A WORTH WHILE EXPERIMENT.

Sioux City Journal: The alleged experiment in feeding people at low cost now going on in Chicago has at least one merit in that it has stimulated interest in actually reducing the cost of feeding a family in different sections of the country. Miss Alma A. Jackson, head of the home economics department at Bellevue college, Omaha, for instance, is one whose resourcefulness has been stimulated by the Chicago experiment. She steps forward with a plan whereby a normal family, consisting of a husband, wife and three children, can be fed at a cost of but $2.50 a week. There are some strings on Miss Jackson's $2.50 a week plan, however, for she would have the family of five start with $10 and combine with five other families of the same size. She claims that with the $50 thus accumulated the five families, by cooperative buying, could purchase enough food to maintain them all at a cost of but $2.50 a week per family. Furthermore, Miss Jackson insists that it is easy to beat the Chicago experimenters who are boasting of feeding twelve people at a cost of 40 cents a day a person. She avers she can provide nourishing food for a family of five at a cost of but 17 cents a day a person, without resorting to the economies that her $2.50 a week a family program calls for. Her bill of fare for the family of five is as follows:

2 pounds sugar $.18
1 package shredded wheat $.09
1 pound salt cod $.09
1 pound coffee $.09
1 pound dried apples $.08
1 pound prunes $.12
1 pound cocoa $.19
1 package gelatine $.06
2 pounds rice $.18
1 package raisins $.03
1 pound cornmeal $.18
2 cups molasses $.08
1 can peas $.12
1 peck potatoes $.20
1 pound onions $.04

1 pint beans (pea) $.15
3 pounds shoulder of lamb $.70
43 pounds beef $.50
2-3 pound pork salt $.10
1 pound butter $.36
1 pound oleomargarine $.25
1 quart daily milk $.63
1 cup salad oil $.25
5 pounds carrots $.15
2 cans tomatoes $.08
Seasoning salt, pepper, etc. $.48
3 pound walnuts $.05
2 dozen oranges $.20
1-6 pound dried beef $.07
Total $5.92

After all, the Chicago experiment is not without its uses. Doubtless there are dozens of Sioux City families which are living comfortably on much less than the Chicago plan provides for—many of them as cheaply as Miss Jackson's plan calls for.

NEW ERA APPROACHING.

Sioux City Journal: The announcement from Rochester, Minn., that physicians at the Mayo hospital there have succeeded in isolating the germ that causes infantile paralysis, is of nationwide importance. If the discovery proves correct, many lives will be saved, and thousands of children will be prevented from being made cripples from the disease. Even if the Mayo discovery does not prove to be all that is hoped for, it is practically certain, so great has been the development of the field of medical research within the last few years, that it will not be long until the cause of the dread disease is found. And with the discovery of the cause of the disease a remedy for it is fairly certain.

There are very few diseases left on the list that are now pronounced incurable if taken in time, and those that are so pronounced, with scarcely an exception, are held by physicians to be preventable by right living, right eating, fresh air and sunshine. More and more, within the past few years, have physicians devoted their attention to teaching their patients and those who may become their patients, to live correctly. And those who heed advice in this respect are falling less frequently into the hands of the physician.

Occasionally an instance is noted where some man or some family engages a physician by the year. In such instances, it is the physician's duty, for a certain stipend, to devote his energy and skill to keeping that person or that family well, rather than to restoring health after it has been lost. This appears to be the prudent way of engaging a physician, and there is no reason, except the happy-go-lucky disposition of the American people, why the custon should not become an established one all over the country. If it should, many ailments taken in time, should prove trifling which are now allowed to become serious, and the physician would be given a reasonable excuse for interfering when he found a member of the family upon whose payroll he is, eating too much, drinking too much, taking too little exercise, or otherwise misbehaving himself.

THE FIELD OF BUSINESS.

Sioux City Journal: A new financial precedent in America was set on Tuesday when the federal reserve board issued a statement advising banks, and incidentally investors, against the purchase of unsecured foreign government notes. The securities affected were British French short term treasury notes which were about to be sold in the American market by Morgan & Co. The notes were to be for $100,000,000, the redemption price in dollars in New York. They were to bear 4 1/2 per cent interest. It was the plan of Morgan & Co. that these notes should be absorbed by our banks and investors much as American commercial paper is being received, repeatedly, perhaps, as the terms for which they were drawn expired. It was the virtual certainty that repeated renewals would be sought that caused the federal board to classify the foreign notes as undesirable securities for American holding at this time. Expressly disclaiming any intent to question the credit of the foreign governments, the board warned against the investment as not being sufficiently liquid to meet present and prospective banking needs. The board did not serve notice that such notes would not be accepted for rediscount if taken by the banks, but it was sufficiently plain that the board had the right thus to discriminate against them.

The federal board's warning caused a sensation as viewed from several angles, some commentators seeing in it a form of retaliation for the allied blacklist. As for that, the week found conviction growing that the board had no intention to desire to discriminate against certain financial and business interests.

For the moment, however, the warning was to the effect that the federal board had used its power to save American banks from what might prove an unwise investment, and to insist upon the payment of European balances in a way which in the long run would prove more advantageous to American banking. The warning to private investors was, of course, backed by no specific authority. It evidently helped to quiet any disposition there might have been to market the notes against the approval of the board. It was announced on Friday by Morgan & Co. that the flotation would be abandoned in deference to the wishes of the board and that other means would be found for meeting the allies' credit needs in this country. Incidentally, it was explained that the treasury note issues were intended to be limited in amount, and that their elimination cut no serious figure in the financial plans of the allied governments. No doubt the general effect will be to bring in more gold and more American securities, of which hundreds of millions of dollars' worth are still held in London. It may have some tendency to discourage further purchases by the allied governments in this market, but any slump in trade is unlikely. Imperative necessity has dictated most of these purchases and will continue to do so.

Talk of a possible food embargo falling off in European purchases and difficulty in securing cars for shipment combined to force a considerable drop in the prices of wheat during the week. Another hoof and mouth disease scare in the middle west interfered somewhat with live stock marketing, but the close of the week found conviction growing that the excitement had been caused by a false alarm.

The interstate commerce commission is taking heroic measures to improve distribution of freight cars. Lines which have been holding more cars than they are entitled to in a fair apportionment have been ordered to release the surplus. A graduated scale of demurrage charges, penalizing undue delay in unloading cars, has been approved by the commission and may be applied shortly.

