Ebony Colored Polled Angus Pure Bred Candidates for Prime Beef

Twenty Years of Successful Breeding

If you are interested in night-colored cattle rounded well with a quality that meets all demands of a late day fashion, commence right here with your reading and don't let up until you have finished. Maybe the writer will strike the truth every little while and make a few suggestions—that will be profitable to heed.

BRENNA AND BRENNIA AGAIN. The story of Brenna farm must commence with the history and ownership of "Brenna." It will be Brenna and Brennia again in the next few lines. Brenna Stock Farm, is in Brenna township, Wayne county, and is six and one-half miles south and three miles west from Wayne; nine miles north of Piller and eight miles southeast of Winside. It was first owned by Brenna township and Brenna farm were both named by F. E. Moses, father of the Moses Brothers, who paid fine tribute to his sister, Brenna, by making her the patronymic saintess.

HOW IT HAPPENED. Thirty-eight years ago Brenna farm had its origin in the town of Piller, Iowa. F. E. Moses, a professional man of a town of Union, Ohio, purchased the land, and when his son, F. E. Moses was twenty-one years of age he sent him to the country to take charge of the land that is now the Brenna Stock Farm. F. E. Moses is now retired from the business which is conducted by his sons, Halsey S. and Irving, under the firm name of Moses Brothers.

POLLED ABERDEEN ANGUS. Polled Aberdeen Angus is the technical term used by live stock writers, who put euphony into their proper nouns and freeze mouldings on their sentences. But plain Black Cattle is the term of the common people, and plain black cattle is the term that best suits this occasion. We are writing for the benefit of the common people. We are trying to tell the farmers of Wayne and surrounding counties something about Black Cattle as they have been bred for the last two hundred years. We want them to know that they are profitable cattle, easy keepers, fine lookers, heavy weavers, good sellers, and great meat producers. They are Scotch cattle and get their name from the counties of Angus and Aberdeen in Scotland, where they were originated. They are highly prized in Scotland for milk as well as meat, but here they are considered heavy and not milk workers. They are square, blocky, short-jegged, heavy-bodied, sleek-coated, hornless blacks, always looking like color and size. They are prize winners; they are made up of the best of the best of the best in the world. They have been to all the international stock shows and state fairs and have never failed to eclipse all the competing best strains. For beef, they wear most of the ribbons. They are a GOOD RUSTLER. It requires less feed to keep them than it does to keep through the winter months. In the west they run the range all weather and develop a hardness that defies blizzards and snowbanks. They are a

BLACK CATTLE INVOICE.

Count about 1000 and you will find that there are thirty or thirty-five of a well-bred black cow and each one of a well-bred black bull. If you are in the market for something silk in the cattle line, remember that there are something like twenty better, recorded yearlings in judgment of the calves, both bulls and heifers, and give you quantity from which to pick quality. Picked in the veins of this young stock is the blood of two famous families. The Tribe of Aberdeen reinforces the Erick and pays to progeny the twin tribute of blood and form, a better breeding, no better strain can be found in the Angus belt.

BLACK AND RED MEAN BLACK.

If you head a herd of red, shorthorn cows with a black Polled Angus bull, the gets will be sure to show up black, large, smooth, fancy-styled and you can seek in vain for horns. So here is the hornless strain in breeding and so strong is the Angus blood that the black makes breed their progeny without horns, and that is better than saving them off.

BORALMA 85747.

The most famous bull ever on the Brenna farm, and one of the most famous of his strain ever in the county was Boralma 85747. His weight a full ton, remarkable for smoothness, his hair dyed in the blackest hour of night, he was of the type that made the Angus popular. Elsewhere on this page Boralma stands on exhibition and the reader can for himself inspect his outline and be his own stock judge.

UNCLE WALT

The Poet Philosopher

CANDIDATES

I'd rather back a head of bristles than a ladder nine miles long that fuss around in politics. When summer heat is blazing strong: A candidate comes up to me, and hands me his little card: "I'm out for coroner," says he, "and need your vote, you know, for sure. Your influence I now beseech; I wish you'd boost me to your friends, and tell them all that I'm a peace-loving patriotic citizen." I'd rather shake a span of steers, or dig long trenches in the earth, than denigrate the people's ears a yarn about my sterling worth. I'd rather take a mop and swab the scuppers of a guano ship, than beg the voters for a job-and-of-my-shining-merits-yip. Of all treasons, horseless skulls we daily meet, at every vote, the buttonholing candidates are easily the rancid worst. How beautiful upon the hills, that member of the writing class, who hawks or waxes or tucks his tittles, and asks no help of any man!

