At intervals there was more singing by the local singers. The final speaker of the session was Superintendent Culler of Harrington, who, after a short address, was obliged to take the train for Omaha. He had but seven minutes in which to talk. However, he conducted into his brief speech much inspiring thought.

At the close of this session those teachers who were not obliged to take a southbound train, attended the football game between Laurel and Emerson, which Emerson won. Nearly all the teachers of the county were in Wayne and a few from the normal were in attendance.

PHYSICAL SCIENCES WAYNE STATE NORMAL

INTEREST IN WIRELESS

Wireless Message Received Every Morning From the Wesleyan University.

Professor I. H. Britell, of the department of physical sciences has worked up considerable interest in wireless telegraphy. Every morning at 8:55 a wireless message is received from the Nebraska Wesleyan university, students being placed in charge of the receiving station. During the past three years, the department has sustained in connection with the work in college physics, a course of lectures on the electro-magnetic waves, their propagation and detection, and in connection with this course, the students have been permitted to take laboratory work in the construction of receiving set for wireless waves.

A number of students, who are now teaching science in the high schools of the state, have taken the course and are using the receiving sets which they made in the laboratory while taking the subject at Wayne. One of the conveniences of the department plan for the instruction of the women who teach in the public schools is to send each day short messages by wireless, consisting of the time signal, the weather report, information relative to athletics, and other things of general interest, sending slowly so that students at the various schools can receive them. This, it is expected, will stimulate the desire for the study of science, particularly relative to the apparatus of New scientific lectures. The reports received from other schools are placed on the bulletin board in science hall, and the students are encouraged to visit their schools, bringing on the subject matter in connection with the school, and to visit the class and aids much in the spirit of the work.

EVENTS OF THE WEEK IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS

No signs have been placed on the doors to the high school rooms. The lettering was done by Frank C. The Wayne football team played the Laurel team at Laurel Friday evening, winning an easy victory. The score was 47 to 0. The Wayne boys will play Wakefield here tomorrow. Wakefield has a strong team and an exciting game may be expected. Considerable enthusiasm is being developed in debating. The O'Leary team composed of LeRoy O'Leary, Fred Johnson, Fred Johnson, challenged any other team in school for a debate. This challenge has been accepted by the junior team composed of Jesse Randall, Marion Grobe and Floyd Conger. President S. C. Smith of the Normal addressed the high school Friday morning in a thoughtful and inspiring talk. He drew upon his experience as a high school superintendent and college man, and emphasized some of the essentials to success. Among other things Mr. Conn said: "The business world is watching young men and will not receive into its circle the loafer. It is the habit of doing nothing which is completing something that counts."

DEATH OF RANDOLPH MAN, KNOWN IN WAYNE

PASSING OF GEO. W. WILTSE
Influential in Establishment of Wayne State Normal—Eulogy By Registrar.

Randolph, Neb., Oct. 12—George W. Wiltse died suddenly this afternoon of hemorrhage induced by cancer of the tongue, which reached an artery. Mr. Wiltse was a widely known attorney in northeastern Nebraska and his name is well known in political circles over the state. He was state senator in the famous reform legislatures of 1907 and 1909, was a member of the judicial committee and passed upon the measures that gave Nebraska a court free and a public quality of jury and bench. He was also a member of the reforming law and other measures of a reform character. He was about 53 years of age and leaves a widow and one daughter.

The death of George W. Wiltse recalls to the attention of Wayne the conspicuous and influential part taken by him in the location of a state normal school at this place. Wayne owes him a large debt of gratitude and will always remember him with esteem.

On hearing of Mr. Wiltse's death W. D. Redmond, registrar of the Wayne State Normal, made this statement:

"The announcement of the passing of Hon. George W. Wiltse will be received with deepest regret by thousands who had learned to esteem, honor and love him because of his charming personality and noble qualities of mind and heart. I first met Mr. Wiltse in 1907, when he represented the Eighth congressional district in the Nebraska legislature. These his natural qualities and ability, which made him an orator among his associates, and his ever ready wit and eloquent powers as a forceful and eloquent public speaker gave him a commanding position in the senate.

