

CONSOLIDATED WITH CALLS ON NEW YEAR PROVE INTEREST

GROUPS OF MEN MAKE Visit Eleven Homes and Cordially Received and Tally Entertained.

Wayne's revival of the custom making New Year's calls at most interest, and the program of the afternoon passed off triumphantly. It had been long ago that New Year's calling had lost its charm, but among those who participated Saturday, were some who had participated in similar functions in the past and were familiar with the custom. The groups early in the afternoon went from one residence in and about the city and returned to the homes of each of the hosts.

The public group of men with an infinite variety of attire attracted special interest. A set-styled "Sweet Singer" formed heroically to sustain the note. No matter how hungry visitor appeared to be when he returned, there was no dining. It was full when the rooms had been made. The occasion was most happy one, enjoyed alike by entertainers and entertained.

Germany. One knew he had landed in Germany when he reached the city. One of the assistants were dressed in German costumes to receive their guests. Christmas decorations including a Christmas tree, were conspicuous among the German couples. The men were greeted with a German welcome, and German manners were skillfully imitated. German songs were sung, and Miss Frances Odum danced the German folk dance. The guests were invited to the dining room, where the hosts and hostesses were seated. Mrs. Oman was assisted by Mrs. J. J. Ahern, Mrs. William Gildersleeve, Mrs. William Renick, Mrs. Ada Renick, Miss Frances Odum, Mrs. Pearl Seaman, Miss Fern Oman and Mrs. Frances Oman. Mrs. Schuster was sick and unable to be present.

America. Mrs. A. Kiplinger represented America. The hostesses were dressed to represent American. An Indian teepee, bead work, the setting of a tripod and a variety of Indian curiosities were displayed. Music from an Edison disc gave the half shell, olives, wafers and coffee. Mrs. Kiplinger was assisted by Mrs. J. C. Miller, Mrs. S. A. Cross, Mrs. J. J. Williams, Mrs. James Britton, Mrs. James Britton, Mrs. R. G. Ringland, Mrs. E. M. Johnson, Mrs. Miss Florence Welch and Miss Mable Dayton.

Italy. The home of Mrs. A. B. Carhart representing Italy, was decked in the Italian colors of red and white. The hostess and her assistants were dressed in red, white and gold. The Italian couples were subjected to sharp questioning and a good deal of suspicion being gained admittance to the country. They were under strict police surveillance during their sojourn. Mrs. Carhart was escorted by Miss Janet Garlough at the entrance, pinned an Italian flag on the lapel of the visitor's coat. Miss Janet Garlough, military officer of austere mien, pronounced questions suspiciously and granted answers hesitatingly. Mrs. B. Durrie, another military officer, viewed the passport with distrust, but reluctantly endorsed it. Italy was enveloped by music from an Edison diamond disc. Mrs. Ralph Carhart was the government representative. She placed Italian questions before admitting them to the dining room where lighted candles, red-shaded, gave a beautiful effect to the table appointments. Spaghetti, wafers, pelices and coffee were served. Mrs. C. E. Carhart was the officer in charge at the point of exit to see if the guests should be permitted to leave the country. On leaving the traveler was given an United States flag. Mrs. B. Durrie, Mrs. J. S. Carhart, Mrs. C. E. Carhart, Mrs. G. J. Hess, Mrs. Ralph Rendell, Miss Janet Garlough and Miss Bessie Durrie.

Nbraska. Mrs. L. M. Owen representing Nebraska, had her home arranged in the usual manner.

Wayne Republican. The ladies were dressed in white and green. A party of about 100 was assisted by the hostesses. The program was most interesting. HARTINGTON HOTEL DESTROYED BY FIRE

Hartington, Neb., Jan. 5.—The Grand hotel of this city was completely destroyed by fire last night. The fire broke out about 2 o'clock in the morning in the upper story of the building and before it was discovered, had gained such headway that the almost efforts of the fire department were unable to check it.