HAPPY THOUGHT.

Just think of it—September's near! The summer days, that badly queer us, will soon be past and gone, and we'll look outdoors some less glorious morning and see a film of frost adorning the orchard and the lawn. September's coming, bless her gizzard, and later on come snow and blizzard, down from the arctic pole; and say to E. C. by glasses, "I wish I'd have to buckle down and labor to raise the price of coal. Let winter come, with roar and rumble!" It seems to me I'll never grumble again at wintry blast; it seems to me I'll hail with gladness the Bored whose madman madness has bored me in the past. The cold will be a welcome comer, for I have had my fill of summer, and dust and heat and flies, of torrid nights and sticky breezes, and prickly heat and bunk diseases, and ants, and broken skies. September's coming, gentle reader, the heat, that long has been a leader; will soon be on the wing; so let all sad and baking mortals cheer—up—and fill—their throats with cherries, and smile and dance and sing.

RETIRED FARMERS.

The husbandman, when yellow old, and well supplied with yellow gold remarks, "I'll quit the farm; I've had my fill of honest toil; this thing of wrestling with the soil has sort o' lost its charm." And so he buys a house in town, and thinks that he will settle down to soft and downy ease; but ere a year has gone his way he's yearning for the bays of hay, the pigsties and the bees. He finds the urban life a bore; his feet are cold, his soul is sore, his drag on leaden feet, so he resolves to tramp back and forth the alfalfa tracks, and stroke the bordered wheat. The farmer seldom learns to read; he is so busy sowing seed and weeding shepherds' crooks, and making hay in verdant vales, and coming bars from horses' tails, he has no time for books. So when all moves himself to town, he cannot with a tone sit down, and read the stuff that's hot; he cannot lose himself in Pope, or wallow deep in Shakespeare's dope, or soak up Walter Scott's "Crabapple"; no, man, indeed, who thinks it time of time to read, whose thoughts are all of hay, who'd rather mess around a churn than read a book by Laurence Sterne, or ode by Thomas Gray.

SUMMER FIGHTING.

The Germans and French, in the field and the trench, still brandish their red snickers; they slith at their feet, though the mercury shows it's up above ninety degrees. If I had to scrap all over the map, I'd surely be frightfully bored; I'd hate to be shot when the weather's hot, I'd hate to be sliced with a bayonet, I'd hate to be married to Miss Jessie Whitig to Roland H. James of Omaha. So large was the crowd in town Saturday afternoon that many of the farmers could not find places to sit in the tentorium. Mr. Thompson has opened a furniture store in the building which until recently was occupied by the Normal college. Key-Theobald has resigned his pastorate at the Baptist church, and has gone to Chicago to complete his theological course. G. P. Hitchcock and Prof. R. Durbin, manufacturers of tombstones and headstones, have made their headquarters at Wayne. A horse, which Charles Bruett was driving, ran away and threw the occupants out and smashed the buggy in had shape. Luckily no one was injured.

THE DEAD ONES.

We have grown up in the belief that all the geniuses are dead; the living writers—run to beet, instead of brains, within the head. We talk of Addison and Cicero, and grow excited over their names, and as we talk of them we feel that modern scribblers are false alarms. The other day, distraught and tired, I took Addison's book, and, hoping that I'd be inspired, I read it, in the inglenook. Oh, yes, he has a graceful style—as Goldsmith had, and all that bunch—but you must read about a mile before you come across a punch. And Joseph's thoughts were O. K., the output of a thoughtful dome; but he would preach for half a day, to drive one little lesson home. If I should make my screeds so long, you'd close your eyes and snore, or, if called, impelled by sense of wrong, you'd shoot me for a turd lord. I don't believe that he or Steele, or any other old time bard, could sell the stuff they used to reel, today and get five cents a yard.

THE MARY.

"My wife and seven daughters," said G. Augustus Grimes, "beside the briny waters are having gorgeous times. This climate is a hummer for fat meat and dust and flies, and so they'll spend the summer beneath more kindly skies." I said, "But why in Caniz are you thus left-behind? Why don't you join the faties, and drop the sea-god?" "For fat eating and dust and flies, some man must find the dimes, and so I hump for treasure," said G. Augustus Grimes. "I like to sweat and sweater, to give the girls a treat, and so I leave my shelter and go for fat eating and dust and flies, to earn an extra shilling, that they may have their fun; of course, I'm more than willing to keep them staked with money. My daughters all are peaches, my wife's a lollipop, and on the whole, beach life can may they have and win!" Oh, cheerful, many-martyrs, who deep their spindling feet, and toil like gravel carters, that girls may have a treat!

