Do Your Christmas Shopping EARLY! Orr & Orr Co. Do Your Christmas Shopping EARLY!
W A Y N E
Many people are choosing their Christmas gifts early this year.

They appreciate the comfort of making selections when the STORE is less crowded; they enjoy being served from well-filled stocks; they know that merchandise is scarce and shipments are very slow, and that the best merchandise will be chosen early. For all these reasons—for our patrons' convenience and pleasure—we earnestly advise, "Shop early in the season; early in the day." All gifts purchased now will be held for delivery later if desired.

The New Fashion Blouses
—Are exceptional, that are priced from $3.75 to $7.75. Your wardrobe would be delightfully refreshed by the addition of a new blouse.

This is the store chosen for Silks Unusual and Dependable
All the new things in silks find an early showing here; there is not a quality of silk entering our silk stock that is not up to that high standard for which this store stands.

Ribbons
—Here are assortments ready for the clever women who are making dainty Christmas gifts.

—Pretty all silk flowered ribbons in a number of effective patterns, in light and dark colorings in wide widths, at 25c yard.

Christmas Handkerchiefs
—The Christmas handkerchiefs are ready in either white or colors and in a wide variety of designs at 25c, 35c and 50c

Women's Suits Reduced in Price

This event will appeal, we believe, to everyone who is interested in clothes of the "better" sort. Every suit is superior, not only in style, but in tailoring, in fabric quality and in that nice attention to detail which characterizes all the apparel from this store.

Questions Answered
The man who is always puzzled over what to give his sister, or some one else's sister, may find a happy solution in a few pairs of fine kid gloves. With a scarcity of gloves predicted more strongly each day, such a gift takes more than an ordinary value.
The very thought of Christmas stocking-hanging brings thoughts of homely for gifts and the wish may be gratified in a pair of exquisite hoisy.
An ideal way of conveying Christmas greetings is by a gift of linen. The gifts of linen have been growing in favor—any household is proud to own such dainty table appointments.
Among the most practical gifts that we are offering are blankets of most unusual beauty. We have them in wool, wool and cotton mixtures or cotton at very attractive prices.

A meeting will be held in the Anker school house east of town Friday evening for the purpose of electing officers and completing the organization of a literary society. An interesting program has been arranged. It is planned to have program every two weeks throughout the winter. Miss Lucile Carhart is the teacher. Colonel W. H. Neely went to Winside Saturday morning to assist in Hornly Bros' Poland China pig sale that afternoon, but owing to the unfavorable weather, the sale was called off altogether. The Hornlys have decided not to schedule another date for a public offering of their stock as they had postponed the sale once before on account of the weather. Albert Bastian has on exhibition a double pumpkin grown on the place by farm and a half south of Wayne. There were two blossoms and two stems, and it clearly looks as though the original intention were to have two separate pumpkins, but for some inscrutable reason they grew together and the result was a double-headed affair. It is a rare specimen. Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Carhart and son, Braden, and J. S. Carhart were Friday morning passengers to Sioux City, where the gentlemen attended a district convention of the Shriners, terminating in a big hotel frolic Friday evening. They returned to Wayne Saturday morning, but Mrs. Carhart and son stopped in Emerson to spend the day with a cousin, E. G. Carhart, and family. Mr. and Mrs. E. Courtright returned to their home at Quincy, Ia., Monday morning after having attended the funeral of the late Mrs. C. E. Long in Wayne Sunday. They were accompanied a part of the way by O. A. Courtright, a brother of J. J. Courtright of this place, who was returning to Quincy, Ia. J. J. Courtright of Dow City, Ia., a brother of Mrs. L. J. Courtright, also left Monday morning. The Herald is informed that Sam Davies is to be the host at a banquet tomorrow night served to his friends to satisfy a pre-election agreement. Each member of the party, including the host, is to be accompanied by a lady. The following menu selected by Fred S. Blair will be served: Oyster cocktail, turkey a la Maryland, Irish paddies, cream of peas, Virginia salad, cheese croquettes, food for the gods, grape juice traps. Slight damage was done to the ceiling of the basement of Prof. J. J. Coleman's residence in College addition early Tuesday morning, following when ice came in a quantity of ashes, dumped too near some excelsior, ignited the latter, spread to a pile of kindling and soon started a fire. The alarm was given, but Mr. and Mrs. Coleman were able to extinguish the fire, and when the firemen arrived their services were not needed.

CHURCH CALENDAR

The German Evangelical Lutheran Church. (Rev. R. Moehring, Pastor.) Next Sunday, Sunday school will be held at 10 o'clock and preaching at 11 o'clock. In the afternoon at 3 o'clock the pastor will preach at Winside. English Lutheran Church. (Rev. J. H. Fetterolf, Pastor.) Following the regular Sunday school service at 10 o'clock, the pastor will preach at 11 o'clock. Luther League convenes at 6-8:30. The services of the day close with a sermon at 7-8:30. The Ladies' Aid society will be entertained on Thursday of next week at the home of Mrs. Herman Lundberg. Confirmation class meets Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. An After Election Talk. There will be an appropriate after election talk at the Baptist church next Sunday night that you do not want to miss. Rev. W. L. Gaston will be the speaker. The subject of the talk will be "The Voice of the People," with special reference to the association of the church with the people. Young men, young women, business men, professional men, democrats, republicans, socialist, independents, non-voters, everybody else, invited to be present. The disappointed are entitled to front seats. There will be an interesting musical program rendered in connection with the service and everything possible will be done to make this an enjoyable and interesting occasion. Come early. The morning service will be equally interesting and serviceable. The ladies of the Baptist church are planning to give a chicken pie dinner and Christmas bazaar on or about December 15. Methodist Church. (Rev. A. S. Buell, Pastor.) The subject for next Sunday morning sermon will be "Brain and Religion." The evening message will be "Under the Flag" especially for the Boy Scouts. We had good services last Sunday even if the day was wintry. The Women's Foreign Missionary society and the Women's Home Missionary society will hold their annual supper in the church basement Thursday evening. # The Store That Serves Your Needs

WE feel free to announce with all candor that no store in Wayne devotes more time or energy in anticipating the needs of the community than we. Not only do we tip-toe to the last word in novel ready-to-wear apparel as well as to the new ideas in dress accessories, but we also keep all staple lines complete as to sizes and colors. We have faced the dye situation, and, in most cases, have come out with the goods by placing small orders with dozens of different firms. When these tactics failed we visited the markets personally and secured what we wanted.

BLANKET WEEK

Every housewife in Wayne county will be overhauling her blanket supply this week. Scores will be adding "blankets" to their shopping list. Although we have a big stock, the wise customer comes early and gets first choice.

Cotton Blankets Some people prefer cotton blankets. It is surprising how much real warmth they do afford. You can have them in a variety of color combinations, and at prices ranging from $1.00 to $3.00

Wool Blankets What is more luxurious than to snug-gle down between soft wool blankets? Zero weather and cold rooms mean nothing if you are thus prepared. Take your choice of this complete assortment, at from $4.00 to $10.00

Do It Now!
No matter if it does seem early, you will have to buy that UNDERWEAR. We have a variety of styles and weights to suit every taste. The SANITAS medium weight wool is a favorite number with ladies. You may have this number in a low-necked and short sleeved model. Good heavy two-piece suits for the children.

Do It Now!
Look over our line of MITTENS, especially for your boys and girls. We select yarn gloves for the girls and heavy leather mittens for the boys. Then there are CAPS. In our stock you will find caps of every description, some with fur lined ear pads, some without. If you need a heavy DUCK COAT for choring or driving, come in and try on some of ours. They are absolutely wind proof.

