NEBRASKA IN TROUB OF ARCTIC WEATHER. COLDEST WEEK OF WINTER. Mercury Drops to Twenty Below. Cutting Wind From North-west—Storm General.

Boreas caused a very unpleasant situation here this week, sweeping all the warmth out of the weather and sending the mercury as low as twenty below zero. The wind, blowing along at a fearful velocity, kept falling snow with it, and the made space more uncomfortable for human habitation.

The elements turned suddenly colder Tuesday, and by night the snows registered below zero. The people not compelled to work, and the school elements, remained in their cozy homes and found their own ways from flaming hearths. All day yesterday the weather was so cold that the clouds, which finally broke through the clouds, failed to breathe sufficient calor into the elements to moderate the temperature. Yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock the State Normal thermometer registered 27 below zero. Non-exchange members of the working force of that institution registered fourteen below zero. Last night thermometers registered 26 below zero.

Norfolk Daily News, January 12. One of the old-time northwest blizzards which pioneer Norfolkers saw usually rages for three days. This time Nebraska and South Dakota were hit. Tuesday and Wednesday. The coldest day of the winter was reported from all directions and winner, S. D., took credit for being the coldest point in the district surrounding Norfolk, railroad reports give the temperature 40 degrees below zero there at an early hour Wednesday morning. At Dallas it was 34 below. Long Pine and Lincoln 22 below and in Norfolk 20 below, according to the government reports. At Omaha it was 25 below at Fremont and all points east of Norfolk reported higher temperatures than in Norfolk and points north and west.

ANNIVERSARY OF ONE TERRIBLE BLIZZARD

Yesterday was the anniversary of the terrible blizzard which swept the middle west and caught teachers and pupils in school houses and caused great suffering, often permanent injury and a number of deaths. It was on January 12, 1888. The early part of the storm was most severe. Salt and was not potent of the ugly elements that followed. As the day wore on, clouds gathered and snow began to fall. By middle of the afternoon, the storm was raging. A high wind, which could not be seen a foot in front of his face. While the blizzard was not worse than others that preceded it in the history of the early day most unfortunate for schools that had no reason to anticipate such a turn in the weather.

Rural schools, often a considerable distance from any settlement, suffered most. Many teachers kept their pupils in the school houses all night, and exhausting the fuel supply, were compelled to burn stoves to keep from freezing. Some who were stranded with pupils tied together to avoid losing any of their, reached with frozen extremities, farm horses after a frightful battle with snow and wind. Still others lost their lives. Some of the teachers were stranded with pupils tied together, never fully recovered from the effects.

As the country became settled and broken, with groves and buildings, blizzards became less frequent. Not since has equaled the severity of the storm of twenty-eight years ago. The flying snow, with zero temperature, this week, has served to impress recollection of the anniversary.

Dr. T. J. Jones was a professional visitor in Lincoln, Wednesday.

On Tuesday morning, Dr. Fred Bidler spoke of the importance of the grades. On Wednesday Professor Bright entertained the students with his talk, after the fashion of Aesop. His moral was that the student should be a good citizen. Miss Elsie Ford, head of the department of Latin, has been asked to prepare a paper on the teaching of this subject for the program of the Alpha-Omicron, to which Miss Piper belongs. This honor came to Miss Piper unexpectedly as the result of her success in teaching. The Literature club has Thursday evening as its next meeting. It is expected that Miss Mack will be the speaker. All were sorry to have Pudge leave town as his personal good-humor and ever general smile will be missed. But he is glad he is getting in line for a large development and red content that he will make good in any position he is placed in. He is fortunate in securing a place in a firm of the experience and caliber of the well known clothing store of Wayne county, but feel that the firm will find that they were equally fortunate in securing Pudge.

DOLLAR A POUND FOR PORK.
Hartington News: John Hirschman paid a dollar a pound for pork last week.

While this may appear an extravagant price John does not think so. In fact he made the purchase with the expectation that he will profit considerably thereon.

The particular pork for which John paid this sum is a very fine specimen of a Duroc boar pig from the Maplewood farm in Indiana, a pound of it will sell at a 1.00 pound price. The dam was Col's Lady 81096, who has farrowed 103 pigs, many of which were first prize winners, and which topped the four best sales at the Maplewood farm.

