EVENTS OF THE WEEK IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Joe Greig is a newly enrolled pupil in the grade. Visitors this week were Miss Zella Williams, Mrs. J. Felber, Rev. S. X. Cross, and Misses Fern and Alice and Claire Wright have returned to school after a few days' absence on account of operations for the removal of adenoids and tonsils. Members of the high school dramatic society, who have made a study of fundamental stitches and made laundry bags. They are now beginning work on cooking aprons and towels. Friday evening the senior class and the high school faculty took a hike into the country where they enjoyed a winner roast and melon supper. This was the first of the social events and was much enjoyed. The first football game of the season will be played tomorrow evening at 4:30 against Laurel at that place. The boys in their practice work have been making a good showing and hope to bring home laurels indeed. Yesterday afternoon the senior class gave the following program: Piano solo, Helen Gildersleeve; recitation, Miss Frances Lister; accompanying her on the piano, delighted the high school with several whistling solos. In response to the request of the students they favored the audience with whistled imitations of the songs of the well-known birds. A far imitation of the crow without exception to the original. The students will be glad to have Miss Omm appear before them again. The Rev. S. X. Cross addressed the high school Tuesday afternoon on the subject of opportunity. The talk was a timely one. With stories of the lives of the careers of Admiral Nelson, Napoleon, Grant and others, he illustrated the theme of his address. The action who succeeds is the person who works for affairs to adjust themselves. Mr. Cross further showed his interest in the students by remaining to visit some of the classes. Monday evening the teachers and students who were in the high school last year entertained the new members of the school faculty and all the grade teachers at a party in the gymnasium. The room was handsomely and tastefully decorated in the school colors. The games under the direction of Miss Mabel Dayton and Miss Margaret were a success in bringing forth pools of laughter. Ice cream and cake were served, and all went home feeling better acquainted. Therefore be quick to do good work in school than before. It is hoped that this may prove a happy as well as profitable year for the school and that the same in the future will be a feature of the year.

FACULTY RECEPTION DRAWS LARGE CROWD

Shortly after 8 o'clock Tuesday evening the doors of the Administration hall at the Normal were thronged by the faculty and about almost 500 students and friends here to file down the long reception line in which stood the officers of the school and the members of the faculty and their wives. A little later the guests enjoyed a short program in the auditorium, Mrs. Edna Gritzo of Stuart in the name of Minneapolis, Mrs. T. J. Jones, and Mrs. W. E. Johnson each favored the audience with a vocal solo. Mrs. James Miller played two selections on the piano. In behalf of the school, Pres. U. S. Conn spoke a few words and then employed a vocal solo. Brief gave some timely remarks on "Good Feelings" in which he urged unity and sincere friendship among students and the members of the faculty. Miss Sara J. Killen spoke on "Evaluations," suggesting that the student must learn to discriminate. His order to give a well-balanced life. Prof. J. G. W. Lewis gave an interesting survey of the possibilities of cooperation in the normal work. After the program some of the guests were entertained on each of the three floors of the hall. Those in the hall enjoyed a vocal solo. Brief gave some timely remarks on "Good Feelings" in which he urged unity and sincere friendship among students and the members of the faculty. Miss Sara J. EVERYTHING READY FOR SHOOT BUT ROCKS

WEBER'S PLANS MISS FIRE Forgets to Provide Enough Things to Shoot—Stages Another Match Tomorrow. If Walter Weber, secretary of the Wayne Gun club, could perform his duty as secretary he performed one yesterday afternoon when he invited local and visiting marksmen to engage in shooting blue rocks on the Section-Normal grounds. He had heard that the Fifes, evangelists, were as alert and expert in firing lead pills at blue rocks as they were in their own vocation. There was a miscellaneous assortment of sinners, and so decided to invite them to join the members of the Wayne club in their usual weekly match. Mr. Weber invited the evangelists and others to attend, and supposed he had every preparation made for a happy and successful time. All responded promptly. All were armed and had an abundance of lead. The match was conducted extensively and elaborately in anticipation of the triumphant success of his plans until he went to bring forth the blue rocks and found he had neglected to replenish the supply, and there were not enough on hand to make the match start. Mr. Weber's face lengthened in prospect of a joyful match shortened. If he could have taken the time to make a few more purchases he would have been able to do so. He was worried along under the scourge of disappointment. However, the blue rocks on hand were used after the match had been shot at and missed, and served to prevent further suffering. It is hardly necessary to say that the match was a success and that the members of the Wayne club have an abundance of rocks. J. H. Kemp and William Von Seggern, on the other hand, were not so fortunate in the match, and they felt with much enthusiasm that they could have broken more rocks if there had been more to shoot. Their triumphant onslaught on rocks was cut so short by lack of supply that they felt prolonged grief and pain. However, the blue rocks on hand have enough rocks next time so that marksmen will not be afraid of their own shadows. The match is staged another shoot for tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock, when it is intended to have plenty of rocks.

THE NORMAL AS AN ASSET

(Continued.) There are many who do not realize the value of the State Normal to the town and county. The assessed value of the Normal is about $200,000. This is a business enterprise which any city in the state might well be proud to possess. The financial value is great to the community, the social value is even greater. The Normal school has brought twenty-five or more from every county in the state. The culture to Wayne as members of its faculty. It also brings hundreds of young people of purpose from every county in the state. The influence of the faculty and students is felt in all the churches and clubs as well as other organizations have as their purpose the betterment of society. There is not a piece of property in Wayne which has not been enhanced in value more or less by the location of the Normal school. All these benefits are realized by the taxpayers of Wayne but one hundred twenty-five dollars a year. Every building which is erected and every acre of land which is made at the Normal means a larger school, a larger attendance, a better faculty and greater benefit to Wayne and northeast Nebraska. Butter-fat is high. Separate your milk and use Security Call Food for your cows. Sold and manufactured by Rundle.

He should be reelected by all means."

SHOT IN MELON PATCH.

Blomfield. Monitor: Bertis Darrow, a young boy, was shot Sunday evening in the face while in a melon patch at the home of Emil Nelson, who lives about twelve miles down the creek southwest of town.

The Darrow boy, together with George Birdsinger and Lowell Luckert, were raising the melon patch and we understand that the shot was fired by Walter Nelson, the son of Emil Nelson. About fifteen shots were fired, and the boy hit in one shot entering his right eye. He was brought to Dr. Peters' office in the city about 11 o'clock and after working with him for a time the boy was sent to the hospital in Sioux City on the early Monday morning train.

The Monitor is informed that Mr. Nelson lives on a rather sandy piece of land and that a part of his way of making a living off the farm is to make a large quantity of melons each year, and that they produce better on the sandy land than some other crops. Mr. Nelson claims that he has been both one year after being bit by people raiding his melons and that this year particularly, he has been bothered night after night and day after day by his melon gnats, and with the result as above stated.

It is rather a deplorable affair and the young man will be badly distressed from his experience and that others may take warning from his sad misfortune. To him Nelson sincerely trusts that the young man will be the better instructed from his experience and that in this, the Monitor is not upholding the act that resulted in this misfortune. It is rather a sad mistake all around that we sincerely trust may never occur again. The miscellaneous bring of guns, loaded to kill, even at boys in a melon patch, is not by any means a commendable act.

WORK AND IDLENESS.

honest endeavor. The satisfaction of achievement is of the supreme kind. Whoever accomplishes the things that are necessary has contributed to the sum of human happiness and that has a beneficial reflex action. To be happy is to be busy. Satan is the fellow who unpires the game that is played by the idle man and there is no lasting joy in it.—Fremont Tribune.

But there is a kind of weariness or fatigue which is the result not of idleness, but which nevertheless is as harmful in its effects and for which there is no adequate compensation. This is the exhaustion which follows and accompanies long continued, unremitting devotion to the task. For such as are compelled, for one reason or another, to toil until exhaustion has become their daily companion, there is no joy in labor, no sweet rewards, not even hope to stimulate them to further effort. Only necessity remains to prod them in their action.

Yes, there is sweet joy in heaven becomes a place where there is nothing to do. He is fortunate if despair does not seize him in its iron grip and rob him of his sanity. Yes, there is sweet joy in labor. Nothing is so satisfying as rest after toil. The joy of achievement, accomplishment, is perhaps the supreme joy in the world. But there can be too much of any good thing—even work.

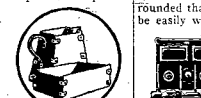

Therefore it is advisable for all of us to be moderate in our work and once in a while to be idle. There is a place in life for work and play and in idleness. The man who is unable to be idle—who finds it impossible to fold his hands and compose himself in quietness—for at least a few hours shortened that no-one needs few moments each day is not well to labor to the point of exhaustion, balanced. And society should see to it—and time and opportunity to play and is seeing to it—that hours of labor be—idle.—Sioux City Journal.

Bolted Dishes

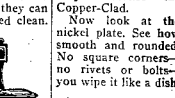

Square Dishes Bolted Together

Can you imagine anything more annoying than washing a bowl riveted and bolted together? Think of the time required for cleaning around these bumps and lumps.

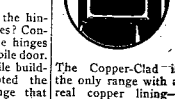

Yet, right in your kitchen is a source of just such annoyance and because you have never seen any other kind of it.

but you do wipe it off once a day. Look! Look at the Copper-Clad Range. No bolts at all in the time required for cleaning around these bumps and lumps.

Now look at the hinges and catches! Concealed like the hinges on an automobile door.

The Copper-Clad is the only range with a real copper lining—with concealed hinges—with malleable handles. Better call and see it.

OVER HUNDRED DOWN THE SAWDUST AISLES SUNDAY PROVES BIG DAY

Over Five Thousand Attend Many From Neighboring Towns Sermon Extracts.

(By Sherman Lyons.) Last Sunday was the greatest day, religiously, in the history of Wayne. The estimated attendance for the three services at the Bible Brothers tabernacle was 5,000, and at these services 147 people walked down the sawdust aisles of the "royal trail," as Evangelist Fife prefers to call it, to make their start in the Christian life.