Do It Now!
Plan for Christmas. Study our window of new and unique ideas in FANCYWORK. Map out your gifts for your friends. A remembrance with a touch of hand work means so much more. We have small novelties all ready stamped that will take only a few hours time to embroider and all the best threads in desirable shades for tatting and crocheting.

Do It Now!
Buy your winter BLOUSE! Did you know that we received a large line of exquisite patterns for fancy blouses Monday? Beautiful plaids and stripes in silk marguissettes with extra heavy chiffon cloth in harmonious shades for foundation. We also can show you exclusive patterns in heavier silks, such as taffeta, satin, etc.

Do It Now!
Fit the family out with OVER-SHOES while our stock is still complete. One, two, three and four-buckle storm shoes for the children who walk to school or play outdoors a great deal. High cut articles for more dressy wear. It has been a hard pull to get quality over-shoes that we could sell at regular prices. Take advantage of our bargaining.

Do It Now!
Begin to investigate our grocery department. Because of our immense volume of business we are able to move our groceries rapidly. This insured you only fresh, pure food stuffs at all times. Surely, the thoughtful woman will appreciate such service. Try our NORTHWESTERN line of canned goods.

CARROLL.
Miss Margaret Forbes of the Herald staff is editor of this department, and will visit Carroll every Tuesday. Any news contributions to these columns from town or country will be gladly received by her. She is also authorized to receive new or renewal subscriptions.
School Notes.
Mrs. Porter reports a pleasant and beneficial time at the Omaha teachers' meeting. She will use Tuesday evening to make her report to the teachers.
Miss Ruth Sterling, Miss Estella Ziener, Miss Ina Keel and Miss Res Murphy attended the production of "Il Trovatore" at Sioux City Saturday.
Next Friday night, November 17, will take place one of the best hall events of the season when the Carroll Tigers meet the Wausa Giants in a double header on the home floor at 8 o'clock. A good crowd is desired. Give your support.

Saturday, November 18, is the next reading circle meeting at Carroll. A full attendance is desired.
Lecture Course Fine.
Never have Carroll people been offered better numbers on a lecture course than this year. The concert by the Harmony Glee club last Wednesday evening was enthusiastically received by a crowded house. The members of this group proved themselves both versatile and talented.
Next Wednesday evening the management offers a lecture of merit in the person of Chaplain E. H. Lougher, a criminologist who has spent years in prison work in America, besides having gained much valuable experience through extensive travels in the orient. His version of the treatment of criminals is worth serious consideration.
Bazaar and Supper.
The members of the Ladies Aid society of the Welch Congregational church, three miles west of Carroll, held their first annual bazaar and chicken supper Tuesday evening. The ladies had an attractive display of household linen and artistic needlework. At 5 o'clock the doors of the dining room were thrown open and a delicious chicken supper with all the accessories was served. On account of the cold wave the attendance was not as large as was anticipated, but the financial returns were very satisfactory. It is planned to feature this bazaar as an annual event at the Welch church.

German Evening.
The members of the P. C. B. club were jointly entertained by Alwyn Jones and Miss Mima Aloriss at the David Theophilus home here Tuesday evening. In keeping with the theme of the evening the guests answered roll call by giving German quotations. Aunt C. E. Mason sang German solo and the program closed with three German songs by the club. During the social hour that followed the program, the guests enjoyed light refreshments.

Care of Storage Batteries

1. Don't add anything but pure distilled water.
2. Never have over 1 (one-half) inch of water over the plates and never less than 1/4 (one-fourth) inch.
3. Look at and test battery every two (2) weeks.
4. Wipe the dust and dirt off the battery with an oily rag or piece of waste once a month.
5. Keep the nut tight on each of your battery leads.
6. Never spin your motor over 30 seconds with the battery for if the engine doesn't start in that time the trouble is not in the battery, but the ignition or the gas is at fault.

Last, if you need repairs or recharge or new batteries let us know and we will be pleased to help you in any way.
We will loan you a battery while yours is in for repair or recharge.

W. A. Truman, Proprietor of the Wayne Cleaning and Dye Works

Increased Volume of Business. Modern Machinery and Splendid Equipment. All Kinds of Cleaning and Pressing. All Kinds of Dyeing. A Home-Grown Wayne Institution. A Plea for Home Patronage. "Have It Cleaned in Wayne,"

says Frank French. Inside Information Concerning a Local Concern.

HAVE IT CLEANED IN WAYNE

Have it cleaned in Wayne. No matter what it is, if it belongs to wearing apparel and needs cleaning, have it cleaned in Wayne. Be loyal to Wayne. Have it done at a local institution. Keep your money at home. No matter if the suit does look seedy, and has had its good managers corrupted by evil communication with grease and grime, the Wayne Cleaning and Dye Works will clean it up and press it out and make the old look new. It is equipped for the business. It can fix up anything that needs fixing, press and return anything from hours to hats. Men's wear or women's wear, it makes no difference; send it the way of gasoline suits, and you will be satisfied with the results, and happy because you have patronized a home institution that is right here at hand, ready to make everything right that is not satisfactory.

WAYNE CLEANERS

W. A. Truman is the energetic and gentlemanly proprietor. He is a past-master at the business and is never satisfied with any work turned out unless the customer is satisfied. The Wayne Cleaning and Dye Works is really a branch of the Lincoln Globe Laundry, & Dye Works before locating in Wayne. Mr. Truman was associated with his brother in the operation of the Lincoln establishment. It is really due to an accident that he is in Wayne now. Nearly a year ago he was looking for a place in which to extend the business of the home plant. At Tecumseh he purchased a ticket for Pawnee City, but by mistake boarded the wrong train and was landed at Tecumseh. He had not intended that Wayne had no steam laundry. He wrote the secretary of the Public Service club about the town and the laundry prospects. As a result of the correspondence he came to Wayne, was pleased with its appearance, and bought the Wayne Cleaning and Dye Works.

SPLENDID EQUIPMENT, GOOD BUSINESS.

Hundreds of people pass up and down the street every day and have no idea what kind of machinery is installed in the cleaning establishment. Hundreds of people send their clothes to be cleaned and pressed and have very little conception of the machinery required to do the work or the process through which the material passes. The newest and most up-to-date machinery does the work, cleaned by machinery, dried by machinery, pressed by machinery, the whole thing is done by machinery. For a modest, unpretentious institution, the volume of business is more than correspondingly large. Every day men's suits, women's dresses and cloaks, plain and fancy, pass through the vats, extractors and presses in surprising numbers.

AND NOW ABOUT THE PROCESS

The writer followed Mr. Truman through the work rooms and saw in operation the machinery that fights dirt and grease, and the steam presser that turns out delicate creases for the front of men's trousers. If you have a suit to be cleaned here is the process it must go through or the route it must travel. If you have two suits it is an easy proposition. You put on the other suit and send the one to be cleaned to the Wayne Cleaning and Dye Works. But if you have only one suit you will have to go down to the establishment yourself and stand in one of the barrels provided for the purpose while the work is being done.

First the suit is properly tagged, numbered and hung upon the hooks. Then it goes to the wash room and is locked in a steel gasoline washing cylinder where it is rapidly revolved and entirely submerged in gasoline for a period of thirty minutes. Then the dirty gasoline is drained off, and a clean supply injected into the cylinder and the revolving commences again, this time for rinsing purposes. From here it goes into a centrifugal extractor, which extracts the gasoline from the fabric. Next it goes to the drying rooms, where heat and air do the rest as to the gasoline smell. The pressing comes next. That's done by steam. The washer took out the dirt and the presser takes out the wrinkles and pulls in the spruce. Here are your clothes. You can put them on now and came out of that barrel looking as sleek as if you had just stepped out of a hand box.

