WAYNE CHAUTAUAQUA OPENS NEXT SUNDAY

SOLID WEEK'S ENJOYMENT Starts With Music and Lecture Sunday Afternoon

Wayne's annual chautauqua opens Sunday afternoon with an orchestra program, followed by a lecture by David D. Vaughan.

The annual chautauqua is a valuable asset. It presents a series of attractions that will not only please and refresh but awaken new lines of thinking and doing.

In spite of many drawbacks, the site of the old ward school building is to be cleared in time to build the chautauqua tent there.

Two ladies from each church will serve as directors. Five committees, three from the town and two from the country, are headed by the following: Mrs. H. E. Roy, Mrs. F. S. Berry, Mrs. J. J. Williams, Mrs. E. R. Laughlin, and Mrs. W. A. K. Neely.

JULY RAINS EXCEED THOSE OF A YEAR AGO

One inch of rain fell at this place Monday morning and ninety-six hundredths of an inch fell Tuesday morning for an early start. The total is double what it was during the same time last year.

MARY M. BUFFINGTON.

Mary M. Buffington passed away last evening at two minutes before midnight at the home of her son, H. A. Buffington, 534 Sixth avenue. Funeral services will be held Monday morning at 11:30 o'clock with Christian Science services at the home, conducted by F. V. Hall.

Mrs. Buffington was born February 23, 1837, in New York state. She is survived by her brother, C. B. King, of LaGrange, Ill., two sons, H. A. Buffington of this city and C. W. Buffington of Chicago and two daughters, Miss Effie G. Buffington of Clinton and Mrs. Lucy M. Haggood of Wichita, Kas.—Clinton, Ia.

The many friends of the Buffington family are sorry to learn of the passing of Mrs. Buffington who was well known and highly respected here. The family resided at Wayne for a number of years and still reside in the old home here.

Since the death of Mr. Buffington some years ago, Mrs. Buffington and Miss Effie have made their home with a son at Clinton, Ia. Mrs. Buffington will be remembered as a woman who, though of a gentle and kind disposition, was always true to her convictions as was exemplified in the fact that she was a staunch member of the Christian Science church and conscientiously lived according to her belief through the years of her residence here even though having none of her faith associates.

While living in Wayne the family attended the M. E. church, Mrs. Buffington giving it her unstinted support.

Miss Effie was the faithful and efficient organist of the church for many years and with her mother provided many pleasant and profitable evenings for the members of the choir as well as others. Their home was one of the bright spots in the life of many who yet live here.

MEXICAN WAR CLOUD PROMISES TO CLEAR

Washington, July 5.—Early resumption of friendly diplomatic conversations with the de facto government of Mexico to the end that peace and order may be restored in northern Mexico and along the border is expected here to be the next step of the United States in its relations with its southern neighbor. The crisis precipitated by Villard's raid on Columbus, N. M., and the ensuing fighting at Carrizal, Mexico, between American and Mexican troops, appeared tonight to have been dissipated by the amicable note from General Carranza, presented during the day by his ambassador designate here, Eusebio Hernandez. The note proposes that the difference between the governments be settled by mediation or by direct negotiations.

Has Friendly Tone.

It is remarkable for its brevity, its restrained and friendly tone, and for the absolute lack of any of the strong, even insolent language which characterized the last two communications from the de facto government. It treats as a closed incident the exchange of friendly communications which brought war almost within sight.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Reynolds, daughter Miss Helen, and son Master John Austin returned this morning from a trip to relative at Yorkville.

REVIEW OF ANOTHER WEEK IN STATE CAMP

Camp Morehead, Co. E, Fourth Nebraska, Neb., July 4, 1916. Dear Editor: My summer holiday ends this week, unaccompanied here and no orders as to when we are to be moved. Each day brings new rumors which are soon passed around the camp and which at least give us something to talk about. I have not had a great deal of drill during the past week, which perhaps is good for the boys at the present time. We have had our equipment checked up a couple of times and an inspection of rifles. Much of the leisure time is spent in reading and writing letters.

On Wednesday evening the muster roll was signed which gives the president power to send us anywhere in or out of the United States.

There is a misunderstanding concerning the same secret in our company refused to sign, but before the evening was over all had done so with the exception of a few absent ones, who added their signatures the next day.

That same evening between 7 and 8 o'clock the muster roll and talking the oath were inculcated in the right arm to make us immune from typhoid fever. No after effects were felt from this that I know of.

On the 28th the company was given the physical examination. The number of ticks a dozen or more, I think, did not pass. R. B. Berrie distinguished himself in this examination when after discovering that he was under weight consumed about three cups of corn syrup and almost a gallon of water and came through satisfactorily.—In contrast to this is the case of Walter Briggs who was too heavy and is now endeavoring by treatment in Lincoln to reduce enough. Anyone who has a 154 anti-fat recipe will do him a great favor. In his sure, by communicating these hints to me.

During this examination we were once more vaccinated, this time in the left arm for immunity against smallpox. This requires two more inoculations at intervals of ten days.

I am sure that several of the boys considerably, and caused a number of sore arms and my opinion is that it is the cause of that head itching which has affected many here and brought on a desire to sleep much. —Do you're right, in some cases there is no other reason.

Had our first guard duty on Friday morning to Saturday morning over a continuous stretch of twenty-four hours. Eighteen men and a corporal constitute a guard. Each man is stationed at a different point around the camp for two hours, rest four. They are numbered and the corporal is stationed at the guard-house with the balance of the guard. For instance, if it is necessary for guard number eight to call for assistance, he yells "Corporal of the guard, number eight." Only a minimum number of passes it to number six and so on. Corporals Church, Lerner and Powers sure had a chance to demonstrate their sprouting ability a number of times.

It is during the wee small hours of morning that the boy on a lonely beat, by himself and mother, alone and Wayne and things dear to him. Then more than at any other time does he realize how much they all mean to him.

The boys surely did appreciate the great bundle of "Heralds" which we received during the day. They were enough copies for all who desired the same and they were thoroughly read, I am sure.

Among the visitors of the past week we saw Prof. Bright and wife, Mrs. J. H. Vibber, Mrs. Larsen, Mrs. P. E. Krieger, and Mr. H. H. Hankey. Also Raymond Fox and Henry Meir. We understand that Miss Bessie W. Crockett arrived at University Place today and presume she will call on this camp soon. The boys truly appreciate the visits of the home folks and we only wish that we could see more of them.

our thanks for them once more. This morning the companies marched into the building mentioned in the preceding paragraph and listened to an excellent program of lectures by Chaplain Beecher of the Fifth regiment, his music, reading of Declaration of Independence by Chaplain Beecher and Governor Morehead's inspiring and patriotic address.

Afterward we were given the first real home-like dinner we have had since camping here. It consisted of chicken and dumplings, tomatoes, pickles, coffee, and other good things. I believe this was the first time we received more than we could safely eat.

R. B. Berrie has been nicknamed "King of the Cannibal Isles," taken from the song called "I Am the King of the Cannibal Isles," which he persists in attempting to sing. Berrie has been dubbed "Bully" for the appearance of his head since his hair cut.

There is a "Peanut Squad" in our company, quartered in the same tent consisting of about ten "kids" among whom are Few, Meary, How, Scully, Dick, Hunt, Leonard Spohnauer, J. C. Gastman, Louis Schmitt and Loren Patterson.

Among the boys Capital Beach and Electric park are perhaps the most popular resorts, and whenever the opportunity for the boys numbers of them can be found there. The guard is one of the stunts for those who persist in keeping late hours. To be caught means perhaps a night in the guard house and a long stay in the cook tent.

This Independence day brings to mind once more the spirit of '76 and with the thoughts of the dear ones at home, it cheers us and inspires us to do our best. You dear people of Wayne are frequently in our thoughts. And we think you care more for the interest you are showing in us. We never knew how much we would miss you until now. And our sincere hope is that you reciprocate.

Yours truly, REUBEN A. FALK.

SOLDIER BOYS MAY BE MOVED IN SECRECY

Lincoln special in Omaha Bee, July 5: Lincoln, July 4.—Some morning the people of Lincoln will wake up to find the mobilization camp deserted and the soldier boys gone.

The secrecy which prevails around headquarters indicates that little will be known of the movement of the troops unless special activities arouse a suspicion and people stay awake to watch.

The war department is using all means possible to move the troops with a much secrecy as possible in order that they may be moved safely. The Nebraska end of the movement of troops is endeavoring to carry this out in hope that they will escape the fate of the troops a few days ago when they were wrecked by the firing of the guard of one state to the south.

Exercises at Auditorium.

Today the camp was very quiet. Visitors saw nothing out of the ordinary and outside of a big chicken dinner provided for every company and patriotic exercises at the auditorium, there was little to arouse the curiosity of the visitors. It is said that 1,600 chickens were shipped in from Crete for the dinners of the soldiers today.

Today is the last day that the camp will be open to visitors. It is understood that the moving of 10:30 o'clock in the evening. None will be allowed within the grounds at any other time unless they have business or for the purpose of visiting some member of the company.

No grub of a promiscuous or deadly mixture will be allowed to be brought to the camp by visitors without first being passed by the board of censorship. Real food such as mother used to make will be allowed. Handkerchiefs and handkerchief handkerchiefs and the like will find hard luck. The authorities at the camp do not propose to take any chances on having the stomachs of the boys put on the bum by food of a strange mixture.

It is understood that the war department has received final notice that the signal corps is ready and fully prepared for the trip to the south. So it is probable that they may be moved within a few hours.

NINETEEN MEN OF CO. E DO NOT PASS IN TESTS

EXAMINATION IS RIGID

Names of Men Not Meeting Physical Requirements—The Bill for Recruits.

When Uncle Sam had completed his rigid examinations at the mobilization camp at Lincoln, nineteen of the boys of Company E were discharged because of physical disqualifications. The officers were desirous to transfer some of the boys to hospital corps and other divisions of the army, but none of the boys cared to serve if they could not remain with the Wayne company.

The names of those discharged are as follows: H. C. Aggar, W. W. Briggs, C. L. Burdick, B. D. Bush, J. M. Beaman, H. E. Bryan, L. B. Fitch, L. A. Guili, C. A. Juhlin, Jack Kelly, Paul Leslie, G. R. Martin, Chas. McElmer, C. H. Oiler, Louis Schmitt, Leonard Spohnauer, Robert Young, Carl Willis, and Henry Hackmeier.

R. G. Hunter returned to Wayne Tuesday morning to secure new recruits to bring the company to the required strength. Those who have enlisted thus far are: E. Carter and Dan Keogh of Ponca, Earl Maupin and John Meyer of Wayne. Mr. Hunter this morning received a telegram from Capt. A. L. Burnham ordering him to report to Lincoln immediately. As Mr. Hunter had been granted ten days for recruiting at Wayne, it would seem that immediate movement of troops south is contemplated.

ORDERED TO BORDER.

Camp Morehead, Staff, Fair Grounds, July 5 (Midnight).—Orders just received by the headquarters staff of the Nebraska guard call for the entrainment and departure of the Fourth regiment and signal corps for their ride to Lincoln within the next thirty-eight hours.

The order follows word sent by Captain Tupes, U. S. A., to the war department that these units are "reasonably ready" for the front.

General Hall, commander of the camp, and Col. George Eberly, head of the Fourth regiment, announced at once that preparations for the trip south would be under headway within the next hour, and that no time would be lost in making the men ready for the trip.

Mr. Elmer Anderson and Miss Anna Person living in the western part of the county, were united in marriage at this place Monday, July 3, by the county court.

If you want your conscience to be convincing, don't start a joint-debate or other form of argument with it. Adventure, of which you hear so much and know so little, is apt to be dirty and disagreeable, as well as thrilling.

Really very few women have ever stooped to conquer. You occasionally run across a man who doesn't cut any more ice than a lightning rod.

About the crankiest man in the world is a sick doctor.

There should also be summer schools of common sense.

One of the best ways to handle a foot is to keep away from him.

The Lord never intended that you should have a good time all the time.

An old-fashioned woman would rather have a woman commit murder than be lazy.

There are also those who are handicapped by their friends more than by their enemies.

A boy is hungry so much of the time that he thinks of starvation as the most imminent peril.

A drink isn't the only one who must settle with the fiddler. Every song-time demands its compensation.

A woman may have a right to kill her husband, but she should be young and good looking before doing such a right a vested privilege.

Miss Estie Writinger and Miss Pearl Madden went to Long Pine Saturday to spend a couple of weeks with the family of Theodore Durgin who formerly lived in Wayne.

S. Fishman who is selling Cheyenne county land, left for Sidney Saturday, accompanied by George Otis, who has gone with a view to buying it for the country.

For high grade painting, paper-hanging, decorating, signs, etc., see L. R. McNeil, or phone Carhart's Hardware department after July 15.

Milo Kremke went to Sioux City Saturday to visit Chris Bean who is in St. Joseph's hospital in that city recovering from the effects of an operation performed a few weeks ago.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Jones and daughter, Ruth, went to Crystal Lake Saturday to remain until after the Fourth. Miss Ella Morrison and Knox Jones joined them Sunday.

Genevieve Dorsett went to Craigville to visit her sister Mrs. E. B. McMullen, and spent the Fourth in Sioux City. Miss Dorsett will visit Walthill before returning home.

Mrs. J. J. Mulloy, Mrs. N. Denesia and Mrs. A. W. Jones, who were visiting the family of Charles Denesia, in the Carroll vicinity, were in Wayne Friday on their way to their home at Cedar Bluffs.

H. H. Tangeman of Carroll and daughter, Mrs. Henry Trautwein of Wausau, arrived in Wayne Saturday morning on their way to Iowa Falls, Ia., to spend the Fourth. They were accompanied as far as Sioux City by another daughter, Miss Etha Tangeman.