At the morning service, when the first call for Christian soldiers was given, 100 responded. It was most impressive sight to see the scores of men, women and children pressing down the broad aisles to shake the evangelist's hand, while the preacher sang the songs of invitation and the evangelist pleaded for consecrated service.

Among the first to "hit the trail" was a mother, who brought her four grown sons, ranging in age from 16 to 20 years, to the altar of faith, the tears streaming down her face. Several fathers and mothers came, carrying their little babes in their arms, and gray-haired grandfathers and grandmothers came to consecrate their lives to Christian service. Almost all lines of activity in and a charity ball, or he that contri buteth to missions, or giveth a soup supper. But the word of God says, life that endureth on the Son and everlasting life.

"There was a time not long ago when a man who disbelieved in the boasted of his infidelity. Today he does not, for the infidel is barred from every line of legitimate activity. Alas! the only place he still welcome is the asylum, the poor house or the insane asylum.

"We will preach and conduct services around here in almost every kind of place except the cemetery. We would preach there too, but it is too late. You can't be saved after you are dead.

"My friend, never accuse God of a capital offense. I have heard the Lord accused of enough things that if they could be proven true, would have been enough to hang Him if sent him to the electric chair.

"If some of you would think less about how you get here and more about what you are here for and where you are going, you would be infinitely happier. When you buy a ticket and get on a train, do you stop to investigate the track and think about how it got there? No, you get on and go. When men learn to use the same common sense in considering the things of eternity that they use in everyday business life, this old world will change its complexion.

"In order to backslide you must break a solemn vow to God.

around Wayne were represented in the rows of converts. Men from Kansas, Iowa and Missouri were also included in the list. Sunday morning delegations came from Stanton, Carroll, Wakefield, Winslow, Laurel, Concord, Randolph, Madison, and almost every town within twenty miles of Wayne was represented. Grace church also sent in a delegation, and a few people from Norfolk attended. Following are extracts from each of the three sermons that brought the hundred and fifty people down the glory trail:

Sunday Morning. The morning sermon, "Which Way," contained the following striking paragraphs. The keynote of this sermon was "Reject Christ and go to hell, or accept Him and go to heaven."

"It is not he that layeth a check for a thousand dollars on the plate Sunday mornings that shall have eternal life; it is not he that endoweth a college, or he that giveth

"The salvation of this city is up to the men and women of the churches here. Until you Christian people are willing to reconsecrate your services to God you are not fit to belong to the church and God's will can never be done through you.

"Any old weakling can sit back and hold on to a bench for fear he might walk down these aisles and do right, but to take a real man—or a real woman to come out before men and before God and say 'I will be a Christian.'"

Sunday Afternoon. "Four Groups" was the subject of the afternoon sermon, Luke 5:25. "And they were all amazed and they glorified God, and were filled with fear, saying, we have seen strange things today."

"The evangelist classified the four groups as the helpless, the hinderers, the helpers and the Great Healer, basing his sermon on the story of the healing of the palsied man.

derful and most fearful experience in all the world. Sin is a great evil and made to ruin the road to heaven as a sinner and forgiven man. Jesus did this work without hesitations, and in connection with His teachings.

"Life's richest blessings come as we go patiently and earnestly doing good. We are making hundreds of lifelong friends here while preaching to save men from their sins, without otherwise we never would know.

"The first group, I have in mind are the helpless. This man had the palsy. He could go anywhere of his own volition. Many today have a religious palsy. It manifests itself on rainy days, with worldly attractions on every hand, and when money is needed for religious work. They are a burden to those around them. Add one with the palsy of sin can ever help any one else to be better.

"But for Jesus this man would have died unaided. Sinner, decide this: if Jesus does not cure you of the palsy of sin, who will? I marvel how people with good sense, apparently, about other matters, can be gulled and bamboozled into following all kinds of faddish and tommyrotisms, and entirely overlook the saving blood of Jesus. If you will name me one genuine case of cure by any of these fakes and quacks I will promise to give my earnest attention to the study of its merits.

"The second group were the hinderers—those who stood in the door so Jesus couldn't get out, nor the man with the palsy get in. They were doctors of the law and well-informed in the law of the Jews of their day. They were a lot of these influential high-brows who controlled the whole country, and were not to be contradicted by anybody who came in and tried to "beat" them. Jesus had made a serious mistake by not having consulted them before He started anything! They had a host of scorn for what He did, so they stood around in the way, stamped their feet, pulled their checkers and said it was no good. They were self-centered and satisfied, and the palsied could rot for all they cared or did.

"There are a lot of people on church books now who the Christians outwardly and in appearance, but they don't give a rap if the whole town goes to hell. "This is how the hinderers worked. They couldn't kill Jesus for the crowd was with Him, and they would have to lick the crowd, so they sneered at what He did, called it blasphemy, and said, "God can forgive sins but God alone!" That's the way with a lot of these old whiskeysoaks and kickers that oppose these revival meetings. But all that the scoffers and skeptics who mock this meeting do is to offset its power for real good.

"The third group were helpers. Without them this man would have died of the palsy. So without your personal work and help, day and night for those palsied of sin, many of them would die without God and without hope. "The helpers were rescuers. They saw that they could not get in the door because of the opposition of the hinderers, so they let the palsied man down through the roof into Jesus' presence to be healed. Oh, it is the presence of Christ that men view and need today. Though you may be old or turned aside roughly, you will see the success of your efforts in crowning glory.

"Fourth, there was the Great Healer. This man was healed by the power of God—not man—which surpasses all human wisdom and understanding. The cure was immediate and permanent. There is no permanent cure for sin except Jesus Christ. The cure was made without price. There was no previous agreement of so much money for the cure.

"You can't be the healer, so you are either the helper, the hinderer or the helpless. Which? If you are the helpless, will you receive the proffered power to become sons of God, and healed from the palsy of sin? If you are among the hinderers, will you either have to get out of the way or be run over."

Sunday Evening. "Text: 'What shall I do then with Jesus, which is called Christ?'" Matt. 27:22.

Jesus Christ is the one character in history who will not down. Though dead hundreds of years, He still commands a place in every legal document, marriage ceremony, inauguration, or other worthy transaction, and a Gentile bond or Greek, Scythian or barbarian, you never buy a foot of land or make any legal contract without acknowledging Him—"Amen Domini," in the year our Lord.

"Law is founded on the Bible. There is not a great lawyer today who will not turn to the Bible and quote from it when pleading a case, to strengthen his arguments. A lawyer must be a Bible student, and regarding but God and the Bible can keep him straight. A noted jurist once told me that he wanted his son to study the Bible and the Bible to keep it as a basis for law, before entering the law school.

"Now, regarding our text, Pilate had sent Jesus over to Herod, who regarded him as a lightly, probably thinking Jesus was some kind of sleight-of-hand performer, and Herod was waiting Herod to do new little tricks for his entertainment. Jesus looked upon him with such contempt that it enraged old Herod, so the persecutors of Jesus never did a man, woman or child send Jesus Christ away from the trial court of his life but that Jesus would come back.

"Pilate had some trouble with the Roman government, and he was afraid anyhow that he might lose his job. The persecutors of Jesus understood the situation, and hit him on his weakest spot, and told him that he had let go the only man that he let go, they were told, Augustus. Caesar, that was fostring a rival king, and that Caesar would out of his head. Whereupon, Pilate signed the paper committing Jesus to death on the cross, and called for a boy to bring in a bowl of water, while he went through the ceremony of washing his hands of the whole affair.

"What will you do with Jesus, in view of His power over the lives of men today? Jesus is either the son of God, or He is an impostor. If an impostor, how will you explain the blessings that He has brought to the world; how will you explain that God gave Him power to work miracles? I assume that His miracles are true, because there is no evidence that they are not.

"Jesus makes definite claim that He is the son of God, and says, 'If ye have seen me, ye have seen the Father.' He bases His power upon the fact that He was the son of God. If He is not Christ and the son of God, how will you explain His right to forgive sins and the fact that He did forgive them?

"The Buddhists, Brahmanists and Confucianists today recognize that there never was such a teacher as Jesus Christ. Their religions do not center in their leaders as sources of life. They taught and teach ethics; Jesus teaches Himself.

"This question of the text is a universal question. Jesus is a sea that touches all shores of thought—He is the one idea of the Bible; everything in the Old Testament looks forward to Him, all in the new looks back to Him. The church is founded on Him, and salvation is dependent on Him. If you accept Him you accept

THE FIRST-BORN The Genuine, Original Round Oak Is Still Supreme

Why You Buy the Original Always the original is created because the inventor sees possible improvements in existing conditions, and brings those improvements to pass by producing the article that will fill and fit the particular need.

This precisely expresses the conditions existing in the stove world when the original Round Oak stove was invented and produced by P. D. Beckwith, more than two generations ago.

The Round Oak Is Still Supreme Witness the fact that thousands of the genuine Round Oak stoves are sold yearly. These are identical in construction with the original, although modernized in dress.

We invite the opportunity to demonstrate their sterling worth and real superiority.

maintain pocketbook, typifies the other extreme, and is also diseased. The man who spends more than he makes in order to gratify vanity or an insatiable desire for pleasure, suffers miseries that deepen wrinkles and turn hair gray.

FALSE IMPRESSION.

"We note by the Wayne Herald of the last issue that Wayne schools opened with a total attendance of 374 and that included a high school attendance of ninety-four. We cannot understand why the enrollment is not larger in a city of that size.

The above shows how little the Journal knows about the running of a state normal school. Aside from the fact that the normal school is very adjunct to a state normal, students may have reached the tenth grade before entering the institution, and a student cannot graduate until two grades beyond the high school course have been completed.

It is likely Wayne county students contend to attend the normal the same as other students of the state, take advantage of the proximity of the state school and thus decrease enrollment in the city schools.

If a woman would think twice before she speaks, she certainly would be a thoughtful person.

Your mistakes of grammar won't matter so much if you really have something to say.

If you are going to come across in the end make as few enemies as possible while obstinate.

If you want to make a hit with a man, who hasn't been feeling very well, just tell him how well he is looking.