THEY CLEAN EVERYTHING

They clean everything that travels on the "clothes line." Delicate silk fabrics, costly tapestries, laboring men's grease-covered jumpers, it makes no difference; they all go through their respective processes and come out in the same faultless condition. Cleaned or dyed or both, the work is done right. Children's clothing is one of the specialties. No matter what your boy has been into or how much dirt he's gathered up, send his suit down Truman and they will clean and clean and sleek. If you should forget to take the boy out of the suit before you send it down, you would hardly know the boy when he comes back. You wouldn't suspect he had the same neck and wrists. This is an easy way to give the children a bath.

They have special facilities for cleaning gloves, silk, cotton or any kind that they wear and press them out in a way that can only be described by saying they have been restored. That means that they look just as they did when they were new.

This high class glove work is done on a silver plated metal arm graced with four long tapering fingers. The arm is elegantly shaped and allows long. When the glove is stretched over it the steam is turned on and the iron arm dries and irons, wrinkles and flattens, as well as shapes and molds any form or quality of glove that is stretched over it. It is a great glove restorer.

A GOOD PLACE TO DYE

Cleaning and pressing is the specialty, but all kinds of dyeing is done. Any thing that can be improved by changing the color can be improved that in the dyeing department of this institution. The country of the future is being painted on his linen duster so he could use it for an overcoat, gives you a suggestion. Have it colored and make it do longer service and fool your neighbors. Make them think you have something new. Whenever anything comes that cannot be done as it should be done it is sent to Lincoln and comes back with the class gloss of the city finish. Some people are loath to send their work out-of-town to be done. They think it can be done better some other place. If you don't want it done here at home and think that you are getting more expert service, if it is sent away, bring it down to Truman and he will send it away for you and it will cost a cent more, if indeed it costs as much. In the event Truman sends it away for you he assumes all responsibility and will stand sponsor for the best kind of work. He guarantees satisfaction. They claim to dye any kind of goods wool, cotton, or silk, mercurate too fragile for heavy use course or heavy. The dyeing process does not entail the ripping in pieces of made garments. The most delicate opera cloak goes to the color vat and intact and comes out the same way. Men's suits and overcoats go the same way and change their colors as easily as a chameleon. After the coloring comes the shaping. No garment ever went out of the establishment without being pressed and restored to its original shape and style.

A SIDE HINT TO YOUNG MEN

Say boys, your appearance is worth as much as your name. Clothes may not make the man, but they certainly do help. You are most welcome at "her" house. Her clothes are well cleaned and faultlessly pressed. If the new-made creases stand out like whip cords on the old trousers you can't find an old thread about them. You look better and "she" likes you better. If you always keep yourself cleaned up that way, looking fresh and snappy, you will have an easier time with her dad later on. Hundreds and hundreds of young ladies will yet be won by the young men of Wayne who have had their suits cleaned and pressed at the Wayne Cleaning and Dye Works.

A WAYNE INSTITUTION

Aside from his business enterprise, the proprietor, W. A. Truman is the right kind of citizen. He is a booster for Wayne. He is enterprising and progressive. He preaches Wayne and practices Wayne. He has helped the town; he has brought business from Winside, Carroll, Wakefield, Sholes and other outlying places. He has succeeded in his business and you will see the institution grow. The volume of his business has increased steadily ever since he took charge and it will increase. It will become a valuable asset to Wayne. All he asks is a fair and even chance. If you can get as good work done in Wayne as you can in Norfolk or Sioux City it is your duty to patronize Wayne. Part of every dollar spent in your home town in home industries comes back to you.

TRUMAN WANTS YOUR BUSINESS.

Mr. Truman wants your business. If you live in Wayne, phone your order and the work will be sent for and returned after it is done. If you live in the country bring it in and it will be promptly done and be waiting for you when you want it. If you live in an adjoining town, where there is no establishment of this kind, send in your work and the return charges will be prepaid. Send in your work. Have it cleaned in Wayne. Do it now. FRANK FRENCH.

UNCLE WALT

The Poet Philosopher

USELESS REGRETS.

We all regret our past mistakes, and view the same with wailing; but when we made our dizzy breaks, our tears are unavailing. You ran your car at great speed through city streets and alleys; for safety rules you have no heed on rural hills and valleys. Some day when you swing round and see it'll sweep into your vision another car—you'll lose your nerve and it'll be a collision. When from the tangled wreck you emerge with slats and wishbone broken, the warning words you will recall that you so often spoken. And when you sit upon a cot, with plaster casts around you, a string of dark, remorseful thought will torture and confound you. You'll weep for former follies. Aches and pains will be disgusted, but tears won't for you sound again, or beat the leg that's lashed. And so with every foolish trick that you and I are springing; the penalty will bring us sick, remorse and sorrow bringing us.

THE GRUNTER.

If you're complaining of your task, or sighing as you labor, I great fear you'll never be in East street, my neighbor. The man is seeking willing hands to help him, and you're not here. The gent who stands, for soft employment yearning. The man who drops away behind, who cannot get his work done, who is in the dreary grind, and all that sort of piffle. The man who gaily does his work, pretending to enjoy it, who is not really doing it, who thought he may be feeling dead, will never make confession, is he who marches at the head of industry's procession. The man who grunts whenever he swings his fountain pen or hammer, who never smiles and never sings, who never will consent to lump until he sees his wages, will land some morning at the dump, and there he'll stay for ages.

DREAMS.

I hope some day to write a song that will astonish all the throng on this old planet groaning; but mean while, since I have to buy the children lids and shoes and pie, I'll take it out in hoping. I often think if I had time to put my best into a rhyme, John Milton would look faded; but writing odd doggerel that pays takes up the passing hours of days, and keeps me warm and jaded. I don't suppose I'll ever pen the ode that will astonish me, and bring me Shakespeares, laurels; and as of old my ink shall flow, expounding lessons all men know, and bargain counter morals, till when a day I'm laid out and tired, until I'm frazzled out and tired, it's pleasant to sit dreaming of that far day when I shall write this ode, and bring me Shakespeares, laurels; and as of old my ink shall flow, expounding lessons all men know, and bargain counter morals, till when a day I'm laid out and tired, until I'm frazzled out and tired, it's pleasant to sit dreaming of that far day when I shall write this ode, and bring me Shakespeares, laurels; Fred S. Berry was elected county attorney of Wayne county without opposition. He has active and efficient legal assistance and efficient service.

It will be more comforting to defeated candidates if they will devote themselves to contemplating the future instead of reviewing and brooding over the past.

Some one has suggested that the southern states ought to avoid the expense of a presidential election, and just direct the voting of the electors to support for the democratic candidate.

Christmas is not far off, and people have begun to plan for the great holiday. It is better to plan now and better than ever, and their announcements with particulars will soon appear in the Herald.

South Dakota's new law which requires rival candidates to engage in public debates inflicts unreasonably great burdens on them and on the public if aspirants for offices in that state are as unskilled in debating as they usually are in Nebraska.

Railroad officials and representatives of railroad employes' brotherhoods are unable to agree on application and operation of the Adamson act. The employes' union has threatened another strike. Differences between employes and employes will keep up until the demand for government ownership and operation of all railroad lines will become overwhelming and triumphant.

