

HEAR HOLDEN AT THIS PLACE NEXT TUESDAY AN EXPERT ON SEED CORN

He Will Explain Seed Testing and Show How to Stimulate Corn Production.

Too much importance cannot be attached to the Holden corn meeting to be held in Wayne next Tuesday both afternoon and evening for the benefit of Wayne county farmers. Every farmer and land owner should be alert and anxious to take advantage of everything that can aid him in the selection of seed and the securing of a good stand. The 1915 corn crop was grown under very adverse conditions. The summer and early fall were extremely wet, and while the corn was very soft an early frost and very low temperature overtook it. The seed that was raised from the crop contained no one knows. This haphazard system of selecting an ear for seed because it looks good will not do this year above all years. It never was the right kind of corn—never gave good results and has been responsible for the loss of a great deal of corn in Wayne county.

Last Year's Seed.
There is, no doubt, considerable corn being saved for seed from the 1914 crop and this may be good and it may not be good. There is always uncertainty attached to old seed of no every variety and corn is no exception. If it were good seed it is not so. It does not give good results and will be a good seed this year. Every ear of corn planted this spring whether of the new crop or old should be tested with exceeding care and great pains. No farmer can afford to take chance with seed and the Nebraska farmer is already in the market for his seed corn and realizes that he has no small task before him. If by test it is found that they have good strong seed there will be a good market for it for planting purposes. If you can guarantee its growing qualities.

Holden Will Tell You How.
The object of the Holden in visiting Wayne county is to explain fully all the process of seed testing and the diagnosing of a strong life germ. He is himself a past master in the art and as an authority on corn he can surprise you. He is the Tassel-necked Knight of the Staff—the wizard of the Yellow King. He will forget more about corn today than most of us ever know.

The Committee in Charge.
Carroll, Fred C. H. Bright of the Wayne State Normal sent out requests to the following men, asking that they act on the committee that shall have matters in charge, in order that the whole affair may be the most successful possible: Harry Tidrick, Wayne; W. A. K. Neely, Wayne; W. L. Cunningham, Wayne; Ed Sundahl, Wakefield; Fred Sundahl, Wakefield; John R. Morris, Carroll; F. C. Smith, Carroll; C. H. Shouder, Carroll; W. L. D. Dayton, James Baird, P. M. Corbit, S. E. Asker, John McElyce, A. C. Deah, George McEachern, Charles Henry Miner, all of Wayne; Roggenbach Brothers, Adona; Henry Lessman, Wayne; Iven Moses, Winnside; William Aswayne; Milo Kremple, Wayne; August Wittler, Wayne; M. T. Munsinger, Wayne; James McIntosh, Wayne; Frank Jones, Wakefield. These gentlemen will meet on Saturday of this week in the city hall and perfect the arrangements. Will Use College Chapel.

The meetings both afternoon and evening will be held in the State Normal in the laboratory of the Normal. This arrangement will give added impetus to the whole affair, and contribute much to its success as well as convenience. The Normal is a fine place, with comfortable general fund of information, all within their power. They are already at work on the samples of corn sent in, and it is being germinated, and will on March 7 be on exhibition, so that every farmer present can see for himself what Wayne county has for seed corn this year of poor and uncertain quality.

To celebrate the victory and also to get assistance in caring for the children in delicate condition, Mrs. Ley invited a party of friends to enjoy the evening with them in playing "Royalty." This is a very pleasing game of cards invented by Mrs. Ley. The stakes in the game are carnations, roses, pansies and violets, while the face cards are adorned with the photos of friends.

PAVING PETITION IS MAKING HEADWAY
The Herald believes the public should be apprised of the names of property owners who are in favor of paving the business district, and regarding its inability to secure the list to publish this week. As the Herald has received many names being added from time to time and it is expected the canvass will be pushed forward and completed within a short time.
Considerable frontage on Main street belongs to non-residents, and it is not expected they will try to retard a desirable public improvement. It should be assumed that they are in favor of the enterprise.
As delay in getting the petition completed and presented to the council is trespassing on time, it is needed to work out details preliminary to the commencement of active work, the Herald suggests that the municipal body would be warranted in acting on the petition in the matter of paving a few blocks—to the Baptist church, for instance. A start is all that is needed to arouse demand for additional paved districts. The future—and the near future—of the city will be determined by the council in going ahead. Let the council brook no delay. With or without a petition, let it make progress, and in due time, if not now, the masses will shout approval.

STATEMENT MADE BY DR. NEELY OF WINSIDE ASSAULT PLEA GRANTED

Original Case Against Him Dismissed—Drops $5 and Costs—Drobbie Settled.

On making the statement here on published, Dr. J. G. Neely of Winside, who dubbed Attorney H. E. Sيمان at that place February 12, was on recommendation of the county attorney, as requested by Dr. Sيمان, allowed to enter a plea guilty to assault and battery in the county court at this place Friday last, and was fined $5 and costs, amounting in all to $36.10. Dr. Sيمان says he was prompted in his anxiety by the fact that Dr. Neely advanced in years and a cripple. The original action was therefore dismissed, and the unfortunate trouble disposed of. Dr. Neely's statement follows:
Wayne, Neb., February 24, 1916.
In view of the publicity which has been given in several papers to the controversy between H. E. Sيمان of Winside, Neb., and myself in my office at Winside, on the 12th day of February, 1916, at which time and place an assault took place, I feel that in justice to Attorney Sيمان and his son, Doctor Sيمان, and other persons directly and indirectly interested, I should make a statement of the facts out of which the controversy grew.
On the night of Tuesday, Attorney Sيمان called at my office for the purpose of having me explain a certain statement I had made and concerning the case of Dr. Sيمان and which concerned Dr. Sيمان's professional conduct in a certain case. I at that time insisted that I had stated only the truth concerning the case as I had learned from Dr. Sيمان. The assault which followed was precipitated by myself and was the result of anger and passion on my part and during the assault I was the aggressor.
Further I desired to say which time and place the assault took place, I was mistaken as to what Doctor Sيمان told me concerning this case and that I did repeat the statement to which Mr. Sيمان objected and am now ready to retract the same. My untrue and unwarranted by the fact and this I cheerfully do.
Further I desire to say that at no time during the controversy did Attorney Sيمان strike me or assault me in any way.
The state of Nebraska, Wayne county ss.
On this 25th day of February, A. D. 1916, before me the undersigned, a notary public in and for Wayne county, Nebraska, personally appeared Doctor Sيمان, the assault which followed was precipitated by myself and was the result of anger and passion on my part and during the assault I was the aggressor.
Witness my hand and Notarial Seal this day and year last above written. A. E. BRESSLER, (Seal.) Notary Public.