A man's enemies always enjoy seeing him get into politics; to improve their chances of taking a shot at him.

Some of the patriotism is predicted on the theory that the nation can afford to pay for it.

When a company is coming, a woman can get almost as excited about her work as a head leader.

Don't take your proud old family name into police court if you want to keep it out of the paper.

An old man always enjoys spreading the impression that he is a wild and reckless youth.

There are comparatively few exceptions to the rule that it takes two to conduct a successful flirtation.

Sometimes the anxious inquirer is less anxious than the one who is called upon to answer the question.

If a person is industrious, he probably is also a good citizen, for a busy man hasn't any time for throwing bombs.

Cain and Abel seemed to have staged the first kin row, and something in that line has been going on steadily ever since.

cept all, and if you reject Him you reject all. Jesus Christ is the only solution to squabbles between capital and labor, the only character that makes a merchant honest in selling to a customer, or that makes men square in paying accounts.

"Education is founded on religion. In the heathen land, first comes the conquering army, then the flag, then the church or missionary, then the built red school house. The safety of America is in her public school system. It is the mightiest democratic institution on earth. God grant that it may long flourish at the fairest flower of American liberty and civilization! Education is more than scholarship, but the religion of Jesus Christ is more than education, for God is the beginning of wisdom."

"What will the student do with Jesus? Is he interested and has he time for religious things? What will the teacher do with Him? Don't take cold feet every time religion in the school is mentioned. People expect you to be a Christian, and like you for it. Who wants an infidel to teach his children? What will the school board do with Jesus? The Bible should be read, prayer offered—and God honored in the schools. That does not mean the teaching of deontomianism—God forbid. But since the Bible is the foundation for education, why not teach it in the schools?"

"Politicians. What are you going to do with Jesus? And are you trying to better conditions in this country as to righteous objections and as to temperance? The party that puts a prohibition plank in its platform at the next election is going into power. The handwriting is on the wall. It is amusing to see old-time politicians who used to be as wet as soap tell how they 'have always been dry.' The fact is that they saw the handwriting, and got the heavenly vision, and had to change or be shown under."

"There is no middle ground on this question. Accept Christ and go to Heaven; reject Him and go to hell. Will you answer it like Felix and delay it another day? Like Jonah and try to run away from God? Like Peter and deny Him to your everlasting regret? Like

ROBERT S. FIFE.

Thomas and be branded through eternity as a doubter? Like Nicodemus and secretly acknowledge Him, but in public take no stand and rob Him of your influence among men? Or like Pilate and crucify Him? Will you put the crown of thorns on His brow and mock Him as He dies on the cross? That is what you do when you sit there and refuse to accept Him. Will you refuse again? Miss Yockey's Work.

Although this is the first campaign during which Miss Julia Yockey has worked with the Evangelistic company, no one who has watched her work would style her a novice. Miss Yockey is a native of Marshall county, Indiana, and it was near the city of Plymouth that she spent the early part of her life. She says she just grew up in Sunday school work. In this wealth of experience that gives character and permanency to the things she undertakes, she has been a member of the "Secretary" of the Marshall County Sunday School association, and as yet she has not resigned that position.

It is the emphasis on county union work that has built up the Sunday-schools in our county, said Miss Yockey. In Plymouth we have a splendid community training school where eminent educators conduct classes and give lectures on the public and various kinds of church work. Then there are union picnics and conventions with all sorts of helpful features."

Miss Yockey is a graduate of the Wisconsin conservatory of music, and has also studied at Western university at Chicago.

THE FIELD OF BUSINESS.

Sioux City Journal: The matter of chief interest in the industrial world, the past week was the strike of the New York traction employees. Efforts of Mayor Mitchell and others to bring the contending factions together proved unavailing, largely because of the refusal of Theodore P. Shonts, head of the traction interests, to accept any suggestion that the dispute between the men and the corporation be arbitrated.

The trouble may well prove disastrous to New York should the strike be long drawn out, not only because it ever affected the rest of the country, so far as business is concerned. In fact, nothing appears to hurt much this year. But it has not happened because of the presidential campaign. It barely hesitated when the country was threatened with a nation wide railroad strike. The confidence of business—"big business" and little business alike—that everything will come out all right, is perhaps the most interesting feature of the existing situation. Buying and selling continue without abatement, regardless of clouds that may threaten.

During the week hogs and cattle both reached record breaking prices on the Sioux City market. This offers a sure indication of prosperity in the Sioux City territory, coupled as it is with high prices for wheat, corn and other farm products.

With wheat lingering around $1.50 on the Chicago market, corn close to the 80-cent mark and cattle and hogs at their present prices, farmers have seldom been in better financial condition.

In the country as a whole, manufacturers are running their plants at full capacity in many lines. In the dry goods and clothing trades, the demand for fall goods is fully equal to the supply, and activity is shown in all parts of the country—east, west, north and south.

The Pacific coast, which has not been enjoying such a degree of prosperity since the war interrupted ocean-trade as it had previously enjoyed, appears to have pulled from its depression. Big crops in the coast states are reported, and that part of the country, as well as other sections, now reports business exceptionally good.

In no line has depression of a serious nature been noted during the week.

FEAT IN STAGING.

The magnitude of David W. Griffith's feat in staging "The Birth of a Nation," is almost appalling at least to the devotees of the older form of theatrical entertainment. Where now are the little groups of actors, the pincheek scenery and the petty properties of the so-called "legitimate" drama? By comparison with the new art, the legitimate, measures to the mountain like a molehill. Instead of scenery for his background, Griffith uses the sky. For subject he has covered 150 years of American life and history. Eighteen thousand people have done his bidding and in the fair-riding ride of the Klansmen three thousand riders and horses sweep over the dusty roads.

No wonder that this magnificent historical spectacle has taken the country. It has established an entirely new art in the realm of the theater—the art of panoramic screen spectacles with orchestral accompaniment perfectly synchronized to the action. It has also created a tremendous sensation because of its vast and more forceful treatment of the theme of Thomas Dixon's "The Clansman," which both as book and play created the greatest furor of the decade of the Civil war and the horrors of Reconstruction are made to live again and the nation re-born is apothecized. Mr. Griffith, more than any director, managed this stupendous achievement without the aid of dialogue or speech, for motion pictures, with music and effect is written and thrilling tale of fifty years ago.

Henry Koehlmoos Breeds Durocs

Great Types Produced by the Man Who Never Owned a Grade. The Purebred Starting Stock Grows Stronger and Better by Careful Selection and Care

Grand View Herd Is Paraded For Public Inspection

HENRY KOEHLMOOS.

Another Young Stockman Has Scored Success.

Here is another Duroc story, not so very different from one you will find on another page. Henry Koehlmoos, who breeds them red and writes their names in the record books of the National Duroc Association, because they trace their blood to sires and dams that have made the "sanlys" famous, is a brother-in-law to Henry Stutman whose breeding achievements are chronicled on another page. The Koehlmoos stock is much the same as Stutman's. They are neighbors and friends as well as relatives, and some of the great males that have improved their respective herds have been owned by them in partnership.

Henry Koehlmoos lives four and one-half miles north and one mile west of Piler. He has everything on his farm that is necessary for farm comfort and profitable stock breeding. The house stands back three or four hundred yards from the road, but you will know the place by the sign of the Duroc on the corner. On the top of the corner stands a big hog-shaped Duroc color. On the backless side of the porkless hog in pine, in white letters, readable from the road are the words: "Henry Koehlmoos, Purebred Duroc Jersey Hogs."

Henry Koehlmoos is a son of Henry Koehlmoos, Sr., who lived on an adjoining farm. Six years ago he was married to an accomplished young lady of Arlington, Neb., named Miss Lizzie Delketter and together they have made the home they now possess and occupy.

THE JERSEYS THAT WERE FIRST

No sooner did Mr. Koehlmoos start raising on his own hook than he started in purebred hogs of the strain he now breeds. His first installment of blood was procured from his brother-in-law, mentioned in the paragraph above. The money that over to his own farm and began their propagation and improvement. He started with two sows, but they were good ones. The best blood of the red families flowed in their veins, and mated with the finest sire lines, a progeny, mould built from stout to tall, is the best, a famous champion, and thus enriched, the judges call them fancy bred and fine.

A FEW DISTINGUISHED SIRE.

Mr. Koehlmoos has owned in partnership with Mr. Stutman some famous boars and some very famous ones have been his individual property. We have the space to trace the fame and breeding of but two.

He is very smooth, stands up on an extra good set of good legs, has a prominent eye and neat ear. He is a good, lengthy boar. He has sired some of the best in the country.

result. All that you can say about big frames of up standing individuals, with long, stretchy bodies, is available to be said about these hogs. They bear the big, heavy, big, heavy, big, heavy, hogs, hogs with bodies long enough to reach from shoulders to hams, hogs that are true owners of the crown of glory in this discourse. If we performed acrobatic stunts with adjectives we would still be language shy in the matter of description.

PERSONNEL OF GRAND VIEW FARM.

Look over the Grand View Herd today and you will find it topny and nifty with the following counts: Twenty fall gilts by Crimson Red. You can note his lofty claim in the pedigree above.

Sixty-five head of spring boars and gilts are large and well fashioned for every purpose which a hog can serve. Here are a number of the males that will make a handsome flock. Males that will grace the herd with their hair and become progenitors of swine fairs, every one good, and best judges would have trouble in selecting the best. Here are a number of the males that will make a handsome flock. The fall litters are arriving every day, twenty or twenty-five are already on the job and show the foundation of future swine that will challenge the laurels of sires.

BUFF ORPHINGTONS.

Mrs. Koehlmoos is in the chicken business and has fine strains of Buff Orphingtons. Here is where the yellow feather shows. Yellow feathers and pink legs make a handsome flock. In the hog business Mr. K. never had a grade bird. She commenced with the pure strain and has constantly improved them by selection and care and today the entire flock scores high. She commenced with a season and young cockerels for breeding can be secured here.

Red Haired, Red Blooded Durocs, Candidates for Pork and Lard, Come Back with Ribbons from Lincoln

A Thrifty Young Breeder Invades the State Fair Show Ring and Comes Out with Seconds and Thirds

HENRY STUTHMAN.

