The man who persists in level-dealing, in unquestioning good faith and generosity of friendship, is bound to run against disappointment. In gratitude and treachery are realities and he will taste their bitterness early in life.

CHURCH CALENDAR

Presbyterian Church.
(Rev. S. X. Cross, Pastor)

Let all bend every energy toward a successful start for the Big Five evangelistic meetings which will start next Sunday. The tabernacle is ready; the Five are ready; if the rest of us get into the same condition, there can be no such thing as failure.

There will be the regular Sunday morning service at this church. The theme of the sermon will be: "The Measure of My Days." There will be a special service of music under the direction of Mrs. W. E. Johnson, chorister.—You are invited to these services.

Let us co-operate to help in every way that we can and at all times in the fight for temperance reform. If the church folks will inform themselves and you as they know it they should, the saloon will go this fall. It rests with the christians of Nebraska to vote Nebraska dry.

Dr. Frank E. Rankin has been asked to lead the Y. P. S. C. E. meeting next Sunday evening. The hour of meeting has not yet been decided upon. The topic will be

WAKEFIELD.

Miss Margaret Forbes of the Herald staff is editor of third-partment, and will visit Wakefield every Tuesday. Any news contributions to these columns from town or country will be gladly received by her. She is also authorized to receive new or renewal subscriptions.

School Brevities. A large electric light has been placed just above the main entrance of the school building. A ruling was made at the last board meeting that of Wakefield mark from all the grades at 75 per cent instead of 70 per cent.

Sup. G. S. Harrison reports thirty percent increase in the high school. Their tuition fees aggregate $1,980 income for the district.

The high school faculty and the students in the high school room hiked to the grove a mile east of town last Thursday evening and set a new record for the year. This was the first "mixture" of this year and was a pleasant occasion for all. Following is a list of Wakefield students expected to enter college this fall: Miss Olive Aistrop, Morningstar; Miss Marjorie Beebe, Jones; Eugene Oberholt, Bellevue; Robert Johnson, State Agricultural school; Miss Nancy Nyberg and Marino Wallin, Wayne Normal.

Mader-Hinnerichs. Miss Nellie Hinnerichs, daughter of Mrs. Charles Hinnerichs and Adam Mader went to Sioux City Wednesday morning and was married to her betrothed at that place after noon. Mr. and Mrs. Mader returned to Wakefield in the evening and were tendered a reception by the bride's mother at her home.

Anderson-Denny. At 8 o'clock this evening at the home of the bride's mother in Wakefield took place the marriage of Miss Nona Denny to Ruford Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Anderson of this place. Before a small company of relatives and friends Rev. S. B. King of the Presbyterian church presided at the ceremony and presented the happy couple for congratulations. An excellent wedding supper was enjoyed later in the evening.

Pre-Nuptial Shower. A miscellaneous shower was given last Friday evening at the Nick Larson home in honor of Miss Nona Denny, whose marriage was solemnized last evening. Eighteen of Miss Denny's friends gathered at the Larson home and gave her a genuine surprise. The bride was delighted with the many useful gifts. At about four o'clock Larson served delicious refreshments to the girls.

For Mrs. David Warren. Mrs. E. J. Fleetwood entertained a company of twelve ladies Tuesday afternoon in honor of Mrs. David Warren of Turlock, Calif., who had been visiting her parents here and Mrs. J. A. Seagren and other relatives in the Wakefield vicinity. The hours were spent in a social way. The hostess served a very nice two-course luncheon during the afternoon.

Big Crowd at Concert. An exceptionally large crowd was on hand Wednesday evening to enjoy the band concert and the forum address. Leonard Fleetwood of Lincoln, an interesting speaker, talked on prohibition. Six more such programs will be given this fall and a good speaker has been secured for each evening.

Meeting Friday. Eight members and several guests of the Christian church met last Friday afternoon with Mrs. M. L. Weaver for their regular monthly social. An interesting program the hostess served very nice refreshments. The next meeting will be with Mrs. C. E. Baker.

Birth Record. A daughter was born Saturday, September 2, to Mr. and Mrs. Ed Averman, who live near Concord. A son was born Tuesday, September 5, to Mr. and Mrs. Holm, who live on the reservation.

Miss Levi Davis left Wednesday for Lincoln to attend the state fair. An interesting program the hostess served very nice refreshments. The next meeting will be with Mrs. C. E. Baker.

CARROLL.

Miss Margaret Forbes of the Herald staff is editor of this department, and will visit Carroll every Tuesday. Any news contributions to these columns from town or country will be gladly received by her. She is also authorized to receive new or renewal subscriptions.

School Notes. The senior class has an enrollment of eleven to date. The Carroll schools opened Monday with an enrollment of 154, fifty-one of whom are in the high school. Every seat in the assembly room is taken and more have been ordered.

At the beginning of the year we want to extend to all parents and friends a hearty welcome to visit the school. It is your school, and your children are going to manifest a greater interest when they know you are interested. It is the best plan when visiting a room to enter quietly; seat yourself, remain as long as you wish, and leave quietly. Raising objections to teachers' attention and breaks into her work. We shall appreciate it if you use this method.

We should like the cooperation of the parents in not allowing the children to go to school before 8:30 o'clock. In the wealthy country pupils will be admitted upon arrival, but we feel that it is not necessary for others to be here before 9:00, unless it has been previously arranged with the teacher. This is a little matter, but it will make it easier for us if we have your support.

Old Settlers Picnic. Since the unfavorable weather somewhat delayed the program to July 4 and consequently crowded out altogether the session of the Old Settlers' association, it has been decided to set another picnic for such a meeting. The Carroll men have been busy making the necessary arrangements for a big time on September 17, at the Shannon house, which joint the town corporation on the north. An excellent program is being planned. The Carroll band will furnish music for the day, and Rev. W. L. Gaston of Wayne, will deliver a lecture. And, of course, a big picnic dinner will be another feature of interest to everybody. A business meeting of the association will be held in the afternoon.

