or drape, or reach a glass of jam on the very top shelf of the cupboard, and there's what a nuisance a fluffy petticoat is! Along comes the efficiency expert and designs the trouser skirt. House and trousers, which resemble a pair of overalls, are joined together; there is an outside skirt worn in the ordinary way, which may be omitted for freedom of action—no pads, no buckles, no wide waist.

The Pantalike Skirt. Practical housekeepers are obliged to climb a ladder now and then to hang pictures, drape a curtain or drape, or reach a glass of jam on the very top shelf of the cupboard, and there's what a nuisance a fluffy petticoat is! Along comes the efficiency expert and designs the trouser skirt. House and trousers, which resemble a pair of overalls, are joined together; there is an outside skirt worn in the ordinary way, which may be omitted for freedom of action—no pads, no buckles, no wide waist.

The Middy or Dress Apron. When there is strenuous work to do, and ironed when desired. This is, perhaps, one of the most sensible costumes of the year. While it is ideal for the house, it is quite as good for the out-of-door girl who wishes to amount to something for walking, boating, and like sports. The idea may be carried out attractively in the dance frock: the pantalettes being fashioned of fine fabrics to correspond with the frock.

FROM COAST TO COAST. A Remarkable Chain of Home Testimony. And Wayne Adds Its Voice to the Grand Chorus of Local Praise.

From north to south, from east to west, in every city, every community, in every state in the Union, Rings out the grateful praise for Doan's Kidney Pills. "I have a representative" people in every walk of life.

Publicly testify to quick relief and lasting results. "And it's all for the benefit of fellow sufferers."

In this grand chorus of local praise Wayne is well represented. Well-known Wayne people tell of personal experiences. Who can ask for better proof of merit?

CHILDREN'S GARDENS. Omaha Examiner. The child garden movement that has been started in so many places was for a time something of a joke. The children may have planted the vegetables and flowers, but the parents brought the fertilizer, had the ground spaded up, and were apt to do most of the weeding. Afterward they were supposed to pay the youngsters for the vegetables thus produced.

few days ago went through the children's gardens in a town of some 7,000 people. He gave a hasty glance, to perhaps half the plots and remarked that those he had seen contained products worth at least $100. Evidently, when the fall harvest is completed, these youngsters had added several thousand dollars to the wealth of that town. It was almost out of time previously spent at aimless plays. "It is a joke no longer," he said. "The American boy is not trained to work. He receives regular tasks, he is compelled to locate weeds while bearing the yells of the neighborhood boys over in a back lot, his soul revolts at the gross injustice of the world and the heartless cruelty of his parents."

But the modern American child is a pretty mature little creature. He is perfectly capable of raising a profitable garden if he is to have it. He is a good many boys today taking strolls in the woods and fields, and school prizes for amounts of vegetables raised the past summer running up into the hundreds of dollars.

The garden movement has made much better progress since the organization and study of the young into clubs. A boy does what his gang does. If his mates decide that raising the biggest pumpkin is just as good a fun as knocking the longest three-bagger, he wants to take a hand in the game.

Does This Old Fossil Know More Than Nature?

Can you realize that your body contains every device necessary for mixing, even manufacturing all the chemicals required for every need?

Nature made a little chemist in your brain that knows more about what is needed in your body than anyone else. It sends out directions and power for every part of your body through the spinal cord. If one of the many little bones of your back gets out of place, it will pinch this delicate nerve fibre and prevent some organ from receiving its particular orders.

Your back takes time to help that particular organ, but until the back is strengthened out and it again receives the full nerve power, that organ cannot perform the function it was intended to.

Chiropractors don't try to beat nature at its own game. Their duty is to put into place any bone of your spine that has been wrenched out of place by unnatural strain.

How Can We Economize

You Can Do So By Using Wayne Superlative Flour

HOW? Store your milling wheat at the Wayne Roller Mill. WHY? You will receive 30 POUNDS of WAYNE SUPERLATIVE and 10 POUNDS of BRAN for a bushel; or 33 1-3 POUNDS of WAYNE SUPERLATIVE and no bran.

Where does the economy come in? Three bushels of good dry middling wheat will get you 100 POUNDS of WAYNE SUPERLATIVE. Today such wheat is worth 85 cents per bushel; three bushels would cost $2.55. Can you beat it for economy. If you have no wheat, let us buy it for you; store it with us and use the Flour when you need it.