DEATH OF MRS. CONOVER

Mrs. M. N. Conover who had been a resident of Wayne since 1880, died at her home here Saturday, February 26, after a long illness, and her five sons and daughters were at her bedside when she died. Gaston, and the remains were taken to North Bend, Neb., for interment, accompanied by her three sons, Joel D., Clinton E. and James W. Conover. Janet L. Brock was born April 27, 1858, at Green Mountain, Ia., where she was married to Monroe N. Conover December 24, 1875. The family moved to Wayne county in 1880. EVENTS OF THE WEEK IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS

THE GOERMANN CASES IN DISTRICT COURT

GUILTY ON SOME COUNTS
Trial of Fourth Case Postponed on Account of Defendant's Sickness.
Cases against Simon Goermann, charging him with the illegal sale of liquor, have occupied the attention of the district court this far this week. The first case trial of which started Monday, and in which Nick Eicher, recently returned from the state dispensary hospital, was the complaining witness, resulted in conviction on one of four counts. Fred Lerner was the complaining witness in the second case, and the defendant was pronounced guilty on one of two counts. The third case—tried yesterday—was that of Fred Goermann, who was the complaining witness, went to the jury last evening. The jury found the defendant guilty on one of three counts.
Sickness on the part of the defendant caused postponement until tomorrow morning of the trial of the case charging illegal sale of liquor under a city ordinance, four counts being alleged.

BRUTAL CASE TO BE DECIDED LATE OF WEEK

Lincoln, Feb. 29.—The hearing before the Board of Control was continued this morning and developed nothing out of the line shown yesterday.
Dr. Guttery, who is before the board charged with conduct against the best interests of the insane asylum at Norfolk which he is superintendent and under suspension of his license, was to be heard yesterday. Most of the charges, admitting some, but generally seeking to explain away suspicious circumstances.
In answer to an inquiry by his attorney, Judge Good, if he had at any time used profanity in connection with his reprimand of patients, Dr. Guttery acknowledged that at one time he lost his temper when an attendant or patient who was well situated at a head table was being looked after other patients, but struck an old man in the side with his fist three times at a bill game between attendants and patients.
Guttery Remains Enraged.
The type of case which he did it and he was so enraged at the treatment given the old man that he proceeded to give the attendant a good going over. He said that he ought not to lose his temper, but the provocation was so great that he simply could not help it.
Answering the charge made that he had told an employe that the assistant physician did not know any more about medicine than a farmer, Dr. Guttery denied, as usual, as applied in that manner, explaining the circumstance by saying that the attendant was a new man and that he was endeavoring to impress upon him that many things were a good attention to the patients. He said he knew really more how to handle insanity cases than most doctors who had not had special instruction along that line, but that the remark was not aimed at either of the physician in a hospital, but simply made in a general way.
Holcomb Asks Questions.
The hearing as far as Judge Good's examination of the doctor closed at noon, but members of the board, Judge Good, in particular, carried on the examination of the doctor for an hour later in an endeavor to bring out more fully some of the answers made by Dr. Guttery. The hearing was then closed and an adjournment was taken until 2 o'clock when Judge Good made argument for his client.
At the conclusion of the argument made by Judge Good in behalf of Dr. Guttery, the board, after a half hour's conference, announced that they would take the matter under advisement and would not render an opinion before Friday or Saturday.

SUGGESTION.

The Herald would suggest that China needs Col. Roosevelt for its president at this time, and that the United States, exemplifying true Christian principles, ought to let him go over there to lead in maintaining the oriental empire against Japanese aggression. His flaming militarism is needed there worse than here. He would be willing, if he is thought to be willing, to go of course—to make the loan.

"NO CAUSE FOR WAR"

For my own part I cannot consent to an abridgment of the rights of American citizens in any respect. The honor and self respect of the nation are involved. We cover peace and shall preserve it at any cost but the loss of honor. To forbid our people to exercise their rights for fear we might be called upon to vindicate them would be a deep humiliation indeed. It would be an implicit, but explicit, acquiescence in the violation of the rights of mankind everywhere and whatever nation or allegiance. It would be a deliberate abdication of our hitherto proud position as spokesmen, even amid the tempest of war, for the law and the rights. It would make everything this government has attempted and everything that it has achieved during this terrible struggle of nations meaningless and futile.—President Wilson.

The president's heroic pose would be impressive if assumed in defense of a clear right, the retention of which was essential to the maintenance of the national dignity. It is pathetic when the president speaks of exceedingly dubious privileges in the exercise of which a few reckless Americans who insist upon doing what they ought not to do must be supported by the action of a majority of the millions of lives as millions of dollars.

Sweden only the other day was confronted by the same situation.

V A C. Rubber Boots are made by a special high-pressure process, which vulcanizes the boot into a one-piece boot, making it strictly waterproof, and by the high pressure, while being vulcanized, the air cells are taken out of the rubber, making it more compact, which gives greater wear.

now under consideration in Washington. The Swedish government people warned its citizens to keep off belligerent ships in which their lives would be endangered by Germany's submarine policy. So far as noted nowhere has it been alleged that Sweden's national honor has been impaired by the sensible course pursued by its government.

At the beginning of the Russian Japanese war the British government warned its citizens to keep off ships of the belligerents. British citizens then had a better right to travel in security on Japanese and Russian ships than American now have to travel on British, French or Italian ships. Nobody thought that the honor of the British empire was diminished because it undertook to reduce the chances of trouble by advising its citizens to follow the dictates of common sense.

President Wilson talks as if the right of neutrals to travel on armed merchant ships were an established right. It is nothing of the sort. The right of merchantmen to carry guns for defense involves the principle of international law which is obsolete so far as modern naval warfare is concerned. Its utility passed with the pirates and privateers, against which defensive guns were intended to provide protection. The present controversy with Berlin involves a practically new question of international law. The question is: Shall merchant ships be allowed to carry guns capable of sinking submarines while submarines are forbidden to sink such ships without first giving them a chance to sink the submarines?

President Wilson and Secretary Lansing gave a clear intimation of their attitude as to the merits of this issue when they asked the allies to disarm their merchant ships so that all merchant ships could fairly be rendered immune from attack without warning. It was not until after the allies had agreed to agree to this reasonable regulation that President Wilson and Secretary Lansing decided to commit the American government to the unfair proposition that armed merchant ships be immune from submarine attack, while submarines are not immune from attack from armed merchantmen. If the contention of the American government in this regard should be granted by Germany it would put the submarine out of business as a commerce destroyer, and the result of Washington's intervention would be unequal to the extent of depriving one of the belligerents of an advantage which it has enjoyed throughout the war.—Sioux City Journal.

WANNING ENTHUSIASM.
Harrington Herald: Los Angeles, Calif., has at last been heard from, not in that buoyant, boisterous, stamping tone which generally characterizes the letters of our correspondent. The last contribution from Los Angeles is very moderate and conservative in its utterances, indeed, and between the lines one can read the admission that perhaps the California climate is not quite equal to that of paradise, after all. Evidently, the thrilling experiences of storm and flood through which our correspondent has passed during the past few weeks, have had, as was to be expected, a dampening effect upon his invincible soul.