At 3 o'clock time after the alarm had been sounded, the fire broke from attic to basement, with tongues of fire shooting out of every window. A strong northwest wind fanned the blaze, and made the efforts of the firemen more difficult and hazardous, although the direction of the wind was probably the only thing that saved the rest of the hotel. The fire burned steadily all night, and the brick walls fell all about.

The hotel was well filled with guests last night and the fire broke out so suddenly that both the guests and the employees of the hotel were hurried into the street by the firemen. If they were rescued after the interior of the hotel was on fire, and had to make their exit through the windows.

One of the managers was badly burned in trying to get the guests out, and Miss Margaret M. Hoffman was in the employ of the Hartington Electric company, was so seriously burned that he had to be taken to a hospital this morning. It is thought that the fire was a mass of flames, and he narrowly escaped being burned to death. Many other narrow escapes are recorded. No attempt was made to save any personal property, the occupants being thankful to escape with their lives.

The Grand hotel was one of the oldest and best hotels in the city. It was owned by John Krause of Los Angeles, Cal., and has been completed recently by the Dillon brothers. It was situated on Broadway across the street from the postoffice, and consists of the old frame part which has been moved back and the new modern part which had been under way for some time.

The fire started in the top story of the frame part of the building. The loss is estimated at about $20,000, which is partially covered by insurance. There will probably be no attempt to rebuild the hotel this winter.

THRIFTY WAVES
Women are savers, rather than spenders. Nine times out of ten the women are the money-savers of the family. Men mean well enough but they haven't the knack of saving.
Every woman should have a savings account. No matter how prosperous the family, there is pretty sure to come a day when ready money will be a necessity. To be a true helpmate a wife should be thrifty and help save her husband's money. A woman may deposit money in her own name, and subject to her order only. You can deposit money in any amount from $1.00 upward and make withdrawals any time upon presentation of your pass book. The method is very simple and it is the safest of all ways to save money. Right now is the best time to start. Come in and talk to us about it.

will be announced in church Sunday. At the close of the meeting Thursday night Mrs. Wright served lunch.
A jolly party watched the old year out and the new year in at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leung-Gabors Friday night. THE DAWN OF A NEW SPIRIT
"Salute, Farmer! A man is not judged by his attitude to his fellow men. If he is constantly 'on the make,' or desirous of getting all the dollars he honestly can out of his fellowmen, that may be regarded as one sort of man. If on the other hand, he is constantly 'on the make' to do any way possible to the fellowmen, he may safely be set down as the very opposite sort."

Forty years ago we heard a banker justify his interest rates and harsh treatment of his customers by saying, "I'm not in business for my health." This attitude of humanity is very ancient. It is as old as the present dispensation, and older. The Latin had a proverb, "Sedulo propter pecuniam." The literal translation of this is: "Let the tick take the last one. The modern version is: 'Every fellow for himself, and the devil take the hindmost.'"

We think we can see the dawning of a better day, of a revolution of a new spirit, the spirit of service. This also, is as old as the present dispensation. Whether men belong to any church or not, the real question of it comes from that saying of the Master: "The par of man cannot be ministered unto, but to minister."

All this new spirit at the bottom of all the cooperative movements; for cooperation means working together. It is the spirit of the individual good only as it may be harmonious with the common good. It is true that when the test is applied, co-operators do not always live up to the spirit of cooperation. They are all willing to labor for the common good until they see some greater apparent good for themselves, and then some forget all about the common good. These are the men who when men call for the servant of Him who hath on his vesture and thigh the name written: King of kings and Lord of lords, whose service is perfect freedom.

The man who acquires property or wealth with the spirit of service, something which does not belong to him; and it is not likely in the end to be anything else than a

No business has keener competition than now exists in the retail grocery business in this market and adjoining territory; the retail grocery, to say the least, is well represented. Despite trying conditions this store has operated and been guided by conservative methods, encouraged by an ever increasing patronage until we feel we have achieved far more than the average grocer, yet, when analyzed from the experience taken from relations with hundreds of our patrons the reason is quite apparent.

