CARHART HARDWARE

THE LAND OF OPPORTUNITY

Cheyenne County, Nebraska

Where you can buy the Choicest Farm Lands from $25 to $50 per acre

This is an opportunity to own a farm in a level country where rain is plentiful and crops are abundant

CHEYENNE COUNTY, NEBRASKA.

Is located in the southwestern part of the state, 414 miles directly west of Omaha; 103 miles from Cheyenne, Wyoming on the Pacific railroad, and 62 miles from Denver on the Alliance-Dallas branch of the Burlington road, being within easy distance of excellent markets. Cheyenne county lies within the forks of the two great river valleys, the North and South Platte, and the Loup, and flows directly through it.

Sidney, the county seat, is a live town of about 2,400 population surrounded by a progressive community. Dalton, Lodgepole and Potter are progressive towns of about 500 population in rich farming communities. Marlow, Cahoon, Gurley, Surtol, Lorenzo, Margie, Bronson and Herdon are railroad stations where grain can be loaded.

WATER.

The best product to be found anywhere in the world. Everyone marvels upon the clear, tasteless liquid, the chemical analysis of which shows it to be free of deleterious substances. Water in inexhaustible quantities is found in the bottom of the water table and around 200 feet on the plain.

WIND.

Prevailing winds are north-east and in frequency and velocity is about what Iowa has for we have personally observed both places for sixteen years each.

ALTITUDE.

Four thousand and ninety feet with a rise westward of ten feet a mile, not beneficial to lung trouble, and those of the throat and nose.

WHAT WE HAVE AND WHAT WE NEED

This is a big county. There are 1,194 sections, scarcely one of which is not tillable. With a family on every quarter there is room for 4,776 families; while now there are only 570 farmers, 449 of whom own the farms they till. What this country needs is families. What the families need is education regarding our resources.

The county does not need more water nor better soil. It does not need longer summers nor warmer winters. What it needs is the intelligence to meet conditions as they are. It needs brains to conserve the moisture, to thoroughly plow and to properly seed. It needs judgment in what to plant. One of our greatest critics says this is not a corn country. Admitted for the sake of argument. Neither is it a coffee country nor an orange country. It is a wheat country, so why try oranges? It is an oats, a speltz, a rye country, so why depend on cranberries? It is a potato country, so why attempt palm trees? It is an alfalfa country, so why build our homes on cotton? But as a matter of fact it is a corn country if the proper kind of corn is grown. Plenty of corn is raised for feed but as yet it is not grown for export, and if good corn can be raised for our feed why not more good corn for the world's feed?

RAINFALL.

The rainfall of Cheyenne county is abundant. This is conclusively shown by the official crop reports given below.

It is interesting to compare our rainfall in a year with that of other rich agricultural communities. Thus in central and northern Germany it is 20 inches. Is that a good country? In Hungary it is 17 inches. In eastern Russia it is but 14 inches; in northwest Portugal it is 11 inches, and at Madrid, Spain it is but 10 inches annually. Land that will produce such crops as we raise is worth just as much acre for acre as any other land in any part of the world that won't produce any more.

FOR TEN YEARS PAST.

CHEYENNE COUNTY OATS.

The rich land of Cheyenne county raises just as much as eastern land selling at five times the price. We have the soil; we have the climate; we have the water and WE HAVE THE CROPS, which proves that we have, in combination with a perfect soil, sufficient moisture to raise them.

CHEYENNE COUNTY CORN.

CHEYENNE COUNTY DAIRY FARM.

Dairying...

Dairying is one of our great industries. Our mild winters and abundance of feed together with the prices of dairy products and facilities for marketing same make dairying very profitable for our Cheyenne County farmers.

SOME QUESTIONS ANSWERED.

Do We Ever Have Hot Winds?

No. The reason being that the hot winds come from the southwest, and the fact that Cheyenne county is located about 100 miles from the Rocky mountains, which are directly south of us, the mountains being snow clad the year around making it impossible to get hot winds from that direction, while about fifty miles east of us where wind sweeps around the mountains comes over the Arizona desert, the Colorado parched prairie, sweeps over the Northern Nebraska sand hills on through the Dakotas and way up into Canada, there is much danger of hot winds. Hot winds have rained six times as many crops as actual drought.

Where are your shipping points and what are your shipping facilities?

