H. MILDNER DISPOSES OF STORE INTEREST

This week J. H. Wendt & Co. have become owners of the German Store, buying the interest of Herman Mildner. Mr. Mildner had been associated with the store as part owner for about six years.

Mr. Wendt came here in January, 1912, and bought the interest of George Warner. Last July Messrs. Wendt and Bisher bought the interest of Herman Mildner. Mr. Mildner had been associated with the store since 1882 by Henry Ley. It is the oldest store to survive at this place. Mr. Ley drew trade from a wide territory to come and buy here from long distances. He sold an immense lot of goods every year, and the healthy foundation then laid has endured. In 1883 Mr. Ley sold the store to Purcher, Durig & Co.

Mr. Mildner who now retires from the business, is undecided when he will do. He will take a few weeks' rest before taking up a new venture. Mr. Wendt has become well known here as a successful and shrewd business man who will follow the store's former policy and who expects to stimulate the business along all lines.

SNACKING SENIORS DEFEY WIND AND DUST

"Honorable" members of the "Ladies Juniors," and fellow students, do not worry about this it is merely senior sneak day. In haste, Seniors, Au revoir." This was the text of the tantalizing note which the plotting seniors left for the envious under classmen and the astute faculty Tuesday morning before they started on an all-day outing at Wakefield. The committee took care to place one of these bills in each song book in the junior class and to distribute them all through the bible so that whoever chose to read the scriptures at chapel would be greeted by the words "Senior Sneak Day" in bold face type.

The members of the class quitted their beds long before the sun was up and stealthily stealing that the back doors and quietly crossing the devious campus they met at the "Henry Giese home." It was only a little after the clock when they started down the back end of town. They halted at the Noakes farm, and patiently waited for No. 12, the morning passenger. When the class grew desperately hungry, several of the boys were dispatched to town for provisions. After washers and fruit had stayed their appetites, they started a game of ball.

The train was duly and thrillingly flagged and the seniors, fifty strong, swarmed into the coach and took possession with the same manner as if it had been a special, chartered by the class for the occasion. But the other passengers rather seemed to enjoy this youthful self-assertion. The seniors, smiling and good-naturedly bantering and accordingly shifted the treasured bird cage to the floor and shoved their suitcases under the seats that every one of the happy coeds might find a seat. Vore Mann, the class treasurer, distributed the tickets and gave various instructions with a sufficiently paternal air to command respect on all sides.

Arriving at Wakefield, they alighted and started to bike to the timber claim, one mile west of town. They found breakfast almost (?) prepared by a committee of boys who had gone ahead. However, each one led a hand and the seniors, with their pockets full of money, started to serve. Tennis, fishing and baseball were the chief sports of the morning. At 3 a picnic lunch consisting of sliced ham, roast potatoes, potato salad, pickles, relishes, sandwiches, rolls, etc., was served. The seniors were very generous and the seniors were very great relief in spite of the dust. Prof. C. H. Bright, the class sponsor, joined the party at the dinner hour. Soon after dinner the picnic broke up and the seniors, in a general time to take the lock passed the time. The class did not end the day. In a body the class attended the Crystal theater in the evening and then proceeded to the college gymnasium where another "Senior Sneak Day" was held. The evening was spent in dancing. Altogether the day was a singular success. There were no dull moments and the whole program moved off with a grace that bespoke much careful planning on the part of the seniors.

In charge to Earl Schroer, the class president, a great deal of credit is also due for the success of the day. It was an occasion that will afford a pleasant memory to each member of the class.

MR. COYLE GETS JUST DUE AFTER LONG WAIT

His Military Record Cleared and Deserved Honor Granted—Happy Result.

This week Peter Coyle of Wayne, received word that his effort of securing a record to secure deserved recognition of his service to the United States government during the Civil war had been successful. Twenty-six years ago when Mr. Coyle applied for a pension, he was informed to find the word "desert" written after his name. Since then he has been determined to clear the record and secure the standing which his military service merited. Fourteen years ago the services of Peter Coyle were recognized. His records were secured, and Mr. Davis was instrumental through the aid of Congressman Dan V. Stephens in righting the wrong and bringing to the old veteran the pension which he was entitled to. Mr. Coyle enlisted in Co. B, 10th Wisconsin Infantry Volunteers in October, 1861, and on his discharge in March, 1863, he re-enlisted in the First Mississippi marine brigade. Three Witches, Shakespearean characters at ball.

After sixteen months of service in 1863, and was given a month's furlough to go home and recuperate. In November, 1863, the officer in charge told him if he had not sufficiently acknowledged the month to return to the service to write him and the leave of absence would be extended. At the end of the month Mr. Coyle was still sick and wrote the officer to that effect. Receiving no acknowledgment, he wrote him again. He received no response to either letter. Mr. Coyle was sick several months. When he was able to return to his company, he found the members had been discharged. This, the unwarranted word "desert" was placed after his name. It is believed the letters which he sent to the officer, never reached him.

Mr. Coyle set to work to correct the record. Bills were introduced in congress by Senator Allen and in succession by Congressmen Robinson, McCarthy, Boyd and Latta for the relief of Mr. Coyle, but without avail. The bills never got outside of congress. Evidence to clear the record was introduced. Finally through the effort of Congressman Stephens, prompted by Attorney Davis, the adjutant general of the war department found in favor of Mr. Coyle and ordered the long delayed recognition and pension granted.

Mr. Coyle is moving over the result. He rendered valiant service to the government, and was long discharged. His death was recorded. He served through the Siege of Vicksburg and fought in the battle of Perryville, besides many other sharp engagements. His many friends will rejoice with him in creating a record and getting his just reward.

well, will be the African Ostrich farm which will give many patrons their first opportunity of viewing these giant birds. Another exhibit of bird life that should interest many is the beautiful collection of birds known as the Birds of All Nations, while the Oriental museum of reptiles should attract the attention of many patrons. The ferris wheel and merry-go-round will be in operation both afternoon and evening and feature free acts and fireworks will be presented by the Streets Challenge band on the Saturday morning, afternoon and evening.
INSIDE OF LEFT HAND BADLY CUT BY A PLANE
While C. Clasen was doing some work on an engine-driven plane on the Claude Forney place Thursday afternoon, he lost his footing and was thus pitched forward on the table where the plane was swiftly revolving. His left hand was thrust into the path of the knife and a strip of flesh about two inches in width was slashed from the palm, beginning near the bone of the fingers and extending up into the wrist. The cut was almost a half-inch deep, and owing to the extreme sharpness of the knife and the speed at which it was driven, it left a smooth surface, which it is expected will heal quickly, so that Mr. Clasen will be able to use the hand again in the near future.
"LEST WE FORGET"
Who soothes the sore spots on mother's heart? Who rubs her throbbing head? Who prepares her favorite dish? Who buys for her at least some of the charming accessories of dress which every woman adores. Who bears with her patiently if overwork or sickness has made her somewhat nervous or irritable? Who plans for her vacations? Who keeps in mind her birthday and her wedding anniversary? Who remembers?
These are only a few of the shadowy places in mother's life. How often her comfort and pleasure are neglected or disregarded! What is worse, her thousand and one services for her children are many times merely taken for granted. In many cases the children are grateful—no doubt, but in their feverish pursuit of pleasure, money, or some purely selfish interest, they simply forget to say, "Thank you." In the mother's mind and heart every day is children's day. If mother's day is to accomplish the far-reaching purpose which its originator intended, it will not only insure one day in each year during which mother will be in the lime-light, but it will also instill into the heart of every child that mother, too, should be remembered, not yearly, but daily. The little kindnesses, the kiss, the tender caress, an expression of sincere sympathy, the cheerful greeting, the little gift, the pleasant surprise, in short, just remembering—that is the thing which curves mother's lip into a smile and brings the spark of joy to her eyes. Such a mother grows old gracefully and sweetly, because her spirit is refreshed by the wells of gratitude, flowing continuously from the children's hearts to hers. She knows those children reflect the spirit of Him, who slakes the thirst of her soul with living water, and with this she is content.—M. F.