The European war is still on. Can anyone foretell where prices will go.

Want to Save Half Your Coal Bill?

How much money did you spend for coal last year?

Let us say you spent $40. If there was a way in which you could buy that amount of coal this year for $20, you would want to know about it, wouldn't you?

We can't sell you coal for half price, but we can tell you how to heat your entire home perfectly this winter at half the expense of last year's fuel.

With a FAVORITE BASE BURNER you can heat every room in your house comfortably on the coldest days, and do it with less fuel than is possible with any other heating stove.

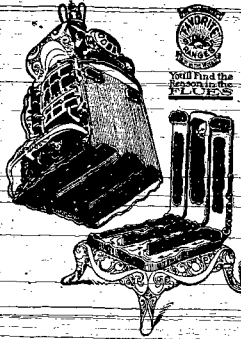

WHY?

Because the Favorite is the only base burner that pours heat into the room from every square inch of its surface.

It gets every atom of heat out of the coal and throws it all into the home. None goes up the chimney. Your home is warm and comfortable on blustery, icy-cold days when with any other base burner your wife and children would be huddling in a frozen group around an apparently inactive stove.

In the triple exposed flues you will find one reason why the Favorite is such a wonderful heating stove. There are many other reasons. Come and see us and we will tell you all about them.

CHURCH CALENDAR.

First Baptist Church.
(Rev. D. P. Richardson, Pastor.)
Rain greatly interfered with our services yesterday, but we appreciated the presence of those who did come out in the evening. Sunday closed our church year. It is hoped all who have pledged, unpaid, will do their best to pay as they have pledged. Some people look upon their church obligation as though it were a small matter. No other obligation should be more carefully met than that one owes to the church. Jesus never made any apology for speaking of the most important thing. He said that it would cost heavily to follow him. It is impossible to follow him without costing something. A religion that does not cost its possessor anything to keep, is worth just what it costs him. How much does it cost you to be a Christian? How much are you putting into it?

Sunday morning will be the last communion service we shall have together. Let us make it a service of full meaning for each one present. The pastor will give a brief communion talk.
Beginning Sunday all evening services begin half an hour earlier. Young people will meet at 6:30, with preaching service begins at 7:30. Let each one of us help make the Wednesday evening service the best we possibly can. Come next week at 7:30. Be a booster and not a Nebraska. Come to Sunday School at 10:30. Attendance is desired. You will see the notices thereof in all the leading county papers and in the city dailies. Public announcement next Sunday in all churches. Travel onward! Working, singing, and all the things that belong to the trials one is encountering.

"Look ahead, and never mind." The stated fall meeting of the Niobrara Presbytery was held at Atkinson, in the Presbyterian church, September 21 and 22. The pastor of the church of which Rev. Lloyd Cunningham is pastor, Rev. Cunningham has a loyal and active church. They have just completed a fine new church building with modern equipment and are doing a well appreciated work in the community.

The reports from the various committees of Presbytery show marked advancement along several lines during the current year. One of the lines along which the church is urged to work this fall and winter is that of special evangelistic endeavor. Every pastor is urged to hold some special evangelistic services or unite with other churches in such meetings. Union meetings are advised where it is possible to have them.

A decided advance is seen in the attitude of the Presbytery toward church-union. An effort is being made to unite our church work with that of other denominations in overworked towns. Almost every one seemed to be in favor of a getting together of the denominations wherever practicable. About half of the delegates were out and out for federation and the majority of the others for some method by which the particular denomination that can best serve the community in which only one church is needed be given a clear field; other churches withdrawing and using their forces in some other field.

Several pastors in this Presbytery have recently resigned their charges. Rev. Thos. W. Bowen is leaving Elgin. Rev. G. Alburn Swanson is leaving Carroll. These resignations are of course in connection with evangelistic work. Rev. W. M. Seel of Wakefield has resigned, to take effect in about two months. These are all efficient men and will be missed.

The German Evangelical Lutheran Church.
(Rev. R. Moehring, Pastor.)
As the pastor will be away attending synod there will be neither meeting nor Sunday school next Sunday.