"Two years later, when the bill for the purchase of the Nebraska Normal was under consideration, the needs of northeast Nebraska were earnestly and effectively presented by Senator Wiltse. It was through the school at Wayne he came a strong institution. Mr. Wiltse had always been a good friend, and was one of the principal speakers at the laying of the corner stone for the library and Science hall.

"The death of a man who loses a strong, virile and brilliant citizen, and his good-natured countenance will be greatly missed by a host of friends in all parts of Nebraska."

A. R. Davis of the Wayne bar is the school at Wayne has been intimately acquainted with George W. Wiltse for the last twelve years. It has always been a pleasure to consider with him the merits of any legislation. He was an able exponent of principles rather than legal technicalities. His belief and practice was that justice should always prevail, and that the lawyer should engage in no subterfuge or legal technicalities which would retard or prevent absolute right being done in all matters. The rightful cause of a client was his first ambition and his career as a lawyer was a splendid example of sacrificing any financial interest for the sake of himself to the interests of his clients."

EXODUS AFTER THE WAR.
Norfolk Daily News: According to agents of the trans-atlantic passenger lines, who ought to know what they are talking about, we're not likely to be deluged with immigrants as soon as peace is declared. In fact, for two years or so after the war there will be a pronounced emigration movement in the other direction.

Great numbers of immigrant Americans, they point out, will want to return to the old country temporarily at least, to see what has become of their relatives and help them if they are in distress. Germans and Austrians, who have been prevented from returning by the enemy's possession of the sea, will flock to their fatherland by scores of thousands. Representatives of the allied nations who have been deterred by fear of submarines will be eager to go back. If Poland is made free the Poles will be attracted by love of their native land to return and help restore their nationality. Curiosity to see the battle grounds and revisit old scenes will be a powerful magnet. Every bit of the war zone will have new, historic interest.

And particularly in every-where, to our country there will probably be a demand for all the available labor and even more. Workmen driven to America in former years by lack of remunerative employment, at home will be needed in their native land, court to be released on bail, pending a hearing on a writ of error.

bringing the land again under intensive cultivation, to reconstruct the railroads and factories and revive fading industries. So great may be the need of men, with so much work to do, and so many able-bodied workers unemployed, that the belligerent governments may forbid emigration for a period of years.

The passenger agents therefore believe that, far from a sudden increase of immigration, the first year of peace may lessen our population to the extent of half a million, and it may be three years or more before

The real danger, they say, is such shortage of alien-born labor for the country as will be seriously felt by railroads and manufacturing industries that need large numbers of unskilled men.

If this forecast is accurate, it means an era of increased prosperity for American labor, with American capital in a less envious position.

SENTENCED TO PRISON.
Madison, Neb., Oct. 7.—Motion for a new trial in the case of Arthur J. Koenigstein, convicted of taking money from Norfolk resort keepers, while county attorney of Madison county, was overruled today.

The court, considering the four counts of the indictment as one offense, sentenced Koenigstein to the state penitentiary for a term of one to five years and cost of prosecution. Koenigstein's request that judgment and even more. Workmen driven to America in former years by lack of remunerative employment, at home will be needed in their native land, court to be released on bail, pending a hearing on a writ of error.

News of New Goods That Are Just Coming In.

While in Chicago last week, I bought many new goods which are now arriving. They are the things which have proven to be the popular sellers in the cities and which you can buy here at a much lower price than I saw them marked in State street stores and windows.

Fur-trimmed broadcloth suits in navy, brown, and green are very popular. We have four pretty styles to sell at $20.00 which is just $5.00 below the city price.

It seemed as if I had plenty of pretty skirts, but I could not resist buying a few of the velvet and broadcloth styles just brought out. A few of them are fur-trimmed and they are all very pretty for dress wear.