Theater Party. Mrs. M. A. Phillips and Miss Mabel Dayton escorted the members of this year's graduating class at the high school to a theater party at the Crystal Friday afternoon at 6 o'clock. The film featured Fredrick Wardle as Silas Marner in George Eliot's master-piece of the same name. The class appreciated the artistic production and were very grateful to Mrs. Phillips and Miss Dayton for the treat.

Enjoy a Hike. The boy scout patrol which constitutes the Sunday school class under the direction of Edna Mimes hiked to Bressler's grove Friday evening. The boys tested their strength and skill in various kinds of sport. When appetites had been revel up to the proper point, winners were rubbich impaled on long sticks and roasted over the crackling fire. Every lad shifted for himself. He shrouded each sizzling Weiner with a bun and these with a generous supply of pickles made an ideal camp supper. Over twenty-one boys were there, counting Edna Mimes. L. A. Kiplinger and Will McEachen, who report that they enjoyed it quite as much as the boy scouts.

Weekly Meeting. On Friday, evening the six girls, who go on pleasure bent one night each week, met with Miss Margaret Mines on Friday evening. The rooms were strewn with magazines and catalogues and the hostess after giving each guest a little booklet and a pair of scissors, explained that each was to make a pictorial biography of the girl whose name appeared on the cover of her book. The greater part of the evening was used in compiling these works of art. Late in the evening the hostess served dainty refreshments. Those present were: Winifred H. Main, Virginia Bewley, Alice Everts, Beth Wright, Alice Blair and Margaret Mines.

Seniors Entertained. Miss Florence Gardner and Miss Anna Graunquist, graduates of this month, entertained their classmates and several members of the high school faculty in their senior style at the E. O. Gardner home Friday evening. Music and clever games filled the hours with pleasure. But these twenty-two young people have become so unified by four years association in work and pleasure, that no matter what the program, they always enjoy themselves. They bring credit to their school by their congenial manners and their superb class loyalty. Miss Gardner and Miss Graunquist served delightful refreshments, after which the guests departed after expressing their appreciation to the hostesses for thus affording them another pleasant memory of high school days.

Jolly Class Party.

On Friday evening, Miss Mae Hiseox was hostess to the members of her class in the junior high school and the class sponsor, Miss Rachel Fairchild. The earlier hours of the evening were spent in lively games and socializing. The guests were then invited into the house, and after being treated to refreshing punch, they listened to several selections of music. Clever contests were then held, the most of gracefully-messiating sticks of paper-wrapped candy suspended from a rod across an open doorway. Of course the guests were not allowed to use their hands in accomplishing this task. Le Roy Bartels was the prize-winner. The hostess assisted by Miss Mabel Spahr and Miss Olive Helt served a delicious two-course luncheon. All voted Miss Hiseox a royal entertainer.

In Honor of Mrs. Harris.

Mrs. F. G. Philcox and Mrs. A. A. Welch entertained at a delightful Saturday afternoon in honor of Mrs. Welch's sister, Mrs. Walter Harris of El Paso, Texas. Since Mrs. Harris taught school in Wayne over thirty years ago, it was the aim of the hostesses to invite the ladies with whom she was acquainted at that time. These with a number of neighbors made a company of thirty-five. Sprays of apple blossoms carefully arranged and several bowls of gay tulips gave a charming touch of spring. A short program, consisting of seasonable solos by Mrs. R. S. Blair and Mrs. Winifred Main, and an exceptionally pleasing piano selection by Miss Mabel Morrison, was keenly appreciated by the guests. The congeniality and ultra-talkativeness of the ladies left no doubt as to the success of the party. At the close of the afternoon, the hostess served a very nice two-course luncheon.

TRUE ECONOMY

The trouble with most men is that they are not willing to climb the road to wealth by industry, temperance, frugality and honesty, but spend all their time looking for the royal road that will enable them to attain the desired goal without sacrifice or effort on their own part. Consequently, they go through life dragging after them a load of debt and obligations that cripples their independence and makes them servile, cringing creatures who cannot stand up boldly and look the world in the face because they have not a dollar in their pockets and the independence that goes with it. It does not acquire superior courage or virtue to be economical. Economy is satisfied with the ordinary energy and effort of the ordinary mind. Economy means to do without some little thing today, so that we may have something greater and better in the future. No matter how small the income, a portion of it should be religiously saved.

AMONG PRODUCERS OF WAYNE COUNTY

(By I. C. Trumbauer, Herald's special staff representative.)

Wayside Notes.

John Hanson and family spent Sunday at the Martin Holt home. Oscar Lundberg and family and Pete Newman spent Sunday at the home of Oscar Peterson near Wakefield.

E. A. Asker has returned from Excelsior Springs where he has spent the past three weeks in the hope of recovering his health. Henry Meyer, 55, and 52a were in court Friday looking over the offering of stock cattle with a view of purchasing if they found suitable stuff.

At the Evangelical Lutheran church seven miles northeast of Wayne extending over the hills under way. New concrete walks and platforms are being put in around all buildings, the church will be repaired, and they are considering the advisability of building an addition to the church. Every thing around the place will be put in the best possible condition.

William Jacobson. Eight miles north of Wayne is owned by William Jacobson, who has been a resident of Wayne county for twenty years. The place is well improved with a good residence, log barns, crib, etc.; a new garage houses a fine Overland and which enables him to make the distance to town—no inconvenience. He has leased twenty-five acres of the land this year, and will have forty acres in corn, fifty-two and one-half acres in small grain, balance hay and pasture. The spring pigs will run near sixty in number. He will seed five acres to alfalfa this spring. Taken as a whole, the place denotes general prosperity and contentment.