The reasonable, sensible way to determine just what heating system you are going to install, is to examine carefully, not the claims alone, but the system itself.

THEN, without obligating you to buy, have the Round Oak Heating Engineer draw up plans for your building, and scientifically arrange the installation.

AND THEN have men who know how, put in the system that not only renders more than a generation of service, but increases the value of your property more than the amount invested.

NOW we want to start the preliminaries by making a definite engagement with you, to-day. Will you phone, write, or call?

Quality High It's a Fairbanks-Morse

Of all the manufactured farm implements for years and years, there has been one brand that has stood out and above all others for quality, and that name is Fairbanks, Morse & Co. With them it has ever been name first, regardless of price.

But don't you forget they have also appreciated the fact that "PRICE TALKS" and that "PRICE" coupled with "QUALITY" does business.

These two things, "quality" and "price," are responsible for the wonderful selling impetus given Fairbanks engines for 1916. QUALITY—Fairbanks, Morse is behind that. PRICE—It speaks for itself.

Some Facts About the Mina Taylor House Dresses

Service—A house dress is strictly a utility garment. It must give a service of economy. Mina Taylor Dresses are made from the best materials which are tub proof, and give the utmost wear for the nature of the fabric from which they are made.

Durability—Staunchness is a feature of all Mina Taylor Garments. Waist seams are sewed with an overcast lock stitch, which cannot rip, and which will not "run" even should a shield break. Skirt seams in the better numbers are taped, adding to appearance.

Guarantee—Every Mina Taylor Garment is guaranteed in both workmanship and material. It is sold with the understanding that if it is not satisfactory in every respect, it may be exchanged for another garment or money refunded at the option of the purchaser.

ception and views regarding the national Capital with a description of the places as he had seen them. Professor E. E. Lackey used the stereopticon and views relating to a farm topic. Professor E. J. Last Friday evening the club gave a formal three-course dinner. This was served in the upper hall of the science building by the domestic science department. The club had as its guests the instructors who had given programs. The long table was beautifully decorated and had artistic place cards and printed menu cards. The table was lighted by a row of candles and illuminated from above by electric lights arranged especially for the occasion.

At the close of the meal the president, Albert Bengtson acting as toastmaster, called the members to order and announced the speakers. The toasts as printed on the menu cards were given:

What benefit have I received..... Louis Jeppson

How may each one get the most benefit?..... Will Doman

What I know about boys..... Miss Killen

What can the school do for the short-course students..... Albert Thompson

Shall we have a club next year?..... Harry McIntosh

Some Suggestions..... Professor C. H. Bright

All during the program there was much of laughter and hard clapping with expressions of appreciation by the members of the club.

Each guest of the evening was called upon and responded by making a short address to the club.

The applause was unstinted and good-fellowship was much in evidence. Professor Bright was called upon to close the program, and at the close of his address gave the club him a hearty cheer which was taken up by the young ladies of the domestic science department, who in turn received the cheers of the club. All then joined in the school yell.

The evening marked the best ordered function held by any organization of the school so far this year. The most noticeable feature of the affair was the sense of unity these young men felt in this organization. Many of them will soon return to their homes and the work of the farm for the year. In leaving the normal all expressed regret and will long remember the club which afforded them an opportunity of the school of which it is a part.

knowing the work of the department of the normal, and also an opportunity of forming lasting friendships with each other and the members of the faculty. They now appreciate a membership in the ship in one of the school's most prosperous organizations. In time to come the influence of this organization will be of great value to school of which it is a part.

We can't help but think her name, Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt—emphasis on the Catt—operates as a potential force in carrying on her work as resident of the American Women's Suffrage association.

If people would devote as much time and thought to finding out how to overcome obstacles in the way of doing things as they do to raising every possible objection as an excuse to procrastinate, they would make more headway in the world and leave something more than a trail of disappointed persons to regret when they get ready to quit.

At a meeting of the republican central committee, candidates and other party leaders of Cedar county at Laurel last week a resolution was adopted endorsing W. R. Warner of Dakota City for congress from this district. Mr. Warner has been in the public mind as a suitable man for congress for several years, and is believed to be making an effective campaign for the place.

To ascertain the qualifications of men summoned to serve as jurors in the trial of the Goeman case this week, this county has made "Are you a reader of the Wayne Herald?" An affirmative reply was regarded an objection to competent jury service. The best qualified jurymen must know nothing about a man's private opinion regarding his Herald reading, kept posted, and naturally form opinions. We are not surprised that they are disqualified. Manifestly the generally read Herald must definitely have secured the best suited for service. The moral is plain: Join the Herald family, and secure immunity from jury service.

Though probably America's greatest statesman, Elihu Root has proven disappointing to many admirers by the extreme military spirit which he manifested in a recent New York address. He is likely imbued with the military spirit and expresses the sentiment dominant there. In the middle west, people are usually opposed to any unnecessary step towards militarism. They abhor the giant military masses of the eastward, and in the interest of a high order of civilization, would eschew imitating them as far as possible. People of the middle west want only enough "preparation" to protect the country against the military states, and in touch with the situation, disagree as to the extent of military masses needed. How are the masses to know?

Local church people who are figuring on erecting a tabernacle and importing an evangelist for a series of meetings, ought to be sure they are answering a public need or demand before undertaking the enterprise. They should be sure to secure the money required for such a movement could not be made to better serve community welfare if devoted to some other public service. We doubt if there is an evangelist in the state equal in ability or sound reasoning to any one of Wayne's ministers. These ministers are devoting their whole time to encouraging in Wayne life's highest ideals and purposes. If they could divert a measure of money for other objects than building a tabernacle and importing an evangelist more useful to the public, they should not take the latter step unless driven by popular demand. The money needed would go far towards some permanent benefit for the young.

Nearly every week with a twelve-page paper, we find more matter Thursday morning than can possibly be provided for. In the past, printed on that day, notwithstanding use of all possible features in the eight pages printed Tuesday and Wednesday. Thus, it invariably becomes necessary to trim down Thursday's supply, and accordingly the editorial page always suffers. By the usual process of elimination, last week's editorial page was squeezed into less than a half column. While we believe all might be accomplished by the sacrifice of other matter, we think provision should be made, possible on one page to enable the editor to reflect his opinions, if he happens to have any, and take care of other matter in the nature of comment. Therefore, we will make space for which is printed Wednesday, the editorial page hereafter. It is not likely to be overcrowded, and its use will leave page six, the usual editorial page, free for other features.

Democratic rivals for places as delegates from Nebraska to the democratic national convention say they are united for the re-nomination of Mr. Bryan. They differ as to proposed platform pledges. Mary Nebraska democrats, led by W. J. Bryan, are opposed to the president's "preparation" propaganda, and do not want to say so in the platform. Mr. Bryan is apparently willing to have his cherished one-term plan violated. Now he is anxious to bind the party to an anti-preparation program, contrary to the president. Will he later withdraw his plan for which he now makes so much effort? Why he so disturbed and divided over something that means nothing.