Some Famous Sires and Matrons—High Mounted, Long Geared, Cherry Hued, and of the Much Meat Type

AGAINST THE FIELD AT LINCOLN.
Henry Stuthman was one of the exhibitors at the State Fair this year. And for a young breeder, who is just selling his first purples, he made a creditable showing against the field at Lincoln. He exhibited in the aged boar class and carried off second honors. He drove out a junior yearling against a field of nineteen and captured the third place, and this in the capitol of Nebraska, the Duroc state of all the north and west. Northeast Nebraska is destined to become the breeding place of all the best, and Stuthman has added to its laurels. This was his first advent into the ring, and we maintain that he has a license to be proud of his showing.

LOCATION OF ALFALFA LAWN.
The Henry Stuthman place is five miles north of Pilger. He operates on a quarter section of fine lying land and raises corn, alfalfa and oats, and in addition to his farming is going after the Durocs with commendable vigor. He is a young German with all the industry and thrift for which the young Germans in America are noted. Credit him up to Germany, so far as blood and birth are concerned, but he is an American now, and is a credit to his adopted land. When a lad of but fifteen he landed in this country, in debt for his passage money, and had nothing to his credit but his two hands and a stout heart. He went to work as thousands of his nationality had done before, and his energy blossomed into thrift.

He has a fine home, and in the home an intelligent, helpful wife who does well her part. Mrs. Stuthman is the daughter of Henry Koehlmoos, sr., who lives in the same locality.

The barns, the sheds, the granaries and the hog houses are all in good condition, well maintained, and make a picture of farm plenty and —profitable hogs that will bring big litters, of well-shaped, quick maturing pigs, hogs that grow big bone on alfalfa, and lard well on finishing corn. That is the kind of a hog to raise, and that is the kind of a hog the Duroc is. The Duroc is not a new breed. Though little is known of their origin they are, like the Chester Whites and Poland Chinas, an American breed and in parts of our country, notably New Jersey, they have been bred for nearly a hundred years.

GETTING INTO THE DUROC BLOOD.

For eight years Mr. Stuthman has been climbing toward his present models and rounding up the pens he has today. For the start, he bought two sows of John C. Thike, of Stanton, who is one of the oldest breeders in this part of the state, and one of the dam's, for that matter, who has helped to make this corner of the state noted for fine stock. One of these sows was Wonder Girl by the reputation boar, Crimson Wonder Select. The other was "Laura" by Colonel Critic. These famous sows

LUCY K. 3RD by Champion Echo's Crimson Wonder.

LADY ROSEMOND by Golden Model 17th.

After this comes many more, but lack of space shortens the roster. Follow the family strain and you will note three crosses of the Crimson Wonder strain, one of R. C. W.'s Topper and one of Golden Model, and all are strains, known and honored by all hog breeders, of the middle states.

NOW MR. DUROC BREEDER.

Please take notice of the herd head, an aristocratic name, a wealth of pedigree, nine hundred pounds of flesh; his owner says that he would not exchange him for any boar in the state. Here is his family record:

GRAND MODEL 8TH 163999.
Farrowed March 14th, 1914, litter twelve,

Blue Ribbon Rose 380730.
Blue Ribbon Model 114431.
Unceda Rose 305244.

Here is a fine cross of Golden Model and Crimson Wonder that is top first—here is gold-edge quality. He is one of the longest hogs we ever saw. He is first in color, with regulation arch in the back and is to the common observer right all over. This is the hog that Mr. Stuthman drove out against a field of nineteen junior yearlings down at the Lincoln fair and took third ribbon.

AN INVOICE OF THE HERD.

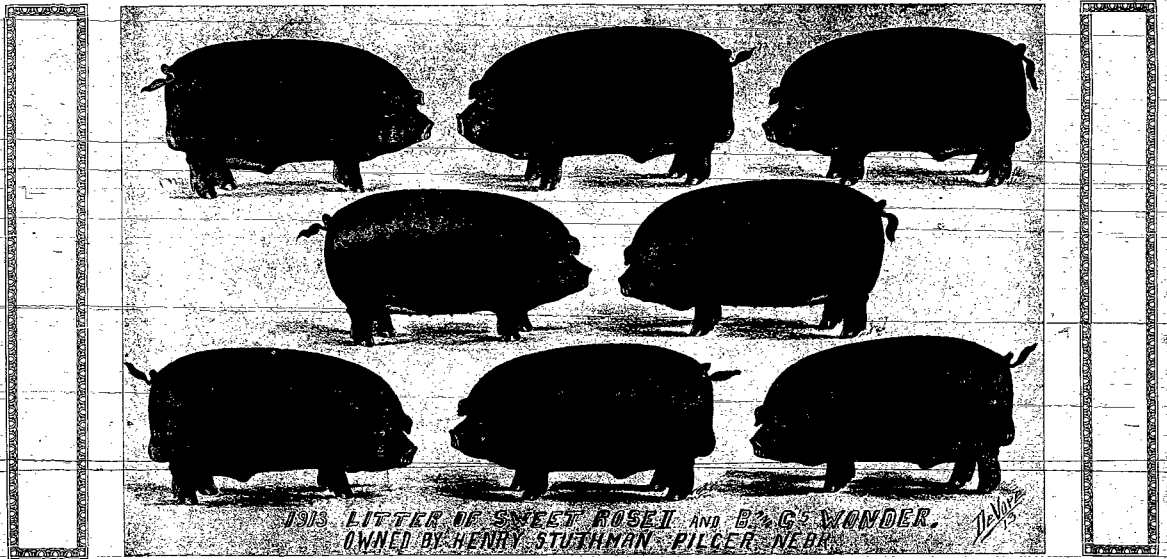

There are fifteen of the mammoth type of great matrons that have this year mothered the herd Mr. Stuthman will offer for sale. They are rumpy, with long bodies and great weight and walk well above great udders that gave the roundness and condition to the spring litters.

There are eight fall gilts—gilts as shapely as breeding can make them. If you are a young farmer starting out for yourself, a few such gilts as these will make your fortune.

There is one fall boar—red hair and red blood; he is ready to go to some stockman's herd and become a getter of his kind.

There are ninety pigs, boars and gilts, in the spring litter, and they are even-sized and uniform in color and like in type. They come of a great sire and are from the dams we have described. You can find what you want in this herd.

Forty-five of the fall litter have already arrived. They are plump with the plumpness of new born nursing pigs and sorel with the good breeding of infant Durocs. They are picturesquely and well bred, and care that they will have, they will be pictures at every stage in their developing. Stockmen, keep your eyes on Mr. Stuthman. He is new in the business. He has only rounded the first lap, but he knows what Durocs are, and he has the grit to pay the price for the blood strains he wants. He will top good strains with better strains, and he will produce Durocs as the years go by equipment calculated to make the city dweller green with envy.

EVERYWHERE THE CHERRY COLORED HOG.

Swarming over the place, wallowing beside the tank, lying in the shade of the trees, grazing the alfalfa, rooting in the feed trough, were hogs and hogs—hogs of all sizes. The hog seemed everywhere—everywhere the cherry colored hog, Durocs of blood and type are farrowed to the master class. Here is a very profitable hog. He stands well up on his legs, an abundance of daylight swims under him. His ears drop over his face and point toward each other, but the magic is in his body. His bone is so long and stretchy that if you faced him toward the future his tail would curl around Monday morning and his snout could root up Saturday afternoon. Here is the bacon producer, and the salt side porker, and here is the frame that will carry the lard. Our hat is always off to the Poland Chins, but we are compelled to hand easy honors over to the Durocs.

With the world clamoring louder and louder each day for more meat—with the old world denuded of producing stock, hogs are going to the bank depositors for decades to come. Every farmer owes it to the world, as well as to himself, to raise hogs and raise as many as possible. He owes it to himself to raise good hogs by state-famed boars made fine foundation stock and account well for the fine showing of the Alfalfa Lawn Herd today. On the other side the selection was equally good and the stock family as classful. The first boar was Commodore Chief, by Commodore Lad and was also bred by the Stanton breeder. This made classy top blood for the farrows of Laura and Wonder Girl and led up to the finely developed herd we are describing. To this high class strain was added from generation to generation the rich blood of Red Jim and Melina's Wonder. Then, too, on the dam's side, the blood was strengthened by the purchase of such sows as Sweet Rose for which Mr. Stuthman paid three hundred and twenty-five dollars. When purchased, Sweet Rose was bred to B. & G.'s wonder, an 800 boar, and she became the dam of another famous boar that was afterwards known as Sweet Rose's Wonder. We present in the cut below one of her famous litters. The cut was made from a Devore photograph and gives the camera's interpretation of Sweet Rose Wonder's sandy babies.

Here are the names of some of the queenly matrons in the family of Stuthman's royal swine:

He has size and quality, heavy bone, long deep body, well arched, strong back, with perfect head and ears. This hog was down at Lincoln this month and entered in the Aged Boar class and came out of the contest with the second ribbon. that will bring him buyers from all parts of the land.

RHODE ISLAND REDS.

If hogs are red on the Stuthman place, the chickens are, too, and Mrs. Stuthman matches her husband's red shoats with her red pullets and cockerels. Only the pure strain of Rhode Island Reds is kept. The big frame and the deep colored plumage, mark the flock Mrs. Stuthman has raised this year. She has a great demand for setting eggs and young cockles and is pretty well fixed for supplying orders.

Why will not farmers raise pure stock of every kind, when they are raising to grow and fat, and more profitable to sell, and why do not farmers' wives raise the pure strain of chickens of every kind, to give their husbands money makers. And now, gentle reader, write it down somewhere in your daybook or on the almanac that the place to buy red hedges for the hog yard and red feathers for the chicken coop is down at Stuthman's.

WRITE FOR WHAT YOU WANT.

Henry Stuthman is always at home to friends and stockmen. He takes much pleasure in showing you the contents of his pens. Whether you buy or not, you will be welcome to inspect his herd. If you want further information, write for descriptions and your communication will receive prompt attention.

