

PEOPLE OF WAYNE SAY FAREWELL TO KHARIS THROUGH OF 3,000 PEOPLE

Boys Ray Straker, Attention to the Rev. W. L. Gaston Who Gives Farewell Speech.

Shortly every home in Wayne is being decorated with bunting and flags. The boys of Company E, Fourth Regiment of the Nebraska guards, were marching in the city hall square for last orders preparatory to training on passenger No. 9 for the mobilization camp at Elkhart. After Captain Burnham gave a brief address to the boys, they marched to the depot with the ever-ready, strongly silent crowds swarming all about them. The khakis turned their line in the cool on the north side of the station. The people were in places of advantage and eyes were turned towards the soldiers, who stood at attention, calm, alert, fearless.

Presently, G. A. Lamberson, standing above the crowd in the bed of a truck, called for silence and explained the importance of the occasion to the boys, who were wishing them good speed.

"A chorus of men's voices led the crowd in the singing of 'My Country, 'Tis of Thee' like a flash the boys in uniform as well as the men in business garb bared their heads. The crowd plucked up the courage and three thousand voices sang the verses rapt, out clear and sweet. 'Columbia' and other national airs were sung with spirit. Then Rev. W. L. Gaston, secretary of the Public Service Club, was introduced and gave an address of attention with which the boys followed the speaker, that they would treasure his name, clear in their minds in the uncertain days which lay before them. Mr. Gaston said in part: 'The people of Wayne have come to the depot this morning on a great occasion. We realize this is a momentous time in your career. You are here to say goodbye. But remember this: You can go as far enough or stay as long as you want. You are in our town, this is your home. That is the tie that holds you to us. You are entering the service of your country. You belong now not to one home, not to one community, not to one county, not to one state. On the other hand, you belong to all the homes, to all the communities, to all the counties, and to all the commonwealths in this republic. You have pledged your service to every man, woman and child under the starspangled banner. We realize that there will be no occasion for either battle, bloodshed or death. We are sending you today to curse the Texas agitator, who has led you on to carry to that country the blessing, the progress, the civilization, the christianity of this northern land. 'On the days of the Armada' the pope sent a powerful fleet, but today she is a weak, disintegrated republic. Her people are hungry, poor, uneducated. We should pity her rather than hate them. But when the pope's name has been mentioned, now a part, has helped these people to find a better way of living than their fertile soil, touched by the magic hand of honest industry, will blossom until it feeds one-half the world."

Rev. Gaston then went on to parallel the case of Mexico with that of the Philippines, which by the intervention of American arms was redeemed from tyranny and poverty. He thought the influence of the American school has been made ready to apply the arts of civilization and of christianity.

In closing Rev. Gaston paid a tribute to the colored troops of the Tenth regiment, whose blood was so freely poured out on the altar for the freedom of Mexico. "And their blood was just as white as the white man's blood," declared the speaker, "and I propose three cheers for them at this time."

"The flag of Mexico must be changed. We must tear out the 'culture and place there the dove; we must supplant the serpent with the angel of peace; we must uproot the eagle and in its place set the tree of life."

"And now goodbye. The blessings of Wayne, the blessings of your homes, the blessings of friends and neighbors, be yours. Be men first and soldiers second. Again, Wayne say goodbye."

At the close of Rev. Gaston's remarks, the boys of Company E, Fourth Regiment of the Nebraska guards, were marching in the city hall square for last orders preparatory to training on passenger No. 9 for the mobilization camp at Elkhart. After Captain Burnham gave a brief address to the boys, they marched to the depot with the ever-ready, strongly silent crowds swarming all about them. The khakis turned their line in the cool on the north side of the station. The people were in places of advantage and eyes were turned towards the soldiers, who stood at attention, calm, alert, fearless.

representative of the company thanked the great events of the day, some of which had been forgotten during the week. He closed by saying: "And when you water to the boys' cheerful letters. We don't want any of your tears. In the days of the blue streaks in Mexico."

The band struck up a patriotic air and in broken line the boys moved toward their special car. The boys of Company E, Fourth Regiment of the Nebraska guards, were marching in the city hall square for last orders preparatory to training on passenger No. 9 for the mobilization camp at Elkhart. After Captain Burnham gave a brief address to the boys, they marched to the depot with the ever-ready, strongly silent crowds swarming all about them. Mothers and fathers said goodbye to their sons in hushed silence. The others in the crowd, subdued, almost depressed, filed slowly along the side of the train. Friends and friends hugged the boys through the windows. Friends murmured low farewells for the last time. Then the shrieking of the whistle all but drove the cheering cheers of the crowd. The boys were pulled out of the station with the boys leaning far out of the windows to wave goodbye, and the three officers, Capt. A. L. Burnham and Lieutenants J. H. Fife and G. M. Haffey, saluting from the rear platform.