A newspaper is usually asked to suppress court news involving the names of persons on the plea that innocent people connected with the principals are thereby made to suffer, and the request is usually granted. It is a serious question, however, whether more harm than good is done by such concealment. Much publicity might put into the minds of people—young people especially—ideas which they had not already possessed, and thus lead to steps which would not otherwise have been taken. If such publicity has a deterrent influence on would-be offenders, and assurance of publicity would tend to restrain evil inclinations. How a newspaper can most effectively suppress the machinations of the devil is not certain, though we believe society generally would be best served by a middle course—moderate publicity. While the Herald will always yield to the course which is best for the community, the greatest number, it will have to be convinced by showing of effect not hitherto made that duty or wisdom hereafter lies in a policy of suppression. Evil practice is liable to the machinations of the devil, that event in the future the Herald will at least make brief mention of the facts. The narrow path of rectitude is the wisest and safest, and we would advise old and young to stick to it.

FOR DELEGATE-AT-LARGE. Wayne county friends of E. R. Gurney of Fremont, will be interested in the announcement that he has decided to become a candidate for delegate-at-large in the republican primary, and can be depended on to rally to his support with enthusiasm. Mr. Gurney lived in Wayne county for a number of years, and Mr. Gurney is engaged in banking business at Winslow, from whence he moved to Fremont. He is still largely interested in this county. He is known as a man of keen brains, sound principles and highest integrity, and it is a pleasure to the Herald to join his army of friends in supporting his aspiration.

Of Mr. Gurney's candidacy the Fremont Tribune has this to say: "In anticipation of the announcement that E. R. Gurney of this city that he will be a candidate for delegate-at-large in the republican primary. The Tribune desires to give its unreserved and hearty approval of his candidacy." Mr. Gurney has never asked any political favors, yet there has been nowhere in Nebraska any man who has been more ready and willing to perform a service, either for the party or for a friend. He has been active in every activity that he has undertaken, and there are men everywhere throughout the state who will be ready to give him enthusiastic support for the honor he seeks. In the operation of the law of compensation it is conceivable that a man like E. R. Gurney will be ready to reap a reward. "Mr. Gurney in his republicanism is well grounded, yet he is not a propagandist may be new or novel, or presented in a new disguise, is not enough to command his approval. It must bear the test of reason, measured by history, with which he breathes into a bucket of water. The presidential year there should be no death of gasoline.

in the work of selecting a candidate for the presidency and in framing a platform of principles upon which to elect the candidate, Mr. Gurney would represent the intelligence, the energy, the aspirations and the ambitions of the people of Nebraska. With a delegation of his size and kind in that great political saunter, Nebraska, will have no doubt, confidence.

A COMMUNITY HOUSE. Mr. Editor:—The writer is tremendously interested in the proposed plan for a community house. This community house, if built, would be a place where the young people of the county could be represented in every legitimate way. Such a house could be used as an after school meeting place for the school children. Tonight I saw about a dozen little claps throwing clouds at one another and otherwise giving expression to personality in violent fashion. I do not suppose it was very bad, but there are better ways for boys to perform. One night I saw a clerk in one of the stores, a fine young man, who said: "This is the first night that I have had for a month and I don't know where to go. Is there anything on at the normal? I was sorry to be obliged to answer 'No'." Reverend S. X. Cross has another plan that is of great interest to us all. It is that of a county Y. M. C. A. Cannot the two notions be made to supplement each other? What is a name? Instead of having a county Y. M. C. A. secretary why not a county welfare worker? He will not be the worse for training in some college Y. M. C. A. and he can be one who has some skill in social investigation. Every community should have a worker who is that it is should know what it is about, what it is accomplishing for the values that we all hold dear.

The welfare worker will find out the facts and the community house will serve to promote all the values of the community. He will be our community executive as well as our community scout. One of the beautiful features of the community house plan is that the money to build it is to be raised by taxation. I shall rejoice in paying my share. My taxes are small for the privilege of living in a place like Wayne, with a progressive civic spirit, and a public service, library, and public schools, in addition to normal and churches manned by able and wide awake preachers. But I crave the chance to add to the expense that we may be the pioneer town of the section to recognize the necessity of definite knowledge of our community needs and have a place where all may go to find out how to live better cooperative lives. Hall, community house and welfare worker—J. T. House.

TO CHAPEN GASOLINE. Fremont Tribune: It is to be noted with pleasure that scientists report progress in the discovery of a method of making a substitute for gasoline. It is done by the infusion of natural gas and water. If the spellbinders can be induced to breathe into a bucket of water the presidential year there should be no death of gasoline.

FORMER RESIDENT MAKES SUGGESTION

Contrary to the Master's command, "Feed my lambs" the people of Wayne seem blind to their duty to the young people of the community. This is the opinion of one who lived in Wayne for many years, but who has now removed to another community. Perhaps the very fact that this person sees conditions from a distance, renders the opinions less prejudiced and more worthy of consideration than that of an individual so engrossed in his own profession or business as to somewhat blind his vision to the larger life of the community as a whole. The suggestion is this: Turn one church building into a Y. M. C. A. or community house, preferably the latter. The building could be adapted to the needs of such an institution at comparatively little expense and with a well trained social worker in control, it would prove of inestimable value as a social center for Wayne. What about the parishioners of the church which would thus be put to another use? They could join forces with the other churches of Wayne, and thereby make them stronger and more efficient in practical service. When such a house is opened, and only then, will the problem of wholesome amusement for young people be even partially solved. A farmer is too sensible to run a herd of sheep into his yards and then leave them there to shift for themselves. Cannot the citizens of Wayne be equally sensible?

PROMINENT WOMAN COMMITS SUICIDE

Stanton, Neb., Feb. 29.—Mrs. F. W. Witte, a member of a prominent and wealthy family here, hanged herself yesterday in the basement of her home here, her body being found by her husband about five o'clock last night. She had gone to the basement apartment, basement 3 and accidentally hit a spring trap which had sprung in the ceiling, climbed on a barrel, tied the rope around her neck and jumped off.

Her husband and brother, Charles Mittelstaed, had gone for an auto trip to the country in the morning. When they returned home she was not there but they supposed she had gone to a neighbor's and they left for another trip. They returned at 5 o'clock and not finding her instituted a search which led to the discovery of her body. The coroner said she had been dead eight or nine hours.

There is no known cause for her act. The man said when they left for the morning trip he expected to go in a happy frame of mind. The Wittes had just completed a fine new $5,000 home which they were about to move into.

Mrs. Witte was the daughter of a prominent and wealthy resident of this section. She was about 47 years old and had lived in this vicinity most of her life. She and her husband moved here about a year ago from Winsler. They had no children.