President Wilson's reelection is greeted by not the least of those that there is little to boast of in the direction of popular endorsement. His policies have been approved by little more than half the people. But there is no longer division regarding the president. Members of all parties will hope for the exercise of sound and statesmanlike wisdom in the handling of perplexing international problems which are certain to appear for consideration and determination during the next few years.

The victory for prohibition in Nebraska is not the result of the efforts of radical prohibitionists, because they had a small influence in gaining support for the reform. Banishing the legal sale of liquor followed the deliberately reached determination by practical people of all classes and conditions that the open saloon was a menace to the business and employment, and is a source of inefficiency, waste and ruin. The masses decided that it was time to withdraw protection of the law from an institution that does infinite harm and no good. How far prohibition will prohibit will depend on the disposition of the people.

One of the weaknesses in the working of the primary system is revealed in connection with the governorship. The man who would have proven the most effective candidate for the republican nomination would have been elected if nominated, was defeated by Douglas county. S. R. McKelvie, editor of the Nebraska Farmer, is the man

Out from the state he had a big majority. But Douglas county turned heavily to Sutton and secured his nomination. Sutton is a good man and looks like a governor, but he did not appear to advantage as a speech maker. If he could have been persuaded to make a few very brief speeches, he might have been elected. Douglas county which gave him a flood of ballots in the primary fell down when it came to giving up votes for him in the election. McKelvie had gained personal acquaintance in all parts of the state and he was well on the platform. He knows about what to say, and knows when to quit. He is a man who has the ability to order to his aid, and he would have made an excellent executive.

Many are the wretches who have depended on politics for a livelihood. The state or nation will pay highest salaries for inefficient service that will be paid by employing corporations or individuals. Many easy-going people who cannot make as much otherwise, become accustomed to using up good salaries in government positions and seek other lines of endeavor. They find remuneration according to production much less than they had expected in receiving. In fact, they did not learn to do things with the same energy and efficiency demanded in business, but cultivated habits of ease and idleness which could not otherwise be sustained. As a consequence, a period of office holding often disqualifies a man for efficient executive endeavor and thus, shorn of office, he drags along precariously and miserably. A man should not seek office if it is a source of sole dependence for the present or future. He should learn how to achieve much in expert fashion, and expect no more compensation than his service actually merits.

In a signed statement, M. M. Warner announces that his Layton Mirror announces that his thirty-third year and that he has been proprietor of the paper for twenty-seven years. During that time he says he has made many friends, but no single enemy. For a newspaper to thrash through twenty-seven years without causing any serious flash of anger or resentment is an achievement worthy of note and congratulation. One advantage of entering a life of dependence for the present or future. He should learn how to achieve much in expert fashion, and expect no more compensation than his service actually merits.

The Herald has had so many inquiries from over the state concerning the identity of "Frank French," and the origin of the advertising matter, that he has been compelled to believe a brief explanation will be of general interest. Rev. W. C. Garrison, pastor of the local Baptist church, is "Frank French." He has been writing special advertisements as a side-line and without interfering with his spiritual endeavors. Many years ago we had a custom—rather vague one then—that the average rural weekly was too much inclined to restrict its service to the territory to the point of publication, and that a plan should be worked out to comprehend more territory in bestowing benefit and assistance. Garrison, however, being an individual, can't get something for nothing. Service is the basis of enduring success. Give to the people living in the remote corner the county or in an adjoining county matter of interest to them from week to week, and they will take the paper and be glad to pay for it in advance. Deposit on local pride in a home paper and you will value along indifferently far in the future. We reviewed our own conditions during our early experience. We were too independent in spirit to seek support on the home-loyalty plan. We could not be able to ask for advertising on the positive knowledge that we could benefit the advertiser if he had something to say while we offered. We were most interested more people in the newspaper in a wider field, make them anxious to receive, read, and order to his aid, and he would have made an excellent executive. Once we were able to give service, and gain interested circulation accordingly, we knew we could assure benefit to an advertiser and that relations through an extended public and a better newspaper would be obtained and mutually beneficial. Any man who has something to offer the public, whether he lives on the farm or in town, can profit by careful advertising in a measure that is read. Of these things we have long been convinced. We had discovered that people on farms and in town, not accustomed to adequate public presentation of their merits, could use publicity to advantage and profit, and would accept it if some one could handle the facts in proper and attractive manner. We had been on the lookout for a number of years to find the right man. We studied Mr. Garrison for several months, and finally suggested the advertising writings as a side-line. We might handle with touches of humor caught the public eye at once, and his pages and half pages have not only been read with interest, but have also attracted attention in all parts of the state.

WHOM DO YOU BLAME?
Bixby in Lincoln Journal: In politics as in other activities it matters not so much who is to be blamed as what we desire, we place the blame on the other fellow, whoever he may happen to be. Adam blamed Eve, for the crime of eating the forbidden apple, while no doubt he was more at fault than she. Now that the smoke of battle has cleared away, and the dead and wounded have been decently disposed of, we feel justified in taking a retrospective view of the situation with a view of getting a fair understanding of who did it and how it was done. The late lamented Robert G. Ingersoll once attempted to establish the superstructure of a moral philosophy on the "Mistakes of Moses." It is generally believed that Moses in his day and generation made fewer serious blunders than those who criticized him, so that the house Ingersoll built went down when he went down, and Ingersoll's mistakes were so many nobody has felt it worth while to catalogue them.

In public, as a servant of the people Charles E. Hughes proved himself worthy of the confidence of all classes. He was honest, earnest, capable and fair; but he made a mistake early in the campaign, after having received the many unanimous call of his party to enter the service of ridding up the record of Woodrow Wilson rather than running on his own. He told the people what he would have done that Wilson did not do, but with a great many thinking people that didn't spell anything as touching some of the problems with which the nation is now confronted. He crossed the continent and, arriving in California, refused to recognize that Hiram Johnson was a factor in the political life of California as related to recognized republicanism in that state. By and by he began to inject into his speeches matters of moment that the people wanted to hear, but his initial utterances had prejudiced his cause.

And then came the column with a hammer bigger than a house, and the way tore through to letters, and started fires of prejudice, hate and discord where harmony was sorely needed, was enough to have defeated an army. If you are disappointed in general results, let the blame rest where it belongs, either with the candidate and his helpers or the fellows who voted for Wilson.

Farm Loans---Twenty Year Amortization Or Rural Credit Plan

The Union Central Life Insurance Company of Cincinnati, Ohio, with assets of over One Hundred Million Dollars has decided to make farm loans in your county upon a plan that is new to you, but, which I am sure will interest you.

The Company has decided to make a twenty year loan on the amortization or rural credit plan. On this loan the total payment for both interest and principal will be $87.10 per year on each $100.00 borrowed. If these payments are made each year for a period of twenty years, the loan will be fully paid and the mortgage will be released. This is something that the farmers of the United States have been wanting for some time and this large and progressive life insurance company has decided to give the farmer this loan on this plan. You will have absolute control of your mortgage indebtedness at all times, under this amortization or rural credit plan of loan, as you will be given the option of paying any number of the notes in advance of maturity that you may desire to pay, which, of course, will include the entire loan. The notes will be discounted at compound interest annually for the unexpired time at 5 1/2 per cent. The total payment is just the same each year. The payments on account of interest decrease, as the payments on account of principal increase. The annual payments are very little more than the annual interest payment under the old plan of loan and under the new plan your debt is fully paid at the end of the twenty years and your mortgage released. As your payments are made only each year and the amounts are always the same, you will have no difficulty whatever in keeping the matter in mind and making your arrangements to make the payments promptly. No interest coupons are executed.