AN UNPRINCIPLED FOE.
St. Louis Globe-Democrat: The only commendable thing about the bacillus influenzae, the germ of the grippe, is its enterprise and tenacity. When it comes to hanging on, Bud Jones' dog was a quitter compared with this particular bacillus. While the Germans, who are generally in comparable in the selection of appetizers that really describe, did very well in naming this affliction "Spanish influenza" and "the French grippe" there. All of the 150,000 St. Louisans who are in the clutches of this disease find the name most appropriate. Every sufferer is a captive in the grip of a "Spanish influenza" or "the French grippe."

The bacillus influenzae is an unprincipled assailant. He does not give warning before attack. He is like the recent rattlesnake that is being reapproached for "blowing the ring" bell. It is in a bush and strikes a victim.

HORSE MEAT FOR AMERICANS.
Fremont Tribune: At last horse-meat is recognized in this country with the necessary of raising more legitimate human food. The New York board of health has sanctioned the slaughtering of horses for meat market. New York appears to be the first city in the United States to permit the sale of such meat. It is likely, however, to be the first that he catches him in advantages which would result in our methods of doing business.

TAXING BANK CHECKS.
Wallaces' Farmer: Confronted with the necessity of raising more money to meet the growing expense of the government, President Wilson has recommended various special forms of taxation, among them the proposal to place a stamp tax on all bank checks. This suggestion should meet with vigorous opposition, not because of the amount of tax involved, but because of the decidedly bad effect it would have on our methods of doing business. It is greatly to the advantage of both the individuals and the country at large that the greatest

SAVINGS SERMONETTE

NUMBER THIRTY-EIGHT

A GREAT MISTAKE

A great mistake is made by some people who seem to think that if anyone knows anything about saving money they should give it up and let it go. It is a great mistake to let your money go without trying to save more than its income warrants. It can be used for a great many things.

It would seem likely that of two persons, one who can arrange his affairs so as to enable him to judiciously save some of his income each year and the other who cannot make his earnings cover his expenditures, the former will always be more highly thought of as there is no doubt that his abilities are the greater of the two.

An man entirely dependent on others for his requirements makes a very good citizen in a community and the way to standing and honor that the best means to a greater or less extent.

CHURCH CALENDAR

Methodist Church.

The Methodist people enjoyed a splendid day last Sunday. The attendance was fine both morning and evening with interesting and helpful sermons. It would be hard to find a more fittingly interested person than that the pastor means to after Sunday.

The church will hold all of the regular services next Sunday with a sermon in the morning on the subject, "A Rehearse of the Past."

The sermon will be on the subject, "The World War." The text for this message is found in Exodus 20:3. This is not a blood-curdling story of human butchery, but a setting forth of world conditions and an appeal to meet the demands of a world in peace. The evening theme is "Manufactured goods, where they are kept and how they are used." This sermon will be illustrated with incidents out of the world's life of today.

The beginning of a series of messages that will run throughout the month of January. The series will be constructive and in order to get the most from each one, you should remember that they begin next Sunday morning throughout the month. There was a beautiful spirit manifest in the week of prayer services last week. We believe that the people are going to be pleased with the union evangelistic campaign, with the local pastors doing the preaching. The people of Wayne are loyal to their pastors and now need stay away from church services on account of uninteresting services. The serious preached during the week of prayer, were as interesting and helpful as an evangelist would have brought. Remember that the Wednesday of each is set apart as a day of special prayer with cottage prayer and meetings in every part of the city at ten o'clock in the morning, with Bible reading and prayer at the church at 2:30, and preaching service and prayer in the church at 7:30. The services this week on Wednesday were in the Presbyterian church. Next week they will be in the Baptist church. On the 26th they will be in the Methodist church. Then our singing evangelist, Prof.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin will conduct evangelistic meetings in the Baptist church at Carroll, beginning January 16.

G. E. Waltz of Alliance, Mass., will be with us and the regular evangelistic meetings will begin in the Baptist church Sunday, the sixth of February. The people of Wayne are just as nice and just as generous as a precious revival as any place in the state. The churches are beginning to realize this and are working in any and every way possible to get the best of their churches. Remember that praying in union for a great relief. You are invited to find your place in one of the churches next Sunday.

