MEN GARRY OFF HONOR IN SIX WEEKS' CONTEST

ATTENDANCE REACHES 174

Men Crowd Balcony to the Limit—Seventy Women Gather in the Auditorium.

The contest in membership which started between the men's and ladies' classes at the Wesleyan Sunday school six weeks ago, closed Sunday in a grand finale in which 174 people participated. They came in eight leads and the men maintained their lead throughout the contest. The men scrambled out. Every seat in the balcony was taken. Every window was full, and yet several men had to stand. Attorney A. R. DeWitt, the director of the class, looked over the crowd, stated he saw men from nearly every walk in life. Mr. Davis read the lesson and then gave a short practical talk which was given close attention.

The ladies' show was strong gathered in the church auditorium in the south wing and held a lively discussion on the subject given at the lesson under the direction of Rev. S. Xenophon Cross. On account of the age limit some of those attending in both the men's and ladies' classes could not be counted. The total eligibles being ninety-five men and sixty-six women. This shot the men's total for the six weeks away ahead of the ladies and they accordingly are attending a banquet and social evening from the fair losers. Enthusiasm was at a high pitch all during the session. At the close of the lesson study the men sang "In the Land of the Living" and sang "America" in which the entire audience joined on the last verses.

The secretary's report contained some interesting figures. The total attendance for the day was 304 with a collection of $25.13. The ladies were not altogether vanquished, however, for the report showed that they overshadowed the men in a number of particulars by a margin of one cent. They contributed $10.13 while the men had only $10.12. This contest certainly aroused enthusiasm and stimulated personal work on the part of members for new leads. It is to be hoped that this close will not be the end of the endeavor to build up the two classes. During the contest 160 women and 180 men have enrolled in Wayne. Definite arrangements are being made for the social gathering, at which the ladies will act as hostesses.

Supr. F. H. Jones is planning on having Mr. Homsman, a street worker, here at that time to address the meeting.

From People You Know

Porterville, Calif., Feb. 4, 1917.

Dear Editor: I will give you a little vision of the place in which we are living. Porterville is situated close to the foothills of the Sierra Nevada mountains. As we look eastward we can see their slow, capped peaks. Less than a half day's ride to the nearest ones, where the big trees are located. Part of the distance must be traveled on horseback for as yet there is only a trail that leads to the big-tree district. A couple of summers ago we spent just one day among these monarchs. We had company from the east who were making a hurried lightning trip. It was only once at the great monarchs that I have stood the storms for ages. I hope we can go again some time and stay several weeks. The mountains have a fascination to me which I cannot describe. What a great upheaval there must have been to cause anything so marvelous!

Even though I love the mountains, I am grieved because I cannot walk up their winding trails. I soon get out of breath and lose control of my machine? The foothills are not beautiful this winter, for it has been so cold that the grass has not grown. It began to rain the latter part of October, very unusual, and rained for two weeks. After the rain it turned cold. The days were bright and sunny, but the nights were so cold that the oranges were in danger; in fact, many oranges were no longer picked because of the frost. The orange ranch does not appeal to us very much. It is hard work and also very expensive in regard to fertilizing, fumigating and irrigating. The system of selling the fruit would not at all satisfy a Nebraska farmer. An alfalfa ranch is more to our liking. West of Porterville is a large alfalfa district. The alfalfa is principally cut and made into hay. Some of the ranches are just making up to the fact that the alfalfa is more profitable to raise steel and hogs. During the hot summer we enjoy our evenings driving through the alfalfa district. There is always a cool breeze which is not true in the orange district. Climate and fertile soil count for but little without moisture.

California has two problems before her whose favorable solution in a large way will make of this state a wonderland of beauty and productivity, greater than was ever dreamed of in the past decades of her development. One of the problems is the conservation of the water flowing in streams from the mountains and natural watersheds, for power and irrigating purposes, and the other is to discover the very best methods of handling its dry lands which cannot be brought under irrigation to retain for the use of crops for a longer period than the annual rainfall. The solution of these problems in conjunction with the working out of marketing methods that are just and satisfactory to both producer and consumer, will overshadow all other progress for the betterment of conditions that affect the welfare of its people.

The houses built twenty-five or more years ago were built with boards running straight up and down with slats nailed over the cracks, not plastered and white washed on the outside. In most cases the whitewash is only a dream and the boards are black with sun and rain. Occasionally one sees one of these primitive houses with a beautiful climbing rose over the front porch. Right next to such a house may be a beautiful mansion with all the modern improvements. Much of the furniture is built-in, such as bookcases and sideboards; beds are tucked under bath tubs and sideboards. A certain lady looking at some rooms in an apartment house asked the landlady, if the "drawers" in the sideboard were real, for she went in one place where she thought she was going to have some "drawers" and the landlady went to pull out the "drawers" she pulled out a bed.

The houses that are built now are plastered which makes them more comfortable during the hot weather as well as the cold. Along the river some people live in tents and covered wagons.

The town has improved much the last four years. Many of these old houses have been moved away and new ones built. Most of the streets are paved. The Southern Pacific has been the only road, but this spring the Santa Fe will worm its way through the city.

Porterville has seven churches and six school houses. There are three hundred pupils in the high school and nine hundred pupils in the different grammar schools. Last June Bert and I and Mr. Ferguson, the superintendent of our high school, and his wife, took a trip to the Yosemite Valley. This was the first season that autos were allowed in the park. The mountain road is steep and narrow. The government has appropriated some money to improve the road. The mountains are very beautiful with stately pine trees and all kinds of wild flowers. We sidetracked a few miles to see the Maroposia forest of big trees. The road into the forest was very much out of repair and as we were about to make a sharp turn we suddenly came face to face with another auto. Fortunately there was no accident, but we both were so frightened that we did not enjoy the big trees. We drove through that tree pictured in all the geographies with the auto top up, so we feel just a little historical. When you stand next to a tree fifteen feet in diameter and two hundred feet tall, a feeling of insignificance creeps over you.

I think the Yosemite valley is more wonderful than beautiful. Yet its waterfalls, lakes, rushing streams and trees are great. In just a few days one can see everything. The valley is only one mile wide and twelve long with walls one thousand feet high and as straight and smooth as if they were chiseled.

In the month of August we drove the coast—like thought we would avoid the heat of the day and drive at night. The night air was so cold that we were uncomfortable. I had on a heavy suit coat and a cravat and when I had had something to eat. There is a great difference in temperature between night and day. It was cold and windy at Long Beach. We were glad to get back again where we could get warm.

Even though we are out of the tourists' track we have had a few Wayne callers. Mr. Grothe stayed all night with us, so we had no chance to show him around. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lee stayed three days with us last spring. We were on the go all three days. This winter we had the pleasure of visiting with Carl Benshoof, Mr. and Mrs. Mrs. Lindsay and Mr. and Mrs. Peggy Benshoof. Mr. and Mrs. Benshoof live only twelve miles from here. We see each other two or three times a year. We are always glad to see our friends and if you come to California be sure to include Porterville in your trip. We will try to show you a good time. Mrs. Clara P. Brown.

MR. DAYTON, STOCKMAN MAKES SUGGESTION

Mr. Editor: In your issue of February 8, I notice your article announcing a movement, started for the purpose of having a stock market meet with much favor. The Wayne people are surely awake and active to any movement that could benefit the people of the city. I do not want to push anything that would not be in harmony with the movement already started, but I would like to ask through the columns of your paper, if when this tract of land is leased or purchased we could not procure enough land together for a country club site and a county fair ground. The county fair only needs the grounds for one week during the year. The country club would not be hindered in its pursuit of happiness but for a few days, and by the country club occupying the grounds and putting up suitable buildings for their purpose it would be much more attractive and kept in better condition. The stock barns could be built in such a position that they would be out of the way. Shade trees could be set out and in a few years it could be made the best and most attractive country club and county fair ground in Nebraska. Should this favorable movement be made among the farmers and improved stock breeders for an association to cooperate with the country club. Your very truly, V. L. Dayton.

We sell such clothes as these and they are good. New suits, hats, shirts, hose and ties are here for spring.

See the Asbestos Sweat

Come in any time and let us show you how ASBESTOS SWEATS

WHY ASBESTOS?

Asbestos is a great heat resistor, and is used by all range makers to resist the heat and hold it constant around the oven. It has saved millions of dollars in fuel.

True Beauty

Your first knowledge comes from seeing little rust spots on the iron body. You eventually find the body full of little holes, and in a short time you have to buy a new range.

THE COPPER-CLAD PEOPLE DISCOVERED SWEAT-RUST AND PATENTED THE REMEDY

It is a sheet of pure copper between the asbestos and outer wall or range body. The sweat cannot hurt the copper. Copper never rusts. There are copper gaskets. Copper domes on many buildings over a hundred years old and it is good for another 100 years. There must be a reason for this sheet of copper and it must be a good reason or the Government at Washington would never have issued a patent on this discovery.