CONSOLIDATED WITH THE WAYNE REPUBLICAN

WAYNE, NEBRASKA, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 21, 1916.

VOL. 29, NO. 17

CHARGE DEMOCRATS WITH BIAS FOR SOUTH

Representative Simon D. Floss of Ohio, charges the democratic administration with strong favoritism for the southern states. He points out that the five controlling heads of the president's cabinet are southern men. As to the two branches of the senate, the southern senators in leadership and working committees are southern. The house, from speaker to floorkeeper, is southern. Seventy-five of sixteen great committees are headed by southern men. In the course of his criticism as published in Sunday's Omaha Beach, under a Washington date-line, he says in part:

Here are eighteen committees whose heads represent nine states— one northern and eight southern. Of these the ways and means, judiciary, banking and currency, interstate and foreign commerce, foreign affairs, merchant marine, insular affairs and rules all have to do with governmental attitude on questions of policy toward the foreign nations, the policy determining. The heads of these come from southern states—North Carolina, Virginia, Georgia, Missouri and Texas. These states determine the government's attitude in policy.

On the other hand, the appropriate military affairs, naval affairs, postoffice, public buildings, agriculture and rivers and harbors have to do with not only policy, but appropriations of public money. They carry largely the latter function. All these except the first is controlled by the south. The other large committees are under a democratic administration.

One-fifth Rules the Nation.
"It will thus be noticed that what the country's policy will be, as outlined by the Sixty-fourth congress, will depend upon the influence of the chairman, not one single one of whom comes from a state north of the Ohio river line. The committee on appropriations is not a determining committee. If it be our naval policy, the chairman is from Tennessee. If it be our military policy, the chairman is from Virginia. If it be our foreign policy, our chairman is from Virginia. If it be our insular policy touching the Philippines, our chairman is from Virginia. If it be our interstate or foreign commerce, he is from Georgia. If it be our immigration policy, he is from Kansas. If it be our merchant marine, he is from Missouri. If it be our roads, he is from Missouri. If it be on railways and canals, he is from Texas.

"An analysis of the situation of the south in the saddle is interesting. The eight southern states here enumerated, which have elected to these important matters, contain:

"First, in population, both white and colored, less than 20 per cent according to the census of 1910, which is about one-fifth of the country's people.
"Second, in wealth they have less than $25,000,000,000, or about one-seventh of the country's wealth.
"Third, in representation in the house, less than 10 per cent.

Minority in Control.
"It will be noticed that the state of Virginia controls four committees of the most significant possibilities. This is with a population of 2,862,000 and wealth in 1912 of $2,800,000,000, with ten representatives upon the floor of the house, four times the number in the senate. If chairmanships have any meaning, that of all the New England states, the middle Atlantic states, the east and west states, the north and west states combined with a population in 1910 of 60,000,000 and wealth amounting to nearly $100,000,000,000. This state, with ten representatives, by virtue of the organization of the Sixty-fourth congress, exercises the influence of four times over, if chairmanships of committees have any significance—than all of New England, with thirty-two representatives; New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania, with ninety representatives; Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin, with eighty representatives; Minnesota, Iowa, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska and Kansas with forty-one representatives; and all the states west of the Rocky mountains, making a total of thirty-one states with 282 representatives. These same states will cast 57 per cent of the electoral college votes, or seventy-five more votes than are necessary to elect a president.

"It will be noted how important committees are assigned: To Virginia, four; to Texas, three; to Tennessee, three; North Carolina, two; Georgia, one; South Carolina, one. These eighteen committees, including the rules committee, except one, are under southern control.

"The thing that troubles you and troubles me, is that the mighty leaders disagree; And while they quarrel, we in darkness grope, Dismayed, bewildered, without help or hope.

DENNIS KELLEHER.

Dennis Kelleher, who until about eight years ago had lived in Wayne county, passed away Friday, September 24, at his home in Windom, Minn., where he had lived for the past two years. The remains were brought to Wayne Sunday morning by his wife, accompanied by Mrs. Kelleher, his mother and brother, Lucius Dinean. The funeral services were conducted by the Rev. Father William Kearns from St. Mary's church Monday morning at 10:30 o'clock and interment took place in Evergreen cemetery.

The deceased was born in Ireland near Cork September 24, 1861, and lacked but a few days of being 55 years old. When 19 years of age he came to America, locating at Galena, Ill. A few years later he moved to Wayne county living south of town until eight years ago when he removed to North Park, Minn. While at Wayne he was married to Miss Harriet Dinean and to their three children were born. Mrs. Kelleher preceded her husband in death eight years ago. Later he was married to Mrs. Sylvia Ham of Sioux City, and to this union four children were born.

Mr. Kelleher is survived by all of his children, four of whom, John, William, Mary and Mira, were in the home at North Park. One brother, Dan, and a sister, Mrs. Ryan, live in Ireland. RETURNS FROM MAINE.

Bixby in Lincoln Journal: Returns from the Maine election have thrown a cold wet blanket on democratic hopes. The straw vote is nothing in comparison as indicating the trend of public sentiment. The republican national victory may now be looked forward to with confident assurance that it will come to pass. The democratic party means well, but its convictions are not based on what is best for the nation need revising upward. It may truly be said of the party as a whole that it is not only inefficient, incompetent, not to say incoherent. It agrees with itself in but one thing, that to the victors belong the spoils. It remembers that Andrew Jackson promulgated that doctrine thereby solidifying the party as nothing else ever did or ever could have done.

Call it a crime or a disease, Or any other thing you please, Herein the party well agrees.

That officers they may achieve, The leaders practice to deceive. Don't give a darn what they believe.

Three years ago for days and nights Great Woodrow scoffed at woman's rights—

Three years ago he chewed the rag Because Old Huerta, with his flag, Said he'd not (hic), salute the flag.

Said he to Fejshing, "Go, my dear, And tramp the streets for a year. But bring the bones of Villa here."

And now he says to Funston, "Tell the boys come home; that all is well. Let these Villistas go to Jemenez.

He stood for peace, not war's dark game, And then munition-makers came— He changed his mind; a burning shame.

The democrats my soul have vexed, Their sermon never fits their text; Lord knows what they will stand for next.

It almost gives a saint the blues To follow their divergent views— Say, "I'll be in and vote for Hughes."

THE DOCTORS.

The British Medical Journal says that cancer is increasing throughout the civilized world, and our own National Cancer Society attributes the increase to our system of vaccination. We know what ails us but we don't know why. Will our knowledge break through by and by? The thing that troubles you and troubles me, Is that the mighty leaders disagree; And while they quarrel, we in darkness grope, Dismayed, bewildered, without help or hope.

Andrew R. Oleson, Judge of the Ninth Judicial District, As Measured by Achievements

On the Bench by Appointment, Is Candidate for Reelection on Non-Partisan Ticket. Born in North Europe, He Came Early to this Land of Opportunity. Forty-Seven Years A Resident in the District.

THE NINTH JUDICIAL DISTRICT

With just a few words as possible, and with just as plain words as can be used, we are here to present in a straightforward, business-like way the qualities and characteristics of Judge Andrew R. Oleson of Norfolk, one of the judges of the Ninth judicial district, who is a candidate for reelection on the non-partisan ticket. First, know all men that, there are seven counties in this district, Knox, Wayne, Madison, Cuming, Stanton, Pierce and Antelope and make it that the men of these counties, who do not already know Judge Oleson are anxious to know something about him so that they may vote intelligently for the next judges of this Ninth judicial district.

THIS COLUMN IS FOR PUBLICITY

This column is for no other purpose than to carry to the voters all the information concerning Judge Oleson, who asks their support, that it is possible to give. The judge's life is an open book. There is nothing to cover up—nothing to keep back. His candle burns no hiding place under a bushel; therefore you are asked to read the story of a hard working man who has come up from obscurity by sheer force of his own efforts, and who has won his own laurels.

NAME COMMENCES WITH THE IRISHMAN'S O

The Irish were the first people to invent names that commenced with the letter O, but here is a north-born man who spells his name with the Irishman's O and so far as appearances go, resembles an Irishman more than he does a Swede. Judge Oleson was born in Sweden forty-eight years ago. He was less than two years old when his parents brought him to this country. This has been to him—as it has been to thousands of others, who came in childhood from the old country,—the land of opportunity. His parents homesteaded down in what is known as the Swedish settlement, down in Stanton county, between Stanton and Winfield. For forty-six years he was a resident of Stanton and Cuming counties, but recently he has removed to Norfolk in Madison county, but with all that, for forty-seven years he has been a resident of the judicial district in which he holds a judgeship. Coming as he did that stout-hearted, industrious, Scandinavian stock his making good was only a very common occurrence, and was to have been expected.

HIS FANCY TURNED TO LAW

He passed through the schools with credit to himself and teachers and having finished the basic course of the high school, entered the University of Wisconsin, from the law department of which institution he graduated in 1891. He came back to his adopted state and nailed up his shingle in Wisner. He met all the trials a young lawyer must meet and passed through all the experiences incident to establishing a law practice. All the ups and downs and constantly changing fortunes came to him, the same as they have come to others, but he was in the profession for a life work and he "stuck." Recognition came with time as set comes to all the deserving hard workers.

COUNTY ATTORNEY AND STATE SENATOR

The voters of Cuming county elected him county attorney and in the capacity of public prosecutor he served the county for several years, and we have been told that he made one of the best attorneys Cuming county ever elected. In 1901 he was elected state senator to represent Cuming and Bert counties in the state senate. That session was noted for its larger. Two counties were added and this made the territory too large to be presided over by one district judge. By the redistricting act two judges were allowed this district and as only one had been elected, the second judge was subject to appointment. It was an envied position; there were many able and prominent applicants, but in July, 1915, Governor Morehead appointed Judge Oleson district judge until the next biennial election. So it happens that for over a year this strong man has occupied the judicial bench in this Ninth district. Now comes the time of election and Judge Oleson asks that the people retain him another term on the bench. In view of the shorter term appointment, and the record he has made the judge has a right to be a candidate.