Ed Brockman. Ed Brockman has a fine 240-acre place seven miles northwest of town with an excellent building site, well improved, and well protected from the northwest frank Nelson moved to Wayne county this spring, renting the Weberbauer farm eight miles north and one-half mile east. Previously he had resided in Colar county for a period of twenty-one years. He will have ninety acres of corn, fifty acres of oats, and twenty in pasture. He estimates that the late pig returns will reach the total of sixty. He has spent the greater part of his life in agricultural work and is a lover of all kinds of good live stock, but for this section considers corn and hogs the leading lines. The few moments the writer spent in Mr. Nelson's company made life seem more joyful and our trials appear of no consequence.

Our first run into the southern edge of the Cedar brought us to the farm home of Swan Nelson, his farm comprises 240 acres on which he has resided for the past nine years coming from Knox county. He has practically retired from active farm work having rented all but forty acres surrounding his home. On entering the driveway we were impressed by the convenient arrangement of all buildings and the manner in which they were kept up. Among the many good things noted were a fine ten-room house, beautiful barn yard and lawn, enclosed with substantial and slightly fences, (Continued on Page 8.)

Presbyterian Church. (Rev. S. X. Cross, Pastor.) Sunday will be observed as Mother's Day in this church. The pastor will preach a sermon in honor of the mothers of all other parties to train up their children in the way they should go. Wear a carnation for mother's sake. There will be special music at this service. You who love and honor your mothers are urged to come to this meeting.

There will also be a brief Mother's Day program in the Sunday school in addition to the regular period of August Thun. August Thun has eighty acres of land nine miles northwest and has rented sixty acres additional this year, and will plant seventy of same to corn, fifty to oats, balance pasture and meadow. He marketed forty head of fat hogs this spring. He has twenty-five spring pigs with a number of new sets of sows. Being asked upon what he placed his main dependence, he replied, "Corn and hogs," and then jokingly added, "Boys. I have six of them." Mr. Thun has been in the county twenty-six years; sixteen years of which have been passed on the present farm.

Nels Erickson. Along the north line of this county and one mile west of Wayne is the eighty-acre farm of Nels Erickson who practices general farming on a small scale, having balance alfalfa, clover, and hay land. During the past winter he fed and marketed twenty hogs which netted him a goodly profit, but says his truck with spring pigs was nothing extra, having thirty little fellows at this writing. Mr. Erickson has resided in Wayne county and on this same farm thirty years and is satisfied with his lot in life.

Elof Gunnarson. Elof Gunnarson is the owner of a forty-acre farm nine miles northwest of Wayne. He has lived in this section twenty-eight years, twelve of which were spent on the present place. He has rented out the land for the past eight years and is living the life of a retired bachelor.

John McIntyre. John McIntyre has been the tenant for the past ten years on a good farm ten miles north of town and has been a resident of Wayne county for twelve years. We did not have the pleasure of meeting him, but in a few minutes' chat with his estimable wife we were able to gather the following information: The practice general mixed farming and this year will have seventy acres of corn, fifty of oats, balance of place in alfalfa and home grounds. A carload of hogs were produced on this farm the past season and 106 is the number of spring pigs. Despite unfavorable weather conditions, the past year was fairly successful with them. In talking of chickens of which White Wyandottes are their breed, Mrs. McIntyre remarked that they were a successful venture with her, last year selling all eggs and chickens produced and was still forced to return $10 received for stock which she was unable to supply. This poultry averaged us to $200 per head right on the farm, and at that rate should be a profitable sideline.

St. Paul's English Lutheran Church. (Rev. J. H. Fetterolf, Pastor.) Sunday school every Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. Public worship with sermon at 11 a. m. and 8 p. m. The Ladies' Aid will meet Thursday afternoon, May 18 at the home of Mrs. Victor Carlson.

MORE PAPER TALK. Neigh Register: A circular set out by the president of the Carpenter Paper company this week has the following to say about the paper situation: "I was in Chicago Tuesday the 25th and met a large number of manufacturers of news print. The situation on news print is most acute in my experience of nearly forty years in the paper business. The prosperity this spring has increased the advertising of all grades of dailies. Some of the Chicago dailies have had almost 100 per cent increase in their advertising, which has largely increased their demand for paper. We are using now about ten per cent more paper every day than is being manufactured in this country. "In regard to flat writing papers, bond papers, etc., the actual advance at the mills is just about fifty per cent, some a trifle over, but that is what they average. The first of this week we received a third advance on envelopes, which puts them up about fifty per cent so that nearly all printers' papers are up now from forty to seventy-five per cent."

THE FIELD OF BUSINESS. Sioux City Journal: The stability of the American stock market was subjected to a severe test on Friday when reports of the German note indicated a probable breach of American-German diplomatic relations. The market was unprepared for unfavorable developments and the hurried liquidation caused a steady drop in prices. War securities were the principal sufferers. Before the close of the session, however, more optimistic estimates of the tenor of German proposals caused a more cheerful estimate of the situation, and there was a marked recovery. Saturday morning's news from Washington to the effect that a breach might be avoided for the present had a very helpful effect. The week closed with most of the lost ground regained. The simultaneous clearing of the Mexican skies gave the international situation a better aspect than it has worn for weeks.

May day labor disturbances were unusually severe in eastern industrial centers. In New York city in mid-week 100,000 workers were reported on strike or locked out. Among the trades affected were garment workers, ironworkers, carpenters, truck workers, longshoremen and freight handlers. As a result of suspended activity by the freight handlers, longshoremen and truck workers, (Seal) JAMES BRITTON, County Judge.

CARD OF THANKS. We wish to thank our kind friends and neighbors who assisted us and gave beautiful flowers during the sickness and death of our darling baby, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lorenz and family.

He has spent fourteen years in Wayne county on the place he now owns with having certain conditions in the soil which have been well studied and satisfied with everything in general. He marketed seventy-two fat hogs this spring and has sixty-two spring pigs, and says that corn and hogs will usually prove a successful combination and pay the bills. This year he will plant 125 acres in corn, has sixty acres of small grain, balance of place in alfalfa, hay and pasture. In remarking on general conditions he said that things seemed too high in price and there seemed to be too many parties taking a profit between the producer and consumer, and believed that in time a different and more satisfactory method of marketing would develop.

Otto Hinrichs. Fifteen years in Wayne county and all of that time engaged in tilling the soil of a 240-acre farm is the experience of Otto Hinrichs, a pleasant gentleman to meet and a man who is well up to date in his chosen work. He has 100 acres in corn and eighty acres in small grain, pasture and alfalfa occupying the remainder of the land. He says alfalfa small for this time of year, and he would prefer to have more warm sunshine for the benefit of the seventy-five spring pigs on the place. He is known as a successful farmer and a good neighbor.

Otto Krie. Otto Krie is the tenant on a half section farm eight miles north of Wayne, has spent thirty-three years in this county and on this farm. There will be an abundance of work on this place this season with 160 acres in corn, 110 of small grain, twenty acres of alfalfa and sixty head of spring pigs to care for.