There is but one place for this copper or any other rust-proof material in a range and that place is between the asbestos and cold body or outer casing. To place this anywhere else would be useless. The sweat goes from the warm side to the cold side. To put a lining on the warm side would be just like climbing on top of a roof to get out of the wet.

See the Asbestos Sweat? Here is proof absolute. Complete, final, and—whether you are buying a range this year or next year or in five years, you should know that Copper-Clad Ranges are the lowest priced ranges in all the world if measured by years of service.

In a national crisis, the demand is for utmost unity, resolution, courage and efficiency.

No one found fault with anything in the Herald last week—a disheartening fact which leads us to feel the paper was not up to its usual standard.

Seven-day Adventists are reported as having predicted that the world will come to an end in 1920. The proposed conclusion seems reasonable and proper enough, though Adventists have fixed the date of final judgment so often that we doubt if they know what they are talking about.

It is said the most durable and satisfactory paving in Sioux City is made of concrete. If that is so, it should be used in Wayne, because for one important reason, it is cheaper than any other kind. Before Wayne definitely selects the material to use for paving, the Sioux City paving should be carefully investigated.

It is interesting to note in the early day columns that a blizzard in February, 1884, delayed trains only a half hour. Next year, according to the record, a storm worthy of the name of blizzard in the early days was no feeble zephyr. It rains were only a half late now after a very ordinary storm and it would have heart failure from sheer surprise.

It is announced that postal rates on newspapers and other periodicals are to be raised from 1 to 14 cents a pound next year, according to the postoffice appropriation bill reported to the senate. If newspaper men weather both the gigantic cost of paper and the increased postage, they will necessarily refile the long established notion that they are short as financiers.

When the Chicago Newspaper Union asked F. D. Stone, editor of the Hartington Herald, for his picture to run in connection with his article on "Newspaper English," he reached into a drawer containing the accumulated recollections of his ministerial days, and handed out one that showed the garb and pious visage of an ecclesiastical dignity. His looks have materially changed since he put the picture in the paper.

We are pleased to note the steam with which the executive committee of the Public Service club undertakes all public enterprises at its first meeting, and its determination to hold a session once each week to discuss and promote improvements and the general welfare. Let the committee boost any and every accomplished thing proposed at its initial meeting, and it will have ample reason to review with highest satisfaction its record at the close of the year.

"You are always busy, always working. You take no recreation, apparently have no enjoyment. You get nothing out of life." So spoke a Wayne man to another. "One gets out of life about the equivalent of what he puts into it." Manifest enjoyment is not necessary; the highest nor the most satisfying enjoyment. It proceeds from motives, or social incentives, or children's parlor games for adults may not be relished by everybody. What pleases one hopes another. Quiet communion with a few spirits, in accord may afford more relief and satisfaction than essentially restricted and supervised participation in a large group. To attain in a particular field of endeavor the hitherto unattainable gives reward beyond mere dollars. Whether one is getting much or little out of life depends on the viewpoint.

No matter how peacefully inclined an individual may be, he doesn't want to see the best of another nation that he will allow some one to destroy his home and himself and family. So with nations—in the interest of self-preservation, we must strive to be friendly and amicable that we will forfeit honor, home, life and future. We don't want to fight, nor do we want to be crushed under the heel of another nation, even though that nation may feel friendly while it is doing it.

A bill in the hopper of the South Dakota legislature proposes to establish a highway commission and enlarged rights between an individual and his appendix. The bill provides that when an appendix is cut out it is to be sent to the state laboratory for examination and classification, after which it is to be given passage—first class—back to the owner, together with a certificate of character. If the state board reports that the appendix is not diseased, the victim does not have to pay the expense of having had it separated from him. By such ordeal of travel and examination, however, it is likely the appendix could not be restored to former service and that it would have to be either buried or soaked in alcohol.

The secretary of the Public Service club, acting under instructions, asked the city council at its meeting Tuesday night to fix a crossing over the railroad, intersecting Windom street, making possible the passage of hogs and cattle driven to the stock yards. It has been pointed out that Windom street is too far east, and that instead of that street an outlet should be made from the street to the stock yards the street east of Main. No one favors driving hogs or cattle down Main street, even though the animals are valuable and justly so, but it is the only practicable outlet until one of the streets to the east is opened and a crossing over the railroad is effected. This ought to be done, as every one realizes, and the way to do it is to do it.

Boys and girls need more employment and more sense of responsibility to develop sturdy character and obedience to the social order.

Boys and girls need more employment and more sense of responsibility to develop sturdy character and obedience to the social order. The boy or girl is pampered and petted and relieved of every irksome duty or burden, native energy finds escape through channels of mischief or frivolity. We often hear school boys who had a little diversion by putting mousetraps into students' desks. The scheme worked, but disturbed the school and gave teachers a great deal of annoyance. Of course, it was laughable. So it would be laughable to tie a string of exploding firecrackers to the coat-tail of a preacher engaged in prayer. But laughable things are not always permissible. If they are contrary to regulation and do violence and injury to society, they should not be done. The lack of self-restraint. We need on the part of the youth more manly pride and courage, more of the heroic, more determination to develop power of surplus and dignity, resolution to win on merit unaided by gifts from rich estates. There is too much here pleasure seeking. There is too much weakening of character by seeking to get money or gain without rendering adequate service in return. Too much quickness to waste. Too much girls should be made to feel the weight of doing things with their hands. Then they would not have the time nor the inclination to assault society with bald indiscretions and follies. The threat of uselessness, the misery, skunkiness, Scrooginess of the youth who find happiness but with lavish hand on Christmas morning. The aim of the Christmas of the Future was admirable. The costumes, and make-ups were decidedly English, and the settings were so carefully executed that the audience believed that the scene in the Dickens atmosphere that was delightful.

RIGHT TO BE HAPPY IS SEEN AT THE CRYSTAL

Everybody in the two-packed houses that saw the Bluebird film, "The Right to Be Happy," last evening at the Crystal, felt the thrill with the spirit of kindness burning a little brighter for having seen the wonderful appeal portrayed by the complete change from misery to merriment, from Scrooginess to the youth who find happiness but with lavish hand on Christmas morning. The aim of the Christmas of the Future was admirable. The costumes, and make-ups were decidedly English, and the settings were so carefully executed that the audience believed that the scene in the Dickens atmosphere that was delightful.

About Wallpaper

The first impression by stepping into a room, a visitor gets from the beauty of the wallpaper. No matter how rich the sitting room or the bedroom, if the wall decoration is not as it should be, the whole room looks untidy. Unbroken wallpaper will gain all the efforts of the busy housewife, who takes a pride in the beauty of her home, to make this home look attractive and inviting.

If people would only know how little money it takes to transform a dull looking room by a beautiful paper on the walls, into a beautiful home like a comfortable place, they would not hesitate to make the change at once.

The variety store has its 1917 line of papers now on display. The variety store has every need of paper on every page. There are no frills, but every paper is practical and easy to change. Every roll you buy here is trimmed ready for use, any unneeded roll can be brought back and you get credit for same. This means an added inducement than any other store to get full conditions in the paper line which everyone is familiar with, but they are not as high as newspaper reports may lead you to believe. At least they are not at the Variety Store, because all the papers were bought before they started their aerobatic jumps up and down.

I would be only too glad to show you what I have in wall papers and quote you prices whether you buy from me or not. But I feel confident that I can show you just what you want and at the price you want to pay.

Eggs are accepted same as cash for wallpaper as well as any other purchase you make in the store.

Coffee Superiority

and WE PROVE IT

Few communities outside of the city have the opportunity to secure coffee on sale the same day it is roasted. The increasing demand for home roasted Royal Blend Coffee is self-evident; the coffee problem has been solved in Wayne and the saving of 5 to 7 cents per pound appeals to all classes. Why Satisfy it?

To Prove Royal Blend at 30 cents per pound equals any coffee in flavor and cup value that cost 35 to 40 cents per pound. Saturday, February 17, there will be a Free Demonstration of Royal Blend home roasted coffee at my store.

We desire to verify our statements on the superior cup quality of this blend and we earnestly request every one to attend this demonstration. Come and bring a friend with you.

We desire to meet particular people, "coffee cranks," mail order buyers, people who patronize peddlers, persons of all stations in life, that you may know the merits of home roasting and the saving it affords.

Remember the date Saturday, February 17, and be sure you get a cup of Royal Blend Coffee.

Come and see the Royal Roaster, automatic in operation, perfect in every detail.

THE SHOPPER. Every city you visit these days is chock-full of advertising of white goods sales. Now while we don't make so much of a fuss about it here in Wayne we do have the same quality of goods to deliver. It is foolish for you to rush off to Sioux City, Omaha or Norfolk and add to the gruesomeness of a midday department store rush which makes even a Thanksgiving football scrimmage look like a pigmy thing in contrast. No, by all means don't do it until you have at least thoroughly investigated the resources of your home town, where you can shop at leisure and not have to make a mad dive for the train or do a hundred and one other unadvisable things that wreck your disposition and make you cross.