Our shipping facilities are very good as we have railroads running directly east, west, north and south. Our shipping points are Omaha, Denver, Kansas City, Cheyenne and the Black Hills.

How are prices on lumber and coal as compared with prices in the east?

Being that we are located near Wyoming and Colorado and getting our lumber and coal from these states, our lumber averages from $10 to $15 a thousand cheaper and coal from $2 to $3 a ton cheaper for the same quality in the east.

ALFALFA BIG RETURNS IN CHEYENNE COUNTY.

The man who does things in this world—who makes a success is the man who, when he hears or sees an opportunity, investigates—goes after it—gets it.

Lewis Brett, living northwest of Sidney, Cheyenne county, Nebraska, conceived the idea of growing alfalfa on our great divide by putting his alfalfa in rows and cultivating it.

Mr. Brett has a section of our table land and has about a hundred acres drilled to alfalfa since 1898. He has been using the first cutting for hay and sets the second to seed, which in the past five years to our personal knowledge, has averaged him from four to seven bushels to the acre and has sold his seed from $10.00 to $13.50 per bushel.

Many of our later settlers have followed Mr. Brett's ideas and now we have many fields of alfalfa we can show you where the returns on an acre of Cheyenne county land will more than equal the returns on high priced eastern land.

We ask you to take nothing for granted. What we do want you to do is to take a trip to Cheyenne county, investigate our resources and our county, and then if you are satisfied to settle with us.

NO TIME IS LIKE THE PRESENT.

Now then, since the climate is good, soil productive, crops remunerative, rainfall abundant, water pure, and land values certain to rise, why not buy now. You have probably thought many times that you would go out and buy as soon as you could get away but you have put it off time and again until you have practically forgotten about it. Did you ever stop to think that the man who acts quickly gets the profit from the fellow who waits a while? We have made scores of sales this year to men whom we asked last year to come out and buy for less money. We will make scores of sales this coming year to men who could come now and buy for less money than they will pay when they do come, simply because NOW is the TIME to buy.

LEAVE YOUR RENTED FARM IN THE EAST.

Why pay rent when you can buy a farm of your own which is just as productive as the one you rent? You are barely making a living because your high rent eats up your profits. The landlord is growing fat and you are growing thin. You will never save up enough money to buy the farm you rent and even if you could you would only be making rich the man who bought the land when it was about the price at which you can buy land here now. Your landlord did not get rich buying $150.00 land. He made money because he bought his land when others hesitated and were afraid. He bought land when it was cheap. You have exactly the same opportunity in Cheyenne county.

This place is above the average in the matter of improvements. A barn, 36x48, and a corn crib, 30x48, are two of the leading features in the building group. There is also an abundance of fruit of all kinds, as well as a heavy grove. The combination of all these good points make this a very desirable home. In the line of stock the Beckmans have 125 head of spring pigs in addition to twenty-five old hogs. The stock shipments for the past few months comprise one car of hogs and three cars of cattle.

Charles Brockman.
It was twenty-four years ago that Charles Brockman first came to Wayne county, and for the past seventeen years he has been farming on his place, eight miles west of Wayne and three and one-half miles north of Winslow. Of the 520 acres, 200 acres are devoted to pasture, besides fifty acres of alfalfa and forty acres of hay. This year's crop consists of 180 acres of corn and sixty acres of oats. Mr. Brockman is a thorough-going stockman. He deals in the Duroc Jersey hogs, having 130 head of that strain at the present time. He recently sold fifty head. Then he has 130 head of cattle in the yards, being fed for early shipment. The buildings on this place are good, practically all of them being of late construction. One barn is 36x48 and another 30x32; the two corn cribs are roomy, and the house is a square structure 30x30.

John Gettman.
After living on a rented farm for fifteen years, John Gettman decided to locate permanently in this county. He bought a quarter section, lying seven miles west and two miles north of Wayne, and took possession the first of last March. The farm is well improved. The house is 30x32, and is equipped with electric lights, bath, water, and other modern conveniences. The barn is 40x66, and it is planned to build a granary 30x32. This makes a splendid set of well-balanced buildings. Mr. Gettman had, at the time of this visit, 120 head of old hogs and twenty-five head of spring pigs. There are 130 head of cattle on this place, ninety-one head being in the yards for fattening purposes. During the past year Mr. Gettman has marketed eighty head of hogs and several loads of fat cattle. His crop for this year includes the following: Fifty acres corn, twenty acres oats, forty acres alfalfa, twenty-five acres of sweet clover with the balance of the land in red clover.

