NEXT PRESIDENT MAY BE NAMED BEFORE ELECTION

8,000 REXALL DRUGGISTS TAKE STRAW VOTE

Poll of Over 2,500,000 Covers Every State.

Voters Come From All Ranks RESULTS WILL BE ANNOUNCED BEFORE ELECTION.

The results of the November election and the name of the next president of the United States will be published in the Herald before the polls open. This announcement is made by the National Association of Rexall Druggists whose members, numbering over 8,000, are now taking a straw vote of over 2,500,000 people from all walks of life and covering every state and territory in the union. By special arrangement with Roberts Drug Company a member of the Rexall Association in Wayne the results of the Straw Vote will be published in this newspaper.

The fact that the members of the Druggists' Association, operate stores in towns and cities, ranging in population from 100 to 6,000,000 and scattered all over the country, and that they serve a public comprising all classes, agricultural, industrial, commercial and professional, goes to this poll a representative character. This Straw Vote is the largest ever taken and the first of its kind to be conducted by a national commercial organization, but the drug men have perfected a system for receiving and recording the ballots that is equalled in scope only by that of the national government. From their headquarters in Boston—the United Drug Company—the 8,000 members of the Rexall Druggists' Association are supplied with the returns. These returns are mailed or telegraphed to Boston at the close of business each day. At the Assembly Headquarters the ballots are tabulated, and the final vote will be placed in the hands of the 8,000 Rexall Druggists, before election day for simultaneous publication in the Rexall Stores, and in the leading newspapers of every city and town in the United States. 12/24/16

Scientific Proof of Maxwell Fuel Economy

In a test made by David L. Gallup, M. E., Professor of Gas Engineering, Worcester Polytechnic Institute, a stock Maxwell Touring Car made from 23 to 33.7 miles per gallon of gasoline at speeds ranging from 10 to 35 miles per hour. We reproduce a letter from Professor Gallup concerning this test.

MAXWELL MOTOR CO., Inc.,
Detroit, Michigan.

Gentlemen:-

I beg leave to submit the enclosed "blue print" giving the results of an economy test made on a 1917 Stock Maxwell Touring Car, furnished by your Boston representatives.

The curve is self explanatory and needs no discussion other than the statement that the carburetor, which was stock, was adjusted to give the best combination of power, flexibility, speed, and economy for such conditions of touring as would ordinarily be encountered.

In tabular form the results (taken from the curve sheet), are as follows:

SPEED (Miles per hour)	ECONOMY (Miles per gallon)
10	33.7
15	30.7
20	29.2
25	28.6
30	26.1
35	23.0

Respectfully submitted,
D. L. Gallup

Deferred Payments If Desired

NOTE that no unusual means were employed to get these results. The car used was taken from stock; the test was made with a full load and with top and windshield up; the regular Maxwell carburetor was used.

Any Maxwell car is capable of giving this same economy in gasoline consumption.

Maxwell operating economy matches its economy in first cost, making it The World's Greatest Motor Car Value.

160 acres five miles from Winside; good improvements, running water, good pasture, twenty acres alfalfa, all fenced and cross-fenced; can give good terms. Price $90.

I have several other good bargains in 80-, 160-, and 320-acre farms—also land that never goes back on the owner. Don't hesitate to ask me about them.

MAKING GOOD.

I thought an ax of Ezra Wax, who said to me, "Now, sonny, if it's no good at chopping wood, come back and get your money. If it'll junk that turns out punk, the buyer is no loser. I'll make it good, as shiners should in that sort of a snorer. With that as new as I took some whacks at divers kinds of lumber, the edges were splintered, and I was good and said things without number. I took the ax to Ezra Wax, and showed him it was pestered, and for an hour with wringing power, roared like baseball rooster. My spide heard; without a word, he handed me a new one: an ax so neat, so bright, so sweet, a keep one and true one." Said Ezra Wax, "You bet your yaks, warthogs and donaries, that I make good, as dealers should—my system never varies. I buy my tacks of Ezra Wax, my wringers and my whistles, my hoes and rakes and oil meal cakes, my seed of peas and trustles. He would not break the pledge he'd make, or tramp a promise under, so I make good to EZRA WAX for every kind of plunder.

