There Is a Big Difference In Coffee

A traveling salesman offered me a bargain in coffee. He said it was a brand his firm was closing out. It had not been a good seller; his firm was going to put in a new line of coffee, and that I could buy the old brand at several cents less. I told him I was afraid if I bought it I would be closing it out some day at less than I paid for it. I further stated that I would rather stick to for in the five years I have sold this line I never had to close out a single pound of it. Instead, I have closed out all other brands. In Chase & Sanborn's coffee you get every cent's worth of value you pay for. We don't have to cut the price to sell them. The Coffee Is Right and the Price Is Right.

Chase & Sanborn's Coffee

Individuality

Oldsmobile Eight has an individuality of its own. Oldsmobile sets its own styles—never follows the crowd. That is one reason why each year's models, though improved, do not discredit last year's cars by marked differences of design. An Oldsmobile is a permanent investment.

CHURCH CALENDAR

Presbyterian Church.
(Rev. S. X. Cross, Pastor.)
Let us all remember to boost for the Bible meetings to begin in the big tabernacle on the tenth of next month.

Every Christian will do all he can and say all he can for a dry Nebraska this fall. The forces of the opposition are using every means fair and unfair, to inaugurate an era of drunkenness and debauchery in our fair state.

The Y. P. S. C. E. topic for next Sunday evening is, "Growth in Body, Mind and Spirit." A. R. Davis has been asked to lead this meeting. The society will meet at 6 o'clock, sharp. Read the very interesting scripture lesson which is in Luke 2:40-52.

All vacationers and others are invited to attend the morning service at this church. The sermon subject next Sunday morning will be, "The Beautitude of Forgiveness." There will be special music at this service under the direction of Mrs. W. E. Johnson, Chorister.

Some new pupils were enrolled in the Sunday school last Sunday. Visitors are always welcome at the sessions of the Sunday school. The entire session of the Sunday school is one hour in length. Cannot you, dear church member, spare that much time for this great work, one day in seven?

Every church member should read a church paper. There should be a Presbyterian paper in every Presbyterian home. There are many good denominational papers. Perhaps the Continent is the best known in this section of the country. A careful reading of such a paper every week will make you a better informed church member and a better citizen.

St. Paul's English Lutheran Church.
(Rev. J. H. Fetterolf, Pastor)

There will be no services in this church next Sunday either morning or evening.

The annual Sunday school and church picnic will be held in Brewster's grove a mile north of town, Thursday, August 24. It is hoped that the parents will bring their children that old and young may spend a pleasant day together. Bring your baskets well filled. Those having no way to get to the grove are requested to meet at the church at 10 o'clock and transportation will be provided for all.

All the young people who intend to be in the confirmation class are requested to meet the pastor at the church Saturday, September 9, at 2:30 p. m. The class will not begin its regular weekly meetings until October 28, but we desire to get the class together once so that all may be supplied with catechisms and the first lesson assigned. Then when regular instruction begins there will be no delay caused by lack of organization. The class this year should have no less than twenty-five or thirty members. Parents should encourage their children to take this course of instruction.

Methodist Church.
(Rev. A. S. Buell, Pastor.)
There will be a special service Sunday morning. The Rev. N. A. Martin of Lincoln will preach at 10:30.

The Sunday school has kept up well for the summer time and now that the extreme heat is over we shall expect to see all back to their regular instruction begins there will be no delay caused by lack of organization. The class this year should have no less than twenty-five or thirty members. Parents should encourage their children to take this course of instruction.

Baptist Church.
(Ex-Pastor to Preach.)
The pastor will be absent next Sunday morning but the pulpit will be filled. The friends of the former Rev. Parker Smith will be delighted to know that he will visit in Wayne during the week end and will fill his former pulpit in the Baptist church.

Rev. W. L. Gaston preaches before the Northeastern Baptist association next Sunday at Creighton.

WILLIAM P. WARNER SELECTS COMMITTEE

Norfolk Daily News, August 15: William P. Warner of Dakota City, republican nominee for congress in the Third district of Nebraska, has named the congressional committee which will have charge of his campaign. Burt Mapes of Norfolk is chairman. The committee will meet in Norfolk next Monday night at 9 p. m. to make plans for the campaign.

Following is the committee: Burt Mapes, chairman, Norfolk; Carl O. Swanson, secretary, Fremont; Antelope, S. I. Nies, Neligh; Boone, Henry Lehr, Albion; Burt J. W. Tamplin, Pekamah; Cedar, Steve Morrison, Hartington; Colfax, G. W. Wertz, Schuyler; Cuming, Allen C. Burke, Bancroft; Dakota, J. J. Eimers, Dakota City; Dixon, Walter Hart, Alliance; DeWitt, Dan Swanson, Fremont; Knox, A. L. Luenberg, Creighton; Madison A. E. Ward, Madison; Merrick, Frank L. Scudder, Central City; Nance, Jake Umstead, Fullerton; Pierce, Fred Brande, Pierce; Platte, Bruce Webb, Creston; Stanton, John Ehrhardt, Stanton; Thurston, O. D. Aldrich, Rosalie; Wayne, Fred S. Berry, Wayne.

GOOD IDEA.
Hartington Herald: There is one subject which we would like to see given greater prominence at press association meetings, and that is the editorial and literary side of newspaper work. Man does not live by cost systems alone, and important to the business side, we would like to see a little more attention paid to such subjects as editorial writing, reporting, reading proof, etc., and even such details as grammar and punctuation. All of us need instruction and stimulation along this line as much as we do along the line of knowing how much to charge for a job of letter heads, and how to collect the same after it is charged.

PLAINVIEW FARM -:- C. F. SANDAHL, OWNER

An Attractive Home, Well Kept Barns and Yards, Fine Acres of Oats, Corn and Hay
Big Roan Shorthorns, Mammoth Duroc Jerseys and Imported Stallions. Showing Made by Young Producer

C. F. Sandahl gets his mail from Wakefield, R. F. D. No. 1. He is on the Wakefield telephone line.

IT HELPS SOME

He who discards the good and keeps the bad in his stock gets the world a boost.

You can always buy from Mr. Sandahl at private sale, and his prices are right.

THE GLAD HAND

Whether they buy or not visitors are always welcome to inspect the stock.