S. H. Rew.
In 1898 S. H. Rew came to this county, and just a year later took possession of the farm he is now operating. It is a half section, lying seven miles west and five miles south of Wayne. That it is an A No. 1 stock farm is evidenced by the fact that it is fenced hogtight throughout. There is one entire quarter devoted to pasture. The balance of the land is divided thus: Ninety acres of corn, forty acres of oats, and thirty acres of alfalfa. At present Mr. Rew reports 230 spring pigs and seventy-five old hogs. He has 160 head of fine Hereford cattle in the yards. Last season he marketed three cars each of cattle and hogs.

James Searle.
A little over a year ago, James Searle moved to this county from Cass County, Mo., and during that year he has been operating a quarter section, seven miles west and seven miles south of Wayne. He has divided his land as follows: Sixty acres of corn, sixty-five acres of oats, fifteen acres of alfalfa with the balance in pasture and hay. Mr. Searle, after marketing seventy-five head of hogs, has a total of forty-five head of all ages left. Mr. Searle is very enthusiastic about this county, and will probably decide to remain here permanently.

William Swanson.
William Swanson is operating a quarter section of the Morris estate, eight miles west and one mile north of Wayne. This year he has ninety acres of corn and fifty-five acres of oats. The rest of the place is devoted to pasture, hay and building site. Mr. Swanson is interested in the Duroc Jersey strain of hogs, and has at present thirty head of spring pigs in addition to the fifteen head of old hogs.

W. L. Hurlbert.
The very fact that W. L. Hurlbert has lived on this present farm for twenty-three years suggests that it is one of the attractive homes of the community. The house is a cement structure, 40x40, and has well-arranged interior. It is proposed to build a hog house and a grain elevator before the end of the year. Mr. Hurlbert, after shipping one car of hogs, has 150 head still on hand. They are Duroc Jerseys. A total of fourteen head of cattle are in the yards. Besides hogs and cattle, Mr. Hurlbert makes a specialty of raising mules. He now has twelve young mules of splendid type. Taking out fifty-five acres for pasture and a hay meadow, the land is used for these crops: Fifty-five acres corn, forty acres oats and twenty acres alfalfa.

J. P. Horn.
Twenty-six years ago J. P. Horn came to this county, and just a year later took possession of the place he now occupies. His quarter section is located two miles east of Carroll, and is almost within a stone's throw of a good rural school. The improvements on this place are well kept. A big cement watering tank is one of the desirable features. Mr. Horn deals in the Poland China hogs and had at the time of this visit, forty head of spring pigs in addition to the seven old hogs. He marketed fifty fine specimens during the past few months. His crops are the following: Sixty acres of corn, twenty-five acres of oats and forty-five acres alfalfa.

Dave Jenkins.
Living within a half-mile of school and just two and one-half miles east of Carroll, Dave Jenkins has a location, which any one might covet. Mr. Jenkins has made this place his home for the past seven years and by adding improvements from time to time, he has made the building site attractive and inviting. He crops the land as follows: Ninety acres of corn, fifty-seven acres of alfalfa with the balance in a large orchard, building site and pasture. Mr. Jenkins has fifteen head of hogs, besides almost 100 head of this spring's stock. He recently marketed sixty-five head of hogs.

John McChesney.
For three years John McChesney has been the tenant on a 240-acre Mellor farm, five miles west and three miles north of Wayne. In addition to the forty-four acres in thyme grass Mr. McChesney has thirty-six acres of alfalfa, twenty acres of wheat, sixty acres of oats and eighty acres of corn. This change of crops has kept Mr. McChesney bustling throughout the entire season, but he is well pleased with the prospects of the harvest and so is satisfied. He raises the Duroc Jersey hogs and has a fine bunch of spring pigs, totaling 120 head, in addition to the seventy-five head of old stock. There are also thirty-six head of stock cattle in the yards. This place is well improved, and its location within a half-mile of a school increases its value.

J. N. Landanger.
J. N. Landanger came to this county six years ago and this year is farming a 240-acre farm of the Robert Mellor land, six and one-half miles west and three miles north of Wayne. Mr. Landanger reports his crops: One hundred fifteen acres of corn, seventy acres of oats, twenty-five acres of alfalfa, with the remainder devoted to grasses of the best varieties. In fact Mr. Landanger has ten head of cattle in the yards, and is milking five cows, realizing satisfactory returns on the cream sold. A herd of registered Poland China hogs is being started, five good-type animals forming the nucleus of the bunch. There are also fifteen head of old hogs and forty-three head of the spring stock. This place is well improved.