Moving in Carroll. Several families have shifted their places of residence during the week. Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Perrin of Wayne have moved into the Ed Trautwein house. Mr. Perrin is working at the carpenter trade with N. P. Christensen. Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Baker house, which was vacated when Harry Jensen and family moved to Wynide. Mrs. B. H. Jensen is teaching in the country school just east of town, has taken possession of the house vacated by Lovis, a family from Iowa will move into the Hancock house which is now the property of Robert Pritchard.

To Cheyenne County. Quite a delegation of Carroll people left by auto early yesterday morning to look over the land prospects in Cheyenne county. The first stop was at Sidney, where several Carroll families have already located. Among those in the party are the Rev. B. B. Y. U. and Mrs. Edward Morris, Ellis Morris, William Morris and family, Mr. and Mrs. John Davis, and Mrs. J. P. Thomas. Miss Anna Hughes, W. B. James, Albert Jenkins and Mr. and Mrs. Frank James.

Baptist Church Notes. Sunday school 10 a. m. W. L. McBride, Superintendent. Morning service 8 a. m. B. Y. U. at 7 p. m. Rev. D. P. Davis will occupy the pulpit morning and evening.

Meeting Today. The ladies of the W. C. T. U. are enjoying a meeting this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Thomas Sylvanus. An excellent program has been arranged.

At Welch Church. Rev. M. Jones of Portland, Ore., occupied the pulpit in the Welch Congregational church at Welch this morning and evening services last Sunday. While here Rev. Jones was a guest of his nephew, John R. Morris, and other relatives who had returned to Welch from Red Oak, Ia., where he will deliver a lecture Friday evening.

H. J. MINER'S FAIRVIEW STOCK FARM

ONE MILE SOUTH OF WAYNE

The Family History of Bates Strain Shorthorns and Polled Durhams. Famous Milkers, Marbled Beef, Young Poland Chinas in Quality and Quantity. Silver King Strain of Silver Laced Wyandottes

HERE IS GOOD ENGLISH.

Here is a story in "Good English" an array of picture-English in English form exhibited in a lot and barnyard. This is no reference to language. We are not bragging about thoroughbred words or improved Saxon constructions. Blunder paragraphs crossed with imported adjectives are all right in their place, but in this instance the "Good English" of the first line rears to the English strain of Bates Shorthorns and Polleds that H. J. Miner can show you when you call at his farm to inspect the Bates type of milk and beef producers.

ONE MILE SOUTH OF WAYNE

Mr. Miner has an ideal location and a splendid farm just one mile south of Wayne, on the west side of the road. This is the original and only "Fair View Stock Farm" in the county. Mr. Miner has paid his farm name fee and has the name recorded to his credit. He has here, two hundred fine acres of land, improved with houses and sheds, and grove and everything else that contributes to the happiness and profit of farm life. Ten years ago he bought the place about thirty and has since transformed it from a renter's stopping place to a well improved fine stock farm and country home.

Mr. and Mrs. Miner are very excellent, intelligent people, popular alike with country and townspeople. The spirit of their ten years of toil and management is everywhere apparent as soon as you drive on the place. Everything is in good shape, machinery, stock, and stock sheltered, yards clean, and method written everywhere in big letters. We are in this column, however, to write about cattle, hogs and poultry and the fine blood of all varieties that flows in major strains on the Miner farm.

HE LIKES THE BATES STRAIN BEST

You will not get out to the cattle yard before Mr. Miner will tell you that he breeds largely to the Bates strain of Shorthorns and Polled Durhams and likes them best. He is an intelligent reader of stock and farm literature and is therefore entitled to an opinion. He knows a pedigree when he sees it and has the history of all the great families on tap at all times. He knows the foundation work of the Booths, Bates, Mason, Spencer, Whitaker and others. He knows, Cruttschank strains, and if he elects to be a disciple of Bates it is because he believes that Thomas Bates bred in England a better type for milk and beef than Amos Cruttschank bred in Scotland. He admits, as all must admit, that the Cruttschank type are fine milkers, and great producers of finely marbled beef, but milk as well as beef is one of the things for which he is breeding. He is rivaling to the conviction that on the average farm, a great milker and a great meat producer combined in one makes the most profitable animal.

A FINE YOUNG HERD OF THE BATES BLOODS

The writer is free to admit that he found in the Fair View yard of Durham fashions that he had expected and he doubts if the neighbors and stockmen of Wayne at the time, long ago, knew the quality of this young herd of the bloods. Every individual is in prime condition and wouldn't need ten days' preparation for the prize ring. There are both Shorthorns and Polled Durhams, both reds and roans. The breeding on this place is toward the marbled strains. Horns have their value, but Polled Durhams are very popular. If you don't want horns bred them off. A line on the polled line is a better debtor than an axe or saw.

THE JEWS AND ISRAELITES

A word here about the Polleds as Shorthorns, but all Shorthorns are not Polleds. All Jews are Israelites, but all Israelites are not Jews. Polled cattle of the Durham line are bred out from the Shorthorns and if they are eligible to registration they must first be listed in the Shorthorn registry and then and only then can they be registered as Polled Durham purebreds.

IS AN INDEPENDENT BREEDER

We are inclined to style Mr. Miner as an independent breeder. The line must be fashionable, the breeding correct, but all emphasis is placed on individual quality. Every individual must have quality of its own. Nothing stands on its pedigree alone. He knows what he wants and he breeds to get it. He commenced with the finest types he could procure and he has bred up into color and form until one could hardly find a classier small herd. Do you like "red hair"? Do you like big broad backs, deep bodies, thick-fleshed quarters, flat-topped shoulders, straight legs, wide chests, big addered milk types? Mr. Miner has them right here and every big cow in the yard shares to a remarkable extent these qualities. Some are roans, with red and white "pie'd" bodies tapering well to red necks. Roan or red, we have given correct descriptions.

