Bixby in Lincoln Journal: John D. Haskell of Wakefield has offered a prize of one hundred plunks for the best poem on Nebraska, composed by a resident of the state, the same to be given publicly on the occasion of the centennial anniversary celebration of the admission of the state to the union. To earn this attractive reward will be a most difficult undertaking. Nebraska is herself a poem, a song, an anthem of praise, and there you are. We need the money but have no heart to get in on the contest.

West Point retrainers: It was during his first days of service on the bench that Judge Welch was confronted by this situation: The jury had just found the prisoner guilty, as charged and the judge was about to impose sentence. Following the time honored custom, the court asked the prisoner if he had anything to say why sentence should not be pronounced. The condemned man sprang to his feet and dramatically exclaimed: "May Heaven strike me dead if I am guilty." Under these circumstances the court did not act hurriedly, but waited judiciously and judiciously a little while so as to give the aforesaid place a chance to get in its work and, then, said: "Prisoner at the bar, since Providence has not seen fit to intervene, it is my province to fix your punishment and it is ten years of hard labor in the pen."

thless, we are subject to war taxes imposed upon us by a democratic administration. Taxes are levied not only upon property and assets, but upon liabilities as well. The in-trustments given "you" borrow money. This business transaction that privilege? The present method of raising the necessary revenue for the government is not a system; it is a patchwork process. It starts nowhere, leads nowhere, and gets nowhere. When the republican party went out of power, the treasury was full; now it is nearly empty. Our factories were not furnishing millions of war, and our farmers were not supplying Europe with farm products for war purposes, and industrial and commercial conditions would be similar to that existing under the democratic administration prior to the election of McKinley in 1896. In the last presidential campaign, the people of the United States did not repudiate the republican party, or the policy of protection, and in the coming campaign, with a reunited party, the republicans will be able to put in power and secure sound economic conditions, giving continuous employment to labor, and inspiring with confidence the

LET NOTHING BE LOST

"Outside the sphere of man's thought is that which is vast." To the music "Let nothing be lost" nature marches. Sunbeams never forget it, winds never omit it, atoms never refuse it homage, planets necessarily obey it, comets track it, and all, from the dust of earth to its music, raindrops patter to its melody, rivulets flow for forever, glancing, prattling, moving responsive to its music. Why should it be for any wretch with men? The holiest, the purest of sentiment, is found in the home of the home builder. The sentimentalism of the home builder is that which struggles vice, chastens him, lifts him up, and makes him a man. The holiest, the purest of sentiment, is found in the home of the home builder. STATEMENT ISSUED BY JOHN L. KENNEDY
 Touches National Affairs and Emphasizes Importance of Protective Tariff.

Omaha, Neb., Nov. 22.—John L. Kennedy, candidate before the republican primary for United States senator, has issued a statement outlining his views on important public questions. After saying that as a senatorial candidate any statement made by him at this time should relate to national affairs, he continues:

"The tariff will be the paramount issue in the coming presidential campaign. On that issue the two great parties decisively disagree. The republican party will adhere to and advocate the policy of protection. The American industry and democratic party, without a definite plan, will try to raise revenue by imposing unusual, burdensome taxes on American enterprise. We are at peace with all the world; but, never-

and intelligently ascertained."

Wants Mercant Marine.
 Declaring the return of the republican party to power will mean extension of our trade relations with other countries, and especially South America, Mr. Kennedy favors an American merchant marine. "A farmer could not successfully manage his farm were he dependent upon his neighbor's wagons to haul his grain to town."

"We must have a navy powerful enough to protect our commerce and our coasts."
 "We have no need of a large standing army. We do need to provide the material and the machinery for the creation of an army. Why not provide military training for the tiny and young men in high schools, normal schools, colleges and universities? The training should be voluntary."

Regarding Mexico, he says it is difficult to see where Carranza is any great improvement over Huerta; "and yet between denial of recognition to the one and the proposed recognition of the other, revolution has run riot in that unhappy country. The policy of shuttling writing" resulted in war and war of life and property. We should have taken a more active—a more helpful interest in Mexican affairs, or we should have kept entirely out of them."