Having this long time in which to make the payments and not being compelled to pay the entire mortgage or at least large amounts at one time, you are not burdened with the thought of debt and are justified in making larger expenditures of the next profits, in improving the buildings and bettering the equipment of your farm, increasing live stock or giving your growing family better educational facilities. In fixing the loan for the long period of twenty years, you are relieved of all anxiety in regard to renewal of loan at five year periods and are also saving all renewal commissions and expenses of abstract and recording where loans are renewed.

In 1893, the Union Central Life Insurance Company made a $300.00 loan for ten years at six per cent and this loan was renewed for another ten year period at same rate. The statement of this loan is, as follows:

Principal	$300.00
6 per cent interest on $300.00 for 20 years	360.00
Total payments would cover—Principal	$660.00
Loan not paid, borrower still owes—$300.00
Under the amortization or rural credit plan, annual payments on $300.00 loan would be $26.13, total payments for 20 years—$522.60
Total payments would cover—Principal	$300.00
Interest paid	222.60
Total	$522.60

Saved by borrower, difference between interest paid on two loans $138.40
4 per cent interest on $300.00 for 20 years—$240.00—only $17.40 more than amount of interest paid under amortization plan as above noted.

We do not claim to make these loans at four per cent interest, but we make this comparison to simply show you what can be accomplished under this plan of loan.

It is well worth your while to consider this loan very carefully. In case you are in need of a farm loan call on us and talk the matter over.

YOURS VERY TRULY,

H. C. McGath, Famous Poland China Breeder

For Twenty-Five Years a Producer of Pork Models. Ebony Colored Prize Winners from Great Families. Once Owner of the Biggest Hog in the State of Nebraska . . .

A WAYNE COUNTY WINDFALL

A fine red apple fell from the tree and it in the west side of Wayne county two years ago. This was when H. C. McGath moved down from Plainview with his selected stock of Poland Chinas and established a Poland China farm in the western limits of the county. He brought with him the prize products of twenty-five years breeding, and a reputation that pays little attention to state lines.

AN OLD TIME BREEDER

The hog business was not new to McGath. For twenty-five years he has been in the business, first at Central City and later at Plainview. In these places he handled Shorthorns very extensively, but first and always Poland Chinas were the "main chance." He is one of the famous breeders of the state, and today in almost any part of the state can be found some of the famous hogs he has produced. He has been associated in hog sales with such breeders as Wm. Ferguson of Scribner, Neb., Paul Wagner of Pierce, Neb., and the Cedarbank farm of Fullerton, Neb., with all of whom he has held joint sales.

WHAT HE HAS IN THE HOG LINE

At the present time he has on hand an invoice of picture stock. The big head of the herd will be described, painted, framed, and hung up on another part of the wall. In addition, there are fifteen great matrons, several young boars, thirty fine, young gilts, and forty fall pigs that are pictures.

The McGath hogs are in fine condition. They are big hogs; they are smooth hogs. They are the biggest smooth hogs we have seen for some time, or we can back up and say it another way: They are the smoothest big hogs we have seen lately. They stand high, are long bodied, well modeled, rangy, but not overly rangy, big frames easily fattened, and with all a fair type of picture hogs. Go over and see them for yourself. If you want a Poland China hog go over and see them; it will be well worth your while.

A FAMOUS SON OF BIG ORPHAN

McGath's Big Orphan, a famous son of Big Orphan, is now the herd head of the McGath pens. He is rare type of big smooth progenitor. He stands up well on big-boned legs that can carry a great body. He weighs nine hundred and eighty pounds and is as active as a young goat. He fills his hide completely and exhibits no more wrinkles than a pig. Broad back, well arched, stands forty inches high, and possesses an astounding depth of body. His blood is rich with the Big Jumbo strain and well crossed on the Wonder and Teuness families. A young son from this sire will be a money making proposition to any farmer in northeastern Nebraska; and where can a breeder of the pure strain get richer purple?

McGath's Big Orphan, a famous son of Big Orphan, is now the herd head of the McGath pens.

DUKES WITH SOME REPUTATION

McGath has raised some of the famous hogs of the middle west. He has been the owner of Dukes with reputation. One of his great hogs was Equality, bred, sired by the late owner and Chief Teuness had, a $10,000 boar. Big Jumbo was another noted hog that once belonged to McGath. He was sired by what some call the best boar ever bred in America, Big Jumbo. This hog was a prize winner at the state fair in 1913, notwithstanding he had to show three months under his class. Long Wonder is another famous Poland China that has graced the herd of H. C. McGath. Long Wonder was sold by McGath to Wm. Ferguson and was not only a famous sire of famous gets, but developed into the largest hog ever raised in the state of McGath's Big Orphan, a famous son of Big Orphan, is now the herd head of the McGath pens.

Giltedged Gilts will go to the Sale Ring in February. Is Starting in Shorthorns. Two Classy Dams. A Great February Calf. Barnyard full of "Ringlet" Barred Plymouth Rocks

Nebraska. Without fattening for the test, he tipped the scales at twelve hundred pounds.

SUCCESSFUL PUBLIC SALES

For a good many years past, Mr. McGath has held public sales in different parts of the state. On the 20th of last month he held a young boar sale at Norfolk and although it was the first hard stormy day of the season he sold twenty-four spring boars, that averaged $52.40 each. Next February he is planning to stage a sale of sire hogs and gilts. He has, of course, Neb.

Farmers of Wayne county, don't stand around with your hands in your pockets and let this kind of stock go down to Hooper. It is needed right here in this county.

AND NOW COME SHORTHORNS

Until coming to Wayne county Mr. McGath has always been a breeder of Shorthorns and the habit is so deep-seated that he cannot keep out of the business. Last year he attended one of Geo. Baskirk's sales and bought two of the best cows he could pick out. One of them, Rose Bud Lady, is a fine individual and traces back to the redline dam Orange Blossom. Orange Blossom carries the line across the water to the hills of Scotland where Amos Cruickshank first sneaked the purple into Durham blood.

The other cow was Royal Thelma 2nd, a dam that harks back to imported Favorite. Royal Thelma is the dam of a male calf that came last February and is now a magnificent roan that is mighty hard to beat. Eight months old, this young aristocrat weighs in the seven hundred and twenty pound notch. Because Mr. McGath cannot use him for his own breeding purposes, he is for sale, and some lucky man will get a roan-colored prize.

"RINGLET" BARRED PLYMOUTH ROCKS

Don't leave the place until you have seen the chickens. The yard is covered with them. They roam in great flocks about the barns and cribs and every one of them has a trinity of size, shape and plumage that would attract attention anywhere. They are Barred Rocks, but not the ordinary Barred Rocks. They are of the Thompson strain and the stock came direct from America, New York, where they were produced by the greatest breeder of Barred Rocks in America. This strain is not the ordinary strain of Barred Rocks. It is the "Ringlet" Barred Rock. The plumage is soft and silky, the bars narrow and inclined to circle in ringlets. It makes the general appearance of the fowl quite a little different from the common Plymouth Rock. They retain the size, if in fact they are not larger, than the common strain. They are desirable for table fowls and they are good layers. They are handsome birds, cleanly marked, and definitely colored. Mr. McGath can well be proud of his poultry exhibit. He has on hand a large number of finely marked young cockerels, some of which are easily worth from ten to twenty-five dollars each, but she is asking very moderate prices, indeed. She has shipped eggs, cockerels and trios all over the state and to all adjoining states.