The Mayra club ladies held their annual picnic on the court house lawn Thursday evening and entertained as guests their husbands and a number of friends. The excellent menu was thoroughly relished. Enjoyment of the repast was increased by the spirit of rivalry.

The members of the Masonic Lodge and Eastern Star are planning to have their annual picnic in Bressler's grove, north of town, tomorrow afternoon. A ball game and other tests of skill will furnish amusement during the afternoon.

The apparatus of the fire department is being repaired. The apparatus extends from the "j" building to the house. Mr. Schroer receives messages from Arlington and hears daily from Wayne. Professor Britell, head of the science department there, was anxious that some one set up a receiving station in Norfolk. He is a great wireless enthusiast and as much of his spirit lar in attendance and often tardy, are now on hand when she arrives at the school house almost every morning. This lady teaches the eighth grade and has added to this manual training for the boys and sewing and fancy work for the girls. When asked when she found time for these extra-studies, she answered: "In the morning before school at noon, during play periods and after school." This young lady is making a success of her profession, and next year goes back to teach the same school she has taught for several years. Manual training and domestic science will soon be taught in every school in the land. We believe every teacher in the state of Iowa has to be able to teach these branches, no matter how small the school.

On behalf of the delegation of Eastern Advertising men which visited Wayne under the auspices of the Nebraska Publishers' Bureau I wish to thank you, and the members of the Public Service club for the most hospitable reception which you extended and the very pleasant time you gave me.

This applies also and especially to the ladies of Wayne who served us luncheon on the lawn in front of the court house. I hope you can find a way to let them all know that we appreciated their kindness and their generous hospitality which you undoubtedly took in our behalf.

We enjoyed our all too brief stay in Wayne exceedingly and I can assure you that we stand ready to reciprocate whenever you "Waynians" come east.

SWISS ALPINE YODLERS. (July 11, 1916.) In presenting the Swiss Alpine Yodlers, we believe that we offer one of the most original and novel attractions in the chauntauqua field today. The Swiss Pioneer family is direct from Tyrol and have been raised in that atmosphere that is necessary to the success of genuine Alpine singers. This attraction consists of Herr Anton Proger, baritone soloist; Hans Proger, tenor soloist; soprano, Miss Anna Proger, also and Master Krizz Anna Proger, violinist.

We wish to impress upon you that this is not an aggregation of singers only, but each member is an instrumentalist as well. Their rendition of instrumental numbers on the quaint Swiss instruments are numbered among the most enjoyable features of the program.

Anton Proger, a great master on the zither, while Frau Proger enjoys the reputation of being the best lady Yodler from the Alps. Miss Anna Proger is a thorough musician and has a beautiful alto voice. Master Krizz Anna Proger, a violinist, is a child prodigy on the violin.

Taken all in all, the Swiss Alpine Yodlers deliver one of the most unique and entertaining programs ever given on this platform, and we heartily endorse them as a number that will not only draw a large attendance, but will positively please all.

AMONG PRODUCERS OF WAYNE COUNTY

(By Ward Randol, staff representative of the Herald.)

Will Back.
This 100-acre farm, the one-half miles northwest of town was until this year operated by the owner, Gus Wendt. Mr. Wendt has retired from active work although he still lives on the farm. The farm is now in the hands of Will Back, who has the grit and good judgment to succeed in any line of farm work he tackles. Mr. Back is now putting in full time in his "big corn" which is to yield his major crop. There is also some small grain and a patch of alfalfa for hay. The buildings are good, the house having been remodeled and made more modern than five years ago. All buildings are supplied with water piped from an immense underground reservoir. The buildings are protected on the north and west by a heavy cotton-wood and boxelder grove. The place is well stocked with fruit trees of all kinds. A nice tennis court well furnished with nets, proves that on the farm they find time for pleasure as well as for work. The open lawn, kept closely shaven, adds much of beauty to the whole building site.

H. C. Lyons.
For three years John L. Bush has been the tenant on the 320-acre farm located eleven miles northwest of town and owned by George Bush. Mr. Bush delights in raising and feeding cattle and hogs. During the past year he shipped seven loads of cattle and two of hogs, besides just received a load of cattle and one car of hogs. He has left 125 head of cattle which are now on grass. Mr. Bush reports this year's crop as follows: Corn fifty acres, wheat thirty acres, alfalfa, thirty acres.

W. F. Bonita.
A quarter section of land nine and one-half miles northwest of town, the property of Mrs. Ensley, is being farmed by W. F. Bonita. He is cropping the land this year with eighty acres of oats and fifty-five of corn. The remaining twenty-five acres are devoted to hay and pasture. Five stock Mr. Bonita has twenty cattle and twenty-five hogs. The proximity of his farm home to a good school is one point in its favor.

Richard Ulrich.
Richard Ulrich is another farmer who has rented one place for a long term of years. This makes the fourth year he has been the tenant on Robert Mellor's quarter section, eight and one-half miles northwest of town. Allowing only fifteen acres for pasture, Mr. Ulrich has seventy-five acres of corn and almost as large an acreage of oats. He milks seven cows, which he considers a very profitable branch of farming. He has forty-three head of hogs.

E. A. Gossard.
For the past year E. A. Gossard has farmed 150 acres, ten and one-fourth miles northwest of town. Seventy acres are rented from Burret Wright, and the remaining eighty from other parties. Mr. Gossard is hustling to get his seventy-five acres of corn cut in and his oats this spring, leaving forty acres for pasture and hay land. As Mr. Gossard is just starting out in the farming business, he has not developed very much. He has twenty-two hogs of good type and a small dairy herd.

Carl Carlson.
Good buildings and a promising young grove are two of the noticeable features on Carl Carlson's farm. For nine years he has been operating a 240-acre farm, nine miles northwest of town. The farm is east and one mile north of Carroll. One hundred acres are devoted to hay and alfalfa while ninety acres of corn and fifty acres of oats comprise the grain crop. Speaking of stock, Mr. Carlson stated that he had 115 head of hogs and twenty cattle which will develop into good feeders.

Peter Carlson.
Ten miles northwest of town is the half section, belonging to Henry Bush, and rented by Peter Carlson. Several men have been kept busy with cultivators in the 150 acres of corn. Fifty acres of small grain and two or three of alfalfa will soon demand his time and attention. There are 240 hogs to feed in the sixty head of cattle to attend to. One car of cattle was shipped last year. Good, well-kept buildings make this a desirable place to rent.

John L. Bush.
For three years John L. Bush has been the tenant on the 320-acre farm located eleven miles northwest of town and owned by George Bush. Mr. Bush delights in raising and feeding cattle and hogs. During the past year he shipped seven loads of cattle and two of hogs, besides just received a load of cattle and one car of hogs. He has left 125 head of cattle which are now on grass. Mr. Bush reports this year's crop as follows: Corn fifty acres, wheat thirty acres, alfalfa, thirty acres.

D. A. Michels.
For fifteen years D. A. Michels has successfully farmed a quarter section eleven miles northwest of Wayne. On this place there are fifty acres each of corn and small grain, with the balance of the place in pasture and hay land. Mr. Michels does not raise live stock. The farm is a structure 30x40 with a sixteen-foot shed attached.

A. W. Dolph.
A small but well improved place is that of A. W. Dolph, five miles west and seven miles south of Wayne and nine miles southwest of Wake. There are only eighty acres in the home place, but Mr. Dolph rents an additional sixty acres, raising alfalfa which he uses under cultivation in the following crops: Sixty acres corn, twenty-five acres oats and twenty acres alfalfa. The alfalfa patch and pasture are fenced hog-tight, and in addition to these 200 rods of standing alfalfa, the farm will be under construction soon. Mr. Dolph has three fine bunches of hogs of three ages, there being seventy-five spring pigs, thirty shoats and thirteen old sows. Last year he marketed one car of hogs and one car of cattle. At present he has only fifteen head of cattle, part of which are milk cows. Two proposed buildings will warrant an increase in the live stock business. A hog house 28x9 and a cattle shed 25x40 are now being planned. Mr. Dolph also states that he expects to put in a complete system of waterworks in the fall.

J. G. Chambers.
J. G. Chambers rents 230 acres, seven miles north of Wismar and sixteen miles southeast of Wayne. He has been on the place for seven years, and reports eighty spring pigs in addition to twenty old hogs. He has also one car of alfalfa, 165 acres of corn and has seventy acres of oats beginning to head. The balance of the place is in pasture and alfalfa.

J. M. Bressler.
Just last March J. M. Bressler moved on a quarter section, fifteen miles southeast of Wayne, owned by A. E. Bressler. He reports as follows: Fifty-four acres of corn and fifty-six acres of oats. As to stock, Mr. Bressler has twenty-three good stock cattle, including a small dairy herd. Sixty-five head of hogs are making satisfactory growth. Mr. Bressler formerly lived east of Wayne.

George Buskirk, Sr.
By forty-two years of thoughtful application to his work, George Buskirk has now owned 480 acres of choice Wayne county land.

but he has also established upon it a home to which the whole county prizes with pride. The place is fourteen miles southwest of Wakefield and twelve miles southwest of Wakefield. A twenty-acre grove and a big well-pruned orchard set off to good advantage the big ten-room house, conveniently arranged and modern in its details. The barns and other buildings are equally suited to the needs on this farm. Mr. Buskirk keeps only thoroughbred stock. He now has sixty fine specimens of Shorthorn thoroughbred stock. The fifty head sold at Wayne last year. Those sold at that time averaged $117 per head. There is always a good selection from which to buy. Mr. Buskirk now has 100 head of the Duroc Jersey breed. Corn is the major crop, occupying 140 acres. Then there are forty acres of alfalfa and an abundance of pasture and hay land. One need not hesitate to pronounce this place an A No. 1 stock farm.

Detlef Kai.
A man who believes in raising things on an extensive scale is Detlef Kai, living sixteen miles southwest of Wayne. He now owns a splendid ranch, comprising 600 acres, all but ninety acres of which he is operating himself. Mr. Kai has been busy for thirty years improving and changing this farm to meet his needs and satisfy his desire. The result is a set of splendid buildings, each built substantially and with an eye to placing use to effect on an extensive scale. The building site is pretty and has the practical asset of a good drainage. Mr. Kai is quite an extensive dealer in stock, having at present 240 hogs and 100 acres of corn. Last season he marketed thirty head of cattle and two cars of hogs at a good price. The acreage in corn alone is greater than the total acreage of the average farm in this county, that is, the 250 acres in that county. One hundred acres of oats, eighty acres of wheat, and thirty acres of alfalfa complete the crop scheme. Then, naturally, there is a large amount of hay land. Mr. Kai is a hustler and keeps his farm in good shape. The place is only a quarter of a mile from a good county school.

Lewis Evans.
Sixteen miles southeast of Wayne is the E. C. Pennell farm of 220 acres, which is operated by Lewis Evans. Just now Mr. Evans is putting in long days in his corn field which comprises ninety acres. He has thirty acres of oats, leaving 100 acres in tame grasses and pasture. Eighty old hogs and 240 spring pigs are perhaps the most paying proposition on this place. There are also forty-five head of stock cattle and twelve valuable horses.

George Reuter.
A quarter section of the Dr. W. C. Wightman land has been rented for a long term of years. This farm lies in Dog creek valley and is very fertile. Only 100 acres are in cultivation, sixty acres being in corn and the other forty in oats. The rest of the land forms a good pasture. Sixty-five head of hogs and forty-four cattle is the extent of Mr. Reuter's stock operations. One car of hogs and ten head of cattle were sold last year. The buildings on this place are in good repair.

Hans Otte.
Hans Otte has lived in this county twenty-four years, moving to his present home, a quarter section, nine miles northwest of Wayne, twelve years ago. Mr. Otte is a good stock man. His specialty is Polled Angus cattle of which breed he now has forty-two head, thirty-six of which are fully registered. At the time of this visit he had twenty

UNCLE WALT
The Poet Philosopher
ADAM'S OEE OX

The world is old, and man still talks, at times, of Adam's ox. When any man's profoundly fond of him it's usually said, by folks on the adjacent blocks, that he's as dead as Adam's ox. And if a stranger you shall see, and you're puzzled who he may be, you'll give it up old time. I know him not from Adam's ox." You say the "off ox," all the time, but that won't fit into this rhyme. Oh, famous beast, immortal ox, whose shade still on this footstep walks! No other brute, since time began, no mouse or mule or mole or man, thus fortless has won renown, a fame the acre cannot down! How did you play your bovine game, that you have earned this deathless fame? We hear no word of Adam's hog, of Adam's mule, of Adam's dog, we hear no word of his state, or of the motor car he drove, or of his watch or Sunday hat, or his imported Maltese cat, but his off ox has come to us. We hear it quoted every day.

EVICTED.
New gray hairs are adorning my venerable dome. The sheriff came this morning and shooed me from my home. My good wife, Jane Mirandy, is weeping by the gate, and little Bess and Andy can't get their smiles on straight. Life treated me pretty easily, I've seen several play like me, but my wife walks all alackaday! We used up every dollar, as fast as it was earned, and now sit and holler for all the coin we burned. We laughed at plodding neighbors, who picked half their scads, and prof of their labors, in dollars of their trade. We thought they were tolling, plugging, with them from afar, we went around chug-chugging, in mortgaged motor car. We heard the sages gabble of rainy days and woe, but laughed and joined the rabble, to see the moon shine in the big sky, in places, regardless of expense, and now the sheriff chases us from our residence. Well may you weep, Mirandy, and squirt the tears around, and well may Bess and Andy end up a doleful sound. Now that the moon shines in the big sky, things with alarm; and we shall join the papers, out at the county farm.