"The government should insist on the establishment of a system of rural credits."

Permanent Tariff Commission.
 It is generally conceded that the Tariff Commission is a body of conditions affecting our trade and commerce. This will make it necessary to collect and compile additional information upon which to base new tariff laws. That should be done by a permanent tariff commission; so constituted that it will command the confidence of the country. It should be a continuing body, consisting of five or seven members, one retiring each year. Its principal functions should be gathering and classifying of facts and figures relating to trade conditions; and upon request it should furnish to congress the result of its investigations, and its recommendations be laid upon foundations carefully

REPUBLICANS RURE 80 SAYS ESTABROOK

Omaha Bee, Nov. 22: Henry Estabrook, formerly of Omaha and now of New York, who recently threw his hat in the ring for the republican nomination for the presidency, stopped off in Omaha yesterday en route from Kansas City to Chicago, where he speaks today before the Hamilton club. He made an address Saturday before the Commercial club of Kansas City. "My principal object in stopping here was to visit the headquarters and see how Mr. Craig is getting along," he vouchsafed. "When asked about the coming election he said: 'I predict a sweeping republican victory, based to no little extent on the six weeks' trip which I am completing, and which has taken me over a large part of the country. With unmistakable indications for a reunited party, I think there is no question of the result.'"

United Republicans Sure. Mr. Estabrook went on to say that a united republican party was decidedly more assured than a democratic one. "In illustrating this he asserted that the followers of Roosevelt in the 1912 campaign were in a great measure supporting his personality, and that the principles of republicanism were never abated. "And the democrats," he went on, "are at loggerheads. Wilson has at last seen the light, and has rallied to the support of preparedness, while Bryan, the Moses of the democratic party, as it were, is rather leading his following into the wilderness, instead of out. Of his own part in the campaign he did not care to talk.

NORTHEAST NEBRASKA SCHOOL MEN TO MEET

Last spring at the meeting of the Northeast Nebraska Teachers' association, held at Norfolk, a movement was started for an organization of the school men of Northeast Nebraska. At that time a committee was appointed, of which Superintendent H. M. Eaton was named chairman and President U. S. Conn, secretary. The committee has announced that the first meeting will be held on Monday, December 4, at the Wayne State Normal school. The program includes a short address by Dean H. H. Hahn on "Measurements of Teaching Efficiency." This will be followed by a general discussion and noon-day luncheon at the domestic science department. Superintendent Gulliver of Bloomfield will lead in a round table discussion on various phases of school work. The purpose of the meeting is partly professional improvement, but mostly the cultivation of good fellowship among the school men of Northeast

Nebraska. A large attendance is expected.

THIRTY-EIGHT YEARS AGO.

Judge Britton has a distinct recollection of the way he celebrated Thanksgiving day thirty-eight years ago. "It was in 1877 when he lived in La Porte where he had a store. He was returning from a visit in Illinois, and the night before Thanksgiving day he arrived in Ponca to take the stage the next morning for home. Henry Merri-man, early settler of Wayne, and now living here, was in charge of the stage. The two started out before daybreak. Over a foot of snow lay on the ground and the weather was cold. At Martinsburg they bought more clothes with which to help defly the elements. At a farm house on South Creek they stopped to eat their Thanksgiving dinner. It consisted of boiled potatoes, milk gravy and bread; and it was thoroughly relished. They plowed through the unbroken snow at a slow and tedious pace, often walking to keep warm and lighten the load. It was not until after 9 o'clock in the evening that they reached La Porte, and the observance of the day, in their experience, was not so pleasant and devout as it was intended to be.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Massie and son, John, motored to Winside Friday afternoon and visited the E. W. Cullen home.

