THREE INFANTS DIE IN LESS THAN A WEEK

Besides the death of the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Hughes, the funerals of two other babies were held in this community during the week. Little Kenneth Carpenter, the six-month-old son of Mrs. C. L. Carpenter, who had been taken to Omaha but a short time ago, passed away Thursday night, and the body was brought home Friday morning. The services were held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. A. C. Baek officiated.

The 6-months-old son of Mrs. Mintie Leebick of McDonald, Kas., died on Monday and the remains arrived in Wayne Friday afternoon after an interment took place the same day. The child was a grandson of O. C. Lewis.

The death of these three little ones touched the hearts of Wayne people and their sincere sympathy goes out to the parents and relatives of the children who were spared for short a time on this earth. Yet the very spirit of the past week—the precious message of Easter—is a precious comfort to all who are so bereaved.

C. L. CULLER RESIGNS SCHOOL POSITION

Harrington News: Prof. C. L. Culler, for the past two years superintendent of the Harrington public school, and to which position he was recently re-elected, has resigned this year, has filed his resignation with the board and will leave Harrington at the close of the school year.

Prof. Culler has been offered the superintendency of the South Sioux City school at a handsome salary, but has decided to devote his attention to manual training and while he has several flattering offers, he has not yet made any definite plans. By a few months' additional study he will be entitled to a bachelor of arts degree and he may decide to complete that work next fall.

During his service here, Prof. Culler has made many warm friends, who will greet him with regret if his intention to leave. He has many friends whose best wishes for his continued success will accompany him wherever he goes.

HOW TO KILL GOPHERS

Lincoln, April 22.—W. R. Mellor, secretary of the State Board of Agriculture, has devised a method for killing gophers with automobiles. He does not advise laying them in the road and letting the machine run over them; that would be too much work, but he would run the automobile up to the gopher's home, turn the exhaust loose and fill up the hole with gasoline smoke. Then plug up the hole and wait to luck.

This may be a scheme to help out the gasoline trust, but Secretary Mellor guarantees that if a gopher can have a few quarts pumped into him he is bound to give up the ghost. Mr. Mellor also has another remedy, as follows, which he has set forth in the annual bulletin of his department. He says:

REMEDY FOR DISHONESTY

Nebraska Farmer: Trying to make men good by law is not fundamental, and ultimately it must lead to such a multiplication of regulations as to break down of its own weight. We have laws against adulterated foods, poor seeds, bad gasoline, short weights and measures and a host of other evils, with a small army of inspectors who are supposed to see that these laws are obeyed. The increase in the number of persons employed to watch someone is truly appalling. It should make serious-minded persons pause to consider whether there is not a more fundamental way.

We have come to the conclusion that dependence upon laws to make men do right ultimately must be supplanted, in large measure at least, by goodness in mankind. We need to place more emphasis upon spiritual values and less upon the attainment of mere dollars. We need a growth of public conscience that will make it as heinous to cheat and deceive in a transaction, or to get something for nothing, as it now is to steal sheep. This means that the hearts of individuals must be changed; there reforms of any kind must start.

It must be recognized, of course, that had institutions may increase the difficulty of being honest, so that institutions must receive attention also. The removal of privilege in all its forms would make it easier for a great many persons to be good. But equality of opportunity is not enough. It must be accomplished by individual goodness.

PROPER TRAINING

Harrington Herald: Children who are trained from infancy in habits of industry and frugality are much more likely to grow up to be useful men and women than those who are allowed to acquire habits of sloth and prodigality.

EASTER OBSERVED IN ALL WAYNE CHURCHES

In spite of the clouds, each of the six churches in Wayne was filled for the Easter services on Sunday. There may be those who are ready to say that the desire to display new gowns was the one thing which caused the people to flock to the churches, but the more charitable are willing to give all church-going the benefit of the doubt in assuming to them a higher motive. To be sure, the ladies did exhibit all kinds of new spring finery and the gentlemen came in for their share in the style show also, but over the festive hours, the festiveness and joyfulness of mere externals, and the real spirit of the resurrection and the true Easter joy was apparent on every side.