Baptist Church. Next Sunday at the Baptist church with live-up-to-date services and the presentation of interesting topics. The morning sermon will be addressed to the church in general and will be a discussion of one of the Patriarch's jobs, intermingled with the story of the cross. "Hast thou entered into the treasury of the snow?" In the evening the public prayer will be held and especially the business men are urged to be present and listen to the discussion of "The Business Man's Home." The ladies of the church will be present and will be a discussion of "The Business Man's Home." The ladies of the church will be present and will be a discussion of "The Business Man's Home."

MISSIONARY FROM INDIA. (Contributed.) Miss Wunderlich, a missionary from India, talked at the German Evangelical Lutheran church Tuesday, January 6. The stories told by the missionary were full of interest to those hearing them. Miss Wunderlich spent fourteen years in India, missionary of the Evangelical Lutheran German synod of North America.

The trip of Miss Wunderlich is a thankful fact for the Indians, which did just a month before the outbreak of the war. Had she remained in India she would have suffered the same fate as other German missionaries in that country. Her husband was separated from wives and detained in separate camps. Six hundred German missionaries had to leave their American and Scandinavian missionaries are doing their best to help these unfortunates.

Miss Wunderlich, having spent her vacation in Germany, wished to see of service to the synod supporting her and with another missionary she left Bergen aboard a Swedish steamer in spite of danger of a British attack. Some six warriors were chasing them, but a heavy mist suddenly falling, they escaped capture.

Miss Wunderlich is interesting Lutheran congregations in the work among the women of India. The women of christian countries should show thanks for what christianity has done for them by supporting the missionary work among India's women.

The evening service at the Baptist church on the subject of "The Christian's Duty in the World War" will be a very interesting one. The speaker will be G. E. Waltz of Alliance, Mass., who will be with us and the regular evangelistic meetings will begin in the Baptist church Sunday, the sixth of February.

There was a good attendance at the last Sunday evening meeting. As a visitor you are just as welcome as the members of the church on the regular Sabbath.

GORE'S Hog Worm Cream

A CHANGE OF VIEWS.

Fremont Tribune: It is to be hoped that Henry Ford has been inspired by the statements that purport to come from him upon his return home.

Mr. Ford has become so eminently respectable in this country, and his son of his industrial achievements and out of his regard for those who labor, that few persons can be found who would willingly do him any injustice. The American people like him because, despite his suddenly-acquired wealth, he is still a mechanic and feels better with a pair of jumpers on than with the broadcloth and silk ties he can well afford to wear.

And then, too, his impulse for peace is a worthy and a righteous one and appeals to the people strongly, arousing their better sentiments.

But the dispatches tell us that Mr. Ford has changed his views on the war. His trip to foreign ports has persuaded him that the responsibility for it rests upon the men in the street.

It is not clear that this situation has changed his peace spirit and burst into the open. The factor it is plain that he is not the man to blaze the way to peace, for he has too many things yet to learn.

Mr. Ford did not know that till he received the news of the peace conference slow to absorb the American understanding of it. He announces his intention to return to Europe under certain circumstances and if the clients will inform him of the peace conference.

IMPORTANT IF TRUE.

Bisley, Dr. Bernstein's picture of the new earth, which only the pure in heart and otherwise deserving will see, is not a pipe dream. It is a thing to contemplate, only it takes time to arouse the pleasurable anticipation one feels over the prospects of say, a trip to Chicago next week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Massie went to Winslow, Wednesday, to attend the wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Cullen at Winslow Wednesday. Mrs. Massie is a sister of Mr. Cullen.

Coared to move forward like the comets. Each man will freely engage and go. As suits his special whim, and feeling. Or rest in his own lung-fung. Or breathe outside the air of hooding.

There'll be no sickness, pain or death. In this old earth, made new and nobly.

The picture almost takes my breath. But I'm well pleased with Bernstein's hobby.

I hope there is no place to go. Described as perfectly infernal. No realm of unrequited we. Where tears and trouble are eternal.

Beyond this vale of hope and doubt. Which, to describe, one must be clever.

There better be blotted out. Their roast forever, and forever.

Yet, with the wicked all destroyed. It seems to me, as one observant. This earth would seem an aching void.

For I, Bernstein and your humble servant.

For I fear very plainly see. And need no further demonstration.

That very few save him and me. Will dodge the coming conflagration.

So no loved ones who have died. It's too late now to fix their names.

Then let the tail go with the hide. Burn the whole bunch and save expenses.

THE ACRE YIELD OF CORN.