Nels Erickson. Along the north line of this county and one mile west of Wayne is the eighty-acre farm of Nels Erickson who practices general farming on a small scale, having balance alfalfa, clover, and hay land. During the past winter he fed and marketed twenty hogs which netted him a goodly profit, but says his truck with spring pigs was nothing extra, having thirty little fellows at this writing. Mr. Erickson has resided in Wayne county and on this same farm thirty years and is satisfied with his lot in life.

Elof Gunnarson. Elof Gunnarson is the owner of a forty-acre farm nine miles northwest of Wayne. He has lived in this section twenty-eight years, twelve of which were spent on the present place. He has rented out the land for the past eight years and is living the life of a retired bachelor.

John McIntyre. John McIntyre has been the tenant for the past ten years on a good farm ten miles north of town and has been a resident of Wayne county for twelve years. We did not have the pleasure of meeting him, but in a few minutes' chat with his estimable wife we were able to gather the following information: The practice general mixed farming and this year will have seventy acres of corn, fifty of oats, balance of place in alfalfa and home grounds. A carload of hogs were produced on this farm the past season and 106 is the number of spring pigs. Despite unfavorable weather conditions, the past year was fairly successful with them. In talking of chickens of which White Wyandottes are their breed, Mrs. McIntyre remarked that they were a successful venture with her, last year selling all eggs and chickens produced and was still forced to return $10 received for stock which she was unable to supply. This poultry averaged us to $200 per head right on the farm, and at that rate should be a profitable sideline.

MORE PAPER TALK. Neigh Register: A circular set out by the president of the Carpenter Paper company this week has the following to say about the paper situation: "I was in Chicago Tuesday the 25th and met a large number of manufacturers of news print. The situation on news print is most acute in my experience of nearly forty years in the paper business. The prosperity this spring has increased the advertising of all grades of dailies. Some of the Chicago dailies have had almost 100 per cent increase in their advertising, which has largely increased their demand for paper. We are using now about ten per cent more paper every day than is being manufactured in this country. "In regard to flat writing papers, bond papers, etc., the actual advance at the mills is just about fifty per cent, some a trifle over, but that is what they average. The first of this week we received a third advance on envelopes, which puts them up about fifty per cent so that nearly all printers' papers are up now from forty to seventy-five per cent."

THE FIELD OF BUSINESS. Sioux City Journal: The stability of the American stock market was subjected to a severe test on Friday when reports of the German note indicated a probable breach of American-German diplomatic relations. The market was unprepared for unfavorable developments and the hurried liquidation caused a steady drop in prices. War securities were the principal sufferers. Before the close of the session, however, more optimistic estimates of the tenor of German proposals caused a more cheerful estimate of the situation, and there was a marked recovery. Saturday morning's news from Washington to the effect that a breach might be avoided for the present had a very helpful effect. The week closed with most of the lost ground regained. The simultaneous clearing of the Mexican skies gave the international situation a better aspect than it has worn for weeks.

August Thun has eighty acres of land nine miles northwest and has rented sixty acres additional this year, and will plant seventy of same to corn, fifty to oats, balance pasture and meadow. He marketed forty head of fat hogs this spring. He has twenty-five spring pigs with a number of new sets of sows. Being asked upon what he placed his main dependence, he replied, "Corn and hogs," and then jokingly added, "Boys. I have six of them." UNCLE WALT

The Poet Philosopher

SATISFACTION.

I hired a man to hoe my squashes; he came, in gauntlets and goggles, as the great income tax; he threw his coat upon some builders, and rolled his shirtsleeves to his shoulders, and hoed with vim and power. He did not pause at times to cackle about the war, nor yet to tackle the grievous income tax; he slew the weeds that threatened choking vines, and kept his hoe smoking, and buckled down like wax. And when his toilsome task was ended, up to the house this wicker wended, where I sat smoking; "Come out," he said, "where I've been hoeing, and see I've made a proper showing, before I draw my pay." I fell upon his neck and kissed him—his bill—his nose—his system, and said, "You take the bun!" For seldom do I see a fellow who cares how punk his work, or yellow, so that he gets the moon. I am enchanted with your neighbors—this resolution you to your neighbors, and boost you through the town; the toter you, by every action, endeavors to give satisfaction, deserves a high renown.

KEEP OFF THE GRASS.

The thoughtless fellows blithly pass, and cut a corner here and there, and wear a path across the grass—and fill the owner with despair. I try to have a nifty lawn, that will go credit to the town; and I follow the owner with them, and break the dandelions down. I set out flowers till I go broke—I buy the richest and the best—and bow-wows owned by thoughtless folk come there and knock their galleys over him. And thoughtless people let their cows perambulate the town by night, and on the well kept lawns they browse, and make the scenery a sight. And thoughtless people all have horns, and roosters with destructive feet, which come a-whooping from their pens, and spoil my flowerbeds and repeat. There's no protection for the jay who'd make his home in beauty spots; his thoughtless skates all come home way, and climb all over his garden plot, and spoil the grass and pluck the flowers, and bark the trees and crush the shrubs; and it will take him fifteen hours to tell just how he views such dubs.

THIS WORLD.

This world, after all, is a bully old place, it ranks with the best of the spheres, and he to his family was a disgruntled who called a valley tears. You see a man weeping for something he's lost, some chap who got hurt in the game; he says this old world is a snare and a frost, and he'd take his good-byes to the world. But hundreds are happy while one makes his wall, while one views the world with a frown; and scores to the harbor of happiness fall, where one strikes a snag and goes down. A little of trouble we certainly have, but some affliction comes, and just go to the thing store and order some salve, and grin with the rest of the boys. A little of worry, a little of grief, to season our days as they fly; but if there were no light that refuses to quit. This world we inhabit is a bully old sphere, no niftier worlds are about; and I am enjoying my residence here so much that I'll hate to get out.

THE TIMELY TOPIC.

When modern people get together, they do not talk about the weather, as fellows used to do; but each one, in his conversation, describes some painful operation that lately he's gone through. The innocent bystander catches, while listening, disjointed snatches of talk that runs this way: "Oh, yes, I went to Dr. Sidney, and he removed my stomach—his bill—his nose—his system, and said, 'You take the bun!' For seldom do I see a fellow who cares how punk his work, or yellow, so that he gets the moon. I am enchanted with your neighbors—this resolution you to your neighbors, and boost you through the town; the toter you, by every action, endeavors to give satisfaction, deserves a high renown."

TIN CANS.

In olden days, the which I praise, as warmly as I'm able, we raised our beans and other greens out back ferntist the stable. A garden plot behind his cot each man inaugurated, and there he'd raise the peas and maize, and vines with pumpkins weighted. There he'd would toil, and slug the soil, his busy boys around him, and he'd have beans and kindred eats when wintry tempests found him. This good old plan by modern man more, alas, is followed; but at the store he blows his ore for everything that's swallowed. He used to pluck the garden truck, and call him a treat and enjoy, and there was lots for all—the totes, for Jake and Bill and Lucy. His grocer's bill then didn't kill, it was no grief to meet it; his bill of fare was rich and rare, and no hotel could beat it. In those old days the poorest jays set up the best of tables; but now man eats his green and beet from cans with gaudy labels.