THREATENED MEN.

Doc Whiskers says, "I am not jaking when saying you must cut smoking or cross to 'other shore." I listen to the admonition of that renowned and legendary physician, and then I smoke some more. The doc is fond of threats, and abusing, they like to scare you while they scuffing their pills into your ears. They like to scare a little bit about your exercise and diet, while brandishing the saw. Long years ago the doctors told me that gravel and venereal would enfold me, unless I ceased to smoke; I heard their rattle, then, but even I hear is a fixin' good old burley, and quite free to croak. At first a dozen famous surgeons, apothecaries and chemists, have told me that I am plighted: "Unless you can your old tank biker, the nicotine will knock you higher than Gilroy's famous beer." And still my liver is a fixin' good old burley, and quite free to croak. I still consume the Four Flash mixture, and buy it by the pound, and cherrons, have told me that I am plighted, reproaching me that I am forgotten. I'll soon be underground.

THE EARLY DAYS IN TWO COUNTIES.

From the Wayne Herald, October 27, 1892: W. Cooper purchased the blacksmith shop of H. Gregory. Fires in the residences of W. O. Gamble and Frank Dearborn caused considerable damage. Dennis Kelleher lost ten head of horses and mules when his barn was destroyed by fire. The engine house for the water works system has been completed and the hydrants have been put in place. Mrs. H. M. Crawford and Mrs. P. M. Corbit entertained the ladies of the Acme club at a Columbus program. E. M. Smith has made arrangements to make an ice skating rink on the lot south of the power house. A. H. Ellis and J. F. Sheridan made a good offer to the citizens of Wayne for the erection of a new school building. While sinking a well, A. S. Richardson found two small gold nuggets, which created much excitement for a few hours. The choral societies of Wayne and Platte counties contested with Wayne in singing a cantata. The decision went to Platte.

CANDIDATES.

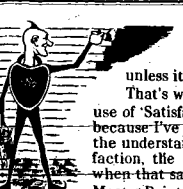

My whole attention I am giving to meet the rising cost of living. It keeps me hustling like the dickens to buy the liver, spuds and chickens to feed the wife and children twenty, and to see that they have plenty. The transient hours are swiftly moving, and all of them I'd like to improve, I'd like an humming fever burner that heats and pies my stock the larder. So I'm not cordial to that snappy, that office-hunting, and party who interests me when I'm toiling to tell how politics is boiling, explaining how this faded nation can never find its true salvation, and so that they have slung and his antagonist retained. I'd never vote for any fellow who comes and shows his streak of yellow by leaving me when I am earning the stuff to keep the furnace burning. When the polls in bleak November, you'll remember the candidates who did the spelling, and I will help them hit the ceiling.

THE HAMMER.

The man who piles a hammer on every base, then's a good feller; up a lot of clamor, but doesn't say the word. We stand up for improvement, for forward steps each day. I know the old time smoke and stagnation and decay. Improvement's banner waving, right cheering, and pay, and buy a village pump. We get the people feeling that what we plan is right, and then we hit the hammer. This is a good thing, a thousand pities that knucklers are on hand; for hamlets might be, if they were only canned. The heavy hammer that strikes the mold and rust, might be a seventh day's work.