THE EARLY DAYS IN TWO COUNTIES.

From the Wayne Herald, August 25, 1892. Miss Mary Nangle entertained a few young ladies at tea. W. H. McNeal has purchased the F. L. Neely residence on Second Street. Frank Kays, a nephew of E. J. Baughan who lives north of town, passed away August 25, 1892. Miss Abigail Manning and Miss Annie Wallace have been engaged as teachers in the Carroll school. Mr. and Arthur Miller, accompanied by H. E. Mason, went to Des Moines to exhibit their herd of Red Polled cattle at the state fair.

They also showed the animals at the Nebraska fair. The market for August 25, 1892: Corn, 33 cents; wheat, 60 cents; oats, 24 cents; flax, 84 cents; hogs, $8.15.

Announcements have been issued showing the marriage of Miss Jessie Whitig to Roland H. James of Omaha.

So large was the crowd in town Saturday afternoon that many of the farmers could not find places to sit in the tentorium.

Mr. Thompson has opened a furniture store in the building which until recently was occupied by the Normal college.

Key-Theobald has resigned his pastorate at the Baptist church, and has gone to Chicago to complete his theological course.

G. P. Hitchcock and Prof. R. Durbin, manufacturers of tombstones and headstones, have made their headquarters at Wayne.

A horse, which Charles Bruett was driving, ran away and threw the occupants out and smashed the buggy in had shape. Luckily no one was injured.

From the Wayne Herald, August 25, 1892. A new $12,000 elevator has been built in Pierce.

A. W. Taylor has sold his jewelry store to C. S. Hayes of Norfolk.

The canning factory at Tekamah bought forty tons of corn in one day.

Robert Wilkins has been employed in Dr. Van Kamp's drug store.

B. J. Cass of LeMars, Ia., has purchased the drug store here.

E. C. Dearborn and Miss Kate Drum were married at Syracuse, N. Y., August 25, 1892.

A. B. Slater sold a quarter section of land to Mr. Sorberger and a half section to P. W. Oman.

It has been decided by the general synod of the Lutheran church to establish an academy in Wayne.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. E. Shaw, August 25, 1892.

From Ponca Journal, August 20, 1892. J. B. and A. E. Barnes started Tuesday morning on a hunting expedition in the southern part of the county. They will be back Friday, and in the interval will carry death and destruction to two unfortunate chickens that meet on their travels.

On the 9th of this month a man about 25 years old and sailing under the name of Elias Blank called at the bank of E. E. Husted and drew a draft for $50. The draft was on the Corbin Banking company and purporting to be signed by the Hardin county, Iowa, bank. On telegraphing to the officers of the Hardin county bank, Mr. Husted learned that the draft was issued any such draft and that the same was a forgery. In the meanwhile Elias Blank, having as soon as he got hold of the money, vanished from the scene of his labors and could not be found in Ponca. But by a diligent use of the telegraph it was soon learned that he was already in jail for a similar offense. It appears that from this place he went to Cherokee, Ia., and to the bank there, sold another forged draft for $50. Before he got out of town the forgery was discovered and he was nabbed. On being arrested he paid back the $50 and waiving examination, was committed, and for safe keeping sent to the jail in Sioux City where he now is. A few days ago his wife came from Cherokee to Ponca and paid to Mr. Husted the amount he had lost together with the expenses incurred. The man Blank is reported to have been a recently a resident of Illinois where he was a school teacher, a member of the church and generally an exemplary and desirable addition to society. He came west, fell in love with a girl, and was induced to go into the forgery business, that seeming to be an easy way to raise the wind. His short career in that line has, however, landed him in jail, and in a few weeks he will see his exploit, and probably be sent to the penitentiary for a term of years. Thus has he blackened his own life and disgraced his family forever. His own punishment is deserved and he will receive but little pity. His wife who is said to be a good woman and who has done all she could to pay the losses incurred by her husband's evil course, is entitled to sympathy.

Link Preston: "Mrs. Preston once admitted I was right in a matter of some importance, but she was so prejudiced that she wouldn't listen to me. She was so satisfied I was right that she wouldn't listen to me. Mrs. Preston now says: 'I'm always giving in to you!'"