THE BEGINNING OF FINE BLOOD

The beginning was in a small way. The first registered cow brought to the place was Florence Knightly, a well formed, classy Shorthorn, not far removed from the red-lined dam, Lady Florence Fifth. The first bull was Good Bay Bronson, a fine-haired red Shorthorn that weighed in fair flesh two thousand one hundred and sixty pounds. The second bull named Bud's Best was a roan sired by Bud's White, a prize winner him in another column. He is a junior two-year-old and will weigh at least sixteen hundred pounds, king modeled, straight back, beef built

Both Mr. and Mrs. Miner are very excellent, intelligent people, popular alike with country and townspeople. The spirit of their ten years of toil and management is everywhere apparent as soon as you drive on the place. Everything is in good shape, machinery, stock, and stock sheltered, yards clean, and method written everywhere in big letters. We are in this column, however, to write about cattle, hogs and poultry and the fine blood of all varieties that flows in major strains on the Miner farm.

CONFESSOR'S SULTAN

away as California and Oregon."

Confessor's Sultan gets his Choice Goods blood in this way: Queen of Goods, dam of Select Goods, was sired by Golden Goods and Golden Goods is out of imported Choice Goods. Howell Kee's great Shorthorn bull, Rub-cra Goods, is a half brother of Queen of Goods. Golden Goods is considered, by many, the best son of Imported Choice Goods.

Here is a milk strain Scotchtop blended with Bates milk strains on the dam's side and they are showing a fine sample of calves. Confessor's Sultan has two numbers 418741 Shorthorn and 11701 Polled.

SOME FASHIONABLE DAMS.

Here are a few names from the family roster of the Fair View Stock Farm.

FLORENCE, ANZONETTIA, MARIAN

These three cows trace quickly back to the red line of imported

COUPLE OF MILKERS OF THE YOUNG MARY FAMILY

at the Chicago International Stock Show. These bulls furnished the foundation blood for the Miner herd and have left their traces on all the young stock.

POLLED BULLS COME NEXT.

The next bull that headed the Fair View herd was a double numbered Polled Durham, registered in the American Shorthorn association as number 387020 and in the Polled Durham Breeders' association as X10084. He was named Empbor, a name that portrayed his class. He was bred by A. A. Myers of Albion, Ia. He was a so-called double decker, a blended strain of milk and beef. We stop here, long enough to say that the Nebraska farmer who runs to double deckers makes no mistake.

CONFESSOR'S SULTAN, CHOICE GOODS

The master sire at the herd head is a miracle in roan. We are presenting and milk bred. He is well colored, smooth polled, and has proven himself by his spring gets, a producer of his kind. He was sired by Select Goods and Select Goods is by the Confessor. The Confessor was one of the greatest Durham bulls ever bred. He sold for $4,000 and was exported to Buenos Ayres, S. A.

Here is an excerpt from a very interesting letter written by Albert Hultine of Saroville, Neb., who bred Confessor's Sultan:

"The demand for Polled Durhams is growing. I have never had as many inquiries as I have had in the past few months. I have recently sold fourteen bulls, four of them going to Texas. I had a letter from the man who bought them and he said that Governor Ferguson of Texas had been to see them, in many parts of Texas Polled Durhams are considered a new breed. I have had inquiries from as far Florence Knightly Fifth and are a credit to the Knightly family. All three are high grade milkers.

LADY L, LADY MARY

These two trace back to Young Mary, an imported dam, that launches the Mary family in America. These are fine milkers. Lady L tests four per cent butter fat.

BESSIE, ROAN BESS

These two belong to the Mrs. Miner family and are deep-colored, rich milkers. Bessie tests five per cent butter fat. I guess that is some rich milk.

LADY

Lady traces back to Strawberry Fifth, a fine family of milkers and breeders. She is herself the dam of a fancy calf, red and Polled, that is good enough to show anywhere.

FLORENCE HEIR.

Florence Heir traces back a few generations and writes Imported True Love on the family line.

SOME SMOOTH YOUNG STUFF

In this paragraph we write the names of some of our young stock, such as Florence Knightly Second, Beth and Marian's Bale, all polled and as smooth as they breed them. You had there is a silver show in Wayne. There are other fancy beef calves that are not yet named or recorded. Please step around where you can notice that there are some fine young bulls in this bunch, two of them Shorthorned, half the rest Polled. All in prime condition and all from dams that are heavy milkers. One is out of the four per cent butter cow.

We have not described these calves. We cannot do it. It cannot be done. It will take more ductile phrases and somersaulting figures than we can muster to do it. We certainly have not exaggerated this herd nor any member of it. We have tried our best to say that it is good, in every way, and very profitable stock to raise and very profitable to buy.

AND NOW THE HOGS—THE HOGS, THE FINE YOUNG HOGS

Young Gifts and Boars. Thoroughbreds and High Grades, Thrive on Alfalfa and Miner's Ration of Oats and Shorts, Soaked Corn and Oil Meal.

Mr. Miner is not posing as a hog breeder of fancy types, but he is a practical breeder of average producers, notwithstanding. He has the Poland Chinas that stand up with lots of daylight under them and long bodies cut after the Dutchdoan pattern.

WHEN MINER CALLS HIS HOGS

If you want to see a thrifty bunch of young porkers that carry an appetite in both side pockets, a producer that can put on a genuine performance, you want to be up at the feed troughs in the corner of the pasture when Mr. Miner gives the call and makes his appearance with the feed and slop. One hundred and fifty four came up on one side of the fence and jumped the call and made the dance. Fifty-six May pigs showed up on the other side of the fence and put on a side show of their own. It was interesting to note how keen and vigorous and active they were. They are clean and smooth and remarkably even. No nuns in the bunch, all same height, all same length, all same color, all same disposition, all same appetite, and when the meal was served all were candidates for the first table.