...ground wood piles, farm machinery, benches of shingles, signs, doors, and sidewalks. The storm first burst at the corner of East and Third streets, and from there it hurried westward, leaving devastation in its path. The Boston store numerous barrels of salt were swept into the street and scattered in At Home & Kitchen's a granular of plows and pumps were dumped into a convenient ditch. In front of the millinery store on Third street a great pile of boxes and barrels were stacked, mounded with a large store sign. Still further west, the piles of wood spiles and every thing movable, was upset and distributed in all directions. There was something very curious about the storm. All this havoc, having the destructive attributes of a cyclone, and it appeared also to be directed in its course by almost human intelligence. Indeed, there are some superstitious persons who claim that they saw shadowy forms about the storm and the corners of the storm and which recounted the exploits of the ancient witches and wizards who rode through the air on broomsticks. All this, however, was probably an optical delusion, yet a very remarkable one. One spectator says that he distinctly saw a shadowy man, whom he supposed to be an angel, in the garb of a clerk, and appeared to be clerks' hands as expert as any teachers and probably would most generally. One of the sports which rode the storm looked like a long drawn out sheet, whose pantaloons indicated legs as finely spun as the spider lines of a surveyor's compass. Another shade appeared to sport a large nose as crooked and still taller than lavender pants cut in the latest style. The whole company of elves, spirits, goblins, fairies and ethereal forms, seemed to be very active, and under the direction of a dim and shadowy phantom who was assisted by assisting their movements by means of two powerful headlights which he carried in front. But all this, as before said, was no doubt an optical delusion. After raging up and down the street about two hours, the wild carband of nocturnal revelry subsided. The destructively elements were cursed solemnly the next morning when people saw what a mischief having, devastation had been the night lands of Hallowesday had done.

REV. T. J. MACKAY'S LETTER.

In the course of editorial comment on Rev. T. J. Mackay's adverse criticism of proposed prohibition, the Lincoln Journal says: "If the sale of drink is abolished by law, what will become of its opposite virtue, temperance? Now when we abolish the sale of wine, what will become of the opposite virtue, honesty? The laws prohibiting stealing, murder and obscenity are all equally assaults on personal liberty. Will Mr. Mackay say that he would repeal these laws? If he answers yes we conceive he is consistent in his argument for saloons. If he answers no, then he is quietly giving any saloon press agent in any of its communities the indefensible, the liquor trade. When the Rev. T. J. Mackay is

"The fallacy of such talk lies in its failure to distinguish between its prohibitive and prescriptive. Laws forcing people to live in a specific way, as for instance to cut and wear certain things, are obnoxious and unnecessary. Laws prohibiting certain things are entirely different. Even Mr. Mackay would not object to a law prohibiting the installing of a fire stable next door to his home or church. Just so, Nebraska will hardly object to a law prohibiting the installing of a saloon, an infinitely more offensive neighbor, in any of its communities. When the Rev. T. J. Mackay is ready to prove his faith in his personal liberty—views by denouncing those Hebrew statutes, the ten commandments, all but one or two of which are prohibitions and according to his view, wicked assaults on personal liberty, we shall hope that the prosperity (for saloons) league will again give full publicity to his views."

People who fully appreciate the weak, vacillating and inefficient foreign policy of the administration will not be long in making up their minds to vote for Hughes.

Judge A. A. Welch will be easily selected one of the two district judges. He is universally recognized as a fair and impartial judge, and none can justly find fault with his record.

The railroads seem willing to be regulated by government commissions, but don't want hours of enactment and statutes fixed by congressmen who have not investigated and who don't know what they are voting about.

One exchange says it pays double what it did for paper two years ago. That newspaper must have paid too much then or is not paying enough now. The Herald is paying for print paper nearly three times what it paid two years ago.

If you had made the mistake of employing a scholarly but theoretical and impractical school teacher to manage your bank or farm, you would see the advantage of the first opportunity to make a change to a man having needed training and adaptability. That is the boot you get with respect to the presidency. You are in luck in getting a young linguist, a fickle pedagogue, instead of a sound and practical statesman. They will be sure to try to get you to notify him that he is to be placed on the retired list.

Many sound political prophets believe that while neither presidential candidate will have a walk-over, Charles E. Hughes will be elected. They are not so sure he will carry Nebraska, though he has some strength every day and it is not unlikely he will have a majority in the state. Hughes is gaining appreciation as a man of statesmanship, vigor and fitness, and more and more people are looking to him as the right leader to handle affairs incident to our relations with Europe, Mexico and the Philippines.