FIFE REVIVAL WILL START IN TWO WEEKS

(Continued.) Evangelist Clyde Lee Fife who with his party will be in Wayne in a little more than two weeks, prefers to be called simply a "plain Kentucky preacher of the gospel," but since he is a native Kentuckian, you may imagine that he has all the fire and fervor and vigor and "pep" of a southerner. Although he has made the state of Indiana his home for a number of years, he never disclaims his native southernness, and it is his which contribute largely to his inexhaustible fund of homely wit, always at his command to carry a point or drive home a truth. The evangelist is an originative preacher and his sermons are strictly "Fife" sermons. He has the rare ability and the personality to reach all classes, without any of the objectionable features of style or diction of many so-called evangelists, and he uses no language that need be called in question by even the most fastidious "sawcify" folk. Rev. Fife makes it a point to be absolutely at home whenever he comes to a new place, and is always popular among business men and all who have opportunity to come in contact with him. By his genial manner, ready wit and southern hospitality, he creates an atmosphere that attracts men, and makes many friends. All the Fife brothers, in fact, these in number, as well as the rest of the party, are men whom it is a pleasure to know, and with whom acquaintance means friendship.

WHAT MR. HUGHES WILL DO

Omaha, Dec. Mr. Hughes' present tour is marked by one significant feature, the plain statement of a definite policy to be pursued when he becomes president. He has left no doubt as to his views on pertinent points of government, especially when being his pledges as to protection to be given Americans wherever they may be. His views on citizenship are frankly set forth, and are such as distinguish him as a patriotic citizen, with an intense devotion to the principles and ideals of our government. He has not at any time proposed to tear down, but to build up and develop. The policy of protection for American industries is a republican fundamental, and to it he stands committed. But he has made definite pledges on other points. One of them is that he will end "pork barrel" legislation. He will not tolerate such abuses of the civil service law as have been practiced under the present regime. It is of far more importance to know what he proposes to do than to discuss what he might have done. His record as governor of New York is a guaranty that he is not lacking in executive firmness or initiative. That he has carried out his promises in the past is warrant for thinking he will redeem the pledges he is now making. Roosevelt and Wilson have provided ample precedent for the president to proceed in putting a definite program through congress, and each pledge that Mr. Hughes makes will be redeemed.

Among the Producers of Wayne County....

By WARD RANDOL
Staff Representative of the Herald

D. C. Shannon.

Adjoining the corporation of Sholes is a plot of ground containing seventy-three acres, the property of John Shannon. The first of March this year D. C. Shannon reports that he is making a specialty of Poland China, thoroughbred hogs. At this time he has in the neighborhood of forty spring pigs in addition to a small bunch of old hogs. Forty were marketed at a high figure. After selling twenty head of choice cattle, Mr. Shannon has sixteen head left. They are milking five head of cows on this farm, but the work is lightened somewhat by selling the cream. The land is used for intensive farming. This year Mr. Shannon has twenty acres of corn and thirty-five acres of oats, leaving a few acres for pasture, building site, etc.

E. G. Evans.

At the extreme western limit of the county, fifteen miles west and one mile north of Wayne is a quarter section, jointly owned by Jones Brothers and E. A. Davis, which Evans reports as his crops for the year the following: Sixty-five acres corn and eighty-five acres of oats. The remaining ten acres, after taking out a small portion for the lots, is seeded to pasture. Mr. Evans has a small herd of hogs totaling fifty head of all ages. Seventy were marketed during the past season. Besides managing the farm operation Mr. Evans is a first-rate auctioneer and devotes much of his time during the winter months to that profession. Being a farmer himself, he has a wide understanding of stock and farm implements—an important asset to the man on the block.

W. A. Hurlbert.

Two years ago W. A. Hurlbert started farming for himself on a 140-acre strip of land, belonging to the Goddard estate. This farm is located thirteen miles west and seven miles north of Wayne. Sixty acres of corn and forty acres of oats are Mr. Hurlbert's leading crops for this year. There are thirty acres of alfalfa that will yield at least three heavy crops before the season is over. The balance of the acreage is in a good pasture. Although Mr. Hurlbert has been in the farming business for only a short time his operations show the snap and keenness which are sure to bring him success in a large measure.

Charles E. Heikes.

Charles E. Heikes has a location that is in itself very valuable. His 327-acre farm, joining the corporation of Wakefield, Mr. Heikes has lived on this place for thirty-two years and has built up a splendid reputation as a breeder of thoroughbred Duroc Jersey hogs. In fact he was the first man in his community to handle the Duroc Jerseys. He now has a splendid herd consisting of fifty head of spring pigs besides forty-five head of the old hogs. He sold ninety head not long ago. Mr. Heikes also feeds cattle on quite an extensive scale. He now has eighty-five head in the yards and expects to feed out at least three cars during the winter. In crops he reports the following: One hundred forty acres of corn, thirty-four acres of oats, twenty acres of wheat, thirty acres of alfalfa with the balance seeded to pasture.