GROVELING.

We do not sit on shining wings, to altitudes sublime, because on little footy things we fool away our time. We do not try to walk the stars, or from low levels; but our tails all of motor cars, and climbing hills "on high." We don't discuss the latest burst of rare and deathless song, but talk of slaw and liverwurst, and bless the dinner song. We're talking nearly all the time, and all our talk is about we talk a fortnight for a dime, and six months for a plunk. We rip our neighbors up the backs and drone about the crops, and roast the griddle, income tax, and criticize the cops; we talk about H. C. of L., which takes our good long green, and we denounce, with bitter yell, the price of gasoline. The same old topics every day, and all the sad year long! You never hear a fellow say a word of Art or Song! None ever stops you on the street, to talk of Milton's rhymes, but every pilgrim will repeat his spiel concerning dimes!

Prof. Brewer, the discoverer of the pleiosaur, called on us on Saturday to show us a coin which he had lately found, partially imbedded in a mass of grayish stone.

The Prof. claims that the coin is of very ancient date, and belonged to prehistoric mound builders. It is of the size of an old Spanish quarter of a dollar. It has been worn smooth, and has a hole in it. It is not silver, gold, nor copper. Prof. B. is inclined to the belief that it is made of a kind of metal of which there is no knowledge at the present day. It is possible he is correct, or if the stone it was found in was a meteoric stone as looks likely, perhaps the coin belonged to the planet from whence the meteor fell—perhaps it is one of the quarter dollars of the moon.

has dominated European countries, and which actuated many foreign-born citizens in coming to America to enjoy its standard and enjoy its privileges.

This lineup is suggested by a non-fallacious newspaper man who has traveled through eighteen states in a certain political sentiment: Hughes, Republican nominee for president; Fairbanks, vice president; Root, secretary of state; Major General Wood, secretary of war; Roosevelt, United States senator from New York. This arrangement would be universally endorsed by republicans.

Some one reports that Robert G. Ross, presidential candidate, is not a full-fledged linguist, and therefore is not so well fitted for the highest executive capacity in the land as was formerly supposed. It is said he is not the proprietor of a lively stable, but owns a few horses because he does he did recently. He made the vehicle zigzag along the public road fairly well, and avoided arrest for speeding. Nothing got in the way excepting a train of cars which had a narrow escape. In the excitement of turning around, the editor shut off the Ford's respiratory organs and couldn't start them again. An accommodating young man came along and rendered the necessary skill. A Ford has sense enough to know when it is experienced hands, and responds as readily as a balky mule to the manipulations of a fearful greenhorn. One advantage in having an automobile is that it prevents attention from accustomed thinking. Instead of pondering over the war in Europe, Mexican threats, uncertainties of the weather, crop prospects, running a newspaper, satisfying the public meeting obligations, the relation of immortality, one is turned to contemplation of the puzzling entrails of a car, and wonders whether it suffers intestinal obstruction or gets stuck in a given manner, diversion and arterial excitement, preventing brain midweek and corporeal stagnation.

AS TO "REMAINS."

The Hartington Herald editor whose opinion we value highly, deprecates newspaper use of "remains," referring to a dead body, and we wonder why. Will he please explain?—Wayne Herald.

The editor of the Hartington Herald certainly appreciates the high regard in which his opinion is held by the accomplished editor of the Wayne Herald, and trust that it will not be forfeited in the case of the word, "remains," as applied to a dead body.

We object to the use of the word for three reasons.

(1) Because it is obsolete. The word, "remains," is derived from the Latin word, remainder, and means to remain or to stay. There was at one time a derivative noun, "re-remain," meaning to stay in use, but it is now obsolete. If the singular form has been discarded because it is bad form, why should the plural be retained?

(2) Because it is not approved by the best literary usage, and has been specifically condemned by standard authorities. For example, William Cullen Bryant, the eminent American poet and journalist, at one time compiled a list of words which should never be used by writers of good English, and the word, "remains," was one of the words which was on the list. This list was published by the American Press about two years ago.

(3) Because, etymologically, the word, "remains," is a monstrosity, and does not appear to have any right to a place in our language. As we have said, it is derived from the Latin word meaning to remain or to stay, and we see no more reason why such a noun as "remains," referring to a corpse, should be derived from it than that we should speak of the contents of a vessel as the "contains." What the word really means is the remainder, i. e., that which remains, and when an absurdity it is to use this form of the verb as a noun to denote the body of a dead person. If people wish to view the "remainder," they have no objection.

Have we suggested our objection?—Hartington Herald.

The latest dictionary defines "remains" as "That which is left of a human being after the life is gone; a dead body," and does not mark it as obsolete. Therefore, notwithstanding the origin as stated, its approved use of letters in the time of Ben Franklin would seem to be approved by accepted authority at this time. Evolution of the English language has been so rapid that what was deemed improper but twenty years ago is regarded correct today. For instance, "the deceased" has supplanted in common use the more awkward "decedent."

Use of the word, then, would appear purely subject to aesthetics. Is it aesthetically agreeable? Does it adequately name one's meaning? We like it because it suggests to us immortality. It suggests to us that the ego has gone, and that only the tenacious clay—the "remains," will be buried to dissolve into the elements of the earth. It suggests to us that the soul, the precious reality which has been nurtured and developed, has been caught up on Elysian wings and borne away to higher realms of growth and usefulness and enjoyment. We view the "remains"—the "remainder" would be equally explicit if usage had made it equally as agreeable—as a vacated and perishable shell which is left to rot and decay. We like to get away as far as possible from association of the immortal with that which fades into the dust of the earth.

"We once heard a minister say," was over to Springfield to bury Richard Roe. The minister smacks so strongly of materialism that it jars the nerves of many people who believe in immortality, and who feel confident the soul goes before interment takes place. We go to this minister and say, "pertains to the departed and exalts life, and that only the "remains" are present to be buried and to disintegrate.

complete water system, an adequate grove to shield the building site from the winter blast, a well arranged barn 54x56 feet, a pit silo sixteen feet in diameter with a depth of twenty-two feet; in fact everything that a man's heart could desire in the way of a model farm. And, to top the climax, Mr. Neely informed us that a set of improvements on another section of the farm were superior to those under our vision. The production of corn with the raising of good stock which all are new or practically so, is the hobby on this place, one load of cattle having been marketed this spring and there yet remaining a ship of fat-cattle in the yards to be shipped soon. The place this year will have 100 acres of corn, fifty acres to small grain, fifty acres in pasture and ten acres of alfalfa.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Grimsley. Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Grimsley first came to Wayne county twenty-six years ago and by diligence and good management have acquired a fine farm on the north side of Wayne county. This year they have forty-five acres of corn, thirty of small grain, twenty acres of hay land, forty acres of pasture, balance in alfalfa and ground occupied by buildings of which all are new or practically so. There is a well arranged hog house is the hobby on this place, strictly modern, is the loft which holds eight loads of alfalfa which he considers his best lighting—and domestic purposes. Among the many improvements deserving special mention is a modern sanitary cow barn which has just been completed, having ten stanchions and other stalls, large driveway and a capacity for fifteen tons a day. They have made a specialty of brood dairy cattle, raising the Holsteins, and find it a profitable branch of farm work, paying current expenses with generally a surplus. There is a silo, erected three years ago, with a capacity of sixty tons. Mr. Grimsley considers silage one of the very best of feeds for all kinds of livestock, and is still feeding it. This is a well arranged hog house is the hobby on this place, strictly modern, is the loft which holds eight loads of alfalfa which he considers his best for hogs. Mrs. Grimsley is quite a poultry expert and now has nearly 300 young chickens. She has succeeded to a marked degree with incubator chickens. The Grimsleys make a practice of investing surplus earnings in farm improvements and the result of this method speaks for itself.