COME OUT and tell us what you want, and, nine chances out of ten, we have it.

TO GET RID OF a great many short lengths of embroidery and laces of all kinds, those who are on the market for such trimmings for the making up of summer lingerie, give a wide choice of firmly finished edgings at only 9 cents per yard.

IN THE SAME STORE is a lot of attractive remnants both in cotton and woolen goods. In some pieces there would be just enough for a little girl's dress. Or perhaps it is an apron she needs.

IF THAT SAME LITTLE GIRL is going to need a new coat next winter why not get one that we are closing out now and thus save about half the cost?

OF COURSE YOU KNOW that the spring gingham, calicoes and percales are in now in so many pretty patterns. February and March are good months to get several house dresses and a big surplus of aprons all made in ready for summer use. At least you ought to get the material now while the selection is good.

SATEEN PETTICOATS either in black or flowered pattern with accordion pleated flounce, finished with dust ruffle and elastic band at belt, are extra good at $1.

CURTAIN DRAPERIES especially richly decorated cretonnes to harmonize with the color scheme of your room are all the rage this season. You will find all the new things in drapes and curtain goods fresh from the Minneapolis wholesale houses.

NOW TAKE A TIP from the writers of these suggestions and visit one of the big block stores in the county where all these good values will be found just as represented. In short, visit the GERMAN STORE, owned and operated by J. H. Wendie & Co.

IN PERFECT HARMONY FOR MUTUAL BENEFIT

The Motion Picture News of New York City takes favorable note of the advertising and writing features prepared for the Crystal theater, Wayne, by Miss M. Forbes of the Herald's staff. The News says: "The motion picture reviews published in the Wayne Herald, the Neb. Weekly Herald, are so good the exchange managers, getting them, have frequently sent them on in the New York offices to show how good they are. Manager Nilsen of the Crystal theater and Harry Huse are close friends and work in perfect harmony for their mutual benefit."

the American government out of trouble with the British government.

We are running a nation of our own over here on this side of the Atlantic. Necessarily we have had the cooperation of old world nations in the carrying out of our policy. The cooperation of all diverse elements of citizenship in maintaining it. There never has been any substantial reason for fear that we would not get it. There is every ground for confidence that Scandinavian-Americanism, French-Americanism or Dutch-Americanism would undergo with equal credit the test which German-Americanism is now responding to readily. British-Americanism had its acid test long since.

"AMERICA FIRST"

Sioux City Journal: At a meeting in Philadelphia attended by delegates from twenty-eight states the German-American National alliance said to congress $300,000 consisting of the support to President Wilson in the present emergency. The alliance, according to official spokesmen, stands ready to organize a German-American corps in case of war and fight under the command of President Wilson as loyally as the German-Americans fought under Commander in Chief Abraham Lincoln during the civil war for the preservation of the union. Pending developments, money raised for the German Red Cross will be held and turned over to the American Red Cross in case of war. The alliance is a representative German-American organization, and the course taken justifies confident prediction as to the attitude to be assumed by practically all American citizens of German birth of extraction. There is nothing lacking either in the letter or in the spirit of the Philadelphia pronouncement. Men who for racial or other reasons sympathize with the German cause have been in the majority in this country. At least some of these have done unconscious injustice to men who, for like reasons, sympathized with the German cause in conflict with the entente. In some degree pro-alleies have been disposed to attribute some measure of disloyalty to pro-Germans because of the trend of the sympathy of the German cause. The extent discloses what has all along been apparent to the open minded, that in case of a dispute between the United States and the German government, the loyalty of the German-American goes as naturally to their own government as would the loyalty of allied sympathizers in case of a breach with the entente. That German sympathizers have been eager to keep the American government out of trouble with the German government is no more creditable to them than the eagerness of the British sympathizers to keep

Whenever it ceases to be a fact that "America first" is the motto of all Americans we may as well confess that our national structure has been founded on sand rather than rock and begin preparing for a fall.

HITTING THE H. C. OF L.

Bixby: Here is an important right of the wire. It is dated Washington, February 14, and solemnly declares: "President Wilson today directed the federal trade commission to enter immediately into an investigation of the high cost of food stuffs."

To congress: "Ascertain why little comes for what is paid. For meat and bread and grain, find out," said Woodrow to the court.

"And let us know when you report."

Whatever facts were then revealed?

Were not for common men. The "cost" committee never squeaked.

But prices soared again.

I guess it would be some surprise. Were this new bunch to put us wise.

THE FIELD OF BUSINESS.

Sioux City Journal: Hesitation due to international uncertainty was the predominant feature in financial and commercial quarters last week. The calmness with which the war project was met offered an emphatic demonstration of the soundness of general conditions in this country, as well as of the strength of the country internationally. The extent of entanglement in the world war.

In the stock market the first effect of the breach with Germany and of the apparent readiness of the government to go to a length of war was a sustained upward movement in industrials. This was on the theory that anything that postpones peace must work out to the advantage of industry adjusted to a year basis. Late in the week, however, a steady stream of liquidation of somewhat uncertain origin brought securities prices to a lower level. The effect of the war project upon rail securities was depressing.

What has recovered much of the ground lost in the first week of the war in price was supported by the conviction that such risk of loss as may be inevitable must be borne by the British government, which must secure the war effort. Near Mexico and Texas are favorable prospects, such a chance that India may be regulated by before the winter is on. With Kentucky and Ohio it is more matter of months but prediction is completed. states, five-eighths of them all, bid fair to be dry within a couple of years, barring any check to present tendencies.

It must occur to statesmen that this process can be and should be hurried if the United States is put under the strain of war. If any good can come of war, war should be instrumental in eliminating waste. Russia is known to have strengthened itself enormously for its war by saving the cost of money and manhood of its vodka business. If the liquor factories of the United States were put to making denatured alcohol, which is of great use in warfare, they could get out of the liquor business without disaster. The release for useful service of the men engaged in the business would mightily relieve the strain of war. Generally increased national efficiency would go with stopping the consumption of liquor.

Congress may find itself with power as a war measure, to decree national prohibition. If it has not that power, the submission of a prohibition amendment would doubtless answer the same purpose.

RIVER SWALLOWS LOTS

Omaha, Feb. 12.—Views ago in 1878 to be exact—Grandview addition to Omaha was had and found ready sale among those who desired choice property close to the Missouri river bounded the addition on one side and its close proximity was regarded as one of the assets to the lots, designated as choice for building purposes.

But during the years since 1878 the Missouri river has been on many occasions, has changed its channel many times and today Grandview addition is located "somewhere on a sandbar in the Missouri river" and it would probably require an energetic narrative to ascertain its exact metes and bounds.

According to records recently disclosed at the office of the Douglas county register of deeds, sale in lots in Grandview addition has been quite brisk of late. Numerous transactions and transfers of deeds have been recorded, the purchasers apparently never having taken the precaution to investigate their holdings.

Nebraska War Baby.
William Sheffield, jr., is Nebraska's first war baby. He is a private in the Fifth regiment of the Nebraska national guard, saw his first return recently from border duty at Llanos Grande, Tex.

As evidence that the federal government has an interest in the "war baby" a check for $26 was sent recently to Mrs. Sheffield for the guardian's relief fund under provision recently made by congress.

Omaha Infants Healthy.
According to a report made public recently by the New York milk committee, a branch of the city's health department, Omaha has the third lowest infant mortality rate of 241 cities from which statistics were gathered. The records show the infant death rate here during 1916 was 47.1 per 1,000. There were but two cities named showing a death rate of less. One was La Crosse, Wis., with a death rate of 30.6 and the other Ogden, Ut., with a rate of 39.8 per 1,000.

The highest death rate was reported at Passaic, N. J., with 193.5

per 1,000. Nashville, Tenn., with 182.8 and Montgomery, Ala., with 182.1, followed.

Use Bath Tub as Coal Bin.
According to a report recently made by the local welfare board, bath tubs are not popular among certain residents in South Omaha. One of 100 homes was only three were equipped with bath tubs. Furthermore, one of these three was not used for bathing purposes but was used as a coal bin. In nineteen homes were kept animals, "pets of the children," lived with the families. These "pets" included dogs, cats, pigs, goats, a calf, a raccoon and a lamb.

Forced Bath In Sealing Water.
John Higgins of Grandview, R. L. a "chopper" at the city workhouse, believes his friends carried the joke too far. It was serious enough when they forced him to take a bath when they would not let him take his obligations in sealing water, that was too much.

Higgins with his friends joked about taking a bath until it was decided to test his "pets" of which one should perform this unusual service. Higgins was chosen. He stripped preliminary to taking the plunge but was interrupted by a group of his friends who were in the tub was filled and before Higgins could protest he was plunged head foremost into the water. His cries brought attendants and he was hurried to a hospital. His condition was serious for several days.