Lower prices for some foods have been forced by local boycotts, and several investigations intended to disclose unfair tactics on the part of food speculators are under way. The federal government is back of one of these.

Increases in wages affecting tens of thousands of employes have been announced as a direct result of the publicity given to the increasing cost of living.

On the other hand, if your church wasn't in debt it might quit fighting and go out of existence.

It is well not to talk when you don't know what you are talking about, but the fact that others also may not know is some inducement to taking a chance.

GASTON MAKES HIT IN A SPEECH AT PIERCE

Rev. W. L. Gaston of Wayne made a decided hit in a speech before the Commercial club at Pierce last week according to reports in the newspapers of that place. In the course of its report, the Pierce leader makes this reference to the Wayne man's talk:

"Mr. Gaston brought out many good points during his address which were greatly appreciated by the audience all the way through. He possesses the happy faculty of telling enough good jokes to keep his audience in a good humor all the time, and the jokes that he told took like hot cakes, and brought forth great applause from the audience. During his remarks Mr. Gaston brought out the fact that he believed that Commercial clubs such as the one at Pierce should change its name from Commercial club to the Public Service club, stating that this would be an inducement to persuade the farmers and their boys to join the club and become active members, whereas they now may be inclined to stay away. He launched the idea that the future would see a Community club made up of both farmers and merchants, all of whom would be anxious to do all they could for the upbuilding and development of their town and country. He also believed that in the future the 'M. C. A.'s would give way to some kind of an organization where all people would meet, without respect to sectarian, religious or other ideas. This then would have a tendency to bring all classes together and be better for all. No doubt Mr. Gaston is correct in his view in this matter, and we hope he is at least. Mr. Gaston is surely a good booster for home town, and believed that as much money should be kept at home as possible. He declared that thirty cents out of every dollar received at home to build up churches and other public places. He surely has a contempt for a contentment for a man who makes his money at home and sends it away. He gave it as his belief that business men would profit by cooperative buying—that is, banding together and buying a large list of goods at once, thereby being able to purchase cheaper, and therefore would be able to sell to the public at a cheaper price. This idea is being worked out in some places today, and is proving quite profitable for all parties concerned. We might add that Mr. Gaston is one of the best Commercial club secretaries in the state, and the work he has been doing for Wayne is being heard about. Thus we are glad to have had the opportunity of listening to such a brilliant man, and surely would enjoy hearing him again in the future. The poems that he recited at the close were simply grand, the one of his own composition being beautiful."

Ray Haynes who is employed by the Roberts Drug company in Wayne, appears in a group picture in Sunday's Omaha World-Herald, showing five generations. Mr. Haynes' child is the youngest, and his great grandfather who is in his 105th year, is the oldest. Patrick Connor of Pomeroy, Ia., is the name and place of residence of the man who has lived beyond the century mark. Here is an excerpt from the interesting sketch of his life as published by the World-Herald:

"Doubtless there is not another soul alive in this country who was born the year this country declared war on England, which is known as the war of 1812. The birthplace of this aged man was in Ross Common, Ireland. His mother was a French woman and his father fought with Napoleon. The early years of his life were spent on the seas, his father being a sea captain. He visited practically all of the foreign lands, and in the year of the great potato famine in Ireland, at the age of 25, he turned his steps toward America. Martin Van Buren was then president of the United States and the great panic of 1837 was in full blast. The Erie canal had been completed a few years before, but the subsequent work of widening the canal was in progress and young Patrick Connor found employment on the construction.

Married an Irish Lass.
When Mr. Connor first came to America he settled in New Jersey and for a time moved to Ohio and then to Kentucky, where he was married to Katherine Cain of Indiana, who was born in County Lathrum, Ireland. Early in life they moved to Illinois, where they lived—until thirty-two years ago when they came to Iowa, moving on a farm near Alta. From that time forward, until the past summer Mr. Connor lived in the vicinity of Alta. He was married there with his daughter, Mrs. M. Haynes of Pomeroy.
Mr. Connor enjoys excellent health, for such an aged man. He has nearly all of his teeth yet and has had his second eyesight. He is still able to read the newspapers, but not so well as a year or two ago. He loves to talk of old days in Ireland and has a good memory of names, dates and incidents.

There is still room for others who may want to take up the Teachers' Training work in the class, which meets each Tuesday night at the church. The text book used is Oliver's "Preparation for Teaching." We shall be pleased to welcome new members next Tuesday evening. The lesson will be lesson viii in the text book. Any person would be helped by a consistent study of this excellent text in the way in which we are taking it up.

Who has forgotten that there is a mid-week meeting in the church of Wayne? Bring the matter to your remembrance and come out some next Wednesday evening. The subject for discussion is one suggested by the most interesting verse in the first chapter of Revelation. Read the whole chapter and come to take part in the discussions and to get some good from the study. This is an invitation to you to be at the meeting next week. You will encourage others and get a blessing by being there.

An Original Christ-Time Story.

A very unique and entirely original service will be presented for next Sunday night at the Baptist church. Chelie's Messiah is the name of a fascinating story that will be presented by Rev. Gaston. It is a story of the Christ time and will deal with historic events in a new and original way. Romance, legendry and oriental customs will be woven into the lecture and will make it both interesting and instructive.
In the story Chelie is the Prodigal son of Luke's parable and returns to his father's house to meet the Christ, who is promised that He is the expected Messiah. He becomes the Christ's follower and travels from village to village in the Messiah's interest. He is also the Good Samaritan who rescued the robbed traveler on the Jericho road. The man rescued was one of Chelie's former associates during his prodigality. The leader of the robber band was later crucified with Christ.
The object of the story is to supply a natural setting for every miracle that Christ performed, making the performing of the miracle—very natural and expected thing. Do not fail to hear the story.

The morning services will be conducted by Rev. Gaston, and by Clark H. Bancroft. This will be the occasion of Dr. Bancroft's first visit to Wayne since his appointment as secretary.

OTHERWISE ALL RIGHT.

The Wayne Herald went to press last week shy one "slug head," which translated into common speech means that it was lacking one item of news of sufficient importance to feature on its front page. If the heretical editor of the Herald, however, got this just deserts and his "slug head" but has been supplied by a graphic account of his burning at the stake. Any man who insists on using the words, "otherwise all right," either advertising for the Adversity League, and is opposed to revivals ought not to be allowed to live in a progressive and cultured community like Wayne.—Hartington Herald.

