THE HOUSEWIFE. Yes, spring has lighter weight, and if pretty dresses, washable, and trim. Get your car, get away from it, the goods, and make them pop.

The phoebe birds are singing and a crowd even ventured that they saw a bluejay last week. Some have had lots for their gardens. A daffodil and one wedding here herald the approach of spring. This is the first of the year, too, when the house begins to look dinky, and you ought to carry your new curtains from attic to basement out doors, so that you can get lob with brown, mop and dust cloth. You will want to brighten up your rooms with new draperies, new curtains. The colored cretonnes are exceptionally good this season, and they come in a wide variety of the most pleasing patterns. Look them over before buying your new curtains. They make a delightful change in any room.

THE NEW LACES and Swiss embroideries are exquisite to say the least. It would pay you to plan some of your summer wardrobe next year in order to get your choice of these beautiful trimmings, and thus save yourself from being disappointed later in the season.

If it is OK to you, and more the habit for housewives to get their summer sewing off their hands before the first of April. Don't be behind your neighbors in this. The next time you are down town to do up several housewifery patterns. Two dark, serviceable gingham for morning wear, or calico if you must.

DAMAGE SUIT RESULT OF AUTO COLLISION

A collision at Winside, December 26 between the automobiles of William King and August and Emil, daughter resulted in a damage suit which was tried in the county court last Friday. King sued the Daughters for $200 and the latter made a counter claim. Both cars were damaged, and some personal injuries were sustained. The court took the case under consideration, and on Monday handed down a decision awarding the plaintiff $300.

EXPANSION OF THE DRY BELT

Omaha Bee: Prohibition is moving forward by leaps and bounds. The record of progress last year, great as it was, falls far short of the speed indicated in 1917. In every direction the movement is forward—the drys to a "bone dry" condition and the wets retreating under the pressure.

Two states, Kansas and Illinois, have already had their year opened. Indiana and Utah have already joined the number, statutory prohibition having been enacted in each state. The question of wet or dry goes to a vote of the people in Wyoming. Minnesota's legislature is certain to submit a constitutional amendment on the subject, and similar procedure is indicated in Illinois. In Missouri there is no doubt, the issue is to be pressed to a third vote next year unless the legislature enacts a law tightening the lid. Arkansas is being pushed by congressional enactment, and the District of Columbia is so close to the dry belt that nothing less than the rush of business at the close of congress will save it for a time. Any time from potatoes may be appropriately served as dessert.

It is no offense to call on a hog if only the value is considered. In a truth it may be accepted as an emblem expressive of eminent worth.

There is no doubt that one man of far calibrier and with sufficient financial-inducement could manage municipal affairs more economically and efficiently than a city council of six or more. Centralized authority with centralized responsibility in right hands is likely to bring the best results.

A report under an Alliance date says potato growers of the state propose to organize an association, the initiative having been taken by the university of Nebraska. The social cost of the potato has gone as usual. Retailer's price began availing last fall that it feels it is entitled to an independent organization.

If one is bleeding to death or has caught fire and is burning up, it is well to burn a candle and see that it does not go out. If one sees he is talking privately with another and is not apparently suffering from serious injury or ailment, it is good to see that the other is not suffering and that there is a bill and an emergency opportunity.

Gen. Funston won distinguished course and character. His readiness and ability to do the right thing at the right time. He failed to pass the technical examination required to admit him to the army. He was a man of brain and endurance which spurred him to take advantage of opportunities, and he won a series of successes that placed him in the front rank and gave him a name.

The pastor of a church at Seward has lately dealt out adverse criticism to the Tribune at that place for having sold advertising space to the so-called Prosperity League last summer. It would seem if the preacher were only incensed over the advertising in question he would have brought out and used his little hammer sooner. If the farmers in that community wish to discuss to both sides wishing to discuss the public question, he should at least not be so satisfied with results that he would keep still and refuse to yield to the incitative to knock.

Some practical paving for main roads leading to chief market towns in Wayne will in due time eliminate ruts and mud holes, and facilitate and cheapen travel. Marketing heavier loads and saving time will be the effective argument in support of such improved highways. Too much costly wear and tear, too much wasted time result from plugging horse-drawn wagons and hauling over bumps. Conservatism of equipment and time will pay for itself in the long run. The Wayne must pave, so that facility of travel in Wayne will not be less than elsewhere in the country.

The Nebraska legislature is considering a bill to change the law which prohibits the sale of cigars in the state, and make it apply only to people under 18 years of age. The importance of giving cigarettes funes free and unlimited circulation is appreciated.