At the Methodist church the audience listened to an Easter sermon by Rev. A. S. Baell who chose for his subject, "Why Seek Ye the Living Among the Dead?" In the evening a sacred cantata, entitled, "The Lord of Easter Tides" by John G. W. Watkins was accordingly well considered by the Methodist choir, although the singers had worked on the production only for a short time.

At the morning service at the Presbyterian church the choir, under the able direction of Mrs. W. E. Johnson, gave an Easter music program, which consisted of anthems and solos, several of which were taken from "The Holy City" and the "Messiah." The baptism of children was a feature of this service. Mr. and Mrs. Albert Berry, Dr. and Mrs. D. Tobias, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Surber, Prof. and Mrs. J. G. W. Lewis and Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Watkins brought the parents who brought their little ones to the altar.

An Easter program was participated in by the Sunday school of the English Lutheran church Sunday evening. Appropriate songs and recitations were presented and the service was very impressive and interesting.

The sacrament of the altar contributed to the Easter remembrance at the German Lutheran church, and a large congregation was present. At St. Mary's Catholic church services appropriate to Easter and the closing of the Lenten season were held.

The program which the Sunday school choir of the Baptist church produced in the evening was unique in that it lacked the amateurish flavor which too often characterizes such entertainments. Especially did the vocal members show a finish which was the result only of hard work on the part of the children and persistent effort from those who trained them. Each of the recitations, sung with confidence and the solo by little Miss Dorothy Wilson showed talent of no mediocre kind. Her bird-like voice embodied the very spirit of Easter. Nor could anything but praise be given to the choir for their sincere and spirited singing.

The class of Junior girls in white caps with purple streamers, gave a drill in which fancy marching with purple wands culminated in the singing of a cross at which "Jude the Throb" they sang the chorus of "A Cross." Another figure was formed and this time, "Stand up, Stand up for Jesus" was the song and after the wands had been carefully hung on a huge white cross at the back of the platform the girls filed slowly out of the room.

Rev. W. L. Gaston added his tribute to the day by skillful skit, summarizing the Great Life. The achievements of the Saviour's career were thrown out in bold relief and the audience was constrained to see that resurrection offered the only logical outcome of such a "Resurrector." Rev. W. L. Gaston, he went on to show how each springtime and even each day is a proof of the idea of immortality. He closed by saying that today is but a rehearsal yesterday.

All the services of the various churches were permeated to such an extent by the theme of the day that no one who participated could fail to carry home the Easter joy in his heart.

Our Sunday school has purchased the Rodeheaver song book entitled, "Songs for Service." We are using the book at the church orchestra next Sunday evening. We will expect to learn a large number of these rousing songs during the meetings. Let all of the Christian people of Wayne be glad to know that this may be a blessed meeting, opening the way for the tabernacle meetings next winter. Let us make this a greater year in evangelism for Wayne and the Wayne churches.

WILLIAM G. WIELAND. William Gottfried Wieland who had been resident of Wayne county for thirty-five years, died in the Methodist hospital in Omaha early Friday morning, April 21, Mr. Wieland had not been in poor health for a number of years, but his condition did not become serious until a few weeks before his death. He was taken to the Omaha hospital about two weeks ago in the hope that the operation of a new kidney stone would restore his health. The body was brought to Wayne Friday, and funeral services were held in the German Lutheran church Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, P. M. by the pastor, officiating. Interment took place in the Evergreen cemetery.

Methodist Church. (Rev. A. S. Baell—Pastor). Our people enjoyed a delightful Easter. The morning congregation entirely filled the large auditorium. The floral decorations were simple but tasty. The sermon was from Luke 24: "Why seek ye the living among the dead?" and from Ephesians 5:14 "Arise from the dead and shall give thee light." There was a good attendance and interest was manifested in the study of the Easter lesson in the Sunday school. In the evening the choir rendered a very beautiful cantata entitled, "The Lord of the Easter-tide" which was much enjoyed by the audience. The choir had but a short time in preparation, nevertheless they rendered the various parts with credit to themselves and delight to the audience.