Two interesting and pertinent editorials concerning the minister and the church appear in the current number of the Ladies Home Journal. One headed "A Blunder of the Church," points out how a minister, grown old and feeble in the service of a soft-soaped and retired with little money and without hope of adequate financial income. He is used during all the best years of his life on a comparatively small salary, and then, old and unequal to the former task, he is lovingly placed on the retired list to gettin' paid for the rest of his remaining days. The suggestion is an argument for consolidation, stronger financial organization and greater remuneration for the clergy. The other editorial relates to a more practical church, one that is in charge of a business and having a knowledge of business as well as a knowledge of the scriptures; believing such qualifications will be essential in a successful ministry of the future. The editor, however, by saying "The real difficulty lies in the fact that the church, intended for a spiritual office, has had more and more to do with a secular office, and that only one man, fitted to be a spiritual adviser, is trying to run both shows. And it is because of this that, before making up his quites, the pastor, in addition to having been through a theological seminary, should also have had some business training. In short the church is now attempting two functions, where formerly it had but one. One of these functions was to save souls. Now it has come to recognize that in order to save souls it must deal also with minds and bodies. It must interest, amuse and instruct, in order to spiritualize. The highest and best psychology is that which starts from the surface and works in. There is no doubt that the ministers who are the most successful today are those who know the world at first-hand, and have been of it. It will be well, too, the gradual effect of this new idea of the development of church architecture. There are those who say that the church of the future will be properly a large office building, with an auditorium in the center, and they say that is what it ought to be. There will be as much reverence as at present, if not more, because its power for practical good will increase, and thus also the spiritual will be enhanced. And it would look as if this were the church that seems a-coming. If so, the solution of the problem is a simple one. It will come gradually as all really simple things do. But with that church will also come the pastor of the future. A business man, familiar with business temptations, and equipped for fighting the devil on his own ground."

WAYNE POST OFFICE SITE.

In a recent editorial, the Herald called attention to a noon-day luncheon at which assurance of a government appropriation for a site for a postoffice building in Wayne, was given. Attention was called to the fact that the secretary of the Interior, Service, in a deplorable manner, learning the status of the measure, wrote the clerk of the house for information and received in return a copy of H. R. 11252. A request to contain a list of all bills for public improvements slated for passage at the coming session of congress. In this list no mention was made of Wayne. Here is a copy of the letter written by the local secretary to the house clerk with the latter's notation on the letter which he returned.

Wayne, Neb., September 26th, 1916. Clerk H. House of Representatives, Washington, D. C. My Dear Sir: Relative to the matter of public buildings please inform me if an appropriation of $5,000 passed congress last session to buy a site for a postoffice building in Wayne, Nebraska. What is the status of the measure at the present time? Very sincerely, W. L. Gaston.

House clerk's notation in explanation: "Inclosed public buildings and grounds, asking the condition of a specific bill, H. R. 1788, in possession of Mr. Berry, and which provides for an appropriation for a site postoffice building in Wayne, Nebraska. This bill was introduced by Mr. Berry, and the committee made this reply:

"Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, House of Representatives, Washington, D. C., October 18, 1916. Mr. E. W. Huse, Editor, the Wayne Herald, Wayne, Neb., Dear Sir: In the absence of the chairman who is now in Florida, I am taking the liberty of answering your query of the 14th inst., with reference to the project of a public building in Wayne, Nebraska. The bill is not dead, but will be called up for consideration and passed at the next session on October 11. It would have been considered during the past session but for the pressure of other matters. Truly yours is the Wayne Herald, signed by the president, as he thinks, Wayne may well feel encouraged at this time over the prospect then making of a government building here. If the noon-day luncheon's announcement created the impression that the bill had been passed, it would seem to have been a trifle premature. If the announcement disclosed that bill had been reported favorably and an appropriation of $5,000 for a site for a government building in Wayne, Nebraska, the announcement would appear to have been fully warranted.