NEWS-RECORD CAMP

Camp Moreshead, Co. B, Fourth N. G., Lincoln, Neb., June 28, 1916. Editor Wayne Herald: Dear Editor: I am sure that not one of the boys in this company can ever forget the beautiful and inspiring demonstration which the people of Wayne accorded us that beautiful day. I have heard, not one of the boys or companies of this state had so large a gathering in their honor. We appreciate it deeply. It shall be a great memory more soon over this great land of ours, and we all come home safe and sound, the bonds of friendship and love between us all will be stronger and sweeter than ever, and we all will be better for it.

NARROW ESCAPE FOR KEMP'S LITTLE GIRL.

The J. H. Kemp home had a very scary Saturday afternoon when the 4-year-old daughter, Kathryn, was burned on the neck and face by flames started by an oil stove. The mother had lighted the stove preliminary to preparing supper, and the child, who was in the kitchen on an errand, leaving her two children in the kitchen. An instant later, she heard the screams of Kathryn, and rushing back to the kitchen, found the child enveloped in flames. The little one had placed a small celluloid fan which she was wearing, so close to the stove that it ignited, quickly spreading fire over her clothing. Her mother, who was in a state of mind in immediately smothering the fire and preventing more serious results. Dr. G. J. Hess was called and dressed the burns which, though painful, proved not alarming.

(Harrington Herald): The Wayne Herald is running one feature these days which demonstrates its enterprising spirit and good judgment as a newspaper. It has a staff correspondent traveling over the county, interviewing the farmers, and each week the Herald contains a number of interesting write-ups of these various farmers and stock raisers under the caption, "Among the Producers of Wayne County." It certainly is a strong feature for a weekly newspaper and it is safe to say that it is being read by a large number of young men, members of the Walter Savidge Ausement company, left to join their militia companies which had been called out on account of hot Springs, S. D., where they will visit for a time before finally coming to their new home in Norfolk.

SAVIDGE'S MEN JOIN GOVERNMENT FORCES
 Rushville, Neb., Record, July 23: A report reached here Wednesday night that a clash had occurred between Central States troops and some Cherokees in which forty Americans had been killed in Sorona. The militia are being mobilized all over the United States, more rapidly than they were during the first days of the Spanish-American war.
 The old saying that "we are all brothers and sisters, just one big family" was never more clearly demonstrated than at the Rushville depot Tuesday evening when six young men, members of the Walter Savidge Ausement company, left to join their militia companies which had been called out on account of the Mexican situation. Every member of the company was there to bid their comrade or friend good bye. The Savidge Concert band rendered a number of beautiful selections and as the train pulled in a medley of patriotic airs were played, a last farewell was said, three rousing cheers were given which was ably assisted by the many townspeople present. As the long train pulled out to take them on their journey the band rendered the best of all the "Star Spangled Banner" and many heads were bowed in prayer that all might return unharmed. To some this demonstration may have meant but little, to us it meant and it showed and we realized how this big company of men and women gathered together from the four corners of the globe can become such good and true friends, how their life work is not alone to amuse the public but to help one another by favor or kind words. Our heart goes out to them, and after all we are but one big family sharing one another's joys and sorrows.

THE GLORIOUS FOURTH. In the early days people would go farther and see less on the glorious Fourth than they will today. They don't have to endure now the bands which were exercised for compensation for a little diversion forty years ago, and therefore don't do it. The coming together in the evening of the town's independence day was prompted more by a desire to get acquainted or renew acquaintance than to see any wonderful pageant or amusement program. In 1876, Nebraska was sparsely settled and the population was widely scattered. Towns or trading points were few and far between. The Fourth was the one big day of the year looked forward to as the proper time to drive to the favorite picnic grounds.

The town of Ponca, nestled among the hills in the northeastern corner of Dixon county, was old enough to vote in 1876. It was the trading center of the district and the chief town in this part of the state. It had a natural grove, skirted by Aoway creek, and under the friendly shade of that grove on every morning of the Fourth people gathered from near and far to hear patriotic music, the reading of the declaration of independence and a speech by the town orator.