Aside from the above charges, we are pleased to assume we are all right and in reality do the warming and comforting fate proposed, we accept it as a joyful relief from the high and oppressive cost of living. Therefore, when another death of "slug heads" strikes, we shall be "autosed" on high amidst clouds of smoke, and then sit astride the tail of the "autosed" and view and review the "remains."

AS TO DUE SYMPATHY.

Whoever fails to feel for the woman who gets up a large and successful dinner party, that is, after releasing and seeing it must get up and clear away the dishes and dispose of the garbage to advantage, has lost all sense of sympathy. A kitchen full of greasy dishes and cooking utensils is about as uninviting a pleasure resort as can be imagined. The average man will make a loud roar about having to carve the fatted bird and save the waiting horde about the banquet board, but that is a pleasant pastime compared to what the compiler of the feast must endure, fore and aft. There are heroines and heroes in the world, but the one more entitled to a martyr's crown than this patient and devoted woman.—Fremont Tribune.

As a man as generous and graceful as the urbane editor of the Tribune, carving turkey at a family dinner, with approving guests, is a duty from which, should he be, he would be a crime. For a man less generously endowed, carving turkey is more heroic. If he staggers through the job reluctantly and painfully, he may not feel less sympathy for the burdened culinary department than the man to whom the duty is not a task, but a joy. Do you see?

Spending money where you earn it, and help build up the community whose growth and welfare are vital to your future.

Paving is the thing needed to give the business district the proper impetus for due improvement. It is also needed to choke out dust and mud.

The boycott has jolted down the price of eggs somewhat and if it keeps up it may cause a food shortage plan.

Luxury and ease make people weak and inefficient. Habits of thinking of industry, of achievement, sharpen brains and develop endurance.

Everybody admires the man or woman who gets through at Ponca, courageously faces adversity, surmounts obstacles and works a way out of difficulties. And happy is he or she who does it.

It has been suggested that the government quit publishing the Congressional Record in order to save paper. Its discontinuance would do no more than to generalize public, though it would remove an avenue through which more or less obscure congressmen, anxious for a showing, are wont to post specialties that are never delivered.

Ponca has built a tabernacle, and is being warmed up by an expert evangelist. What a splendid and enthusiastic over-evangelistic meetings for Wayne, we are glad to endorse them for other towns. After the expert gets through at Ponca, we would suggest that he go to Hartington, and take special interest in Editor Stone, about whose future we are much alarmed and distressed.

The president's annual message is being considered by the railroad chief among which is the railroad problem, involving disagreements between employees and employers, and threatened strikers. The president hopes to have laws so fixed that labor troubles will be reduced, substituting aspiration for force. He asks for legislation compelling the work of congress last August when it passed the eight-hour law.

Complaint is made that fire insurance rates in the Wayne business district, at artificially fixed last spring, are not equitable and fair. Complaint is made that rates have been raised in places where, on the contrary, in some cases, reduced. It seems inspectors came here last spring to interview the business district for the purpose of readjusting rates. They are said to have followed certain rules which apparently did not do justice to what a sound judge would call "good risks." If they hadn't come here, but in the recess of some re-more insurance office had used the suggestions of a pamphlet or a granddaddy's longlegs to revise Wayne rates, they would likely have been no worse. People whose rates have been raised, without increased risk, feel warranted in kicking.

Rev. S. X. Cross regaled his congregation Sunday morning with a discussion of "Growth." He took his text from Peter's advice to his people to stimulate themselves in the direction of spiritual growth. We take it from the text that Peter was getting tired handling a worldly soul growth with so little response. Anyhow, he rather impatiently intimated that he had retold the same thing so often that he would like to see people act a little stronger along the line suggested. He wanted people to ginger up and encourage a life of warfare and materially expected to get anywhere. Mr. Cross admitted the essentials of mechanical affairs. He admitted that in a more or less material world, material things had to be dealt with, but he gave a ton of emphasis to the more or less spiritual side. He evidently believed exclusive devotion to grabbing dollars and gratifying worldly pleasures does not put one on an elevated spiritual side. He evidently believed exclusive devotion to grabbing dollars and gratifying worldly pleasures does not put one on an elevated spiritual side. He evidently believed exclusive devotion to grabbing dollars and gratifying worldly pleasures does not put one on an elevated spiritual side.

Many forget to do it in the whirl of "doing" the other fellow, and "doing" the other fellow is wholly material. Mr. Cross urged character development, broadened vision, threading life's work with spiritual ideals that one might grow into unity with the divine, grow in grace and knowledge of the great exemplar of purest thought and noblest deed. He pointed out beauty of character and unselfish love as a reflection of soul growth. He would have people not merely listen and approve, but think deeply and act spiritually.—It was a thoughtful and helpful sermon.

HOSKINS BOY SHOTS
FOX IN WAYNE COUNTY

Norfolk Daily News: Walter Miller, 16-year-old son of Fred Miller of Hoskins, while hunting with his father in an auto with the aid of search light Friday night shot a large red fox, a variety very rarely found in this vicinity. The animal was brought to Norfolk and will be stuffed as a trophy for the young hunter. Sessions declares that so far as he knows it is the first red fox to be shot in the neighborhood of Norfolk since 1874 when August Brasch captured two of the animals in traps.

Mr. Miller and his son are ardent hunters by searchlight. Friday night they were out after rabbits. Mr. Miller turned the powerful searchlight into a ravine by the side of the road and saw the animal which seemed to be dazzled by the light. He called to his son who drove to the animal and disappeared. The boy left the car and searched until he found the fox dead some distance from where it was shot.

FARMERS AND FOOD PRICES.

Omaha Bee: When the Nebraska farm congress meets in Omaha it will have for one of its leading topics the question of embargo on food products. Quite naturally, the farmers are opposed to this, as the artificial restriction of the market thus brought about will have a reflex effect on the prices of their commodities. The point is one in which the entire public is concerned for the increased cost of food products touches everybody. First of steps in the way of solving the problem will be to determine how far the farmer is responsible for the existing prices. The Bee has maintained that the inflation is due to speculation by speculators, a position that is supported by the government report, which shows that the 1916 wheat crop will return the growers $200,000,000 less than did the 1915 crop, and this in spite of the tremendous advance in quotations at Omaha and on other markets. The same report is authority for the statement that 75 per cent of the 1916 wheat crop has been sold by the farmers at an average price of $3 per bushel, 2 per bushel has been soating between $1.75 and $1.95 per bushel for the last three months, it is apparent the grower is not the one who is gathering in the big profit. Nor is wheat the only food product with which the gamblers have played. An embargo might check the present movement, but it is not the remedy. What is needed is a better system of marketing, under which the producer will be assured of a fair return and the consumer will not be at the mercy of speculators.