James Hank.

James Hank is one of the progressive farmers in the vicinity of Concord. He owns 120 acres on one mile west and two miles south of town. His crops for the year were taken. Mr. Hank had threshed the crop from twenty-nine acres of oats which yielded a little better than sixty bushels per acre. He has thirty-five acres of corn, which he reports as being better than average. Twenty-five acres of his land are devoted to pasture. Mr. Hank specializes in the Poland China hogs, sixty-five growthy spring pigs that breed now being in the yards. One car each of cattle and hogs was secured during the past few months. The cattle on the place now total forty head.

A. L. Evans.

Nine miles west and seven miles north of Wayne is the 160-acre farm, operated by A. L. Evans. He owns one eighty and rents the other, comprising the quarter-section with fifty-five acres of corn, forty-five acres of oats, thirty acres of hay with the balance in a good pasture. He has good horses, and he now has eleven head of work horses that would sell at a fancy price. His hogs total about twenty head, fifty head having recently been sold. Just now he has only sixteen head of cattle. Mr. Evans has been farming this place for ten years, and has been a resident of this county thirty years.

F. G. Conyers.

F. G. Conyers has for the past three years managed the farm, and one-half mile west and seven miles north of Wayne. As he was reared on this place he is well acquainted with the qualities of the soil, the best methods of cultivation, etc. This year he reports seventy-three acres of corn and sixty-two acres of oats. The rest of the quarter is in pasture and hay. Mr. Conyers keeps four head of milk cows and sells the cream at a profit. The balance of the stock including eleven head of hogs and fifty spring pigs. Sixty head of hogs were recently sold.

T. M. Woods.

Another farm that shows years of thought and effort is that of T. M. Woods, who is the owner of a 240-acre ten miles west and four miles north of Wayne. The improvements include a house, 28x30, of recent construction; one barn, 24x28, and another 24x48 with a roomy shed for the hay. The balance of the land is in a good pasture. One car of fat cattle were shipped from the Woods farm during the past few months. At the time these data were collected there were twenty-five cattle in the yards, but Mr. Woods states that he will have more for the winter feeding. One hundred thirty head of spring pigs and forty head of the old stock show careful feeding and selection. Mr. Woods reported his crops as follows: One hundred twenty acres of corn, sixty-five acres of oats, thirty acres of alfalfa with the balance taken up with pasture and hay of different varieties.

J. C. Meink.

J. C. Meink owns an eighty-three miles west and six and one-half miles north of Wayne and one mile south of Sholes. Mr. Meink rents other land, making a total acreage of 300 acres. This furnishes the following crop schedule for the year: One hundred and ten acres of corn, 100 acres of oats, twenty acres of alfalfa forty acres of clover with the remaining thirty acres devoted to pasture, etc. The building spot on this farm is especially highly and well equipped with a good set of buildings. One hundred head of spring pigs are making rapid growth. Fifty head of the old stock were sold at a high figure. The cattle on the place total twenty head including a small dairy herd.

E. P. Owen.

It was just six years ago that E. P. Owen purchased a fine farm twelve miles west and six miles north of Wayne, but does not let the eye of an expert to detect the great amount of improving that has gone on during those six years. He sides taking care of the crops on 400 acres. Mr. Owen finds time to keep the yards and surroundings neat and attractive. He also deals in stock to quite an extent. His shipments for the past few months included one car of cattle and 100 head of hogs. He now has eighty-five head of cattle in the yards and 125 head of spring pigs besides the fifteen old ones. Mr. Owen has 150 acres of good looking corn, as can be found in the community. One hundred acres of oats had been harvested when this visit was made. There are thirty acres of alfalfa with the balance of the land devoted to pasture, hay, building site, etc.

J. M. Jackson.

D. C. Jackson this year rented his 100-acre farm to J. M. Jackson for the fifth time. This farm is located twelve miles west and five and one-half miles north of Wayne and a mile and a half south and one mile east of Sholes. Mr. Jackson is starting a herd of thoroughbred Guernsey cattle that is sure to be a profitable investment. There are fifty acres of corn on the Jackson farm, just half that amount of oats. The rest of the 100 acres are in pasture. As to hogs, Mr. Jackson has forty-five head of the spring stock, having recently marketed eighty-five head.