With neighborhood familiarity they call him Fred, but C. F. Sandahl is the way he writes his name when he signs letters or checks, and if you look over his farm, as we did, see what he has, and note what he has done, count his Shorthorns and Durocs, you will agree that he is entitled to all the dignity that a well initiated name can bestow. But for the purposes of this article we grant ourselves the liberty to either call him C. F. or Fred as occasion will best fit.

His Location.

Those of you who live in the other parts of the county should pay special attention to this paragraph, for as the years go by it will be to your interest to know where Fred Sandahl lives. He is young yet, and has just broken into the fine stock business, but you will hear from him, and you will want some of his stock.

His farm home, if you are coming from the west, is five miles east and one mile south of Wayne. If you are coming from the east, he lives three miles west and two and three-quarters miles south of Wakefield. When you get there you will know the place, if you note this description: The two-story house stands well to the front of the yard and is on your left as you drive into the yard. It is painted a light cream color and looks fresh and neat. The garage is on your right and the barns in front of you. Barns, cribs, and hoghouses are all in prime condition, and make a fine exhibit describing the kind of farmer that keeps them up.

Manure Spreader at Work.

When our Ford lit in the barnyard, Mr. Sandahl and a hired man had a manure spreader fixed up and were transferring the contents of the straw bed to a stable field, in the interest of better and richer soil and another big crop next year. That is the way to do it, and all these things tell for thrift and success. His crops this year were good, and the farm declares the kind of farming that it received.

A Short Pedigree.

When a man is a breeder of blooded stock, the word pedigree is a hot topic. It is a subject that biologists and other stock men will understand it just as well, if not better. Fred Sandahl is a home-grown product. He is a son of Edward Sandahl who lives across the road, not more than a half mile away. Fred was born in Wayne county in 1886, and here he has lived ever since. He received a common school education and then took a business course in the Business College at Wahoo, Nebraska. He has been five years on the farm that is now his home. A short time ago he was married to Miss Myrtle Mathieson, daughter of Andrew Mathieson, of Dixon county. This made his home complement complete. Mrs. Sandahl is a most excellent woman, and will contribute to her husband's success in life.

Roan Cattle vs. Red Hogs.

On this farm, roan cattle and red hogs are making a close race for the important place, and when you look at the cattle you think they have got it, and then when you see the hogs you are convinced that they are the top notch and entitled to the prize. The final verdict, however, will be that both hogs and cattle belong to the first water, and are a credit to their owner and breeder. Which will be the most profitable in the long run doth not yet appear. It will take years to determine that.

A Herd of Shorthorns.

In the tour of the barnyard the first thing to attract attention was a fine looking herd of roan and red cattle, with forms that suggested that they might have been cooked out of wood, and a color that couldn't have been inherited by any other breed. The meaning of a herd like this came home with a deep impression. What a difference it would make to this country if all cattle were as well bred and built to square lines! One would have to go up in an airship to estimate the difference in dollars. But tell me, if you can, why all cattle in this country shouldn't be red-blooded, especially designed for milk or beef. Why should scrubs take up a farmer's time, and occupy this high-priced land? If it costs ten dollars to keep a scrub a little while, it will only cost seven and a half to keep a good full-blood type the same while, and you have saved twenty-five per cent on the keep. Add to the twenty-five per cent saved in the keep another twenty-five per cent for additional value and you have some difference to account for—a difference that you can carry down to the bank and have posted in black figures in your book. The farmers of Wayne county are fast finding out that high-priced land and high-priced feed call for high-priced stock. Call out the unprofitable scrubs—get the cold-bloods off the farm. Potbellied stock, modeled on the squash-seed pattern, would be unprofitable if they were given to you.

Mr. Sandahl knows the difference that exists in model and blood, and has started out in the right way, and has now reached a place where he can be of much assistance to his neighbors and stock men of the county by dividing with them the quality of his herd. This is bound to be a lucrative business, both for seller and buyer.

Aside from high grades, that block well to pure strain sires, there are ten or very fine registered cows in this herd, all of which brought calves this spring, sired by the roan monarch at the head herd. The cows have the color and marks of the best qualities that could only be produced by scientific line-breeding.

Pedigrees Longer than the Cows.

The pedigrees of the cows lead back into ancient history. They are approved and registered by the American Shorthorn Breeders' Association, which alone is ample guarantor of the pedigree.

Big Roan Radium.

Radium is the name of the big roan bull that, conscious of the role he plays, proudly heads the herd. He was bred by Henry Bily of Plainview, Nebraska. His pedigree is royal, his size mammoth, his color roan, his bone heavy, and his contour smooth. His producing qualities are already proven. His goals are pocket editions of himself. He is an animal that commends himself as soon as he is seen. He cost some money. Mr. Sandahl could have bought several inferior bulls for the money paid for Radium, but inferior bulls would have been too dear and Radium was cheap. You can't pay too much if you are getting the best that is possible for you to get.

Radium's ancestral line blends back and through strains of milk and beef. In raising cattle on a Nebraska farm the two essential things are milk and beef, and you can breed them both in varying quantities in the same animal. We pronounce Radium an all around popular and profitable bull, and his owner need neither praise nor apologize when stockmen inspect him.

Two Great Calves.

There were two male calves in the yard, less than 8 months old, that would give an amateur along with senior yearlings. Blocky, smooth lined, they possess quality enough to answer any breeder's prayer. One is a fine roan, even-colored, with well placed patches of white. His size and form and color, backed by his breeding, will make him a great producer, if he breeds true to his line, and there is no doubt of that.

Blands Are Favorites.

The other calf has a wealth of local quality, which is finely enriched by a "fad" color. The society reporter would describe him as a blond. His coat is silken white and his skin a deep yellow. We said "fad" color and that was right, for color in stock goes by fads. The fads run first to one color and then to another. First it was reds, dark or light, then to spotted roans, then to even-blended roans, and now it runs pell-mell to whites. If you want the very latest in Shorthorn styles, something that is right up to the minute, remember that blands are favorites, and white is the color. Here is your calf with all the white you want and all the other traits he needs.

SANDAHL HAS HIGH BRED DUROCS.

Twenty-five Big Cherry-red Duroc Jersey Dams Farrow The New Herd. Blue Ribbon and Sandahl's Model Chief Are Great Sires.