POLITICS.
Here's the presidential race we have long been waiting for, and its roots will displace the tired stories of the war. We are tired of death and blood, and we turn with grateful relief to the yards of Mr. Mudd, who would be the nation's chief. Sleuths are busy laying bare all the things he ever did; "whiter than snow" is the buzzword, and that statesman's lid. For he thought his foolish acts were forgotten, long ago; but the sleuths dig up the facts, make them a public show. Correspondents on his trail, strive to show, in language terse, that he served a term in jail for serving a widow's fence. Affidavits, by the ton, written down by trenchant pens, will declare he got his mon, with a lantern, stealing hen. Anecdotes of Europe's strife will seem flat, absurdly tame when we take a stroll through the papers. They shared the same. Let the slogan say round, let the hewag hover near: there'll be lots of fun around, in this presidential year.

TOBACCO.
Tobacco is a harmful weed, the learned physicians are agreed. It stains the teeth and bites the tongue, and injures larynx, heart and lung, it spoils the whiskers, taints the breath, and sends man to an early death, and when he's laid beneath the sod the legal lights divide his name. If you should take away your pipe, when you're smoking it, you'll be barred, we'd find the slogging party hard, for in one thing tobacco's best, in that that soothes the savage breast. And many husbands are serene, who would be quarrelsome and mean, indulging off in mental crimes, if you should take away their pipes. When I am smoking 'em as mild as any gent that ever smiled, and folks who hear me chirp and tweet, remark, "His temper is so sweet!" But when, impelled by some sublime, I cut out smoking for a time, my friends are very growing. I hear that mumbles soupbones in his lair, and all the women in the shack are hoping I will soon get back to blowing smoke around my room, 'e'n though it means an early tomb.

...foll, and you can dance and smile and sing. The man who isn't barking when, who doesn't sneeze and sneeze and yip, can't hope to class with other men who revel in the joys of grip. But when you have a summer cold, and cough a streak the long day, through your throat agonies untold, and there's no sympathy for you. You sit and suffer in your fat, and feel like some back number dame, who wears around a last year's hat, and therefore can't get in the game. And 'e'n the drug-store "holly-wood" prescriptions, and collar your doobnoon, will hint that there is little sense in having colds along in June. The doctor, who in winterdays, would soothe you with a kindly smile, remarks he's tired of hearing jays who have diseases out of you. The man who has a super cold no comfort finds beneath the sky; if for a nickel he were sold, he'd think the price was rather high.

The man who doesn't advertise may be properly classified as a miser because he derives benefit from those who do advertise.

A call has been issued for a republican state convention at Lincoln July 25, and in the meantime republican county conventions will have to be held to select delegates.

Every paper picked up these days contains one or more accounts of people accidentally drowned. The reason for such unfortunate accidents happen in Wayne may be due to the early-coming of the winter hereabouts deep enough to drown.

We have heard complaint of lack of sociability. No one should miss an opportunity to be affable and friendly. You will find something to talk over of mutual interest. The spirit of congeniality counts more in winning friends than one might suppose.

In the course of his tour of the middle west, Charles E. Hughes, republican nominee for president, will be persuaded to come to Wayne if possible. Wayne is anxious to be one of the Nebraska points visited by him, and an effort is being made in that direction. Everybody would like to see and hear the next president.

Wayne ought to decide to hold a Fourth of July celebration next year. This city undertakes an Independence day program it more than makes good and sends no one away disappointed. The most successful and satisfactory celebration we ever attended was held here two years ago. Another ought to be due next year.

An example of wasted brilliance, wrecked hopes and ruined life, due to intemperance and uncontrolled use of alcoholic drinks, is found in the case of C. C. Marlay who succeeded by drowning at Omaha last week. Marlay was a brainy lawyer, and at one time belonged to a leading law firm. His practice netted him $12,000 per year. He was a graduate of the Nebraska university and married a prominent Lincoln girl. Marlay began to drink and so far exceeded the speed limit that he soon became a physical and mental wreck. His final end was in the Norfolk asylum as a dipsomaniac. On his release from that institution, he went to Omaha. He lived 38 years, and then, in despair, drew the curtain by jumping into Carter lake.

The prospect of the last few days encourages the hope that differences with Mexico will be settled without war. The Carranza note, transmitted to the state department yesterday, is the first for a peaceful solution. It is likely Carranza would not hesitate to yield to the reasonable demands of the United States if it were not for the ignorant and irreconcilable bands of Mexican savages with whom he has to deal.

The Wilmington Journal, published by W. S. Goldie, formerly of Wayne, gives vigorous criticism to California grafters and real estate sharks, pointing out the injury they are doing to the state. The Journal emphasizes the need of doing something besides harvesting credulous easterners. An extract from the Journal's article: "Here, we have only one asset that remains unimpaired and that is the land. It is possible for exploiters to 'eat the weather and dispose of it' we could not say as much, for what they have done to real estate is proof of such assertion. The Journal has been particularly critical of the grafting small sphere during the past four or five years - for telling the truth about California graft and grafters. For every thousand easterners you old timers found tuckers in the past five years, ten thousand more tuckers will fall to come to the golden west, and those caught will struggle back just as they are now doing. Los Angeles, for instance, can't be a playground with dotted street palms, million dollar parades, continuous merry-go-round officials, just to show visitors what a perennial place of joy it is and pay by without paying for it all, and get-day seems to be here."

Frequent announcements proclaiming scarcity of raw materials and consequently increased cost of all kinds of paper make one weary. They cheapen the resourcefulness of paper manufacturers. Not only are qualities reduced and prices inflated, but an actual famine is suggested. This condition exists in face of the fact that the western states are covered with timber that could be converted into paper. Chemicals which enter into such manufacture came from Germany until the war stopped shipments from that country. Unable or unwilling to fully supply the deficiency, paper manufacture has seemed to drag along precariously and even if American institutions prepared to supply the chemicals demanded, foreign competition would make the industry unprofitable at the close of the war. Then why not invoke the protection of the tariff? Certainly the difference in cost of chemicals made here and those made abroad could not equal the greatly increased cost that has followed exclusion of the foreign supply. The paper scarcity suggests that American manufacturers are not so enterprising as they should be in adequately meeting popular needs.

In an address before the Associated Advertising Clubs in Philadelphia last week, Frank Stoddale said the average retailer does not turn his stock large enough to make returns what they ought to be, attributing the fact to insufficient advertising appropriations. He thinks a merchant should reduce costly waste and not allow his goods to rot on the shelves six months. He mentions that the average advertising expense of fifty-nine retail stores investigated had been about three-tenths of one per cent of their annual sales. Increases the average advertising expense of a department store is about three per cent of its sales and that of mail order houses from six to seven per cent. The moral is plain. If big department stores and mail order houses can do this, smaller, through-persistent and judicious advertising, retail dealers can secure larger returns in the same way. With many retailers in rural towns, advertising is deemed trivial. The dealer may give indifferent attention to it if he can't think of anything else to do. It doesn't need to be wiped from counters or shelves, or a box of eggs needs to be counted or cancelled, he is apt to do it before writing an advertisement while an inexpensive clerk who could perform the mechanical task as well, loafs away time. Metropolitan stores place the value and importance of advertising uppermost. John W. Vanamaker, usually given credit for the first advertising policy, said he succeeded because he advertised. "If I ever have a monument for discovering anything," he said, "it will be for finding out that the only benefit to be derived from an instant advertising is that both merchant and customer are in the newspaper of known circulation." The retailer must take lively interest in newspaper advertising to get deservedly increased results. It is not enough to make an appropriation for the purpose. He must give advertising the same alert and intelligent attention which he devotes to buying goods or employing clerks.

THE MONTH OF JUNE. Lincoln Journal: The month of June brought cool weather, a seasonal amount of rainfall and other conditions promising a large crop in the latter's brother, Fritz Carlson. More than the usual amount of political and economic movements has been poured into the month, and yet the markets have remained unshaken, business has been excellent and the outlook seems good in every department of industry.

The order has been excited by the authority of the Mexican government notifying General Pershing that his men would be attacked if they moved in any direction except north. At Carriz, Mexico, on June 21, a detachment of colored troops numbering nearly one hundred, clashed with a large body of Mexicans. Nearly a score were killed and twenty-three were taken prisoner.

The Mexican government released the prisoners on June 29, and diplomatic exchanges over this and other incidents were in progress. The attitude of the Mexican government had been so menacing that the United States national guard was called out and many regiments are now on their way to the border. Two Nebraska regiments and the signal corps are camped on the state fair grounds and are being rapidly prepared for service.

The month began with the receipt of the stirring news that the British and the German fleets had met in the North Sea and what each had done terrific execution. The first reports were of a decided German victory. Later information made a virtual draw, with the control of the sea still in the hands of the British. The allies were much cast down by the loss of Lord Kitchener, the head of the British war department, who died of a rupture while on the Hampshire while on his way to Russia. The ship was sunk by a mine. The title of the news soon turned in favor of the entente powers for the Russians made a smashing drive in the east, captured all of the British and 180,000 prisoners and seemed about to repeat their former exploit of driving the Austrians out of Galicia. At about the same time the Italians began driving the Austrians back on their front, and the British showed signs of beginning their great offensive on the western line. The siege of Verdun did not slacken. There was little peace talk, although the scarcity of food is noticeable in several of the warring countries.

The political parties held their conventions early in the month. The republicans nominated Justice Hughes and the progressives endorsed him after Colonel Roosevelt had refused to be their candidate. The progressive party is now virtually out of business. The democratic convention gave Wilson and Marshall the inevitable endorsement. On account of the war excitement the national campaign as yet attracts but little attention.

Studebaker

AUTOMOBILES

Power, Durability, Efficiency and Beauty are the features of the New SERIES 17 STUDEBAKER Six-50 and Four-40

The new Series Seventeen Studebaker cars represent the most modern development in automobile design.

Refinements have been added, improvements have been made here and there, and the most recent Studebaker automobiles in body style, and seating arrangement have been introduced, making the new Series Seventeen Studebaker cars typical examples of the very latest development in the progress of the automobile industry.

Studebaker has adhered to its time-honored policy of building beautiful, stylish, and elegant cars, without attempting to introduce faddishness in style.

Very little need be said regarding the mechanical perfection of the new Series Seventeen Studebakers. The public already knows that Studebaker automobiles in material, mechanical design and workmanship are standards of quality. The policy of Studebaker to build into its products the integrity and honesty of a great name is accepted in a world-wide sense as a guarantee of the excellence of Studebaker construction. Regardless of the price you pay, you cannot obtain greater intrinsic value, and there are very few cars indeed that can equal the new Studebaker Series Seventeen in beauty of line, elegance of finish, comfort, convenience and easy riding qualities.

The low prices at which the new Series Seventeen Studebaker cars are offered are purely in keeping with the policy of Studebaker to pass on to the public the advantage of quantity production and the savings effected by the efficiency and experience of a splendid manufacturing organization concentrated upon the one idea of producing a genuinely high quality product at the lowest possible cost.

SAINTS OF ILLS AND TRADES.

Holy Friendships Consolated Pious People in the Middle Ages.

The trust and kindly piety of the middle ages believed that the citizens of heaven were interested in every phase of men's lives, and there was a single trade, profession or occupation that did not boast a special patron, while certain diseases were thought to be cured and certain visitations warded off through the intercession and agency of particular saints.

Thus St. Andrew was the patron of fishermen, St. Isidore of husbandmen, St. Christopher of porters, St. Martin of soldiers, St. Joseph carpenter, St. Crispin of shoemakers, St. Vitus of actors, St. Gregory of singers, St. Dismas (supposed name of the good thief of Calvary) of criminals, St. Apollonia was believed to cure toothache, St. Blaise sore throat, St. Clare and Lucy sore eyes, while St. Benedict preserved his clients from poison and St. Hubert from the bite of mad dogs.

It is impossible to know who was the author of the multiplication table, but it is known to have been in existence in the days of the builders of the ruined cities of Mesopotamia, whose records are now being painstakingly deciphered by archeologists. Tablets are found which tell us of their system of education, banking, accounting, business correspondence, and among others are multiplication tables. So the multiplication table is probably not less than 4,000 years old—Christian Era.

Quirk Changes.

Write—Dear Sir, I want a new gown, but I don't. But you had a new one only a short time ago. Wife—Yes, but my friend Ellen is to be married, and I can't wear the same dress that I wore at her last wedding.—Elizabethe Black.

brood sows, which mean a good sized bunch of spring pigs for him. One set of hogs comprises his best sale for the past season. His crop scheme includes forty-five acres of oats, fifty-five acres of corn, forty acres of pasture and twenty acres of alfalfa.

Edward Sandahl, Sr. Coming from Henry county, Ill., Edward Sandahl has returned 2 1/2 miles from a five mile east of Wayne and an equal distance west of Wakefield for the last thirty years. Besides the home place, Mr. Sandahl also owns other Wayne county land. The improvements on this farm are top with the additional features of good groves and orchards. Mr. Sandahl's crop scheme for this season is: One hundred acres of corn, thirty acres each of oats and wheat, and twenty acres of alfalfa. He has a fine stock of pasture and some valley hay land. Mr. Sandahl is one of the substantial early settlers, who has done his utmost to make Wayne county, or rather a little portion of it, productive and beautiful.

Herman Echtenkamp. For twenty-one years Herman Echtenkamp has devoted his time, thought and energy to the making of an ideal country home. To be able to acquire a half section of land, seven miles northeast of Wayne. After choosing the most advantageous building site, he began at once to beautify the grounds, with the result that now he has an immense orchard of 800 bearing apples besides a good grove and other attractive groups of shade trees. The house is new and affords eleven spacious rooms. The other buildings are many and well suited to the varying needs of a stock farm. At present Mr. Echtenkamp has 135 hogs, having shipped one car not long ago. Last year he sold five cattle and now has twenty-five head in the yards. In crops Mr. Echtenkamp reports 140 acres of corn, twenty-five acres of oats and sixty-five acres of oats. The balance of the 320 acres is in an excellent meadow and hayland.