THE RIGHT SPIRIT.
The Fremont Tribune strikes the right note in an editorial in which it proposes to eliminate partisanship while war clouds hover near. It says:

The Tribune has been a republican newspaper for nearly fifty years; always of the stalwart stripe because it has always believed in the party rule that is in vogue in this country. It has always tried to be rationally republican in order that what it has believed to be the best national policies might prevail. But for a time, at least until the present, a cloud of the darkest shades of night, it will not be partisan. There may be suggestions concerning internal affairs, but no criticism; and no criticism of the foreign policies.

"When the nation's security is in the balance there can be no carping, no nagging, no differences. We all have the right and duty in normal times to discuss public issues, that the truth may be arrived at and that our course may be wisely ordered. That is the way of a free press among a free people. But when our national life is in danger authority must be relegated to the hands of the government. When we cannot stop to argue we must follow leaders. In the smaller way the Tribune is republican. In the larger sense it is non-partisan—it is American."

WAYNE CASH MARKET WILL MOVE MARCH 1

W. E. Cleveland and J. M. Coon, proprietors of the Wayne Cash-Market, have leased the building one door west of their present location, possession to be taken about March 1. E. J. Henry of Orono, Neb., who owns the building, was in Wayne yesterday to complete the arrangements with the firm. Mr. Henry expects to put in cement floors in the basement and rear room, and to otherwise repair the shop. Work is to begin at once. The new firm has this week installed the latest model of the United States slitting machine for cutting ham and other meats uniformly and smoothly. It will be worth a visit to the shop to see just how it is done.

OVERCOME BY SMOKE

Berke, Neb., Feb. 12.—Fire destroyed the building and stock of the John Frey lunch room last night about 12 o'clock. John Frey, the proprietor, was overcome for two days as a result of a fall on the pavement and partly as a result of being overcome by smoke. He was not seriously hurt and was able to be about this morning.

Frey was attempting to carry one case of the furniture from the burning building, but being partly overcome by the flames and smoke fell out of the door, fell and struck the head on the pavement. The origin of the fire is not known but it is thought that it was caused by a gas stove. The estimated loss is $1,000. The loss, it is said by local insurance agents, is not covered by insurance.

MISS ANNA F. ANTHONY WEDS REV. S. BUTCHER

The Herald received word this week from the secretary of the Nebraska club of Columbia university, announcing the marriage of Miss Anna F. Anthony to Rev. Stanley Butcher of Rochester, N. Y. The wedding took place in Brooklyn, at the home of friends. The bride is well known in Wayne where she was a teacher in the Wayne Normal school for several years. The groom is a very capable young man, who has just completed his theological course. They will make their home in Rochester. Wayne friends extend hearty good wishes.

MYSTERIOUS DEATH

Leigh, Neb., Feb. 12.—There is a mystery in the death here of Fred Duhwin Saturday night. He had been taken home by Fred Paulsen, a friend. Duhwin and Paulsen had been in town during the day and Duhwin and another farmer, George Plouffe, got into a heated argument over the crisis with Germany. Duhwin was very emphatic in expressing sympathy with Germany and this wound up the evening. Duhwin and Paulsen took lunch at a local eating house and then proceeded home. On the way Duhwin tumbled profusely and lay down in a vehicle when they reached Paulsen's home, two miles southeast of this city. Duhwin was very ill and had to be carried into the house. He died soon after being seated in a chair. A local physician turned the case over to the Platte county authorities. Duhwin was about 29 years old and single. He had been employed on a farm near here.

Many Wayne Women are Learning the Cause. Women often suffer, not knowing the cause. Backache, headache, dizziness, nervousness, Each a torture of itself. Together hint at weakened kidneys.

No other remedy more highly endorsed than Dr. King's Kidney Pills. Here's convincing testimony from a Wayne woman.

Mrs. H. Kellogg, Wayne, says: "I was subject to treatment through kidney trouble. I found Doan's Kidney Pills which I got at Felber's Pharmacy to be just what I needed and the trouble went away. I had suffered from nagging pains in my back and found it difficult to get around or lift because of the sharp twinges it caused. I felt depressed and nervous, too. Doan's Kidney Pills gave me great relief."

WHAT A WAR WOULD MEAN TO BUSINESS.

by Europe temporarily slackened last February. The British government then imposed a special additional income tax of one shilling in the pound, namely, about 5 percent, upon all American securities held in retaining form.

It is impossible to evade this tax and the British government was thus able to force the reluctant holders to part with many hundred million dollars more in what are now the best investments in the world. America took them at rising prices.

It is an extraordinary fact that American investors have been able to digest nearly $7,000,000,000 of British securities repurchased from abroad, at the same time that they were losing within the same twelve months another $1,000,000,000 in the form of cash for war loans of billions.

When we stop to consider that a majority of these securities were bought with the profits of our exports of food stuffs, shoes, clothing, munitions and supplies sold to the allies at the highest prices ever paid for such material it is easy to understand our present prosperity.

Earnings Remain at Home.

The United States today, instead of having her railroad and industrial securities held in great part by European investors, holds these herself, and consequently the tremendous earnings of our industries during the past two years have remained at home.

Then again, our gold reserves have piled up even beyond the point of safety.

The gold bullion in the United States today totals the staggering sum of two billion eight hundred and sixty million dollars. It is almost beyond human possibility to conceive the enormous credit structure that has been built upon this gold foundation. In the United States assay office at New York alone are gold bars valued at $645,764,938.

The banks of the United States today have $36,000,000,000 (thirty-six billion dollars) in resources.

Therefore, if we are forced into war we have the necessary gold reserve and accumulated wealth to finance it without any additional juggling from a purely selfish and narrow-minded standpoint. Our entrance into the world war would not be an unmix ed evil.

The experience of Canada is a present example of business prosperity following a state-of-war. When the war broke out in 1914, Canada was suffering from a business depression even worse than ours at that time. Years of riotous speculation in western farm lands and town property had retarded the nation's prosperity. Her railroads were suffering from stagnation; and Canadian bankers were forced to greater conservatism than was their want.

Today Canada is pulsating with industry in addition to raising and selling a vast quantity of wheat and millow she has extended aid in money and materials to her mother country; and all this has been accomplished in less than three years' time.

The most of our business interests are in a stronger financial condition than ever before in the history of the Dominion.

Canada is in no danger of an invasion from the United States. What the plans of our government will be in case of war I don't know, but it is likely that our participation will be largely through our naval power, our financial support and a pro rata participation in the war costs. We shall lend more freely to England, France and Russia. We will extend more credit freely, in money and materials, and in every way possible do all in our power to aid an early conclusion of the war.

It is likely that the government will start building a citizen army such as England and her colonies have built and trained; and even though this army may never see Europe, the most effect of our preparing for eventualities will have a sobering influence upon Germany and her allies.

All these preparations will have the immediate effect of restimulating trade in all its branches.

The New York stock exchange, that almost infallible barometer of trade conditions—was thrown into a panic a few days ago owing to the president's peace message. Nearly all listed securities, stocks and bonds, and the keynote stock, United States Steel common, went below par for the first time in months.

Effect on Market Small.

On Saturday, upon receipt of the news of the diplomatic break and the likelihood of the United States being at war within thirty days, railroads, and industrial stocks began climbing.

U. S. Steel Common gained 3 5/8 points.

Republic Steel gained 30 points.

Copper and motor stocks and railroads in most cases showed equally healthy advances.

In conclusion; all indications, internal as well as external, was for war, point to a more successful business year in 1917 than we enjoyed even in 1916.

If war does come we shall be prepared to meet it. Peace should come (and may God grant its early appearance) it will be a good many months before there is any let-down to our present prosperity.

FAVORS COMMISSION FORM OF GOVERNMENT BY MAYOR OF BROKEN BOW

Recognized Authority on the Subject Sets Forth Advantages of New System.

Editor of the Herald: Last week I noticed in the "Custer County" the following communication from Mayor A. K. Humphrey of Broken Bow, Neb. Mr. Humphrey is one of the keenest lawyers and one of the best students of practical affairs in central Nebraska. He is not only a visionary reformer, but what he has to say about Broken Bow may be quite applicable to Wayne as the two cities are very similar. Mayor Humphrey is respectfully submitted, J. G. W. Lewis.

The commission form of government for Broken Bow has been adopted more or less for the past two years and there seems to be a growing tendency of late toward adopting it. Many of those who are well acquainted with the system and who have watched its effect in other cities are heartily in favor of it and believe it the one way to obviate many of our municipal troubles. To bring about the change by adopting it and give its reasons. He is not alone in the stand he has taken, and there are many other citizens who take the same view. The city fathers and will be glad to publish opinions on both sides of the subject. To those not understanding the system and its advantages, Mayor Humphrey explains how Broken Bow adopted the commission form of government:

The law under which cities like Broken Bow may dispense with the form of government and adopt a commission form of government was passed by the legislature in the year 1913. It is an amendment to the law of 1911 only in that the cities of 200 or over may come under the commission system. The old law affected towns of 500 or over only.