Pete Munson. Just across the Wayne county line eight and three-quarter miles north of Wayne is the quarter section of land owned by Pete Munson, who came to this section from Oakland seven years ago and is rated among the successful stock men. He formerly was an extensive sheep feeder, but is gradually changing to cattle and hogs of which he now has a goodly number. This year he will have seventy acres in corn, thirty-five acres of small grain, forty-five acres of alfalfa, balance pasture and ground occupied by buildings, feed yards, etc. There is a silo on this place sixteen feet in diameter with a depth of twenty-eight feet, eight of which extend above ground, and holding 100 tons. Mr. Munson is enthusiastic as to the feeding value of ensilage and says everything on the place will eat it with relish, even to the dog. He prefers the pit type of silo for this section as one is not bothered with the drying out and falling to pieces of the common style. He says that in the summer months when the silo is usually empty. His advice is not to cut your corn too early and then use plenty of water, claiming that if cut too green the ensilage is apt to be sour and mouldy when it is cut. He has fed a big bunch of stock all winter and still has about five feet of ensilage left. He considers it far superior to alfalfa and one of the greatest helps in eliminating the farm's wasteful method of handling the corn crop.

Charles Miller. Charles Miller is the owner of a fine farm of 240 acres eight and one-half miles northwest of Wayne, which has been transformed in the past twenty years from a poor piece of raw prairie to a well improved, highly cultivated farm, and from present appearances is surely worth the effort necessary to make it so. He also the owner of 100 acres in Dixon county which he purchased last fall at $125 per acre. He is a believer in hard work, clear thinking and the feeding of none but the best of stock. He raises pure-bred types and China hog for market and says they fill the bill satisfactorily. The past season he marketed two carloads of calves and one car load of hogs and now has 100 head of spring pigs, 300 head of yearlings and seventy head of sows, and six acres are in small grain, balance hay land and pasture, and conditions generally are very satisfactory.

Fred Flegle. Fred Flegle is the owner of a 200-acre farm, excellent in every respect. Wayne. He has been a resident of Dixon county since 1884, for the past sixteen years residing on the present place. Six years ago a modern farm house was built comprising eight rooms, equipped with the conveniences of a city home. The rest of the buildings are commodious and well arranged for their special purpose. On account of the difficulty encountered in securing competent help he has this year rented all of the land excepting thirty-five acres which he will put in corn, also retaining the pasture and hay ground. He has on hand at this time about sixty-five head of spring pigs, and from this time will raise such stock and crops as will enable him to be free from the responsibilities of securing farm help. Everything on this farm is in tip top shape and denotes thrift and industry.

Carl A. Mau. Carl A. Mau is handling a 160-acre place, five and a half miles northeast of Wayne, which is owned by his father, Charles Mau. This year he has sixty acres of alfalfa and sixty acres of oats, balance alfalfa and pasture. Spring pigs to the number of seventy-five are doing exceptionally well. A well shaded lawn leading from the main road puts one's mind in a condition to appreciate the good improvements, well kept yards and general neatness of this farm home. Mr. Mau has been a resident of Dixon county for twenty-three years, all of which time this farm has been his home.

Frank Ruth. Frank Ruth moved to Wayne county two years ago when he purchased seven and one-half acres of land northeast of Wayne. He is planting sixty acres to corn and has rented fifteen acres in addition which is in small grain. There are sixty fall pigs and fifty-one spring pigs on the place at present, with prospects of a considerable increase. He is making a specialty of corn and hog raising and has been successful to a marked degree. Improvements consist of a eight-room house and all other buildings are convenient for farm purposes. Crop conditions are being run by Mr. Ruth to be very satisfactory.

R. J. Dempsey. R. J. Dempsey is farming 240 acres of land northeast of Wayne, coming to this county from Illinois six years ago, and moving to the present place in the spring of 1907. He has seventy acres in corn, fifty-five acres in oats, fifteen acres of alfalfa, balance of land occupied by buildings and yards. He informs us that he has marketed ninety-five head of fat hogs this spring on which he realized a good profit. The spring pig output is estimated at 100 head. He makes a specialty of corn and hogs and is working into the cattle business gradually. Mr. Dempsey is the owner of 200 acres of land in Illinois, but finds Nebraska's climatic conditions a tonic for the good wife's health; hence his residence here.

Ray Robinson. One of Wayne county's foremost stock raisers and feeders is Ray Robinson who is handling 450 acres of the Charles Lud land northeast of Wayne. All his life has been devoted to the production of alfalfa and hogs and by good judgment and plenty of push and energy has gained a comfortable competence. Last fall purchasing the Gamble farm of 240 acres. During the past season he marketed 400 head of calves and 250 head of cattle and at the writing again has a big bunch of live stock on the place, and a daily increasing number of spring pigs. This year he will have 140 acres in corn, 100 acres of winter wheat, which is looking fine, forty acres of oats, the remainder being pasture and hay ground. This farm is especially well equipped for the production of grain and live stock, all the modern conveniences as to convenience and durability. Mr. Robinson has resided in Wayne county for twenty-two years, the past seven years on this farm. Our few minutes' stay there was a revelation of the possibilities of a well managed farm.

A. T. Claycomb. A. T. Claycomb came from Illinois to Wayne county this spring and is as busy as can be adapting himself to the conditions as he finds them in this productive county, one of the 160-acre farm owned by his father-in-law, John T. Bressler. He will have eighty acres in small grain and corn, estimates the number of spring pigs will be seventy and intends to devote his time and attention to the economical production of live stock. This farm has one of the best sets of improvements of any we have visited. A spacious ten-room residence, modern in every sense of the word, surrounded by well kept lawn and grove, beautiful flower bordered walks, large barns, cribs and granaries, equipped with elevating devices, sanitary hog houses, a complete system of water works and a lighting system connected to all buildings makes this an ideal place for a young man to show his worth and we bespeak for Mr. Claycomb a successful career in his chosen profession.