Fred Weitzenkamp. Just the first of last March acquired a 280-acre farm, lying four and one-half miles northeast of Wayne. Mr. Weitzenkamp formerly lived in Dixon county and bought his present home of Johnson and Zelenker of Wakefield. This year he has for crops: One hundred twenty acres corn, 100 acres small grain, with the remaining sixty acres in pasture and hay ground. A good grove, a productive orchard and buildings in good repair complete the way of life on the farm home. Mr. Weitzenkamp is welcomed to Wayne county right heartily.

Ed Sandahl, Jr. Ed Sandahl, beginning his farm operation on a place one and one-half miles south of town only three years ago, has already made a good start on the road to success. He is cropping the 240 acres owned by his father, Ed Sandahl, as follows: Fifteen acres spring wheat, fourteen acres alfalfa, a big acreage of hay, with the major crop, 112 acres of corn. Mr. Sandahl expects to specialize in stock. Last year he sold one car of cattle and thirty-five head of hogs, and he now has twenty head of cattle and a drove of twenty spring pigs. Besides the twelve sows, the buildings on this place are all new, but unlike most new places, there is already growing on it a good orchard and a good grove. A fine, eleven-room house is under construction. The architecture of the exterior will be pleasing, while the arrangement of the interior will cater to both good taste and convenience.

George Ellfine. Another valuable country place is that of George Ellfine, located four miles east of town. The house built with a full basement has all of the modern improvements, such as gas, lights, furnace and waterworks. The main buildings are in keeping. In addition to a good pasture and a strip of hayland, Mr. Ellfine has put in the following crops: One hundred four acres corn, forty acres spring wheat and an equal amount of oats. His drove of hogs includes eighty spring pigs and eighteen old hogs. About forty head of hogs and one car of cattle were marketed last season. There are now only twenty head of cattle on the place. Mr. Ellfine has lived on this farm for nine years.

William Brummond. Another farm home, very fortunate in the location of its building site, is that of William Brummond, southeast of town. The farm comprises 240 acres, and is cropped with ninety acres of corn, and the same acreage of small grain. The remaining sixty acres are sown to some grasses. Mr. Brummond has thirty head of good type hogs and thirty-two head of cattle, including a few good milk cows. A good sized grove and a fine apple orchard are attractive features on this place.

Mrs. W. P. Agler. The old LaPorte court house, surrounded by forty acres of exceedingly rich valley land is the home of Mrs. W. P. Agler. This place is more commonly known as the poor farm, for this is the retreat to which those of the county who are unable to support themselves are taken. Mrs. Agler has been the efficient manager of this home for twenty-one years. Truck-raising and small farming are carried on with good profits on this place.

John Geewe. For seven years John Geewe has been farming 240 acres, three miles south and five miles east of Wayne. Only about one-half of the acreage is under cultivation, there being seventy acres of corn, and forty-five acres in small grain. Good yielding hay land and a fine pasture complete the acreage of the farm. Mr. Geewe is tending 225 head of hogs, big and little, and also has ninety head of cattle, which will be put in the yards this fall. Two cars of hogs and three of cattle were the stock shipments last year. The buildings on the Geewe farm are good, the barn a structure 52x30, being of especially good type. Attractive groves and orchards, further increase the value of this home.

N. F. Eckman. A well improved farm, located four miles northeast of Wayne and belonging to the Nelson estate, is tenanted by N. F. Eckman. The land is cropped with fifty-five acres corn, forty-seven acres small grain, with the balance taken up with pasture and hayland.

Hans Madsen. A quarter section of the Nelson estate has been operated for four years by Hans Madsen, a thoroughly progressive farmer. Mr. Madsen is one, who believes that his children deserve the best and has accordingly given them the highest education available in this vicinity. One daughter, Miss Eugenia is studying at the university of Chicago this summer. Mr. Madsen reports for crop this year, seventy-five acres of corn and about half that amount in small grain. A good pasture and choice hay stand fill out the 160 acres. Just now there are forty cattle on the premises and a total of over eighty pigs, including the fifteen old hogs.

Henry Rubick. Henry Rubick the owner of 200 acres, four miles southwest of Wakefield, has made his home on the one place for a quarter of a century. He combines stock raising and grain farming very profitably. He has in the neighborhood of 100 head of hogs, all but twelve of them being spring stock. Twenty head of cattle are now running on pasture. As to crops Mr. Rubick states that he has ninety acres of corn, thirty acres small grain, forty-five in pasture, twenty-five in tame grasses for hay, and a small patch of alfalfa. The improvements on this place are first class, and an inviting grove and orchard furnish a splendid background.

Lawrence Ring. For three years Lawrence Ring has farmed 240 acres of the Nelson estate. The land lies five and one-half miles northeast of Wayne and four and one-half miles from Wakefield. The place is equipped with fine buildings, which a heavy grove affords ample protection from wind and storm. During the last season Mr. Ring sold two cars of choice cattle and one and one-half cars of hogs. He now has fifty head of good stock cattle on hand, and 135 head of hogs of all ages. His crops for this season include the following: One hundred five acres of corn, fifty-five acres small grain, with the balance of the land devoted to hay and pasture. The buildings are fair.

FANK STOCKDALE. (July 14, 1916).

The man with the lectures that make you think and that bring a new message of entertainment, interest, inspiration, uplifting. Fank Stockdale is a combination you do not find every day—a lecturer of tested capability, a writer who has made good, and a business man of experience. Because he has down-to-bed-rock knowledge of what he talks about, you know that he is worth the listening; because he has the knack of lecturing pleasantly with just the right touch of human interest or humor, you find that there is real entertainment, too, in the listening. Stockdale knows two exceedingly important facts: First, that thoughts wrapped in smiles are easiest to carry home and put into practical use. Second, that after all lectures are but means to an end. The end is sound, sane inspiration along with rectified picture of nature that can be put to use in every man's and every woman's life. And Stockdale has never delivered a lecture that overlooks these two facts. Wayne Chattanooga July 14.

Federal Inquiry or Railroad Strike?

Faced by demands from the conductors, engineers, firemen and brakemen that would impose on the country an additional burden in transportation costs of $100,000,000 a year, the railroads propose that this wage problem be settled by reference to an impartial Federal tribunal.

With these employes, whose efficient service is acknowledged, the railroads have no differences that could not be considered fairly and decided justly by such a public body.

Railroads Urge Public Inquiry and Arbitration

The formal proposal of the railroads to the employes for the settlement of the controversy is as follows:

- "Our conferences have demonstrated that we cannot harmonize our differences of opinion and that eventually the matters in controversy must be passed upon by other and disinterested agencies. Therefore, we propose that your proposals and the proposition of the railroads be disposed of by one or the other of the following methods:
- 1. Preferably by submission to the Interstate Commerce Commission, the only tribunal which, by reason of its accumulated information bearing on railway conditions and its control of the revenue of the railroads, is in a position to consider and protect the rights and equities of all the interests affected, and to provide additional provisions necessary to meet the actual cost of operation in case your proposals are found by the Commission to be just and reasonable; or, in the event the Interstate Commerce Commission cannot, under existing laws, act in the premises, that you jointly request Congress to take such action as may be necessary to enable the Commission to consider and promptly dispose of the questions involved; or
- 2. By arbitration in accordance with the provisions of the Federal Law" (The Newlands Act).

Leaders Refuse Offer and Take Strike Vote

Leaders of the train service brotherhoods, at the joint conference held in New York, June 1-15, refused the offer of the railroads to submit the issue to arbitration or Federal review, and the employes are now voting on the question whether authority shall be given these leaders to declare a nation-wide strike.

The Interstate Commerce Commission is proposed by the railroads as the public body to which this issue ought to be referred for their reasons:

- No other body with such an intimate knowledge of railroad conditions has such an unquestioned position in the public confidence.
- The rates the railroads may charge the public for transportation are now largely fixed by this Government board.
- Out of every dollar received by the railroads from the public nearly one-half is paid directly to the employes as wages; and the money to pay increased wages can come from no other source than the rates paid by the public.
- The Interstate Commerce Commission, with its control over rates, is in a position to make a complete investigation and render such decision as would protect the interests of the railroad employes, the owners of the railroads, and the public.

A Question For the Public to Decide

The railroads feel that they have no right to grant a wage preferment of $100,000,000 a year to these employes, now highly paid and constituting only one-fifth of the employees, without a clear mandate from a public tribunal that shall determine the merits of the case after a review of all the facts.

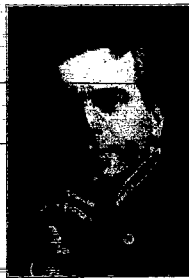

The single issue before the industry is whether this controversy is to be settled by an impartial Government inquiry or by industrial warfare.

REV. ROBERT J. PATTERSON, ELECTION

Mr. Patterson is an Episcopalian, the son of a Trinity college, Dublin, Ireland. He studied law at the University of Toronto, and graduated in 1884. He studied law at the University of Toronto, and graduated in 1884. He studied law at the University of Toronto, and graduated in 1884.

Rev. Robert J. Patterson, the City of St. Patrick where he labored for some years till in 1900, he was for in a wonderful way, which he tells on the platform, to found the Catch My Pal Movement. This movement is becoming world-wide. His history is one of the romances of social reform. Mr. Patterson is now in America for the fourth time. He has traveled over 35,000 miles in the United States and Canada speaking at assemblies, synods, conferences, chautauquas, colleges, universities, and specially arranged meetings. He has probably addressed more people during the past five years than any other Irishman.

Mr. Patterson is a most gifted speaker, his moral earnestness, his dramatic power, his humor, his pathos, his power to make people want to go and do something worth while is so unusually masterful, that he will be remembered as one of the great treats of a life-time.

Robert J. Patterson has a distinct message. "It is his benediction." "An apostle of good Samaritanism." Besides he is one of the biggest "hits" on the lecture platform to-day. You must hear Catch-My-Pal Patterson. Wayne Chautauque July 16.

Blissness and Stomach Trouble. "Two years ago I suffered from a chronic attack of stomach trouble and biliousness," writes Miss Emma Verbrue, Lima, Ohio. "I could eat very little food that agreed with me and I became so dizzy and sick at my stomach at times that I had to take hold of something to keep from falling. Seeing Chamberlain's Tablets advertised I decided to try them. I improved rapidly." Obtainable everywhere.—Adv.

Event of the Season.
'It was the best thing ever pulled off in Winside—the words used by one man when asked about the big carnival held on the A. T. Chapin lawn last Thursday evening. And he was right. As the crowds swarmed up the hill towards the Chapins, they caught the striking scene of the carnival as it had been planned by Miss Virginia Chapin, the originator of the idea, assisted by her mother and a large corps of other willing helpers.

Dances of electric light beauties and scores of Japanese lanterns danced night into day. Fred Weible made a typical game keeper, who hounded the visitors without mercy until they bought an all-evening's ticket. Over and over again he explained the economy of such a course for this ticket admitted not only to each of the ten attractions, but also entitled him to a big balloon, a squawker, a package of confetti, popcorn, ice cream and candy.

Once inside the gates, the visitors would rarely have lost their way in the maze of booths and tents had it not been for the two efficient, star- barked marshals in the persons of Miss Josephine Carter and Miss Gertrude Bayes. Yet in addition there were four "barkers," costumed as clowns with the regulation pointed dance caps and stiff ruffs. The Misses Abbie Loud, Esther Belle, and Clara were in the line. Dyant exhibited all the qualities of professional "spies."

On account of the heat, the ice cream stand was almost swamped. The waitresses, twelve girls, dressed in fancy pink and white, looked charming in their beautiful uniforms in the same tones. The interesting part was an exhibit of animal pets, each in a neatly labeled cage. Mrs. E. O. Brown, presiding as the lady was another big attraction. For the reason that she had a pet snake which rivaled the fortune teller in gaining attention. Walking a tight rope was done in no amateurish manner by Miss Nellie Bright. Perilous risk- taking by "Magyar" and his assistants, Russell Wylie and Lloyd Keffer, ground for conversation on the grounds for a few seconds. At the instant that Magyar let a knife fly at his helper, that individual pressed a tiny balloon of red ink con- taining his blood on the nose of the spectator to trickle down his arm, frightening the onlookers almost to frenzy.

The swimming match fooled many whose curiosity had been piqued by the clever placards on the booth and its two attendants engaged in bathing suits. Mrs. Gas Bleich was the Bearded Lady and Walter Reader naturally slipped into the role of Charlie Chaplin. The vaudeville made a big hit. Jim Leary, fully clothed, set up a series of announcements the numbers. Four little girls, Faye, Wylie, Laurine Michael, Gladys Fletcher and Mary Clayton, in gay costume, sang some fetching songs. There was also singing, juggling and a troop of gnomes.

Next, J. Bruce Wylie gave two original monodies, minus the real tragedy element. One was a fishing song, composed for the benefit of the local anglers. Miss Chapin accom- panied Mrs. Wylie with soft music. The last number was a Hawaiian set featured by A. T. Cavanaugh and Miss Chapin in costume.

The hum of voices, cut by sharp blasts from toy horns and the plaintive wailing of sawdust mingled in a weird medley of confusion and hilarity, and when shortly before midnight everybody, young and old, opened fire in the free-for-all con- dition fight, pandemonium reigned. More than 1000 boxes of confetti were scattered liberally. Thus it spirit as well as in working. The very fact that the multitude of de- tails were so perfectly worked out in our four days, evidences the versatility and skill of those who steered the affair into shape. The receipts of the carnival totaled $10,000 and the net $10 had been banked to the credit of the basement fund.