Wallaces Farmer: We have heard a good deal in past years about yields of corn of eighty a hundred or even a hundred and fifty bushel per acre, and of the hundreds that have been made by the United States Department of Agriculture; the agricultural colleges and extension departments, and the agricultural agents, to increase the yield.

Mr. Bowman, in his valuable work on "Corn," in which he takes up the growing, breeding, judging, feeding, and marketing, has tabulated the yields from the year 1866 to the year 1914, a period of forty-nine years. Some of the figures given may surprise our readers. The yield per acre in 1866 was 25.2 bushels; in 1871, 25.4; in 1876, 25.4; in 1881, 25.4; in 1886, 25.4; in 1891, 25.4; in 1896, 25.4; in 1901, 25.4; in 1906, 25.4; in 1911, 25.4; in 1914, 25.4.

Free weather calendars at the Rexall Store—Roberts Drug Company. 1314td

The price of corn is given by the department of agriculture as 44 1/2 cents per bushel in 1866, while in 1914 it was 64 1/2 cents. The total increase in price per bushel is $20.00, or 44 percent.

The acreage of corn is given in 1866 as 1,442,000 acres. The total increase in acreage is 1,442,000 acres, or 100 percent.

It is interesting, further, to note that while in 1866 we produced 20.6 bushels of corn per capita of population, in 1914 we produced 25.4 bushels. The yield per capita had decreased to 20.8 bushels. The acreage of corn has kept pace with the area of lands in cultivation for the past fifty years.

Any great increase in corn would now be at the expense of other crops. We can increase our acreage, as we did this year about three million acres, by plowing up pastures; but this leads to decrease in the numbers of livestock which again leads to a decrease in the market for corn, and consequently in its price.

You Are Having More Flour Troubles

This season than for many years. Many mills are grinding inferior sprouted wheat, thinking that people will accept it as a high grade flour. This accounts for 90 per cent of your flour troubles. Splendid and My Kind are two brands of flour which maintain a high standard this year, as it has in the past. It's really a pleasure for the housewife to use either of these brands as perfect satisfaction is always assured. This store has sold and guaranteed Splendid flour for ten years, and never was it better than at the present time. None but the choicest northern wheat is milled for Splendid users. Thirty-six long years the Splendid mill has been supplying thousands of patrons with flour, pure and wholesome. Mothers use it, followed by their daughters, and even the third generation is using the same flour their grandmothers used—Splendid. If you desire to join our army of satisfied customers, if you have had flour troubles, if you desire a flour that will make a nice, wholesome loaf, and more of them, permit me to supply your next sack of flour—Splendid.

MISPLACING THE BLAME

Richard L. Metcalfe in the Omaha Nebraskan:
"Some one has sent me a copy of an eloquent protest against the European project, in which it is said: 'War is the rod in the hands of Almighty God; laid on the backs of the obedient children who continue to follow their own wills. Some day the world will wake up to the fact that it is folly to arouse His anger; but such assuaging when it is very much more comfortable and pleasant to live in harmony with Him and to enjoy the favor of His approval. He showers His richest blessings on those who seek Him and who try to order their lives in accordance with His commands.'"
The mothers of Europe are the greatest sufferers from the war. What have they ever done to incur the "Divine Wrath?"
"The title children of Europe who are made fatherless through this war are, perhaps, the next largest sufferers. What have they ever done to make the good God angry?"
The boys in the trenches who sacrifice their lives for their country— to be next to the mothers and the children—the largest sufferers. They had nothing to do with bringing on this war. What have they done to prompt the Father of us all to lay the rod upon their benumbed backs?
I cannot believe that the Almighty had anything to do with this war. If He did bring it on, then the war must be a good thing however terrible it may seem to those who bear most of its burden. We all know it is not a good thing, and I am opposed to any effort to obliterate it from God's responsibility that be- longed exclusively to a lot of pin- headed, narrow-souled politicians who are strutting around with crowns upon their heads.
I am sure that God is so wise and just that He had any part in this war. He would not permit His first-born to be trampled under the feet of knaves and scoundrels. He would not let the trenches to shake hands and go home. He would wipe the tears from the pallid cheeks of little children. He would give success and sorrow in the hearts of mothers. Then He would tear into tatters that old lie about the Divine right of kings and call upon the men who give life to nations to stand up and be blessed His freemen—sovereigns among their peers."
Of course, some may say that there can be no expert opinions on what God may or may not do—that it is all guess work. That's true, but I'd rather base my guess as to what God would not do upon my knowledge of the things that would be abhorred by good men who are but His image and His likeness.