The new silk waists of plaids, Taffets, crepe de chine and mes-salines at $2.50 to $5.00 are here in colors to match your suit or skirt.

In making up your new dress or waist, be sure and work in at least a touch of fur or gold trimming. These are the popular finishing touches for all winter garments.

Ostrich leather boas are the favorite neckwear item. We have them again in white, black and white or brown and white at $1.50.

When looking for a pretty party or birthday gift, remember the dainty handkerchiefs of silk crepe, colored embroidered lawn and lace-trimmed linens you can get here at 10c to 50c.

And don't conclude that because these prices are below usual that the flour and sugar are below grade. The flour is the best grade made by the Norfolk Mills and we can tell you of many of our customers who have used it for months and pronounce it the best.

THE WAYNE NORMAL 20 TRINITY COLLEGE 0

(By Wayne Observer.) Playing only straight football and not being obliged to exert themselves in the least, Wayne Normal defeated the Trinity college football team at Sioux City Saturday by a score of 20 to 0. But for penalties the score would have been at least 100 to 0.

There was no comparison in the work of the two teams, Wayne failed to make first downs but once when not carried back by penalties.

Plans are being made for the building of a twenty-four-foot addition to the local Presbyterian church.

CLEAN AIR AND HEALTHFUL HOMES

If every home here were equipped with a Favorite Base Burner, there would be so much more health and happiness this winter. Sickness and misery would be reduced wonderfully; fuel bills decreased at least one-half.

Favorite Base Burners More Heat - Less Cost

fill homes with genial, even, comfortable warmth, upstairs and down, all winter long. And it is clean, fresh, sanitary warmth, free from ash dust, soot and coal gases. This saves house work and doctors bills.

This construction is patented. Every bit of heat is radiated from these flues into the home. None escapes up the chimney. Place the thinnest and toughest piece of paper in any door or frame of the Favorite Base Burner. You cannot put it out without tearing it after the door or frame is closed. This paper-tight fitting completely seals the Favorite. It prevents fuel waste—keeps coal gas, ash dust and soot out of the rooms—and enables the Favorite to hold fire for several days and nights without attention. These are but two reasons why the Favorite heats entire homes for less money than common stoves warm one or two rooms. There are many others. In spite of all these exclusive features, the Favorite costs no more than inferior kinds. In its fuel saving, cleanliness and protection of your family's health it soon repays its cost. Face the fact in question today, and settle it for once and all the Favorite Way.

THE EARLY DAYS IN TWO COUNTIES

Mrs. Davis of Carroll returned home on her trip with her mother. Mr. E. W. Water entertained friends at a party in honor of Mr. Weber's birthday anniversary. George W. face by falling and striking a jagged stick.

Look out for prairie fires. Now is the time they begin to rage in this county. A. E. Hunter of Waukegan, Ill., resumed his position as deputy treasurer with Mr. Rosner. News and happenings are being put down on the Ponca branch of the C. St. P. M. & O. railroad. We notice in the Sioux City Journal a rumor that we are about to start an evening daily paper in Henry. The rumor is entirely without foundation. We never thought of it and never expect to.

Rev. H. H. Mohr, pastor of the Methodist church at Wayne for four years, was returned to this charge by the conference.

Rev. W. C. McColp of Wayne, preached in the Lutheran church last Sabbath. A call has been extended to Mr. McColp to accept the pastorate of the Ponca church, which the congregation is hopeful he will accept.

The Corn Palace exhibition at Sioux City came to an end on Saturday after a two-weeks' successful slaughter of pocket books. Sioux City and Massena of Iowa are negotiating for a similar exhibition in November. This exhibition will be the first of the kind already surveyed to the country.