"HIGH SHOE DAYS." OCT. 1-2.
Time to Discard Low Footwear—Shoe Dealers Declare That Style Dictates Demands High Footwear—Should Be Worn—Preservation of Health and Greater Comfort Also Important Reasons.

When you step blithely forth to-wal-d your case of business, tomorrow morning, Mr. Man or woman, to do your shopping, look first at your feet.

If they are still clad in oxfords or pumps that have housed them all summer, then take warning.

Better in yourself to the nearest shoe shop and get a pair of high shoes, lest you be made to feel the shame of those who continue wearing low shoes after October 1st.

For October month has been declared the official date for parting on the rumpy, button or lace boot for Milady and the cloth top English or other style for mere man, and discarding the pump or oxford.

If you are a man, you know what the boys down at the cigar store do of the fellow who comes in, about September 15th, wearing a straw hat. He usually goes home without a high kick.

Such a man's method of coming here by cuts, but it is better to be a high kick.

There seems to be a logical reason for the high kick, for the high kick is a logical result of the high kick. Reputable physicians have for years declared that exposure to the ankle in cool weather is a serious factor in the common fall and winter ailments.

The nerves leading from the ankle are person imagines. If you don't believe this, get your ankle guards with a stove poker, hit it across the side of a brick building, knock it against a chair, or let your next-door neighbor kick it.

These sensitive nerves are very susceptible of sudden changes of heat and cold. Rheumatism, severe colds and sometimes even pneumonia result from wearing low cuts too late in the fall season.

Wags will make the change from pumps to high boots. They will put on a new Fall suit and finish the costume with a pair of lace-ups that have evidently been doing service most of the summer. The women will put on their new high boots for this reason.

But most folks will change because their own comfort suggests it. You can never tell in October when a chill that may be coming around the corner to set your ankles a-shivering.

So for more reasons than one, a person wearing low shoes after tomorrow will feel distinctly out of place in the new boots.

Perfection Oil Heaters $2.50 and $5.00 at Carhart's. Flash lights and flash light batteries at Carhart's. $3.00 and $5.00.

"SNOBBISH" IGNORANCE.
Omaha Trade Exhibit: Trade Exhibit has published many articles which advised closer relations between the country retailers and the editors of the country newspapers. One of those headed "Court the Editor" has been published in the Omaha Herald. It was to their own very good advantage to warn to the country editors of their own country to cooperate with them in all possible ways for mutual benefit.

It seems that this same idea and observations along the same lines have come to trade paper writers in other sections of the country, and also in Canada, as is shown by the following editorial from the Commercial of Winnipeg:

"I have been a time and we should to their how near ago! The country editor was a meek and mild creature, who gave one the very same impression that he was very nervous and unconfident in all that he did. His livelihood too often depended upon the bounty of the community which he served zealously and thanklessly. The reason for this rural calamity was the snobbish ignorance of the people."

BEGINS FOURTH WEEK.

Omaha, Neb., Sept. 27.—The Sunday revival meetings have now come into the fourth week of the seven weeks' stay of the evangelists in Omaha. The number of meetings has steadily increased, and the meetings held Sunday and the field of the local evangelistic committee is that the gospel wagon is now fairly well started.

These who hit the trail at the tabernacle are of all ages, and no one has taken the trouble to separate the adults from the young folks. It is safe to say, however, that two-fourths of the 2,500 who have come forward at the tabernacle to give Sunday their hearts are doubtless converts. Only a few of the business men have been on the list, and this has been a constantly increasing percentage of men who are not far from the lower fringe.

Meatly Scratching the Surface.
At that, however, Sunday has not scratched the surface of the people who are not far from the lower fringe. The Sunday haven't lost very many jobs, it is safe to say, but it is also fair to say that Sunday has scratched the surface of the people who are not far from the lower fringe. The Sunday haven't lost very many jobs, it is safe to say, but it is also fair to say that Sunday has scratched the surface of the people who are not far from the lower fringe.

Many Anonymous Letters.
Sunday's great number of letters from anonymous writers giving their opinion of him in uncompromising terms and expressing a desire to have somebody else do the preaching.

From what hill says I glean this thought.
And must with him insist.
The preachers are a lifeless lot—
Who ought to be dismissed.

INDISCREET.
Poor Archibald now is encumbered by fetters.