Everybody got up early on the morning of the Fourth. The value of 100 guns happened to be usual at sunrise. Town people were sitting afterwards to get their chores out of the way in time to attend the exercises. People living thirty or forty miles distant had to start early in their lumber wagons to reach town in time for the parade. Clouds of dust in every direction testified to the approaching multitude. The procession was advertised to start at 10 o'clock from the main street. By that time the sun was pouring forth its hottest rays, and the few wells on Main street were beginning to show signs of falling supply. At the grove refreshment stands were liberally provided. Many grandmothers remember, about the time they were wooed and won, riding in a circular swing, box seats suspended by ropes and revolved by the power of a horse marching down the main street. The grove had a stock of firecrackers, and his enjoyment was not complete unless he contributed to the noise and smoke of the celebration. It was considered great fun to set off firecrackers in proximity to a group of white-frocks girls, and hear alarming screams. The saloons were the most liberally patronized institutions in town. Drinkers were more numerous then than now, and on occasion one became so intoxicated that he had to be locked up. During the afternoon a few stunts, like catching a greased pig, were pulled off. Nearly everybody remained for the fireworks in the evening.

It was a long, tiresome day. Children were sunburned, tired and cross. Patient mothers were worn out when the celebration was finished. People said they had enjoyed themselves, though, as a matter of fact, the tax on strength was greater than any imposed by work during the year. While they had not seen anything wonderful in the evening, they had cultivated the acquaintance of distant neighbors and in a measure satisfied the yearning for sociability.

What a contrast with now! The telephone quickens information. The luxurious automobile, covering distance quickly, has replaced the lumber wagon. Electricity and waterworks and other modern conveniences raise the standard of living. With improved methods, expectations have been raised. The Fourth of July celebration of forty years ago, though pleasant then because of the personal touch, would now be hoisted as cheap and void of interest. The celebration of today means a present acquaintance of real worth to win attention.

ROOSEVELT FOR PROGRESS. In his refusal of the progressive nomination for president and warm endorsement of the candidacy of Charles E. Hughes, Theodore Roosevelt has acted sanely and consistently. He properly places public welfare above personal interests, and by such a course of action he will grow largely in popular favor. In the course of his endorsement, he says:

"In my judgment, the nomination of Charles E. Hughes is the best set forth in the statement of the progressive national committee, issued last January, and in my own statements. Under existing conditions, the nomination of a third party candidate by the present party is merely a move in the interest of the election of Mr. Wilson. I regard Mr. Hughes as a man whose public record is a guarantee that he will not merely stand for a program of clean-cut straight Americanism before election, but will resolutely and in good faith put it through if elected. He is beyond all comparison better fitted to be president than Mr. Wilson. It would be a grave detriment to the country to reject Mr. Wilson. I shall, therefore, strongly support Mr. Hughes. Such being the case, it is unnecessary to say that I cannot accept the nomination on a third ticket. I do not believe that there should be a third ticket. I believe that when my fellow progressives coolly consider the question they will for the most part accept the position. They will have but one purpose—the purpose to serve our common country. It is my deep conviction that at this moment we can serve it only by supporting Mr. Hughes."

The editor of the Hartington Herald pleads guilty to the charge of having invested in a new suit of clothes, but disclaims having bought it of a mail-order house as has been reported.

President Wilson is pointed to as an idealist. Idealism is all right. So is sentimentalism. But neither will master large and difficult international problems without the aid of profound and practical statesmanship.

A newspaper suggests the undesirable task of being president during three times of more difficult international problems. We would agree, but as relief would suggest that the burden be humanely lifted from the one oppressed for four years and loaded on another who has proven able, strong and courageous.

It is interesting to note in the early day paragraphs taken from the Ponca Journal of June 29, 1882, that the town of Ponca had been congratulated for having been unable to sell a few years before a tract of 320 acres in the vicinity of Wakefield for $2,000 because the value had gone up to $20 an acre. The tract is now worth probably $200 an acre.

In the current issue of the Forum, Vice President Marshall charges former administration with neglect in the matter of preparedness. If the army and navy are as inadequate as some have claimed, it looks as though administrations for a generation had not made very judicious use of big appropriations for such purposes. But that as it may, why has the present administration, with the promptings of an almost world war, waited until its fourth year term was nearly out before it has taken any such steps?

Did it just find out the condition of the army and navy? With nearly two years of crushing war in Europe, followed now by likelihood of open hostilities between the United States and Mexico, it is so wonderful that Americans are amazed and bewildered. They cannot understand the cause or the necessity. They cannot understand why, after years of supposedly civilizing influences, wholesale slaughter and ruin should become necessary. Unless out of the crucibles of Europe and Mexico come freer, more refined and more civilized people, there can be no measurable compensation to the world for the terrible sacrifice in lives and treasure.