A GRAIN OF COMFORT.

Fremont Tribune: The Omaha Bee analyzes the state vote in a way that gives some satisfaction, notwithstanding the electoral ticket went with a whoop to President Wilson.

The Bee shows that the vote on the six congressional seats of the state, by which three democrats and three republicans were chosen, gives the republicans a total of above five thousand more votes than the democrats received.

Reduced, therefore, to direct representation in congress; the people of the state decided by a good margin that they want the present laws enacted. The democrats will not, we think, under all the circumstances begrudge this gain of comfort to those of us who on election night had good reason to think the g. o. p. had swept the country.

SPEAKING OF THE H. C. L.

Lincoln Journal: High cost of living note from a Lincoln family: Father—"where's the automobile gone?" Mother—"Son went downtown in it to get his shoes shined."

A Carol

Of old, wise men to the manger came,
Bearing their gifts, both precious and rare.
At the feet of an infant they laid them down
As they breathed glad words of praise and prayer.
Of old, of old, in Bethlehem town
Wise men and kings laid their offerings down.
Of old, the shepherds on Judea's plains,
Watching their flocks in the cheerless night,
Saw in the east a great Star shine,
And they left their watch to follow its light.
Of old, of old, how bright the Star
That guided the wandering shepherds afar!
Of old, the voices of angel choirs sang the joy of a Saviour's birth,
And the glory of God above bright around
As they chanted their message of "Peace on earth!"
Of old, great joy to the world was given
When Christ the Lord came down from heaven.

(Rev. A. S. Buell, Pastor.)
Next Sunday morning the Rev. J. H. Essert, D. D. of Denver, Colo., will speak in the Methodist church. There will be a union service in the Presbyterian church in the evening with Dr. Essert.

The World's Purity Federation is happy to announce that Dr. Essert is to be the chief lecturer and reformer in the field as a national lecturer for the federation. Dr. Essert is a man with a progressive message. Some of the reformers through force of circumstances, having been failures in other lines. He is in this work because he has had a distinct vision of service and he is making great sacrifices both as respect finances and comfort in leading the call.
Dr. Essert is, in earnest, fearless, sincere. He is fearless in proclaiming the truth when he knows it, and diligent in research and study to obtain facts. He is never sensational, though his addresses are inspirational. As an orator he has few equals on the reform platform, combining in the strength of his personality, the force of his argument, the elegance of his diction, and the dignity of his style, that force power that is always convincing and convincing. Yet a young man, he has a future before him that is certain to bring forth one of the greatest faces of the White Slave Traffic and commercialized vice and allied evils that America has produced.

We ask for Dr. Essert the most cordial support of all who are interested in this great cause, and a hearing in every city and community where there are sincere people anxious for moral standards to be strengthened, knowing his ability to thoroughly stir to action any locality that is asleep or backward on these burning, pregnant questions of the day.

The girls of the Intermediate league gave a fine evening's program to a comfortable filled house on last Friday evening. The characters representing the history of Thanksgiving were, given in costume and in rendition of the parts. It was given as an entertainment, but was more than that. It proved an instructive and instructive and intensely entertaining.

Mid-week prayer meetings are very helpful and we shall be pleased to see you Wednesday evenings.

Women's Home Missionary society meets on Friday afternoon at 7:30. Mrs. Ada Benwick, Sunday school, Epworth league, Intermediate league and Boy Scout meetings at regular hours next Sunday.

PARTY PAPERS.

Fremont Tribune: Chairman Beach of the republican state committee, some days ago gave utterance to a complaint that one reason of republican defeat in Nebraska was due to the lack of enthusiastic support of the republican ticket by the republican press of the state. He cited also that the democrats had two big dailies, the Omaha World-Herald and the Lincoln Star, that were partially active and effective in their party service. There is some truth in what Chairman Beach has stated, but what is going to be done about it? The logic of it would appear to be that the editors should become candidates for office so they would dedicate their sheets to party success for all they are worth. That is the secret of the World-Herald's active. If not rapid, nevertheless, the Star's owners was a delegate to the democratic national convention. Still, it would impair the real usefulness of the newspapers for their communities if their editors were continually running for office. There isn't any very good reason why editors should best themselves out in boosting party tickets. That would be insur-cient reason for the existence of most newspapers. That is only a small part of the mission of the newspaper, if indeed, it need be any of the mission of a real newspaper. If we should say that the chairman of the state central committee was not as effective as he might have been in the campaign it would be in no fault-finding spirit, but merely as a retort in kind. We are of the opinion that the republican newspapers did quite as well in the late struggle as did the state committee machinery.

THE OLD CONSTITUTION.

Lincoln Journal: Forty-one years ago last June the present Nebraska constitution was signed by its sixty-nine makers and submitted for adoption. Only seven of the sixty-nine are now known to be living. The state bar association has planned to make these seven honored guests at the association meeting late in the present month.

This is a worthy thing to do for more than one reason. It is sufficient that these pioneer law-makers be honored. But perhaps the bar association has even more in mind than that. What does it signify when a banquet in honor of the sixty-nine framers of our constitution is responded to by only seven? Obviously, that Nebraska is living under a constitution not made by itself. We are governed by a constitution drawn by a different generation from ours and to meet conditions different from present conditions.

The present constitution was drawn by men of power in their day and generation. To show this we need but mention a few of the constitution makers who will not respond to the invitation of the bar association makers. A remarkable proportion of these men so impressed their names on the later history of the state as to be familiar figures to the present generation. Such were S. B. Pound, James W. Dawes, C. H. Gere, Samuel Maxwell, William H. Manger, M. L. Hayward, T. H. Broadly, James E. Boyd, M. R. Hoopwell, Charles F. Manderson, and C. H. Van Wyck.