On next Sunday morning the message will be on "The Living and the Dead." Ye are out of the grave, 2 Corinthians 3:2. The evening message will be "The ripened grain and the sharpened sickle." We expect to begin using our new song books with the orchestra at the Sunday evening service.

The Worker's class of the Sunday school will have a progressive May party Friday evening. Four recitations will be given. The evening Methodist young people and all of the young people who should be in the Worker's class are invited to meet at the church at the church at 7:30.

The Ladies' Aid society served supper to more than three hundred people last Thursday evening. These suppers besides bringing in the cash afford a fine social evening to the church people of the community.

All of the regular services next Sunday. Remember that the special revival meetings begin on Thursday evening the fourth of May. Pray for the meetings. Come to the first week, the first week. This latter method escapes the objections of the Oregon method. It is subject to the objection that, with no presidential names printed on the ballot, a large proportion of the voters would vote blank. These would be voters, however, with no definite opinion on the subject, and their votes would be valueless. This plan may not be worth trying. But one thing is clear. The presidential primary to work in this year is worth little. It should be changed to permit voters an expression of their real sentiments, or it were as well abolished.

If we may judge from the way people voted for candidates on primary day, Nebraska will be voted dry next November by a large majority.

Most of the delegates elected to represent Nebraska in the republican national convention are reported favorable to Justice Hughes and will support him.

The Harrington Herald editor whose opinion we value highly deprecates newspaper use of "reminisces" referring to a dead body, and we wonder why. Will he please explain?

The legislature should make provision to begin counting primary ballots before the closing of the polls. The work of counting could start at noon and be kept up until finished. There is no good reason to wait until all have voted, and then have the work of counting drag through most of the night.

We note with satisfaction that the Herald's suggestion of some weeks ago that the thing needed for the civilization of Mexico was annexation to the United States is now voiced by the Chicago Tribune and other leading American journals, according to the current issue of the Literary Digest.

W. J. Bryan, state and national democratic leader for many years, was stunningly rebuked by his party in the Nebraska primary last week. But while the party balked and refused to be whipped into obedience to his will, he still holds enough power to insure defeat of democrats who were triumphant in the primary. Democrats who delighted in stripping their erstwhile leader of power cannot be ignorant of what will happen in the November combat. Even the most ardent devotee of the system of making nominations by direct vote cannot fail to regard the presidential and of the primary as a tragic farce. Cummins and Ford ran neck and neck for first place in the Nebraska primary for presidential preference on the republican side, whereas the names of losers among whom a candidate is likely to be selected do not appear on the ballot. Justice Hughes for whom a strong newspaper campaign was made, and who is undoubtedly the choice of Nebraska republicans for the nomination, fell short of winning a majority because those who voted for him had to write his name on the ballot.

We notice by reports of box socials held by schools over the county the past season that the funds were insufficient to meet the necessities which it would seem districts ought to provide out of public money. One report named the purchase of "a teacher's desk, chair, large dictionary, water cooler, and water pail." Another report stated that the money would go into a fund to build a new school house. Every school district in Wayne county is rich enough to buy the necessities mentioned and build a new school house when needed without absorbing the little money derived from a box social. Every school district ought to be supplied with a so-called "big dictionary" if its students are expected to wrestle successfully with the English language. What would we do with the box social funds? We would devote them to provision of school room extras not belonging to the necessary set of tools which every district should have—i.e., school lack of equipment is not always due to a parsimonious district, however. It is often due to fearfulness on the part of the teacher. She is afraid to ask for things she needs to create efficiency in her service. Let her become so well fitted for her task that her services will be in demand, and she will not hesitate to ask for the equipment required, and she will get it.