B. Craig.

B. Craig has lived in Dixon county for twenty-two years. A year ago he purchased an excellent eighty-two and one-half miles south of Concord and took possession of it last spring. His crops for the first year are: Forty acres of corn and thirty acres of oats. At the time this visit was made the oats were harvested, and Mr. Craig said they turned heavy and of good quality. The remaining acres of ground are in a good pasture, building site, etc. Mr. and Mrs. Craig are busy now planning a new bungalow. It is to be a structure 26x40. The other buildings are well adapted to the needs of the place, the hog house being 20x30 and the corn crib, 24x32. As to stock Mr. Craig has only about fifty head of hogs and just a few head of cattle. He expects to work into stock more as he gets better established on this place.

Roy E. Johnson.

This is the second year that Roy E. Johnson has been leasing 400 acres of land from Paul J. Hanson. It lies two miles east and eight miles north of Wayne, and is a place that has been well managed by a modern and built in accordance with the needs of the housekeeper on the farm. The barn is large and of a good type of construction. The other buildings are in good repair. Mr. Johnson likes to handle stock. During the past season he marketed a car and a half of each cattle and hogs. He now has on hand 140 head of spring pigs and fifty-three head of cattle. The crops for the year include 100 acres of corn and 100 acres of oats. Then there are forty-five acres of alfalfa almost ready for the third crop of the season. One of the best qualities of the farm is in a splendid pasture.

J. W. Fredrickson.

J. W. Fredrickson came to this county twelve years ago and immediately took possession of a two-mile south of Wakefield. At the present time the total acreage of the farm is 530 acres. The land is divided into the following crops: Two hundred twenty-five acres of corn, 100 acres of oats, thirty acres of wheat, twenty-five acres of hay. The remainder of the place is devoted to pasture. Last winter Mr. Fredrickson fed out three cars of cattle, and he now has more than eighty head in the yards. After marketing seventy-five head of hogs he has 115 head of the spring stock on hand. The barn is one of the best buildings on the place. It measures 36x50 and is especially convenient in arrangement.

J. L. Williams.

Thirteen miles west and one mile north of Wayne is a quarter section of land, belonging to Dr. J. L. Williams of Wayne, and rented by J. L. Williams. Mr. Williams devotes the major part of his time to grain raising, although the now has over a hundred head of hogs on the place. He recently sold one car of hogs and twelve head of cattle. Fifteen head of cattle are left in the yards. Mr. Williams has fifty acres of oats and sixty-five acres of corn, both of which crops produced exceptionally good yields. The acreage of alfalfa and alfalfa and the rest of the land is taken up with a small pasture, building site, grove, etc.

FARMERS UNION OF WAYNE COUNTY

located two miles west and one mile south of Winslow. This place, a quarter section, is the property of Fred Sonberg, who took possession of the farm five years ago. He feeds nearly all of his grain crop to hogs and cattle, thereby realizing a far greater profit than if he sold it for cash. Last season he finished sixty head of hogs and two cars of cattle for market. He now has fifty-three head of cattle in the yards and ninety head of spring pigs, in addition to the thirteen head of old hogs, on pasture. Six milk cows produce a weekly output of cream which is high. The barn on this place is 54x36 and accommodates a full tonnage of hay as well as all of the horses used in the farming operations. The crops on the Sonberg farm this year include the following: Forty-five acres of corn, fifty acres of oats, twenty-five acres of alfalfa with a considerable acreage for pasture and hay.

William Harrison.

William Harrison, who came to this county thirty-two years ago, has witnessed the wonderful development along agricultural lines. He has also acquired a full section of some of the county's most desirable land. The building site is located one mile east and six miles south of Wakefield. Neither money nor thought has been spared to make this an attractive home. The house, 38x50, is modern throughout, and the building site is laid out in simple lines. The cattle barn is 38x60 and the horse barn, 48x60. Not much attention is given to hogs on this farm but there are eighty head of stock cattle in the yards. Forty head were marketed at a good profit, although Mr. Harrison has very little of the actual farming himself, he oversees the general operations. He reports the following crops: Two hundred seventy acres of corn, 120 acres of oats, fifty acres of alfalfa with the balance in pasture and hay.

Otto Boock.

Hans Mumm rents his eighty-acre farm, three miles west and one mile north of Wayne to Otto Boock, who this year has the land divided in the following crops: Thirty acres of corn, twelve acres of oats, eight acres of alfalfa, ten acres of hay with the rest in a good pasture. In the way of stock he has thirty-eight head of spring pigs of a good stocky kind. Forty head of old hogs were recently sold. In the yards are twenty-seven head of cattle, including a few head of cows of a splendid milk producing strain.