But able as they were, they could not make laws to fit conditions which they could not foresee. Yet, but for one mistake their work might have served as the permanent base of the future constitution. The convention anxious to preserve its work from ill considered change, inserted the "majority over all" provision for the adoption of amendments. It was thirty-one years before any amendment, save only the smuggled legislative pay amendment, was adopted, though a score were submitted and received majority votes. By this effort to preserve the work of their hands the constitution makers spelled ultimate destruction to their work. For the difficulty of amending the old constitution has been the chief reason why since very soon the state must call another constitutional convention and adopt a new constitution.

GIRL THROWN FROM AUTO.

Wakarusa, Neb., Dec. 4.—What might have proved to be a very serious accident happened Thanksgiving day while Will Myers and his sister, Amelia, were riding in their car. On the hill west of town one of the wheels came off throwing Miss Myers out over the windshield and rolling her over several times. The car was badly demolished and while Miss Amelia was pretty badly bruised and shaken up, she is able to be about.

LETTERS PROPOSING CITY IMPROVEMENT

Community Survey.
Editor, Herald: In the matter of community improvement, the need of exact knowledge is as great as in any other line of action. Before beginning to build a railroad, an engineer makes a survey, the business man studies his stock and his market, but in community improvement there is a tendency to guess, and one guess is as good as another. Your guesses may be right, the fifth mistake, and disaster follow.

In order to provide for safe and permanent social growth, a community should know the facts of its own condition, and the meaning of these facts. Of late the universities, the Russell Sage foundation, and other institutions are making community surveys, publishing their findings, offering recommendations for improvement and organizing follow-up work. The examination covers such subjects as the schools, delinquency and correction, health, charities, employment and recreation.

Such a survey in Springfield, Ill., resulted in fourteen fundamental changes in the public schools, six new regulations as to delinquency, five as to public health, one as to charities, and seven as to recreation. Formerly such efforts were confined to larger cities, but of late the smaller centers have had attention. Belleville, Kas., a town about the size of Wayne, two years ago, invited the university of Kansas to make a survey and much good resulted.

Of late there has been talk about some concentrated social effort in Wayne. Such sentiment is valuable and should be utilized for community betterment. But it would be easy to make a mistake. For one the writer would be reluctant to see a Y. M. C. A., a welfare worker, or a community building, in place without a previous effort by experts of the needs of the town. A false start might discourage enterprise, and wreck any movement that might be undertaken. Let us get at the facts and the meaning of the facts. A comprehensive investigation with a wise program based on the findings, together with an intelligent public interest, will enable us to build for the years, to go sure-footed to permanent social betterment.—J. T. House.

For Improvement Club.
Dear Editor: Some time ago, at your request, I wrote a short article on "What Wayne Needs Most." The theme of the article was that the thing Wayne needs most is some sort of civic league or improvement club which will take in all the citizens and unite their sentiment on a few lines of moral and material civic improvement.

Nearly every representative citizen will agree that there are some things in the way of improvement which could be done if the main body of citizens would only go at it. The trouble is that we have almost no community life whatever—no means of crystallizing the ideas of the community on anything. Everybody thinks and acts alone in so far as he thinks or acts at all and the result is just what any intelligent citizen should expect.

We have a good number of excellent clubs and organizations; but no one of them is broad enough or strong enough to do some things which all admit ought to be done. The Commercial club or Public Service club under whatever name is not broad enough; church or organizations are not broad enough to enlist enough of the good citizens of the community.

So, I am writing once more to raise the question, "Why not a civic league, or civic improvement club for Wayne?" Why not some meetings they have, debates by its members, talks by its physicians, music and dramatics by local talent, and so forth.

For example again, there were many vacant lots in the city last summer which were permitted to overgrow with weeds. As a corollary to this, there will be a number of families in our city this winter, who will suffer for, or be scantily supplied with things which could have been raised on the vacant lots. There were other lots of ground planted in the spring and permitted to run wild the rest of the season because public sentiment was not strong enough to make people take care of their plantings. All the while too there was the problem of what to do for idle boys to furnish them some diversion!

The reader may make his own deductions, but it would seem to give greater than the need for a Y. M. C. A. or a community house, is the need for the people to get together, take a look about them and see what can be done with the resources at hand. We might call in some sane adviser to tell us what can be done and what should be done, but no community can go far wrong in finding out its own sentiment and in placing a high value on profitable employment as a recreation for both young and old and for both sexes.

Such good things as Y. M. C. A. and community houses will follow as a matter of course.—J. G. W. Lewis.

MESSAGE DEVOTED TO DOMESTIC SUBJECTS

Washington, Dec. 5.—President Wilson's address at the opening of the session of congress today was wholly devoted to domestic subjects, principally the problem of railway legislation.

In the hall of the house with senators and representatives assembled in joint session, President Wilson in accordance with the custom he began at the opening of his term, read his address from the clerk's desk.

Defends Strike Measure.
The president not only renewed his recommendation for legislation to prevent a nation wide railway strike or lockout before there has been opportunity for investigation, but defended it against the attack of organized labor as nothing arbitrary or unjust and the "justifiable safeguarding by society of the necessary processes of its very life."

Aside from recommendations for the passage of the Porto Rico government bill, the corrupt practices bill and the Webb bill to legalize collective selling agencies abroad, the president's address was devoted wholly to the railway situation. The only feature which had not been forecast was the elimination of the proposal that congress give explicit approval to consideration by the interstate commerce commission of an increase in freight rates to meet additional expenditures by the railroads caused by the operation of the Adamson law.

Today the president took the position that the report of the interstate commerce commission to grant an increase of rates on the ground-referred to is indisputably clear and a recommendation by the congress with regard to such a matter might seem to draw in question the scope of the commission's authority or its inclination to do justice when there is no reason to doubt either.

Other Measures Proposed.
The other recommendations on the railroad situation made in a special message during the last session, which were not put into law, were renewed today. They include:

"Immediate provision for the engagement and administrative reorganization of the interstate commerce commission along the lines embodied in the bill recently passed by the house of representatives and now awaiting action by the senate in order that the commission may be enabled to deal with the many great and various duties now devolving upon it with a promptness and thoroughness which are, with its present constitution and means of action, practically impossible.

"An amendment of the existing federal statute which provides for the mediation, conciliation and arbitration of such controversies as the present by adding to it a provision that, in case the methods of accommodation now provided for should fail, a full public investigation of the merits of every such dispute shall be instituted and completed before a strike or lockout may lawfully be attempted.