THE NON-PARTISAN TICKET

The legislature of 1913 passed the non-partisan judiciary law and since that time all judges have to be elected as non-partisans and their names cannot appear on a partisan ballot. To meet the requirements of that law a separate ballot is provided on which are only the names of candidates for district and county judges. In this Ninth district each voter will be furnished such a card or separate ballot, and on this ballot you will find the name of Judge Andrew R. Oleson. By the act which provides for the rotation of candidates' names on the ballot, the judge's name will sometimes appear first on the list, sometimes second and sometimes last. But every intelligent voter who investigates, who finds out who the candidates are and all that can be learned about their qualifications will find the name of the man he desires to support no matter where it may appear on the ballot.

GOING UP THE LADDER

On his personal card the judge parades neither his qualifications nor claims for support. He says that his office holding has been small and that he has no past record of high and exalted positions to present as a reason why he should be elected judge. He declares that he is on his way up the ladder at the present time. That is both modest and correct, and perhaps is the best way to put it. But men are supposed to be elected to buds before they are entitled to be candidates for blossoms. They are expected to fill vacancies before they occupy hollyhocks, and his friends insist that the judge has passed through the lower orders of buds and violets, district attorneyship, state senatorship and so on before he reached the bench, and is thus competent by the natural laws of preferment and promotion to fill the place he occupies and to continue in it as a reward for the early grace he has bestowed upon the short term. The judge's appeal is made to the men of the seven counties. They are asked to examine records and ascertain facts and pass judgment on their findings on the seventh day of next November.

FRANK FRENCH.

insurgency and war on boss rule by the independent voters and Judge Oleson was one of the independents and made a record for independent manhood and action. Every line in his face indicates independent thought and action. Every gesture, every move, is a suggestion of force, and latent reserve. He has the frank and open expression of the honest man—the strong man, and the sincere man. The elements of independence and judicial poise mark him well. We would say that he was keen of perception and competent to make nice distinctions. A kindly expression hides in his gray eyes and plays over his face, in the lights and shades that masquerade a generous mercy.

VERSED IN LAW AND ABLE IN PRACTICE

Among the law practitioners of the state Judge Oleson has made an envied place. Twenty-four years' experience and practice have made him a versed and able jurist. Twenty-four years experience in commercial, criminal and probate law, have made him a keen discerner of men, and rich in those qualities of judicial temperament, that fit men for the bench.

MOREHEAD APPOINTS A DISTRICT JUDGE

Not long since there was a readjustment of judicial districts in the state, and in the shake-up, the Ninth district was made

We are the victims of their foolish brinks, And when they come to "bury their mistakes," It is too late for friends to make a difference.

For that is when the doctors bury us. I see in all the medicines they mix "Scientific" fluctuations—Much "scientific" fluctuation—mix.

THE SLAVE PROBLEM—THE BIRTH OF A NATION

The slave trade in America and slavery as it existed prior to the birth of a nation is exemplified in the Birth of a Nation. D. W. Griffith's pictorial and musical elaboration of Thomas Dixon's "The Clansman" and "The Leopard's Spots." This phase of political conditions is being strikingly shown in the impor-tion of the first slaves to the troubles that grew out of their freedom and consequent enfranchisement and subsequent tribulations of the south under carpet-bag rule.

As a sort of prologue to the drama, the arrival of the first cargo of slaves is presented with historical fidelity. From this the scene changes to ante-bellum days, depicting the life of the negro in the south at that time. Then comes the turmoil of war, and the role of black over white with a mulatto lieutenant governor in the capital of South Carolina and the Ku Klux Klan rising through the countryside to rescue their women and preserve their traditions.

Lincoln signing the emancipation proclamation is a favorite among the 5,000 odd scenes of the mighty spectacle. See the Birth of a Nation, when it appears here September 25, 26 and 27, with and negro problem in America in mind, as well as the manifold other particular features, and you will marvel at what you behold.

Music lovers are as pleased with this presentation as they are with the production of grand opera, as its score of martial music, patriotic airs and folk songs is played by a symphony orchestra, especially trained and carried for this purpose, and which greatly enhances the emotional power of the splendid work.

facilities of important events. We see Lincoln among his counselors issuing the call for volunteers, Grant and Lee shaking hands at Appomattox, the shot that John Wilkes Booth fired, the Freedman's Bureau, the carpetbaggers' excesses, and the famous rides of the Ku Klux. The realism is almost uncanny. Often the old war shouts are heard in the audiences from the lips of veterans who momentarily forget that it is only a picture. It is hard to keep one's feet from dancing to the well-beloved tunes of the martial music. Scenes in the latter half of the picture are so skillfully managed that often the applause is practically continuous for half to three-quarters of an hour. "Cabria" and "Quo Vadis" marked great steps forward. Yet, in the screen drama, "The Birth of a Nation" points a still more wonderful development, the old dramatic form having been thrown away, and the epic or historical form substituted. The old reproach against the "ten-cent movie" is forever removed. It is a curious sight now in New York to see dozens of spectators asking three or four dollars for a seat for moving pictures, whilst inside at the box office the public gladly pays the regular scale of prices at a fashionable metropolitan theater.

The labor involved in this newest sort of picture-making is enormous. There are 5,000 separate and individually posed scenes involving about 200,000 interesting details. The musical score is as complex and elaborate as that of any grand opera. Although not a word is spoken on the stage, the musical and mechanical effects employ a hundred flesh-and-blood helpers nightly. In brief, the magnitude of the stupendous film dwarfs the average stage play into insignificance.

Theatrical producers and observers are wondering what will be the

TRIUMPH OF A NEW ART.

David W. Griffith's most extraordinary achievement with his new photo-spectacle "The Birth of a Nation" coming to the Wayne opera house, is that of making his book-romance "The Clansmen" a reality. His has told the high peaks of American history—the introduction of slavery, the War of Secession, the surrender at Appomattox, the death of Lincoln and the miseries of Reconstruction and the restoration of the south to its own. These things, it would have seemed a year ago, were beyond the imagination of any man. The master producer had the faith of an enthusiast. Within 12,000 feet of celluloid film he has successfully compressed a thrilling, plausible and dignified presentation of national upgrowth with a real and human love story based on Thomas Dixon's book-romance "The Clansmen" and it appears to the newspaper and magazine critics, Mr. Griffith has not only surpassed the art of the "picture theater," but has also developed a new art-form superior to the old-style history or historical novel. The best characterization of it so far is that a very eminent public man who has called it "History by lightning." Mr. Griffith employed 18,000 people in taking these historical pictures. The battle scenes were actual duplicates of several of the Civil war conflicts, and so were the next evolution of the art. Will the cinema replace the text-book in the public schools? Will the Walter Scotts and the W. M. Thackerays of the future do pictures instead of novels? Will the historians be replaced by the camera man, and the still-life painter by one who, like Griffith, can turn out hundreds of dramatic scenes in an evening's entertainment? Some of these queries seem daring now, even grotesque. Yet, in view of what is happening around us, it is hard to say impossible—to set any limits to the future achievements of the motion picture.

Aurora Republican: Some of our editorial colleagues express surprise that Mr. Hughes succeeded, so early in his campaign, in putting the Wilson administration on the defensive. To us it would have been more surprising if he had not done so. The fact is that the administration is extremely vulnerable. Its record replete with broken promises, with examples of bad faith, with evidence of intellectual and political instability—to say the least—and with constantly recurring proofs of inefficiency. This record is being set forth by Mr. Hughes with remarkably explicit force—and the administration must perform, defend itself, though weakly.

RAILROAD ESTIMATE OF STATE'S CORN CROP

Omaha, Sept. 19.—While the Burlington are working on disjunctions, the issuance of weekly crop reports until the beginning of the growing season next year, it is our wish with respect to crop yields in Nebraska, precipitation and the condition of the soil.

The Bureau of crop data secured from agents in all parts of the state, the Burlington officials estimate the corn yield as follows:

Omaha division, 28 bushels per acre; Lincoln, 27; Wynome, 23; McCook 18.

It is asserted that the foregoing figures are conservative and that there is any change to be made it will be upward instead of downward. On the basis of the estimated yield a limited acreage of the total Nebraska corn yield for the year will be about 199,000,000 bushels.

Although there have been several reports during the last ten days the assurance is given that little if any of the Nebraska corn was damaged, the theory being that when the frost comes it will be along with them, they helped to mature that portion that happened to be a little late and backward.

It is estimated that the seeding of winter wheat is about 30 percent finished and that plowing prior to seeding has been completed.

"During the winter all over the state there were heavy rains, the precipitation everywhere except over a limited section of the Missouri river, being from one to four inches. The heaviest rain was through the southern part of the state.

GILBERT E. FRENCH

On the Republican Ticket for Treasurer of Wayne County

The Winside Man Eminently Qualified. Long Residence and Business Career in Wayne County. A Handler of Money and Ledgers. Stands on Platform of Personal Efficiency. Gilbert E. French, No Relation to Frank French.

A LESSON IN FRENCH

Don't shout into the dark, regardless of what you might hit. Don't jump with your eyes hoggled. Don't vote for a candidate you don't know anything about. If the candidates are strangers to you, have a reception committee appointed and get acquainted with them. Find out all you can about them and how they happened. Whether they are on your ticket or not makes small difference to the voter he should be well acquainted with the man you vote against as with the ones you boost. This applies a little closer to local men on the county ticket than to those on the state or national ticket. Politics and party affiliations cut less ice in local affairs than in the wider circles, and the man counts for more so far as you are concerned. You have no excuse for not knowing the candidate you live in your county. You have access to his record book and can trace his pedigree. You can find out whether he is going or coming, or doing both; whether he is black or white and whether his name is Smith or Johnson, and in the name of all that is patriotic and politically sacred, it is your duty to do it.

Now, here is an instance in which we are making this thing easy for you. We are going to introduce Gilbert E. French to any man in Wayne county who may not know him. We are going to give you a lesson in "French" that will be plain and easy.