And now the story turns to pork. Mr. Sandahl has hogs that are worthy of all the adjectives in an ordinary vocabulary. In fact, to do them only actual justice the writer would have to be a trapeze performer on the English language. They are Jerseys—Duroc Jerseys, and a very creditable herd. This is neither exaggeration nor gush, but a plain statement of facts. This will be scanned by six thousand readers, and I have no desire in the world but to tell them the plain, unvarnished truth about Mr. Sandahl's stock and the breeding he is doing. He has a herd of twenty-five great sows, big-boned, long-bodied, registered sows. While this is being written the sows are in the pens on the Plainview Farm and their pedigrees are on the writer's desk.

It was about four years ago that Mr. Sandahl began the breeding of red hogs. In October, 1913, he purchased a famous male from Wm. Moderow of Beemer, Nebraska, and placed him at the head of a very small herd. The result was what the result always is in such cases, where both dams and sires are well selected. If you want famous stock, select and breed only the best.

Blue Ribbon proved a profitable investment. His gets were always classful, and even, and if the truth were known, they are responsible for Fred Sandahl's growing reputation as a breeder. The red blood came, however, by the mating of the famous dam, Beverly 2nd, with this distinguished sire. The writer saw Beverly 2nd and her offspring to the fourth generation, and although she is six years old, she seems hardly to have reached her prime. Beverly's Daughter, herself a four hundred pound dam, lay broadside in the yard, furnishing warm meals to a fine farrow of nine rooters. Five of them lay flat on the ground and fed at the lower counter while the other four climbed on top of them and ate off the upper counter. It was a stockman's picture, and if there had been a camera within two miles of the place this would have been an illustrated story. The state fair at Lincoln will not have a better dam and litter than the participants in this dinner party.

Sandahl's Model Chief, No. 173179.

The herd leader this year is another eligible in any kind of a contest or prize show. Sandahl's Model Chief No. 173179 is well and appropriately named for he is both a model and a chief. Any stockman who buys any of his gets is buying into an aristocratic line of stock selection, and is making no mistake. The total cost of Model Chief, if mated and sold at present market price, would buy a fine Wayne county farm.

Did Not Pass His Neighbors Up.

A very commendable thing that might be mentioned here is the fact that Mr. Sandahl did not pass his neighbors up when it came to a matter of stock selection. Read the list of pedigrees that are in his hand, and you will find repeated over and over again the names of his neighbors who are in the breeding business. The names of William Morgan and V. L. Davton occur time and again in the breeder's column. That is one of the things to be accomplished by the maintenance of this page. Patronize one another! is a fine maxim.

Three Fine Stallions in the Stud of the Plainview Farm. Two Thousand Pounds of Imported Horse.

Autos and tractors are coming fast and coming faster, but the passing of the horse is not yet. On Plainview Farm horses are given some attention, and here they are found in good form and flesh. Mr. Sandahl has three stallions, and they are all good ones. You could ride across a state without seeing a better horse than Haimps 74280 (French number). Haimps was bred in northern France and was foaled the property of the French breeder M. Thibault of Eure et Loir. If he had spent the last two years in his native heath he would have put in six weeks hauling big guns and the rest of the time in the battlefield bonspiel. He is lucky to be over here eating American oats and corn and sheltered by a Wayne county barn. The importation papers disclose the names of Wilson & Stewart of Creston, Iowa, as the importers that brought Haimps to this country.

Haimps is a heavy-boned black Percheron and weighs over two thousand pounds. He is a typical Percheron, but possesses larger bone than is common to the blacks. We were shown some of his get, and they are colts that any farmer or breeder might prize.

This farm possesses another Percheron of popular form and weight, but this time the color is dapple gray, and the breeding native. Leo is a fancy draft, Nebraska bred. He is making the season stand north of Wakefield. The third stallion is a germane descendant of old Hambleton No. 10, and will be used for the propagation of stephens, and other horses.

Europe Will Need Horses.

Let nobody be discouraged in the horse line. The fact is, we have no horses. The war buyers have raked the land with a fine-toothed comb and have shipped out more than we could well spare. This is not all. When the war is over Europe will need more horses than ever. The fact is that we have shipped from this and bred over here will have to go back and prices will be good for good horses for years to come, but the Lord should have mercy on the horse. When Austria and Poland, Galicia, Belgium, and France begin to plow their fields once more you will see a horse market. Heavy draft horses will be in demand and the prices will be announced from aeroplanes.

THE WAYNE HERALD
 The Oldest Established Paper in Wayne County.
 Published Every Thursday.
 Entered at the Postoffice at Wayne, Neb., as Second Class Mail Matter.
 E. W. HULSE, Editor and Proprietor.
 Subscription $1.50 per Year.
 Telephone 146.

It is a fact that if any city in the third congressional district, now without a federal building, should have one, it is Wayne. It is urged, also, that Wayne should have its houses numbered and free city delivery established. The meeting of the county ought to go forward triumphantly.

Prosperity built up on the munitions business is not the kind of prosperity that will last, and is not healthy ground for the kind of base democracy's appeal for raising the price of wheat. It is the test of the administration's public policies would come, and the experience before the war was enough to shake confidence in the party.

Extremes are to be avoided in the employment of the factors of the big cities, young children are no doubt often overworked to their injury. In towns like Wayne, the tendency is too little work for young people, to their injury. We have never noticed any oppression of children in the matter of work in this country.

In a two-column contribution to Sunday's Sioux City Journal, A. Van Wageningen arraigns the Wilson administration with a good deal of vigor for its failure to keep its platform pledges adopted at Baltimore four years ago. Mr. Van Wageningen first the pledge, declared in the platform and subsequently in campaign speeches, resolving to make presidents ineligible for a second term. It is pointed out that no effort has been made to limit the presidential tenure. Attention is called to the change of front respecting tolls for the Panama canal. Failure to extend the civil service and the Sherman anti-trust law was emphasized, together with extravagance and inefficiency along all lines. Mr. Van Wageningen deprecates the interference with platform promises have been repeated suggesting that the government privately would not get far if they considered or handled obligations so lightly. It is a fact that if platform mean nothing it would be far better not to write them.