A. C. Sabs.
Five and one-half miles west and five miles north of Wayne is the 240-acre farm, the property of John Sabs, which is operated by his son, A. C. Sabs. The major crop is corn of which there are an even 100 acres. Then there are forty acres of oats and fifteen acres of wheat, both of which crops have now been harvested. Mr. Sabs believes in thoroughbred stock, and at present has seventy-five head of spring pigs and twenty old hogs of the Poland China strain. It cattle he keeps the registered Shorthorns, having sixty fine animals in the yards at this time. Last season he marketed one car each of hogs and cattle. Mr. Sabs is also milking six cows which produce high-testing cream. The improvements on this place are extensive. The house is square measuring 32x32, and is equipped with many of the modern conveniences. A splendid hog house, 24x48, is one of the best buildings of the barnyard group.

T. D. Jones.
Sixteen years ago T. D. Jones purchased a 120-acre farm, just one mile north of Carroll. In addition to the home place he is now operating another forty, cropping the whole in this way: Seventy acres corn, sixty acres oats, with the balance in pasture and hay. In stock Mr. Jones has eighty-head-of-hogs, twenty of which are the old stock. He has fifteen head of stock cattle and five good milch cows, which produce many pounds of butter each week. Forty head of hogs were sold recently. Mr. Jones came to this county in 1896.

Charles Linn.
Nine miles west and three miles north of Wayne is one of the John Shannon farms, which for three years has been operated by Charles Linn. This place affords an acreage of 220 acres, and in addition Mr. Linn rents another forty. His major crop is 100 acres of corn. The forty acres of oats are now in shock. There are about 100 acres of excellent, valley hay land. The improvements in general are good, the big elevator being the feature that attracts the most attention. Six, 50x15 of fat hogs and eight cars of cattle were finished for market during the past year. The plan on this farm is to specialize in hogs and cattle, and engage in grain farming only as a side issue.

W. H. Stageman.
For two years W. H. Stageman has been the tenant on a quarter section, the property of E. T. Evans, located eight miles west and one mile north of Wayne. Half of the acreage is in corn, and thirty-five acres are in oats, the balance being devoted to pasture and hay. Mr. Stageman marketed 100 head of hogs during the past year and now has forty head of spring pigs and twelve head of cattle, part of which are milch cows. The improvements on the Evans farm are new and in good repair.

George Hansen.
George Hansen rents from Peter Hansen an eighty, lying eight miles west and four and one-half miles north of Wayne or just one and one-fourth miles north of Carroll. A concrete granary is one of the noticeable features on this place. Some of the other buildings are being repaired. Mr. Hansen has seven old hogs, six shoats and forty head of spring pigs of the Poland China breed. He does not specialize in cattle at all, but has six head on hand now. Plans are being made to erect a hog house, 30x24, in the near future. His crop for the year are: Thirty-five acres of corn and twenty acres of oats. The other fifteen acres are in pasture and clover hay.

R. R. Smith.
Although Mr. Smith came to this county as early as 1891, it was not until nine years ago that he settled on the place which he is now operating. The building site is located just six miles west of Wayne, and is attractively kept. Of the total acreage of 230 acres, Mr. Smith has sixty acres of corn, forty acres of oats, thirty acres of alfalfa, forty acres timothy and clover with the balance of the land in lots and pasture. At present Mr. Smith has 130 head of hogs, all but fifteen of which are this year's stock. A little over two cars of hogs were finished for market during the past season. Besides the thirty head of stock cattle there are an even dozen cows which produce a weekly cream output of several gallons. On this farm there is an exceptionally good barn, 50x60. It houses all the horses and admits of the storing of a great many tons of hay.