BIRD AIDS WILSON

Springfield, Mass., Republican:— Mr. Bird's open letter to George W. Perkins is another example of his keen political phase. One begins to suspect that he doubts unconsciously he is preparing the way for the reelection of President Wilson. Mr. Taft's interview in his brother's paper, the Cincinnati Times-Star, is the "straightforward" answer to Mr. Bird's demand for the nomination of Mr. Roosevelt by the republicans; there it is in plain English—"absurd and ridiculous." If Mr. Bird has been talking seriously, he will not overlook what a republican like Mr. Taft has to say. You cannot rejoin the republican party by slapping William H. Taft and his friends in the face.
Is Mr. Bird to be taken seriously by the republican leaders? His logic is so clever in his exhibition of political flightfulness. He seizes the average republican out of his senses, perhaps, in saying so positively that "there are two men, and two only, who have a chance of a chance to defeat President Wilson next November. If that is the fact, let us welcome the candidate upon the republican leadership—Ear Justice Johnson. He is the only man who has the political power to do the trick for political purposes."
But in all of Mr. Bird's political outpourings these days, it will be observed that he rates President Wilson exceedingly low as a statesman. He says: "The fact that he is a republican president, according to the Bird standard, 'The country is unspokeably weary of his blunders and futilities. The inexperienced and tender minded in politics would reason from Mr. Bird's own premises that, unquestionably, Mr. Wilson could be defeated for reelection by a tenth rate candidate."
Yet Mr. Bird stoutly demands the impossible. Only by consolidating all of the anti-Wilson elements can the president be defeated. What, then, shall be thought of a man who conceives of a reunited, irresistible opposition as one whose only possible leader would "imagine" that he could other party disunite? Mr. Bird's widely advertised conception of a triumphant republican party grinding Mr. Taft and his sympathizers under the heel of the colonel belongs to the realm of the imagination—to an eloquent, in short, that "ain't no" Mr. Bird is not showing the slightest tendency to compromise, to give and take, in order to overthrow the Democratic president, whom he seems to detest. Does not this unbecomingly indisposed, from whom only two men who have a ghost of a chance" expose him to the charge of really promoting, in the most effective way possible to him, the reelection of Mr. Wilson?

OUR FIRST CITIZEN

St. Joseph Gazette: It is graceful for Alton B. Parker to urge former President William Howard Taft's appointment to the supreme bench. Let it be borne in mind, however, that William Howard Taft as a citizen fills a far greater office in this country than a supreme judgeship represents.
Mr. Taft's work in and for the nation the past three years has been so unobscured by the whole country. Had he been upon the bench of the highest tribunal in the republic he could not have served his fellow citizens so well. He has been an incentive to right patriotism, a check upon inconsiderate impulse, a rebuke to careless living, an example of public service by the American in private life.
The Gazette hopes that President Wilson will not offer Mr. Taft the vacancy in the supreme court; that Mr. Taft will decline the honor should it come to him. He cannot afford to retire to official life from the high position of chief justice of the U. S. made so wholly a daily fulfillment of one man's duty to his hundred million fellow Americans. There are justly a plenty who can discharge every responsibility devolving upon a member of the United States supreme court. But where is there another who would so splendidly aid the nation in the capacity of exemplar of sturdy citizenship?

I have never had a return attack."

Interesting Lecture.

The lecture given at the high school auditorium Thursday evening by Rev. J. Bruce Wylie was listened to by a large and appreciative audience. The study was the subject 'Can't and Can.' He is most interesting speaker and handled his subject in a masterly way. He eliminated the word 'can't' from the vocabulary. One can do anything, provided one has the will, energy and gumption.' He said one's life could be compared to an engine going up a steep hill. Without sand or grit no progress could be made. Grime or hindrance is necessary, and gumption or self assurance must be possessed in a measure, to insure success in life.

Mr. Wylie brightened his lecture with humorous stories of the 'cans and can't's' of the good old days. Walter Christensen played violin selections before the lecture and also at the close. Mrs. Christensen accompanied him on the piano. The audience was delighted with the music and Mr. and Mrs. Christensen responded to several requests. The lecture was given under the auspices of the library board and the proceeds will be used for buying new books for the library.