To bring about the change a petition for an election on the question of changing the form of government, signed by 25 per cent of the vote cast at the last general city election, was filed with the clerk. It must be presented to the city council. When this is done a proclamation for an election on the question is issued and the date of the election cannot be earlier than 30 days from the date of the order nor more than sixty days from its date. The form of the question to be voted upon is: "Shall the city of Broken Bow adopt the commission form of city government?" If adopted it becomes operative in our case at the city election in 1918. If not adopted it cannot be voted upon again for a period of two years.

At this time it can be voted upon at the regular election and not entangle the city any additional expense as a special election. The election of 1916 will be for three commissioners. Until that time the city government as now provided for will obtain.

The effect of commissioner is a ward proposition. Each commissioner is elected from the city at large. A primary is held in the city the third Tuesday before election day and the name of the commissioner must be filed with the city clerk ten days before the date of primary election. A fee of $10 is charged for the filing of the name and a certificate of election. The commissioner and is paid to the clerk to apply on election expenses. If more than six filed the six receiving the highest vote will be candidates at the general election. If less than six are filed all of them will be candidates at the general election. The three receiving the highest vote are elected as commissioners.

The salary of each commissioner cannot be in excess of $250. One of (the number is elected mayor by the three commissioners and he may receive an additional $250 for services. They elect councilmen, and not commissioners after election.

The three councilmen have and exercise all the power of and are now vested in the mayor and council for the city. They appoint all necessary officers to carry out the orders they make and do and attend to all the business of the city and belong to the city.

In towns of the population of Broken Bow the administration of city affairs under the commission system is placed under three departments or heads: 1. Department of public affairs and public safety. 2. Department of accounts and finance. 3. Department of streets, public improvements and public property.

Each councilman is the head of one of these three departments.

Now the question is "is it economy to do this?" It is. Our selective officers are costing us today as follows:

Mayor	$200.00
Eight councilmen	800.00
Treasurer	200.00
Clerk and water commissioner	200.00
Clerk	900.00
Total	$2100.00

Our appointive officers are costing us as follows:

Street commissioner and day police	$780.00
Night marshal	780.00
City attorney	200.00
Manager and helpers at pump and electric light plant	2640.00
Total	$4400.00
Add	$2100.00
Total cost	$6500.00

The purpose of the commissioner system is to consolidate the business of the city, eliminate waste of time and money, and fix individual responsibility for the management of city affairs and the expenditure of public money. Under our present system none of these means of efficiency obtain.

The reason why one man cannot be chief of police, water commissioner, street commissioner, and manager of the electric light and pumping station. He will have to do the best of all these things. Under our present system we are paying three men $2,880 and furnishing the help to do the work. And no one is responsible for waste, errors or mistakes. One man should supervise the city's affairs where we now employ three.

I believe the commissioner plan of government offers a solution of this problem at less cost than that we are now paying.

SOCIAL NEWS

Give Kensington.

Miss Florence Welch and Mrs. A. M. Jacobs were hostesses at a Saturday afternoon Kensington for the benefit of the Boy's King camp under D. A. B. and a few guests were eligible for membership at the Welch home last week. The rooms were decorated with daffodils and carnations. After a luncheon at 11 o'clock the guests enjoyed a guessing contest. Victrola music and humorous anecdotes were also a part of the pleasant afternoon. The evening was closed by Mrs. J. G. Woodard Jones, served an excellent two-course buffet luncheon. The next meeting of the chapter will probably be with Mrs. J. G. Mines.

Lincoln Program.

Mrs. Walter R. Weber, entertained the ladies of the Aeneid club Monday afternoon, at which time a Lincoln program was given. Quotations from Lincoln were given in response to roll call, after which Mrs. H. M. Crawford reviewed the childhood and youth of the martyred president. Mrs. Clara Ellis read the "Declaration of Independence," which describes so graphically the effect Lincoln's Gettysburg address had on his audience. The last feature of the program was a description of Lincoln as a politician by Mrs. J. T. Bressler. The unusual tact and sympathetic dealings displayed by Lincoln during the crisis of the early sixties were pointed out as proofs of his genuine statesmanship.

Enjoy Luncheon.

The members of the U. D. club and four guests enjoyed a luncheon at the home of Mrs. C. M. Craven Monday at 1 o'clock. Places were found at one long table with appointments suggestive of the valentine season. The table was decorated with red hearts, and the place cards carried out the same color scheme. For the centerpiece a candelabra was taken from the dining room. Covers were laid for the following guests in addition to the club members: Mrs. John Harrington, Mrs. William Hiscox, Mrs. Frank Gambrell, Mrs. H. C. Cunningham.

The hours following the four-course luncheon were spent at needlework.

Minerva Club Session.

The ladies of the Minerva club discussed domestic and foreign affairs at the meeting at the home of Mrs. C. A. Grothe Monday afternoon. Mrs. F. S. Berry, the leader in domestic affairs, reviewed some of the events of the past few weeks in this country. The hierarchy test, she asked inquiring the attitude towards the Ambassador Gerard on the part of the German government were all given attention. Mrs. Grothe closed her part of the program by reading an article from the Lincoln, entitled "Abraham, Lincoln and the Immigrant," a fitting remembrance of the day. At this point the ladies rose and sang "The Star Spangled Banner" with Mrs. J. B. Erskine playing the accompaniment.

Mrs. Grothe spoke of the present war crisis, giving a graphic description of what it might mean to this country. She also read a communication from Bishop W. C. Lewis, now a missionary in China but formerly at the head of Morningstar college, who also lived the existing conditions in China as a result of the war. In connection with this subject Mrs. H. J. Miner discussed China's attitude in regard to submarine warfare. Mrs. Miner stated that the Chinese were entirely in sympathy with the United States in regard to the subsea policy.

Mrs. L. M. Owen who has charge of the department of science and invention, talked on the subject "How Inventors Invent," paying particular attention to the new and interesting innovations along that line. The program closed with two pleasing violin solos by Mrs. F. J. Coleman. Mrs. J. T. House played her accompaniments. The next meeting of the club will be with Mrs. S. A. Jantzen on the afternoon of February 26.

term for county officers. The bill embodying this was passed by third reading.

Countless amendments were offered to the measure, but in the end just one of them—the one providing that the county treasurers may hold two terms—survived the ordeal. Among those who were tipped in the air was one seeking to limit the holding of office to one term. This was assailed with might and main and brought on a lengthy discussion as to the responsibilities of county officers and their desire to really serve the people after they have obtained office.

$10 Fine for Open Gates.

Representative Thompson is compelling people to shut gates on private land when they go through them, under penalty of $10 fine, was advanced to third reading, after it had been amended so as not to apply to the owner of the land or gates used by farmers in crossing a railroad right-of-way to get to and from their land.

Mrs. Thomas explained the bill as intended to penalize careless automobilists who drive through the rural country in the northwest and fail to close the gates after them.

Would Publish Text Books.

The Keisner bill directing the secretary of state to print 1,500 copies each of the senate and house journals instead of 1,000 was also sent to third reading.

Creation of a state school book commission with a secretary drawing $3,000 a year salary as its principal officer with a view to having the state of Nebraska print text books for all of its public schools on contract for their publication on a royalty basis, is the department proposed now by Representative Auten, now before the house committee on education. It carries an appropriation of $14,500 but Representative Taylor is proposing to have that amount included in his $1,000,000 a year special state levy for support of the state school system to be definite. Mr. Taylor is glad to do this, as he figures it will help the passage of his own bill.

The commission, under the terms of this contemplated enactment, would have power to purchase copy rights and to buy the product of book compilers. After that was done it could have the books printed and supplied to school boards at cost, as is done in Kansas and some other states.

WHAT DR. OSLER SAID.

Dr. Osler, a very well known man, says: "If I were asked to say whether some physical deterioration was produced by alcohol or by defective teeth, I should unhesitatingly say, defective teeth. It is likely that the physical damage is done to the growing child or youth, injuring his future physical and mental development. It is estimated that there are ten million children in the United States suffering from the three chief effects of decaying teeth—secondary mouthitis. It has been shown that children with decaying teeth are six months longer in completing the eight common school grades than are children with clean mouths and sound teeth. Parents who allow their children's teeth to decay and become a menace to their health are guilty of a great wrong to the young, who do not realize the importance of good teeth."

WHAT A WAR WOULD MEAN TO BUSINESS

Jack Jones of the Alexander Hamilton Institute: On Saturday morning the news was flashed to the world that the United States had broken off diplomatic relations with Germany because of the latter's re-adoption of unrestricted submarine warfare.

Breaking off diplomatic relations with Germany does not mean war, but easily may lead to war. It is an act of protest characterized in the usual parlance as a "measure short of war."