Wayne's soldier-boys have gone to Lincoln to be mustered into the United States service, and the town that saw them off that morning appreciated and applauded their patriotic valour. The boys were given a deserved and creditable demonstration of the home town's interest and esteem. The good behavior of the boys during the day they were getting together here was a source of much satisfaction. As Lieutenant James Pile expressed it at the banquet Thursday night, the boys were going down to Mexico to fight certain battles and also proposed to render it. Aid to Mr. Pile's indefatigable effort is, mainly the organization of a company, and to him belongs large credit. It is hoped the peril of hostilities will be averted, but it is certain that members of Co. E, Fourth Nebraska regiment, who have offered themselves to the service of their nation, will acquit themselves with distinguished bravery and efficiency if called on by the shells of the enemy. Wayne is proud of its soldier-boys, and the soldier boys, wherever service may call them, will remember and honor Wayne.

PHILLE & HARRINGTON
 "LUMBER QUALITY"

AMONG PRODUCERS OF WAYNE COUNTY

hog house, 24x48, is of the latest type. Mr. Utecht is extremely enthusiastic about his place and work. He reports fifty acres of corn, thirty acres of oats, besides an abundance of pasture and alfalfa land. In the case of stock Mr. Utecht has eighty hogs and fifty-two cattle. Last season he marketed a car load each of hogs and cattle.

George Fox. Three years ago George Fox began farming on a quarter section and one-half miles southeast of Wayne. He reports that he expects a big crop from his eighty-five acres of corn, although the oats of which there are forty acres, do not look so promising. Mr. Fox has a nice herd of good type hogs, numbering sixty.

Frantz Henschke. The buildings on this 120-acre farm were all built in 1913, and Frantz Henschke is the lucky tenant. He is this year tending to fifty-two acres of corn and has forty-two acres of oats. The remaining acreage is devoted to pasture and hayland. Mr. Henschke is a thoroughgoing farmer. He believes in good live stock and at present has ninety head of hogs and twenty-five head of cattle, including a small but profitable dairy herd.

David Nimrod. March 1, David Nimrod took possession of a quarter section of land, owned by A. E. Nimrod, eight miles southeast of town. The buildings are all right across the road from a fine rural school. The buildings are in good repair. As to crops Mr. Nimrod has seventy acres of corn, and 55 acres of small grain. His ninety number seven hogs and ten old hogs. Mr. Nimrod is presently located and has made a good start towards success.

Emil Utecht. Born and reared on the home place, Emil Utecht has taken charge of the farming operations for the past five years. The place is located nine miles southeast of town. For five years there are seventy acres of corn and fifty acres of oats. An exceptionally good pasture takes up the rest of the farm. Mr. Utecht is interested in good stock and expects to expand his operations along this line as rapidly as possible. He now has eighty-five spring "rooters" besides twenty sows. Thirty-five head of stock cattle complete his live stock.

Roy Agler. Roy Agler has been operating an eight with an additional rented forty, six miles east of town for twenty years. This gives him a crop acreage of fifty acres of corn and forty-five acres of small grain. The remaining land is seeded to alfalfa and grasses of good varieties. Mr. Agler does not find time to care for much stock. However, he has in his yards something over sixty good stocky hogs.

J. A. Von Seggern. J. A. Von Seggern has farmed 320 acres, fourteen miles southeast of Wayne, for the last fifteen years. Mr. Von Seggern is a big cattle feeder, last year turning off seven cars of the fattened product. He now has the best herd of fifty head of stock cattle that he keeps for fall. His grain crop consists of 100 acres corn, forty acres wheat, thirty acres oats, and the remaining acreage of hay and pasture. Good products is the motto on this farm, and in the long run this proves to be the most profitable and satisfactory plan.

Dan Leuck. Fourteen miles southeast of Wayne is the five quarter section, owned by John Leuck and tenanted for the last three years by Dan Leuck. This year he has ninety acres of corn and twenty acres of oats with the remaining fifty acres in pasture and building site. The buildings already on the place are fair and there is to be a large barn built this fall. Mr. Leuck last year shipped one car of cattle and one and one-half cars of hogs, and he now has ninety head of hogs in the yards. Mr. Leuck is a progressive farmer who is dead in earnest about his work.

George Burns. This is the second year that George Burns has farmed a half section, belonging to Peter Wint, twelve miles southeast of Wayne. Besides an excellent pasture and the best of alfalfa, Mr. Burns has 145 acres of corn and seventy acres of small grain. The grain is heavy and stands up to a severe winter. Sixty-five head of cattle, including a few milch cows are now on pasture. In the yards are over 150 pigs. Mr. Burns is a hard worker and with this combination of stock and grain raising, he is sure to be successful.