The Omaha Trade Exhibit calls attention to the complaint of Lawrence, Kas., merchants that the practice of a local newspaper in accepting advertisements from other towns is not only injurious to home interests, but is unethical. Trade Exhibit says it has "always contended that a newspaper has just as much right to sell its advertising space to a legitimate out-of-town store as it has to local stores here to which it solicits trade from other towns, but there are some differences in the two cases, and there may be instances where a local paper is not justified in such business, and in view of that we would like to have the opinion of retailers of this section on this matter. If local papers are not adequately supported by home advertisers, they are unjust to themselves and weakly subservient to underserving commercial where if they don't take all the legitimate advertising they can get from outside dealers. A strong publication with an increasing army of anxious readers—not indifferent readers—will insure plenty of advertising local or foreign, at both A newspaper, like any other business institution, must have something of attractive value to sell. Then it need not be a cowardly tuckler. Then if local dealers in sufficient number do not want his space, the publisher can readily sell it to outside people. If home advertising is ample, and outside dealers do not force the paper, through the postoffice department, to take their advertisements, the publisher can draw the line, and stick to it. But home loyalty in handling advertising, in the presence of a lot of unenterprising dealers, who won't advertise themselves, but who snarl at an editor who attempted to strip their erstwhile appreciate his space, is manifestly one-sided and unreasonable. Comparatively few exchanges coming to this office reflect enough advertising to warrant turning down outside business, though many of them are at fault in not bracing up news features, and giving enough attention to advertisements to make them attractive and effective.

GOOD ROADS EVERYWHERE.

Good roads everywhere is the slogan of the National Highway association, and the members of this organization are doing a great deal to make it a reality. By painstaking surveys they have estimated that this country has 2,000,000 miles of roads that are not only a disgrace to a progressive nation like the United States, but are also the cause of much ignorance and poverty. The association asserts that 12,000,000 children do not even an elementary education mainly because of the condition of the roads. The plan of the National Highway association, which is neither a political organization nor an antagonist of any other road organization, is to have a four-fold system of highways operating through the nation, the state, the county, and the town. The association proposes, and in fact has already tentatively marked out 100,000 miles of national highway. This system is in no way connected with the Lincoln highway, which is only 3,389 miles in length, although much of its mileage would conform in alignment with the proposed trunk lines through the states which it traverses.

The National Highway association fosters good roads throughout all the states. Its founders have seen that not until trunk lines have been built will there be any incentive for local feeder lines. National Highway advocates claim that their system will get good roads more quickly and more cheaply than any "Federal Aid" plan, in which the money is likely to go into politics rather than into roads. The states, thus relieved of constructing the heavy traffic lines, may devote their appropriations to the building of secondary lines, and so the process would continue down to the smallest unit, the town, each in turn being benefited by the use of the roads established by the larger units. The association has estimated that the 100,000 miles already mapped out would cost the nation no more than the Panama canal, but that such an expenditure of money would reach a far greater number of taxpayers.

"We are all for preparedness, some for war, some for defense, and some for peace," but without good roads there can be no real preparedness. Consolidated schools, community houses, and a score of other benefits follow in the train of good roads. Every public-spirited citizen should urge the passage of the National Highway association. It is thoroughly organized, both nationally and locally, and without doubt, under its honest and efficient authority, the people of the United States would be given within the next twenty years not only 100,000 miles of national highways, but also "Good Roads Everywhere."—M. F.

Why Postpone A Profitable Investment

It may take a score of years for some folks to finally have a ROUND OAK MOISTAIR Heating System installed, but that's because they have more patience than others.

All men, in their final decision, decide on the thing that serves them best, but frequently they compromise by looking at the dollars retained at the time by the purchase of a cheaper article. They find that these are all lost, and others with them, in the purchase of extra fuel, repairs and replacements. Then they decide on the ROUND OAK MOISTAIR HEATING SYSTEM. Why postpone a profitable investment? May we show you why this is true? May we hand you the large illustrated book on scientific home warming? It's free!

The Low Cloverleaf Gives the Manure Two Healthy Beatings

WE used to think that if we threw manure onto the ground any old way and plowed it under, we were doing a good job. But now we know that won't do. To do any real good, the manure must be broken up into small pieces and spread evenly.

The Low Cloverleaf spreader is the one that does this work best. It gives the manure two healthy beatings, one with the regular beater, the other with the wide spread disks. When the manure reaches the ground in that condition your soil gets all the good there is in it. The Low Cloverleaf spreader it will pay you to see before you buy. See the local dealer who has one set up for you to look at.

