The Navajo Indians, perhaps one of the most primitive of the Indians of the West, are reported to have been discovered in the mountains of Arizona.

Harvey would not have discovered the circulation of blood if he had experimented on some of the negroes belonging to modern society.

Emerson figured rightly that a man can enjoy nothing without a proper attitude on the part of self. He said that a man can go to bed without due confidence in self.

A community club, supplementing the committee of clubs, and employing members farmers and professional men, is generally favored. It would mean a strengthened and more effectual organization.

The Herald is pleased to see the progress of paving the business district. The council is absolutely safe and sound in supporting the proposed improvement. It is the only thing to do to insure healthy progress.

Now that the evidence is all in the investigation of conditions at the Norfolk hospital for the insane, the protesting Norfolk Press will at least admit that everything was not going along as serenely and happily as the owners—the people of the state—would wish.

There can be no ideal government until directly selfish interests are put aside by those who administer it. A public policy—not the worst, nor the best—is sometimes urged because it will serve the advantage of groups of individuals. When we can lift our eyes above ambition for personal reward and fix them on our standard, we can get on our feet. In fact, we will have the kind of government of which people have talked, and which has been held up as the true ideal. Buying self is the way to getting a profit. The spiritual growth as well as the material welfare of present and future generations is a long step forward and upward.

Wayne people will read with interest and appreciation the generous newspaper comments on the hospitality of the city in entertaining the Northeast Nebraska Editorial association. Wayne certainly did well considering the weather with which it had to contend. If the weather had been mild, the event would have been still more enjoyable and successful. We note with satisfaction in the Omaha Bee, Editor Rosewater's endorsement of the reporter's suggestion that an effort be made to bring the state press meeting to Wayne in 1917. We believe we can depend on each editor who was here to become a first class booster for this city in doing all that is interesting. In due time, Wayne should act in that direction.

We are in favor of "favorite sons" which will give the republican ticket equilibrium and strength. It is found that ex-Senator E. J. Burkett of Nebraska, as vice presidential nominee, would help balance and stimulate the republican campaign. Nebraska republicans should unite solidly behind him. But narrowness to the prestige of any state, should be consideration of the party's solidarity and possibility of victory. People who believe in the policies of the republican party and who have confidence in the party's management of affairs, anxious to see the party returned to power and responsibility, should favor a well-balanced ticket one that will win favor and increase the prestige of the party.

Wayne is fortunate in the caliber and public spirit of its ministers and they deserve to be encouraged and supported. They are now engaged in a series of union evangelistic meetings, and by such energetic means are trying to awaken interest in the religious life of the city. They are conducting the campaign without the assistance of an expert evangelist, and are preaching what they believe to be beautiful sermons, promotive of spiritual development. Though all may not agree with all each speaker will endeavor to win converts. The movement, carried along by local talent, is one having possibilities for great and lasting good. Wayne ministers are always ready to assist in any worthy enterprise. Now assist them in an undertaking designed to stimulate religious zeal and unfold and develop spiritual life.

BRYAN DILEMMAS

Lincoln Journal: As matters political are shaping themselves now days, the future of William J. Bryan is not without an element of uncertainty. Next month Mr. Bryan is coming to Nebraska to battle every-where against the liquor traffic. He is a party man, and he is a party man. Mr. Bryan has in the past been famous for swallowing nauseous candidates when of his own party. But after Senator Hitchcock has been re-nominated in April as the candidate of the liquor democrats, and after the wets have nominated their candidate for governor, can Mr. Bryan still be "regular"? He is going to come to Nebraska in the primary campaign to tell us that the most important duty of the state is to see officially not deluged by liquor interests. After that can he possibly appear in the election campaign explaining that the supreme thing after it is to elect to office not sufficient men, as he told us in the spring, but democrats, even of the liquor brand?

But then, how about his brother's position? In accepting a filing for governor, Mayor Bryan officially pledges himself to abide by the result of the primary. If the democratic wets should beat Mayor Bryan with Mayor Dahlm, for instance, or with some one equally interested in the liquor business, Mayor Bryan is equally and honor bound to stand before the people of the state and as a supporter of the brewery candidate. If William J. Bryan refuses to stigmatize himself by doing what Charles W. Bryan is pledged by law to do, support at least passively a wet demagogue for governor and senator, then there is a split in a hitherto harmonious family.