A FINELY BALANCED RATION

Mr. Miner has a ration of his own compilation that consists of oats, oil meal, soaked corn, shorts all mixed together and this keeps them in fine trim. These are not all silver-bred Polands. Some of them are only grades. But they are high grades, fast growers, and heavy weathers and good eaters when matured. They are all out of the finest kind of pure bred boars that can be found in the prize rings of the Great State fair at Sioux City and these mammoth type males bred to some fine registered dams produced the pure bred part of the herd. The ear tagged boars are pure-bred and eligible to a number and title line in Poland China records.

There are several fine young males that have a history as well as a pedigree of their own. Point out an ear-tagged shoat and Mr. Miner will tell you all about its ancestral line and the honest enough to tell whether or not it comes of a large litter. Farmers do not buy a boar out of a three-pig litter. Breed for produce as well as any other. If you want a male to head your pens next year it will be worth while to look after some of these scions.

MRS. MINER RAISES SILVER LACED WYANDOTTES

Thoroughbred Poultry, Winter Eggs, a Specialty.

Chickens, gaily feathered chickens of the Silver Laced Wyandotte variety, are to be seen everywhere you look. Mrs. Miner has made a fine success of her chickens. She has been six years breeding the present stock and has the Silver King strain splendidly developed. Mrs. Miner thinks that they are excellent table fowls and for winter layers hard to beat. In the winter time is when you want eggs, and if you have a strain that will put off their summer laying until winter they are certainly money makers.

A "ROUNDUP" IN THE PASTURE

THE WAYNE HERALD

Arbitration as a means of settling disputes is so eminently fair to both sides that refusal to accept it suggests weakness of the cause for which support is sought.

The Lincoln Journal suggests that a "grim humor" in the effort of a president who works eighteen hours a day to pass a law fixing an eight-hour day for railroad employees.

A man's soul is not overly large if it thinks only of itself. If it cannot consider the comfort and welfare of other people, his spiritual energy—it has any—needs to be regenerated.

The calling off of the threatened railroad strike was a source of great relief to the public which was being suffered and weighed a decision of even a brief tie-up of transportation lines. Now the government should take in hand the problem of providing service in the face of the possibility of such menace to the public comfort and welfare in the future.

The W. C. T. U. of Dixon county, in convention, passed a resolution asking the newspapers to refrain from publishing anything that would injure the Nebraska Prosperity League. We would suggest to the union the advisability of getting busy with pure social work and avoiding a manner than trying to choke down readers of presenting the opposing side of a public issue.

Hartington Herald: The editor of the Wayne Herald makes some interesting comments on the various faces one sees around the depot. He says that the most common is the look of anxiety and pain in her face, the old man with corn crop like who has a care-free expression, the young woman who is always ready to have designs on a marriageable young man and others, but he fails to mention the wicked, crafty, hypocritical face of the subscriber who is seven years in arrears and is just taking the train for distant parts.

Wayne is worth considering as an example in support of the movement to banish the open saloon. If liquor finds its way beyond the cuspidor, the saloon is not a saloon if it is not a place where the spirit of the law is indulged in here, it is not done under the public view. No one would wonder at the breeze of the business district or flaunts an enticing invitation to passersby. No one is seen zigzagging about an enticing sign or the spirits thrashing around under his portemonnaie. No woman or child here, no one in the street, but through fear of meeting a maudlin mutterer whose feet are trying to go one way and his head another, Wayne is a place to suggest that, with order and decency, and may well be offered in evidence.

Hartington Herald: Editor Huse of the Wayne Herald hopes that he may not share the fate of the Scorpion and be burned at the stake on account of his heretical views on certain questions, but he undoubtedly desires to be, and will be if he persists in his wicked course. A man who will oppose tabernacle meetings and then follow up with this inquiry with the question "Is it safe for the Nebraska Prosperity League ought to be put to death without delay. Also, we have a suspicion that Huse is not so good and kind as he seems to be, but a vicious statement and future punishment, and being, on the whole, an all-round bad and dangerous man in the community. He suggests that the ceremony of burning him at the stake or on the courthouse steps be pulled off as soon as possible.

The Blair Pilot in reproducing editorial comment from the Herald, says what we deem the highest possible compliment to this editor by saying he "is actuated by as fine a sense of honor as any man we have met." We could not do this without a satisfying reference. We hope such confidence is not misplaced: Anyway, it gives basis for emphasis along a line which is too little centered and esteemed. If we were brilliant, but lacked integrity, no people would say: "Smart enough, but he's crooked, insincere, and non-dependable." If we were rich, but neither brilliant nor honorable, people could say: "Great success, but of principle, besides being a dupe." Not overly stockied with intelligence or riches, people will still say, "True." But he is a man of honor!

What he says he means, and what he says he will do. "While we would like both brilliance and a reasonable share of wealth, we would rank above either an opportunity for honor which needs no apology by friends or posterity.

The repeated jumps in the cost of print paper has forced the Herald to somewhat increase its advertising rates. Under a contract which expired in June, the Herald paid $34 a ton for print paper. The price advanced to $39 in August and in August and $130 in September. What the price will leap to next, we don't know, though we have strong suspicions. Mr. Huse says the advance is justified. "The more the paper situation is investigated, the higher prices go. An increase seems to be the answer to the question. But the Herald's advertising rates have always been far below and are still somewhat below the rates of other publications in the state, and the service rendered manifestly warrants the moderate rate. We could no longer possibly agree with a merchant could sell goods at below cost. The Herald has omitted a lot of matter the last few weeks to avoid publishing sixteen pages, and this week has reduced the white space between lines to effect a saving of nearly a column on each page. If the increase in prices for advertising, we will be justified in issuing more than the usual twelve pages if demanded by advertising and news features.