John Venterberg. Man's handwork usually is a fair index to his progressiveness and a visit to the eighty acre farm of John Venterberg, six miles northeast of town, emphasizes the fact that results can be secured if one applies himself diligently to the task at hand. Mr. Venterberg has resided in Wayne county twenty-four years, and during the present home six years ago, substantial improvements have been made. This spring the residence has been remodeled, a commodious and inviting porch has been added, windows enlarged and a number of other changes made. Barn has cement floors and is arranged so work can be done with as little inconvenience as possible. He will also erect this year a new cattle shed 18x20 feet in size. Mr. Venterberg fed and marketed sixty head of fat hogs this spring which averaged 175 pounds at five months old which he considers an exceptionally good record. He has two hundred acres in alfalfa, pasture and hay ground. Being asked as to future intentions he replied that the place would be improved with stock raising as the main point in view.

H. Holman. Two hundred acres of Wayne county's fertile soil, three miles northeast of Wayne, is owned by H. Holman, a resident of this county for the past eight years. He is planting 100 acres to corn and has twenty-five acres in alfalfa, and a half mile northeast of Wayne on which place he has lived for twenty-six years. From a view of the surroundings there at this time it is hard to conceive of the transformation of a piece of raw prairie into a model farm home. Splendid beauty and a grand view of the life—these were a good beginning and a quarter of a century of living along these lines speak volumes in this case. A year ago there was erected in the farm home of ten rooms with a good heating system, acetylene gas lights, in fact with all the comforts so well deserved. A barn 48x32 feet houses thirty-one head of stock in addition to a hay shed, a silo, and a cow shed. This year they will have fifty acres of corn, thirty acres of oats, nineteen acres of alfalfa, which he will possibly reseed on account of severe froeze reducing the stand. Meadow pasture and building up the balance of six acres made up the remainder of the land. Mr. Neely considers corn and alfalfa one of the greatest feed combinations and during the feeding season fattened to good advantage. He has a fine view of cattle and hogs. About 120 spring pigs, his estimate when the total can be secured. Asked as to whether he had retired from active farm work, he replied: "Although I am 62 years of age, I still make a good farm hand. To retire is to invite decay of body and mind." And if we are any judge he is due for many more years of useful life. The son, Harvey, does most of the general farming—and the profession of auctioneer, last year being his second season. Possessing a splendid physique, a good voice, and a fund of knowledge as to live stock and farm implements, he should have a successful career in his chosen profession.

S. E. Auker. Fairview Stock Farm is an appropriate name for the 240-acre place, east of town, owned by S. E. Auker for the past eighteen years. During this time he has made all improvements on the farm with the exception of the house and that has been recently made more home-like. Mr. Auker has not seen in the best of health for the past two years and accordingly has had to give up the more strenuous part of farm labor, but is fortunate in having two many sons, Guy and Mac, to carry on the farm. They are caring for 110 acres of corn, about fifty acres of small grain, thirty-five acres of clover, forty acres of oats, and have 250 spring pigs which will eventually go to the market and bacon. Among other improvements we noted a 12-sided hoghouse which is an innovation along that line, contains eighteen farrowing pens, and can be heated if the weather is severe, but this has not been necessary, owing to its substantial construction. Another large building sixty feet wide by eighty feet long, with a basement in south side, 30x80 feet, has a hog shed 25x80 feet, and a large space under the shed on the first floor proper, and the space for fifty tons of hay, and cribs for over 3,000 bushels of corn. Chutes to the basement floor provide a rapid and economical method for the feeding of live stock. Running water is piped to all buildings and yards. Two car loads of hogs were marketed from this place the past season; Mr. Auker takes a deep interest and has a keen insight into the scientific raising and marketing of grain raising and is known as a progressive farmer.

What Wages Shall a Telephone Company Pay Its Employees?

What salary is fair for telephone superintendents, managers, engineers, linemen or operators?

We endeavor to pay enough to get capable men and women. Well paid employees are usually the best investment. Inefficient employees are expensive at all prices.

We further aim to pay enough so our employees can live comfortably and be able to accumulate something.

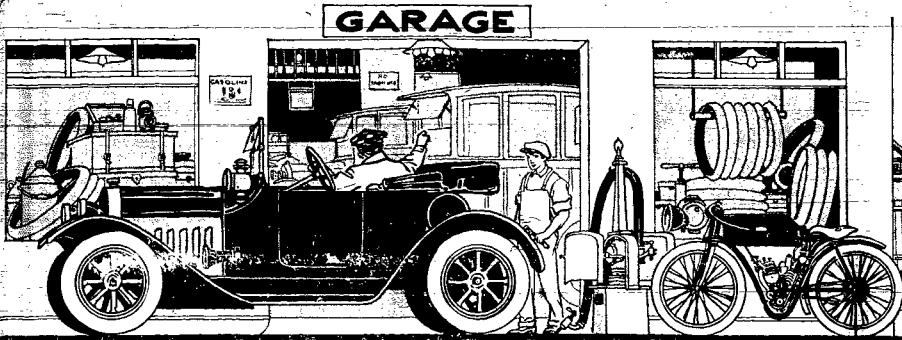

If we did not pay our superintendents, managers and other supervisors reasonably good salaries there would be no inducement for younger people in the organization to labor faithfully to reach these positions, and they, having nothing to look forward to and work for, would be much less efficient in their work. Neither could we keep good men from leaving unless we paid them as much as they could get in other lines of business.

Our rates are based upon the payment of a fixed sum for wages, and when wages are raised it means either that our revenues must be added to by an increase in rates or an additional sale of service, or money has to be taken out of the fund intended to hire more employees or which is to be used to otherwise maintain the service at a high standard.

We cannot pay lower dividends than we do and apply that to wages, for then we could not attract new money to the business for making extensions and improvements needed to take care of present and prospective patrons.

It is the money we get from our patrons that we spend in paying our employees, and we think it is right that they should know what our policy is regarding wages.