The news which is current about the bridge prospect is encouraging. It appears that Messrs. Davenport and Massey of Keosauqua are negotiating with several railroad companies, of which the Illinois Central is one, relative to their taking the bridge across at this place and building a bridge. All such matters are slow, hence no one need feel discouraged by the delay, yet from the present outlook it seems that the bridge will soon become a matter of certainty. If the Illinois Central should obtain the franchise, the result will be that instead of crossing the river on the Sioux City bridge and then thence running across Dakota and Dixon counties, that company will cross at Ponca and from there go up southwest to the river.

AILMENTS OVERCOME; GAINING IN WEIGHT

This is the story of John Gadeson of Winner, Neb., and how he was made health and happy again. Mr. Gadeson suffered for years from ill health. His trouble began with his stomach. His food was not properly digested, and he grew weaker under the worry of what the future was. He was not healthy. One day he heard about Mayer's Wonderful Remedy. He took one dose and was astonished by the results. He wrote: "My ailments seem to be entirely overcome, as the many symptoms which were constantly worrying me have like a wonder all passed away and my health is improving fast. I am also gaining in weight fast—gained five pounds already." It has been two weeks since I got through your treatment, and I can say that it has put my stomach and bowels in perfect shape. Mayer's Wonderful Remedy gets permanent results. Eat as much and whatever you like. No more distress about eating, pressure of gas in the stomach and around the heart. Get one bottle of your drugstore now and try it on an absolute guarantee. If not satisfied, your money will be returned.

CARHART HARDWARE

UNCLE WALT The Poet Philosopher

THE SKILLED WORKMAN. All better than living water when an expert at his trade, who is quick and skilled as thunder with his hands. He is the one who is watched an earnest toiler, as he mends the pump and puts the handle on the well. He is the one who is the leaky spots, and he never wastes a motion, every move some purpose serves, and it is his habit to put the soul to watch his curves. One day he was found to have learned to fail, that all sane and sound thinkers wonder why they're not in jail. I have watched the men who blunder, both things up with saw or spade, and I beseech the thing wonder who has really learned his trade. If I had a hundred nieces, I would say to them, "My dears, if you wish to save the pieces, as you journey down the streets, you will learn some and learn to know all other man's local knowledge and pursue it, till you are perfect in your trades. Stringing beads or paring apples, darning socks or skinning milk, winding clocks or scrubbing chairs, let your work be fine as silk."

WORK AND REST.

To work is good, to saw your wood, while yet the sun is shining, to make the hoe man's and to feel where plowmen vines are twining. For men who shirk all useful work, they never happy mortals, by any chance they do not dance and fill the air with their own noise. Some time to play all toilers should be giving. In this broad land we have the hand, the way we hump and hustle, we sleep up steam and work and scheme and wear our mind and muscle. While young in years, above our ears the gray of age is showing; it would be best to stop rest, but still we keep on going. When something comes—then brains—beyond all cures or patches and we are shown to walls of stone, to cells in booby hatches. To work is grand, but stay your hand, when comes the evening plagues; take the show as it comes, things like those, and leave your tasks for daytime.

THE HORSE.

The horse is sliding off the map. Friends, at least admit it, he'll have a bad time, while maybe, but soon he'll have to quit. For things propelled by gasoline increase each day in numbers, and Dobbin leaves this earthly scene for his creature's home. When water flows from the paws of hustling towns and cities, we said, "He's found his urban grave, which is a thousand paces; but on the farms he'll have a place, till farms are frozen over, and fill him with clover." But now, alas, he doesn't rank with agriculture's factors: the farmer draws on the bank and buys some steel tractor, and one of the wheels is the plow, as through-welded lumbars; the horses see it as they browse, and know they are back numbers. They're shipping now on floating steels across our water, for Europe needs them when she bleeds and wades around in slaughter. To turn them to the butchers' loose—that plan is no in-dorse; but it's about the only one that's left, just now, for horses.

MOTHER AND MAID.