"The lodgment in the hands of the executive of the power, in case of military necessity, to take control of such portions of such rolling stock of the railways of the country as may be required for military use and to operate them for military purposes with authority to draft into the military service of the United States such train crews and administrative officials as the circumstances may require for their safe and efficient use."

Forced Inquiry Favored.
The renewed recommendation for compulsory investigation of labor disputes on railways before strikes or lockouts are allowed, which has aroused the opposition of the railroad brotherhoods, and of the American Federation of Labor, was defended in the president's message. He declared he would hesitate to recommend a law which would force individual workmen to continue in an employment which they desired to leave, but that no such principle was involved in the suggestion that the operation of the railways of the country should not be stopped by the concerted action of bodies of men until a public investigation for the benefit of the public has been instituted.

"It is based upon the very different principle," he continued, "that the concentrated action of powerful bodies of men shall not be permitted to stop the industrial processes of the nation at any rate before the nation shall have had an opportunity to acquaint itself with the merits of the case between the employe and employer, time to form its opinion upon an impartial statement of the merits and opportunity to consider all practicable means of conciliation or arbitration. I can see nothing in that proposition but the justifiable safeguarding by society of the necessary processes of its very life. There is nothing arbitrary or unjust in it unless it be arbitrarily and unjustly done. It can and should be done with a full and scrupulous regard for the interests and liberties of all concerned as well as for the permanent interests of society itself."

"AUTOCRAT OF THE BREAKFAST TABLE."

Have another cup of coffee. Thank you, I don't care if I do. Say, that's mighty good coffee. What kind do you call that? That's the Royal Blend. It's partly a Wayne product. Partly a Wayne product; what do you mean by that? I mean that the coffee commenced on some plantation down in South America, but received its finish and polish right here in Wayne. We get it down at Rundell's. He puts it through an automatic roaster and blends it himself according to a scientific formula that's supposed to be about as good as expert coffee doctors can get up. You know I like my coffee, and I can get along with any kind of a breakfast if I have a cup of good coffee to wash down what I haven't got and take the taste of what I have got out of my mouth. With me coffee is "it." It is the autocratic ruler of the breakfast table and lauds it over poached eggs, hot cakes and sausages.

MORE ABOUT RUNDSELL'S COFFEE.

Maybe you don't know it, but Ralph Rundell is the coffee man of Wayne. He has made coffee one of his long specialties. He has been years learning things about coffee. He has tried half a thousand experiments. He has laid awake nights thinking out a plan to build a coffee with a coffee that would satisfy and please the customers. He has finally struck his reputation on the Royal Blend. At great cost he has installed a Royal Roaster. The Royal Roaster is the last word in coffee finishing machinery. It's a high-pressure cylinder that revolves automatically under an automatic pressure of automatically regulated heat. By this process of roasting coffee, it is always the same. Put into the roaster always the same quantity of the same quality and you have always the same blend, the same color and the same aroma. This is why Rundell's is a coffee trade. This is why he sells from two to three hundred pounds of coffee per week. This is why he placed the contract for long since for ten thousand pounds of coffee. This is why he has placed four thousand pounds is some coffee. That is enough to make four hundred thousand cups of coffee and delight one hundred thousand breakfast tables.

HE SELLS IT CHEAP.

Because of installed machinery, self blending process, and bulk sales he is able to put a thirty-five or forty cent grade of coffee on the market for thirty cents per pound. When you stop to think about it, he is getting as much for his coffee as the vendors of other blends, who pack their goods in expensive containers, get for theirs. When he reduces the price to his customers he works no miracle. He simply cuts out the fancy can, pasted over with an expensive label. In these days of high prices for material and labor, make a tin can large enough to hold a pound of coffee, cover it with chrome labels and you have given five or six cents invested in your customer before there is a grain of coffee in it. This is why the customer gets the most amount of good coffee for less money. Then, too, the home roast and home blend is always fresh and will produce more cups per pound than the foreign bottled goods that may have been put up the first year the Joneses went into business.

RALPH RUNDSELL AND HIS STORE.

Ralph was born in New York, but he has lived so long in Wayne county, Neb., that his birthplace is not held against him any longer. In his youthful days he soaked up the learning of our public schools and later graduated in business administration from the University of Wisconsin. He has been in business for nearly twenty years and for the last seventeen years has been sole proprietor of his business. He has a remarkable store. It's filled with a mammoth stock of goods. Everything is packed from cellar to garret. He has bought to guard future trade against higher prices. On the north side of the store room, the room is a solid wall of canned goods. Fruits and vegetables of all kinds put-up by the Kamo people are here exhibited and the clerks pass them out to customers without any qualms of conscience because they know that there is no better line of canned goods in the market. On the south side is another Rundell specialty. He handles "My Kind" exclusively and gets from it better results than from any other brand he has ever handled.

HOLSUM BREAD.

He handles Holsum bread, a bread that is supposed to be the pink blossom of everything that is sanitary. It's a bread that is made, baked and wrapped by automatic machinery. From the time the flour comes out of the sack until the bread reaches the kitchen it is never touched by human hands. That's a good thing. If some fellow forgets to wash his hands the bread never knows it.

RAW MATERIAL FOR EGGS.

Eggs are high priced and there is a big demand for good fresh eggs and it is up to the farmers and poultry raisers to supply the market. To help produce eggs, Rundell carries a full line of hen turk material. He has in stock beef scraps, Cyphers Laying mash, bone meal, charcoal and oyster shells. If a diet of this kind wouldn't make a Nebraska hen lay three eggs every time she goes to her nest and go to her nest five times a day, we don't know what her nest and go to her nest five times a day, we don't know what her nest.

A BIG CHEESE AND CARLOAD LOTS.

Every year a big Monarch cheese is ordered for the holiday trade. This cheese will weigh anywhere from two hundred and fifty to six hundred pounds. There is one in the window now that is of such fine texture and delicious flavor that it is being whittled away pretty lively.

Rundell handles more carload lots than any other dealer in this section. Potatoes come in carload lots. Flour comes in carload lots. Assorted groceries come in carload lots. Apples come in carload lots. A carload of Colorado apples will be on the track by the time this is in print. This car will contain fifteen different varieties, all mountain grown and built for good winter keepers. Missouri Pippins lead the bulk.

ACCOMMODATING CLERKS.