Will Benck Drowns.
While swimming in a reservoir at Salmon River, N. D., Will Benck, whose three brothers live near Winside, sank into one of the holes and was drowned before he could be rescued. Those who were near the place at the time state that Mr. Benck rose to the surface once, the crown of his head just showing above the water, but no one could reach the place in time to save him. The death occurred on Monday and the remains brought to Winside Tuesday afternoon. The deceased was about 23 years old, a son of John Benck who has a farm south of town. The father arrived from Persia, Ia., in time for the funeral which was conducted by Rev. R. M. Moehring of Wayne from the German Evangelical church at Winside shortly after noon yesterday. Interment was made in Pleasantville cemetery. Besides his parents, the deceased leaved to mourn his tragic death, three brothers, Chris, John and Herman Benck, and a sister, Mrs. M. J. Benck. The sympathy of the community is extended to the sorrowing relatives.

Church Monthly.
The Junior League monthly business meeting was held Tuesday afternoon at the home of Miss Vivian Halpin.

In response to Rev. J. Bruce Wylie's clever advertisement in the local papers, a big crowd gathered at the church Sunday morning. Those who went declared themselves well repaid. In the evening a chorus of eight- teen voices from the Grace church of Wayne furnished the music. This was certainly one of the excellent leadership of Mrs. George Patterson who would undoubtedly be a credit to any town church. Their selections were thoroughly enjoyed by the congregation.

MERCHANTS STATE BANK

The Merchants State Bank of Winside, Neb., commenced business on July 20, 1892, with an authorized capital of $50,000, half of which has been paid in. Among the organizers were W. H. McClusky, A. H. Carter, A. T. Chapin, A. B. Clark, John T. Bressler, Frank Weible, and Walter Gaebler. A. T. Chapin was elected the first president, and on March 28, 1896, shows to assets of only $38,774.33. The bank struggled along and by the year 1900 was able to show assets of $99,034.23. It was at this time that Mr. E. R. Gurney took hold of the institution. He managed the affairs of the bank in an excellent manner, winning for himself a reputation of geniality and helpfulness.

The bank had a hard beginning. Money was scarce and there were hard times, due either to crop failure, poor prices, or business depression. The report of "the condition of the bank at the close of business" on March 28, 1896, shows to assets of only $38,774.33. The bank struggled along and by the year 1900 was able to show assets of $99,034.23. It was at this time that Mr. E. R. Gurney took hold of the institution. He managed the affairs of the bank in an excellent manner, winning for himself a reputation of geniality and helpfulness.

In 1904, G. E. French, Harry McClusky, and E. W. Tucker became interested in the bank, although Mr. McClusky was connected with the bank previous to this time. Mr. L. S. Needham at this time became vice president. Under the management of Mr. French the bank continued to prosper and at all times had been a factor in the building up of the community.

It was last October when G. E. French sold out his interest to E. R. Gurney, C. A. Pestal, and Walter Christensen. Dan B. Carter retired as cashier the first of the year. Mr. French and Mr. Carter were instrumental in building up a big business for the institution. They were careful and conservative bankers.

The present officers of the institution are C. A. Pestal, president; L. S. Needham, vice president; Walter Christensen, cashier, and Irving G. Gaebler, assistant cashier. Mr. Pestal comes here from Fremont where he was assistant cashier of the First National bank. He is a graduate of the Nebraska Wesleyan academy and attended the State University two years. Mr. Christensen comes here from the Leshara State Bank. His father is vice president of the Commercial National Bank of Fremont, and his brother is vice president of the First National Bank of the same city. He is a graduate of the Colorado School of Mines, and also attended the State University of Nebraska. Mr. Gaebler is a home product. He is a graduate of the Winside high school. Mr. Needham is a capitalist and stock grower. He is one of the pioneers who have helped build up this community.

The present directors of the bank are Carl Bronzynski, Walter Gaebler, E. B. Gurney, L. S. Needham, Herman Flier, E. W. Callen, Walter Christensen, and C. A. Pestal. They are all proud of the confidence the community has placed in them. They are proud of the showing they can make. The officers especially are anxious to serve the community as they realize that it is in the measure that they serve that they will be able to enjoy the confidence and good will of their customers and their friends. After all, the real joy comes through service.

MOSES BROTHERS

The implement business conducted by Moses Brothers was established by J. W. Tilton in 1890. Mr. Tilton later sold the business to E. W. Cullen who ran the implement house, putting on additions and increasing the stock until in 1910 when he sold the business to Pryor & Juskawilla. These two partners operated a successful business until July, 1915, at which time they sold out to the present owners.

The owners of the firm of Moses Brothers are Halsey Moses and Irving Moses. These two brothers not only conduct the implement business in Winside, but also operate one of the best farms, consisting of 640 acres, situated southeast of Winside. This farm is managed by Irving Moses, and the business in town is carried on by Halsey Moses. Both young men have lived in Wayne county the greater part of their lives, and are well known all over the county.

Immediately upon going into business, Halsey Moses began to make things move, and his business has been steadily on the increase until now his sales amount to about $1,500 a week. Mr. Moses has some ideas of his own in regard to handling of business, and, while unique, they have proven to be practical. In general stores and grocery stores, he takes in exchange for machinery, and this would save, however, to try to conduct a business in this manner where things are sold at such prices as are paid for machinery and automobiles. Of course Mr. Moses does not count enough eggs or weigh enough butter to pay for a wagon or buggy, but he has ideas of getting around this form of selling by handling farm produce of a different nature. Instead of eggs, butter, etc., being exchanged in trade, Mr. Moses takes in horses, cows, any kind of live stock, second hand cars, or anything that can be turned into the value of his machinery which is put out. In this way Mr. Moses says he keeps down 30 per cent of his accounts and his system enables him to run practically a cash business.

Moses Brothers handle several well known lines of farm machinery and gas engines. They also have in connection with the implement business a complete line of plumbing supplies, and can handle any plumbing job. Overland cars are another feature of their business, and they sell them as fast as they can be procured, which speaks well for the car. Overlands cannot be excelled by any other car for the amount invested.

Besides Halsey Moses being at work in the implement house, he is at present assisted by Mr. Pryor, C. C. Reed, and Mr. Irving Leary, and at times is forced to hire others on account of the work his business necessitates. All of these men are trained in the part of the business they handle.

If you are desirous of business and of getting through with it as quickly as possible, see Moses Brothers. They make it right, and if you haven't the cash at hand that's all right with them. Just drive in a horse or something else that has value to it, and you will strike a bargain. Halsey cannot keep out of it until after the deal is put through.

Winside, Retrospect and Prospect A. T. CAVANAUGH

In telling of the early history of Winside, permit me to go back still further than the time when Winside began, and give you some conception of the condition of the country when the first settlers began to arrive in this community. The oldest settler now in Winside is A. T. Chapin. Mr. Chapin bought land and came from their in 1888. He traveled by teams, enough lumber and supplies to start a shack, and began raising stock on his 800-acre ranch that he had purchased for $3.50 an acre. The sight of a tree was an unusual thing. Mr. Chapin says, and served to break the monotony of the "eternal prairie." Mr. Chapin settled four miles north of where Winside now stands and his nearest neighbor was six miles southwest. He also had a neighbor living near where Sholes is now located, and one near Wayne. The vast expanse of prairie, became an unbearable sight to Mr. Chapin, so he decided to plant trees. The site of these trees were hauled by wagon over fifty miles from Homer, Neb. The Indian agent at that place had squaws go out in canoes and pull up the young trees and sold Mr. Chapin 2,000 trees for $50, throwing in an extra thousand for good measure. These trees were planted around an entire section of the land and during the last year had to be cut down as they became so large that the road alongside of them could not be kept in good condition. Mr. Chapin says his first visitor upon moving to this vicinity was in the person of Widow Boyle, who had ridden a horse, bareback, over to Chapin's ranch. She said she had heard there was another woman in this country, and if it was Mr. Chapin's wife, she wanted to see her, because it had been so long since she had seen another woman that she had nearly forgotten what one looked like.

The Railroad Comes

In 1882 the C. M. & St. P. railroad extended its track through from Wayne to Norfolk. At this time the country put up a station and section house, which was occupied by John Xain, four miles west of where Winside now stands, and called the town North Side. A short time later McDerby started a general store at North Side, carrying everything from horsehoe nails to groceries. He was also postmaster, having the office in his store.

Winside and Its Name

The stockholders of the railroad decided North Side was too close to Heskings, and two feet from Wayne, to be really successful town, so they made a townsite company and started in town. The land was four miles east. Mr. Morre who was an extensive land owner in the vicinity now became active and had an injunction served against the townsite company to prevent the removal of the town. A controversy followed and the townsite company finally won from Mr. Morre. North Side and its station, section house and McDerby's store were loaded on a flat car and moved in their entirety in 1885 to the land owned by the townsite company. When the town was incorporated, the company began to look for a name for the town, and one suggested that they had just won from Morre, and that they were on the winning side—why not call it Winside—which they did. Hence, Winside.

Winside's First Business Houses

In 1886, A. H. Carter happened to be at Wakefield, Neb., attending a fair, and he decided to drive up to Winside to look at a piece of land which he had taken on a small debt. He valued this land at $8 an acre. He went to Wayne, and drove across the prairie to find his land. When he came to Winside he couldn't see anyone in town for awhile and decided to go back. He finally saw Jack Cherry on a hill pilning lumber and asked him if he knew where a certain piece of land was. Mr. Cherry gave him the direction, but Mr. Carter, thoroughly disgusted with the appearance of things and his purchase, went back without even looking over his farm. Later on he began to think that there was a chance for another business besides McDerby's in Winside, and decided to put up a store. Mr. McDerby upon hearing this became alarmed and wrote Mr. Carter the following letter:

Sir: I have heard you are coming here to start a store. Now, I want to tell you there is not enough business here for two—I have a good stock of hardware and plenty of ice for two businesses, and will sell it all to you for $1,500. Don't come here until you buy me out.

Yours truly,
L. McDERBY.

Mr. Carter came, notwithstanding this warning, however, and when he arrived he found Mr. McDerby looking dejected. Mr. Carter went ahead and built the building now occupied by R. H. Morrow in 1887, and put in a complete stock of general merchandise. Mr. A. B. Clark was also a member of this firm, having come to the town with Mr. Carter.

Mr. Carter experienced trouble in having goods shipped in, as there was not enough business to employ a station agent. After a consultation with the superintendent of the railroad company and Mr.

MAIN STREET, WINSIDE, NEBRASKA.

Carter decided to hire a station agent that could work in the store, and go over to the station when the train came in. So the telegraph instruments were moved to Mr. Carter's store, and the agent became a clerk. It might be well to state here, however, that the agent was a pretty big man about the town as it was partly through his influence that the community was enabled to hold church and dances in the depot.

Other business men now began to arrive in Winside. In 1888 McClusky & Needham put up a general store, now occupied by Frank Hetter. In 1889 J. W. Tilton erected the first implement house, now operated by Moses Brothers. A short time later, A. B. Clark and A. H. Carter dissolved partnership, and Mr. Clark started a hardware and furniture store, in the building now occupied by E. W. Cullen's harness shop. From about 1890 up to the present, business of various sorts have been established, particulars of which space will not permit narrating.

FARMERS STATE BANK

The Farmers State bank was established June 14, 1913. Mr. Fred Weible who is the active manager of the bank had been associated with the Merchants State Bank previous to this time. The president, Mr. Frank Weible has been in Winside business circles for the past twenty-six years, having had a general store and later doing a live stock and grain business. Mr. Weible owns a large amount of land joining Winside, part of which he rents and part used for feeding grounds for his cattle. This bank was started in a small wooden building on east Main street and managed to exist in this until the present new building was constructed. This building is brick finished inside, in marble and brass and is absolutely fireproof. The vault is the most modern that they were able to find. The building contains private room for patrons, use also safety deposit boxes. We feel safe in stating that considering its size not a more up-to-date or better bank building is to be found in the state.

The officers of the bank are: Frank Weible, president; E. L. Weible, vice president; F. W. Weible, cashier; Julius Schmode, assistant cashier; C. C. Weible, assistant cashier.

The bank started with a good amount of business and has been steadily increasing its popularity since.

Mr. Fred Weible is a young man who makes friends wherever he goes, is very active in the interest of the town, being at present chairman of the town committee.

Mr. E. L. Weible, the vice president, is at present in South Dakota, where he manages a large ranch owned by the Weible interests.

All of the Weibles have beautiful homes in Wayne. They own large acreage of good Nebraska and South Dakota lands.

Below is a statement of this bank, May 29, 1916.

I. O. BROWN

I. O. Brown started in business in Winside on July 3, 1892. His first stock of goods consisted mostly of peanuts and confectionery, and for a long time, his place was known as Brown's Peanut Stand. At that time, Mr. Brown found it hard to keep up his business on account of the hard times. He gradually added a line of groceries to his stock, and later purchased the building which was recently vacated by the Tribune. For a number of years Mr. Brown drove through the country with a grocery wagon, and collected produce, and gave groceries in exchange.

About fifteen years ago Mr. Brown erected a new and modern brick building and gave Winside people some conception of an up-to-date grocery store. A neat appearing building and stock of groceries are found in very few towns the size of Winside.

Mr. Brown has also been actively connected with the store. At present Roy Carter is also helping conduct this place of business.

NEEDHAM BROS.

The senior member of this firm was one of Winside's earliest business men, coming here in 1888, and with W. H. McClusky built the store building now occupied by Frank Merten and put in a stock of general merchandise. Later they established a lumber yard on the ground just east of the park.

Mr. Needham and McClusky have been interested in various things during the past, having built the elevator now owned by the Needham Bros. Mr. Needham purchased the interest of Mr. McClusky several years ago, and took into partnership his two brothers, Chas. Needham and Lucas Needham. This firm owns 280 acres of land adjoining the city. Part of this they farm and part is used for pasture for the large number of hogs and cattle they always have on hand.