First of all, "Integrity" has been our watchword; integrity of purpose to establish a real grocery store; integrity of brands on which the housewife may depend to give perfect satisfaction, the grade of which is never lowered under any circumstances; integrity of service; integrity of clerks.

It has been the policy of this store to give the customer something just a little better than he has been accustomed to getting. It's the results of a square deal that this store enjoys the larger share of the patronage of hundreds of the best families of the community. They have learned there is a difference, they have that feeling of content and each individual business transaction, if accompanied with fair, square, considerate and courteous treatment.

Already a number of new faces have signified their intention to trade at this store this year. This invitation is extended to everyone. I extend the heartiest wishes for a prosperous and enjoyable New Year.

Getting down to our own business: An agricultural newspaper can not succeed permanently unless it renders a service to its subscribers and to its advertisers. It is not necessary to talk much about the service it has given or intends to give; but it must give it. People will recognize the service after it is given. The point is to give the service.

Professions of service in any line are a good deal like loud professions of piety or holiness or honesty. If you are really a pious man, people will know it. The very fact that you talk about leads to a suspicion that you feel there is need of argument about it—perhaps that you are trying to convince yourself. We may safely refer to another saying of the Master: "of universal application: 'By their fruits ye shall know them.' We have known men in our own profession, found in their professions of service and concern for the welfare of the farmer, who had no hesitation in saying when among their own class in office: 'What I am after is dollars; so are you.'

The new spirit we speak of has not yet fully dawned, but it is dawning, and its dawning should be aided by all right-minded people. Necessary will be the sacrifice of while to be altruistic and adopt the spirit of service, or get out. And the sooner we adopt it in the line of our work, the better. There was a time when the ministry, law and medicine were regarded as the professions that, in lines of work, were the obligation to serve the community was recognized. It was service first, and the fee was incidental. In the busy and rush of setting up a new country, in the strife of business and the increased cost of living, there has been some tendency to commercialize these professions, and make the fee first and service incidental. In a broad sense, every line of business partakes of the nature of a profession. It is the duty of the professional man to serve the community. UNCLE WALT

The Poet Philosopher

THRIFTY.

Just Walt was a cautious lad, according to the late requests made with reverence on the dead, and the old-time spirit of thriftiness that takes his nickels to the bank as fast as he can draw them in, and does all night about the clock of little hoaps of tin. To less than a penny plank looks bigger than a room floor; all other things that cash are banked; he won't dish up any more. Some day a horse will arrive, and punch the hole from his home, and send his add these eyes, and send him a basket home. And when he has been classed, he will not have the free lunch track, and he will have his pile of brass, the wall of the farmer's store, and the game spots look on with eyes when less inclines to show him for study of this and that. He hears and thinks that not one in a hole. The prize ring heroes of the past around the barrooms.

...when they died he was put in the ground. It was a hard job, but he was a good man. He had a nice family, and he was a good father. He was a good man, and he was a good father. He was a good man, and he was a good father.

CHILDISH JOYS.

Walt was a child of nature, and he was a child of nature. He was a child of nature, and he was a child of nature. He was a child of nature, and he was a child of nature. He was a child of nature, and he was a child of nature.

THE PLUTE'S LIBRARY.

Oh, steady books, in handsome cases, all standing in their proper places, selected with an artistic feeling to match the furniture and ceiling. Pope's Milton's, Scott's and Shakespeare's, glowing above an orderly leather binding and a tall, dismal and forbidding, that you would cry: "Aw, quit your kidding, someone's said." Sit down and read. To be sure, ground you have made. It is a good thing to have a library, and it is a good thing to have a library. It is a good thing to have a library, and it is a good thing to have a library.

GOOD AS HEAT.

"His word is as good as his bond," they say of the man who is straight and true. When his word is given, it is given. He is a man of his word, and he is a man of his word. He is a man of his word, and he is a man of his word.

WINTRY WINDS.