RECIPROCAL RELATIONS.
 Here is a paragraph the Herald editorialized as follows in the report of the meeting of editors at Norfolk recently: "While welcoming as important to all concerned the advertising of the local-merchandise, we should have more than one or two words in this connection. We receive I would suggest the strength gained by getting into the country, and developing business among the producers. In rendering more service to the farmer, we can acquire more patronage from him. He needs the representative traveling over the farming community, a new field is opened and less dependence is placed on wanted sources of income."

For three months the Herald has had a representative traveling over Wayne county, interviewing farmers and gathering data for brief sketches of farm operations. Simultaneously, he has been securing new and renewed subscriptions and taking orders for advertising. The result has not only strengthened an already large and healthy subscription list, but has added materially to the output of the job department. Wayne county farmers need the Herald, and they need a representative traveling over the farming community, a new field is opened and less dependence is placed on wanted sources of income."

This week the Herald is introducing an entirely new advertising feature, and so far, it is the original with this paper. We have never seen or heard of a weekly paper branching out into this line of work. We have employed an expert to write in unique style advertisements for breeders of new and live stock. The purpose is to set forth in graphic and readable fashion in the merits of pure bred herds in Wayne and adjoining counties preliminary to either public or private sales. Will those who rest you of the back row and proclaim you a noble citizen, because you print their what he has to offer. The Herald can prove to the farmer the benefit gained by using its columns for advertising purposes. The Herald will be thus taking advantage of the Herald's improved service, can help materially in building up a strong county newspaper. The relation of the Herald to the farmer is reciprocal and of mutual advantage.

NEWSPAPER POLICY.
 Anent campaign advertising, the Nebraska Printer, published at Edgar, has this to say:

"One of the most essential adjuncts to the successful operation of a newspaper is freedom from entangling alliances. This is especially true of the country weeklies and smaller dailies: Absolute secession from the domination of influences that seek to use the publication as a medium, without recompense, for political, financial or social gain, is an important step. The moment a paper aligns itself with one group of individuals, to the detriment of another, it becomes subordinated to the mandates of that group who in nine cases out of ten merely use it to exploit their individual ideas, theories and schemes."

"They care nothing for the editor or his paper, except insofar as they can use him to promote their designs and after they have accomplished their purposes he will be tossed aside like a chicken with its neck wrung."

"It is such time that editors took a firm stand against being used as a convenience by every Tom, Dick and Harry that has a scheme, he wants to try out at the editor's expense."

"Running a newspaper—and showing a profit on it—is a business. It takes money to run a paper and that money can come from but two sources, subscriptions and advertising—the major portion coming from the latter. It therefore behooves the editor to make his paper pay for itself and his paper to do all it can to increase this end of the revenue. Every man in his business to make money—if not, he has no business in business. Money is every man's legitimate and sacred right."

"The rising price represents money and should be conserved just as carefully. It is your stock in trade. If you give it away you are giving away its equivalent in cash."

"Just now the Nebraska Newspaper League is seeking to combine with each country paper in the state for 300 inches of space. We look upon this as legitimate advertising which no editor can afford to refuse merely through personal prejudice or fear of offending the public. It is either more or less imaginary. In the contract the league puts out, editors are invited to comment on the ad, either favorable or otherwise, in their editorial columns. They are privileged to comment on the advertising in their statements made therein and to even discuss the cause it advocates if they see fit. We believe the liquor question is a matter for the people to decide and in order to enable them to do so intelligently, we should have the voters entitled to hear both sides of the question. Every man was given a brain to think with—let him use it."

"It is a duty you owe your readers as well as yourself to permit the publication of advertising in the unpaid matter relative to public questions. If you disagree with either side, say so in your editorial columns. As an editor would not think of refusing to print a letter from some reader merely because he did not coincide with the writer's views. If an editor were to print only what was analogous with his own ideas, he would soon be the only one reading his paper. Only that which is a good thing for the world that they do."

"The primary function of a paper is dissemination of the truth and as a medium for the exchange of ideas. It is folly to try to please everybody. The moment you allow anyone to tell you what you should and should not print, you are inviting a supervision that, once it becomes entrenched, will ride on your back like the 'old man of the sea' and sooner or later prove your undoing."

"The moment a man turns his paper over exclusively to either side he is breaking ground for his own ruin."
 "Can you conceive what would happen to any other business if it allowed every one to dictate how it should be run? Can you conceive any other business that allows every one to have a say in how it shall be conducted? The why permit it in the newspaper business? It is your business, your investment, you foot the bills and it is therefore your privilege to protect your investment, yourself and family when you're tired. Will those who rest you of the back row and proclaim you a noble citizen, because you print their stuff free and refuse paid matter, come forward and take care of your children? Have you thought of this? Well, the answer would be: "Assert your independence. That being their man Friday. Let them know that you are running the paper. Write an editorial, come out clean and show your readers where they are working on a mistake, you to demand that you adapt your policy to suit the whims of the few and once you have made your stand stick to it. They will respect you all the more and you are getting out a really entertaining newspaper you will not lose any subscribers."

"Instead you will gain that without which prestige and respect is impossible—INDEPENDENCE."

WHAT MR. HUGHES WOULD DO.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat: In his Detroit address Mr. Hughes enlarged upon his previous criticism of the Wilson administration and indicated the fundamental principles which would have controlled and directed his actions if he had been president and which will control and direct him if he becomes president. One of these principles is the protection of the American citizen wherever he may be. "It is an American citizen," he says, "who goes with his rights and the right to the proper protection of his country under international law wherever he journeys throughout the world." There is nothing new in this declaration. Such rights have been recognized and maintained by every nation worthy of respect for the past century at least. They have been accepted and enforced by every president of the United States since the establishment of the government, with the single exception of the present executive, who, for the first time in our history, has set up the contrary doctrine that an American citizen, unless the prophet, is not to honor save in his own country.

"Our imperative duty in our relations with Mexico, as with other countries, begins and ends with the maintenance of our national rights and the individual rights of our citizens. All international law is based upon this basic principle of national protection and the protection of nationals. All treaties of trade and commerce, as well as of comity, are founded upon it. It would have guided and will guide the foreign policy of Mr. Hughes. He would have refused to meddle in the internal political affairs of Mexico, but would have firmly insisted upon, and compelled if need be, a wholesome respect for American citizenship. Every step taken by the present administration has been away from rather than toward this end. America has been made a term of contempt in Mexico and American citizenship is being abandoned. Americans have been forced by their own government to abandon their property and leave the country. And all due to the rejection of the fundamental principles of international law. Mr. Hughes proposes to restore this principle and put it into definite and vigorous action. He has been asked what he would have done, and what he would do, in relation to Mexico. This is his answer: "It is clear and complete."