They do a large grain business shipping more grain in a year than all other dealers combined. Also they ship large numbers of cattle and hogs during the year and sell feeders.

In connection they have a flour and feed store, wholesaling flour and feed to the merchants. They also do a thriving business in coal, salt, etc.

Mr. L. S. Needham moved to Norfolk a few years ago and while still interested in the business has left the active management to Charles Needham who with his brother, Lucas, now takes care of this large concern. They also have with them Mr. Francis Fish, an experienced cattle man, who does office work and also assists with the general work.

WINSIDE BAKERY

W. C. GLASER

W. C. Glaser needs no introduction to the older residents of Winside as he spent most of his boyhood days here and attended the Winside schools. Later, he was associated with his father, G. E. Glaser, in the implement business, and in the general store business. The family moved to Stanton and Mr. Glaser was away from Winside for a period of fifteen years. During this time, he conducted a highly successful bakery at Stanton, and later on and going into the shoe business. This line he continued for six years, building up a good trade. Having a splendid chance to dispose of the shoe store, he sold and retired from business, for a time, but with his present wish to return to the bakery business, he soon began to look for a new location, and after looking over the situation in Winside decided to come here. Accordingly, he refitted the building on the south side of Main street, which for a number of years had been used for a pool hall, and at other times stood idle. This is a good building, and by cleaning, repainting, and fitting up, Mr. Glaser has made a most attractive place of business.

He has a large and attractive soda fountain where you can get up to the minute service in all soft drinks, also tables in the rear where the best of ice cream is served at any time. He handles the Norfolk Ice Cream and Baking company's ice cream the best in the west. He employs a first class baker and you are assured of the best of fresh bread, pies, cakes and all goods put out by an up-to-date bakery. Also he prepared on a few hours' notice to furnish all necessary baking for parties, picnics or weddings. Let him know your wants. He guarantees satisfaction. In establishing this business, Mr. Glaser certainly has the thanks of the ladies of Winside and vicinity as heretofore. If they had any baking done they were almost compelled to do it themselves, whereas now they know that a splendid assortment is always on hand at the Winside Bakery.

WEYERTS & SHULTZ.

General Merchandise.

The firm of Weyerts & Shultz began business in Winside in January, 1914, having purchased the stock from Frank Weible. The history of this store dates back twenty-six years and was the third business house in Winside. Mr. Weible built the present building and began business in the year of 1890.

Mr. Weyerts came to Winside from Cedar Rapids, Iowa, and is a native of Wisconsin. Mr. Weyerts in conducting a business of a similar nature to the one Weyerts & Shultz are running at present. Mr. Weyerts later took charge of a branch store for his father at Albert, Colo., and was general manager of this store until he came to Winside. He was also postmaster at the same place, having the office in connection with the store. During his year and a half in Weyerts & Shultz, he has proved himself to be a successful and progressive business man and is to be congratulated upon his ability to make friends. Mr. Schultz needs no introduction to Winside and its environs. For a number of years he ran a farm south of Winside, but later decided to come to town, where he had many friends, and start into business. Much credit is due to Mr. Schultz for his energetic and progressive nature of the firm's business as his wide acquaintance and vast number of friends have been a valuable asset to him.

Besides Mr. Shultz and Mr. Weyerts being actively employed in conducting the business of the firm, there are Miss Helen Graef and Ulrich Press serving in the capacity of clerks. Miss Graef has almost definite charge of the dry goods department and she has not only been a great help to her employers, but has also been a valuable aid to the ladies of Winside and vicinly in enabling them to procure such necessities as they have been accustomed to purchase in other places. Much credit is due Miss Graef for her efficient and courteous service. The value of stock, including dry goods, men's furnishings, shoes, groceries and meats is valued at $100,000. The sales of the firm amount to $35,000.

For prompt and courteous attention to patrons, Weyerts & Shultz are unrivaled.

WINSIDE CASH STORE.

C. A. Anderson.

Mr. Anderson is a Wayne county boy, a graduate of the Winside high school, also for a time attended the Creighton University. Having been raised on a farm he turned his attention to farming and for a few years past has been one of our successful farmers. On April 1, of this year he bought from E. B. Henderson a stock of groceries, shoes and men's furnishings, known as the Winside Cash Store. Mr. Henderson had previously bought the business from Geo. Gaebler at which time it was a general store. It is Mr. Anderson's intention to build up a business which will command the confidence of the people of Winside and vicinity. At present the stock invoices about $40,000, but as soon as possible he will add a complete line of dry goods and ladies' furnishings, making an up-to-date department store. He has rearranged the grocery department and has a complete line of groceries, fresh vegetables and fruits always on hand. The highest market price for all kinds of produce, you may always depend on receiving when you bring it to Mr. Anderson. His specialty in shoes is the famous Star Brand, a shoe guaranteed to please as to style, fit and wearing qualities. Mrs. Anderson is always on duty and while she is at present a great help to her husband she will be more in demand when the dry goods and ladies' furnishings are added as her taste in these things is the very best and she will always be ready to lend a helping hand to ladies in doubt as to the proper thing to wear.

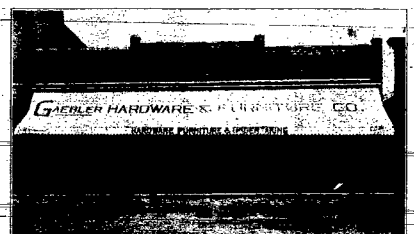

Mr. and Mrs. Anderson only ask a trial to convince you that they can serve you as well as anyone in this town, or any other town, or any mail order house. Not only so, but also as cheaply. Call on them and be convinced; you will always find a hearty welcome.

WALTER GAEBLER.

Hardware, Furniture, and Embalming.

In the spring of the year of 1892, Winside saw its fourth business house erected, which was a hardware store. This store occupied the west half of Mr. Gaebler's present location, and was the first brick building in town. At this time, A. D. Clark, A. H. Carter, W. H. McClusky, and Frank Weible were the other business men of the town. All of these men have since retired from business life, which leaves Mr. Gaebler the singular honor of being in business continuously, longer than any other man in the city.

The furniture store and undertaking establishment were added in 1905, when Mr. Gaebler built the addition to his hardware store. At this time, he went to Omaha and attended the Eckles School of Philadelphia, taking a complete course in embalming to enable him to handle the undertaking and funeral directing.

The value of the stock with which Mr. Gaebler started into business was $300, while the present value of the stock exceeds $15,000. The annual sales of the firm amount to over $30,000.

It is an unusual thing to see a hardware store in a town the size of Winside that shows such tidiness, and good taste. This store, however, is exceptional in its orderly appearance compared with the usual hardware store. It is so exceptional that the contrast is noticeable. Everything in the stock that should be on display is arranged in some attractive and striking form. A neat, orderly, well-kept stock, such as seen in Mr. Gaebler's store, is one that will sell itself without the aid of the master-salesman. Mr. Gaebler could rightly boast of having one of the most attractive business houses and stocks in the town.

The owner of this business has not only shown himself to be a good business man, but has also been active in civic movements, and promoting social betterment for the past twenty-four years. He has served in the capacity of village clerk for a number of years.

This firm is in a position to give you anything you desire in the line of furniture, to handle both staple and fancy hardware, and to do expert embalming and funeral directing. For up-to-the-minute and quick and reliable service, it would pay you well to see Mr. Gaebler.

A. C. LANTZ.

Drugs.

The first drug store was built in Winside by H. I. Miller, about thirty years ago. The business was short in duration, however, as the store and entire stock burned shortly after the store was opened. A short time later Dr. A. B. Cherry erected a new drug store and the history of the same dates up to Mr. Lantz's ownership. Mr. Lantz's store was the first one in Winside. The store was located in the office now occupied by Dr. Neely. Later the stock was moved to the building back of the present drug store, being now used for a store room. This building was destroyed when Mr. Lound erected the new brick building to be used for a drug store and office building. Mr. Lound after operating a successful drug business for a number of years sold the stock to Mr. Ware, who in turn sold out to A. C. Lantz in 1909.

Mr. Lantz is thoroughly trained to handle the demands of his business having taken a complete course in pharmacy at Highland Park school of Des Moines, Ia. He has spent four years in the study of his chosen profession.

Immediately upon entering into Winside's business Mr. Lantz made a host of friends, which proved to be a valuable asset to him. His strength his energies he has built up his present stock and made numerous improvements until Winside can boast of a first class drug store which is excelled by few if not any of its size. The furnishings of the store are up-to-date in every detail and are arranged in an attractive manner to best display the stock. The neat and orderly appearance that impresses one when stepping into the store is deserving of special mention.

Mr. Lantz carries a complete line of staple drugs and patent medicines and is very attentive in keeping his stock well supplied. First class soda service and confectionery is also a feature of this store. The demand of the ladies in the line of toilet articles receives Mr. Lantz's special attention and he keeps on hand everything that even the most particular of the fair sex desire in this line. Mr. Lantz's idea of pleasing patrons is service first.

E. W. CULLEN.

Harness, Rest, Estate, Insurance, and Garage.

From the above heading, it would seem that Mr. Cullen was trying to monopolize Winside's business in its entirety, but not so. Mr. Cullen being a large man in every sense of that word, finds business a necessity for an outlet of his energy.

Mr. Cullen is one of the real pioneers of this vicinity, having come to Winside in early days and in 1889 started farming north of Winside. After farming a while he decided that city life and business appealed to him more than farming and moved to Winside, buying the implement store in 1891 then conducted by J. W. Tilson. At the time Mr. Cullen took possession of this store, the stock was valued at $2,000, and was in the west half of the building now occupied by Moses Brothers. The other business houses owned to that time were a hardware store owned by A. C. Carter, a general store owned by McClusky & Needham. Mr. Cullen gradually increased the implement stock and in 1890 found that an addition to the building was necessary, and built the east half of the store.

After being in this line of business for about twenty years, Mr. Cullen decided he needed a rest and change of climate, and sold the building, house and moving to Paris, Ia. in 1913 and returned from active business life and his worries. He then tried to look for the change of climate and endeavored to find the much needed rest. After traveling in California for about a year looking for a location in which to return he returned to Winside with the statement that he could find nothing that looked so good to him elsewhere. As Elmer Hubbard said, when a man really needs a vacation it is right after he has had one, so it was with Mr. Cullen, and he came to the conclusion that business was his only relief. He had previously put in a stock of harness in the building now occupied by him and in the front of the shop he partitioned off an office and started a real estate and insurance business. This was not enough to keep him busily engaged, however, and upon looking around for a good business he finally decided to take the agency to sell Ford cars, having cars on hand and no place to store them necessitated the construction of a garage, which he built in 1914. Later he built an addition to the garage and put in a supply and repair shop.

The harness shop is operated by William Horton, a first class harness maker. Mr. Cullen is in a position to put out first class harness, the best raw material and workmanship, afford, and to do expert repair work at the most reasonable prices.

The garage is equipped to enable first class repair service and supply such accessories as needed by owners of cars. P. W. Kalstrom and Ed Glassmeyer handle this section of Mr. Cullen's business and both are trained and experienced workmen in repairing automobiles. GABLER BROS.

Auto Company.

Gabler Bros. were formerly proprietors of Winside's Livery and Express business. Their times became harder and when the automobile came to supplant the good old team and buggy and speed in traveling became necessary they sold their livery barn in 1915 and began to build a garage. At this time "Big Gabler" built a garage. The garage was a cylinder Buick car, with which he did livery work, at times when he was not overhauling the same, and people said at the time that he literally ran over the ground. After Winside's garage was built the Gabler Bros. started fixing and selling cars and continued this line of endeavor for a number of years. Later the garage was sold and for the first time in years the boys were not active in the other phases in Winside. In 1913 Gabler Bros. bought back the garage they had previously constructed and are now doing a flourishing business in selling supplies and repairing cars. At present the members of the firm are William, John and Alex Gabler, all trained and experienced in repairing cars and conducting a garage.

Space should be given to describe the equipment of the repair department of the concern, as it is thoroughly equipped with all the latest machinery for repair work and making parts for cars. Along with the other machines is a large turning lathe, making John Gabler to make parts for cars that ordinarily would have to be ordered from supply companies or the factory and thus delaying the repairing of a car.

Alex Gabler at one time attended at the college at Cedar Rapids, Ia., and later took a course in studying electrical appliances in Sioux City. He also has worked in repair work in some of the larger garages in Omaha.

What cannot be said regarding the handling of the business of this firm, which is managed by William Gabler. A well supplied stock of repairs and automobiles are always kept on hand ready for immediate delivery.

A garage to be efficient should be able to do things quickly, to do them well and to do these things at all times. This is the condition of Gabler Bros. garage.

G. C. FRANCIS.

Restaurant and Pool Hall.

Mr. Francis made his debut in Winside's business a number of years ago, at the time being employed by McCaul-Webster Grain company. He conducted the business of this company for a number of years and later in 1913 purchased the Keffer restaurant. In June, 1916, he bought the pool hall from A. L. Templin, and it is his intention to remodel and equip this place, making a first class pool hall of the same.

The restaurant and confectionery store is run by Mrs. Francis and Mrs. Keffer. An up-to-date line of cigars, tobaccos, and candies can be found in Mr. Francis' store and too much cannot be said concerning the kind of meals to be had at this place.

First class restaurant service and satisfying the public's desire is Mr. Francis' motto.

JERRY JURGENSEN.

Having tried farming in Wayne county for a number of years and thinking a change would be beneficial, Mr. Jurgensen decided to locate in Winside. After trying a number of things he established a cream station on the south side of Main street in an old wooden building. Being successful in this venture he added flour and feed to the business. This was in 1912. Since then he has practically rebuilt his store and added a stock of groceries, completing his stock in 1915.