Colored Bryan's dilemma does not end with state lines. He has just accepted a place on the permanent peace committee of the United States. In that position, the president, the man of all nominating his opponent, has meanwhile made such progress as a militant that he now calls for a bigger navy than Theodore Roosevelt has yet dreamed of. Two years ago Mr. Bryan supported re-ferred wet candidates in Nebraska on the plea of standing up for the president. How long will Mr. Bryan feel like standing up for a president who openly flouts his peace pledges, and in his presidential speech says that the chief has meanwhile made such progress as a militant that he now calls for a bigger navy than Theodore Roosevelt has yet dreamed of.

A. J. FERGUSON WRITES FROM PACIFIC COAST

Mr. F. of this city, received a letter recently from A. J. Ferguson, who accompanied by his wife, went to Pomona, Calif., the first of the month to spend the balance of the winter. He says they had a pleasant trip, and were met by old friends having been finished in the business on their arrival at Pomona. They found plenty of snow in the mountains, but no snow through the desert of Nevada. Mr. Ferguson says Pomona valley is not nearly so attractive as it was at the time of their previous visit there. Will Be a Community Church

The Baptist Church has no intention of being merely denominational, and working for the sole propagation of a creed or dogma. It has the modern day vision of humanity, and believes that its mission is to help. It believes that to every soul in Wayne there is attached a body, and the call of the church is to minister to the body as well as to the soul.

Accordingly it is ready to help, in all the ways it can, all the people it can. It will be a factor of the community, and will work for the upbuilding of the community, the bettering of moral conditions and the salvation of men. The Baptist Church will stand for everything that is right and helpful. It will endeavor to "discharge its obligations to Almighty God in heaven and to men in earth."

It will ask the support of the community, and, working in conjunction with other churches, will try honestly to render the community a service in return.

The evening services will always be especially arranged for Men—full grown men—who are on the firing line of everyday battle, and for the purpose of making church attendants of those who are now non-churchgoers. Alive and useful, up to date, serving the public, and honoring God; that is our object and our mission. Helping the community, we desire to be a Community Church.

SUCCESSFUL MEN

The men who fall in line and who move in the common groove will have no better than "average" success. The man who "thinks" and who "plans" and who "positions" and who succeeds in the result of luck or good fortune. In some cases this is true, but the overwhelming majority of the world's successful men are workers, not men with exceptional natural ability and peculiar and extraordinary talent, but simply workers and savers. They are men who make their time count, who do not "sloot" ease and comfort as the best to be obtained in life. Let any of us look up at a taller and more successful man, consider the time we waste in laziness and in uselessly expending energy and money. There are the cause of our own inferiority. The workers, the persistent and intelligent plodders are climbing the ladder and passing while we are stopping to view the landscape. The workers go the hard way up. Fortunate ones need only a start. We open wide the gate to the right road. You must save.

THE FIELD OF BUSINESS.
Sioux City Journal: Commercial reports for the first month of the new year recorded substantial increase in practically every department as compared with January, 1915.

A particularly gratifying showing of general prosperity was disclosed in the reports from the business and mercantile banks of Chicago, covering business conditions throughout the Chicago district. A tendency to slow down collections in certain local districts where crops were heavily damaged last year was the greatest factor in the unfavorable report. There is increasing demand for grain. Grain is moving normally at profitable prices. Winter wheat is found in satisfactory condition, with an increase slightly smaller than last year. Heavy movement of live stock is on at good prices. The wholesale dry goods business is brisk, with short supplies of dyed and printed goods. The grocery trade is normal or better. Furniture orders are reported in hardware and furniture. Automobile sales are well sustained with prospects for another prosperous year in this line. Coal mining is especially active in view of the increased labor shortage. The movement of freight has been hampered by storms and car shortages. Bank clearings show an increase of 20 per cent or more over the record of January, 1915.

The department of L. Pierpont Morgan for London last week was interpreted as confirming reports that the allies are in the market for another credit loan in this country. Some thoughtful students of British covered securities were sold in the New York stock market in January to hold exchange rates down. This time it is expected that a bankers' loan will be negotiated, and that it will be secured by American securities, now being mobilized by the British government. So secured, the loan should be regarded as a better one than was paid for the recent unsecured loan, a considerable portion of which was taken by the American public. The talk now is of a loan of perhaps $250,000,000 at a 4 per cent interest rate. The paper is being sold by the bankers. In view of the redundant money conditions in the eastern market, such a loan should be readily floated.

The speculation in "war brides" is no longer exciting, and in general the public seems to take little interest in the stock market. Renewal of the threat of trouble with Germany was responsible for considerable liquidation last week.