WHEN THE CANDIDATE WAS YOUNG

It happened forty-three years ago in Peoria, Illinois. It was there and at that time that Gilbert E. French began. Illinois is a good place to begin and the writer has been advised that Gilbert was not the only "French" that celebrated his commencement in that state. At the lucky age of thirteen he came with his parents to Nebraska and settled in Wayne. Here he ran the gamut of the public schools and graduated from the high school in the class of ninety. Later he took a business course in the Omaha Commercial college where he received the equipment for his business career.

His first position was in the Citizens National bank of Wayne. He spent ten years of his life in this bank. He began as assistant bookkeeper, and when he left was assistant cashier. When he stepped out of the bank he stepped out of Nebraska about the same time. He went to Fairfax, South Dakota, and organized a bank of his own. Two years was all he could stand in the Dakotas; the lure of Nebraska and Wayne county was too strong. He returned to the place of his first love and settled in Winside where he has resided ever since.

BECOMES A WINSIDE BANKER

With his feet well fastened on the county clay once more, he joined with others and pushed through a deal that put him in possession of the Merchants' State bank of Winside. This he operated until October, 1915, when he sold his interests and quit the banking business.

Since that time he has organized the G. E. French Grain and Live Stock com-

A CANDIDATE FOR THE FIRST-TIME

Prompted by the suggestion of many friends last spring he filed in the primaries as candidate for county treasurer on the republican ticket, and secured the nomination. In this move he was a candidate for the first time. Never before had he sought political preferment. His republicanism is firm linen and hem-stitched, but up to the present date he has asked no honors or recognition from his party. He goes now, however, with confidence before the voters of the county and asks for consideration.

GILT-EDGE QUALIFICATIONS

All his life an account man, always trusted to the handling and counting of money, he submits to the voters his qualifications and asks their franchise upon the platform of efficiency. His schooling, his years in the bank, his long service as bookkeeper, his experience with men in the actual arena of business, where business accounts is first requisite, make up the schedule of this man's, and are called by competent judges gilt-edge qualifications. He has the experience, the education, and the ripe, matured judgment. He has overcome his youth and is in the fine prime of middle years. He keeps clean, neat-looking books and is accurate in his accounts. He knows what is required of a county treasurer and has the resources to meet the situation. Nobody will challenge his ability.

A WELL KNOWN GOOD MIXER

The people of Wayne county, who read these lines, know already, for the most part, the man described. The business acquaintance of Mr. French is wide and extends throughout the county. He is a well-known good mixer and accommodator with all. Since he never married he will not be weighted down with family cares. He can devote his entire time and attention to the affairs of his office and render the expected service. A successful business career comes onto the witness stand and makes oath that he is a man of good judgment and will not bungle county affairs if they are entrusted to him. In addition to this, his habits will bear scrutiny and be an asset rather than a liability.

He is of good moral character and splendid reputation, and has hosts of friends. He lends support to every commendable enterprise and is a progressive advocate of the best things and best measures in all lines.

This is the life-sized portrait of Gilbert E. French, republican candidate for treasurer of Wayne county, painted in plain words, and hung on the walls of Wayne county for public inspection by every voter.

WILL RECITE ON THE SEVENTH OF NOVEMBER

And now we have presented the candidate and described the man, we have fulfilled the function of an up-to-date newspaper. We have given the voters a lesson in "French" and they will be asked to recite on the seventh of November. Whether you vote for French or not you will know all about him. You know who he is, where he came from, where he has lived and what he can do, and the rest of it is very cheerfully left to you. Exercise your judgment and do your duty.

THE GOODS AND NOT THE NAME

We have happened upon times when, especially in local affairs, a candidate's party affiliation, or brand of politics, counts for little. If he is a man of better weight and measure, the voter is inclined to pass up his politics as they may pertain to state or national issues. Efficiency is the economical, the financial, administrative, political and personal platform on which Mr. French stands and asks the franchise of the Wayne county voters, regardless of party entanglements. It is the goods and not the name that is presented and it is the goods that will be delivered.

Let it be forgotten, we mention here that Gilbert E. French is no relation to Frank French, and has no sins charged to him on that score.

AND NOW THE LAST WORD

In official circles and county affairs it is natural and fair to presume that the men who have been successful in their own business and personal affairs can be safely trusted with the business and affairs of the public. Mr. French has been eminently successful in his private business and has possessed always the push and energy of the thrifty business man. He has succeeded for himself and there is every reason to believe that he will succeed as an officer of Wayne county and as an attaché of the Wayne county court house, if he is called to the position. He is making a clean campaign. With no graft, no bribe, he does not hesitate to criticize his opponent.

And now cometh the seventh of November, and the cool judgment of the level headed voters of Wayne county will be accepted and final.

The legislature provided a court commission which was not required to write opinions in the cases decided by it, and requiring the commission to pass upon motions for rehearing. The cases submitted to the commission were to be selected by the court. The supreme judges construed this statute to mean that unimportant cases were to be disposed of summarily by the commission. This commission has during the past two terms, since September 20, 1915, disposed of 228 cases. The court itself has during the same time rendered opinions in 591 cases. The new statute also provided that the court should dispose of cases in which no new principle was involved without writing opinions thereon. It is estimated that the court disposed of sixty-four cases. During that time 793 cases were disposed by court and commission, besides a large number dismissed by the parties or by the court upon motion.

URGES GOLDEN RULE.

Burrington Herald: One of the ministers in this city laid the Herald the complement last Sunday night of changing his subject in order that he might criticize the ideas advanced by the editor in regard to making religion more attractive and popular. He declared that justification by faith and other similar doctrines were the fundamental things, and that any tendency to get away from these was the rankest kind of heresy. He seemed to think that the Golden Rule would be a mere principle like the Golden Rule would have a very secure foundation. Well, he does not wish to argue the question, but it just occurs to us that the Golden Rule was promulgated by the founder of the Christian religion himself while justification by faith and other similar doctrines were invented later, so it does not seem as though one would go very far astray if he should adopt the Golden Rule as a creed. But all the churches have done this, and it is the least of our duty to do for the sake of argument that our friend's position is exactly right, and that the doctrines of the Golden Rule are the orthodox Christianity should be dispensed from the pulpit what, we ask, does it profit if the people will not listen to him? If after all the churches have done this, almost, and gathered in all the people they possibly can to feed on the string meat of the orthodox doctrines, if then, we say, a large remnant remains, and we establish an institution which will attract them, and in which they will be administered the correct doses of truth made palatable with a sugar coating of music and other entertaining features, who should object?

DELEGATION OF DRYS HOLDS MEETING HERE

Shortly after 8 o'clock Saturday evening a delegation of eight workers for the dry amendment arrived in Wayne by automobile, and immediately opened fire on the street with some lively music. Frank Harrison of Lincoln took the lead in singing on his horn and Miss Isabelle Havens of Atkinson sang a pleasing solo. Mr. Harrison also spoke briefly urging everybody to be on the alert to win votes for the amendment. Senator W. F. Dale reviewed some of the arguments in favor of the amendment and asked the people not to vote blindly and without thinking. The party spent Sunday in Wayne county and left Monday morning for Carroll as per schedule. The names of the workers follow: Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harrison, Lincoln; Mrs. P. T. McGee, Falls City; Miss Isabelle Havens, Atkinson; J. J. Boucher and Fred Carey, Omaha; H. Wickham, Harrison, and Senator W. F. Dale, Denton.

MUCH DEBATED SUBJECT.

Hartington Herald. This discussion about the propriety of carrying the advertising of the Nebraska Prosperity League goes on interminably. Some of the men who bear the ground that it ought to be absolutely excluded—others say that it is perfectly proper to run it, and still others maintain that, while the advertising is objectionable, it is permissible for the newspapers to accept it for the reason that the publishers need the necessary circulation seems to us foolhardy and to arrive nowhere. As far as the Herald is concerned, we are carrying the advertising of the Nebraska Prosperity League, not because we need the money particularly, but for the simple reason that we know of no valid ground on which we could refuse it. The advertising of the League is not objectionable in matter or in form. The only objection that can be made against them is that they are not sound in argument, the very point to be proved, and therefore it would be a very unfair procedure for a publisher to assume the position of a censor, and to exclude various propositions which are set forth in his advertising columns. Accordingly to that, as the Coleridge Blade thoughtfully suggests, if a man was to refuse to accept an advertisement, he would be justified in refusing the temperance forces the opportunity of presenting their side of the case. But we are not here to advocate what we are willing to concede that this would be a fair position to take? We would like to see the temperance forces get down to brass tacks and stop beating about the bush in regard to it. If it is morally wrong to run anti-prohibition advertisements, let us have the reason, and if it is not morally wrong, let us understand that it is prejudice and not moral conviction which would exclude them from the public prints. As far as the Herald is concerned, we are open to conviction on the subject, but we have failed to see the reason for our exclusion. The question whether prohibition prohibits or not is an academic one which has been debated for years, and since a prohibition amendment is to be voted on this fall, we see no reason why both sides should not be given a chance to be heard. If the prohibition party has any advantage of this opportunity, and the prohibition party does not that is up to them.

BIRTH OF A NATION STRIPPED TO FIGHTING STRENGTH.

Some idea of the intensity of the action contained in the two thousand and odd feet of pictorial grandeur that go to make-up D. W. Griffith's "Birth of a Nation" may be gathered from the fact that 10,000 feet were photographed in the subject, from which to cut 12,000 feet—less than ten percent—

OLD TIMERS.

When old men meet they ask for news of friends they used to know. "Say, what's become of Hiram Hughes?"

TRED TOURIST.

I've seen such sights of wonder in Colorado's hills, wild canyons deep as thunder, and peaks that gave me see the "Katy" station, and look for Soden's dam. You read the grand old singers, whose stanzas are sublime; and while you know they're dangers, they lure you out in time.

HORSE AND AUTO.

A year ago I drove a steed, and said, "A horse is better far than that deficient in his speed than any chugging motor car. A horse is mankind's faithful friend, a thing of spirit, heart and sense, and sees you well till in the end, he kicks you through a barbed wire fence."

friends, so many men have selfish ends. I love a country to my heart, and feed him pie and danson tarts and give him love that's pure and deep. Then he requests an almsheet sleep. Then he requests an almsheet sleep. "I'd gladly lend you all you need," I say in answer, "but indeed H. C. of L. has stripped me bare—"

THE EARLY DAYS IN TWO COUNTIES.