The danger that war may follow is accentuated by the diplomatic history of the world. Modern times show instances of a diplomatic break between two first class powers that has not been followed by hostilities.

The rights of Germans in the United States and of Americans in Germany are practically unaffected by the severance of diplomatic relations. No treaties are terminated or suspended, but remain in full force.

There is no change in commercial relations already badly crippled by the war. Individuals and corporations may continue their usual affairs, provided they do not deal in contraband and their obligations are as binding as ever.

The courts still remain open to them for redress, but they have no facility for direct intervention of the courts.

There should be no sequestration or confiscation of private property either in the United States or Germany, although it may be taken for use under certain circumstances.

The merchant ships tied up in American ports since the beginning of the war may be used by the United States, but the German owners ultimately must be compensated.

The ships of the United States, Porto Rico, and the Pacific Islands possessions, including the Philippines, comprise some of the best known ocean lines and aggregate 628,837 gross tons.

Break Makes Little Change. Therefore, unless our diplomatic break leads us, we are to all practical purposes in the same position from a business viewpoint as we were before the break came.

Our change of position is merely an ethical one and actually a protest to Germany because of her violation of international laws in the position she has taken (in spite of our former protests and her promises to us) in connection with submarine warfare.

It is the opinion, however, among statesmen and business men of the ripest judgment, that only the complete break-down of Germany can keep us out of war with the central powers.

If Germany persists in her violation of international law and the rights to neutrals (and every other neutral nation affected) must insist upon upholding our honor and dignity by fighting to sustain them.

In spite of this, however, it is only natural for every American citizen to ask what will happen to business.

When the European war broke out in August, 1914, we were fast slipping into a mild panic, not since the Civil War.

At that time, however, August 4, 1914, after a conference with Dean Johnson, Mr. DeBower, Mr. Greenlinger and a number of cool headed business men, I sent out a message to the effect that the war was not predicting prosperity and business expansion.

impregnable position from a business standpoint. Our steel industry is at its highest point of production. In 1916 alone we produced 40,000,000 tons of steel. In an interview a few weeks ago, Mr. Schwab stated that we were still far from the zenith of steel production. As a matter of fact, if war comes, steel mills and foundries will be speeded up to the very limits of machine and human possibility. All munition plants will be enlarged as fast as possible to supply Uncle Sam's navy. Every steel, electrical and machine plant will be flooded with new orders to meet the demands not only of the European allies but of our own army and navy. Munition mills, automobile factories, boot and shoe factories, manufacturers of clothing—in fact every industry of whatever nature will take on added impetus to meet the increased demand consequent upon our entry into war.

The best of it all is our financial ability to meet the expenses of our own participation in the war as well as our ability to meet the expenses of carrying on the war to a successful conclusion. In August, 1914, we were debtor nation. Today we are the creditor nation of the world.

American investors or bankers bought back from Europe, very nearly or through the sale of dollar worth of American securities in 1916.

A MAN WHO "CAME BACK" Sioux City Journal: It is a noticeable and a remarkable fact that when a man has taken the course of a life of sin and degradation, and by some chance has been redeemed, his dominant purpose becomes a desire to help other men to "come back" from lives of evil.

Thirteen years ago Jim Goodheart was a salesman for a Chicago wholesale grocery house. He was a good salesman, one of the best in the employ of his firm, drawing a large salary.

Goodheart drifted to St. Louis and to Kansas City, forging checks, drinking and gambling. At Kansas City he was locked up in a vagrant.

When released he went to Denver, "riding the rods" of a freight train, and there again was arrested for vagrancy.

It is needless to say that he did not commit suicide. That was the beginning of a new life for Jim Goodheart. He secured a job at $12 a week pushing a truck in a brick factory. A year later he was on the road again, a crack salesman, with a salary of $200 a month.

Nine years ago the superintendent of the Sunshine mission resigned and Jim Goodheart took his place. His first act was to write to all the victims of his forgeries, inform them where he was and assure them that he intended to repay every cent he owed, if they would give him time.

On January 1, 1916, he paid back the last penny, and it had taken $6,000 to do it.

Jim Goodheart has made the Sunshine mission in Denver known everywhere in the west. He is one of a mass of making men out of means, crooks, thieves and every other sort of criminal he can get his hands on.

He can go to police headquarters and get any man released from surveillance without his consent, so that the man is living a straight life.

Goodheart's wife has rejoined him and is happy. Although the mission pays him no more than a living wage, he has saved off of $5,000 and $6,000 a year rather than give up his work. He has found physical, moral and spiritual health, as well as happiness and contentment in the service of his fellow men.

Jim Goodheart is another example of the power of the gospel of Jesus Christ and of the effectiveness of Christianity when applied in a practical way.

CHURCH CALENDAR

The German Evangelical Lutheran Church

(Rev. R. Zuehring, Pastor.)
Next Sunday, Sunday school at 10 o'clock and preaching at 11 o'clock. The pastor will preach at Winside in the afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Fine Plumes of a Young Leader.

The Baptist church will proceed with its usual services Sunday and insure an interesting and helpful service both morning and evening. Every member of the congregation should be present at both services. Nothing makes for church progress like regular and faithful attendance. In the evening the subject will be "The Fine Plumes of a Young Leader." This will be the story of a leader, who in his young age has done the seeming impossible more than four thousand years ago. It is a story full of "pep" and enthusiasm and no one will go to sleep while it is being delivered.

George will be Here the 22d.

The young people of the Baptist church are arranging for a very clever Washington celebration at the church on the evening of the 22d inst. George and Martha Washington will be present in costume and with many attendants will present the old-time colonial day entertainments. The evening is to be enjoyable and enjoy the evening and witness the dress and speech of more than a hundred years ago. Delightful refreshments will be served and everybody will welcome by distinguished couple and Uncle Sam. Only a trifling admission will be charged.

Methodist Church.

(Rev. A. S. Buell, Pastor.)
The work of repairing and decorating the Methodist church is under way this week and includes the enlarging of the basement and the resurfacing of the walls and floor throughout. The auditorium and upstairs rooms are to be redecorated. The committee on the basement work is: Rev. A. S. Buell, Mrs. D. C. Main, Mrs. L. M. Owen, C. Grothe and Lambert Roy. The committee on the upstairs work is: W. D. Redmond, Charles Gildersleeve, George Grossland. It is possible that we may lose the use of the auditorium for one Sunday. We hope that it will not need to be more than that.

The special services for next Sunday to be held under the auspices of the Women's Home Missionary society. A special worker of the society will be present at both the morning and evening services. There will be a real live discussion in the Epworth League service last Sunday evening. There is every reason to believe that the lesson next Sunday can be made even more interesting.

Presbyterian Church.

(Rev. S. X. Cross, Pastor.)
At the annual meeting of the Woman's Missionary society held last Thursday at the home of Mrs. A. R. Davis, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Miss Charlotte M. White; vice president, Miss James Britton; secretary, Mrs. John Wendt; treasurer, Mrs. Charles Hiscox. The next meeting of the society will be at the home of Mrs. C. T. Iugham.

The 7:30 program, Sunday evening will be given by the college Y. M. C. A. The incomplete program is as follows: Song, Bible, scripture reading and prayer; talk, "Religion, a Man's Job," Ward Randall; special music, Mr. Siems; talk, "Development of Personality Through Christianity," Mr. Nelson; talk, "Christianity as Social Service," song, glee club; special music, church choir.

Probably no more meaningful demonstration was ever made in Sunday school services in the local church than that of last Sunday. One hundred men in one class and over eighty women in another class just showed to the thoughtful observer something of what might be accomplished for community good along one line of effort alone, provided we are willing to work for it as for other things.

"Winson Day" is the sermon theme for next Sunday morning. This topic may seem a little unreasonable from the standpoint of the ecclesiastical year, but we will explain this. There will be special music under the direction of Mrs. W. E. Johnson, chorister. You are cordially invited to worship in our fellowship. Misses Wilma Gilderleeve will lead the C. B. meeting at 7:30.

BRENNA.

H. S. Moses of Winside and Louis Winegar, auto to Stanton Sunday. Moses brothers shipped a carload of hogs to Omaha Tuesday. James Baird sending a carload to the same place on Wednesday. Miss Nellie Connell gave a box social at her school house last Friday evening. Bernice Gomer and her pupils deserve much credit

Coming Saturday Night!

You, who love good music, should plan to attend the concert at the Normal Auditorium, Saturday evening, February 17. Yes, we know we disappointed you on the last number of our lecture course, but that is not likely to happen again. Remember, this musical will be well worth even the long walk to the Normal.

The Company's Personnel

Mrs. Alta R. Wells, pianist and saxophone player, also appearing in the ensemble work on the Opalophone, an instrument designed especially for this company.

Miss Gladys Harding, a reader and vocalist of charm. Those who like dramatic singing, dramatic yet unacted, will hear Miss Harding with interest.

A PRESS COMMENT.