FRANK FRENCH.

THE EARLY DAYS IN TWO COUNTIES

From the Wayne Herald, November 17, 1892:
Prohibition was defeated in the Kansas election.
Arrangements have been made for a fourth bank in Wayne county. John Theate and Mrs. Pauline Ridler were married at Wayne, No. 16, 1892.
The Democrats had less than fifty majority in the house, which was a large republican gain.
John Kronger passed away Wednesday, November 16, 1892, death being due to consumption.
The report of the condition of the Citizens bank on November 17, 1892, shows resources aggregating $240,548.21.
W. H. Nangle and Miss Rosa Edwards were married November 17, 1892. They began housekeeping in the new residence, which had just been completed by the groom.
A heavy fire in the brick mill plant of J. S. Lewis of Waverly, on November 16, 1892, caused approximately $3,000 worth of damage. Insurance to the amount of $1,000 was held.

FARM BARGAINS

160 acres 7 miles northwest of Wayne, 4 miles east of Carroll, a dandy good quarter of land for man who wants to raise a good bunch of stock; good lowland pasture and plenty of good water, price and terms right, will carry back $12,000 five years at five per cent.
100 acres five miles from Winfield, good improvements, running water, good pasture, two acres alfalfa, all fenced, and cross-fenced; can give good terms. Price $90.
I have several other good bargains in 80-, 160-, and 320-acre farms, the kind that never go back on the owner. Don't hesitate to ask me about them.

FORMER HARTINGTON MAN WRITES OF WEST

W. H. Martin, former Hartington man, now located at Kitzville, Wash., writes the Hartington Herald a communication setting forth conditions in Washington under the "dry" regime. On that subject he says:
"Two years ago we, in this state, went through the same 'wet and dry' fight you are having in Nebraska, and I desire to tell you some conditions here. Having been honored by the bankers of this state by being elected president of the highest honor they can bestow—and at the present time being secretary of the association, I cannot afford to tell anything but the truth.
"My duties call me over the entire state, and as my traveling expense are paid, I get to see practically the whole state. On January 1, 1914, our state abolished the saloons, and a permit system is established whereby, every twenty days, a person desiring may call in person upon the saloon and pay twenty-five cents, and get a permit to ship to him for his use two quarts of whiskey and twelve quarts of beer. If we are not absolutely dry, the states of Oregon and Idaho, adjoining us, went dry the same time, but the Idaho law is more severe than ours.
"The predictions that after the saloons were abolished we would be bankrupt, and that grass would grow in our streets, have failed to come to pass. On the contrary, I honestly believe that the state of Washington is better off today financially and morally than ever before. The deposits in the banks are the largest ever. I am not foolish enough to believe that the abolition of the saloons has made all this change, but it does show that it has been done in spite of no saloons.
"The law is broken, and a good many crooks are fined and imprisoned, but the ones breaking the law are the wets, not the dries. It is certainly quite a sight to walk the streets of Seattle, city twice the size of Omaha, and not see a saloon nor a drunken man. The buildings formerly occupied by saloons in Seattle, Spokane and Tacoma are nearly all occupied by other lines of business.
"Two measures are before the people this fall—one to let bootlegging fifty rooms serve liquor to guests; the other to allow bootleggers to make and sell their own. I predict that both bills will be removed under by 25,000 votes, if I am correct.
"I have talked with hundreds of bankers and business men since the first of the year, and they all say things are so much better now than formerly that they would not think of returning to the old way.

"Just a word in regard to the city in which I live. We are in a farming community, with a population of about twenty-five hundred. We have had as high as ten saloons. Three years ago we went dry. Since that time we have prospered as never before. Every business 100 per cent. and home is occupied. There has been no unemployment in that time than any other same period previous. This year we have spent over $50,000 for stock raising alone. The deposits are close to two million dollars, making us the second richest city in the state. We have had no parades in two years, and R. L. Polk company state that we have the largest county seat in the United States without such an officer. There is no need for one. I am just writing about the business side of the question. Morally, we are a hundred per cent. better off.
"I wish you did not think that this state are dry, so are the men running for United States senators, and practically all state officers. They have to come to it. In my opinion Nebraska will take a long step forward if she votes dry."

DON'T SQUEAL

It's no matter how you feel,
Put your shoulder to the wheel,
Don't squeal.
When up against the real,
You lose out in a deal,
Don't squeal.
If perchance you miss a meal,
And the prodigal has veal,
Don't squeal.
Let the other fellow spiel,
You keep level on your keel;
Don't squeal.
You're not facing lead and steel,
Mighty thankful you should feel,
Don't squeal.
If Wilson leads the reel,
And Hughes comes out the heel,
Don't squeal.
It's no matter how you feel,
Put your shoulder to the wheel;
Don't squeal.

Doctors Lewis and Lewis, Local Chiropractors

Some people take their medicine internally, some take it externally and some take it eternally. No matter how they take it, or what they take, it is all done for the same purpose. Everybody who is sick wants to get well and everybody who is well wants to stay well. Some like it allopathic, some like it homoeopathic, some osteopathic, and we have fallen on times when a good many take the chiropractic route. This page is presented as an exhibit of the chiropractic school and theory as demonstrated by our local practitioners.

DOCTORS LEWIS & LEWIS

The firm title, Doctors Lewis & Lewis, means Dr. A. D. Lewis, the local chiropractor, and his good lady, Mrs. A. D. Lewis, also a chiropractor, and associated with him in his local practice. Dr. A. D. Lewis is a native of Oklahoma. It was in the clime of this semi-southern state that the doctor ran through the roster of whooping cough, mumps and measles and grew to young manhood. He attended the current education of the city schools, and when it came time to decide upon a life profession, the demonstration of a chiropractor arrested his attention, and he began an investigation. Most people were giving the new school the chiropractic ha, ha, but this did not deter young Lewis from finding out for himself any merits or demerits, the so-called bad might possess. He went at his investigation as he goes at everything he undertakes. Saying nothing more about the manner of his research, the result is announced by his present time profession. After coming to Nebraska he met the young lady who is now Mrs. Lewis and a chiropractor in her own right. She was then Miss Bessie Elyson, a bright young woman with more than usual energy, and she likewise was an interested chiropractic student. Both graduated from the Palmer Chiropractic school of Davenport, Ia., and later added to their skill and qualifications by an extensive practice. They were married in 1912 and shortly after came to Wayne, their present home.

WHAT IS CHIROPRACTIC ANYHOW?

You can search most people, and carry off all they know about chiropractic in your vest pocket. But it is a foothold in this country. It has thousands and thousands of disciples in the middle west. The sick who claim to have been restored to health by its virtues, would make a large army. It is a school to be reckoned with and it stands us in hand to find out something about it.

First, however, let me say to you gentle reader, that technical terms and professional and scientific phraseology is my first specialty. I can reel off anatomical nomenclature in longitudinal elongations or extenuations by the yard, but I always talk this doctor stuff on a slide trombone and I haven't the instrument handy now, so I will use plain United States words in saying what I have to say.