A maiden in a garden swing is sure an entrancing thing. She wears a gown of white, mayhap, a

Chambers' novel in her lap, her hands are soft and lily-white, and curls afford no fairer sight. Manvies her with romantic tears, and in his heart heavens the years, which he'll turn to the toiler's vow, forbidding him so sweat a frau. And then around the house he goes, and sees her mother washing clothes, or hanging rags upon the line, with aches all up and down her spine. Her hands, he looks, are soft and white, but her face is rough and mottled; her face is rough by steamy studs, her eyes and hair are full of ends. The stranger, then, his whiskers then, and goes back round the house again, and sees the maiden in the wings, a charming and delightful thing. "I'm glad," he sighs, "that I am old." "I'm glad my blood is running cold, or I might fall upon my knees, before that damed 'neath the trees, and she might fall softly whisper yes—naught could be worse than that, I guess!"

THE EXPATRIATES.

Your own county you've renounced, Henry James; it with language you have renounced, Henry James; you have handed out a slam to your good old Uncle Sam, and James, you do not care a penny, Henry James. You and old Jack Johnsing, both, Henry James, swore a great and mighty oath, Henry James, to adjure your native land; it was exercised and banned by the pair of you, self-cannard, Henry James. It is sad, and yet a joke, Henry James, that the Author and the Smoke, Henry James, should line up on foreign shores, there to shut and halt the doors—what a brace of two-fours, Henry James. We have lots our Hank and Jack, Henry James, and we hope you won't come back, Henry James; you have snubbed us pretty hard, soaked us one beneath the guard, and we turn you down, old pard, Henry James. You and Johnsing may abide, Henry James, far across the raging tide, Henry James, claiming Europe, hand in hand, white flag, desired, and legs ahead to lead the band, Henry James!

Radicals who thrash around in support of women's suffrage or prohibition, they are sure to find good to the movements sought to be advanced.

The two Tekamah papers have been getting up lately. The Journal has installed a linotype machine and the Herald has just issued a very creditable twenty-page special edition.

Tuesday was Columbus day. It was 424 years ago that Columbus discovered this land of the free. The importance of his discovery has been accentuated since other lands have become war-swept and desolated. We didn't get away from the old country any too soon.

Special pay-up weeks have proven successful and satisfactory in many places. A co-operative movement to pay up would leave little lingering arrears.

All working with one object in view, man could wipe out all his obligations and still have as much money on hand as when he started. A special "pay-up" week might produce similar results here.

The narrow partisan who never thinks for himself, makes a sweeping blanket endorsement of every thing his party says or does, right or wrong, consistent or otherwise.

Any statement made by a party leader he endorses with an enthusiastic "Yep, that's so." He needs explanations that don't explain and swallows pure political propaganda.

It is pointed out that since mothers have a special day, fathers should be treated with similar consideration. While it will be agreed that there are more deserving mothers than fathers, it will also be agreed that fathers are more deserving to entitle them to a special day for favorable mention. A real mother is the highest and most powerful type of love winner. Often father ranks second.

Hartington and vicinity celebrated an unprecedentedly successful road building campaign by a ball banquet recently. More than 200 farmers and housewives participated in the festival board and discussed subjects of mutual interest and benefit. But improvement of public highways is pointed out as secondary in importance to the spirit of unity developed by the social campaign. Kitting together town and county, both will progress faster. Pulling together, both will achieve more in substance, social enjoyment and educational attainment. The Hartington territory, which is largely an open country, joining hands and moving forward unitedly, is following a few precedents before established in the state.

Every county seat should be the nucleus of an organization for co-operative effort promoting the growth and welfare of both town and country.

President Wilson's proposed second marriage causes approval on the part of some and disapproval on the part of others. There are people who so closely associate a man with his wife, whether living or dead, that the thought of a second wife is repulsive. Though probably not so in the case of the president, children often look with aversion on a stepmother or stepfather. A man or woman assuming authority in a household appears to be a usurper and a woman assuming the role of a man is repulsive. In a fourteen-line paragraph headed "Correction" an exchange makes eleven typographical and one spelling errors. The paragraph is bunglingly constructed. For publication can be wholly free from errors, nor make every paragraph a literary masterpiece. But an editor who is too ignorant or too careless to write correctly or eliminate most typographical errors, and whose sentences are so badly strung together that they cause seasickness, ought to get into a line of work which will not expose his mental paucity and his lack of common sense.