AMONG PRODUCCERS OF WAYNE COUNTY

Otto Kremke.
For seven years Otto Kremke has been the tenant on the half section farm, belonging to Henry Westhaus and located fourteen miles straight west of Wayne.

The building site is within a half mile of a good rural school. Mr. Kremke is fortunate in having 180 acres of corn this season when prospects are so exceedingly bright.

His ninety acres of oats were in the stock when this visit was made, and by number of shocks they will also yield a bumper crop.

Mr. Kremke has a nice bunch of spring pigs. He marketed sixty-eight head of the old stock some time ago. The cattle in the yards total ten head and in addition there are six milk cows to claim their share of attention.

The cream is sold, only enough being churned to supply the family with butter.

Robert Morris.
Ten miles west and three miles north of Wayne is the eighty being long to John Hamer and rented this year to Robert Morris. Mr. Morris devoted nearly the entire acreage to corn, and he certainly made no mistake in so doing in view of the splendid prospects for a big yield.

Twenty acres are in oats except the little strip that is taken up by the building site. After marketing twenty-five head of hogs Mr. Morris has about fifty head left.

Herbert Taylor.
In 1899 Herbert Taylor came to this county and just four years later he began to operate a quarter section of land, eight miles west of Wayne. This is a part of the Johnathan Brugger estate and is equipped with a fair set of buildings. The fact that Mr. Taylor has leased this place for so many years evidences his good management and thorough understanding of the farming business. This year he has seventy acres of corn and thirty-five acres of oats.

Fifteen acres of alfalfa have yielded a big tonnage of hay during the season. The rest of the place is in pasture. Eighty head of spring pigs and nineteen head of old hogs are included in his herd at this date.

His herd were sold not long ago at a good figure. The cattle on this farm total twelve head, in addition there are four milk cows of good milking qualities.

Hans Brogren.
For seven years Hans Brogren has been the tenant of a 240-acre farm, fourteen miles west and one mile north of Wayne. This year he has been tending 120 acres of corn, and had harvested the sixty acres of oats at the time of this visit.

Ten acres of alfalfa and forty acres of pasture complete the crop layout for the year. His herd of hogs includes fourteen head of the old stock and forty spring pigs. After selling eighteen head of cattle he now has twenty left.

There is a herd of twelve milk cows which are real money makers on this farm. Several gallons of high test cream are sold each week.

Clifton Neary.

The 160-acre farm owned by Harry Fisher, has been rented for the past three years by Clifton Neary. This farm is well located, being two miles west and two and three-quarters miles south of Winslow. Mr. Neary is a cattle man and has three cowboys in his season, besides one car of hogs. In July he had only seven head of cattle but expected to get in some feeders soon. In the yards were thirty-five head of spring pigs besides the eight head of old hogs. Forty acres of corn and alfalfa and fifty acres of oats constitute the year's crop on this farm.

Nels Johnson.

It was just six years ago that Nels Johnson purchased and took possession of the 120-acre farm two miles west of Winslow. He has a good location and is working hard to get the improvements in the best shape possible. This year he has tended fifty acres of corn, and now has his forty acres of oats harvested. A good pasture completes the crop scheme of the year. Mr. Johnson has about fifty head of hogs of all ages on hand, having sold ninety head during the past five months. He reports about four hundred calves, including a few good milkers.

H. C. Hansen.

Mr. Hansen is beginning to feel very much at home on the place, one mile west and three miles north of Wayne, which he has rented from Harry Jones for the past two years. It comprises 240 acres and is divided into the following crops this season: One hundred and fifteen acres of corn, and sixty acres of oats. Then there are fifteen acres of alfalfa with a considerable acreage in clover and timothy. In the line of stock Mr. Hansen usually feeds out between one and two cars of cattle each year and raises a good-sized bunch of pigs. When the price was high, there were twenty-six head of cattle in the yards, and eighty head of spring pigs in addition to the ten old hogs. Eighty fat hogs had been marketed.

David Jones.

Nine miles straight west of Wayne is a quarter section of land, the property of A. T. Chapin, which is tenanted by David Jones. Mr. Jones combines stock raising and grain farming on a profitable scale. This year he has harvested his forty-five acres of corn and is looking for a second yield from the twenty-five acres of corn. The balance of the land is used for a pasture with ten acres seeded to alfalfa. Mr. Jones marketed almost a hundred hogs when the price was still high, and he now has a fine bunch of old stock besides a fine bunch of spring pigs, totaling ninety-five head in all. In addition to a small herd of stock cattle there are four milk cows, producing cream which is converted into butter and sold at a satisfactory figure.

William Sundahl.

William Sundahl has for five years past rented a 160-acre farm of Thos. Sundahl, and is well on the road to success. This fall he is planning on feeding out at least two cars of cattle, although he had only fifty-two head on hand at the time these data were gathered. He has thirty-eight head of growling pigs, and reported that he had disposed of about fifty head of the old stock. His crops for the year include the following: One hundred acres of corn, forty acres of oats with the remaining part given over to pasture and hay for the stock.

Fred Ericson.

This is the fourth year that Fred Ericson has rented the Pryor farm, one and one-half miles west and two miles north of Winslow. This is a half section farm and has an exceptionally good location. Mr. Ericson feeds about half of his corn to hogs and cattle. At present he has sixty-five head of spring pigs, making rapid growth. One-half a car of hogs and one car of cattle were the stock shipments from this place last season. There are now thirty head of cattle in the yards. The crops for the year are: One hundred forty acres of corn, 100 acres of oats. The balance of the land is in an excellent timothy and clover combination for hay.

Lloyd Prince.

For the past four years Mrs. Clara Meers has found an efficient and painstaking tenant in the person of Lloyd Prince, who is operating her 160-acre farm, one mile west and a half mile north of Winslow. Mr. Prince has enlarged his operations by renting an additional eighty-four outside parties. The resulting crops from this acreage are: One hundred acres of corn, ninety acres of oats with the rest seeded to pasture. Mr. Prince is much interested in fine stock. He is now raising Duroc Jersey hogs and the Willowdale herd strain. He has ten old hogs and sixty spring pigs. He has disposed of forty head of the old stock. In the yards are twenty-five head of Shorthorn cattle. One car was finished for market during the season.