SENTENCE OF YOUNG CROSIER DEFERRED

Norfolk Daily News, Feb. 29: Richard Crosier pleaded guilty to a charge of breaking and entering the high school building here and stealing about $104, before District Judge Anson A. Welch who held court in chambers in the county attorney's branch office last Monday morning. Judge Welch suspended sentence and after a session talk with the boy he intimated that his parole depended upon his actions from now until May 15 at which time the district court will convene at Madison and the judge will pronounce sentence. Bail was fixed at $500 and was furnished.

The penalty according to the statutes for breaking and entering is from one day in jail to ten years in the penitentiary or a fine or both.

There was little ceremony during the hearing. The complaint filed against him by County Attorney Dowling was read to the boy and he immediately pleaded guilty and a request was made that sentence be pronounced. Judge Welch's talk was to the effect that he would suspend sentence until the first day of the next term of court in Madison.

What has become of the wretched fair who pleased the eyes of the old time swells, who made the dress they used to wear, and looked as smooth as the modern belles? They made their pious and they made their honest; they made their dignities and their glories; they made their hearts; they took blue ribbons at county fairs; for fragrant butter in golden rolls; a noble pride in their vanities; and their success they left below; about one time in a hundred years you'll see a girl who can cook and sew. I like eggs soft and I get them hard. I like tea strong and I get it weak. The meat is burned and the steak is charred, and fears the glimmering of my check.

There's nothing spoils a mortal's life like living with a nagging wife. The husband who is daily stung and badgered by an over-enthusiastic wife, only has his head of grief, and long for death as a relief. "Why doesn't that poor skate arise," Unsympathetic Neighbor cries, "and put his foot down good and flat, and let every husband face and save his wife's soul a boss of his domain." But what can a poor pilgrim do, if he is married to a shrew? If he hears up to speak a price, the wife will quickly make him cease for she can yell three times as loud, and has the backing of the crowd. And if he gathers up a chair, and with it comb's the lady's hair, of public wrath there will be a storm—he is a fiend in human form. If, for every wicked act will bring the freight, the constables will search the state; and drag him to his home again, where he'll be sentenced to the pen. Of all positions dire, ac-

Miss Anna Roberts was born October 19, 1895, and died February 8, 1916, of diphtheria. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Roberts. On account of the nature of the disease, only a short service was held at the grave Wednesday afternoon, conducted by Rev. D. P. Davis of Breuna, D. T. Davies.

Deceased was a member of last year's graduating class of Carroll high school; a life that everyone loved, and her friends were more numerous than she realized. There were a number of letters, a father, mother, and three brothers, Thomas, Levi, and Edward.

One is a dear form from our midst, To her home just over the way; Come to her God in heaven, There to dwell for ever and a day.

The allotted time that was given to her For life's journey here below Seems short to me mortals she left behind,

Though 'twas a life that sin ne'er would know, Such a short time has passed Since last we met,

And 'twas then we did recall The glorious school days at Old Wayne, With the troubles and pleasures of all.

We will miss her dear form from familiar scenes, Where oft her feet have trod, But I will visit her smiling face, As she sings with the angels of God.

Then to those whose hearts are aching And whose lives seem filled with woe,

Remember his God's promise: This bright home you, too, may know.

When your life work here is ended, And you cross the swelling tide, There you'll find your loved one waiting.

Where no harm-come'er befall, Then there'll be no pain nor sorrow In this land so pure and fair, You may live in peace forever.

For there'll be no parting there, —Mrs. Frank Davis.

Tennis Club Banquet.

The Carroll Tennis club held its annual banquet Tuesday evening at the Carroll hotel. Twenty-six members were present. A "short" business meeting, at which it was decided to have the city water run to the court and a shower bath installed for the coming season's improvements; a musical program was rendered. Miss Mabel Linn sang beautifully. Miss Clara Linn favored with a reading, and Dave Theophilus read a very interesting paper. The party then retired to the dining room and partook of the following menu: First course: Oyster cocktail, celery and olives. Second course: Mashed potatoes, chicken, and salad. Third course: Ice cream, cake, and coffee. Charles Cloason acted as toastmaster, and filled his position in a very able manner. At a late hour the party departed for their respective homes, feeling they had had a most enjoyable evening.

The pupils of the lower rooms are now taking the state examinations, which come regularly every six weeks.

The juniors entertained the high school at opening exercises Monday morning with a song of their own composition.

Hot luncheons are progressing well, and are much appreciated by those who partake.

Last week was the National Week of Song. It was celebrated by the school in a very fitting way. Besides additional singing in school, Friday afternoon, all the students and teachers marched to main street displaying two of our country's flags.

On main street, they sang several of the old songs, including the national airs and folk songs. They broke ranks after three hearty cheers had been given by the assembled crowd for the stars and stripes. Saturday night the juniors were mostly entertained in the basement of the schoolhouse by their sponsor, Miss Sterling. After an evening of funmaking and games, the students were served with a dainty three-course supper. They dispersed, feeling very grateful to their sponsor for the hospitality shown them.

Two weeks ago, the boys' and girls' teams played a basketball game with the understanding that the losing team should entertain the winners. The girls' team lost, and Tuesday evening entertained the boys' team and Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Jones, at a theatre party and a supper. As this is leap year, and that evening was also February 29, the usual order was reversed and the young ladies escorted the boys to the Royal. After the show, the party adjourned to the Will Jones home, and spent a delightful evening in leap-year games and contests.

The decorations were beautiful, decorated in orange and black, the team colors, and the basketball occupied a prominent position in the decorations. A delicious two-course supper was served as an appropriate close to the evening's fun.

BRYAN IS REPORTED IN FAVOR OF WILSON

Washington, Feb. 29.—New light was thrown on the vacant federal judgeship in Nebraska today through an interview given to the press by Judge W. H. Thompson of Grand Island previous to his leaving for his home in Grand Island.

Judge Thompson, who is the democratic state chairman of Nebraska, having just come from Miami, Fla., where he had an extended visit with Colonel W. J. Bryan, said: "People misunderstood Mr. Bryan's position regarding his relations with the president."

They differ only on a few principles resulting from the war. These do not affect their principal relations. Mr. Bryan will most likely be one of the Nebraska delegates at large to the St. Louis convention; the entire delegation will be for the president's re-nomination. Whether pledged or instructed—Mr. Bryan will probably be among the Nebraska delegation, which will be for the president to a man.

Nebraska is for President Wilson.

One-Term Plank Disposed Of.

Regarding the one-term presidential plank Mr. Thompson said he believed Bryan would not raise it against the president. Bryan believes the plank should be again enacted in St. Louis platform, but made applicable only to a president elected after laws are enacted putting it into effect.

That no resolution will be urged by Bryan in the St. Louis platform which would embarras the president or repudiate any of his policies was the substance of the sentiment expressed by Mr. Thompson. It is Mr. Bryan's belief the Wilson re-nomination is assured.