At present he may be found in a very neat grocery store where he is always glad to meet his many friends and pay them the highest price for butter, eggs and cream. He has a very neat, bright and Walter Rander, both of whom are pleasant young people to meet. He is also agent for the Fairmont Creamery company of Omaha. If you prefer cash for your produce call on him, and he will be glad to give it to you. Give him a call.

ROBERT H. MORROW.

The building and part of the business of R. H. Morrow dates back to 1888, and is the oldest business house in the town. The first general store in Winside occupied the building and at the time was called the Pioneer Store. The business was conducted by A. H. Carter and A. D. Clark. Later the two partners dissolved partnership and Mr. Clark moved the hardware to the present E. W. Cullen harness shop and Mr. Carter continued business in the Pioneer Store. Several transactions took place during the number of years this store continued business, until in February of 1908, R. H. Morrow purchased the present stock from A. H. Carter and for the past eight years has been operating a successful business. Mr. and Mrs. Morrow devote all their time to the buying and selling of wearing apparel for ladies and children, there for can be depended upon to have at all times the latest things. Mr. and Mrs. Morrow are also leaders in the community, always standing ready to lend a helping hand in the joys and sorrows of their friends, which they count by hundreds.

R. H. HODGSON.

"Uncle Dick."

Mr. Hodgson came to Winside in 1898 and at that time ran a farm south of Winside. In 1899 he bought the Ross restaurant, which at that time was situated on the present site occupied by the A. C. Lantz drug store. He conducted this business for two and a half years and sold out and moved to Council Bluffs, Ia. Mr. Hodgson could not stay away from Winside and Winside friends, however, and in six months bought back his old business and moved into the building now occupied by Grover Francis and stayed there for four years and sold the place to William Denton. A year later Mr. Hodgson again started a restaurant where the post office is now located and later moved into his present location, having purchased the building he now occupies.

Mr. Hodgson conducts the management of the restaurant with Uncle Dick and says you have an experience still on its way if you have never tasted Mother Hodgson's cooking!

CHARLES M. SOKOL.

It would be hard to find in Winside, a more obliging citizen, a more devoted booster than the subject of this sketch. He is a native born American, and then some, for it was his fortune to be born in Nebraska.

After living for several years in Platte county, this state, Mr. Sokol came to Winside three years ago, and since that time has been prominently identified with the community. He purchased the retail liquor business then conducted by George Manion, and which was housed in the corner building formerly built by Martin Redmer, an old settler of this vicinity. Every business man owes more or less of his success to his employees and his ability to select and retain competent assistants reflects his business acumen. This is true of Mr. Sokol in a very marked degree.

Mr. Sokol has always stood for the welfare of the community, as his judgment dictates. He is a good booster for the town's interests, and always stands ready to help with personal effort and money anything that he thinks will help the city. Generous by nature, charity never appeals to him in vain. If the cause of the poor is presented, if bad luck overtakes a friend, his dollars come forth with a hearty good will that twice favors his benefactions. It is these characteristics that have made for their possessor a host of friends in Winside and surrounding community.

WINSIDE, RETROSPECT AND PROSPECT.

Bresler and the townsmen. In 1890, Mr. Bresler came to Winside to prepare to erect corn cribs on his land. Messrs. McClusky and Carter did not like the idea of corn cribs on Main street, and Mr. Carter came to the conclusion that a city park would be more ornamental than a corn crib. He went to Mr. Bresler with his plan, and told him that if he would give his lots to the city he would see that the townsmen would donate their property in a like manner. Mr. Bresler agreed, and the lots were donated by the townsmen. Mr. Carter and Mr. McClusky had traces shipped from Sioux City and set them out, making a park that will be a perpetual monument to them and their splendid endeavors.

First Fourth of July Celebration.

Winside celebrated its first Fourth of July in 1887. Mr. McDerby and Carter & Clark, being the first business men of the town, donated $8.50 toward defraying the expenses that would be necessary for such a celebration as we had. Homesteaders came in on horses, mules, and dogs. We had horses and mules race on the track in the west part of town, and danced in the depot. The orators of the day were Bill Trotter and Phin Shinn. About noon I went out to my barn, and heard a noise out there, and inside was Bill Trotter, bareheaded, waving his arms at the managers, and practicing his speech. "Everybody had a good time that day."

Schools.

The first public school building was built in the year 1890. Previous to this time, Winside children had attended school one mile west and one mile south, at what was known as "the Perkin-Lewis school."

A. H. Carter and W. H. McClusky were then on the school board and they decided Winside should have a school. Taking stock of money on hand, they found they could bond the town for $500 and no more. This looked bad for the enterprise, but these gentlemen were not to be discouraged, so they borrowed $300 more on their own notes, and managed to build the building now used as a town hall and power house. This building had two rooms, one above and one below. Only the lower story was needed for the school which was not graded. The children "just went to school." The upper room was used to hold church and Sunday school in on Sunday, and for dances and almost all other public affairs during the week. Owing to lack of finances, it was unfinished, but that never interfered with the good times the people enjoyed in this old building. Later, as children and money became more plentiful, a wing was added to the building, also more teachers.

In 1905, the need of a good building was felt, and the old building

BRUNE & COMPANY

Hardware, Implements, and Buick Cars.

The history of the implement store of Brune & Company dates back to Winside's early days. Originally, the stock was housed in a building little short of a shed, not sufficient to protect the machinery from the weather. After running the business for over a year in this building, the members of the firm saw room for improving their stock and its upkeep and began the construction of a modern brick building. This building is 100 x 150 feet, consisting of a one-story building with a basement, and with its fixtures is valued at $14,000. After the completion of this new building, Brune & Company added a complete line of hardware to their stock. This stock of hardware was purchased from the old F. S. Tracy stock.

The first year in business, the sales of this firm for the year amounted to $15,000. As the members of the firm became better acquainted with Winside's buyers, business has been on the increase, and after a financial statement of last year's business was made out, the annual sales were $65,000.

The owners of the store have all lived a great many years in Wayne county, having been engaged in farming previous to entering business. William Brune is general manager of the firm and is assisted in conducting the business by Henry Brune and Henry Walcker. Herbert Lound and L. Bartlett are also employed by Brune & Company.

The firm carries all standard lines of implements, but feature Moine and International machinery. A complete line of staple and fancy hardware may be had at Brune's store, and the firm is more than eager to give you the best prices in figuring hardware bills.

At one time, this firm conducted a garage business, now operated by Gabler Brothers. This was under the management of Henry Brune. Later, they sold out and took the agency for Buick cars, and are selling the same as fast as they can procure them.

If anything is desired in the way of implements, machinery of all kinds, hardware, or plumbing, you will find no better service and attention than that to be had at Brune & Company's. Their motto is "Business is on the Boom," and they are eager to share the good times with you.

was divided, part being sold and part moved to its present location, and used as town hall. The east part of the building was built at a cost of $11,000.

Two years ago, through the efforts of Prof. G. E. Cross, then principal, the west wing was added. This is now a modern building of six rooms, an auditorium which seats 250 people, and is worth $30,000.

Mr. Cross, during his stay here, established a wireless station at the school, and also added much valuable equipment.

Library.

The city is very proud of its public library. The library was started fifteen years ago by the Woman's club with about fifty books. For several years it was supported and more books were added through the efforts of the Woman's club. Later it had grown to such a size that it was necessary to have a building for exclusive library purposes, and the club decided to turn it over to the town. The town board then assumed control, paying all expenses. The money for books is still raised by public donations. The library has a reading room with 137 volumes, 316 "library cards." As many as 500 books are loaned a month. Mrs. Emma Dysart has been librarian for a number of years. There is also a reading room with magazines for those who like to spend a few hours reading.

Winside

Winside has been constantly growing in business and population since about 1891. It can rightly boast of swinging more business than any town of its size in this part of the state, of an active set of business men, of having the most beautiful park in the county, of having three good churches, and many other things which go to make up a real live town.

Sufficient rain and continuous hot weather have insured a splendid crop of corn and small grain in Wayne county.

Thirty-one cars of cattle were shipped from Wayne on one day. Ran Frazier owning twenty-five cars and John Beal the balance.

Marriages: Peter Wagner to Amanda Muth, June 30, 1882; Charles Underhill to Luella Lash, July 4, 1892; Peter Jacobson to Miss Sena Nelson, July 3, 1892.

Deaths: occurred at Pittsburgh between the Pinkerton detective and Homestead strikers. Nine Pinkertons and eleven strikers were killed and one hundred were injured.

From Wayne Herald, July 7, 1887.

The band boys of Wayne furnished music for the Wakefeld races.

Of the 4,000 miles of railroad built in the United States this year, 331 miles have been constructed in Nebraska.

An unprecedented crowd was in Wayne for the Fourth. The band boys managed and conducted the celebration. In the program of sports James Ahern and Frank Gamble made a fine race on their bicycles, the former making the seven hundred people enjoy the open-air concert and 400 couples attended the ball in the evening.

From Ponca Journal, July 5, 1882.

The only accident which occurred here on the Fourth took place early in the morning. Newton Hewitt was assisting to fire the cannon when a cartridge and powder in the powder, which took fire and a premature discharge ensued. There was no wad in the gun. If there had been it would have taken off Hewitt's hand. As it was, his hand and fingers were filled full of powder. It will be several weeks before he will be able to use his hand, as we are informed by Drs. Porter & Bowman who have charge of the case.

Another Fourth of July has passed and was celebrated generally throughout the state. Sometimes elderly people complain that the Fourth is not celebrated with the same genuine feeling as in former years. We think this may be true in fact it would naturally follow that the memory of past events would become less as time passes on. For the first fifty years following the declaration of independence, men were living who took an actual part in the revolution. They were in the stirring political events of those days. Individuals, now living remember how, in the Fourth of July celebrations of their boyhood, old revolutionary soldiers were treated in conspicuous positions on the platform, the observed of all observers; how the usual references to British cruelty and the really, and how allusions to the patriots of '76, were rendered strikingly impressive by the presence of these patriots, in actual flesh and blood. The memory has been kept alive by men. Banker Hill, Bennington, Saratoga, Yorktown, were what Bulls Ran, Antietam and Gettysburg are to us. Those old revolutionary fields were not dim visions of a forgotten past, but living and vivid realities. They were considered grounds to men who had fought and perhaps bled on them, and had there seen loved comrades sink to death and whose ashes mingled with the bloody soil. In those old days, people knew what was meant by the words "gratitude" and "oppression." They knew by actual experience what a monarchical government was. They had lived under one and realized as colonists, the harsh and arbitrary nature of the rule of the British king and parliament. They had seen the American manufacturing spirit stifled, commerce discouraged and industry paralyzed by unjust and obnoxious laws. They had witnessed the scenes which preceded the revolution, as the collision between citizens and soldiers in 1770 and destruction of tea in Boston harbor. To men thus circumstanced, the Fourth of July must have possessed peculiar significance, and they would naturally celebrate it with all their hearts. It was, indeed, to them, Independence day, a day which saw them and their countrymen freed from a galling yoke and living under a government and laws which they themselves had constructed. We of this later generation, cannot feel as they did, nor realize in so practical a manner, the vast importance of the events which the observance of the day commemorates, but we should as a general way appreciate the nature of it, and in every way manifest the sense of the deep obligation we are under to our illustrious ancestors. We should deeply regret to feel that there was a decline of the spirit which prompts to a celebration of the anniversary of our nation's birth, and we trust that the sentiment which animates the nation now, will continue in the breasts of the people through all coming time, and that the Fourth of July will be celebrated by processions and parades, by the firing of guns, and the ringing of bells, for thousands of years to come.

CHURCH CALENDAR

Methodist Church. (Rev. A. S. Bush, Pastor). One of our Epworth league delegates to the league convention in Stanton last week hands in the following partial report: "Shortly after arriving in Stanton, Chancellor C. A. Fulmer of the Nebraska Wesleyan University gave the opening address of 'The Christian College in the Development of Life.' Mr. Fulmer said that one who fails to educate himself along spiritual lines cannot develop a symmetrical life. A true life must have a spiritual side. You cannot develop life in segments; the physical, the social, the mental and the spiritual must be developed hand in hand. The religious life must be continuous throughout the seven days of the week, and in every hour of life. Every Christian should be a person to whom some one can go and tell his troubles and receive spiritual aid and comfort."

The Nebraska Wesleyan University is offering higher education under a religious discipline, with intellectual training equal to the best; teaches all subjects from a religious viewpoint; aims to conserve the simple faith and high ideals brought by our youth from their homes, and encourages to increase that faith by enlarging the vision. It aims to help to hold and create loyalty to Christ.

There were several other splendid addresses rendered. The convention was a great success. The four conventions meeting at the same time add interest and enthusiasm to the gathering. The district meet has been invited to come to Wayne next week. On Friday evening of this week there will be a pay ice cream and cake with home made candy sale on the church lawn. The children of the children's missionary society will serve the refreshments. Be sure to come and enjoy the evening and also to encourage the children in their missionary endeavor. The young people of the Sunday school will have charge of the games at the lawn social. Everybody is invited to come.

Next Sunday morning the pastor will preach on "Apples of Gold in a Network of Silver." You will find this text in the Proverbs and it is one full of interest and profit. The service of the British navy at the hour. The evening services, both the Epworth league and the preaching service will not be held on account of the chautauqua.

Presbyterian Church. (Rev. S. X. Cross, Pastor). There will be no prayer meeting next week. The famous Oxiards will sing at the big chautauqua tent that evening.

The Women's Missionary society are holding their annual summer picnic today at 10 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Charles Ash, south of town.

We are anxious that everybody shall hear the address of the Rev. D. D. Vaughan, D. D., at the chautauqua on Sunday afternoon. Mr. Vaughan is one of the real, live religious men of the present day.