William Brueckner.

William Brueckner is one of the early settlers in the Hoskins neighborhood. He came to this county thirty-one years ago and has been on the farm he now operates, three and one-half miles east and one and one-half miles south of Hoskins, for twenty-seven years. This place now comprises a full half section, giving the following crop acreage for the year: One hundred acres corn, 100 acres oats, fifteen acres of barley, sixteen acres of alfalfa, ten acres of hay with the balance of the place in pasture. Mr. Brueckner has his place well equipped for handling grain and feeding live stock. The barn is 34x48, and the corn crib measures 48x28. A hog house, 40x20, was recently constructed. Forty head of old hogs and 150 head of the spring stock are running on grass. Seventy-five head of hogs were the total number shipped last season. Mr. Brueckner now has about thirty head of cattle in the yards to be fed out a little later in the season.

Abram Gildersleeve.

For six consecutive years Abram Gildersleeve has been the tenant on a 160-acre farm, the property of Charles Gildersleeve. It is located two miles east and seven miles south of town. In addition to the sixty acres of corn which give prospects for an unprecedented yield, there was an exceptionally good piece of oats this year. The threshing had been completed at the time of this visit and 1,750 bushels of fine quality oats was the total crop. The remaining forty acres of the farm are seeded to pasture. Mr. Gildersleeve deals in both hogs and cattle. He reported 115 head of spring pigs and twenty-two head of the old stock. One hundred head of fat hogs and seventy-eight head of cattle comprised the amount of stock finished on this farm during the past year. Forty head of cattle were in the yards being fed for the early fall market.

H. C. Prince.

Another stockman in the Winslow vicinity who has a herd with an unquestioned reputation is H. C. Prince, who carries on his operations on a quarter section, located two miles west and one mile north of town. He has eighty-five head of registered Shorthorns that are beauties. Twenty head were sold at a private sale during the past season. The prices also milk on the average of fifteen cows, which produce approximately 250 pounds of butter per month. As to hogs, Mr. Prince had seventy head of spring pigs and twenty old hogs on hand at the time of this visit. One car had been shipped. Reserving thirty acres for alfalfa and about fifty acres for pasture, Mr. Prince reports his grain crop as forty acres corn and fourteen acres oats. The improvements on this place are of substantial and arranged with an eye to convenience and attractiveness.

Hans Petersen.

Hans Petersen has been operating a farm, two and one-half miles east and one mile north of Winslow, very successfully for the past two years. This place, which includes 160 acres, is the property of William Petersen, and is well improved. Mr. Petersen reports that he has eighty-five head of registered Shorthorns that are beauties. Twenty head were sold at a private sale during the past season. The prices also milk on the average of fifteen cows, which produce approximately 250 pounds of butter per month. As to hogs, Mr. Petersen had seventy head of spring pigs and twenty old hogs on hand at the time of this visit. One car had been shipped. Reserving thirty acres for alfalfa and about fifty acres for pasture, Mr. Petersen reports his grain crop as forty acres corn and fourteen acres oats. The improvements on this place are of substantial and arranged with an eye to convenience and attractiveness.

would probably put in some more feeders, before winter. The crop schedule on this farm for the year is as follows: Seventy acres corn, thirty-five acres oats, thirty acres clover, ten acres alfalfa, with the balance devoted to pasture and hay.

Paul Spitzberger, a real native of Wayne county is Paul Spitzberger for he was born and reared within its limits, and is now entering on the thirty-sixth year of his residence on the home place upon which his father settled in early days. This excellent farm is located nine miles south and two miles east of Wayne and is within a mile of a good school and a thriving rural church. Two hundred and forty acres are included in this farm and the acreage is further increased by leasing thirty acres of the surrounding land. As Mr. Spitzberger feeds a good many cattle each year he devotes over 100 acres to hay and pasture. There are ten acres of red clover, twenty acres of alfalfa, thirty acres of sweet clover, besides thirty acres of other hay and a big stretch of pasture. Mr. Spitzberger feels

CHEERFUL WORDS

For Many a Wayne Householder.

To have the pains and aches of a band back removed—to be entirely free from annoying, dangerous urinary disorders, is enough to make any kidney sufferer grateful. The following advice of one who has suffered will prove helpful to hundreds of Wayne readers.