BRENNA. See dressmaking at Mrs. Ida Stow on page three. Advertisements for the Brenna Center school last Monday. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lindsay of York were here, Brenna visitors Sunday. Miss Florence Baird left Monday for Wayne, where she will attend high school. Mrs. Nellie Kane of Omaha, is here visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Lobsack. Mrs. James Baird will spend the latter part of the week at the state fair in Lincoln. Misses Ada and Etta Sadler left Friday for their home in Leavenworth, Ill., after visiting relatives in Brenna. Mark Swihart of Carroll, Tom Peters of Wadswade and Mr. Ayer left for Lincoln Sunday in Mr. Ayer's car. They expect to be gone about four days. It is often one is privileged to tell who visits the watermelon patches, but the writer missed some after a visit from Mr. and Mrs. Earl DeWalt, Mrs. Winnie Fleetwood and Edward Auker and children Sunday evening from Wayne. Complimentary to Misses G. A. Edinger and Mrs. F. E. Edinger, a party of young ladies enjoyed an afternoon at the home of Mrs. Art Ayer, Saturday. The afternoon was spent playing cards and guessing contests. In the race of repeating "Mother-Goes-thymer" for the watermelon. Miss Florence Baird came out first and got the biggest piece of melon while Miss Ella Baird had to be content with the smallest piece. Mrs. Vinegar and Mrs. Fred Baird. Talk about the quiet peacefulness of the night in the city, you can't get a night as sweet-sleepers. Say—we're you ever in the country this time of the year when just as you are drifting away to sleep, you hear the beating of the wings of the screech-owls started to run his scale of trills that sent the cold shivers chasing up and down your spine. Get up to see if you can't get the Ice-bird Crane during his famous ride in Sleepy Hollow. Any of you folks who think the quiet of the country could cure your nervous trouble just ought to try it. Last Sunday while driving a car to a Deane farm Mrs. J. L. Winegar had an excellent ride. She might have proved serious. Mrs. Winegar was driving the car and in the back seat were her two children, Edward Taylor, a five-year-old boy, fell out of the car unnoticed in the afternoon. Her father, the ceremony of burning him at the stake or on the courthouse steps be pulled off as soon as possible.

GERM HOTELS.

The question of the relation of the teeth to the general body is one that is constantly occupying more and more of the attention of the best men in medicine, and it was in dentistry that we can be no doubt in the mind of any thinking person that to have a mouth full of teeth that are mere stumps where they have been, guests, both transient and permanent, of the germ family is bound to mean disease of the most serious character. These guests went their way onward to the throat, lungs, stomach or wherever their fancy calls them, then these germs find their way into the lymph glands and from here they can easily find a high road into any part of the body, they choose to explore. These guests are known as transient guests, now the permanent guests, not being so happy travelers, they are and make things very lively and attractive for their brethren of the restless few, their adventures being their way of doing this being to cause as much trouble and devastation in the teeth as they possibly can. Then this flowing stream of contagious and serious diseases caused by these germs.

Stop a minute and consider your teeth. Do they fall loose, rot, spongy, diseased gums, or loose or badly decayed teeth, with pus constantly oozing from them, the necks of the teeth are it is a clean sanitary condition? Are you ashamed of the condition of it, and the foul odor that it will give off when you are a friend or business associate? Ever go home and talk about some body else's bad breath, which almost knocked you over when they talked to you? How would you like to know that many a person is saying that you are just about you. Think it over. Is it worth while? If not get busy and have conditions corrected.

It seems that the funds required for the publication and mailing (under penny postage) of the Nebraska Dairy Federation might be used to far better advantage. Editors who have declined to consider any proposition from the Prosperity League will, of course, continue to loyally support the amendment as a matter of principle; there is nothing mercenary in their attitude and they are callous to slights from individuals and organizations which owe them kindly consideration. But they would be more than human if they did not recognize, and in some instances resent, the reckless waste of campaign funds on a sheet that nobody except radical prohibitionists will read and whose circulation must necessarily be confined to a class that is already safely for the amendment. Maybe Frank Harrison wasn't as badly mistaken as usual when he accused the very Federation people of gross negligence and mismanagement in the conduct of the prohibition campaign.

This is the very latest product of mechanical skill; equipped with electric gas appliances to roast coffee perfectly. There is as much difference between freshly roasted and stale coffee as there is between freshly roasted and stale peanuts. This machine from a standpoint of price and quality will solve the coffee problem for all lovers of good coffee. I buy my coffee green in 2000 pound lots direct from a reliable importer and every day will roast from this supply. I guarantee the public fresh roasted coffee not to exceed 48 hours old, which will produce 20 per cent stronger coffee than coffee kept in stock the old way. My patrons will save from 5 to 8 cents per pound by reason of installing the Royal Roasting Plant in addition to 20 per cent stronger cup value. With this equipment I am in a position to compete and excel any propositions from mail order concerns or coffee and tea peddlers with their expensive distribution. Fred Gilderleeve.

Fred Gilderleeve is just starting out in farming for himself and this year he is farming a 120-acre farm which he leases from Perry Benshoof. It is located three miles west and six miles south of Wayne. He has excellent prospects on fifty-five acres of corn. The oat crop threshed out 1,412 bushels, with a netted 1,000 bushels of good income per acre. Thirty-two acres of alfalfa will have yielded three heavy crops before the season is over. Mr. Gilderleeve reported seventy acres of spring pigs as his start in live stock. He recently marked a thirteen head of the old stock. Mr. Gilderleeve may well feel encouraged over the outcome of his first year at farming.

A. C. Williams.

Four years ago A. C. Williams bought an eighty, four miles west and four miles south of Carroll and took immediate possession. Mr. Williams also farms another thirty acres which he rents. This year he has fifty-five acres of corn and thirty acres of oats as his grain crops. The other twenty-five acres are devoted to pasture and hay land. Mr. Williams stated that he intended to put up a hog house and make other minor improvements in the near future. He reported twenty head of old hogs and twenty spring pigs as the extent of his investment in live stock. Fifty head of hogs were marketed during the year.

I. D. Winterstein.

This is the fourth year that I. D. Winterstein has operated 120 acres of the Morris farm. This farm lies one mile west of Wayne and is equipped with a very good set of buildings. At the time of purchase the house was being painted. Mr. Winterstein deals quite extensively in Duroc Jersey hogs. During the past year he finished 200 hogs for market. At the present time he has fifty-five head of the old stock and about 100 spring pigs on hand. The cattle in the yards total ten head. One eighty is devoted to corn this year. Then there are twenty acres of alfalfa. We were impressed by the extreme neatness of the yards and buildings on this place and took such as an evidence of the thorough farming that is being done by Mr. Winterstein.