Albert A. Killian. The first of last October Albert Killian moved on a 120-acre farm southeast of town. He also rents an additional eighty for cultivation. His crop schedule this year is: Ninety acres of corn, seventy acres of small grain, with the balance in pasture and a few acres under very heavy stock raiser, having in his yards forty head of hogs and half that number of cattle.

Graberholt Brothers. Farming 160 acres, five miles west and one mile north of Wayne, owned by Charles Craven and in addition they are renting eighty acres from S. W. Elder. The Graberholts came over from Denmark five years ago and are rapidly adopting American methods of farming. Their corn, 120 acres, shows careful seed selection and skillful planting. They also have seventy-five acres small grain and twenty-five acres alfalfa. The balance of the acreage is in pasture. Although this is the first year they have operated this land, yet prospects indicate a big crop for them. Stock is only a minor item with the Graberholts as yet. They have thirty-five head of hogs and a small herd of good dairy cattle.

E. C. Perkins. For four years E. C. Perkins has earned an eighty belonging to Mrs. Carrie Bruner of Wayne. This farm is five miles northwest of town, and is cropped as follows: Twenty-five acres oats, forty acres corn, and fifteen acres of alfalfa. Mr. Perkins has not invested very heavily in stock, having about twenty head of hogs and a small herd of milch cows. Although there is already a fine grove on this place a tract of small trees has been planted to give still further beauty and protection to the place in future years.

Louis Surber. Louis Surber, born and reared in this county, now owns a 340-acre farm owned by his father. E. A. Surber, four miles northwest of town. A good grove, a yielding orchard, and good buildings make this home a very attractive place to live. Besides the thirty acres of corn, thirty-five acres of oats and sixty acres of alfalfa, Mr. Surber has quite an acreage of hay land. He feeds much of the hay and grain to stock, having—marketed combined—last year one car of cattle and two cars of hogs. He now has sixty head of good type stock cattle and 210 head of hogs.

Milo Kremke. Milo Kremke lives on a fine 200-acre farm four miles northwest of town. Twenty-four years' residence in this county makes him almost an original settler. His interest is in cropping 125 acres of his land with seventy-five acres corn and fifty acres oats. The balance of the place is seeded to alfalfa and grass. In the line of stock, Mr. Kremke has in the neighborhood of 130 head of hogs and about twenty head of young stock cattle. His place is well equipped for stock, a large barn, 32x40 being one of the main buildings. The house built but a few years ago, is modern in every sense of the word. A good acetylene light plant furnishes illumination in all the buildings.

A. C. Vennerberg. Four miles northwest of Wayne is the forty-acre farm owned by A. C. Vennerberg who also rents an additional eighty of Ed Miller. This year he has crop as follows: Thirty acres oats, forty-eight acres corn, and forty acres alfalfa. Last year he shipped a car load of fat hogs, and now has 130 pigs of a stocky type. His hogs are of the Dorset Jersey strain. His mother, Mrs. Vennerberg, is interested in Buff Rock chickens, which she raises with good success. A productive orchard of forty trees, a heavy grove and good improvements speak well for the management of this farm.

CARROLL.

Miss Margaret Forbes of the Herald staff is editor of this department, and will visit Carroll every Tuesday. Any news contributions to these columns from town or country will be gladly received by her. She is also authorized to receive news of renewal subscriptions.

Program of July 4.
Carroll is certainly making extensive preparations for the celebration of July Fourth together with the annual old settlers' picnic on next Tuesday. Provided only that the weather is favorable, people from all the surrounding towns will flock to Carroll and convert it into a young city. The business men have raised a lot of money for the enterprise. There is a purse of $100 for the winners in the clash on the baseball diamond, and prizes ranging from dollars down for the various races. The band will be on hand to deliver the goods in the line of music fitting to the day. Guests who are tennis enthusiasts will find two excellent courts at their disposal. There follows a program of the main features of the day: Horse shoe game at 9 o'clock; street parade of autos, Ford cars, and floats at 10 o'clock; address by Rev. W. L. Gaston of Wayne at 11 o'clock. Then follows the big picnic dinner, after which the tug-of-war will take place at 1 o'clock; the free street attraction at 1:45; the ball game between Lawrence and Wayne Normal at 2:30; and the races at 4 o'clock. In the evening the Choral

Union of the Welsh community will give the cantata, "Sylvia" under the big canvas. Thus the day is full of attractions, and there ought not to be a dull moment.