The railway and coal mine operations have commenced public campaigns in opposition to the demand for wage increases now pending, backed by possibilities of strikes. In both of these industries existing wage scales are founded on arbitration awards. The evident intent of the employers is that any adjustments shall be made through the same process. On the labor side there is a singular reluctance to trust arbitration. A railway strike would be particularly unfortunate just at this time when the companies are recovering from the effects of depression and are again getting their finances upon a sound basis.

CHURCH CALENDAR
Presbyterian Church.
(Rev. S. Xenophon Cross, Pastor.)
Every afternoon and every evening, every person is supposed to be in attendance at the union meetings of the Baptist church, every part of the week; this is a most excellent "union" spirit manifested at each service.

Each church will hold its regular morning services. We especially want every boy and every father and mother of a boy, to be at church next Sunday morning. We have something of immediate importance to say to you.

We have long professed to stand for "unity of spirit" why not get together right now in a unity of effort in the evangelistic meetings? Every church member in Wayne and vicinity should attend the meetings if possible.

The Presbyterian Sunday school will welcome you at any session of the school and will provide just the class for which you have been looking, provided you desire to enroll. Visitors are always welcome in this school.

Come tonight to the union meetings. You cannot afford to miss any of these meetings. If you have not been coming, begin this evening. If you were there last night, you will be here again. Bring your neighbors!

There will be a united meeting of the session and the board of trustees at the church on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. It has great importance. Every member of both bodies is urged to be present. Come!

If everybody knew how much the union meetings may mean to the whole community, the Baptist church would not hold the crowds of people that would seek to attend them. Be a booster for a movement that means much to Wayne.

Misses Mabel Dayton and Ella Gildersleeve are being splendidly by the Junior Endeavor. Send the boy and girl next Sunday. No hour of the Sabbath day is spent more profitably than the hour in the Junior Endeavor.

St. Paul's English Lutheran Church.
Sunday school every Sunday morning at 10 o'clock.
Luther League at 6:30 o'clock.

Self Sacrifice.
No man has ever sacrificed himself for the common weal of that phrase which is not a motto, but a duty. Man makes daily sacrifice for others, but it is for their own sake. They must consent their own sacrifice to a man first, not for doing a duty, then he would for shirking it.

Take the case of the Berkeley, Calif. a British trumpeter connected with the army and their wives and children. There was room in the boats for the women and children only. The captain lined up his regiment on the deck and said, "It is our duty to die that they may be saved." There was no retreat, no protest. The boats carried away the women and children. When the death moment came the colonel and his officers took hand sawed boats. Then stood at "attention" and so, as one does parade, with their bayonets fixed to their rifles, they went down a sacrifice to duty for their own sake. A soldier's duty is a mother's pride, a soldier's respect. They had to content a soldier's spirit.—Mark Twain.

Brush Your Tongue.
Brush your teeth. By all means brush your teeth religiously and well, but for your sake brush your tongue, too. Wield your brush backward and forward, under and over, to the north, to the south, to the east and west, scour it with fervor, for it is in truth a fire forest of those loaths which lurks the unseen upon your mouth's white reciment of little microbes charge through the aperture and take up quarters somewhere in the folds of your cleaning apparatus. Seek them out and annihilate them before sleep enfolds you, for, fortified with an enormous capacity for work, they rest not, neither do they sleep. They will awaken in the morning to find whole companies firmly entrenched in the middle of your tongue. If you can't convince of your own particular organs being so invaded, take a microscope and ulnor and get busy.—Philadelphia Ledger.

A Terrible Abyss.
The greatest ocean depth yet sounded is 31,200 feet, near the island of Guam. If Mount Everest, the world's highest mountain, were plucked from its seat and dropped into this spot the waves would reach 2,000 feet above the surface. Into this terrible abyss the waters press down with a force more than 10,000 pounds to the square inch. The greatest abyss yet sounded is 31,200 feet, near the island of Guam. NEIHARDT RECALLS WAYNE EXPERIENCES

Last Thursday afternoon John G. Neihardt, after an absence of many years from Wayne, took a stroll over the city and districts in many places of interest to him because of his boyhood experiences. To his companion is pointed out the barn in the yard of the Patrick Coleman home, saying that when the barn was a house and he was twelve months old, he was within the walls of that dwelling that he first read poetry. The volume was Tennyson's "Idylls of the King" and the lad, being unused to blank verse, wondered why the poem was not that of prose. When seven years of age Mr. Neihardt lived in the home just north of the Dr. Hess residence and had a terrible fever. While in that state he had a wonderful dream which many years after he wrote into the poem "The Ghostly Brother." While living in a little house on Fifth street and teaching a country school near Winside, he composed his first poem to receive wide-spread fame, being "The Divine Encantment."