Peter Reeg.

Peter Reeg has been operating his 160-acre farm, three miles west of town for the last twelve years. Mr. Reeg has twenty acres of alfalfa and the 180 acres with the following crops: Sixty-five acres corn, sixty acres oats, ten acres alfalfa with the balance in hay and pasture. In the line of stock Mr. Reeg has 100 head of spring pigs of a good growthy type and thirty-three head of stock cattle, one barn, 28x36, with a sixteen-foot shed is an improvement that is soon to be added to the place.

W. H. Fisher.

W. H. Fisher came to this county three years ago and just five years later he took possession of the place, which he has been operating ever since that time. This farm is located three miles west and three miles north of Wayne and comprises 240 acres. In addition to this comparatively large acreage, Mr. Fisher rents another quarter, comprising 100 acres of the way. He has a hundred fifty acres of corn, eighty acres of oats, sixty acres of hay, fifteen acres of alfalfa, ten acres of clover and the balance is used up with pasture, groves, etc. Mr. Fisher aims to feed out a good-sized bunch of hogs and cattle each year. He has a good growthy type and thirty-three head of stock cattle, one barn, 28x36, with a sixteen-foot shed is an improvement that is soon to be added to the place.

Robert Green.

Robert Green has a rather extraordinary record in that he is still living on the place on which he was born forty-two years ago. The farm, which comprises 160 acres, is located just one mile west of Hoster. Only about half of the acreage is under cultivation this year, there being thirty-seven acres of corn and thirty-five acres of oats. The other half of the acreage is good hay meadow with a considerable acreage left for pasture, building site, etc. Mr. Green raises only one head of hogs each year. He reported fifteen head of the old stock and thirty-five spring pigs in his herd. A total of twenty-head of hogs were marketed during the year. The cattle in the yards total ten head.

Martin Christopherson.

The first of last year Martin Christopherson moved on the quarter section, which is owned by Dr. A. B. Cherry, formerly of Winside. The farm consists of one and one-half miles west of Winside. In addition to the 160 acres, Mr. Christopherson rents another eighty, comprising 240 acres in total. One hundred fifteen acres of corn, ninety acres of oats, ten acres alfalfa. This leaves twenty-five acres which are used for hay, pasture, groves, etc. During the season of car of hogs and one car of cattle were finished for market. Fifty spring pigs and ten head of hogs of the Poland China breed constitute the herd at the present time. There are but ten head of cattle in the yards, although more feeders will probably be run in later.

Henry Ehlers.

Six miles west and two miles north of Winside is a quarter section of land, belonging to P. H. Kohl, which has been rented by Henry Ehlers for two years. Mr. Ehlers has a specialty in Chester White hogs. The herd was started from Billster stock, and the hogs are of that big-boned, long smooth type so desirable. At present there are forty-five spring pigs in addition to the seven head of old stock on hand. Twenty head were sold at a good price. Ehlers devoted sixty acres to corn this year, and twenty acres to oats. A strip containing ten acres is in a hay meadow and the balance of the quarter is used for pasture.

Hans Gottrich.

A well improved farm home in the community west of Winside is that of Hans Gottrich. This place has 160 acres and is located a short distance west of town. Mr. Gottrich took possession twenty-six years ago and has equipped his farm in tip-top shape. The house is 30x30 with a fine kitchen and a bath in the kitchen. There are several buildings in the barnyard group, all of them substantial and kept in good repair. Mr. Gottrich raises the Poland China pigs. He now has only the spring stock on hand, as he recently sold all the old hogs totaling 130 head. There are just 100 head in his herd now. Last season he marketed a half car of cattle and he now has a fine head of feeders on hand. Mr. Gottrich reports the following crops for the year: Sixty acres corn, twenty-two acres alfalfa, with the balance in a small patch of oats and a pasture. The oat crop this year totaled 1,800 bushels.

John G. Newman.

On the John G. Newman farm six miles west and one mile north of Winside a fine new house attracts immediate attention. It measures 34x36 and is modern from top to bottom. No thought or expense was spared in the interior and exterior equally pleasing. It is equipped with a powerful acetylene light plant. Of the total acreage of the place, 112 are in alfalfa and the stalks are heavy with ears. Fifty-five acres produced a big oat crop. Ten acres in alfalfa were most ready for the thrashing at the time these figures were taken. There are fifteen acres in clover and twenty-seven head of cattle in the yard. Mr. Newman feeds cattle and hogs, but not very extensively. He now has seventy head of hogs and twenty-seven head of cattle in the yard. Sixty head of hogs and twenty head of cattle were the total number sold during the past season.

G. W. Sweigard.

Six miles west and two miles north of Winside is the place where G. W. Sweigard has made his home for the past twenty years. The farm includes 320 acres of land that lie in splendid shape for drainage and cultivation. In addition Mr. Sweigard rents a quarter section, which gives him a total acreage of 480 acres. Two hundred and twenty-five acres of corn will call for an army of huskers in a few weeks, for the ears are big and very numerous. One hundred fifty ears are seeded to grasses of the best varieties. There were ninety ears in the oat crop. As to stock, Mr. Sweigard has 125 head of spring pigs and sixty head of hogs in the yard. This season eighty head of hogs and twenty-seven head of cattle were marketed at a good figure.

W. B. Werner.

This is the second year that W. B. Werner has been farming the quarter section, six miles west and two and a quarter miles north of Winside. This farm is the property of Mrs. L. Brant. Of the 160 acres, sixty acres are in corn and ten acres are in alfalfa. The crop of small grain aggregated 1,200 bushels of oats. One car of cattle and forty head of hogs were marketed from this farm during the last few months. This leaves on hand thirty spring pigs and thirteen head of cattle.