Love-Baker
At 8 o'clock last Friday evening took place the marriage of Miss Anna Baker to W. D. Love at the home of the bride's father, James Baker. It was a very quiet wedding, witnessed only by immediate relatives of the bride and groom. Immediately after the ceremony was performed by the bride's father, who is justice of the peace, the guests enjoyed a very nice wedding supper. An informal reception followed. The groom is a son of Mrs. W. A. Love and is a mail carrier on one of the Wayne routes. Mr. and Mrs. Love will make their home in Carroll. Their friends extend congratulations and best wishes.

At the M. E. Church.
The annual Children's day exercises were given at the church last Sunday morning, beginning at 10:30 o'clock. The church was prettily decorated with summer flowers. The fine program, consisting of songs, drills and recitations was enthusiastically received by a large audience.

At the morning service next Sunday, communion day will be observed. There will be special music.

Advertising Tour.
Six auto loads of Carroll boosters visited six of the surrounding towns last Saturday, distributing programs and other literature concerning the celebration on July 4. The band played some stirring music at every stop. The towns on the tour were Winslow, Wayne, Laurel, Belden, Randolph and Sibley. Several of the towns treated the visitors to ice cream and cigars.

The First Baptist Church of Carroll.
(Rev. M. O. Keller, Pastor.)
Sunday school at 10:15; Lesson, "Paul at Thessalonica and Berea," Acts 17:1-15. L. W. McBride, superintendent.
Sermon at 11; subject, "What is a Church. According to the New Testament," 1 Tim. 3:15.
B. Y. P. U. at 7; topic, "An Ideal Nation," 1 Pet. 2:1-10.
Sermon at 8; subject, "The Cross and the Attraction," John 12:32.
The church wishes to express its appreciation to the good people of Wayne for their liberal subscriptions to liquidate the debt on the new church building.

Goes on Guard Duty.
Robert Rohrke whose wife was formerly Miss Martha Pilger of Carroll, enlisted with the Nebraska guards three years ago and when the companies were called out last week it was necessary for him to quit his shoe store in Omaha, Neb., and go to Lincoln. Mrs. Rohrke has the sympathy of her Carroll friends at this time.

Surprise on Birthday.
The friends and neighbors of Mrs. Fred Wagner, remembering that Sunday was her birthday, planned a pleasant surprise for her. Between fifteen and twenty guests invited themselves to her home and helped her celebrate the day with a big dinner. They wished her many returns of the day.

Enjoy All-day Picnic.
The junior girls of the Baptist church together with their teacher, Mrs. Grace Jones, enjoyed an all-day outing Tuesday. In the morning they hiked to a grove east of town, and in its inviting shade they spread out their big picnic dinner. In the afternoon they enjoyed games and sports of all kinds.

Uniforms Have Come.
The sixteen members of the Carroll band were all dressed up in their new uniforms Saturday evening. The suits are brown, trimmed with black braid. The uniforms give the band distinction, and Carroll expects the boys to do themselves proud July 4.

Stock Shipments.
The Farmers association shipped two tons of hogs to Omaha during the past week; C. E. Closson started Sunday evening with one car of hogs consigned for Omaha, and four cars of cattle for Chicago, and August Shoberg shipped two cars of cattle to Omaha Tuesday afternoon.

Stunned by Lightning.
Gus Pantzen, living north of town, was quite badly stunned by an electrical shock during the hard storm Sunday afternoon. Mr. Paulsen was standing near a horse; and both he and the horse were knocked over by the bolt.

Miss Mary Williams spent Thursday in Wayne.
Pho Burress was in Wayne on Business Monday.
Mr. and Mrs. Fred Jarvis autoed to Belden Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Smith spent Thursday afternoon in Wayne.

Mrs. L. B. Cobb and Mrs. W. L. Hulbert were in Wayne Friday and Saturday soliciting funds for clearing the debt on the Baptist church. Mrs. Sam Williamson and daughter, Miss Maude, who had been visiting relatives at Chicago and other points in Illinois, returned to Carroll last Thursday evening.

Evan James of Lake Crystal, Minn., visited his brother, Will James and family at Carroll between trains Tuesday, returning to Wayne on the afternoon train.

Mrs. Louis Larsen and son, Lin, who were in Carroll, guests of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Byron Taylor, returned to their home at Sioux City Saturday.

Perry Jarvis who had been employed at Haslan, Ia., for the past few months, returned to Carroll last Thursday evening to spend the summer with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Jarvis.

Mrs. Ann Griffiths of Ipswich, S. D., arrived at Carroll June 20, to visit Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pritchard and other friends. Mrs. Griffiths came to Ipswich about thirty-one years ago from Lanfair Tathairn, North Wales, and purchased a farm near Powell, S. D.