Mr. Neihardt recalled many incidents of his years here, mentioning in one breath his admiration of the late President Pike and following immediately with some appreciative and complimentary remarks for Gov. Conn. Mrs. Conn and Miss Byrne, now Miss Wright.

Thus, for several hours he was kept talking about his boyhood days, his recollections, his life-time friends, his loves, his joys and charms. Modest as the gentleman is, a tribute to his friends, optimistic convictions, his will and capacity to sacrifice all for his purpose, his far-seeing and some leaving his portion of the subject more fitting and his life more sweet for his visitors.

R. E. SMITH REMEMBERS EARLY DAY BLIZZARD

R. E. Smith of the Wayne vicinity, says he has been reading with interest a copy of the "Early Day Blizzards of 1881" republished from the Poncea Journal of that year. It was February 14, 1881, that he first landed in Nebraska coming from Monticello, Ia. The girl whom he had engaged to marry lived with her parents at Elm City, near Coleridge, and the date of the proposed marriage having been fixed he was determined to be on hand to carry out his part of the agreement. The blizzard mentioned of which was retold last week from the Journal of 1881, was the one which Mr. Smith encountered. While coming from Monticello to Sioux City, his train remained in one huge snowdrift twelve hours and for a period of twenty-four hours he had nothing to eat. At Covington he boarded the train for Poncea, and with snow plows trying to break the way, the engine pushed slowly toward its destination. When the Summit of Big Cut had been reached, snow barriers became insurmountable, and the conductor found it necessary to send the train back to Covington. Young Smith and a lady were the only passengers on the train. The conductor told Smith he had been away from home several days, and that as members of his family were sick, he proposed to walk to Poncea. Smith quickly de-decided to join the conductor in his trek, and in the bathroom, too, he found a struggle through the snow. This arrived in Poncea after midnight, and he found the snow all the way in bed, and near the temporary camp. Mr. Smith tried to hire a local boy to convey him to his home, but many offered him only the 25¢-half the money he had to make. He had to go. Then young Smith, resolved to brook no delay in the effort to reach the girl he had pledged to wed, started out on foot. He took him three days to walk to Poncea, Ia., and when he reached the friendly shelter of his fiancee's home, he was indeed relieved and happy. In recalling the past, Mr. Smith mentioned the severe privations and hardships which he had to undergo during the blizzard, and cold, they had few of the conveniences and comforts of today. They were thinly clad and lived in ills-constructed huts and tents. He says he would not like to live over his pioneer experiences with all their trials and distresses.

UNCLE WALT

The Poet Philosopher

JUST AS GOOD.

You write a book that makes a hit; it's full of happy phrases; and readers all refuse to quit a-singing of its strains. The novel fan your volume buys, wherever he can strike it; and then the Just As Gooder rises, and write some books "just like it." The country's inundated with your type of sparkling story, and Jones and Brown and Jinks and Smith are borrowing your glory. The Just As Gooder lies in wait for all who gain attention, and all their curves he'll emulate, with gall too fierce to mention. If you want a garden gate, that has all others beaten, the Just As Gooder makes its mate before his grub he's eaten. If you turn out a type of poem, you have the same old trouble; the Just As Gooder rushes in, in haste to write its double. If you've a cold—such ailments rise, at divers times, and curse one—the Just As Gooder sits and lies, and says he has a worse one. The Just As Gooder trails along, like dog, behind his betters, and makes a mess of Art and Song, Mechanics, Commerce, Letters.

WIND-JAMMING.

At all our modern colleges, where we are told true knowledge is, they train boys to orate; the student who can speechify, and paw the air and screechily, is hailed as something great. The country's needing workmen, and not the loud-voiced shriking men who labor with their jaws; the list is ever narrowing of men who're fit for harrowing, for wiewling plows and saws. The list is always tengthening of fellows who are strengthening their lungs by exercise; they talk to us eternally, they whoop it up diurnally, doggone their useless eyes. Methinks it's rather dangerous to take the young men grangerous, and make them orators; to send them yawling yammering, the poor old welkin hammering, through all their futile years. Of all the worthless oddities; of all the punk-commodities, from here to the furthest Ind, of all the things that clamantly depress the human family, the worst is Speaker's Wind.