Mr. Berry says Congressman Stephens had no knowledge of the SOFT TEETH The reason why some mouths are free from decayed teeth and others are not, is entirely on account of the difference in environment, and not that some teeth are soft and others hard.

That is, teeth in an unclean and acid mouth will decay rapidly, and those in a clean mouth will decay slowly or not at all.

In other words decay of a tooth cannot take place except upon an unclean surface, where acid secreting bacteria are allowed to develop.

This acid will disintegrate a so-called hard tooth just as rapidly as a so-called soft tooth.

Investigation has proven that there is very little if any difference in the quality of teeth.

WAYNE NORMAL BOYS LOSE TO SIOUX CITY

SIOUX CITY Journal, October 21: The Morningside college football squad yesterday afternoon splashed its way to victory over the Nebraska State Normal school of Wayne at Mizou park by a score of 10 to 0. The contest was one of the most spectacular ever witnessed in Sioux City. Less than two minutes after the start of the contest, Al Belmer, the team quarterback, kicked and kicked a broken field for forty yards for the first touchdown. From then on it was just a little tip down the field. The field was being scored almost at will. The slush was at least six inches deep. To watch the players wading in the mud and slush was worth the price of admission. Two minutes after the referee blew the whistle at the start of the contest every man on the field was covered with mud from head to foot. The ball became slippery—that is, players put on gloves in order to better hold the ball. But despite the fact there were comparatively few fumbles, Morningside made but three and recovered every one. Coach Johnson, who led the boys of the contest had but two of his regular players in the game, Capt. Johnson and Belmer.

Chief Justice Andrew M. Morrissey Non-Partisan Candidate to Succeed Himself.

The Judiciary has been taken out of politics. Judges are not nominated by political parties, but are voted on by a separate non-partisan body. Judge Morrissey's work as Chief Justice has been heartily commended by those having business before the Supreme Court. In the April primaries the voters showed their appreciation of his efforts by giving him a splendid majority. Out of 93 counties he received a majority of 80; and in the whole state he received 9203 more votes than were cast for any other candidate for Chief Justice. He is in vigorous health; in the prime of life; has demonstrated his fitness for the position, and for these reasons you are urged to help elect him to succeed himself.

KEITH NEVILLE Democratic Candidate for Governor A NATIVE SON

A practical man of the people who has made a success in business and is entrusted with the business affairs of the politicians are unknown. He offers a constructive program that will benefit the people of Nebraska and his candidacy is in harmony with the strong Democratic tradition of this State. He believes that the highest duty of any public servant is to carefully see to it that the will of the people as expressed at the polls upon all questions is carefully carried out. The two Republican newspapers in North Platte are supporting his candidacy and the vote of nearly five to one given him at the primary election by the people of his home town, among whom he has been and raised a profound belief that he is a man of character and standing and a safe one to be entrusted with the business affairs, as well as the enforcement of the laws of the State. Vote for a home-grown man and a continued, economical and business administration of state affairs.

the solution—found in a tiny tin of pills. I heard of them the afternoon before the boy climbed on a chair and got hold of the poison. Medical aid at once sent, but it was so much that the victim had gotten into the system that its effects could not be neutralized. The death of the boy calls attention to the inconsistency of the law. A man buying a nickel's worth of aspirin from a drug store must register his name and state the purpose for which he buys the poison but any child with a dime can buy the poison as a candy or a medicine. It is so claimed that this method of killing flies is insidious and numerous babies have been accidentally killed by the use of it. Mr. and Mrs. Heiman have two younger children, both girls.

SON OF OLD WAYNEITE GOES TO CALLAS, S. A.