Chiropractic Is the Knowledge (Not Theory or Belief) or Philosophy of Cause of Disease

The science of knowing how and the art or ability to adjust it. The human brain is the dynamo where life currents are concentrated. The spinal cord and nerves are the purveyor of this mental force. If brain absorbs, spinal cord conveys, nerves transmit and muscles signal and vice versa, this life current, health is the product. Obstruct the transmission of current and disease is the product. Body plus life equals health. Body minus life equals death. Disease is the abnormal fluctuation between these two quantities caused by varying degrees of pressure upon nerves, interfering with transmission. A chiropractor knows why, where and how to remove the "pressure" and permit currents to continue transmission for the purpose of reconstructing disease to health. Health is the restoration of currents, not the stimulation or diminution of how little does exist. It sick, no matter what or where your ailment (mild or severe) investigate. We can prove that Chiropractic is right and applicable to your case.

Santa Claus' Headquarters

Christmas Opening, Saturday, Nov. 27 at the
Wayne Variety Store

You are cordially invited to attend our Big Christmas Opening Saturday, November 27. Old Santa Claus being a wise old boy, has selected our store as his headquarters this year, and from now on until Christmas eve, the goods that Santa says are necessary for a joyful and merry Christmas will be accorded first place in our store. For months we have been preparing for our Holiday Opening. In spite of the war and the restricted import conditions, we have a full line of imported and domestic Christmas goods, and when you call to inspect our offerings, you will then realize that we have been most fortunate in our selections. Christmas is not far away. It will be here before you realize it, therefore, it is advisable to begin at once to make your purchases. Any selections you make now will be laid aside until you wish them. This will insure your getting just what you want in Christmas Goods without the inconvenience attending the usual rush at Christmas time. Pay a visit to the Variety Store. It will be a pleasure to show you through our Christmas lines regardless of whether you are prepared to buy or not.

Christmas Time

CHRISTMAS TIME! That must be a masterpiece indeed in whose breast something like a joyful feeling is not found—whom mind some pleasant associations are not awakened by the recurrence of Christmas. There are people who will tell you that Christmas is not to them what it used to be; that each succeeding Christmas has found some cherished hope or happy prospect of the year before, dimmed or passed away; that the present only serves to remind them of reduced circumstances and strained incomes—of the feast they once bestowed on below friends, and of the cold looks that met them now in adversity and misfortune.

Never heed such dismal reminiscences. There are few men who have lived long enough in the world who cannot call up such thoughts any day in the year. There do not select the memories of the three hundred and eighty-five for your doubtful recollections but draw your clear master the blurring fire—fill the glass and send round the song—and if your room be smaller than it was a dozen years ago, no if your glass be filled with reeking punch instead of sparkling wine; put a good face on the matter. Look on the merry faces of your children (if you have any) as they sit round the fire. One little seat may be empty; your slight form that gladdened the father's heart, and round the mother's pride to look upon, may not be there. Dwell not upon the past; avoid the life. One little seat may be the fair child now resolving into dust, as before you, with the bloom of health upon its cheek, and the gleam of its fancy in its joyous eye. Reflect upon your present blessings—of which every man has some. Fill your glass with your past misfortunes, of which all men have some. Fill your glass again with a merry face and contented heart. Our life is in it, but your Christmas shall be merry and your New Year a happy one.

—Charles Dickens

Why Not Say "Good-bye, Sir?"

THE telephone "Hello" has fallen into disfavor because it is not only useless and meaningless, but is a rather ungraceful and rude little word. It is fast becoming obsolete.

The telephone "Good-bye," however, is well worth preserving, even in these days of economy and efficiency. It gives that personal, friendly touch to business or social conversation which makes for better relations.

The cheery "Good-bye" over the telephone is just as potent as the cordial "Good-morning" with which you greet a friend on the street. Over the telephone it averts the feeling one sometimes has of being cut off abruptly.

Say "Good-bye" over the telephone as if it were really a part of your conversation and not merely a regrettable habit of speech.

ORDER OF HEARING ON ORIGINAL PROBATE OF WILL

The State of Nebraska, Wayne county,

At a County Court, held at the County Court Room in and for said county of Wayne, on the 12th day of November, 1915.

Present, James Britton, County Judge.

In the matter of the estate of John C. Haack, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition of Ottilia Haack, praying that the instrument filed on the 17th day of November, 1915, and purporting to be the last Will and Testament of said deceased, may be proved, approved, probated, allowed and recorded as the last Will and Testament of said John C. Haack, deceased, and that the execution of said instrument may be committed and that the administration of said estate may be granted to Ottilia Haack as executrix.