SPRING COMING.

The winter winds and slings its ruse, the wind is keen and frock is king. Cheer up, cheer up, for soon will blow the soft and balmy airs of spring. Your whiskers now are frozen stiff, it is a bleak and bitter day; your ears are cold, but 'twall's the diff? Before you know it, what's the May. The tempest batters at the door, the night wind wails a dismal tune, but in three shakes or maybe four, you'll wade under knee deep in June. And thus it is with every grief; it hurts our corns, but soon it's cool; the darkest, coldest night is brief; the sunshin glitters just ahead. My feet are frozen hard to night, and yet I am a cheerful scout; I know that spring will come all right, and April winds will thaw them out. It's true the wintertime is filled with things that bring my spirit care; but in the spring the birds will build their nests among my beard and hair. Let winter roar and do its worst, the gentle spring will soon be here, when winter's griefs like bubbles burst, and in the azure disappear.

WRITING NOTES.

I am now too proud to fight; I, when I am in a plight, write a note; if some fellow kicks my shins, I submit with peaceful grins, and when I have saved my pins, write a note. Follow up this splendid plan; do not be a martial man—write a note; if some scoundrel steals your wife, do not whet your bow-knife, or make threats against his life—write a note. If a neighbor burns your shack, do not climb upon his back—write a note; if he comes and twists your nose, if he reads upon your toes, don't resent such trifling wrongs—write a note. If the neighbor steals your hens, take your choice of fountain pens—write a note; if a villain climbs your frame, pulls your hair and knocks you lame, to resent it is a shame—write a note. Let your indignation sleep; ink is plentiful and cheap—write a note; be the football of your town; let the howlums knock you down; when you're done up good and brown—write a note. Paper, purchased by the town, desal—no extensive search for a motor, fountain pen, and cheap as dirt, anyone can make them—write a note.

ONE MAN'S MEAT.

The snow is good for the winter wheat, but it isn't good for rheumatism. And that is the way with all things on earth; for some they're good with sterling worth; to some they're bringing a freight of woe—here's rheumatism in the sparkling snow of the wind is bitter and keen and cold, and it brings delight to the chamber bold, but it brings to us the forbidding frowns for pipes are bursting all over town. The ashes thrown on the icy walk saves many a man from a heathen shoe; but the surgeon signs, "That's the way they rob a man like me of a first job." The snow is good for all kinds of soils, but my feet feel like a top-third-rate boot. The young men stiers as he lectures, the kite exults as they toil their sleds; the birds sing odes to the "mantle white," and find new charms in a winter night; but I sit nursing my aching feet—and what I'm saying I won't repeat; the words I use have a dark green tint, the editor says they won't do to print.

The Wayne Bakery Bread, Pies, Cakes, Cookies Confectionery

We can bake a better cake than you can for less money, and save you the time of baking it! The same with all other baked goods. Our "Best Yet" bread is the best on the market. Nothing excels it. Why? Because there is nothing but the purest of ingredients used in it, and it is made just like mother used to make. May we not serve you, when we can serve you with the purest and best bakery goods on the market? Our "Best Yet" bread can be purchased at Beaman's, Rundell's, and Poulson's grocery stores.

Confidence of Doctors

It is our constant aim to furnish dependable drugs, the pure, potent kind, and to provide careful experienced service. To that is due the confidence that physicians have in us and our ever increasing prescription business.

Prescriptions compounded here always have the effect the doctor expects them to have.

We base our prices on the exact cost of ingredients, and you are therefore insured a right price always. Let us fill your prescriptions.

Money and Teeth

A millionaire said: "When I was a young man I had good teeth and nothing to eat, now I am an old man with plenty to eat and no teeth."

The moral is money is only good as far as it gives pleasure, the things which, contribute to our health, comfort, and happiness. When spent on the teeth it gives us all three of these and insures these valuable organs to a good old age.

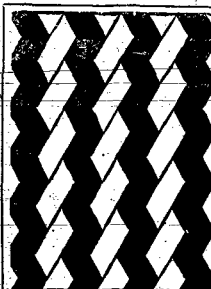

No sane man would knock on the dentist's fee, because he gives value received for every dollar he gets.