An interesting meeting of the Y. M. C. S. E. was held at the church Monday evening of this week. Every committee chairman was requested to submit written reports of work done or planned. This society is doing fine work and will continue its meetings during the summer.

Everybody is invited to attend services at this church on next Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock. The subject of the sermon will be, "As Fire Burns and Water Burns." We are pleased to see the college students and all summer visitors at these services. You who read have an invitation.

Mrs. J. H. Wendte gave an interesting and helpful report of the Epworth league convention last Sunday. The Sunday school work will go right on during the summer months. If you are leaving town for over Sunday, be sure to get a certificate from the school you attend while away.

St. Paul's Episcopal Lutheran Church. (Rev. J. H. Fetterolf, Pastor). Sunday school every Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. The officers of the church will meet in the Sunday school room next Wednesday evening.

On account of the Chautauqua the evening services will be discontinued for the next two Sundays. Immediately after the morning service there will be another congregational meeting, at which time something definite will be presented for congregational approval in the matter of excavation of a basement under the church for social purposes. A full attendance of the members is desired so that all may have a chance to express their views on the contemplated improvements.

What is Life?

At the Baptist church Sunday morning Rev. W. L. Gaston will talk on the theme of "Life What it is." What it will be when life like a river runs into this old world? Mr. Gaston will declare that that river, clear as crystal which flows out from under the throne is not water, but life and that after a while this world is to be charged and surcharged with life, strong, vital, pulsating life. Good music.

In the evening this congregation joins in the union service at the chautauqua tent.

The German Evangelical Lutheran Church. (Rev. R. Moehring, Pastor).

Next Sunday, Sunday school will be held at 10 o'clock and preaching at 11 o'clock. The pastor will preach at Winside in the afternoon at 3 o'clock.

AUTOMOBILE CROP.

Lincoln, July 3.—There appears to be no famine in the automobile crop, judging from the rush of applications in the office of Secretary of State Pool for license numbers. In the month of June the office issued 3,944 licenses for automobiles and 250 for motorcycles.

Up to July 1, 89,959 licenses had been issued for automobiles and 3,266 licenses for motorcycles. The expense of getting out these licenses amounted to only $719.47, for the month.

Cash receipts for the month of June were $40,441.66, as against $30,051.31 in 1915 and $24,300.50 for the same month in 1914.

STANTON COUNTY BOY IS ACCIDENTALLY SHOT

Stanton, Neb., July 3.—While shooting into a swarm of bees Saturday to cause them to settle, Mrs. Anna Schriens, a widow living on a farm near Howe in the southern part of this county, shot and instantly killed her 11-year-old son.

The boy ran in front of the shot gun just as his mother fired and received the charge in his breast and face. He dropped in his tracks and expired on the spot.

Sheriff W. A. Brown was notified and went to Howe and investigated, but it was decided no inquest was necessary.

WAYNE CHAUTAUQUA

How About That Season Ticket?

Why of course you are going to buy and attend the whole program. If you have never used a season ticket go and see some of your neighbors that have—you won't have to go very far to find one—and if that neighbor does not tell you that the season ticket plan is the only satisfactory way we want you to bring that neighbor to see us—there is something the matter. Here it is—sixteen programs for $2.00. For five programs at single rates you pay as much or more, as for a season ticket, and then you can go and come as often as you please and the gate man cannot hold up your pocketbook every day, as most of you will come every day anyway.

CROP PROSPECTS.

Norfolk Daily News, July 1: Never before in the history of the Norfolk territory have the crop conditions been better and never has the prospect for a big yield of fine quality small grain been better.

The farmers are turning their attention to the work of laying by their corn and the cutting of the bumper hay crop. The harvest of rye will start next week. There is no danger zone. Only a damaging hail storm can do harm to the wheat crop which is practically made.

Arthur George, agricultural agent of the County Farm Management association, was in Norfolk last Thursday in the interest of the oat smut investigation meetings which will start next Monday morning. He declared that he has looked into the condition of wheat in Madison county and found it excellent. His estimate regarding the crop is about the same of that of farmers who have made trips of investigation.

Mr. George finds winter wheat in this county in good condition. Harvest should start about July 10 and the estimated yield will be seven-

IMPORTANCE OF WATER.

With water only 15 cents per thousand gallons, what excuse can you offer for the neglected abutions? To go unlandered is a shame. Go, peel your duds and soak your frame. And let the hot sun blaze. Warm weather ripens up the wheat. A pledge that man and beast may eat.

The most of us must toil and sweat. Regardless of the heat. Until our togs are sopping wet. All through, from head to foot. In the calm evening aftermath. The time is ripe to take a bath.

Children's Diseases

Most diseases that man suffers could be prevented if the influence of the Spine as a causative factor were recognized. About 95 per cent of all diseases in children and adults are dependent upon traumatic causes. In children, falls and recklessness in play are responsible for nearly all the trouble they suffer from, as the control of children during play is practically an impossibility. Therefore, to forestall the possibility of disease in children, parents should insist upon an examination of the spine being made every six months. Nature always tries to make the best of a bad situation; health is only a relative condition, and, while many parents are under the impression their children are enjoying robust health, if an examination of the spine be made, displaced vertebrae are reasonably certain to be found, that are sure to produce future trouble unless corrected.

Artificial Teeth

A mouth full of decayed teeth or a few rotten ones is a constant menace to health and obnoxious to people with whom the unfortunate one are associated.

If they are beyond repair, it is much better to have them removed, and replaced with artificial substitute, which by modern and improved methods, can be made to give good service; at least the mouth will be clean and wholesome.

DO YOU HAVE DIZZY SPELLS

It's Important to Learn the Cause As Many Wayne People Have.

Dizziness is never a disease of itself—it's only a symptom of some deeper-seated trouble. Much dizziness is caused by disordered kidneys failing to filter all the poisons from the blood. These poisons attack the nerves and dizziness results. If you are subject to "dizziness, there is good reason to suspect your kidneys, and if you suffer backache, headache, and irregularity of the kidney secretions, you have further proof. Many Wayne people have learned the value of Doan's Kidney Pills in just such cases. Read this Wayne resident's statement:

Mrs. Joseph Schmalstieg, Wayne, says: "I was troubled by a heavy dull ache through my kidneys and back and I also had dizzy spells and headaches. The kidney secretions were unnatural and plainly showed that my kidneys needed attention. Doan's Kidney Pills drove away the pain. Since then, whenever I have felt in need of a kidney medicine I have taken Doan's Kidney Pills and they have relieved me."

THE FIELD OF BUSINESS.

Sioux City Journal: The new fiscal year and the second half of the calendar year open with practically all departments of business active and prosperous. The impending hostilities in Mexico have caused a flurry in the stock market, but the burden of opinion in financial and commercial circles is that American intervention in Mexico will have beneficial effect on business conditions in both countries. Aside from the Mexican trouble and the disposition to hedge against the possible termination of the European war before the close of the year, practically every condition is favorable to a continuance of prosperous conditions. All of the great manufacturing industries are busier than ever before, and the indication is that the season will pass without the usual midsummer curtailment of production. The weather has been somewhat unfavorable in some localities, and on the whole the crops are backward, but this is a condition that can be readily corrected during the months of July and August. There is some apprehension that the harvest hand problem will be increased in difficulty by sending the militia to the border and the consequent drumming of the labor markets for workers. Distribution is proceeding rapidly as transportation facilities can be afforded. Railway earnings are increasing, but the probability of a general strike among the trainmen remains a cloud on the transportation horizon. Demand for money is strengthening with the opening of the harvest season in the southwest. While there is every indication that the supply of funds on hand is ample to meet the demands, both bankers and borrowers have the comfortable assurance that, if necessary, the federal reserve system may be drawn upon to increase the circulation.

LACKS NATIONAL VISION.

Fremont Tribune: Mr. Roosevelt's charge made against the democratic party in his announcement of his support of Mr. Hughes to the effect that it is not a national party is a valid indictment. Mr. Roosevelt holds that the democratic party lacks fitness for the larger service demanded for the best government of the nation because it is a sectional party. If fails for this reason, he contends, to visualize the larger things. It cannot get a comprehensive perspective of so large an institution as the government of the United States.

The democratic party has had a wonderful existence. Its life has been prolonged to a remarkable extent. But its length of years has been not on account of its superior fitness to govern. The basis of its longevity of life has been the negro purely because of the negro problem. The south has remained solidly and hopelessly democratic. Despite any issue that might be raised, whatever emergency may arise, whatever course public sentiment may take, the solid south remains, because the specter of the Ethiopian hangs over it like a pall. The white race must be united to prevent the negro domination.

With eleven states always to be counted on the democratic party has a perennial working basis. As evidenced by the composition of the present administration, the southern part of public affairs rests in the hands of men of the south. Congressional committees and government posts of honor are under their management. They are not the men who have been trained to the largest national vision.

There was no more outstanding fact of the progressive national convention than the despair of the delegates from the south when it became apparent that the third party was in dissolution. They declared their utter want of hope in the democratic party. They had always been compelled to vote its ticket on account of the negro. They realized they said, that they were chained to a corpse. They could not support the republican party in the south because it is the party there of the colored man. Their men testify to the thing that Mr. Roosevelt has emphasized in his declaration, that the democratic party leaders are incapable of thinking in terms of the highest nationalism.

The Bethlehem Steel Company's Offer to Serve the United States

At a time when the expenses of the Government are so enormous—Isn't it worth while finding out the actual facts before plunging ahead into an expenditure of $11,000,000 of the people's money for a Government armor plant?

To clear up the whole situation, and to put it on a basis as fair and business-like as we know how to express it, we now make this offer to the Government:

The Bethlehem Steel Company will manufacture armor plate for the Government of the United States at actual cost of operation plus such charges for overhead expenses, interest and depreciation as the Federal Trade Commission may fix. We will agree to this for such period as the Government may designate.

The House of Representatives voted down a proposal to empower the Federal Trade Commission to determine a fair price for armor, and allow private manufacturers opportunity to meet that price before the Government built its plant.

Isn't our proposition fair and ought it not to be accepted? The measure is now before the United States Senate.

Celebration a Success.
True to the far-famed fickleness of Nebraska weather, a heavy rain descended on Carroll and vicinity early Tuesday morning with utter disregard for the elaborate plans which it was shattering. For several hours it looked as if the celebration would have to be dispensed with entirely, but the country people, loyal to their town, rigged up a good many buggies, carriages and wagons, and started rolling into Carroll through the mud. The band, which consisted of the members of an audience donned their new uniforms and gathered at the station to wait for the morning passenger. As the train pulled into the yards, they stood up a Wayne people swarmed about the station and followed the band up town. The business houses had been decorated in spite of the clouds and men were hurriedly draping their stands and awnings and laying in a stock of candy, gum and crackerjack that are so vehicles for a successful Fourth. Vehicles kept rolling into town until 1:30 o'clock a fair-sized crowd had assembled to see the free act. After the two men engaged themselves in a contest of arm wrestling, their clever juggling stunts, Col. F. Jarvis, marshal for the day, directed the crowd to the big tent, pitched just south of the Smith-Hovelson Lumber yard. Almost every seat was filled and many stood in the back of the tent. A chorus of men's voices from the Welch community opened the program with a stirring selection, "March of the Old Brigade." They responded to an encore after which Rev. R. J. McKinley introduced the speaker of the day, Rev. W. L. Gaston of Wayne. Rev. Gaston expressed regret because of the excess of moisture, but added, "Although Nebraska was too wet last year and promises to be too hot this year, there is a remedy that will do the trick and we will do it this day." Rev. Gaston declared that if this day invited celebration, "No time is more momentous, no time is more crucial than this day, this conforts American today."

Every day I congratulate myself that I was born and reared in America where 3,000 miles of rolling sea form the international boundary line. Because of its isolation, America was enabled to bring forth a new republic, and to effect a re-birth of a people and a nation that are the marvel of the world today."

Rev. Gaston sketched briefly a few of the things accomplished by this country. Through Washington, individual liberty, a liberty big enough for everybody, was made secure. Lincoln established the free press, a free press that has outlasted while there shall be no chains on its ankles. McKinley proved that our nation stands for humanity in that he was instrumental in freeing the Philippines. Rev. Gaston ventured that one hour after Dewey captured Manila Harbor, Spain possessed the largest fleet of submarines in the world."

After thus showing that because the United States stands for liberty, freedom and humanity, she is peculiarly fit to show the nations that she is a better government than any other that has ever existed, and that she is a better government than any other that has ever existed, and that she is a better government than any other that has ever existed.

Rev. Gaston commending Bryan's policy of nations, "talking a year before declaring war, told how 400,000 graves in Europe had been dug. He said that the world is in a hasty decision. In closing Rev. Gaston urged that every citizen should hold to the high ideal voiced by the old philosopher who said, "I love myself, but better than myself, I love my neighbor. I love my country, but better than my country, I love humanity, but better than humanity, I love my God."

Rev. Gaston held the attention of the big crowd until his very last sentence. None of the restlessness or disturbing noises so frequent at such gatherings detracted from the spirit of the hour. The program closed with all joining in the national hymn.

In the parade of cars and floats which followed, the Farmers' Union car, decorated in bunting and flags and big yellow plumes, took first prize in the auto contest; the Ford daintily bedecked with sweet flowers on a white ground, was awarded first among Fords, and the "Villa" float was given the preference in its division. Many of the other cars showed excellent taste in their decorations.

The races, taking place immediately after the parade, were entered into with much enthusiasm. By evening the crowd had swelled to almost 2,000, and the tent was crowded when the opera "Sylvia," began. The production was a credit to the choral union and formed a fitting close to the day.

Quite a large company of neighbors and friends gathered at the C. E. Baker home to eat dinner and enjoy a picnic. Fried chicken and ice cream are big hits of the character of the dinner.