Ordered, That December 9th, A. D., 1915, at 9 o'clock a. m., is assigned for hearing said petition, when all persons interested in said matter may appear at a County Court to be held in and for said County, and show cause why the prayer of the petitioner should not be granted, and that notice of the pendency of said petition and the hearing thereof, be given to all persons interested in said matter by publishing a copy of this order in the Wayne Herald, a weekly newspaper printed in said county, for three successive weeks prior to said day of hearing.

FROCKS AND WRAPS FOR EVENING WEAR

New York, Nov. 24.—Now that winter is upon us and the season of frocks has begun, we find ourselves scurrying about here and there, hearts in a flurry and brimming over with happy expectation of the coming festivities where we will display some of the newest, loveliest, and most precious of this little world of ours except for the ever present question of dress.

Alluring Silks and Satins. There are numbers of dainty silks and sheer fabrics, such as tulle, gros de Londres, soft satins, chiffons, nets, and novelty broades which are charmingly suited to dance and dinner frocks. Gros de Londres comes plain and striped, combining often two of the most delicate pastel shades. The soft satins and tulleas are particularly effective under the web-like tunics now

Evening Wrap With Throw Scarf. modish. Although many prefer the effective simple frock, others delight in the swaying of tiny ruffles and frills, and the swishing of crispy tulle and tulleas, paniers of filmy tulle, puffed sleeves and sleeves quaintly mimicking creations of decades ago. These are carelessly caught up and held in place by tiny clusters of rosebuds, or perhaps a single flower of lace, gold or silver. Metallic ornaments have supplanted trimmings of silk, buds and flowers, to a certain extent, and when used sparingly make most effective finishes.

The Scarf of Chiffon. As the frame is to the picture, so is the dainty, filmy scarf to the frock for evening wear; endless uses may be carried out with these. They are beaded, embroidered, fringed and hand-colored; developed in the sheerness of nets, chiffons, gauzes and wonderfully patterned Oriental fabrics, designed with visions of Houris and dreamy harem beauties in mind. One of the more effective uses of the scarf is with the sleeveless gown; it may be draped in most becoming ways. A charming example of this was brought to my attention the other evening. The dress was of emerald colored tulle made with an eight-pointed skirt, in which alternating spots were of the canary tulle, and satin of a delicate blue. Each gore was rounded at the lower edge and finished with a narrow quilting of chiffon, matching the tulle bodice. Over this striking skirt hung a tunic of emerald colored chiffon, while a wonderfully tinted scarf, with blended tones of canary color and blue, was draped around the shoulders in a wing-like arrangement giving the effect of sleeves when the arms were raised. The ends were wound loosely around the neck, quite as one would use the regular throw scarf of heavier material. It was exceedingly practical and pleased the eyes of those who appreciate daintiness and grace.

A Roomy Coat a Necessity. To our quest for evening necessities, the all-enveloping, coat must not be forgotten. Those with large, roomy sleeves, or no sleeves at all, are the most practical for the delicate trimmings and fabrics they are to cover. Velvet, velours, and broades are, of course the standard materials, practical and rich in effect; but many beautifully colored, novelty velvets, showing a strong Chinese influence in their exquisite embroideries, may be found. Exotic novelties, also, never failing in beauty, offer themselves for coat and wrap of maid and matron this season.

Aside From Gown and Wrap. One must not neglect footwear, slippers, stockings and the "under-mysteries" of the evening frock. Satin slippers of the delicate shade of the gown are first in favor, black patent leather with jeweled buckles, and those with blue or green tips.

These a bit more practically inclined. The stockings generally match the frock in color, or are of white.

Canary Colored Tulle.

The old-fashioned pantilette, scorned and laughed at since the days of hoops and Daguerrotypes, are among the very daintiest and most feminine of evening accessories. They are of satin, chiffon or net, frilled, or fur-trimmed, and one merely catches a fleeting glimpse of them now and then, and thinks of them only as a very effective part of the frock.