Bill Needs the Money

Everybody knows Bill Hoguewood. He's always on the job, and his teams are always busy. If you want a load of coal, or lumber hauled, or stove moved, or a trunk taken at train time, you call up Bill Hoguewood, and you get satisfactory service. After Bill pays his men, feeds his horses, keeps up his wagons and harness, and then pays the blacksmith, the margin of profit is mighty small. You may be owing Bill for draying—many do—and he needs the money. Cooperate with him Pay-Up Week, get that bill paid—you will feel better—SO WILL BILL.

Isn't It Worth Something

To know that every job of Plumbing, Heating and Electric Wiring installed by us is done by a thoroughly competent workman and must give absolute satisfaction before it costs you a cent? We do not make excuses—we make good.

One week from tomorrow, if there is no intervening providence, James Garfield will be inaugurated president of the United States; together with another four years of republican rule.

The forty days of the legislature will soon be out. It is supposed a special session will be called. It is thought to be, at the amount of work thus far done by the legislature has been very small.

The rumor is current upon our streets that Major Porter was recently shot by Indians at Fort Peck, Mont. By a late mail we received a letter direct from that place, which said nothing of such shooting, and hence it is presumed the rumor is incorrect.

It is reported that Father Martin will, when he finishes his present wonderful tale "The Conflict," etc., open on another story. "The Conflict" is not to contain over 225 chapters, whereas the new tale will come on to the grand number of 300. We are informed that it will be a tale of pastoral life in Dakota county, and since Father Martin was awarded the county printing by the magnanimous commissioners of that county at a dollar a year, the list and all, he will immortalize them as the three heroes of the story, and an even hundred long chapters will praise them up, till the world what great, good, wise, profound, proficient, intellectual, well-meaning, and far-seeing humanitarians they are.

Serving the Public Well

We believe that the public welfare is best served by our constantly making extensions and improvements to our existing property to meet the continuing requirements of the public for additional service.

In order to get new money for extensions, it is essential that we pay fair dividends. No man will put his money in an enterprise unless he is reasonably sure that it will be safe and that fair dividends will be paid promptly.

We have absolutely no "watered stock." A dollar has been invested for every dollar's worth of securities issued. This has been proved beyond all doubt by hundreds of investigations by commissions and governing bodies.

In order that we may keep the investment of our security holders safe and our service to the public dependable and continuous, we maintain a sufficient reserve to rebuild or replace our property when it is destroyed by fires or storms, or is worn out or becomes obsolete.

A consistent adherence to this policy has enabled us to give you the best, the most comprehensive and the cheapest telephone service in the world.

the poor man, unless he can find some one to back him with sufficient dough to make it interesting. Harman says he has been steering clear of the proposition. But those positions look good to him, and as Harman has some pretty well-to-do friends, he might be able to find the backing.

More Morehead Petitions.

Petitions for Governor Morehead to enter the race for the United States senate continue to pour into the executive office with a well assorted supply of personal letters urging the governor to get into the race. In the present chaotic condition of things senatorially in the democratic party a whole lot of people are still of the opinion that the governor will get in before the time comes to close up the filing mill.

Mayor Bryan, Edgar Howard and Ignatius Dunn of Omaha were in conference here the latter part of last week and it is expected that there may be some developments from that meeting soon. It is well known that Bryan and Howard had been urging Dunn to get into the senatorial race, but whether they have been able to convince that gentleman that the time is propitious just now is not known.

Governor is Feared.

It is pretty well understood that both the Bryan and Hitchcock factions fear the popularity of the governor should he step out into the ring and caution is being observed at this time until the effect of those petitions on the governor has been determined.

ACTIVE DEMOCRATS.

Lincoln special in Omaha Bee, Lincoln, Feb. 7.—The fun that democrats have been making over the fact that the republicans had a superabundance of candidates for the nomination for governor may be turned in the direction at the rate things are coming in.

The last week three candidates grew where none had grown before and this week there are indications of more. Those interested in the already complicated situation that party are interested in the rumor that petitions are out for Food Commissioner Harman for the nomination.

Mr. Harman would say, very little, but admitted that one petition in his behalf had already reached his office. It has long been known that the food commissioner would like to be governor of Nebraska, but as the poor man loses in the game, his cash is gone, he has declared "There are no more spots" on his frame.

He "cares not"—none the less, he cares.

Truth is, the fellow's heart is wrung. His soul is sad and deep-deserted. His courage gone, his nerves unstrung.

His hope has vanished galleywest.

And, wheresoever he may go.

One fact he never can disguise—He has an ulcerated toe.

To which his friends are all put to wile.

And there can be no sadder fate.

Than going bump in politics; A disappointed candidate.

It always disappoints. BIX.