UNCLE WALT The Poet Philosopher

THE SINGER. I sing my song the whole day long and keep my harp a-going, to try to cheer the people near, while dodging bricks they're throwing. I sing of hope and all such good, and gay and bright, tomorrows, of things care and black despair, and putting lids on sorrows. Year after year this sort of cheer, I'm unrelentingly providing, and my winged steel keeps up its speed, though galled by too much riding. Throughout this land the folks will stand a lot of misad singing, it but the bard, when whooping hard, a gladsome note is springing. Though cracked his voice, if he'll rejoice, and laugh at wit and jest, men will mark "Long may his bark on smiling seas be sailing!" Yet poets write of starless night, and ghoul and woman weeping, of lovers dead and vapors dread that batten on the sepias of the night; and this his gift has from the laughing wanderer: his odes won't bring laughter, by jing, to have his nightingale found. For in this tale of the rhythmic wall will never tempt for buyers, who'll blow their pipes for cheerful smiles and lays by litting bars.

withers wrung; he hores us all by his explaining of Vital-Themes, with tireless tongue. A third has bought a brand new motor, and plans extending north and far; he cares not for the grooming vater, nor for the echoes of the war. The time for which a fourth was wishing has come at last, and he is gay. Tomorrow he will go a-fishing, and he is dicking his boat today. One man is forced while he's digging—his garden means a happy time, and he is whistling while he's rigging a lattice for his beans to climb. Live-wire such without position or business can hardly hold me down, for I've just heard about a lotion for dyeing whiskers black or brown.

THE PIEDREAM BOY

"My son," I heard the father say, "he's in the playing ball today, so, prithee, cease your round of toil, your delving in the fertile soil, desert the onion and the bean, and join the lads upon the green. For growing boys should waste no time at play, and not plant squashes all the day." "Oh, father dear," the boy replied, "I take more pleasure and more pride in raising pumpkins which will wear blue ribbons at the county fair, than you would take in playing ball, which is but trifling, after all. What shall it profit any youth to make a three-base hit, forsooth? He idlers all things that are not growing, and enters no game at all, but am raising things to eat: the prune, the nutmeg and the beet, the little early riser pea, the wiener and the hampson tree." The father burbled for a spell, and then he tattered to the well with feebly nods and halting tread, and there awhile he soaked his head.

PLOWING.

I watch the farmer plow; he's busy at it now; he delves tooks his span of mules and whacks them with a bough. One minute he says, "Gee!" Next minute "Haw!" says he; the mules, they haw, and strain and draw upon the double-tree. The farmer beats the stones, the farmer breaks a grain; and when he hits his nibs surveys his this, to find the broken bone. Then, finding he is whole, he takes a ten-foot pole, and prods the mules, and says, "You fools—such is the care of Adam's birth, and will forevermore. And ever, as he walks, he picks up clouds and rocks, in West and East, to pelk his beast, his horse or mule or ox.

TOMORROW.

Perhaps there'll be sunshine tomorrow; today things are dismal and grim; my cup and my saucer of sorrow are bitter and full to the brim. When I am depressed and gray, by betting his hat that tomorrow will be quite a change from today. Today it is sloppy and muddy, today there is water to buy, and I'm crawling here in my mud, and using such language as "dern." The rain, it is sobbing and swishing, the wind manners by with a moan; and I, who had planned to go fishing, look out at the climate and growl I never see.

Act I.—The college campus. In the old love seems a little thing. The heads are turned by the college whiff and the freshman seeks a college girl.
 Sc 2. A college boarding house. On with the old love, on with the new. But often the new love will not do; The sweetest rose is the old rose pressed.
 Act I sometimes think that the old love's best.
 Act 3. Same as act 2.
 For a college life is a thing apart, And a college love is a whim of the heart.
 but one heart beats true though the world seems slow.
 When you love the girl that you used to know.

 Last Monday Charles Beebe gave an interesting discussion concerning the levying and collection of taxes. It was appreciated for it brought the pupils in touch with one of the important phases of business life.