Preachers generally are an "expensive" bunch, according to the estimate of the great evangelist. They are admonished by the advance agents of his mighty advent that they are to refrain from preaching sermons in slang, which seems to be the only way to attract sinners in his particular age.

And must with him insist.
The preachers are a lifeless lot—

LINCOLN MAN SAVES HIS WIFE

Mrs. Anna A. Dahl of Lincoln Restored Her Husband Given Her Wonderful Recovery.
Death was close upon Mrs. Anna A. Dahl of 1435 P street, Lincoln, Neb. She was desperately ill with serious complications of the digestive tract. In fact, at times she was so ill that she knew nothing of what was going on about the sick room. She recovered most marvelously. The treatment that she had received saved her was given when she was so sick she did not know who she was.

The stomach remedy given to her by her thoughtful husband, was May's Lincolnton Remedy. Mrs. Dahl in a good letter, tells of her experience: "I feel so grateful to you I can't express my feelings as a parent. I will make a great effort to see you personally soon. My treatment came while I was too sick to realize anything but the terrible pain. My husband told me I passed at least a thousand gallstones, of all shapes and sizes. "This I know—I have only taken two bottles and I feel better than for years." May's Wonderful Remedy gives pain relief for stomach, heart and intestinal ailments. Eat as much and whatever you like. No more distress after eating, pressure of gas to the stomach and around the heart. Get one bottle of your druggist now and try it on an absolute guarantee—If not satisfactory money will be returned.

Telephone Toll Rates

Telephone rates should depend upon what it costs to produce the service.

In America we pay double the wages for the same kind of telephone work that is paid in European countries.

Nearly all kinds of telephone material costs a great deal more here than it does abroad.

American Rates Lower

For distances under fifty miles, within which four-fifths of all long distance calls are made, American telephone rates for the same service are much lower than in European countries.

For longer distances and for messages between countries, European telephone rates are from three to four times as high as our rates for the same distance in this country.

The long distance telephone service in Europe is generally very poor. The farthest a toll call can be made abroad is scarcely more than the distance across one of our states.

THE FROCK AND ITS STYISH TRIMMINGS

New York, Sept. 29.—Winter fashions have been fully settled upon and it is gratifying to say that for many a season, if ever, they have not been as attractive as they are this year. There is a charming variety. Fabrics are rich both in quality and in color, with braid designs in suit with the fabric and novelty braiding; but the touches that render them distinctive are the curious color notes that are being introduced for contrast on many of the smart new French models.

Pink silk embroidery is often seen on frocks of dark blue, serge, and a dull rosea wool embroidery is one of the new notions of the winter; it appears on collars, cuffs, girdles, and trimming bands on frocks, especially those of heavy wool worked out in a rib effect to imitate wide Hercules braid, is a detail of many of the imported serge and gabardine dresses. The various conventionalized souache patterns on a foundation of net or chiffon, often edged with a band of a fine silk braid or an edge of fur, is much in vogue for trimming the more dressy frocks; the wide braids, in a numberless attractive designs, are popular as well. The standing collar designs are favored for yokes and chemisettes and for the half belts so much a feature of the smart Princess dress. The wide braids are often used for an entire panel or yoke on a skirt, also for cuffs, and the standing hand collars which appear on so many of these cloth dresses.

Cape Collars and Chokers.

Another quaint and becoming detail of the winter dress is the collar. Serge gowns are made with single or double cape collars. Colored collars of all descriptions are being worn; turnover collars of colored velvet add a smart touch to the choicer of the simple dress, and the idea of the colored chemisettes of the summer is being carried out for winter in failles and broadcristes striped and figured velvets. Chemisettes of pale pink faille, made with high, lined, unboned collars, buttoning at the side and resting about the throat like a mouse queue, glove, are worn with gowns of serge or velvet. The neckline of the dress is usually rounded in an old-fashioned curve and finished with a straight band of the material.

Among the fall favorites in Paris a chiffon afternoon frock was trimmed with wide, heavy Hercules braid, following this idea comes a frock of serge trimmed with souache chiffon.

Interesting Buttons.

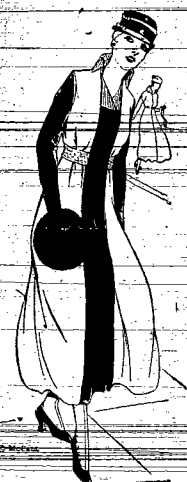

Among the button novelties, both for service and for trimming purposes, there is a large gold-button patterned after the plain four-holed pattern introduced in button design by an actor button of brilliant facets.