THE D. D. PALMER THEORY

D. D. Palmer, father of B. J. Palmer, head of the Davenport, Ia., school is the founder of the practice, and father of the theory. The chiropractors assume that all nerves of the body pass out the spinal column through the openings between the different sections of the spinal column or the backbone, that when one of these backbone segments gets out of place it impinges the nerves which pass through between it and its neighbor. This impinging or pinching of the nerves deranges the part of the body to which these nerves are tributary and disease results. They say that if you replace or adjust the misplaced section of the backbone it will relieve the pressure on the squeezed nerve and remove the cause of the disease, and nature will do the curing. They align the sections of the backbone with the hand and from this operation comes the name chiropractic. It is a word with a Greek foundation and means the hand, or pertaining to the hand. In other words chiropractic is hand work like life old. Now it must be understood that when the chiropractor adjusts the disarranged joints of the backbone their natural tendency is toward the place of dislocation and they will gradually work back to the old-time place which caused the disturbance. For that reason one adjustment does not effect a permanent cure. But an adjustment followed up by a series of adjustments tends toward fixed and permanent alignment. Perfect and permanent alignment, the chiropractors say, is a guarantee of good health.

A TRY OUT OF TWENTY YEARS

It is now more than a score of years since the late D. D. Palmer, the first of all chiropractors, first declared that in the matter of diseases he had discovered the "backbone" of the whole thing. He began his research under very unfavorable conditions, but he was never discouraged. He worked away day after day. He studied nerves, and nerve centers, joints and bones, locations and dislocations, impinges and other things until at last he announced the approaching perfection of his new system of chiropractic. It was a new thing. People did not even know how to pronounce the word. They had to learn that the word afforded a good illustration of the theory that it was itself a backbone with four joints and had to be adjusted like this—Ki-Ro-Prak-Tik—before it could be pronounced.

It met the fate of every other new discovery. It stirred up a merry ha ha. It stirred up more than that. It was criticised. It was maligned. It was ridiculed. It was resisted. It was rejected. It was cursed and discussed. It was killed and buried time and time again. But Palmer worked on. He gave demonstrations. He straightened out the crooked. He relieved nerve pressures, and propped up wobbly backbones, and worked on men who were about ready to trade their spinal columns for final columns in the graveyard. Men saw what he did, and believed that there might be something in the thing after all. As in the days of Christ those who were restored to health followed after the health giver and became his disciples, Palmer had his followers and admirers. Others followed in the same line of study. They were followed by still others. An association was formed. A few bold spirits began a general practice. Later came the Davenport school. Then went forth the student body, class by class, until today there are hundreds of chiropractic practitioners and multitudes of advocates and believers in the north and central sections of the country.

AND THE WAY WAS HARD

With the widening circle of practice came a widening circle of difficulties. It had to meet local objections and popular prejudice. It had to force its way. Everything the world has ever known in the way of progress has had to hack its way uphill against the entire field. To all men who have done things, to all organizations, to all movements and theories, have come a baptism of fire. Chiropractic has been christened, with flames. It's votaries claim that it has won its belt and spurs, in the actual arena where theories, schemes, fads, fashions, professions, cults, doctrines and isms contend for the right of existence. And so this drudgery, painless, hand-operated system of dealing with disease has, so chiropractors claim, come to be a science.

THE SYSTEM IS HARMLESS

Another thing that can be said in its favor, and that with good emphasis, is that if it does no good it can do no harm. It is painless. It is a system of adjusting that prohibits the use of anything except the bare hand. The hand operation is applied to the backbone of common parlance, and there with a quick, skilled and practiced movement peculiar to the chiropractor, a segment is supposed to be replaced in its own normal place. So chiropractors become skilled with the hands, and adept at finding bumps and humps, and twists and crooks and sharps and flats, on the spinal column. They learn to detect the so-called derangements or displacements by touch. Their fingers grow sensitive and they can tell instantly whether the cogs mesh normally or grind discordantly.

ABOUT THIS SLIPPING COGS

The critics say, how can so many backs get twisted? What would wrench a vertebrae out of its natural position? The chiropractors come back and say that we use our backbones for derricks, cranes, levers, fulcrums, pivots, swivels, and for a thousand other things for which God never intended them to be used. A fall, a jar, a misstep, a blow, a quick jerk, a straining lift, a heavy load and a hundred other things (besides abortion returns) are sufficient to cause numbness and constant dislocations. Perhaps they are right. I am assured of one thing and that is that a backbone is a very important part of the human anatomy and it ought to be kept in order. I have known some people that were so considerate of their backbones that they never used them.

OUR LOCAL CHIROPRACTORS

The three years that our local chiropractors, Doctors Lewis & Lewis, have been operating in Wayne, have been three years of almost marvelous success. They commenced at the bottom without help or friends. They fitted up their office and operating rooms as best they could in the early stage of beginners. People were strange to them and they were strange to the people. The theory was little known and less favored. They stuck to their posts. Those they treated became their agents. It required patience to wait for patients, but they waited and the patients came. Before the passing of the first year they came fast; the second year was better than the first. Often their quarters were too small. They began to be called out on professional visits. Patients came from other towns. Their practice grew. Their patients numbered from thirty to fifty per day. Their success was good. They had a crowd singing their praises. And this is the story, in brief, of the building up of a chiropractic practice in Wayne.

THEY HAVE IMPROVED EQUIPMENT

Their office and adjusting rooms today show big improvement over the exhibit they made the commencement year. Now the new tables and equipment that are installed are the best to be had. Exhibited on this page is a call of the adjusting table. It is a new model and looks to us to be a great contrivance. It is so constructed that you have to face it whether you want to or not. On it the patient is carried easily down to a horizontal position with the spinal column exposed for the adjustment. The contour of the table's surface, is such as to conform the body to the normal position the spine should have. It is a great convenience and help in the practice. The long cylinder that parallels the floor and just a little above it, is a compressed air cylinder and constitutes the power by which the table is raised or lowered when the patient is incumbant upon it.

Go to, now you who would know more about chiropractic and chiropractic adjustments and learn from the chiropractors themselves. I confess that you have pretty well drained my knowledge, but Doctors Lewis & Lewis will receive you very cordially, extend to you every courtesy and supply all possible information. For a case of your kind I prescribe the Doctor, and the Doctor may prescribe the rest.

FRANK FRENCH.

Dedicate Church

The Methodist church, which has been renovated and enlarged, will be dedicated next Sunday when three services will be held. In an interesting booklet, telling of the history of Methodist in Wakefield, it is stated that Rev. Josiah Fowler organized the first class of Methodists in Wakefield in 1822. Since then the church has grown steadily until in the beginning of the ministry of Rev. W. C. Kelly the necessity of erecting a new and more commodious building was felt. Under the direction of a building committee, consisting of F. S. Urecht, A. L. Nuernberger, George Overman and G. S. Beecher, the work has been completed. G. W. Burkhead of Sioux City is the architect of the new church and G. A. Johnson did the general contracting work. The stained glass windows, subscribed for by the societies and persons hearing their names, were erected by the Ford Bros. Canning company of Minneapolis. The church has a main auditorium 48x34 with a room 24x18 opening out of it and divided from it by sliding doors. Under all is a large basement 52x24 with a large kitchen, pantry, two toilets and a separate furnace and fuel tank. The total cost of the new structure is estimated at about $6,500. The programs for the three services on Sunday are given below:

7:30 a. m. Morning Service at 10:30 a. m. Rev. E. E. Hosman, D. D., district superintendent in charge. 7:30 p. m. Entertainment. Rev. F. Williams, Pastor. Hymn 180. Congregation. Posters' Creed. Dr. Hosman. Anthem. Choir. Prayer Lesson.—Rev. J. J. Burke. Gloria Patri. Second Scripture Lesson. Solo.—Rev. W. C. Kelly. Announcements.—Rev. J. J. Burke. Hymn 666. Congregation. Sermon.—Rev. I. B. Schreckengast. The total cost of the new Wesleyan university. General Financial Statement. Remarks.—Dr. Schreckengast. Prayer.—Dr. Hosman. Doxology. Benediction. Attention service at 3 o'clock.