Rundell has a good corps of pushers. He has clerks that take an interest in the business and who are as anxious to accommodate and satisfy customers as if they were themselves proprietors. They are as handy and as skilled in the arts behind the counter as any clerks you could scare out of any man's brush. Ray Reynolds has been in the store several years and could tie up goods and fill orders at night if the lights were out.

Walter Green came to Rundell from the Ideal Grocery when Mr. Beaman went out of business. When it comes to wrapping, groceries, tying squares and pleasing customers, Walter isn't as green as his name would indicate.

And finally brethren, no matter what you want, if it's in a groceryman's line, Rundell has it and the chances are he can save you money.

WAYNE ELEVEN WINS FROM WESTERN UNION

The Wayne State Normal football team ran up a 40-point score and kept Western Union college of Le Mars, Ia., from making a touchdown in the final game of the season which was played on the home gridiron Thanksgiving day. Ellis, captain of the Wayne team, started the pace for his men when he banged up a fumble, made by LeMars attempting a forward pass, and by LeMars kicking the first down. Wayne kicked goal and the quarter closed with the score at 7-0. At the opening of the second quarter LeMars, although crippled by the loss of Heindel, quarter back, who suffered a broken hip in the third play of the game, exhibited good line plugging tactics. The ball was lost to Wayne on downs, however, and Ankeny, left end, dodged all interference and carried the pick up in just outside of the line. Munsinger broke through the defense for the second score. It was the work of only a few minutes. Ankeny carried the right half on the home team, again located Wayne's goal line, but failed to kick field goal in period 19. McDonald, right end, made the fourth down for Wayne by a long run, Munsinger kicked goal. The LeMars men continued to fight hard and made several small gains, but outclassed both in point of weight and in ability to use the forward pass and end runs, they were unable to even keep the ball in their territory for any length of time. The last part of the game was marked with a succession of errors and fumbles, with both teams losing possession of both teams for off-side playing. Coach John Cross of the Wayne team substituted four second team men during the fourth quarter. The score 40-0 was made by Christensen. The line-up was as follows:

Wayne Position Western Union Ankeny LT Schmell Haycovest LT Davis Sabin LG Hough Herring C Lansing Math C A Crawford E. Amolgan Farrier RT O. Walter McDonald RE Steel Rockwell QB Heindel Ellis (c) Munsinger Brown Christensen RH Leidel Munsinger FB (c) Schreiver Summary: Wayne 40 Western Union 0. Touchdowns—Ellis, Munsinger, Christensen, McDonald, Ellis, Christensen. Substitutes—LeMars, E. Walter for Heindel, Mertz for Arnold, Wayne, Johnson for Christensen, Lowe for Ankeny, Siems for Farrier, Nelson for Ellis, Retere, D. W. Kline of Norfolk; H. J. Beaman, H. P. Brown, J. G. AS TO THROUGH TRAIN BUSINESS OF THE M. & O.

Lincoln Journal, Dec. 3. The M. & O. railroad has put on over the Nebraska state railway commission the rate of four cents a mile for every mile the train runs in Nebraska, and an M. & O. train can run a good many miles in Nebraska before it crosses off the rails of that road or the rails of the Northwestern road. The way that went up from the marooned passengers reached the Nebraska railway commission, and the discovery was made that the rate for that territory was $1000. He had received the approval of the commission cuts out stops of two trains out of Sioux City and one commission cut from Nebraska territory, and reduces South Sioux City and Dakota City to mere whistling stations. A whistling post is a busy halt to the new territory. Sioux City do not want to be. They are determined on that. Travelers in Nebraska territory along the M. & O. and Northwestern lines are with Dakota City and South Sioux City heart and soul. The Nebraska railway commission will now get busy with the M. & O. about this whistling-and-no-stop business. Have your photo made and have it made early. Nlotfad

KNOWN IN WAYNE COUNTY.

Red Oak, Iowa, Sun: Mr. and Mrs. E. Landanger, for many years respected residents of Montgomery county, have been married fifty years. Landanger was the anniversary of their marriage, and on that day and the next there were two gatherings which fittingly celebrated the anniversary. On Sunday, at their home in Carfield township, all their children were present for a quiet celebration of the day, and a family dinner. The home was prettily decorated in pink and white, a large bell being suspended over the table. At this family reunion the children presented their parents with a purse amounting to $30. On Monday there were a neighborhood surprise on Mr. and Mrs. Landanger at the home of their daughter, J. H. Hucker, where nearly 100 friends gathered to help them celebrate their anniversary. Here the guests arrived before dinner and remained until late in the afternoon. They presented Mr. and Mrs. Landanger with a purse of gold amounting to $50. Rev. William Wehrhahn, of the First Methodist church, making an appropriate presentation speech, and a big dinner was served. Those who were present from a distance included the following: J. N. Landanger and daughter, Miss Neva, Mrs. George Snowden and daughter, Ernest Landanger, the latter's daughter, from Carroll, Neb.; Mrs. Herb Robson, Wayne, Neb.; Mrs. George Snowden, Carroll, Neb.; Frank Landanger, at home. They have ten grandchildren and four great grandchildren.

years, and then moved to Garfield township, where they have resided ever since. They were blessed with eight children, four of whom are living. They are: J. N. Landanger, of Carroll, Neb.; Mrs. Herb Robson, Wayne, Neb.; Mrs. George Snowden, Carroll, Neb.; Frank Landanger, at home. They have ten grandchildren and four great grandchildren. They were always been the most hospitable of neighbors and they have a host of friends in the county who extend congratulations and best wishes for many more happy wedding anniversaries.

The way prices are behaving comparatively few people are going to suffer without, we note in our persistent struggle for the silver lining.

would be no lack of good things for the thanksgiving dinner. Rev. and Mrs. McKenzia expressed pleasure at the spirit of good fellowship manifested by arranging such a gathering.

At the Baptist Church.

Sunday, December 19. Don't forget that the Sunday school meets promptly at 10 o'clock with classes for everybody. A special effort is being made to meet the demands of the present day in the world of God.

Morning worship at 11 o'clock, sermon on the "Fundamentals of Unity," will be delivered by the pastor.

In the evening, "Dangerous Ground" will be the theme of the sermon, at 7:30. At 6:30 the young people meet in the discussion of the subject "My Evil Day." Prayer meeting on Wednesday evening at 7:30—M. L. Dille, Pastor.

Sensible Idea.