But what is more significant Mr. Thompson presented a letter to Attorney General Gregory yesterday when he called at the Department of Justice with Congressman Shalberger from Colonel Bryan, wherein the Commonsense respectfully called upon the attorney general to tell President Wilson that he, Mr. Bryan wanted Mr. Thompson to be appointed to the Munger vacancy.

said he believed Judge Thompson eminently fitted for the place by reason of long legal practice and faith-

In the night of the interview which Mr. Thompson gave out today and the Bryan letter there was a perceptible change of atmosphere about the Department of Justice with reference to the Munger matter, and a number of knowing persons were sure to guessing just what Attorney General Gregory would do now.

Up to today it looked very much like Judge L. J. Shuman would be for the vacancy, but with Bryan's personal appeal, and the fact that he will place no obstacles in Wilson's pathway for nomination, but rather help him land the permission, Judge Thompson might feel his title clear to the district judgeship of Nebraska for monumental policies is being played these days by the Wilson forces.

Judge and Mrs. W. H. Thompson have been in Washington for several days. They have made a long visit to the Bryans in Miami, Fla. They left tonight for Grand Island.

He Died Without Betraying Its Whereabouts.

By CLARISSA MACKIE

Captain Ham Tadokate sat on the wharf and gazed his boots over the water.

It was very pleasant there, for the faint of the salt air was agreeably blended with the fragrance from the little clam barrels and lobster pots and the more elusive odors of fish and shrimps and tar.

Besides these odors, each nothing in itself, as a whole making up what one at once recognized its sea surroundings, there is the expanse of water surface stretching before one with nothing to break its continuity. A sail here and there creeps along, a gull soaring or suddenly swoops down on some luckless fish, and later the white there is the flash of the water driven by the salt laden breeze. One who has not yet experienced the combination of fragrance and scenery will never forget it.

There was the sound of hammer and saw and the creating of a platform of rough logs, the wooden pier extending on the railway of the shipyard. "Hum-ho!" yawned Captain Ham contentedly. "Where is trader is pecked."

At that instant Ferdie Pratt's cautious voice hailed him from the landing steps. "Alo, there, cap'n!" he called.

Captain Ham arose with difficulty, rubbed his rheumatic knee with a large knuckle band and slipped down the pier.

Ferdie Pratt, a round little man with sunburned skin and bleached hair, turned a pair of bilious blue eyes toward his friend.

"Ready?" he asked. "Ready," assented the captain as he entered the boat and picked up a can of "Lety's" wrenching us," retained Ferdie as the boat swung out from the wharf.

Captain Ham gazed over his shoulder at the gambler's blue cottage on the east shore.

The sun-fouled-on-the-lens-of-his-eyes, however, had in the steady hands of Mrs. Hiram Tadokate.

"I wish Lety wasn't so dreted nosy," complained Captain Ham as he looked toward the gambler's cottage. "If I guessed we were looking for Red Pepper's treasure I'll be blamed if I know what she'd do."

"I wish that she should tell every man, woman and child in Punderion village," growled Mr. Pratt, who cherishes no illusions regarding that strong-minded woman.

"I wish that the New Jersey lawyer tell about would invent something to handle witness's testimony," retained Captain Ham as he bent his eyes against the tide.

"What do you old back like to do about witness?" "What do you old back like to do about witness?" was Ferdie's tart reply.

Outside the breakwater they turned the boat to the east and rowed along for some several minutes. Captain Ham laid down his oars and rubbed his hands together.

"Here's Ferdie. I shall tell another look at that map I found," he said complacently.

He fumbled in his hip pocket and pulled out a yellowed bit of paper which unfolded to display some struggling characters in faded purple ink.

"I guess there ain't no more on it," he said, "but I'll see what a good map recovered Ferdie impatiently.

Captain Ham smoothed out the paper and studied the route map with a kind of nervous interest, the words to himself.

"Oub potin'-hum-that's herp-the-oh-licks-that's round-made the 'pudding stone'-that's Red Pepper's treasure!"

"Where'd you say you found the map, Ham?" asked Ferdie.

"I found it on a boat, I's 'ne that belonged to her great-grandmother. Seems the great-grandfather made it for her during a long voyage so it'd be safe when she was in the box, and when the bottom came out she asked me to mend it."

"I found my grandpa Ferdie, but you could have showed me datin' a penance when I found this map hid in a false bottom to the box!"

"I'm sorry I can't describe it better than I've done," said Ferdie, "but I'll try to describe it as best I can."

"I'll try to describe it as best I can," said Ferdie, "but I'll try to describe it as best I can."

and followed his leader to the old bakery, two square, which they had played in boyhood days, for Crab noted, disconcerted now, had once been the site of a little hut, now offered by the prosperous village of Punderion. Many tumble-down houses and weed-grown culverts betrayed the site of the abandoned hamlet.

"The 'pudding stone' was another rather odd object, and around Crab held itself off, since traditions of the general pirate, Red Pepper, who had walked the plank of his own ship with a broken back, and went to death without betraying the secret of his hidden treasure.

"To think of it being under that old stone all these years!" mused Ferdie Pratt as he peered at the stone with the iron bar, while the captain leaned on the equid and directed operations.

"The old man and share alike," encouraged Captain Ham as Ferdie persisted at his task.

"You might share some of the work," grunted Ferdie.

The captain striped and thrust the blade of his slide under the stone.

"Leave 'er!" he roared hoarsely. The old pudding stone lifted suddenly from its bed, holed by the earth. With a crash of broken underbrush it rolled away, leaving a deep indentation in the ground.

"The test is easy," commented the captain, and fell to work.

A novel social affair of the season was the "railroad" party given at the college Saturday night. The characters carried from the "news" wads" to the loquacious temperance

The dinner social at the Mt. Good Hope home Tuesday evening was well attended. Each lady brought a dollar and stated how she earned it. One lady was frank enough to admit that she "earned" seventy cents by hounding her husband's shirt and the remaining thirty cents by hounding them any more.

We are again compelled to issue a half-sheet. Our paper handles have not arrived from Chicago for the past three weeks. They are lodged in some unmountable snow drift on the line of the Illinois

The cabinet of President Garfield consists of the following: James G. Blaine of Maine, secretary of state; Wm. Windom of Minnesota, secretary of the treasury; Wayne McVeagh of Pennsylvania, attorney general; Thomas L. James of New York, postmaster general; Samuel Kirkwood of Iowa, secretary of the interior; Robert T. Lincoln of Illinois, secretary of war; and Whit Blaine of Louisiana, secretary of the navy.

Father Martin remembers in last week's Argus that "fifty-five years ago" Friday (being the day on which Jackson was inaugurated, he stayed over night at the house of Captain Joshua Howard of New Hampshire, and he states that the weather was fine, there being numerous bare spots in the roads and fields, although, as is a notorious fact, New Hampshire is not given to much mildness of demeanor, when it has its winter clothes on. Will not Father Martin also state his recollection of how the weather was on the day when President Johnson was inaugurated? It is not probable that Father Martin can remember near so bona-fide-winter as this one, even if he goes back double fifty-two years ago last Friday.