The letter, which is given below, was written by Rollie Walker, Jr., whose father is well known to many of the old timers of this community. Rollie Walker, Sr., who is a brother of Mrs. Henry Lev, formerly lived in Wayne. His last son, his son continued his work in the College of Mines and secured a position with a prospecting company which has large holdings in South America. The young man called from New York about the middle of September and it was while he was enroute to his destination at Callas that he wrote this letter to his mother at Duda, Minn. It appeared in the Delano Eagle of October 7.

Colon, Panama, Sept. 17, 1916. My Dear Mother: Well, mother, the first part of the trip is over and I feel here in my new shape. We left Havana Thursday at 1 o'clock and arrived at 11 o'clock today, Sunday. The sea was quiet so that it was quite a smooth trip to Havana. Those who have made the trip before say the weather has been better than that they ever even in winter. This is the hurricane season on the Caribbean sea, but all we had was a little rain this morning. In Havana it was too warm to do much going but I saw some of the city. The streets are very crooked and narrow and the widest of them in the business district are just wide enough for two vehicles to pass while lots of them are only wide enough for traffic in one direction. There are no high buildings, most of them two stories and built with open Spanish fronts. The doors are large oak ones, and it is nothing to see a man in a top hat. The finest street is the Prado, which runs straight down to the sea. It has a driveway on each side of a wide terrace of palm trees and flowers. Every little way are benches, and a seat every six cents in American money.

money—from 3 p. m. to 10 p. m.; white other times they are free. I was out to the bathing beach, past the university and the Colon cemetery where Columbus was buried some time. One thing that is cheap is taxi cab fares, for you can go from one place in the city to any other, not in the suburbs, for 25 cents. A Cuban dollar is worth one of ours. In the evening I went to a couple of shows, but it was too warm to go very long. It is very hard to find anyone who can speak English, and practically the only place where a tourist can get a taxi is in an American hotel. A taxi which is an American hotel. A couple of us had a hard time to find that, for everybody else asked just how we got us and showed their teeth. They can tell an American easy enough and they pick them out for easy marks. I guess, if they want to sell this and they take you here and there. Thursday morning I watched them unload the boat, which is done by big gangs of negroes; then I went down and took a ferry boat across the bay toward Morro Castle. I didn't get much of a chance to see it coming in for it was just daylight and as we got opposite the Cabana fortress, which is a little way further up the harbor, the sunrise gun was fired. In the street you are seen German steamers interned.

After I got off the ferry I took a taxi and went up to Morro Castle. It is a quite a piece of work especially to have been built in 1456. The castle itself is still intact and is being used by the soldiers as a barracks. The Germans destroyed the other part of it. I went into the castle over the draw-bridge, which was open, and met over the moat which is about thirty feet deep and thirty feet wide. The castle is a number of different sections with wide courts between. I saw the court in which the prisoners were shot. One wall is full of holes. Most of the cannon are still there, but of course they are rusty now. The switch board from which the mine was set that blew up the Maine still stands also. The ship we were on was captured where the mine was sunk. Had I had time I would have looked over Cabana fortress, too. Logan Havana we had a fine trip. There was a fine bunch of us going together and it didn't take long to get acquainted. I was glad to leave there and set out where it is cooler. We were out eight or ten days for two days, but the sea was so smooth the ship hardly rolled at all. The ship is cooler than Havana even though it is hot. The government has made a fine harbor here by putting a long breakwater out into the bay. There are four German ships interned here in September as soon as we got in I got my ticket for the rest of the journey and transferred my baggage to the other ship. This means, you see, the ship is on the Atlantic side so I am going through the canal anyway. We leave tomorrow early and it takes all day to go through so we ought to have lots of time to see things. Colon is quite a large place and most of the buildings are new—built as a fire burned out most of the town short time ago. There are lots of coconut palms growing here but they are practically the only trees. I almost finished the trip but we went out to a ball game this afternoon between the Tenth Infantry and Colon. The ship which we are going to finish the trip is so large it is another one and the rooms are smaller. The other thing is, the menu is printed in Spanish so now I guess it is a case of learn.