Newspapers, like teachers, must use correct English if they expect children to learn to do so. Many English school boys before children are read or sent out to them in the course of recitations at school are certain to seriously hinder development of correct speech. A teacher of English in a neighboring city is credited with this bit of a public speech: "If one not interested in the subject, how they talk about it?" The home, teacher and newspaper largely determine habits of speaking among children, and each source of instruction or influence parents should be interested in the highest possible standard.

Few people are so poor that the weekly wages cannot be made to yield something more than a bare living. Carefully, cheerfully, the present luxuries in the interest of provision for the future.

By saving a penny and adding it to a dollar by dollar and we will add the interest semi-annually. The money will serve you from the very first dollar, and in case of necessity it will be ready for immediate use.

Why not have some money working for you? Others are doing it and are building up nice funds for the emergencies of life.

A Few Words From

Men Who Ought To Know

Herbert Spencer says "There is a principle which is a bar against all argument, and which can not fail to keep a man in everlasting ignorance." That principle is condemnation before investigation.

Dr. G. H. Patchen, M. D., says: "Chiropactic removes the cause of disease more promptly, radically and permanently than any other known method."

Dr. A. A. Gregory, M. D., in his late book on Spinal Treatment says: "We know that most diseases are not amenable to our ordinary methods of medical and surgical treatment. While under spinal adjustments acute diseases are cut short and aborted, and chronic cases recover, which have been believed to be incurable."

Dr. W. H. Schumpey says: "Eighty per cent. of our population are afflicted with some sort of Spinal defect, this being the cause of so much nervousness, indigestion, rheumatism, etc."

Dr. Chas. Mayo, one of the world's surgeons says: "Yes surgery will give way some day to something else. * * * Preventative medicine, that's what will displace surgery."

Col. Sol Long says: "Yes that day is now here for Chiropactic is preventative medicine."

Edison says: "The doctor of the future will be he who keeps us from getting sick."

Be modern, take Chiropactic adjustments.

TALKS 4,600 MILES BY WIRELESS TELEPHONE

Wireless telephony from the Atlantic coast to Hawaii, 4,600 miles, a distance greater than from Seattle to Honolulu, is accomplished by the special wireless telephony developments which have been made by the engineers of the Bell Telephone System, speech was transmitted last Wednesday night from Washington, D. C. to a wireless station near Honolulu. This triumph came but a few hours after Theodore N. Vail, the president of the Bell company, had talked by wireless from New York to John G. Coffey, chief engineer, who was at Mare Island near San Francisco. This wonderful wireless telephony message from Washington to Hawaii had to pass over the whole of the United States before it encountered the more simple wireless conditions which exist when sending over large bodies of water. For the purpose of this test the sending was done from a wireless station at Arlington, just outside of Washington. The receiving was done on a small wireless station specially erected for the purpose by the engineers of the Bell company at Pearl Harbor.

The results obtained in talking by wireless telephony from New York and Washington to San Francisco and Hawaii were a confirmation of the fact that the transmission of information and discoveries which have been made by engineers of the Bell Telephone System. These investigations have extended over a considerable period. During the early spring of this year, as a result of the work already done, the engineers of the telephone company talked over distance of about 250 miles, using for the purpose an experimental tower which they erected near Montauk Point, L. I., and a small tower hauled for the purpose a 150-foot tower on the island of Hawaii.

The results of these tests conclusively demonstrated the correctness of their plan. The possibilities that steps were immediately taken to try distances comparable with those involved in trans-Atlantic telephony, and indeed, in looking to trans-Pacific telephony. What the results of these further tests have been is shown by the talks to San Francisco and Hawaii.