Does Prohibition Prohibit? The people of Nebraska are being urged this year to adopt state-wide PROHIBITION, and to wipe out the Slocum Local Option, High License Law. Naturally, the average man wants to know what results have been achieved in states where PROHIBITION has been tried. He wants to know first of all whether state-wide PROHIBITION prohibits. The practical man also wants to know what results have been achieved in Nebraska under the Local-option, High License System. We intend to publish a series of articles with a view of laying certain vital facts before the people of this state, facts which they should possess in order that they may be able to make an intelligent decision. The citizens of Nebraska want an opportunity to hear both sides of the question. They have little patience with the extremists, of whom there are some on both sides. They want to hear in plain language why so many men of standing are opposed to state-wide PROHIBITION. We will present evidence in abundance to show that state-wide PROHIBITION does not prohibit; that serious new evils follow in the wake of PROHIBITION, evils far worse and more numerous than those for which PROHIBITION is offered as a remedy. Kansas tried for many years to make state-wide PROHIBITION prohibit, and has failed. The news item presented herewith is eloquent testimony to that fact. An Item of Proof from Kansas Showing that PROHIBITION does not prohibit. (News item in Topeka Capital of November 3, 1915.) "Liquor is being sold to high school boys by bottom characters," according to Ed. Rooney, probation officer. "W. E. Atchison, county attorney, yesterday afternoon ordered a warrant drawn for the arrest of the negro who is said to have sold liquor to Reuben Nields and Johnnie Barret, the two boys who took Mrs. Ida Brownell's Ford car in front of her residence, 205 Madison, and brought a mad career of windom smashing that ended in their arrest. Nields is 17, Barret 14. The boys gave information to Atchison about purchasing the liquor. The warrant will be served this morning."

The Nebraska Prosperity League OPPOSED TO STATE PROHIBITION, IN FAVOR OF LOCAL OPTION, HIGH LICENSE - President, L. F. CROFOOT - Treasurer, W. J. COAD - Secretary, J. R. HAYNES - OMAHA, NEB. The Nebraska Prosperity League is a state-wide organization of taxpayers who are opposed to state-wide prohibition and in favor of local option and high license laws. The league has been successful in opposing state-wide prohibition in several states, including Nebraska. The league's platform is to support local option and high license laws, which allow communities to decide for themselves whether they want to prohibit alcohol. The league also advocates for the repeal of the 18th Amendment, which established national prohibition. The league's members are active in lobbying their legislators and in educating the public about the benefits of local option and high license laws. The league's website provides information about the organization and its activities. The league's address is Omaha, Nebraska. The league's phone number is 4-1234. CRYING FOR HELP Lots of It in Wayne But Daily Growing Less. The kidneys often cry for help. Not another organ in the whole body more delicately constructed. Not one more important to health. The Kidneys are the filters of the blood. When they fail the blood becomes foul and poisonous. Many can be no health where there is poisoned blood. Backache is one of the frequent indications of kidney trouble. It is often the kidney's cry for help. Heed it. Don't what Doan's Kidney Pills have done for overworked kidneys. Proof of merit in the following statement: Mrs. John A. Larson, Wakefield, Neb., says: "I first took Doan's Kidney Pills when I was having a bad spell with my back. Constant pain kept me awake nights and I also had trouble with the kidney secretions. Doan's Kidney Pills cured me of the attack." (Statement given June 24, 1907.) Over four years later, Mrs. Larson said: "I still take a few doses of Doan's Kidney Pills now and then and they act as a tonic to my kidneys." Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy; get Doan's Kidney Pills - the same that Mrs. Larson has twice publicly recommended. - Foster-Milburn Co. Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

NO ONE VERY GREAT. (Bixby.) We have heard it intimated that the average man feels mighty insignificant in the presence of statesmen and congress, but why should he? Is the created greater than the creator? Invest a small man with a little brief authority and he becomes great in his own estimation, which is quite as satisfying as any intrinsic excellence that puts a mortal on a peak conspicuous above the roosting place of his fellow-chickens.

Whose plumes have been either earned or bought. And some of them believed that they were great. While others never harbored such a thought. They come to us from village and from town. From places near and places more remote. Some carry a wealth of honor and renown. With others, conscious greatness gets their goat.

Ah, friends, of mine, who here or there abide, Obscure, perhaps, or serving well the state, We all may well subdue our foolish pride.

The chances are that none of us are great.

papers. As a consequence of the war and its effects upon other industries, newspaper cost of production has increased substantially within the last two years. The new conditions have tested the resources of strongly entrenched newspapers. Newspapers that were merely struggling along under normal conditions have found themselves unable to keep up the fight under recent abnormal conditions.