Worn from Mr. and Mrs. Iver Morris states that they had a very pleasant auto trip to Holyoke, Colo., striking poor roads only at Hastings where they were joined by Dan Burress, who had been attending school here during the year. BRENNA.

About twenty young ladies met on Tuesday afternoon with Miss Zola Oman and organized a tennis club which will meet every two weeks during the summer. The hostess served a delicious lunch during the afternoon.

During the recent contest of the Larkin club members Mrs. Louis Winegar was one of the winners. This was a nation-wide contest carried on by the Larkin company of Buffalo, N. Y. The prize given the winners are to be trips from their homes to Buffalo where they will be entertained by the Larkin company.

for a week. One of the principal features of the entertainment is to be an excursion trip to visit Niagara Falls. Mrs. Winegar left Sunday afternoon for Buffalo where she will join other winners in the contest.

A party living in another part of the county was heard last week to ask, "What is Brenna? I have heard of its church and social gatherings and supposed it was a little inland town." Oh, no! my friend, Brenna isn't a little town; it is a big community.

The Grace church Sunday school held its annual picnic last Thursday in the Gene Gildersleeve grove just across the road from the church. In spite of the fact that it had rained the night before and all forenoon Thursday and it was rather a bad looking picnic day, about 11 o'clock the weather man took on the picnic mood and by noon the picnic ground was a beautiful sight with its curtain bedecked platform, long tables and dozens of happy children. After an excellent dinner the program under the direction of Mrs. George Esterson and Mrs. Everett Lindsay was given. Following this the talk given by Mrs. Annetta Nesbit of Lincoln in favor of state prohibition was very much enjoyed. Then came the excitement of a ball game between the married men and the single men of Brenna. The single men were the winners. Following the ball game came the races, three-legged races, shoe races, relay races, fat ladies' race and all kinds of races for all kinds of people. This annual picnic is considered quite an event in Brenna and in every way it came up to full expectations this year. The following was the program which was well rendered:

Yellowstone National Park

4:15 P. M. from Omaha.

I want to take you about the wonderful scenic mountain tour you can make over the Burlington on the $34.50 round-trip ticket from Omaha to Yellowstone Park. You can go in a through sleeper from Omaha to Cody, the scenic and only motor route into the Park. You can return in a through sleeper from Gardiner. $30.25 additional covers the cost of 21 day tour of Yellowstone; this covers the ninety-mile automobile ride from Cody through Sylvan Pass, one of the World's most magnificent viewpoints—to the Lake Hotel—includes hotels at the Lake and the Canyon and Park transportation to Gardiner. Or you can buy a complete through ticket that embraces the rail fare Omaha to Cody, the scenic auto journey, Park transportation and hotel accommodations for sojourns of from three to seven days at a total cost of from $65 to $95 from Omaha—slightly higher rates from Iowa. Here's something more—you can make this mighty mountain tour in Burlington through-service via Denver. You have choice of two through routes between Gardiner, Cody and Denver; and if this is not enough to provide for you one of the finest mountain tours in all the world, the Burlington agent in Denver will give you a free side trip to Colorado Springs, Pike's Peak region, Pueblo and return. The whole tour may be as modest or expensive as you care to make it. Let the Burlington folder or your nearest agent show you the "Touring the West" possibilities of our various through routes, and the Cody-Scenic Gateway is going to mean to you.

Here is another famous Park—the climax of the rugged grandeur of the Rockies. What can you do on a $35 round-trip rail ticket from Omaha to Glacier? Let me tell you. You can go in a through sleeper, Omaha to Glacier Park, or you can travel via Denver. There you may obtain a free side trip to Fuchio and return. Then take either of the Burlington's through-service routes between Denver and Glacier. At Ft. Franconia, near Cody, you can side tour into Yellowstone at slight additional expense, then go on to Glacier, all for $35 rail fare. In Glacier, a Park agent plans out for you any kind of a Park tour that appeals to you. "Grand Management and Good Service" is the motto of the Park. Or go directly through to Glacier and return via Denver. Our National Parks, with their magnificent "out-of-doors" are getting their magnetic hold on Eastern people. Let me send you Glacier Park folders. They are going to make to you a strong appeal to renew your energies in that indescribable land.

MAKING ARITHMETIC PRACTICAL

School News, Taylorville, Ill. A boy who was very much below grade had little interest or ability in arithmetic. It was found that he was interested in chicken raising and farm work generally, and the teacher made use of the arithmetic work. Percentage was a closed book to him until it was put in terms of eggs and chickens, and the power which he showed in observing the problems was quite surprising. Problems in insurance, too, when applied to his own possessions were easily solved. As long as the arithmetic was the usual book work he showed little interest, but when it touched his own interests, it became practical and living to him, and he was able to solve the problems quickly and accurately.