LACE AND FLOUNCES IN SPRING FASHIONS

New York, March 1.—The Spanish influence, they call our tendency this season toward ruffles, flounces, laces, full short skirts, and basques. This note was first mentioned at the introduction of the hetero, a little earlier in the season, and since the premiere of Goyescas at the Metropolitan opera house some weeks ago—the first time, by the way, that America has been honored with a first performance of a new opera—this Spanish note is being talked of more and more. Whether it will really be an important issue in the summer fashions is yet to be seen; so far it is being noticed only in a strong leaning toward the deep Novel Skirt Drapery.

Spanish flounce of lace on dance and dinner dresses, and on lingerie summer frocks.

In the fascinating Pandango danced in the second act of Goyescas, the dancer wears a charming little frock of yellow, with two deep black lace flounces joined to veil the skirt from below a deep yoke depth; the frock is so dainty and graceful that it should incline us all to Spanish lace flounces.

The Spanish Lace Scarf. All through the brilliant audience on opening night, as a delicate attention no doubt to the composer, one saw the Spanish lace scarf in both black and white, draped about gleaming white shoulders. Here and there in true Spanish fashion, too, a high back comb was seen, often in the shining black hair of a true Spanish beauty; and there were any number of them, keenly appreciative of their countryman's offerings. There has never been anything more graceful and useful than these scarves and any one possessing one should be more than grateful. They are a charming accessory to the formal evening gown and serve the dance frock equally well.

The Vogue of Lace. Much lace is being used on dresses aside from flounces. One of the fashion methods is to veil a deep band of lace in the bodice, as shown in our first illustration, and another is to use lace in the sleeve and front panel effect on the other frock. The metal laces, rather heavy in weave, are especially effective for evening purposes. The gold and silver handings are most attractive. One of the colorings is the face is attached to a deep colored lining or a self-first with pale pink chiffon and the pink in turn veiled with the dark blue, black, or other shade of the blouse.

Reglan and Drop-Shoulders.

Becoming and graceful for all types is the drop-shoulder, especially when the blouse or frock is fashioned of a soft, drapery stuff like crepe Georgette, chiffon, or one of the soft silk crepes. The fad for trimming these soft materials with elegant motifs is gone of the artistic and effective notions we have seen for many a day. A blouse in Russian style, imported recently by one of our smart shops, was fashioned of a dull colored straight crepe de chine. It closed straight down the front and the reglan shoulders were outlined front and back with a banding of burnished beads in several tones, shading from gold to copper. The bust waist was held in slightly at the normal waistline with a twisted cord of beads with tasselled ends. It was a garment which could be appropriately worn with separate skirt for the street, without a corset.

While there are some rather complex ideas this spring, the majority of frocks and blouses are simplicity itself; anyone who can handle a needle can fashion them. It will keep one or two important facts in mind: first, that the new shoulder line is sloping; second, that sleeves, while loose, should give an indication of the shape of the arm. A tight-fitting cuff will serve to do this homely; third, that skirts must curve to the hips, unless they are the full-gathered models, and must be as full below the hips as possible.

MORE SENSIBLE DRESS.

Lincoln Journal: Paris sends out the information that the dresses of women this spring are to be "wearer sensible." The women will welcome the abandonment of freak styles and the substitution of frank modes. The fact that the edict comes from Paris makes it official, and therefore acceptable to femininity throughout the world. It is hardly to be expected that the great commercial houses in Paris engaged in setting the styles for export trade will be as seriously affected by the war as the French people themselves, but they must reflect more or less the prevailing spirit of the life around them. That life for many years to come will feel the sobering effect of the great struggle. Fashions will change less rapidly, sensible and dependable fabrics will be more employed and sanity will enter more than ever into the arrangement of the modes. Some observers of the war are inclined to believe that the wonderful power of women in a war will be a measure to the fact that the women of the nation have never given themselves over to extravagance in dress. They have always worn wearable and sensible clothing more than men. In the sleeveless and front panel effect on the other frock. The saving effected in this one item alone may be of the greatest importance when added to the national resources in the present time of stress.

COMMUNITY CLUB.

Eremont Tribune: Also there is town of Newman Grove that is making progress in the work of amalgamating the community. It has an excellent club that takes in a membership radius comprising the corners of three counties. It is a regular clover-leaf affair and it bodes good luck to the community, even though it isn't a four-leaf growth. It has, provided an attractive club room, with social advantages where the members from the farms as well as those of the town may sojourn with pleasure. It is having a series of public addresses that are introducing the element of giving. Whatever is of community interest in town or country gets thoroughly overhauled and thought out at this emporium of public enterprise. The club is well officered by President Morian and Secretary Melberg, assisted by their committees. Newman Grove and its environment constitute one of the most prosperous communities in Nebraska. The settlers can scarcely realize how it has progressed. To them the change from the raw prairie to its present state of development has been so gradual that they have not seen the transformation as it appears to the occasional visitor. Newman Grove is a Swedish neighborhood and it is a Yo-dandy.

A HARMONY HOWL.

(Sixty) O, what is this folly the scribes are inditing about a bullmoose here? I thought the bullmoosers had given up fighting.

That this was a harmony year. But now an ant told it is Corrick's intention To hold at Chicago another convention. I fear that its meaning is strife and contention; The "conference" strengthened my fear.

I strove to forestall them by saying To Sackett, What still it was strong on my mind: 'Why can't we progress without raising a racket, And saying things harsh and unkind? We must get together and hold our feet steady.

Nels Hansen be back with the party already; Why mourn the steam-rolling of Terrible Teddy, To which we should now be resigned?

Then take I to Jenkins and Lewis and Sutton, And Miller and Morrow and our crew; 'Our course is as plain and smooth as a button.

And narrow and straight is the way: We know where we stood in Chicago, fair-headed city, And switched to the south where the broad highway parted— We now must hike back to the place where we started, And that without any delay."

My modest suggestions created a flurry— They said that my words were a sin: They ousted me out of the room in a hurry, 'And told me right where to head in the confusion They afterward hear a harmonious session;

They gazed at each other the parting impression That virtue is certain to win, And so we are facing a three-cornered battle, With all its bluster and blow; The welkin will ring and the dry bones will rattle As lively as four years ago, The great politician, the man who is clever.

The cough of stentorian lungs, will endeavor, It may not be long, and it may be forever, 'He'll talk if we give him a show.

BECKMAN-MINTOSH.

At high noon on Thursday, February 24, was celebrated the marriage of Mabel Marion McIntosh and John Beckman of the home of the bride's parents. Mr. and Mrs. James McIntosh, north of Wayne. Just as twelve a Miss Laurine McIntosh, sister of the bride, struck the opening chords of the wedding hymn that the bride, with the bride on her father's arm, descended the stairway. They took their place beneath a bow of pink and white decorations—similar. The bride wore a gown of dress of white satin, trimmed with deep blue and wore a bouquet of bride's roses. After Rev. S. Xenophon Cross had pronounced the words of the marriage vows and congratulations and best wishes had been showered on Mr. and Mrs. Beckman, the guests were summoned to the dining room. They found their places at two long tables, daintily decorated in pink and white. In the center of the larger table, to the right of the bride, a heavily frosted in white. On the very top balanced a dainty little doll, dressed in the costume of a bride. After the three-course dinner had been enjoyed by all, a cake was given to the bride, with which she made the first cut in the cake. Then the cake was passed to the guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Beckman left on the afternoon train for a visit in Stone Lake, Wis. They will take a home to their friends after March 15 on a farm near Laurel.