On Thursday evening the freshmen class will go to Wayne to see the wireless sending station in operation at the Normal. Supt. E. D. Lundak will bring back a set of instruments to the Wakefield high school for exhibition purposes.

Surprise Mrs. Childs.
 On Tuesday afternoon twenty-two ladies met and proceeded to the home of Mrs. Jane Childs to help her celebrate her 77th birthday. Mrs. Childs was completely surprised. After a social afternoon the ladies enjoyed the excellent lunch which they had brought with them.

Cantata, "Bethany."
 On Friday evening, April 28, at the Swedish Lutheran church will be presented the sacred cantata, "Bethany," written by William Am Modoc. The cantata is the local congregation and from the church at large will participate in this musical. Following is a list of soloists: soprano, Miss Esther Hoogner; contralto, Miss Myrtle Carlson; tenor, Albert Newquist; tenor, Mr. F. Ekroth; baritone, Elmer L. Newquist; bass, Edwin Burman; organist, Miss Florence T. Ekroth; pianist, Mrs. M. F. Ekroth. C. A. Anderson of Wayne is the efficient director.

Presbyterian Notes.
 On Easter morning at 6 o'clock a sunrise prayer meeting was held at the church. A large crowd enjoyed the very enthusiastic meeting.
 The spirit of Easter prevailed throughout the services of the day. The decorations of palms, ferns, and Easter lilies were particularly beautiful. After the services most of the flowers were carried to sick people in the community.
 On Friday evening of this week Rev. S. H. King will deliver a lecture on "Alaska" at the presbyterian meeting of the missionary society at 8 o'clock.

Sunday evening the young people of the Presbyterian and Methodist churches held a union meeting which drew a large crowd from each of the societies.
 The "hiker" which the Christian Endeavors had planned for last week was postponed on account of the weather. It will probably be held the latter part of this week.

Excavation Begun.
 N. N. Sackerson has let a contract to Gus A. Johnson for the erection of a two-story store and office building on the vacant lot on the west side of Main street in the block north of the high school. It will be a 50x30 brick structure with a wing on the south, measuring 25x50. Steam heat and all the modern improvements will make it a very de-

LINCOLN MAN SAVES HIS WIFE

Mrs. Anna A. Dahl of Lincoln Restored When Husband Gives Her Wonderful Remedy.

Death was close upon Mrs. Anna A. Dahl of 1450 P street, Lincoln, Neb. She was desperately ill with serious derangements of the digestive tract. In fact, at times she was so ill that she knew nothing of what was going on about the sick room.

She recovered most marvelously. The treatment that she received saved her was given when she was so sick she did not know until after she recovered how she had been restored.

The stomach remedy, given to her by her thoughtful husband, was Mary's Wonderful Remedy. Mrs. Dahl is a good letter teller of her experience:

"I feel so grateful to you I can't express my feelings on paper. I will make a great effort to see you personally soon. My treatment came while I was in bed and I feel that this but the terrible pain. My husband tells me I passed at least a thousand new stones of all shapes and sizes.

"I know I have only taken two bottles and I feel better than for years."

Mrs. Wonderful Remedy gives pain relief for stomach, liver and intestinal ailments. Eat as much and whatever you like. No more distress after eating, pressure of gas in the stomach and around the heart. Get one bottle of your druggist now and try on an absolute guarantee. If not satisfied your money will be returned.

Told That There Was No Cure for Him.

After suffering for over twenty years with indigestion and having some of the best doctors here tell me there was no cure for me, I think it is only right to tell you for the sake of other sufferers as well as your own satisfaction that a 25 cent bottle of Chamberlain's Tablets not only relieved me but cured me within two months although I am a man of 63 years," writes Jul. Groble, Houston, Texas. Obtainable everywhere.—Adv.

Should Not Feel Discouraged.
So many people troubled with indigestion and constipation have been benefited by taking Chamberlain's Tablets that no one should feel discouraged who has not given them a trial. They contain no pepsin or other digestive ferments but strengthen the stomach and enable it to perform its functions naturally. Obtainable everywhere.—Adv.