Albion Weekly News, Albion, Neb.: The Apollo Concert company came to Albion, highly recommended and they lived up to the reputation that preceded them. From the opening number on the Opalophone to the closing saxophone quartet, the company held the close attention of the audience. The ensemble numbers were especially pleasing. Mr. Wells won marked applause on his piano selections while Miss Harding pleased everyone with her solos, readings and piano logues.

Mr. St. Elmo Pompeii, whose trombone solos are always received with great enthusiasm by every audience.

Arthur Wells, organizer and manager of the company. Mr. Wells spent sixteen years with the Swiss Bell Ringers, and Wayne people know the high standards upheld by that company. Mr. Wells is a banjo soloist of marked ability.

Walter Steube, perhaps the most versatile musician in the company. Plays the flute, clarinet, saxophone and oboe. Mr. Steube has played with several of the well known bands of the country.

At the Normal Auditorium Saturday Night Remember the date in the splendid program rendered. George Patterson acted as auctioneer and the boxes sold well. The proceeds were $18.

Committee No. 3 of the Ladies Aid society is planning a social to be given next week. We will let you know the date later.

Ed Lindsay and George Baird were victims of the grip this week. The grip this winter is not in the least partial, but is very accommodating in visiting but two or three people in a neighborhood each week, so the well ones can do the chores.

The Ladies Aid society of Grace church has been working the past year for a social room in connection with Grace church, and wish to express appreciation for the donations received. The liberal donors of the past year were Rev. J. Bruce Wylie and Mrs. Harry Tidrick of Winside, Mrs. W. Y. Miles, Mrs. Albert Chichester, D. C. Lewis and W. Y. Miles of Wayne.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Dean and Mr. and Mrs. Art Atker entertained the "Brenna Bunch" at the A. C. Dean home Friday evening. The guests were divided into groups, three in a group, each group writing one chapter of a book. When the book was completed it was named "When Brenna was in Bloom" and was read by Mrs. Dean. Following this was a contest singing popcorn to the tune of "Yankoo Doodle" in which Miss Florence Baird won the popcorn dish and Mrs. Louis Winegar a large popcorn ball. The remainder of the evening was spent acting proverbs and doing justice to the party lunch.

LINCOLN'S BIRTHDAY.

The aroused spirit of Americanism caused greater patriotic demonstration than usual on Lincoln's birthday, February 12. Everywhere the praises of the martyred and heroic Lincoln were sounded. Lincoln's immortal Gettysburg speech was one of the noblest group of orations that came from his lips. It is brief and to the point, and is worth reading often both for its own sake and as a source of inspiration. Here it is:

"Four score and seven years ago our fathers brought forth on this continent a new nation, conceived in liberty, and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal."

"Now we are engaged in a great civil war, testing whether that nation, or any nation so conceived and so dedicated can long endure. We are met on a great battlefield of that war. We have come to dedicate a portion of that field as a final resting place for those who here gave their lives that that nation might live. It is altogether fitting and proper that we should do this. But, in a larger sense, we cannot dedicate—we cannot consecrate—we cannot hallow this ground. The brave men living and dead, who struggled here, have consecrated it far above our poor power to add or detract. The world will little note nor long remember what we say here, but can never forget what they did here. It is for us, the living, rather, to be dedicated here to the unfinished work which they who fought here have thus so nobly advanced. It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us—that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion; that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain; that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom; and that government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth."

M. C. Winterburn of Sioux City, was here Tuesday renewing acquaintances. Mr. Winterburn used to live in Wayne, having left here fifteen years ago.

The gossips peddle a good deal that isn't true, but overlook a number of interesting facts.

UNCLE WALT

The Poet Philosopher

FARM LIFE

When I was young the farmer's shack was shy of costly tones; and only last year's almanacs were found in many homes. I used to hope Uncle W. I plied the one with speed; and when I might come how I would sigh for something fit to read!—A weekly paper Uncle took, and it was always late, but for a magazine or book he would dig up no kale. We fed the hogs their luscious stews, and gave the hens their hay, and never heard the great world's news till it was old and gray. Oh, countless farmers lived like this, in that fine olden times; they held that ignorance was bliss, and reading was a crime. My Uncle H. is now on high—at least I hope he's there; his eyesight had to die, as men must, everywhere. 'Tis but some thirty years ago since Uncle cashed his string, and faded from this vale of wee to play a harp and sing. How times have changed! The farmer's fair has reading—now, to burn; the farmer, in his easy chair, today's hot news may learn. Uncle H. would find things strange, if he could be guest. How times have changed—and every change seems always for the best!

THE ALBEC

I saw a young man fired on January 10; he never will be hired by his old boss again. When first he started in at Watson's beeswax store, he seemed like one who'd won the laurels by the score. For he had push and vim, he was no sluggish poke; he traced an active limb, and left a trail of smoke. All this was passing well, but after sundown some of his head began to ache, and his head-sweat, effusions—He thought the beeswax store would close if he should quit; the Old Man was a bore, and he alone was it. Now, when a young man feels that he's the prop of trade, that all the plunks and wheels by his address are made, he's walking to a fall, his feet will hit the dump, and when too late he'll travel that he was never meant. He travels vast and leagie, he keeps the pavement hot, his spirit knows his head has shrunk a bit. He has no job as yet, he may get one next week; but when he does, I'll bet we'll find him pretty meek.

THE SLUGGARD

I heard the sluggard say, when he was young and fair, "This is too fine a day for labor, I declare. Beside a babbling brook in comfort I'll rest, and rest a holiday, and mark his message mind, the farmer reap their grain, the farmers bale their hay; and work to do, do not seem to me to people and that way. But better is a dream than any kind of toil; so by the babbling stream, I'll read my Whist on a log." I heard the sluggard say, when age had made his hair white, "All to do some truck into his foolish ears. Age is the time to rest beside a babbling brook, while whiskers on your chest, and in your hands a book. Fourth is the time, my dear, to cut a goodly swath, and your declining years won't find you in the brook."

HARD SMILING

'T's hard to smile when you have the grip, when you cough all day and all night you yip, when your lungs are sprind and your throat is peeled, and your head feels much like a football held in your hand, to smile, but it can be done; I have tried the scheme, and the effort won. And the doctor said, as he gave me pills, and some castor oil, and a quart of squalls, to cut a goodly swath, were all like you, but they mostly roar when the doctor's due. "And all who minister unto me, when I am sick as a man can be, behind the scenes of my misery, shall be something that's well worth while, and they fandy hope that I may get worse, it's such a pleasure my nibs to nurse. When sickness comes to a man's abode, the women carry a grievous load. They fret and worry and work and weep, they miss their meals and they lose their sleep. Who gets their burden an added weight, by growching round in a peevish style, for if he wishes to be can smile."

THE EARLY DAYS IN TWO COUNTIES

From the Logan Valley Herald, Frank 1884:

Frank Northrup attended the U. S. district court in Sioux City, Mo. The backlogs of winter is broken now, and we hope it will remain that way.

The train was only delayed about half an hour, Wednesday on account of the blizzard.

The G. A. R. post here numbers about twenty-eight members. Every veteran in the county ought to join it.

J. M. Belknap and G. W. Graham have formed a partnership, and embarked in the real estate business in Wakenfield.

The Perry brothers will receive a car load of horses the first of March which they will offer for sale at the Yroman barn.

John Gaertner has secured the agency for a Marbe company in Sioux City, and will receive orders for tombstones, monuments, mantels, etc.

Wayne market Hogs $5.75 to $7.00; cattle, $4.75 to $5.50; goats, 75 cents; corn, 20 to 35 cents; flax, $1.75; oats, 25 to 27 cents; coal, $6.50 to $8.50.

A roller skating rink is now on foot in Wakenfield, and the youth of the village will be afforded an opportunity to display their skill along that line.

Several cases have been examined by the committee for a school site, but the preference has been given the block in which F. M. Strickland's house is situated.

Wellington house caught fire Wednesday morning, which caused quite a little excitement in the neighborhood. It was caused by the hot pipe which passes through the floor upstairs, burning the carpet around the pipe. After it was finally put out. This warning and rest a holiday, and mark his message mind, the farmer reap their grain, the farmers bale their hay; and work to do, do not seem to me to people and that way. But better is a dream than any kind of toil; so by the babbling stream, I'll read my Whist on a log." A series of religious meetings is being held in the Willbur school house.

James Pile underwent an operation in the Presbyterian hospital at Wakenfield.

Wheaton opens a barber shop and fixes the price of a shave at 5 cents.

Mrs. Amelia Hughes died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Guy R. Willbur, near Wakenfield, Feb. 12, 1894.

Local market: wheat, 43 cents; oats, 18 cents; rye, 24 cents; corn, 20 cents; hogs, $4.15; cattle, $4.25.

H. H. Hall, of Ontario, has been employed to take charge of the West Side Pharmacy during the illness of Mr. Kass.

The first wedding anniversary of Mrs. M. M. Melkham was celebrated by a party of friends who gave them a happy surprise.