In view of the high cost of living merchants and business men of all sections of the state have decided to cooperate on the calendar scheme for this year, by buying a sufficient quantity of two types of calendars to supply every household in the Carroll community with a copy of each. Accordingly, between ten and fifteen cars were dispatched in all directions from Carroll Tuesday morning for the purpose of distributing the calendars. Every home within a radius of six miles of Carroll was visited. Patrons, usually, were well pleased with the new idea. Instead of accumulating two or twenty cheap and ordinary looking calendars, they have this year one very attractive calendar of good size and another with dates, each month in large figures and on a separate sheet. Other towns would do well to follow Carroll in this idea of remembering patrons at the Christmas season.

Obituary.

Mrs. Edward Sandahl, sr., aged 53 years, 3 months, who died away at the family home, six miles southwest of Wakefield Tuesday night after an illness of two weeks, was born in Sweden August 28, 1861. When just a child she came with her parents to America, settling at Sweden, Ill. At this place she remained until she was confirmed in the Swedish Lutheran church, in which denomination she had been active all during her life. On November 30, 1882, she was united in marriage to Mr. Sandahl at Sweden, and to this union were born seven children, three sons and four daughters as follows: Fred and Edward, jr., who are married and live on farms near the home place; Mrs. Ernest Hyppie in Wakefield, and Ernest, Nettie, Edna and Blanche, all at home. Mr. and Mrs. Sandahl moved to Wakefield in the spring of 1884 and located immediately on the farm which has since been their home. Mrs. Sandahl had scores of warm friends here who admired her for her beautiful character. The high regard with which she was held by the entire community was impressively evidenced by the large number of friends who gathered here for the funeral which was held at the Swedish Lutheran church Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Necessity is Lawless

This is a tremendous mercantile calamity. We realize that it is a shame to sell this high-grade stock of shoes at such low prices. Right now, when shoe makers cannot buy hides at any price, and to think, if we could hang on to this stock, for another year, and take advantage of the advance in price that is bound to come! Union Oyster Stew.

On Tuesday evening, November 28, the surrounding locals of the Farmers' Union met at the beautiful and spacious farm home of George Borg, northwest of Wakefield, for a social time. About 170 were present to enjoy the oyster stew which formed the chief refreshment. All did full justice to the great supply of oysters and other eatables. The ladies found the time passing rapidly with chatting and joking. The men of course, were all eager to discuss the affairs dear to every union member, while the young folks enjoyed their games and the beautiful moon-light lawn. At a late hour the guests departed thanking Mr. and Mrs. Borg for their genial hospitality and hoping to enjoy more get-together meetings in the future.

JOHN JONES' LIVING PROBLEM.
Omaha World Herald: "John Q. Adams," who expresses his views in the Public Pulse, is not the only person, we fancy, disgusted by the solemn experiments being made in Chicago to "prove" that it is actually "possible" for a human being to live on 40 cents worth of food a day, even at present prices. The truth is that not only in Chicago, but right here in Omaha, there are a plenty of homes where 40 cents per capita per day for food would be downright luxury. In the country, at a whole there are millions of such homes.

Consider the facts for moment. The laboring man who is earning $25 a month, $20 a year, is doing better than the average, as disclosed by the report of the census bureau. If he has a wife and three children his family is not unusually large even in these sophisticated times.

Suppose John Jones, out of a wage of $65 a month, spent 40 cents a day for each member of his family for food. It would amount to $60 a month. He would have left the princely income of $5 a month out of which to pay for rent, fuel, clothing, etc. Manifestly a feat impossible of accomplishment.
What shall John Jones do? The first thing he does is to cut squarely in half the food supply, on which the Chicago authorities are solemnly trying to prove that it is possible to live.

Mrs. Jones, then spends 20 cents a day for food for each member of the family. That amounts to $1 a day—$30 a month. For rent, let us say she finally spends $10 a month for fuel, light and gas, $50, and for clothing, shoes and hats, $25.50, which is at the rate of $2.50 per month. She has $25.50 left to try to dress herself, or her wife, or her daughter, on $30 a year?
"It can't be done!" you explain. But it can be done. Jones has to do it. Even on that meager allowance he has already appropriated of his $65 a month, $60 for food, rent, light, water, fuel, and clothing.
What shall he do with remaining $5?
Out of it he must buy all the furniture and bedding, all the furniture and kitchenware that comes into his house. Out of it he must pay the doctor's bills. Out of it he must pay for the simple, inexpensive amusements that bring a ray of light into the lives of the wife and kiddies. He must pay for the insurance on his household effects, on his life. He must pay for books, magazines and newspapers. He must provide for the savings fund that is to support him in old age. He must pay his children's dues. He must pay street car fare. He must pay for tobacco, and for all the fabulous barrels of "booze" on which he is usually reputed to dissipate his earnings.
It can't be done, of course; not out of $65 a month. Therefore, John Jones doesn't do it. Instead he cuts out the church, so he has no dues. He carries no insurance. He goes without books and magazines. He provides no savings fund for the protection of himself and family. There are no amusements. He drinks no "booze" and uses mighty little tobacco. He patches up the furniture when it wears out—and cheap furniture does wear out frightfully fast. He prays there will be no illness—and if there is he is obliged to rely largely on the philanthropy and good nature of the doctor.
Such is the life that John Jones leads if he tries to support his family and educate his children on his better than the average wage of $780 a year. It is an impossible life, as human nature goes. Therefore, he must look about for instances, after a struggle more or less protracted, doesn't lead it.
Somebody else gives up in weakness and despair and takes to drink, whereupon the prohibitionists damn the saloon for ruining Mr. Jones and his family and prospects. And the family. Sometimes he has resorted to a piece of gas pipe on an ill lighted street—a course which lands him eventually in the penitentiary. More frequently, however, he is a sober, industrious, law abiding American citizen, with good American stuff in him, and he makes the best he can of predicament. And the best he can do is to permit his wife to find some work in addition to the housework and the rearing of three children—"take in washing" is the classic expedient—to piece out the family income. To test that he can do is to skip the children with just a little schooling as the law permits, and put them to work at whatever they can find that will bring in a few nickels and dimes a day.
This is John Jones' best—at 20 cents per capita per day for food. And yet the learned Chicago experimenters, are standing around in a fever of excitement trying to find out if it is really "possible" for a human being to subsist on rations costing only 40 cents a day!
"What a mad and merry world it is, and yet he learned anything a little older man than merry!"