The wintry wind blows down the village street, and chills men's whiskers as it fiercely spins. How happy they who have the goods to eat, and bright, warm fires by which to toast their feet. I see the men who are comfortable, and I see the men who are not. I see the men who are comfortable, and I see the men who are not.

TROUBLE.

Old Trouble hid, inside a tree, and muttered, "Now, dad blind me, I think that men won't bother me—they won't know where to find me." But men are quick. They were here from Tampa to Toronto, exclaimed, the while they paged the air. "Oh, where has Trouble gone to? When Trouble is no more about—we shed the tears unbidden; let us go forth and hunt him out, wherever he is hidden." They get search warrants at the court, and lanterns trimmed with hunting, and every dame and every boy forth to the woods went hunting. They get all other business done, and they get all other business done, and they get all other business done.

You take this testimony straight from the shoulder, men. You can smoke a barrel of P. A. without a kick! It hands out all the tobacco happiness any man ever dreamed about—it's so smooth and friendly. It's a mighty cheerful thing to be talking terms with your pipe and your tongue at the same time—but that's what's coming to you sure as you pin your faith to Prince Albert!

In its latest issue the Lincoln Trade Review gave a comprehensive review of Nebraska's production and growth during 1914, and the showing is very favorable and encouraging.

Division in the democratic party over President Wilson has directed attention to Speaker Clark as a likely candidate for the nomination.

People who really want to see a republican president, elected this year, believing the policies of the republican party would be best for the country, will favor the nomination of a man to whose support the greatest possible number may be rallied.

Two ministers representing the Lincoln ministerial union, appeared before the board of education of this city and protested against the use of the new high school building for dancing purposes.

We are pleased to note that Senator George W. Norris has withdrawn his name from consideration as a candidate for president.

It has been reported that Colonel Roosevelt will support the republic party's nominee for president if he is suited with him, though it is further reported that none standing a ghost of a show of winning the nomination needs the colonel's aid.

An elderly lady in Woodbury county, Iowa, furnishes additional proof of the folly of deceiving away one's property to children with the gift of a life.

In Massachusetts a question of the most moment concerning a high school has recently been taken by the Sunday school association.

Two hundred thousand, so it is reported, are the number of people who are likely to be present at the national convention.

A report is made without some new requirement is included. It sometimes appears as though government clerks devoted themselves to counting down the number of citations with which to tax and harass business.

This plan of the normal suggests an extension of the scheme. More schools for concert in the country might be remodelled to meet the convenient time for all classes at a school.

The food commissioner, Richard L. Metcalf, doesn't spare Food Commissioner Harman for running a campaign and soliciting advertisements for it from concerns under his official control.

ANTI-GRIP POETRY. Norfolk Daily News: New York City has a new motto in verse form.

Files for Congress. Lincoln, Jan. 5.—Otto Zuelow of Schuyler, has filed for the republican nomination for congress in the Third district.

NEBRASKANS FILE BILLS. Washington, Jan. 4.—Representative Shallenbarger today introduced two bills, one creating a commission of five persons to be known as "United States commission for enduring peace."

CLEAN HIGH SCHOOLS. Lincoln Journal: For some reason the finger of suspicion is pointed at the high schools of the country more frequently than toward other educational institutions.

Practical schooling. Each year with the opening of the winter term at the Normal school, thousands of young men from various countries...

from all but two cities and from all but five schools. The remarkable thing about the answers is the unanimity with which the principals testify that the students as a rule are ill-behaved, young people who lead clear lives and exemplary conduct.

THE RAZZLEDAZZLE.

Four years ago George Perkins bore his loss without a single murmur or complaint.

Two hundred thousand, so it is reported, are the number of people who are likely to be present at the national convention.

The people wondered at the mighty efforts which were being made to save the state and rights of the wrong.

This one man gave to help along the cause; It was indeed a philanthropic gift.

And that's what every body said it was.

He was the man of food and clothes bereft.

Because of this enormous sacrifice?