It is announced that the wedding of Andrew Gould to Miss Emma Wolf will take place on Feb. 22, 1894, in the German church.

Speaking of terrible and fatal blizzards in the early days, William Huse's history of Dixon county has this to say:

"As to blizzards, they were worse in the unprotected levels of the northern part of the county. A blizzard swept the county February 12, 1872, and was especially terrible in the Logan valley. On the morning of that day, Joseph Bolsom, who lived in the eastern corner of what is known as Concord township and who went there in 1871, went with C. W. Packer of Logan, to Graves Grove on South Creek, two miles away to get wood. The snow was clear and no hint was given of a coming storm. They went to the grove, each with a team and sled, and had loaded up and started for home in the afternoon when the blizzard struck them. It was impossible to see the road or each other and each had to guess this way through the storm as best he could. Packer got through to Hind's house in Logan all right, arriving there late in the afternoon. He felt no anxiety for Bolsom, who he supposed had also made a safe trip home. The next morning the air was again clear and still, and Packer saw Bolsom's team standing in the valley half a mile away, no one, and the sleds had been blown down to see what the trouble was and found Bolsom lying on the ground near the sled, heavily covered by snow and frozen stiff. It was supposed that he had been under an updraft nearly all night before finally succumbing to the storm. During the same blizzard, a man by the name of Austin who since 1869 has lived near the shaft possessed six miles to get some wood on the Winnegaw reservation, and was lost in the storm and perished."

"One day in February of the next winter, Henry Harden, who lived near the Bolsom place, went with his sleigh and horses to see a neighbor, Mr. Spaulding, who lived a mile distant. He was accompanied by his grandson, a boy 12 years old. While at Spaulding's place a blizzard came up, and Harden and his grandson made a start for home. Neither was at any time seen alive, and Harden was never seen at all. Two days after, the sleigh was found and in it the boy frozen to death. The horses had become detached from the sleigh, and as their tracks showed they went with the storm and in the direction of the reservation. There they were found afterwards. Mr. Harden was never found."

"The first death in the county of a white man by freezing was that of Daniel Donlin and occurred February 12, 1872. It had been in view of a blizzard and perished within a mile of home. He lived in Glenora, a short distance from Wakenfield, and was returning there in 1876 from Iowa."

"Such are among the blizzards experiences of the early settlers and probably are the worst. Lives were often lost, although there were many narrow escapes."

APPRECIATION FOR WAYNE ENTERPRISE

Mrs. Marie Weekes of Norfolk Press: "Wayne is already busy—in fact has been busy for some time—in preparation for the visit of the northeast Nebraska teachers in March. Norfolk tumbled and lost this convention to Wayne and the press staff, and it was with a glad opening our eyes wide to Wayne's possibilities. We have the superior railroad facilities. They have most complete else, among their assets being a bunch of live-wire business and professional men who appreciate the true value of such a gathering as that of the Northeast Nebraska Teachers' association. The Press for eight years tried in vain to get Norfolk to realize its debt to the teaching body who came here year after year because they wanted to come. It is suggested that a really representative group of Norfolk people go to Wayne and extend the teachers a sure enough invitation for the 1918 gathering. And if they do not return to Norfolk to show our appreciation of their coming by friendly intercourse and some public token of appreciation."

The editor of northeast Nebraska will meet in Wayne in July. And we are already planning on a real treat. Wayne is a royal entertainer and with newspaper folks like Mrs. and Mr. Melkham—their staff of the Herald and the Democrat there isn't a doubt but that the printer fellows will be given a rousing welcome.

"By the way the Wayne Herald is a paper worthy of the careful study and emulation of every weekly newspaper publisher in Nebraska. It is fast approaching the ideal and a careful perusal of its columns, especially its advertising columns, is an inspiration of what may be for the country newspaper fellow if he uses his brains and does Mr. Huse. There has never been the satisfaction of all who have investigated his working theory that the country newspaper is a money-maker in the right man's hands. He doesn't try to fill a newspaper but employs people who possess the particular qualifications essential to the successful carrying out of the various duties that are part and parcel of the newspaper business. In other words he uses business principles in his office."

"Wayne is a dry town—we were reminded of this one year recently when a cotter of basins of 'empties' in the rear of a local retail house with a couple of farmer friends hard by just draining the last amber drops from tall glass receptacles."

The State Normal college helps Wayne materially—Wayne feels she has the best of the bargain over Norfolk in the matter of state institutions.

SPEAKING OF HERESY FIRE EXPERTS LOVE

Hartington Herald: The Wayne Herald was 35 years old last week, and observed the event by presenting a large group picture of its working force together with some interesting comment concerning the history and progress of the paper, which comment was projected into the future to the year 1950, several years after the editor had been burned at the stake for heresy, and gives some stimulating suggestions as to what the newspaper business will be in the year 1950.

One of the best weekly newspapers in the world—not to mention Orion or any of the other planets—and its success has been due not only to the genius of the editor, but to the efficiency and loyalty of its working force. The members of the Herald staff are all experts in their line, and not only that, but they have an affection for the paper which counts for more than mere ability.

NOTES EFFICIENCY

Ponca Journal: The Wayne Herald, in its issue of last week, presented to its readers a half-tone of the editor, E. W. Huse, and also the working force of his office. Among the number, we observe the likeness of I. C. Trumbauer who was at one time an employe of this office, and we can say that among the efficient help that it has been our privilege to employ, Mr. Trumbauer has ranked with the best. We are glad to see him still progressing in his line of work. The Herald is one of the best weekly newspapers that come to our exchange table, and Editor Huse has added another member to his staff which signifies that he is going to add efficiency to growth and growth to progress.

SPAGHETTI, ET AL.

The "Chief Herald" Scotty Huff has recently contained unique and interesting editorial portrayals of spaghetti, macaroni and string beans in which this paper is such that it produces the same herewith verbatim:

"Don't argue with your spaghetti. It won't do a bit of good. Not a bit. Spaghetti is an absolute contrary to you can't tell it a thing. You might as well try to reason with a plate of rattlesnakes.

"There is more pure cussiness in ten yards of spaghetti than in any other part of the literal foot, with the possible exception of noodles and baked wire.

"There's no excuse for spaghetti acting the way it does. Food can be no better without being beautiful. Head lettuce does it. Why can't spaghetti?

"Something ought to be done about this. A something shall be. The time will come when some brave man will meet this temperamental Italian worm on its own ground and conquer it.

"But so long as unflattered spaghetti is given the freedom of its dish there is no relief in sight."

"Macaroni is a thing we have always wondered at. It is a thing that is sent out from factories in boxes looking very naked and white; and that it comes to the table wearing cheese.

"Aside from that, macaroni is as much of a mystery to us as what the man says who goes past the house yelling for old clothes.

"We have always wondered about the holes in macaroni. Are they set up in towns and the macaroni wrapped around them? Or are they bored, while the young macaroni is still running to the water?

"No, what is macaroni made of? There's rubber, of course. We know that. But what else? We have been letting macaroni sither down our throats and on our feet for fifty-seven years, and yet it some steps' faced scientist should suddenly stop us in the middle of a four-inch piece and ask us if we care what we were swallowing, we could only answer: 'Macaroni!'

"This is wrong. How long must the world go on without knowing more about its macaroni?"

"Why can't a bean be a bean and let it go at that?"

"Most beans are beans, except string beans. But was the string bean satisfied to be just a bean? No. It had to grow a string and nearly ruin itself.

"And why? Did it have any practical in mind when it did it? Has a string bean ever benefited its string? No. It just did it because it could.

"String beans can be denatured after its back is broken so that it almost fit to eat. But give a dish of them a chance at a cheap restaurant or when your wife's in a hurry and see what it does to you. Till tongue-tie you that's what it'll do.

"However, if you have nobody but ourselves to blame for the string bean, Washington warned us against entangling alliances.

"Luther Burbank could deliver us from the string bean.

"Why doesn't he do it?"

GARDENING IN ELEMEN-TARY CITY SCHOOLS.

Omaha Bee: The United States bureau of education is assisting in the movement to extend gardening among the elementary city schools. It is presented as a fact that "in or about almost any city may be found an abundance of land that may be used for the purpose of gardening by the school children. Within the limits of many cities there is sufficient land, if intensively cultivated, to supply the people with all the vegetables and a large proportion of the fruits and flowers needed."

"In this nothing new except that it is recognized by the school authorities as a possible offset to demoralizing conditions now complained of. The contrast with the days of mischievous that comes with hours of idleness, may be a solution for the child labor problem, and surely will aid in the cost of living. Omaha has carried on for several seasons under direction of a devoted committee, successful competition for the school boys and girls in gardening. The campaign with not only extended until it becomes a real feature in the juvenile life of the city, rather than a feat pursued by a few. Gardening properly directed, not only provides wholesome and instructive occupation for the youngsters, but gives returns in which all may share.