Howard Neary.

Mrs. Mary Fisher of Wayne owns a quarter section of land, one mile west and one-half mile south of Wayne. This year she is leasing the land to Howard Neary, who has a fine crop of the following crops: Eighty-five acres of corn, fifty-five acres of oats, ten acres of alfalfa with the rest in pasture and a small acreage of hay. Mr. Neary does not specialize in stock at all, although he expects to do more along that line in the future. He has a small bunch of cattle that he will be able to turn at a good profit.

P. C. Andersen.

Just outside of the city limits of Winslow is located the fine quarter section farm belonging to P. C. Andersen. In addition to the 160 acres Mr. Andersen rents another sixty acres and crops the whole in this way: One hundred acres of corn, and thirty acres of oats. Thirty acres of the remaining land is seeded to alfalfa and forty to pasture. Seventy head of spring pigs are now running on pasture. In addition there are forty head of old hogs. One hundred head of hogs were marketed within the last few months. One car of cattle was also shipped by Mr. Andersen, and he now has thirty-five head on hand.

C. T. Long.

Another desirable quarter section, lying close to Winslow, that which has been operated for the past two years by C. T. Long. This farm is located two miles west and one mile north of town. Mr. Long expects a big yield from his eighty-five acres of corn. The fifty-eight acres of oats were ready to be threshed at the time these figures were taken. The balance of the 160 acres is devoted to pasture. Mr. Long sold fifty head of fat hogs during the past season and now has just about that many on hand.

Phillip Tanner.

This is the first year that Phillip Tanner has been farming in this community. He is at present renting a quarter section of Ferdinand Call, two miles west of Winslow. Only about half of the land is devoted to the grain crop. There are fifty acres in corn and twenty-five in oats. Taking out about five acres for yards, building site, etc., the other eighty acres are divided between fifty acres of hay and thirty acres of pasture. The buildings on this place are all new, and will easily permit of five stock raising on quite an extensive scale. Just now Mr. Tanner has a herd of fifty-three spring pigs and four old hogs. The cattle in the yards number thirty-six head.

R. T. Mulloy.

Seven seems to be a favorite number of R. T. Mulloy, for he lives just seven miles west of Wayne, and he has been operating the farm just seven years, and furthermore he milks just seven cows. But as long as he isn't superstitious, it doesn't matter. Of the 160 acres, seventy are devoted to corn, forty to oats, and the balance to pasture and hay. Five cars of cattle were finished for market during the past season. Mr. Mulloy stated that he had sixty-five head of old hogs and the same number of spring pigs. After marketing two cars of cattle he has thirty head still on hand. The improvements on the place are good, the house having recently been remodelled to add to its convenience. The barn is 28x36.

Harry Burris.

Harry Burris leases a quarter section of John Merrill and also rents fifty-five acres of other parties. His building site is located nine miles west and five and one-half miles north of Wayne and one and one-half north and one mile west of Carroll. This year he states that his crops are: One hundred five acres of corn, fifty-five acres of oats with the balance of the acreage in pasture and hay. He has fifteen head of young cattle on grass, and is milking five cows and selling the cream. His hogs total forty-one head of all ages.

C. J. Honey.

Four hundred acres of the Honey estate, lying one and one-half miles north and one mile west of Carroll, is farmed by C. J. Honey. The buildings on this place are good and Mr. Honey stated that they would all be painted soon. Since the recent rains, Mr. Honey is sure that he will have several thousand bushels of corn on his 200-acre field. He has a good stand on 100 acres of oats. There are thirty acres of hay, the balance of the place is seeded to pasture. Last year Mr. Honey fed and shipped forty baby beavers, which he sold at a high figure. He also marketed a car and a half of hogs. He now has thirty-five head of spring pigs besides the seven old hogs. He will probably feed cattle again this winter.

Frank Davis.

Frank Davis owns the 120 acre farm belonging to J. B. Killinger and lying nine miles west and six miles north of Wayne. This is Mr. Davis' first year on the place although he has been farming in Wayne county for the past eight years. He reports forty acres of corn and thirty-eight acres of oats as his grain crop for this year. "In the yards are forty head of hogs of all ages.... The buildings on this place are in good repair, and the house had just recently been painted."

H. L. Hornby.

H. L. Hornby is farming a quarter section three miles south of Winslow and reports fifty-eight acres of corn and forty acres of oats as his crop for the season. Ten acres of alfalfa have now yielded the third year cutting. A good pasture takes up the balance of the land. Mr. Hornby has all the neighborhood of fifty head of hogs and an equal number were recently sold.

A. A. Collier.

For the last nine years A. A. Collier has been operating a 140-acre farm three miles south of Randolph. Mr. Collier has a good location and the building site is exceptionally attractive. About half of the land is in the big crop, corn, and the rest is divided between small grain and pasture. Mr. Collier specializes in Shorthorns. He has twenty-five head of fine specimens of that breed now on hand.

William Jenkins.

Mrs. James Jenks her 160-acre farm, thirteen miles west and four and one-half miles north of Wayne to William Jenkins. Mr. Jenkins has been operating this farm for the past six years in a satisfactory manner. He has a fine crop of corn and that amount of oats from his grain crop for the year. In the line of stock he has the Chester White breed of hogs of which he now has a few over a hundred head of all ages. He has also a car of hogs and one car of choice baby beavers during the last few months. Fifty-one head of stock cattle were in the yards at the time of this visit. Mr. Jenkins also runs a small dairy, milking seven cows and selling the cream at a good profit for cash.

T. A. Jackson.

Thirteen miles west and seven and one-half miles north of Wayne, or, to be more definite, one and one-half miles south of Sholes is a 120-acre strip of the Jackson estate, which for the past twenty-one years has been operated by T. A. Jackson. Mr. Jackson came to this county from Mills county, Ia., and he has never regretted his move here. He has continually worked to keep the buildings on the farm in good repair and to add new improvements from time to time. The barn is a big structure, 40x60, easily accommodating all of the eighteen good horses that are kept on this place. The hog house is 48x42 and of the best type. In hogs Mr. Jackson has about 100 spring rooters and thirty-five head of old stock. One hundred head were sold not long ago. Five cars of cattle were finished for market and sold at a fancy price during the past season. Thirty-nine head of pigs are still on hand. One of the biggest income producing features on this farm is the herd of twenty milk cows. The cream is sold at a good figure. Mr. Jackson's crops for the year include: One hundred acres of corn, sixty acres of oats and a considerable acreage of alfalfa and other hay.