And, oh, no, the man had twenty million left.

He holds high cards among the idle rich.

And Roosevelt's only man.

With power to make the doughy Perkins ditch.

A roll of wealth no bona fide philanthropist.

On high finance George Perkins had a fine line.

And garbled large sums while thousands suffered loss.

But Teddy worked the razzledazzle fine.

And that is how he made George come across.

For once the wawa sucker among men.

A victim of the lure of politics.

That he will never take the bait again.

Once is enough in "Mr. Perkins' B.I.X."

American ports regardless of the nature of their cargo if they carry citizens of the United States.

BRYAN DIDN'T LIKE IT.

New York, Jan. 4.—William Jennings Bryan vigorously protested today against the law of New York state, because he was required to come here at his own expense and give testimony in a suit for libel.

Mr. Bryan was examined in an action brought against a Greek newspaper. He was questioned concerning the sale by the United States to Greece of the old battleships Idaho and Mississippi.

CALLS ON NEW YEARS.

According to Mr. Bryan the sale of the battleship was a matter which rested entirely with the war department. He admitted that gunfire control centers might have been destroyed by enemy depots.

RAISER REPORTED IN SERIOUS CONDITION

Another child of Mr. and Mrs. Kay who also had the disease, died at that time.

The disease is sweeping the country from center to circumference, and is attacking all classes and conditions without favor or favor. It is not at all more in fact, often fatal, though it is not always so. It is a known stage of disease though they were suffering all the time necessary to accomplish material dissolution.

The John E. Stetson company whose hats are popular in Wayne, has everything marked to suit the employees happy with gifts on Christmas day. Every man, woman, boy and girl in the employ of the company received a cash bonus in the distribution of gifts. Also the company distributed 3,074 turkeys weighing twenty-one to two pair of gloves and a pound of candy to each of 1,100 girls, besides gifts of work in the institution. The occasion was not only Christmas, but was the fifth anniversary of the founding of the business by John B. Stetson.

GIVES CUMMINS BOOST

Washington, Jan. 5.—Senator John C. Stetson who returned to Washington yesterday, accompanied by his wife and daughter, said there was little or no crystallized sentiment as yet for a republican candidate in the election of 1916.

"Friends of Senator Cummins will get in the running before long," he said. "I don't know, looking at it on its face I should think Cummins would carry the state if for no other reason than neighborhood."

SURVIVORS RELATE STORY OF THE WRECK

London, Jan. 4.—The survivors of the British steamer "Persia" which was torpedoed in the Mediterranean last Thursday, reached Antwerp today.

Only 120 of the 200 crewmen that point, all bearing traces of shock and hardship. Most of them had badly bruised and bandaged limbs. One man is in a hospital with a broken leg.

The tragedy was enacted so rapidly that the survivors say they hardly realized what happened, consequently they had little to tell. The passengers, however, are quite cheerful, and an atmosphere of good prevailing.

Five minutes later those who escaped were in boats or clinging to wreckage, and the luxurious liner was gone.

The "Persia" had just started when there came a terrific explosion. The liner tumbled violently, and a moment later many fell into the sea.

Only 120 of the 200 crewmen instantly and those who had not yet come down to the dingy were left with any chance to escape. Many seemed paralyzed with fear, and sat as if glued to their seats. Their indecision was fatal as the water rushed in, and the list increased. Some of those who gained the deck lost their footing and slipped immediately into the sea, while others were swept away by waves.

It was possible to launch boats only on one side of the ship, and only the promptest action by officers and crew enabled them to launch four boats. All the passengers praise the coolness and quickness of the crew. There were no signs of panic. Everyone made the most of the few remaining moments.

Woman Tells Experience

One young woman described her experiences as follows:

"I was sitting down at the table when the explosion occurred. I ran at once to my cabin for a life preserver and twice was thrown in the passage by the rocking of the ship. I got to my cabin, and found the life preserver on the deck. I had the utmost difficulty in keeping my footing and was again thrown down. As I reached the deck, the liner lurched heavily and I fell. Although badly shaken and hurt, I quickly managed to adjust the life belt, and jumped into the sea, where I was rescued fifteen minutes later."