The inflammation of the mucous membrane at first acute, becomes chronic and the child has chronic catarrh, a disease that is seldom cured and that may prove a life's burden. A little though a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy judiciously used, and all this trouble might have been avoided. Obtainable everywhere.

COMING CONQUEST
 Lincoln Journal. As the war in Europe has continued, the political war in the United States keeps pace with it the thought of a commercial war to come seems to grow upon the consciences of men. The United States have made their famous declaration of Paris, being a treaty of commercial colonies and dependencies against the central powers. In the United States we are taught to expect that we shall be the object of commercial conquest and attract the end of the military war. We must organize for it, prepare against it, and meet it. Our present commercial policy is to be disturbed by an aggressive form of Europe which is to annex our commercial colonies in South America, invade our sphere of influence in Asia and otherwise play ball with us. The main idea, some suppose, of our new big navy agitation was to provide a military force by which we could with the more power press our commercial interests abroad. Other weapons in this warfare are to be tariff schedules, trade treaties and a speeding up of manufacturing and commercial shipments, as a result of the war, will pay lower wages for longer hours in the hope of cheapening production so as to turn us in our pockets lost to them by the war.

PROHIBITION Does Increase the Tax Burden

Absolute proof is at hand that prohibition has enormously increased the tax burden for the Kansas farmer and property owner. So great is the burden of taxation in prohibition Kansas that half the counties in that state find themselves in serious financial difficulties.

HERE IS THE PROOF:
 (From the Topeka "State Journal" of Dec. 7, 1915)

"MUST RAISE LIMIT"

"One-Half of Kansas Counties in Financial Mire"

"Bond Issues, Economy or Legislative Relief Only Hope"

"Fifty per cent of the counties of Kansas will be forced to adopt sweeping economy measures or issue bonds to cover deficits in their general revenue funds, unless the next legislature raises the limit of the general revenue tax levy, according to men in touch with the financial condition of counties over the state."

The reason for the heavy tax burden under prohibition is not far to seek. Under prohibition, it becomes necessary to prosecute in court every year thousands of persons having alcoholic beverages in their possession. Each such case costs the county about $50, according to the Topeka, Kan., "State Journal" of August 29, 1916. This paper also states in the same issue that in Topeka alone, there are 106 such cases docketed for the September term of court. This is the condition in one Kansas county, at one term of court alone.

Kansas spent $701,944.40 in the last two years to maintain the inmates of her state prisons, while Nebraska spent less than half that sum.

WHO CARRIES THE TAX BURDEN?

It is interesting to observe how the prohibition politician always manages to unload the increased burden of taxation on the farmer and on the property owner. In Kansas the state tax levy for 1916 is equal to 6.5 mills on a one-fifth valuation, and in Nebraska it is only 6.1 mills on a one-fifth valuation.

In order to deceive the people and keep the state tax levy from mounting sky-high, the prohibition politicians in Kansas simply raised the assessed valuation of farm lands many millions of dollars this year.

HERE IS THE PROOF:

(From the Topeka "State Journal" of Oct. 5, 1916)

"Twice has he (Governor Capper, the prohibitionist) handed the FARMERS a package, by raising the valuations of their farms. In order to raise more taxes, yet he permitted the railroads and corporations to go at the same old rate."

GOVERNOR CAPPER OF KANSAS HAS PUBLICLY ADMITTED THAT THE VALUATION OF KANSAS PROPERTY WAS BOOSTED $79,000,000 IN 1915 FOR PURPOSES OF TAXATION.

THIS IS TYPICAL OF THE PROHIBITION POLITICIAN EVERYWHERE. HE RIDES INTO OFFICE ON THAT ISSUE, AND THEN PROMPTLY PUTS THE BURDEN OF INCREASED TAXATION BROUGHT ABOUT BY PROHIBITION, ON THE FARMER AND ON THE PROPERTY OWNER.

The squares shown below will appear at the TOP of the ballot. An X marked in square 301 is a vote AGAINST PROHIBITION.