However, the higher cost of operation is not the only influence back of the new tendency. In fact, it is not the most important one. The newspaper has become a public necessity. After a fashion it has come to be looked upon as a sort of utility. Newspaper supporters, including both subscribers and advertisers, nowadays look to their newspapers for lessons in economy and efficiency. Subscribers want the news. Advertisers want circulation. Readers do not want to take three newspapers if they get what they want in two. Advertisers do not want to patronize three newspapers if they can cover the field with two. Clearly it is poor economy for a community to support three publicity mediums when two will answer the same purpose. Economic waste is what the efficiency engineers call it. Cut-throat competition is another name for it. Newspaper publishers and patrons are entitled to a belated realization of the folly of that sort of thing.

A lot of foolishness is excused on the ground that young folks are only once.

C. L. PUFFETT, WAYNE

Among the Producers of Wayne County....

By WARD RANDOL, Staff Representative of the Herald.

P. Person.

Just three years ago P. Person bought the quarter section of land lying one-half mile north of Carroll. The improvements are, therefore, all new and of splendid type. A young ash and elm tree, making good growth, Mr. Person pointed out as the had the following as his crops: Seventy-five acres corn...

Herman Freese.

This is the second year that Herman Freese has rented the half-section, belonging to Henry Alberts and located eight miles west of town. Mr. Freese reports the following crops for the year: Eighty-five acres of corn and seventy acres of alfalfa. There are also thirty acres of clover. After marketing seventy head of hogs, Mr. Freese has thirty head of the old stock left, besides forty-two head of spring pigs. He has also two head of cattle on hand...

Charles Meyer, Jr.

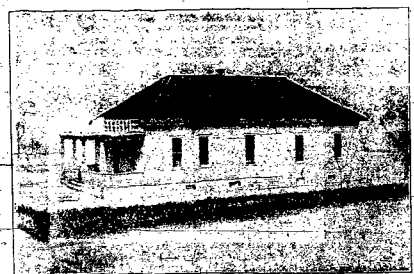

Another attractive place northwest of town is that belonging to Charles Meyer, sr., nine and one-half miles from Wayne. It is operated by Mr. Meyer's son of the same name. He is farming about 110 acres with 110 acres of corn and eighty-five acres of oats in addition to twenty-five acres of alfalfa and a considerable stretch of pasture and hay land. Although there are only 160 acres in the farm, Mr. Meyer is farming 275 acres in all, renting the balance from outside men. In the yards are 175 head of hogs of all ages. During the past season five cars of hogs and one car of calves were shipped within the farm. This farm is equipped with a splendid set of buildings.

Ernest Schlus.

Ernest Schlus was born and reared in this county, and is just this year starting out to farm for himself. He rents a quarter section of Henry Schlus, and ninety-five acres from other parties. His building is located nine miles west and seven miles north of Wayne and is well equipped with improvements. Mr. Schlus has started a herd of Poland China hogs, having twenty-seven head of spring stock besides the five old hogs. He has ten head of stock cattle in the yards and six head of milk cows. The cream produced is sold at a high figure. His crops are: Eighty-five acres of corn and eighty acres of alfalfa. If the crop turns out so well as prospects would indicate, Mr. Schlus may feel well satisfied with the results of his first year.

James Eddie.

One of the good stock farms in the Carroll vicinity is that of James Eddie. Although Mr. Eddie has been in Wayne county for the past thirty years, he has been operating this place only 167. The farm covers a good school, and four miles north of Carroll. The 320 acres are cropped thus: One hundred twenty-five acres of corn, forty acres of oats, twenty-five acres alfalfa, and fifty acres of hay, with the remainder in pasture. Mr. Eddie raises the Chester White hogs, of which he has ninety head at the present time. Last season he sold fifty-head of...

WAYNE HOSPITAL

is now operating a half section, which he has divided with these crops: One hundred twenty-five acres corn, fifty acres oats, fifty-five acres of alfalfa and a good acreage of pasture and tame hay. The place offers a set of buildings, all of which are good and set off to advantage by the heavy grove and well kept orchard. It is on this farm that the local golf enthusiasts try out their muscle and skill. As to stock Mr. Hanson reports 100 head of old hogs, 200 head of fall pigs and 150 head of this spring's stock. He marketed two cars of hogs and one car of cattle during the past season. The new three-hundred head of cattle in the yards.

James McEachen.