Only Two Children Saved

Two bank clerks going to Egypt pushed by the bridge and dived into the water from which they were saved. Mothers who went in quest of their children never returned. Only two children were saved. The chief officer is said to have been in the water for some time before he was rescued. He rushed to the bridge and did all that was humanly possible. He went down with the ship, but was rescued from the water. He thinks that the captain was in the water, though some passengers said they saw the captain swimming.

RAISER REPORTED IN SERIOUS CONDITION

Paris, Jan. 4.—The Mauth affirms that the Kaiser is in a serious condition. The German emperor is suffering from cancer of the throat and is no longer able to speak.

In February, 1912, according to the Mauth, the Kaiser was consulting a doctor who was endeavoring to remove the tumor in order to make progress against the disease. This raised the question as to whether the emperor would be able to do so if such an operation were performed.

The leading specialists in Europe were consulted. It was learned that an eminent surgeon of Paris had advised that the Kaiser should have a tracheotomy, which would restore the power of speech to cancerous patients who had undergone total ablation of the affected organs.

The Kaiser, whose name the Mauth says was not given to the Kaiser, was asked to see Berlin by the German ambassador. He was offered 100,000 francs and all his expenses and was requested to bring with him a physician who had been fitted with the apparatus which the emperor himself might use.

Meanwhile, as a result of a minor operation with a restorative and few weeks' absolute rest, the emperor's condition improved as is often the case in this disease, the progress of which is implacable but slow. It is another operation of this kind which has just been advised, but it is regarded as palliative. The German emperor must either make up his mind to complete removal of the larynx or be stifled by the growth.

"This explains why the emperor has not gone to Warsaw, Constantinople or Brussels."

By MINNA IRVING

Stop thier!

The old year goes
Over the drifted snow,
And the gray year hath brought me grief.
He hath stolen the robin and the dancing
And the dear little boot that used to tug
At my window sill in the balmy spring.
And the rapturous kisses my lover gave
Her when hidden him, too, in a narrow grave,
Deep down from the light of the world, blue sky,
And no through his rash of my tears
I cry.

As the old year goes
Over the drifted snow,
For the gray old year hath brought me grief.

All hail
The new year comes
With the beat of drums
And clangor of bells in the windy vale.
He brings in the song of the nightingale,
And, what if his robe is fringed with snow.

GASOLINE PRICES.

Washington, Jan. 5.—Congressional investigation of the rise in gasoline prices was proposed this morning in the house or representatives by Representative Fuller of Illinois. Another regulation by Representative Shallenberger of Nebraska would ask the department of justice for any information on hand on gasoline prices and direct the department to conduct an inquiry. Both measures were referred to committees.

The Federal trade commission also has an investigation of the subject under way and officials of the department of justice have indicated an intention to seek information as to whether there has been any violation of the federal laws.

GOLDEN WEDDING.

Ponca, Neb., Jan. 4.—Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Sullenberger celebrated their golden wedding anniversary New Year's day at their home in this city. Both of these people are well known throughout the country, having been very prominent in the affairs of Dixon county since their arrival here in 1869, when they took a homestead a mile west of the present city of Newcastle. After a few years' residence there, they moved to what was then the little town of Inola, where Mr. Sullenberger and a few others operated a saw mill.

A New Year's Gift.

No costly gift to you I send,
Let me wish you health and cheer,
And good luck mark the New Year.
Might give to thank you all the year.

In mill or loom it was not made,
Nor woven with reeds and cunning hands,
It is most with the brain that is made,
To show it came from forsaken lands.

It never held place on counters wide,
Where scores of rich gifts never fail,
And one has been found who tried
To reap a profit from its sale.

'Tis not a thing of earthly mold,
But bears a heavenly stamp and brow,
And being it never had till now,
I search it never had till now.