Voluntary. Hymn 530. Congregation. Prayer.—Rev. H. King, M. A. Anthem.—Choir. Scripture Lesson.—Rev. E. Williams, Pastor of the Swedish Mission. 7:30 p. m. Hymn.—Mrs. F. S. Urecht and Miss A. Chinn. Sermon.—Rev. W. C. Kelly. Prayers from former and visiting pastors, led by Rev. J. T. Kraft. Pastor Swedish Lutheran church. Hymn 1. Congregation.

Evening service at 7:30 o'clock. Selection.—High School Orchestra. Hymn 385. Congregation. Prayer.—Rev. J. J. Burke. Anthem.—Choir. Scripture Lesson.—Rev. W. C. Kelly. Selection.—High School Orchestra. Hymn 1. Congregation. Sermon.—Dr. I. B. Schreckengast.

School Notes. Instead of the school carnival which had been announced for Friday, Nov. 24, no business was held on that date. The proceeds will be used for a victrola and records. The next meeting which was held last Friday evening was great success. More than 125 patrons were present to enjoy the program and to plan for future meetings. A permanent Patrons' Teachers' association was effected. It is probable that the organization of this association will be held every two months. The program opened with a vocal solo by Miss Florence Kroth and Mrs. Anna Blosberg. Singing hymns then discussed "The Relations of the Home to the School." D. H. Haswell voiced some pertinent facts in his response to this talk.

Miss Myrtle Carlson favored the company with a vocal solo, after which Rev. J. T. Kraft, pastor of the Swedish Lutheran church, pointed out the conditions that develop in children the habit of loafing on the street. Mrs. Charles Beebe continued the discussion, telling various ways in which the home and school might cooperate in training children to use time to the advantage. A pleasing walk solo by Mr. McMasters, director of the local band, closed the program. The ladies of the high school faculty served a delicious refreshment during the social hour, following the business session.

Go to Wayne

The following ladies of the Presbyterian church went by automobile to Wayne last Thursday afternoon to enter a joint session with the missionary society of that place at the home of Mrs. J. G. Mines. Mrs. S. H. King, Mrs. R. H. Mathis, Mrs. J. H. King, Mrs. C. W. G. Henton, Mrs. C. B. Coe, Mrs. H. C. Dillman, Mrs. Stiles, Mrs. H. B. Ware, Mrs. H. King were a guest in addition to the program which was given by the Wayne society. Mrs. H. King gave an interesting talk on missions. A delicious luncheon was served to the guests.

Farewell Sermon

Rev. E. Wallin delivered his farewell sermon at the Swedish Mission church last Sunday morning to a crowded house. At the close of the impressive service Rev. Wallin was presented with a purse of money made up by members of the congregation. Rev. Wallin disposed of his household goods on Saturday and leaves this week for Chicago. Rev. Wallin had been the efficient pastor of the Wakefield church for eight years.

Plan for Bazaar

The ladies of the Aid society of the Presbyterian church are holding their regular meeting this afternoon at the home of Mrs. August Fisher. The hours will be devoted to completing the plans for a bazaar which will be held Saturday afternoon at the Andrew Hypse First-aid store. A big assortment of fancy needlework pieces will be offered for sale. Light refreshments will be served.

Supper a Success

The chicken pie supper which was given by the Ladies Aid society of the Methodist church last Saturday evening, received a generous patronage. Receipts totaled more than $57. The basement of the church now accommodates a large number of the most attractive place for social affairs.

Mrs. Coe Hostess

The ladies of the Missionary society were entertained at the home of Mrs. C. B. Coe last Friday afternoon. Mrs. R. H. Matheson led the interesting program. At the close of the afternoon Mrs. Coe served an appetizing luncheon.

Miss Faith Haskell spent Tuesday in Sioux City. Mr. and Mrs. George Green were guests of relatives in Ponca Saturday.

Miss Isabelle McLaughlin visited friends in Sioux City the latter part of the week. Miss Hiett yesterday morning left for Sioux Falls on a brief business trip.

James H. Mallory went to Omaha Friday afternoon to spend the week end with relatives.

Miss Viola Donelson who is an instructor in the Hartington schools, spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Donelson.

Miss Olive Astroppe who is studying at a normal college, spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Astroppe near Wakefield.

"Electric" Trucks went to Sioux City yesterday to accompany home his daughter, who underwent an operation for appendicitis about two weeks ago.

Miss Marguerite Knapp and Miss Frances Taylor who had been guests of Miss Faith Haskell in Wakefield, resumed their home at Sioux City Monday afternoon.

Miss Myrtle Carlson went to Sioux City Wednesday morning to attend a musical convention. While in the city she will be a guest of Miss Neomi Hoagner.

Mrs. Neta Olson and son, Oscar, who had been in the city several weeks, left yesterday for Arkansas in the hope that a change of climate would benefit the latter's health.

The Philanthropic of the Presbyterian church will meet tomorrow evening with their teacher, Mrs. R. H. Matheson, to make Christmas presents for high mission schools.

Mrs. C. H. Baxter of Hastings, Ia., was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Ware over Monday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Master Richard Baxter, accompanied Mrs. Baxter on her return home Tuesday.

Mrs. Anna Blosberg arrived Saturday evening from Los Angeles, Calif., where she had been located for several months. Miss Blosberg expects to return to her relatives in Wakefield during the winter.

It must be difficult for women not to speak to each other when nursing an "improving grade," speaking being one of the easiest things the women do.

CHURCH CALENDAR

Presbyterian Church. (Rev. S. N. Cross, Pastor.) "The Hope of Our Country" is the theme for the sermon at this church next Sunday evening. The hour is 7:30 and you are cordially invited to all members and friends of the church. That was a fine acquaintance at the Sunday school last Sunday, when we consider the inclemency of the weather on that day. The enrollment is now more than 180, and still a-growing. At the four of morning worship last Sunday, the members gathered on the theme "Apostolic Christianity." There will be special music under the lead of Mrs. W. E. Johnson, Chorister. All are invited. A fine program of inspirational gospel singing is rendered by the big choir each Sunday evening, beginning with the hymn "The Lord is Good." The choir and their helpers are to be congratulated on the success of the new chapter. F. H. Jones will lead the meeting for next Sunday evening for the Y. P. S. C. E. Mr. Jones always has a worthwhile message for the young people. All members and friends of Christian Endeavor are urged to attend this meeting. All persons who believe in good government and who are interested in good citizenship are invited to hear next Sunday evening's sermon. We desire to exchange thoughts about the bigger Americanism. This will be just a preliminary to more along the same line, but we want you to be there. Remember the two midweek meetings held regularly in the lecture room of the church. The teachers' training class meets each Tuesday evening at 7:30. The prayer meeting is on Wednesday evenings at the same hour. The Wednesday evening meeting is proving to be of greater interest and help than ever before.

A number of the country school teachers in and around this vicinity are having box socials and are planning on spending the proceeds for an oil stove and supplies and instead of the customary cold dinner pail lunch a warm lunch will be served at home. It seems to the writer that the parents would encourage this and help the teachers in such an undertaking. How much better for any child to have a bowl of hot soup instead of so much pie and cake that are found in the average dinner pail. Miss Mildred Page, not having an oil stove yet, serves hot cocoa from a chafing dish to her pupils.