Upper grade pupils were making a book in their literature work and were asked to find out the number of square inches required for a sheet of paper having a margin of a sixteenth of an inch on each edge and three-eighths of an inch for thickness. It took them a long time to work it out, and very few were able to do so without the help of pencil and paper. And yet the class was ordinarily bright and did fair work in arithmetic.

Cases like the two just cited can be found everywhere. The teacher who has no special interest in arithmetic but who discovers it helps him personally, and the bright pupils who do not make practical use of the work they have had. There are such cases in every school and the teacher who makes his work must be adapted to meet their needs. This can be done by supplementing regular book work with original problems. The newer arithmetics have problems dealing with everyday life, and at the same time so arranged as to test arithmetical ability. But every school has its own problems which will appeal strongly to the group. One original problem, worked out and put by the pupils will mean more and will fix principles more thoroughly than a number of problems worked automatically according to rote.

Life presents problems daily to be solved at home and in school. The pupils can estimate the cost of papering, painting and carpeting rooms readily known to them; bills may be checked for lumber received, built a fence around the school building, a coal house, or even a school house; the length of the shadow cast by a school flag pole may be determined; they can look on crops and farming implements may be found; discounts from the list price of automobiles and pianos may be found. The field is limitless.

To the Public. "I have been using Chamberlain's Tablets for indigestion for the past six months, and it affords me pleasure to say I have never used a remedy that has done me more good."—Mrs. C. E. Riley, Ithaca, N. Y. Chamberlain's Tablets are obtainable everywhere.—Adv.

TWENTY-SEVEN CONSOLIDATED SCHOOLS

Nebraska Teachers' Association. State Supt. A. O. Thomas reports in an article recently published in the daily papers that there were twenty-seven new consolidated schools established in Nebraska in 1915. Of these, twenty-two are operating high schools only; six are county high schools established under the compulsory law passed by the last legislature; and two are consolidated consolidations. The new county high schools, as shown on the map published, are in these counties: Arthur, Banner, Garden, Gage, Phelps, Rock and Sioux. The nine operating high schools only are located in the following counties: Chase, Cheyenne, Custer, Holt, Harlan, Nuckolls, Saunders, York and Webster. The twelve completed consolidations, where new schools were established last year, as reported by Superintendent Thomas, are in the following counties: Brown, Custer, Buffalo, Dodge, Gage, Thayer, Nuckolls, Fillmore, Saline, Cheyenne, one each, and two in Scotts Bluff.

In addition to these completed consolidations, Superintendent Thomas reports that one hundred seventy rural schools, which have not gone to the state, are now doing high school work, approved by the state department. These presumably are one-teacher schools where a part or all of the ninth grade work is given to advanced pupils.

Superintendent Thomas also reports eighty-four "incomplete consolidations." These are communities where the plan of consolidating two or more districts is under consideration. This report by State Superintendent Thomas checks up his previous statement to Commissioner Claxton in which he reported that "300 new schools of the consolidated or cooperative and rural high school

But every school has its own problems which will appeal strongly to the group. One original problem, worked out and put by the pupils will mean more and will fix principles more thoroughly than a number of problems worked automatically according to rote.

At the present time there are in the state, according to the best records obtainable, thirty completed consolidations. It is doing well to have brought about twelve of these the last year. The rural inspector, A. V. Teed, has been working hard on this problem and devoting practically all of his time to it.—From The Nebraska Teacher.

What Dividend Should a Telephone Company Pay?

We believe that we should pay such a return on the money invested in our property as will enable us to obtain additional money necessary for making extensions and improvements required by the public.

If we do not earn enough to get this new money the public will suffer from the curtailment of extensions and improvements that should be made. We make additions to the plant out of new money invested and not out of profits from the service sold.

There are many problems peculiar to the telephone business necessitating extra expenditures which we cannot control. There are occasional expenses caused by sleet storms, floods and tornadoes which amount to thousands of dollars. There may be increased taxes or possible exactions from governing bodies regarding methods of construction, operating requirements, etc., which add to our expenses. These costs always bear upon the problem of dividends.

This company is and will be satisfied with a fair average return on the money actually invested in the business. We have absolutely no "watered stock." A dollar has been invested in physical property for every dollar's worth of securities issued. All we ask or have a right to expect in such a return on the money invested in our property as could be obtained on the money if it were invested in other business enterprises involving like risks.

In special cases in the extension of business where extraordinary risks are taken which entitle us to some extra profit in consideration of such risks, we shall only ask for that return on the investment which any equitable commission or court would award us.