Mrs. Beckman has been very successful as a teacher. She was a long time in the Presbyterian church and an enthusiastic member of the Priscilla club. Her friends will miss her greatly, but wish her happiness in her new sphere.

The groom who is a son of Mr. and Mrs. John Beckman commands the respect of all who know him. Mr. and Mrs. Alex Laurie and son John of Carroll, were out of town guests at the wedding.

WRITING POEMS.

Birby: The one besetting sin of great poets in all ages has been poverty, a veritable waste of words. Hon. George Jackson, late speaker of the house of representatives and poet-laureate of the state house, suffers from the common complaint, and like the rest of us, is perfectly willing that others should suffer with him. At the legislative league banquet Thursday night poet Jackson emitted a composition of 150 lines, many of which might have been omitted with perfect propriety, since the extreme length of the same precludes its publication in any other than pamphlet form or on the installment plan. Then again, every much can be said in a few words if one tries, but Jackson did not make the attempt. He tore along until he was tired, regardless of consequences, and his power of endurance was put to an almost cruel test. O. Jackson, tell me why you smote The lyre with such resounding force, And in the writing took no note Of time's resistless onward course? A poem should be sharp and terse, With words inspiring faith and hope; Who reels off reams of reckless verse Knockshelloutof artistic trope. Let us true poets then, unite— And that includes most everyone— And swear to hold down what we write, And break off short when we are done. A poem short the heart may win, So the philosopher asserts, But spread one out and make it thin, And, gosh all hemlock, how it hurts! While the Indians were fierce fighters, they were the world's worst real-estate agents. When the conversation laps upon your appearance, that may indicate they were talking about you.

There will be no services at the Wayne church next Sunday as the pastor will preach at Winside on that day.

Do We Know Anything About the Dead.

The topic to be discussed at the Baptist church next Sunday morning is one that has always been of interest to the human race. Where are the dead? Do we know anything about the dead? The most important interrogation that perplexes humanity is the old question: "If a man die, will he live again?"

The subject of the Sunday morning service will be: "The Kingdom of our Lord." Come to the morning service.

Our boys' classes will have several delegates at the interstate boys conference at Sioux City on Friday and Saturday of this week.

The Sunday program will be of general interest and should be well attended. Plan to make next Sunday a go-to-church Sunday. Every meeting, all day, is worth while.

All the boys, and the fathers and mothers and friends of boys, are especially invited to the Sunday evening union social welfare meeting. The committee is planning a meeting that you cannot afford to miss.

Ralph Ingham and Knox Jones are to be the leaders of the Y. P. S. C. E. meeting at 6:30. This will be the monthly conservation meeting. Do not forget or neglect to bring the "dues." We want to keep the financial department in good shape.

The Westminster Guild met on Tuesday evening with Mrs. Horace Theobald. The young ladies of this organization are to be congratulated on the excellent work that they are doing for the success of their sleeve is the present president. The Guild meets on alternate Tuesdays.

The committee having charge of the interior renovating and redecoration of the church are to be congratulated on the excellent work that they are doing. The new floor covering will be laid as soon as possible. This committee consists of William M. Gildersleeve, James McIntosh and A. R. Davis.

There will be a meeting of the Ladies' Aid society of the Presbyterian church with Mrs. Kiplinger on Wednesday, March 8. At this meeting, the reports of the secretary and treasurer of the society will be heard and officers will be elected for the ensuing year. It is desirable that every member of the society be present at this meeting.

WILL NOT ENTER RACE.

Freemont, Neb., Feb. 21.—R. L. Hammond, editor of the Freemont Tribune, will not enter the race for the United States senate. In a statement given out yesterday, Mr. Hammond says:

"I have many warm friends throughout the state who have urged me to stand for the place, and I confess I have been tempted since conditions have appeared favorable. I have delayed a decision with the hope I might feel as liberty, through the adjustment of my affairs, to feel warranted in entering the contest. 'I deem it prudent not to enter and I shall not file for the place. It looks like a republican year, though the republican candidate will be elected.'"

W. H. S. BOYS GET TOGETHER.

Plans developed during the week for a banquet, in honor of Ralph Porter, who has been a member of the high school for the past two years and is moving to Broken Bow, Neb. The boys met in the music room of the high school at 8 o'clock. After an hour the party proceeded to Vibert's cafe. Twenty-seven sat down at the long table and thoroughly enjoyed the feed from the tomato bullion to the pie a la mode. It certainly was a gay time during the winter.

Randall took charge at this point, and ably acted as a toastmaster. We are glad to note among the fellows we have such a person for future occasions. The first speaker to be introduced was Prof. Bowen, who, as usual, entertained the fellows with most helpful talk seasoned with wit and humor. Prof. Bowen mentioned that on such occasions each fellow gets to know the other fellow a little better. He hoped that we may have more in the future.

Lefroy Owen followed discussing high school activities. Basketball, debating and plans for a future banquet were mentioned.

Mr. Randol next introduced Ralph Ingham who characterized members of the 40-minute party. He very skillfully outlined the trip of Mildner and Owen, which they took this summer. Also, by the use of answers to examinations he showed how learned some of us are. Orvin Gaston was present in new clothes. It was rather a coming out party for him with his first pair. Mr. Gaston briefly described the country in the vicinity of Broken Bow. He said that if a jack rabbit were to follow him through the hills every day that he would throw every joint in his back out of place.

We were very fortunate to have with us Mr. P. R. Schweitzer of the state Y. M. C. A. Mr. Schweitzer emphasized the fact that our fellowship should continue. In a very helpful talk. He gave us word pictures of success and failure.

Our coach, Mr. A. C. Lamb, enjoyed himself more than any one present. I believe, especially did he enjoy the eats. His subject was Ranching in Arizona, but he got on the wrong track and talked on concentration. It is very evident that Mr. Lamb has the subject well in hand.

Ralph Porter concluded the program by expressing a word of appreciation and thanks for the honor shown him and assured us of his lasting friendship around the corner.

ATCHISON GLOBE SIGHTS.

An Atchison woman's distinction is that she comes nearest to making convalescence a continuous performance.

If a henpecked man has a sense of humor, he probably appreciates the Declaration of Independence as a good joke.

One man on the committee is enough for one man on the committee will be required to do most of the work anyhow.

If neither party to the conversation has had a surgical operation or an automobile, the subject is likely to be the weather or the neighbors.