Finishing his school work at the state university in January, James McEachen came back to Wayne and began farming on a quarter section of land, six miles west and one mile north of Wayne. In addition to this he rents another seventy acres of nearby land, and he crops this entire acreage in this way. One hundred twenty acres of corn, sixty acres of oats, twenty-five acres of alfalfa. The balance is devoted to a good pasture and some valley hay land. Mr. McEachen is just starting to raise and finish hogs, having ten old hogs and forty head of the spring stock. His herd of young pigs is making exceptionally rapid growth. There is a good barn on this place, measuring 32x48.

Frank Wilson.

This is the fifth year that Frank Wilson has been operating a half section of land, six miles west and nine and one-half miles southwest of Wayne. This year he reports the following crops: Eighty-five acres of corn, thirty acres of oats, sixty-five acres wheat, and the same amount of alfalfa. This considerable land which is devoted to pasture and hay. Mr. Wilson keeps a conservative line-up of stock on hand. At present he has 165 head of choice spring pigs, in addition to thirty head each of old hogs and shoats. During the past season he marketed two cars of hogs and one car of cattle. He now has sixty head of cattle in the yards besides twelve head of younger stock. The improvements of this farm are good, and a heavy grove together with a running stream makes it a most desirable location.

Fred Pepperkorn.

Fred Pepperkorn came to Wayne county in 1892 and in the following year moved to the farm on which he has since made his home. It is located two and one-half miles east of Winside or nine miles southwest of Wayne. Mr. Pepperkorn now has two car averages of 260 acres, which he crops in the following way: One hundred forty acres corn, 110 acres oats, thirty-four acres wheat, ten acres of barley, with the rest seeded to pasture. This is a big crop, especially for the help of competent men. Mr. Pepperkorn manages the work in good shape and makes satisfactory profits. Aside from tending to the field work there are seventy head of spring pigs and eight old hogs to be cared for. In addition there are twenty-six head of cattle and eight head of cows. This farm is equipped with two splendid barns; one for horses, is a structure 38x12, the other, for cattle, measures 34x38.

Beckman Bros.

The Beckman Bros. are natives of Wayne county, and for the past twenty years they have lived on the home place, a one and one-half mile northwest of town. Their father retired from active farming in the spring and the two sons are now in full control. The farm comprises 320 acres of very fertile soil. It is cropped with the usual crop of corn, alfalfa and oats besides quite an acreage of pasture and hay land. (Continued on page 6. First section, continuously marked page 8.)

CUTTING OUT LUNCHEON.

Portland Oregonian: A change has come over the American people since the time when their three meals a day consisted of breakfast, dinner and "supper," and the dinner, if not the supper, was an affair of moment in the household scheme. In more recent years we have moved from the shank end of the chop to the chop end of the shank, translated as "lunch" when the eater is limited to twenty cents or so, for the noontime meal. In the cities this is the almost universal custom, though it has not been accepted by those who exert themselves physically to earn their living. Still, the "lunch" is becoming more and more an American institution. One must almost believe it here to stay. Now comes the health officer of...

Dundonald's Thunderbolt.

An overcast and threatening sky did not frighten away the people from the courtyard service last Sunday night. Considering the weather there was an unusually large crowd present and much interest attached to all the exercises. These meetings are preparatory to the coming five campaign and are arousing a great deal of interest, all of which prophesies a great meeting in September.
 Rev. S. X. Cross had charge of the preliminaries.—Rev. J. H. Feterhoff led in prayer. Rev. W. L. Gaston delivered the evening lecture, the subject of which was "The Dundonald Secret." He said in part: "Two years of blood and carnage have ended—two long years of the fiercest war the world has ever known have dragged their months through blood, and wholesale destruction has stunted sensibilities and appalled the world, and the end is not yet. What will be the final result no one knows. How many more lives must be sacrificed, how much more blood must be spilled, nobody knows."
 "In discussing tonight the subject of 'Dundonald's Secret' I cannot tell you what it is for I do not know. I propose to tell only what I know about it and leave you to guess the rest and make your deductions."
 "The family name of Lord Dundonald was Thomas Cochran, an admiral in the English navy, and ranked along with such admirals as Drake and Nelson." In the year 1811 he discovered a device which he claimed would instantly destroy a whole army—a device so simple that any one could use it and so effective that none could escape. It was presented to parliament and a commission appointed to investigate it. The commission reported that there was not the slightest question about the effectiveness of the destruction it would accomplish, but that it was so sure and certain, so tremendously destructive that it was so tremendously destructive that the interests of humanity, England paid thirty thousand pounds for his destructive device and it was filed away in the archives of public documents to await the day when conditions compelled its use.