Another interesting feature of the tests was the connecting of the wireless telephony apparatus with a wireless phone line. At Pearl Harbor, a talk was made by a wife from New York to Washington. At Washington, by special means invented and developed by the engineers of the Bell company, the wires were connected to special wireless apparatus where the message went wirelessly to its destination.

The Bell Telephone officials believe that wireless telephony has an important place in the general scheme of communication. They expect that it will form a most important adjunct and extension to their existing means of communication, simplifying and supplementing the most extensive wireless system. It will enable communication with moving trains, ships at sea and other places where it is impractical to extend wires. Telephone officials say that wireless telephony can be used wherever there are wireless systems because wireless telephone systems are subject to serious interference from numerous conditions, atmospheric and others, and that the fact that anyone can hear could not listen in on a wireless telephony talk would be a serious limitation to its use.

ENORMOUS CROP

Washington, Oct. 7.—A billion bushel wheat crop, the greatest ever produced in any country, has been proclaimed in the United States by the government's preliminary estimates of the great crop, made today. It placed it at 1,002,929,000 bushels or 111,000,000 bushels larger than the record crop of 1912. The corn crop now approaching maturity, is estimated at 3,026,159,000 bushels or 98,000,000 bushels less than the record.

YOUTH GOES TO WAR

Kansas City Star. It is ever the heart of youth which burns to emulate the deeds of warrior heroes. The mature men sicken with dead lead they have thrown away from the field of battle. They are not warlike, but they are not to be trifled with. And so the armies of the world are always armies of the young.

Young men know their number. Either they volunteer, or they are old men who know the animal. Youth will fight, conscript them. It was so in the fratricidal strife of America in the 60s. It has always been so—and it is so now. We have a war. Writing in Collier's Weekly, Sir Arthur Conan Doyle says that in many of England's schools more than 80 per cent of the boys flung themselves first at the recruiting posters and then at the recruiting office.

Unless to attribute this merely to patriotism! Older men are patriots, too. Someone has said that the various stages of youth and adolescence represent the various stages of man's development. Youth is essentially the warrior age, not only for fighting, but for the clearing of fields and the draining of canals and the building of cities. It is the age of the young men which stamp upon Europe today and make the earth tremble. We war to be fought by old men there might be no war. For war is youth's game—but coached by graybeards.

EASILY WORKED EDITORS

Freemont Tribune: Dean Talcott Williams is the head of the school of journalism of Columbia university. He is the man who is drawing the increment on a million-dollar quest left by Joseph Pulitzer to teach the coming generation of editors how to be editors and still be decent and respected. In a recent article published in a trade magazine the dean touches on the subject of how to free advertising made upon newspapers in a way that commands itself to publishers, however much it may run counter to the wishes of those who systematically and all too successfully "kill" their press. He lays down this broad and indisputable proposition: "No newspaper ought to print any free matter on any subject upon which it would not be ready to advocate a position of its own. It is not to be transferred by the state on really devoted to religion, education and charity." That's good business sense, for the man who simply because he is foolish enough to invest his money in printing matters ought not to be so sagged as to boost every fellow's game at his own expense. The blame for the situation in which newspapers find themselves as easy marks for every exploiter rests upon newspaper publishers. When they come out a sign, "Kick me," or "Hang out and Ride Me," you may rest assured the invitation will be widely accepted, and the public will do nothing to help them. Publishers ought to have a constant struggle with the contingent that undertakes to determine for it what is news and what is advertising, and it requires a good deal of firmness on the part of the editor to tell a man who carries a big display and that the reader he brings in "to help fill up the paper is also advertising and must be settled for at the business office. But as the courage to do this grows the editor and newspaper publishers are in respect of the public and in the confidence of the commercial agencies. What would any body think of a grocer who habitually give away all his sugar "for the good of the cause?"

Jude Johnson: "I quit the booze habit when a friend told me I was becoming a 'crying drunk.' Of all the objectionable features of a 'crying drunk' habit, the most objectionable, Pass the grape juice, please."