Obituary.
Mrs. H. U. Witsaman, after a illness of less than a week, passed away at her home in Wakefield early Sunday morning, heart trouble being the cause of death. Alice M. Weaver was born near Homeforth, Ohio, May 15, 1874, and was 41 years, 11 months and 22 days old at the time of her death. When eleven years old she came to Wayne county with her parents and lived on the farm where she died. On April 13, 1897, she was married to H. U. Witsaman who passed away on June 17, 1903. Since that time Mrs. Witsaman had lived in widowhood. Since January 6, 1895, she had been a loyal member of the Methodist Episcopal church in Wakefield. During the past winter Mrs. Witsaman visited friends and relatives in the east. She returned to Wakefield in time to be with her husband at his last illness, and most immediately after his funeral she was taken sick with throat trouble. At first her condition was not considered serious but by Sunday morning her fever rose and alarming symptoms began to develop. The end came Sunday morning at 7 o'clock, lacking two hours of being one week from the time at which her father passed away. Funeral services were conducted from the Methodist church Tuesday afternoon, Rev. W. R. Kelly officiating, and the remains were interred in the Wakefield cemetery. The church was crowded with those who came to lovingly pay their last respects to the deceased, many of whom had known but to love and to admire.
Mrs. Witsaman leaves her mother, Mrs. F. H. Weaver, two sisters, Mrs. E. E. Leonard and Mrs. B. F. Davis in Wakefield, and one sister, Mrs. L. Weaver of Alliance, Ohio, her mother her death.
George Fuoss.
George Fuoss after a sudden attack of pneumonia died at his home in Wakefield on Tuesday evening, May 10, 1916. He was born in the province of Wurtemberg, Germany, September 25, 1848, and was aged 67 years, 7 months and 6 days. In 1870 he came to America and located at Wakefield, and one year later he was united in marriage to Miss V. Kronenbitter. To this union three daughters were born: Rosa, who died ten years ago; Miss Freda and Mrs. Marion Piller of Wakefield. In 1884 Mr. Fuoss moved with his family to Wayne county, and by his thrift and excellent management he came into possession of two farms, besides the home place. About fourteen years ago Mr. Fuoss gave up active farm work, and moved until the end, besides the wife and two daughters. Mr. Fuoss leaves to mourn his death to his brothers, John Fuoss of Thawville, Ill., and Sam Fuoss of Concord. One sister, Miss Annie Fuoss, who lives with her brother at Concord, also survives her brother. Services were conducted from the Lutheran church last Thursday at 2 o'clock, Rev. Borneman of the German Lutheran church in the county and Rev. M. Bollinger of Dixon had charge of the services. Mr. Fuoss was survived by his son, A. Dean Fuoss. Mr. Fuoss was held and evidenced by the large crowd at both services. Out-of-town relatives at the funeral were: John Fuoss, sr., Ed. Fuoss, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Fuoss of Thawville, Ill., Mr. John Fuoss, jr., of Roberts, Ill.

A Symbol of Health.

The Pythagoras of Ancient Greece ate simple food, practiced temperance and purity. As a badge they used the five pointed star which they regarded as a symbol of health.

A red five-pointed star appears on each package of Chamberlain's Tablets, as a symbol of health. If you are troubled with indigestion, biliousness or constipation, get a package of these tablets from your druggist. You will be surprised at the quick relief which they afford. Obtainable everywhere.—Adv.

"Chamberlain's Tablets Have Done Wonders for Me."

"I have been a sufferer from stomach trouble for a number of years and although I have used a great number of remedies recommended for this complaint, Chamberlain's Tablets is the first medicine that has given me positive and lasting relief," writes Mrs. Anna Kadin, Spencerport, N. Y. "Chamberlain's Tablets have done wonders for me and I value them very highly." Obtainable everywhere.—Adv.

Whooping Cough.

One of the most successful preparations in use for this disease is Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. S. W. McClinton, Brandon Springs, Ala., writes, "Our baby had whooping cough as bad as most any baby could have it. I gave him Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and it soon got him well." Obtainable everywhere.—Adv.

Rheumatism.

If you are troubled with chronic or muscular rheumatism give Chamberlain's Liniment a trial. The relief from pain which it affords is alone worth many times its cost. Obtainable everywhere.—Adv.

Hosman, district superintendent of the M. E. church. Dow Dysart received a message Monday noon announcing the death of his sister, Miss Elizabeth Dysart, at New Sharon, Ia. Miss Dysart was killed in an automobile accident. Mr. Dysart has the sympathy of his many friends in this time of sorrow.

H. E. Siman went to Lincoln Monday on professional business. From there, Mr. Siman will go to Hastings to attend the grand lodge of the Knights of Pythias. H. G. Smith is the other delegate from the Winside lodge who is in attendance at the meeting at Hastings. Quite a delegation of eighth grade pupils were in Wayne last Thursday and Friday taking their county examination. Among those from Winside were the following: Beatrice Motson, Howard Hunt, Virgil Bleich, May Cadwallader, Martha Holmes, Ora and Myrtle Mcullen, Pearl Miller, Alice Baumcrister, Ralph Tidick, Leo Jensen, Lizzie Jensen, Fred Waldee, Ella Kent, Irene Iversen, Richard and Clarence Garwood, Rensley Haller and Harry Render.

Mrs. H. S. Moses, hostess. Mrs. H. S. Moses entertained the social circle at her home in Winside last Wednesday afternoon. This was the first meeting of the year, and there were sixteen members present. After the program, which consisted of discussions concerning institutions of reform, the ladies presented Mrs. Ben Lewis, the retiring president of the club, with a welcome also, but the presence of as many of the mothers as possible is greatly desired. Mrs. I. D. Brugger, Mrs. Verna Fitzgerald, and Miss Edith Carter left Wednesday morning for Plainview to attend the annual conference of the Woman's Foreign Missionary society. These ladies were sent as delegates from the Winside auxiliary of the Methodist church.

The program has been arranged and the music ordered for the children's day program. Mrs. A. T. Chapin has charge of these exercises and it is planned to begin practice in the near future. The Missionary society met with Miss Faithful Jones last Friday afternoon. About fifteen members were present to enjoy the splendid lesson. The society chose Mrs. I. D. Brugger, Mrs. Verna Fitzgerald, and Miss Edith Carter as delegates to the yearly missionary conference which convenes at Plainview May 19 and 21.

Elevator Grader at Work. A big elevator grader and ten dump wagons manned by a large force of men are rapidly cutting off and removing the top of the Perrin hill in the east part of town. The dirt is being used to fill in the low places on the road just south of Winside. This will be a great improvement and will be appreciated by all who use the roads.

Death of Annie Lorenz. Annie Marie Lorenz, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lorenz, was called to the "great beyond" Wednesday, May 3, at 6 o'clock in the morning. The child was 2 years and 2 months old. She had suffered from eczema almost since birth, and this had so weakened her constitution that she was unable to stand the attack of pneumonia which was the direct cause of death. Through all the months of suffering, she bore the pain with remarkable patience for so small a child. Now she has gone where there is neither pain nor suffering. She leaves to mourn her early death the mother and father, who did all that loving hands and tender hearts could do to keep the little one with them. Two sisters and one brother also survive her.

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Mr. McKenzie from the Methodist church at Carroll and she was laid to rest in the Carroll cemetery at the side of her little brother who had preceded her on the great journey.

Fishing Parties. Early last Thursday morning, Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Chapin accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. I. O. Brown, drove to Pierce. They fished and then cooked their "catch" for breakfast. Luckily, however, they had taken other provisions with them in baskets. They returned to Winside Sunday.

I. O. Brown, Roy Carter, Chris Nelson, and Mr. DuVries also enjoyed a fishing trip to the Ekhorn dump wagons manned by a large force of men are rapidly cutting off and removing the top of the Perrin hill in the east part of town. The dirt is being used to fill in the low places on the road just south of Winside. This will be a great improvement and will be appreciated by all who use the roads.