Jesse Jenkins.

Another quarter section of the Goddard estate has been farmed for the last five years by Jesse Jenkins. This farm is thirteen miles west and one mile north of Wayne and is well adapted to stock raising. Mr. Jenkins has a total of eighty head of hogs, after marketing about fifty head. In addition to the four milk cows, there are twenty-seven head of stock cattle. A small bunch of feeders were recently marketed. The crops on this farm are: Sixty-five acres corn, twenty acres of oats, with the remaining sixty-five acres in pasture and grass.

H. W. Burnham.

H. W. Burnham is another one of the men who has lived on the one farm for more than a score of years. He owns a fine quarter section thirteen miles west and one and one-half miles north of Wayne. In addition to this he operates another quarter section, cropping the 320 acres in this way: One hundred twenty-five acres of corn, seventy-five acres of oats, fifteen acres of alfalfa with the balance of the property devoted to hay and pasture. The buildings on the Burnham farm are all substantial. The group includes a barn 40x56, a hog house 20x40, and a corn crib 20x40. Mr. Burnham does in the line of Shorthorns, having eight fine specimens of that breed in the yards at

WAKEFIELD.

Miss Margaret Forbes of the Herald staff is editor of this department, and will visit Wakefield every Tuesday. Any news contributions to these columns from town or country will be gladly received by her. It is also authorized to receive new or renewal subscriptions.

Delaney-Ebersole Wedding. Independence paper: One of Independence's charming young ladies became a bride Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock, when Miss Mildred Delaney was united in marriage with Mr. J. H. Ebersole, of Wakefield, Neb., at St. John's parsonage. Very Rev. W. T. Donohue officiated. The young couple were attended by Miss Helen Ebersole, of Wakefield, sister of the groom, and Dr. J. B. Delaney, of Independence, brother of the bride. The bride was attired in a pretty suit of navy blue silk. Miss Ebersole wore a nice suit of similar material. A wedding supper was enjoyed by the family. The wedding was a quiet, simple affair, attended only by immediate relatives. The bride received a fine array of handsome gifts. Mr. and Mrs. Ebersole will leave Saturday for Wakefield, where they will make their home.

By this marriage one of our finest young ladies has been wedded. She is the youngest daughter of Mrs. Ellen Dehnay. After attending Notre Dame seminary she took a position with the Corn Belt Telephone company and for the last three years or more has been the efficient and courteous chief operator in the downtown office. She is a fine type of young woman, and in his visits here has made many friends in this city, who will unite with those of the bride in wishing for Mr. and Mrs. Ebersole happiness and prosperity in large measure throughout their married life in which the Bulletin-Journal heartily joins.

Broken Leg. Frank Johnson fell from a scaffold and broke both bones of his left leg below the knee last Tuesday. He was working for Nels Larson on a $4,000 residence for Lewis Peterson, three miles west of Concord. He is being attended by Dr. Fleetwood, and is doing as well as could be expected.

Wind and Rain Storm. Last Wednesday evening a rain accompanied by fierce gusts of wind visited Wakefield. The wind lasted half an hour or more, twisting great limbs from trees all over town and badly tangling telephone and light wires. Rain has been falling some nearly every day since.

Entertainment. The young people's society of the Swedish Mission church held its monthly meeting at the Peter Erickson home last Wednesday night. After a very delightful program, light refreshments were served.

New Engine Installed. The Wakefield Light and Power company is installing a new fifty-horsepower engine at the town pump. This will give to the town much better service making in all one hundred twenty-five horsepower.

Please Tell Us When Your Telephone Service is Not Satisfactory

We endeavor to furnish a perfect telephone service and to have all dealings with our patrons pleasant and agreeable.

If you believe we have made a mistake—have done anything that isn't right—that isn't fair—we want to know it. We want to stop it at once.

If you think we have done anything that we shouldn't do, please give us an opportunity to remedy it. Don't tell your neighbor. He cannot correct it. We can.

Errors sometimes creep into our service through defects in the mechanical or electrical apparatus and are wrongfully believed to be the result of human inaccuracies.

When the delicate central office equipment, the line or the telephone instrument "go wrong," it isn't fair to condemn the operators. The operators—the "human machines"—do their work wonderfully well.

When there seems to be some fault in our service, please tell us at once and we will investigate and correct it.

By cooperation and mutual helpfulness we can be of the best service to each other.

UNCLE WALT

The Poet Philosopher

THE ROAD HOG.

The road hog drives his team of mules along the middle of the way, oblivious to all the rules that govern every day of his life. He is in your car, you ride, and toot upon your horn a blast, expecting him to turn aside, and give you room to journey past. The road hog slowly looks around, perched on the summit of his load, he looks at you with the warning sound, he holds the middle of the road. And you must trail along behind, still tooting in an angry pitch, or else, with murder in your mind, get past by plunging through a ditch. The road hog makes you sore and hot, but there is nothing you can do, for if you plug him full of shot, a rustic cop will collar you. When folks in motor cars offend, or violate some trifling law, they have no advocate or friend to pull them out of their hole and draw. But some old rube can hog the road, and bring disaster to our cars, and jays will throng to his abode, to hand him nosebags and cigars.

THE FLY.

One little fly, so busy, will make a strong man dizzy, and drive him to despair; 'twill spoil a day delightful, and fill with language frightful the palpitating air. A purr, after dinner, 'A nap would be mine; so I shall sleep a few; some snores, in Greek and Latin, will make me fresh as satin, in half an hour or two. Then to my couch repairing, I swoon am smoothly falling into the land of nod, and there the flies are coming pacing along my forehead, tracing the furrows and the seams. Around my eyes it rambles and then it lopes and gambles, along my cheek; then my bald head is reached, and I am doing my best, being industrious it goes. Maliciously it chases around the ticklish places, which isn't right or fair; I feel my hair grow sore; I am severely moral, or I would rise and swear, and dash the pestilence down, and flay it, and then lie down again; no use—there comes another! The dead fly left a brother, to plague the souls of men!