 "While after that in times of threatening disaster the plan was discussed and commissions were appointed to investigate, and each time the commissions reported as before. That it would do all that it was claimed that it would do—that it was equally effective against fleets or forts, could be used on land or sea, but if it were once used, others would have the secret and could use it. On that last commission were such men as Faraday and the Congress brothers and none can doubt either their veracity or ability."
 "Now once more men are saying: 'Will England use the Dundonald secret against her foes?' If England has such a device and the invasion of her home territory demands it, there is no question but that the dead arm of Dundonald will be called upon to hurl the destructive thunderbolt that will annihilate an army in an instant."
 "Be not surprised nor shocked. This is but the last word in destructive warfare. The race began its wars with clubs and stones and it will end with Dundonald's method of striking an army dead in its tracks."
 "From this the speaker argued that with every tendency of humanity bent in an evil direction and genius trained to annihilate humanity, nothing but christianity could control man and regulate civilization."

BIG WHEAT DAY.

Omaha, Neb., Aug. 1.—Yesterday was the "biggest" wheat day in the history of the Omaha Grain exchange.
 Total receipts of wheat were 676 cars—the largest receipts of this century known in this market. The Burlington road alone brought 417 cars, the Union Pacific 114, and the Northwestern 50.
 Practically all of this enormous quantity of wheat was raised in Nebraska, and the bulk of it was of the new crop.
 The quality of current arrivals of new wheat is exceptionally good. Practically none of the new wheat coming in is grading below No. 3, and a very large per cent of it is grading No. 1.

OPTIMISM.

For all the heat we have endured "This be our comfort now." A bumper corn crop is assured To feed the spotted cow And give the shotes along the Plate The food they need to take on fat.

Why curse the weather, foolish man, Aid heat your blood, you dub, To interfere with nature's plan Would cut you short of grub. Much corn do we require for feed, And some to grind, and some for seed.

I know all day the sun shines bright, You thing the corn will bake, But you could hear it grow all night, If you should keep Nebraska dry, And shortly you'd see Nebraska dry.

CANTALOUPES.

Lincoln Trade Review: It's not so long ago when we knew the musk melon, but nothing of the cantaloupe. We then might raid a melon patch, by consent or otherwise, and the time to eat them was any time but meal time. To eat melon for breakfast was unheard of. No one went to the grocery store to buy melons. If they were not home grown, once in a while a farmer wagon would come along and a dime would buy all you could carry off.

We have been progressing from former conditions to the melon line along with eggs all the year around and with creamery butter in germ proof packages instead of the home made prints.

How great the consumption of cantaloupes, the inbred and educated musk melon, has become, is only appreciated when we get the statistics on the question. The report of the department for the week ending July 12th showed that this season, up to that date, the rail-

THE HOOSIER POET.

The Sioux City Journal makes this editorial reference to James Whitcomb Riley whose death occurred Saturday:

"The death of James Whitcomb Riley will cause an ache in millions of hearts to which the Hoosier poet had talked long and intimately, in their own language, of the simple things of life. Riley's verse was wrought in terms of the middle west; but its appeal was universal. Old and young alike were moved by it. Intellectual and material wealth and poverty shared equal appreciation of its beauty. It was in the inter-jection of the fanciful side of child life, perhaps, that Riley was at his best, but his work ran a broad gamut of homely experience and kindly philosophy."

Much of Riley's verse was in dialect. As a result of his writing in the American dialect poet attained new dignity as well as popularity. It is not dialect alone that makes one think of Burns in seeking a poetic standard by which to measure Riley. Both poets lived close to the sanctum of nature and their hearts throbbled in unison with the hearts of the humble and the genuine. Riley died a boy at the age of 63. His work will live white simplicity and sincerity and sympathy are recognized by humankind as among the most beautiful of the intangible things of life."

At the Carnival.

To say that the carnival of last Saturday, which was managed by the Carroll band, drew a large crowd would be putting it mildly. It was a regular gala day and people flocked to town in the proverbial fourth of July style. But the best feature was the fact that they were good spenders, when the proceeds from all the various shows and other attractions had been totaled, it was found that almost $150 had been spent. The men in the band appreciate such support and intend to use the money for instruments, music, etc., and thus give the public some benefit of the money expended.