Colored Facings.

Skirts are being trimmed considerably this winter, and there is a marked use of velvet and cloth, combined, and of velvet and chiffon, and velvet and faille. Many of the skirts are banded with velvet, wide and narrow. Some of the prettiest and smartest notions along this line are the contrasting facings. Early last spring Paquin introduced the idea in a chic little afternoon dress of dark blue serge; it is now being applied to frocks and gown frocks. Many of the strictly tailored dresses of serge, gabardine, or broadcloth show these bright colored facings, the facing generally comes down and finishes the lower edge of the skirt with a narrow piping of the color. Blue gowns are faced with rose, red, old gold, and black velvet; the effect is wonderfully attractive and harmonious.

Leather As A Trimming.

One of the smart innovations of the season is the three-quarter coat of leather, trimmed with fur and velvet. Paquin introduced this at her recent opening and also introduced leather as a trimming for suits and frocks.

Fur—Becoming and Timely.

Perhaps the most pleasing thing about the winter trimmings is the touch of fur which appears on many of the indoor costumes and most of the out-of-door suits and frocks. The tight, little choker collars of one of the short haired pelts, beaver, nutria, or that smart Russian trimmer, are decidedly chic and most becoming. These collars are being worn with suits and with the one-piece dresses; generally they are accompanied with a muff, as round as a ball and strongly suggestive of Grandmother's day. Wide cape collars of fur closed under the chin with a stiff little bow of taffeta or moire ribbon are smart, too, with these small muffs.

POLITENESS AND PEACE.

Lincoln Journal: A Lincoln citizen, his heart overflowing with human kindness even to corporations, recently went down by train from Jerusalem into Jericho, which is to say to Omaha. He returned a worse man—between socialism, populists and anarchy and most particularly a crank for government ownership. He had been snubbed and insulted three times within fifteen minutes by that high and mighty owner of the railroad and his passengers who wore the sign "brakeman" on his cap.

A distinguished member of a college faculty, a perfectly safe and sane gentleman such as pillars of society are now of, presented a five dollar bill to a Lincoln street car conductor in way of five cent fare. "What do you take me for, a bank?" snapped the insulted official. "At the end of a two-minute lecture in this Trimming Notes.

The simple serge and gabardine frocks, so much favored for all day-time occasions, are trimmed effecven the point of the erstwhile pioneer and steady professor toppled. "You blanket-blank blank of a blank!" We carelessly remarked, "give me back the bill. I'll walk." That was it looks now as if in international no less than in national matters an As he walks he blocks out a procedure any real peace. Here is Captain Papen, German military attaché in the United States, describing his losses as "idiotic Yankees."

Most of the war which we have in the United States springs from want of politeness. The railroad thought that the wave of public hostility which engulfed them ten years ago was the result of passage high rates and political meddling. These things had their effect. But the seed bed for that crop had been prepared by years in which practice of a mere veneer of manners. But cally every American had accumulated a stock of grudges because of sins and buying administered by selfish employees. Consider the law understood legal rates. Every body knows and remembers where it is insulted. The next bump on the railroads will have the same cumulative irritation for a starter in the manner of making of a ferment out of the professor. Some having care of such things, make few such enemies. Most, following the more usual American way, pursue their mannerless way and make many such. We dislike to say anything discouraging to the peace people. But in this case we consider the source and circumstances and smile; yet such things make an unpleasant impression and retard international good feeling. It may be that genuine peace between nations and between men must await an internal, spiritual revolution, to say nothing of a mere veneer of manners. But as yet we haven't even a fair coverlet of virtue. It is going to be necessary to learn to act pleasantly, to be the truest of good men, to see whether we can make ourselves so or not.

stirring remarks concerning the girls and women of the community. These persons have sunk so low in the depths of their own moral corruption that virtue to them is but a sham and goodness has lost its reality. Character assassins are they, and their path is strewn with the whitening bones of the victims of their evil minds. Divine grace, we are told, is omnipotent to save, but it will have to stoop very low and tug very hard to raise these miserable wretches from the slimy pit in which they lie.