TWO DOGS.

The dog of high patrician mien, of well-groomed coat and aspect clean, makes quite a bit when down the street he travels on high-stepping feet. To pat his head we gladly reach, and we assure him he's a peach, and goot, and stroke his luxuriant hair, and wish we had ten boxes to spare, so we could buy a dog like that, and give him litchkeys to our flat. But when a seedy dog comes near, a dog with sores upon his ear, a dog with eyes that do not match, and fleas that make him maddly scratch, we kick him swiftly with our feet, and hoist him half way down the street. Men leave the office, store and shack, to kick him round a block and back. 'Tis likewise with the human skate, for whom the rocks or rocks wait, who gladness knows, or sorrow bears, according to the front he wears. You may have sterling worth to burn, and think men's plans and wits should earn, but if you wear a seedy shirt, some flying rocks are bound to hurt.

haunt your shops and dwellings, your woodsheds and your tents. No man will buy his handsome money; men seem to think it must be phony, because I'd sell it cheap; so all day long I seek a market—how will you coin and boost and bark it, and then break down and weep. But now comes Nestor Newton Neuter, who deals in dollars made of pewter, alloyed with lead and tin; he seems to boast while I am sweating, and yet men's bundles he is getting, he takes the greenbacks in. One man has got the trick of selling; he needs to do no frantic yelling to gather in the plunk; he just leans back, his system sunning; and all the people come a-running, to buy his blooming junk. The other fellow strives and labors to sell good plunder to his neighbors, and never gets the kale; he no scraps of business can he rake up; there's something lacking in his make-up, he cannot make a sale.

SLAUGHTER.

"We killed a thousand Germans," remarks the dauntless Russ; "this sort of thing determines the victory for us. We captured many rifles, a motor and a bomb, and other warlike trifles, which show we're going some." "As frolicsome as kittens we march into the fray, and slew ten thousand Britons," the fighting German says. Each day we read the story of death and all its works, of Frenchmen dead and gory, of desecrated Turks. The Russian and the Roman go forth to fight each morn; perhaps they shear the foe-man, and maybe they are shorn; the sum of all their striving is useless, empty, vain: The warriors survive in the yellow glare of those they've slain. Far better would be hoisting of fields of oats and rye, of corn ears fit for roasting, and pumpkins ripe for pie; of orchards nobly bearing, and gardens filled with greens, and hardy vines wearing a wealth of lima beans, of large green water melons grown in the fertile mud-but kings and kindred felons are not yet tired of blood.

the after marketing twenty-five head. He has almost 200 head of hogs of all ages. Ninety head were recently sold.

W. Carlson.

W. Carlson first commenced farming in this county in 1908, and a year later he began to operate the farm on which we found him at the time of this visit. The place comprises 320 acres and is located five and one-half miles west of town. It is the property of Nels Orcutt. Mr. Carlson is one who believes in feeding at least part of the grain to hogs and cattle. Last year he marketed seventy head of hogs and two cars of cattle, realizing a satisfactory profit on both. He is now tending 120 head of spring pigs besides about sixteen head of the old stock. The cattle on the place total fourteen head, although Mr. Carlson expects to buy more for feeding purposes. He divides the half section in this way: One hundred thirty acres of corn; eighty acres of oats, seventeen acres of alfalfa, forty acres of clover.

SAVIDGE COMPANY IS HAVING RECORD YEAR

Walter Savidge's Amusement company passed through Wayne Sunday on route to Emerson where it is filing an engagement this week...

The proprietor of the carnival company occupying our streets this week is a contradiction of the statement that a man is never appreciated in the locality where he is liked.

With a policy of square dealing and with an instinct for things that are clean Mr. Savidge has built himself up until he is recognized as one of the representative business men of this part of the state.

ORDER OF HEARING ON PETITION FOR APPOINTMENT OF ADMINISTRATOR

In the county court of Wayne county, Nebraska. State of Nebraska, county of Wayne, ss.

To the creditors, relatives and to all persons interested in the estate of Christopher E. H. Behn, deceased:

On reading the petition of Milo Kremke praying that the administration of said estate be granted to Milo Kremke as administrator, it is hereby ordered that you, and all persons interested in said estate, may and do, appear at the county court to be held in and for said county, on the 31st day of August, A. D. 1916, at 10 o'clock a. m., to show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the petitioner should not be granted and that notice of the hearing thereof be given to all persons interested in said matter by publishing a copy of this order in the Wayne Herald, a weekly newspaper printed in said county, for three successive weeks prior to said day of hearing.

Witness my hand, and seal of said court, this 8th day of August, A. D. 1916. JAMES BRITTON, County Judge.

Does Prohibition Reduce Crime? The Promise. Advocates of State PROHIBITION predict there will be fewer criminals in the penitentiary and fewer boys and girls in industrial schools and reformatories, in case the people of Nebraska wipe out their Local Option, High License Law and adopt State PROHIBITION.

The Actual Result SENTENCED INMATES OCTOBER 1, 1915. KANSAS NEBRASKA Penitentiary 830 326 Reformatory 330 None Boys' Industrial School 264 199 Girls' Industrial School 154 99 Total 1,578 624

The Alley Joint in Kansas

Warden J. K. Coddling of the Kansas penitentiary says that the "LITTLE ALLEY JOINT" in the cities of Kansas makes criminals. "After being in the penitentiary for three years and nine months (the average sentence served) the KANSAS BOY who has gone wrong walks out of the institution under parole... Cleaned, disciplined, reformed, he leaves the penitentiary walls behind him to return to his native city—the city that permitted him to become schooled in crime... He finds that... his native city, the city that spoiled him, hasn't reformed any. IT HAS THE SAME LITTLE ALLEY JOINT, the same rendezvous where some of the men and boys slip down after night to play poker and shoot craps... He resists it for a while, but the pull of the destructive fight of his native city is too much for him. He slips a little and keeps slipping, and some morning he wakes up after a debauch to find he has broken his parole..."

These are the conditions surrounding the men and boys of Kansas. Is it any wonder that the penal and correctional institutions in Kansas contain two and a half times as many inmates as do similar institutions in Nebraska?