I searched my heart, found what I sought,
A gift your future life to bless,
And one has been found who tried
Each year may bring you happiness.

While the Years Are Going By

There are lonely hearts who cherish
The best of the years as they fly by,
There are weary souls who prefer
The best of the years as they fly by,
If a smile we can render,
As our journey we pursue,
Oh! may it lead out to the lonely,
While the years are going by.

There is a time for life's pouring
While the years are going by,
Let your face be like the morning
Oh! the world is full of grief,
Full of sad and weeping eyes,
While the years are going by.

All the loving hearts that kind us
While the years are going by,
Oh! may it lead out to the lonely,
While the years are going by,
Both in made and mine will grow
While the years are going by.

Decorations for New Year's

We always associate bells with the first day of the new year. "Ring out the old, ring in the new; ring out the false, ring in the true," and here is a charming decorative scheme for either a party or a wedding. Make a lattice of wire for the ceiling or use a coarse wire netting in which to place small white and blue balls. The scheme is lovely in the dining room, with a large bell over the table.

THE NEW YEAR

Sioux City Journal: Many and interesting facts about the new year have been furnished by the medical astronomers which have made their appearance. They contain a considerable quantity of information, chronological and the like, and some of them go as far as predicting what the weather conditions will be during the next twelve months.

All kinds of time is computed in the calendars. For instance, 1916 is a year of 366 days, owing to February having twenty-nine days, and comprises the latter part of the 14th and the beginning of the 141st year of the independence of the United States, and corresponds to the year 6629 of the Julian period, the year 5676-5682 of the Jewish era; the year 2669 since the foundation of Rome, according to Varro; the year 2576 of the Japanese era and the thirty-ninth year of the period omitted Meiji, the year 1334 of the Mohammedan era or the era of the Hegira.

A partial eclipse of the moon January 20. Visible to North America, the West Indies, the greater part of South America, northwest Asia, and in part of the extreme western portion of Europe. A total eclipse of the sun February 3. Visible to North America, the West Indies, the northwestern portion of South America, southwest Europe and the extreme northwestern part of Africa.

A partial eclipse of the moon, July 14-15. Visible generally to North and South America and the West Indies, and in part of western Europe and Africa.

An annular eclipse of the sun July 30. Invisible. Visible to Australia, New Zealand, East India and the Philippines.

A partial eclipse of the sun, December 24. Invisible. Visible in the northern ocean.

The morning- and evening stars are noted as follows:

Mars will be evening star about January 20, May 21 and September 9, and morning star about March 1, June 29 and October 20.

Venus will be evening star until July and then morning star the rest of the year.

Jupiter will be evening star until April 1, then morning star until October 20, and then evening star again the rest of the year.

Lent begins on March 2, with Easter Sunday on April 23. Washington's birthday comes on Tuesday; Memorial day on Tuesday; July 4, Independence day on Tuesday; Labor day on Monday, September 4; Thanksgiving day on the last day of November and Christmas on Monday.

RIGHTEOUSNESS.

(Sixty.)

Let us begin the new year right By mitigating human woes. Nor fixing up to have a fight With some imaginary foe.

We see the dreadful rain wrought In Europe where, with all their skill The ones the best prepared have fought. Themselves to die as well as kill.

We see with grief the distant row. We hear the groans across the main; And shall we go war-crazy now? Is this sad lesson all in vain?

I want to say to Uncle Sam, Don't be misled in politics; Preparedness is all a sham, Unless it be for business. BIX.

RECOGNITION.

(Sixty.)

For peace he made a valiant play Across the sea of blue, Now Ford is coming home today— I think he auto, too.

He found he bore a heavy load, He could not make it go— Perhaps the seed of peace he sowed Will later sprout and grow.

"A traveler on a dusty road Strewed acorns o'er the lea, And one took root and sprouted up And grew into a tree."

Perhaps some day, when wars shall cease, The world, with one accord, Will quit the path of pain of peace Belongs to Henry Ford.