Fisher Brothers.

Two years ago Fisher Brothers bought a quarter section four miles west and an equal distance north of town. Of the total acreage 100 acres are in corn. Thirty acres of oats make a satisfactory yield. Ten acres are in clover with an excellent stand. Alfalfa and pasture take up the balance of the land. The Fishers deal in Poland China hogs, having forty-two head of the spring stock this year and ten head of old hogs.

Kreuger Brothers.

Kreuger Brothers have carried on their farming operations for thirty-five years on a farm, one mile west and two miles south of Wayne. In addition to the 200 acres on the home place, they lease 120 acres of other parties. This allows them about 320 acres for cultivation and twenty acres for pasture. One hundred eighty acres are in corn and 20 acres in alfalfa. At present they are fed on this farm, but not in very great numbers. At the time these figures were taken there were thirty-eight head of hogs and twenty-eight old hogs. Thirty-three head of cattle were in the yards.

C. H. Koles.

This is the seventh year that C. H. Koles has been operating a quarter section three and three-fourths miles west and two miles north of Wayne. Mr. Koles raises live stock, and it is his aim to keep improving his herd of cattle and hogs year after year. He has a fine bunch of Duroc Jersey spring pigs totaling forty-five head. Ten head of the old stock are in the yard. Seventy fine animals were recently sold. Mr. Koles is ready to sell any of his offerings at private sale at any time. In the line of cattle he has twenty-one head registered Shortorns that are high class and viduals. Mrs. Koles deals in the White Leghorn chickens and reported 250 as the total of her flock. The crops on the Koles farm for this year include the following: Sixty acres of corn, twelve acres of alfalfa, twelve acres of hay, with the balance in pasture, etc. The oat crop has been harvested with a yield of 1,400 bushels.

Erwin McMillian.

Erwin McMillian rents from William McMillian a quarter section of land, lying three miles west and three miles north of Wayne. Mr. McMillian reported that he had 1,580 bushels of oats as his crop of small grain. He cultivates a bumper crop on his sixty acres of corn, taking out eight ears for alfalfa and ten ears for hay there is a little piece of ground for pasture. Eleven head of cattle were on pasture when this visit was made.

Can there be any stronger proof offered than the evidence of Wayne residents? After years have read the following, quietly answer the question.

Mrs. Ira Hoshaw, Wayne, says: "I was once very weak and two weeks with a severe attack of grip. Upon recovering I found my kidneys had become weakened. I was a great sufferer from sharp pains across the small of my back and lameness through my loins. My head throbbled for hours, at a time and I couldn't rest well at night. After taking Doan's Kidney Pills a few days, the backache was relieved and my kidneys were strengthened. In three weeks my entire course of kidney trouble had disappeared."

Mrs. Hoshaw gave the above statement in August 1910 and almost two years later, on the 15, 1916, she added: "I never doan's Down at "Cedar Lawn" by the Elkhorn, Where Howell Rees Breeds Durhams for the King . . .

Three Hundred Kine in Purple, Prize Winners, with Pedigrees in Silk and Gold. Champions and Grand Champions at Des Moines Are Pilgrims from Pilger. Nebraska Shows Iowa. A Breeder That Defies the Middle West.

A GRABBER OF RIBBONS

When we anchored at Cedar Lawn, by the Elkhorn, Howell Rees had just returned from the Iowa State Fair at Des Moines. The smile was still on his face and the ribbons still in his hands. He had gone with twenty head of the best show stock he raises, and competed in his classes against all comers. The showing made by that high-born herd was a touch-down for Nebraska breeding, and fame and money for Howell Rees. They received unanimous selection and extensive care and yielded a few more letters in their owner's name. They made their own head and into dollar marks, and their breeder a grabber of ribbons.

CEDAR LAWN AND HOWELL REES

There is more coming about the Des Moines exhibit after we locate Cedar Lawn and introduce its owner. Two miles and one-half northwest of Pilger in the Elkhorn valley, six miles to the river west from Waver, is a farm you will find it. Eight hundred and forty acres belong to the place proper, but Mr. Rees rents some land and in all occupies four hundred acres. He is remodeling the house at the present time and when the workmen are through the fine and spacious farm home will stand in the maples and elms that have long adorned the place. Barns and sheds must go without description and the best of the stock on this place must all flow to the channels of Scotch blood in the fancy bred and grand horn Short-horns. There is a large and well equipped stock yard and built of cement stone that marks the place and suggests the solidity and massiveness of the estate. Dams and waterfalls on this place bear the earmarks of the old country where buildings must be immune to time and outlast centuries. It suggests the rugged and land of the old world where for uncounted years were bred the ancestors of the stock it houses.

Howell Rees is a Welchman, quiet, quick-spoken, and of nervous gesture. Every chief that helped to shape his face tried to spell out, keen insight, good judgment, and fine-lined ideals. Nature gave him a small keen eye with a drooping cast that suggests lack of self-assertion and show. Thirty-three years ago he landed in Omaha alone in a land of strangers, with only seventeen dollars and five cents in his pocket. He didn't tell us so but we are sure that today in addition to his acres and his Durhams he could raise the seventeen dollars and fifty cents and ten some. He is a very successful man—a very successful stock breeder and is doing a far greater business and breeding far better stock than even his neighbors realize. Advertised in the great stock journals of the country, his outfit goes to nearly every state in the union and some of the countries of South America. He is better known abroad than at home. We are writing this to tell the young breeders of Wayne and adjoining counties what Rees has done, and what they can do, what he has got that would improve their herds and top plain breeds with a lucrative strain. No farmer or stockman, who gets this paper, should miss a word of this story. Read it if you have to sit on a hot stove to keep awake while you are doing it.