Mrs. Jos. Schmalzer, Wayne, gave the following statement in August 1910: "I was troubled more or less all the time by a dull, heavy ache through my kidneys. I also had terrible headaches and dizzy spells. The kidney secretions were profuse and deposited sediment. My kidneys and drove away from me. My back and the head-aches left too, and my system in general was strengthened."

On July 15, 1916, Mrs. Schmalzer said: "I am still troubled with the Doan's Kidney Pills. When even I have any kidney disorder I get them at Feller's Pharmacy. They drive away the trouble."

Just the Thing for Diarrhoea.

"About two years ago I had a severe attack of diarrhoea which lasted over a week," writes W. C. Jones, Buford, N. D. "I became so weak that I could not stand upright. A druggist recommended Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. The first dose relieved me and within two days I was as well as ever." Many druggists recommend Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy because they know that it is reliable. Obtainable everywhere.—Adv.

GOSSIP OF WORK.

"Work which is the most delightful function of our being, and achievement, when it is the reward of effort, is used by adults as a method of punishment and as illustration of the burdens of life," says the Lincoln News. "Idleness, aimless gossip, amusement release from study or from efforts, are employed as rewards for those children who will consent to perform some of the tasks of life and duty. Is it surprising that those tasks should appear hard and disagreeable? The great need in the boy world is to popularize work, and achievement—to popularize fraternalism in its practical aspects—as men and women do. Popularize the Sunday school and boys will delight in it. Offer things to boys in a bigger way, put them in big games, that carry responsibility. A man who has had the direction of a thousand boys in a boy city, says they more nearly approach perfection in morals and discipline than did the members of a nearby camp of twenty boys overseen by two men, who considered it their duty to guard and watch over the boys and boss them around. He is continually amazed at the small, rather the large number of boys who go strong" according to our grown-up standards of conduct.

A GROWING CANDIDATE.

Freemont Tribune: The campaign house made by W. P. Warner for Congress in this district is giving him the enthusiastic support of the entire republican party. He is impressing himself upon the people of the district as a man of force and character and one who will bring the needed credit to the district in the way of office representation at Washington. There are no frills about him, but he is a big, bluff, hearty, strong man who is well regarded in the party faith and has the courage to assert his beliefs at all times and without equivocation or evasion. Under the circumstances it would be difficult for the Tribune to urge the candidacy of any one without reservation, for it has the sense to select with Mr. Warner's representing the present member of congress. But it knows well the high qualities of the republican candidate and it is free to state that he fits the bill, that republicans will find in him a man who will satisfy their demands for a member of congress, and so has no hesitancy in recommending him as such. We believe his appearance here at the county convention impressed the truth in him. His appearance here and his campaigning elsewhere during the fight now in progress will emphasize the truth of what we have frequently said of him. It must be remembered in this connection that the necessity of a change in administration at Washington in order to reestablish prestige lost during the past three years and to give the country a really capable and thoroughly American administration carries with it the need of choosing a congress to reinforce and carry out the policies of Charles Evans Hughes.

WINSIDE.

Miss Margaret Forbe of the Herald staff is editor of this department, and every Wednesday news contributions to these columns from town or country will be gladly received by her. This is authorized to receive news of new or renewal subscriptions.

Table with 2 columns: Item and Price. Includes Hogs, Wheat, Oats, Butter, Eggs, Springs, Hens, Old Roasters.

To Keep Winside Dry.

For many years the streets of Winside and its beautiful park have been flooded at every heavy rain. This year, however, the town has found ready access to basements and cellars. But that will not be the case in the future for the town council has ordered an immense concrete to be laid on the streets, which will send water into the creek just west of the railroad track. This five-foot pipe, which comes in four-foot sections, has been delivered in Winside, and the Norfolk Bridge and Construction company is digging the ditch preparatory to putting the sections in place. One hundred and four feet of this reinforced concrete pipe will be laid at a cost of eight dollars per linear foot. At the upper end of the pipe, which will extend just a few feet north on the alley west of Dr. B. M. McIntyre's office, an abutment and an ornamental concrete rail will be built. The lower end of the construction will join the culvert recently put in by the railroad company. The foreman expects to have the work completed some time next week. Winside people will certainly appreciate having some of the moisture thus disposed of in the future.

Joint Picnic.

Last Friday afternoon the local chapter of O. E. S. and A. F. & A. M. were hosts to the Wayne and Carroll chapters at a picnic held in the Frank Mettlen home in Wayne town. The big hotk supper was a fitting climax to the pleasant occasion.

Cleaning Standpipe.

The middle of last week a crew of men from the V. and G. began the work of cleaning and repairing the standpipe. A new cork and cover will be placed over the tank.