From the Wayne Herald, September 26, 1895. The first heavy frost in 1895 was on September 23.

SURRENDER OF LEE TO GRANT, SHOWN IN "BIRTH OF A NATION," OPERA HOUSE, WAYNE, NEB., MONDAY, TUESDAY, AND WEDNESDAY, TWICE DAILY, 2:15 AND 8:15.

shrills that I am weary, very, of things that are sublime, and for the old flat prairie I'm longing all the time. The mountains rise in glory, each with its snowcapped dome, but back in old Emory, a fellow feels at home; and when he's done his labors and earned his fifty cents, he pow-pows with his neighbors, fam-

mar. I fill the throbbing air with song.

BURROS.

The burros loyally interest the mountain regions of the west. You see them on the dizzy trails, with drooping ears and switching tails; and as they climb the rocky steep, they seem walking in their sleep. The world has many mournful things, that walk on legs or fly on wings; the moping owl seems so depressed it glazes some fantastic mountainsides; the cross-eyed jacksal sits and howls more dismally than all the owls. The circus clown has won renown as being merry as a clown. But if you'd see the sort of awc, pack up your thermos flasks and go, out to some rugged western place, and look a burro in the face. There you will find beneath those ears, the sorrow of a million years. I wondered why he looked so sad, when, in a Colorado grid, I first beheld him packing round a dame who weighed two hundred pounds. But soon I knew, wherever he wanders, a gale of merriment ascends, and dreary jokes assail his ears and fill his patient eyes with tears. No beast can be a standing jest, and find in life much joy or zest.

VACATIONERS.

I've been where countless people went for recreation and repose, where forty kinds of seeds are spent for motor rides and things like those. There were, for those who had the price, all kinds of harmless, cheerful amuses, and there was every known device to make a man forget his cares. I sat and watched them, all day long, beneath a quaking aspen tree; to find so sad and glum a throng; a funeral you'd have to see. The tourist plodded on his way, as though he'd lost his dearest friend; his face, despondent, seemed to say, "I see this—good-bye to the world." With gloom expressed in every act, he went the rounds, where others went, and saw the Rainbow cataract or gazed on fakers in a tent. The Whirl-Cavens he explored, and trailed along some dizzy curve, and all the while he looked so bored the guides and spiclers lost their nerve. I saw ten thousand tourists thus; they joggled along through scenes sublime, and looked as though they'd like to cuss so vain a waste of precious time.

FRIENDS.

It's hard to know who are your

A group of buildings valued at $1,200, on R. B. Leonard's farm in Logan precinct was completely destroyed by lightning.

The market for twenty-one years ago (1895) is interesting as a comparison with the markets of today: At that time wheat was 36 cents; oats, 13 cents; fax, 85 cents; butter, 8 cents; eggs, 5 cents;atoes, 25 cents; hogs $3.60; corn 23 cents.

The Democrat and the Herald have been quarreling about the size of each other's circulation. The former claimed to have 700 on the subscription file and the latter asserted a list of 960.

From Ponca Journal, September 21, 1882: The Ponca band went up to St. Helena and discouraged music to the Cedar county fair last week.

It is now reported that the railroad, when it is extended, will be continued on the old route—the route designated by the old narrow gauge company; that is to say, up through Newcastle, Lime Creek and St. James. It is rather doubtful whether there be any truth in the rumor.

The democratic county convention met last Saturday and organized by the election of E. Arnold, chairman, and L. H. Smith, secretary. The following nominations were made: For representative, J. H. Addison, and for county commissioner, A. Engle, E. H. Jones, J. Wilbur, J. Hewitt and W. C. Smith were chosen delegates to the congressional convention.

Remember the soldiers' reunion next week, Wednesday, at this place. Everybody, and especially soldiers, are invited. The addresses will be by Judge Barnes, Lieutenant Norris, J. H. Pierce and others. A grand time may be expected. Let us improve the present opportunity and rally around the flag as of yore; let camp fires be kindled; let old scenes be reviewed and old events re-enacted, and old comrades reunited, and let the memories of other days serve as a bond of comradeship that shall bind comrade to comrade until the Grand Army shall be no more.

PARTY COURAGE. Lincoln Journal: Most of the present democratic difficulty over Maine is the fruit of precaution necessities. It is unprofessional conduct for a party man or manager to admit that an election may go against him. The democrats had accordingly claim that they were going to carry Maine. The democrats lost Maine, hence are rebuffed by their own prophecies. Could the managers have felt free to admit before election that Maine was to be expected to go republican by fifteen or twenty thousand, they could now point with hope and pride to the fact that the pluralities are only twelve or thirteen thousand. Of course they now try to do that, but their pre-election language cries out against their post mortem tongue. The political manager's position is a hard one at best. Always forced to state his hopes as if they were certainties, must exemplify Mr. Hughes' comment on the Maine election and the reunited party: "We have said as I was reunited; we have deeply hoped it was reunited; now Maine proves that it is reunited." That is the typical political way. We swear the thing is true. Merely able we hope it is true. Ultimately we will know it is true if it isn't sooner proved to be false.

THE BEST TEST

Is the Test of Time.

Years ago this Wayne resident told of good results from using Donan's Kidney Pills. Now W. H. Hoguewood of Wayne confirms the former statement—says there has been no return of the trouble. Can Wayne people ask for more convincing testimony?

A Permanent Cure. On July 17, 1916, Mr. Hoguewood said: "The cure Donan's Kidney Pills gave me has been permanent which of course increases my high regard for this medicine. 50c. at all dealers. Foster-Milburn Co., Mgrs., Buffalo, N. Y."

CAUSE OF TEMPERANCE.

Fairbury News: The cause of temperance has made progress all over the country, but the prohibition party stands about where it did fifty years ago. At that time its advocates told us that all great movements were small at their inception, growing gradually into prominence and power. But the prohibition party has never outgrown its infantile proportions. In all its long career its only achievement of note was the election of Grover Cleveland by keeping a few hundred votes away from the republican candidate in a territory where the party strength was evenly divided between the democrats and the republicans. Certainly no such achievement in the United States has gone down in the memory of any man. In the north by republican votes and in the south by democratic votes. But no one ever forgotten the prohibition party with having anything to do with that. It is made up of a well-meaning conscientious class of people who are willing to sacrifice to political martyrdom for the cause they love. But are they getting anywhere? Isn't it about time for them to halt and review their efforts? If it is found they have been unsuccessful, wouldn't it be the part of wisdom to change their plan of attack? All these reforms are being worked out in one or the other of the two great parties, either of which offers a field for labor in the cause of reform that at least gives some promise of achievement.

The Low Cloverleaf Gives the Manure Two Healthy Beatings

WE used to think that if we threw manure onto the ground any old way and plowed it under, we were doing a good job. But now we know that won't do. To do any real good, the manure must be broken up into small pieces and spread evenly.

The Low Cloverleaf spreader is the one that does this work best. It gives the manure two healthy beatings, one with the regular beater, the other with the wide spread disks. When the manure reaches the ground in that condition your soil gets all the good there is in it, and gets it quickly. The Low Cloverleaf is one spreader it will pay you to see before you buy. See the local dealer who has one set up for you to look at.

Prohibition and Increased Taxation

A Message from Governor Capper of Kansas

"... Kansas, in common with other states, has experienced in the last decade an increase in the cost of government and the burdens of taxation, far beyond the increase of population. In twelve years public expenditures have increased 68 per cent in the state; 77 per cent in the county; 153 per cent in the city; 119 per cent in the township; 132 per cent for schools."

This quotation is taken word for word from an official message from Governor Capper of Kansas to the Legislature of Kansas, 1915 session. The message is dated Jan. 12, 1915, is signed "Arthur Capper, Governor," and appears on pages 11-17, of the official Senate Journal, State of Kansas, 1915.

The attention of the reader is called to the fact that taxes have increased enormously in Kansas, a prohibition state.

HENRY BARTELS A Substantial Farmer, In The Race FOR SHERIFF

The Democrats Have Honored A Deserving Pioneer. Two Terms in the Legislature, Wayne Had a Friend at Court. A Hard Worker for the Wayne State Normal, Bartels Was Always Loyal to His County. His Democracy Jeffersonian, Jacksonian and Wilsonian.

MAKING A NOTE OF IT MR. VOTER ... Henry Bartels is a candidate for sheriff of Wayne county, on the democratic ticket, and that tells the whole story, in the fewest possible words. If you are acquainted with Henry, you are acquainted with a plain, straight-forward farmer, who puts on no frills, and makes no pretensions that he can't back up ...

A VERY COMMON STORY ... His life in Wayne county, on a Wayne county farm, has been much the same as that of other farmers of their day. They began in a small way. They worked hard. They lived frugally and quietly. They helped their neighbors in time of need and received from their neighbors the recompense of life assistance in their time of need. They went in debt. They increased their stock. They paid for land and improvements. They discharged their obligations. They promoted the public school ...

WILL MAKE A LEVEL HEADED SHERIFF ... If Mr. Bartels is elected, there isn't any doubt about his ability to serve the county in the capacity of a sheriff of Wayne county. He is a man who makes no parade of his unbiassed judgment is required, he has it. If common sense, of the ordinary kind, can help anybody, he helps it on. If a man who will do his duty, without fear or favor, who will become a terror to evil-doers, Henry Bartels will do it.

WHEN NOVEMBER CALLS THE ROLL ... We have given you a plain picture of Henry Bartels. We have dressed him in neither kits nor make-up. We have exaggerated none of his qualities. We have tried to see him just as the honest man. The cause of the honest man to deceive the people. He refuses to slip into office on the blind side of the voters. He wants people to know him, just as he is elected, man he will be if he is elected or defeated. So far as making a crowd, he is concerned, he only wishes "I will do my duty." He is a man who is up to you. Mr. Bartels abides the day when November calls the roll.