THREE HUNDRED HEAD OF PRIME SCOTCH

Counting bulls and dams, young and old, together with this year's crop of calves, there is approximately a herd of three hundred head of royal stock on the place. Not the plain-bred or chance-born kind of common form and common fat, but the high line Scotch that trace back to the Scottish "lugs" the fields of Amos Cruickshank where once pastured Roan Gantner and the Pride of the Isles, and scores of other Highland winners. True, the strain is sometimes topped and embellished with the richest blood of Kirklevington, but it is always fancy select and true to purple. There are one hundred and fifty high colored big dams in the matron herd out in the big flat pasture. There is young stock in this pasture, and that pasture, sheltered in this barn, and in that barn, until you are impressed with the fact that no matter which way you look the wealth of rich blood and famous form greets your eyes. Then, too, you must not forget that twenty of the best are on the state's fair circuit, and are being exhibited at Lincoln while this is being written.

In one pen we saw seventeen bulls—all yearlings, junior or senior, ready to go out into the stock world and help to produce the next generation of Short-horns. Six of the best are priced at six thousand dollars, but it would be hard to select the best six for every one seems to be a master of lines and their breeding is largely the same. In the big stone barn were some young yearlings in roan and show where each of which would make a fortune for some young buyer. Calves built on ideal lines that will weigh a hundred pounds for each month of their age are plenty and common. In this exhibit were two superb white ones—snow banks, wrought in the breeder's hands. These are fashionable, but white is in great favor and if you have a herd of red cows, cross the strain with a white sire, and your calves will be popular and classy roans.

NOW THE RIBBONS AT DES MOINES

Just last week the famous Iowa State Fair was on at Des Moines, and the pedigrees of the middle west were there. The best they breed in half a dozen states were on hand, all show-groomed and prize hungry. Pilgrims from Pilger, aristocratic pilgrims from Cedar Lawn, were there, and went into the arena with the rest where it was open field, fair show, and honors for the best. Howell Rees' stock bred here in our own Northeast Nebraska, received the following awards:

- First on two-year-old heifers.
- First on junior yearling heifers.
- Champion heifer, two years old.
- Champion heifer, junior yearling.
- Grand Champion heifer, junior yearling.
- Best producing cow.
- First on get of sire.
- First on young herd.

Thirteen may be lucky or unlucky, but thirteen is the number of blue ribbons Mr. Rees brought home. This champion herd is at Lincoln now and later will go to fairs in Missouri, Kansas and South Dakota, Sioux City, Davenport and later Chicago and Kansas City.

This is not Mr. Rees' first experience. He is a bronzed veteran in show rings and knows what he must have if he expects first prizes. He has captured prizes at the great stock shows of the middle west and made a reputation at all the state fairs in the great river section. They know him at the International, at the Tri-State, and the American Royal, as a winner of ribbons.

THE BULLS THAT PUT REES IN THE LIST

Paradoxical as it may seem Rees began in a small way, yet he began in a big way. He started with few, but he started with the best. He paid high prices. He was not afraid to pay big money if he was getting something big and great. He paid five thousand five hundred dollars for CHOICE GOODS when he was eight years old. But remember Choice Goods was a great bull. He was bred by James Durbin in Scotland and imported to Canada by that great breeder and importer W. D. Platt, of Hamilton, Ont., of whom Mr. Rees bought him. Any man in this part of the state claims he has a great bull if he can trace back a cross to Choice Goods.

RUBERTA'S GOODS

Out of Ruberta, a fourteen hundred dollar dam is another famous sire and is at the present time in the Rees stone barn. He is now ten years old, but still in use and has a fortune in younger stock to his credit. He was sired by Golden Goods, and Golden Goods in turn was sired by Choice Goods and this makes Ruberta's Goods good goods so far as good breeding goods is concerned.

WHITEHALL ROSEDALE

Down at the Rees farm is another great sire named Whitehall Rosedale. His number is 32004 in the herd book and $2,500 in the pocketbook. Fine that is the figure that Mr. Rees paid for him. He is a fine model of the great Avondale, which was one of the most valuable bulls ever in the country. On his dam's side "Dale" is out of imported Rosewood Pride, a ripe progeny of the J. Bruce great Rosewood family. In breeding parlance, he has already proved that the Rosewood scion is a great sire, and his gets rise up to call him famous. Attention is called to a "cut" on this page which bears a goodly handsome roan and stands him up in the show stall for your inspection.

THE GOLDEN STORY OF TOP BLOOD

Mr. Rees urged the writer to talk long and long about the importance of a great bull. A pedigree is not enough for breeding purposes it is more important to have a bull. He wants them big in bone and flesh and of a strong producing line that will overmatch defects on the female side. He attributes his own success to the bulls rather than to the cows he has possessed. The bulls of his herd with national reputation have been the cheapest bulls he ever owned. He was offered seven thousand dollars for one of his herd head bulls in Chicago but he would not sell. If he could get the best bull in the United States the price wouldn't make any difference. He had this to say about a plain bred cow: "Several years ago I was at a stock sale in Wayne and I bought a plain bred registered cow and bred her to Choice Goods and Ruberta's Goods and I have never sold a calf out of her for less than five hundred dollars. I sold one for seven hundred dollars and one other get took Grand Champion at Des Moines this week. That is pretty good when you consider that I only paid eighty-five dollars for the cow in the first place."

A good producing line bull is worth money, and big money, in any herd. The farmers should use better bulls than they do, and young breeders who expect to make a success of breeding cattle, no matter what breed, should search far and near for the best bull obtainable and be prepared to pay the price, and they will produce the goods that will sell for the big money. There is no other way. They cannot succeed without the good bull and the good bull will cost money, but he will go to market with his gets and bring back money in baskets full.

HOWELL REES IS NOT THROUGH YET

Howell Rees is not through yet. He will breed Durhams for the king that will yet be the sensations of the ring. He will send his products to the breeding pens of the masters. He will make Northeast Nebraska famous for great herds of fine stock. He has the base stock to do it with and conscious of his blood he goes with confidence to every exhibition.

There are thousands of men in this corner of the state who little know the extent of breeding or the quality bred down at Cedar Lawn, by the Elkhorn, where Howell Rees makes his contribution to the Short-horn world.