We want war only as a last resort to maintain peace and honor. In that connection the Freeman Tribune aptly says: "When we come to think of our own flesh and blood being shelled and left in red heaps before the engines of war, and the men who have good faces turned to the sky and their eyes glazed and sightless, it is then the cruelty and horror of war come to us with crushing force. There should be no word spoken in jest or in disregard of the solemn situation. We do not want war, for we love the boys and men who must be sacrificed and pay the price of peace. We do not want war because it will leave the nation's manhood crippled and maimed and blind and the nation itself burdened with debt that must be paid with the sweat and toil and tears of the coming years. We must pay the price in material things with which we are so greatly blessed, but when it comes to opening the very veins of the nation, let it not be done, except when every possible expedient has been exhausted. This is how the people of Nebraska feel.

Sunday's Omaha Bee announced that controlling interest in that paper, hitherto held by Victor Rosewater and Charles Rosewater, has been transferred by sale to the former, and that the latter will retire from connection with the publication, except the management of a newspaper at Los Angeles. Victor Rosewater has been editor of the Bee since the death of his father, the late Edward Rosewater, a man of 80 years ago, and his younger brother has had charge of the business management. No change in policy is suggested. The Bee has always been a vital force in the development of Nebraska, and will continue to be.

Finding by the trade commission that the high cost of paper is unjust and not warranted by shortage of supply, followed by an offer from manufacturers to allow the commission to fix the maximum price for six months beginning March 1. The commission has found on the contrary has found that the mills of the country are able to supply any ordinary demand. The mania to get rich quick through the sale of paper has been so bad that it has gone to an extremity that has wrecked many publishers and taxed others to the limit of financial endurance. The manufacturers have been wild of season and have not checked wild demands until threatened by prosecution in the federal courts.

An acute age, or thereabouts, first evidence of life were floating around in water and slime and were called protoplasm. It evolved into the former invertebrates. Tracing kinship back to the original protoplasm, we find the essential cause for present oddities. One protoplasm we'll call it because it was very much alone. At first his social environment was nil. His lot was cast in so-called waters where nothing was going on except the swish and swash of the ebbing and flowing tides. Other protoplasm came into the opportunity for frequent association was presented. He had become too bashful and reserved to mingle comfortably with the rest. The more he associated with others kept away from him. His social estrangement was more or less accurately bequeathed to successors until now many of us unfortunately are probably talking to the social whirl and blaze about as a cat takes to fire and brimstone. This is not less scientific than the science often dished up by so-called savants.

The study in salesmanship, pursued at regular intervals by an organization of local merchants and clerks, is important and certainly a source of benefit. Merchandising is a large deal. It was twenty years ago. Then competition was not so sharp, tastes were not so fastidious and requirements were not so exacting. Often then a customer would wait on a bench behind the stove and would have to invite him to give attention and supply his wants. Now it is not enough to invite; the clerk must greet him with a smile and cordial welcome. A dealer must not only manifest friendly interest and appreciation, but he must learn how to anticipate wishes and to be friendly without seeming to be intrusive. One clerk excites irritation while another's manner gives pleasure. The former may not be able to sell even though the customer wants to buy, while the latter may sell even though the customer is not at first interested or inclined to buy. The interest in salesmanship, seeks to arouse the right spirit and inculcate the right principles. Any one dealing with people could not fail to learn much of signal value and practical use.

SOCIAL NEWS. (Continued from page one.) Mrs. H. H. Hickman and Mrs. J. Coleman closed with an enjoyable party for last evening last Thursday evening. The music by Neva Franzen and Gordon Treacy, the singing by Mary Hinder and the piano selection by Frances Beckwith. The entertainment was given by the Young Men's Association. Prof. J. G. W. Lewis, Prof. A. F. Gulliver and Prof. L. A. Lacey, sang several pleasing selections. The social part of the evening in the center of hearts Miss Elizabeth Bettcher scored highest. She received a dainty valentine for a prize. By piecing together fragments of relative most cards the evening was divided into groups of four for refreshments, which were served on plates in two courses. The appropriate decorations added much to the attractiveness of the rooms. The evening afforded everyone an excellent time.

Mrs. Carhart Hostess. Mrs. C. E. Carhart entertained the ladies of the Acme club at a very interesting session Monday afternoon. Indian stories were given in response to roll call. Mrs. A. O. Bressler, in the absence of Mrs. W. R. Weber, took charge of the lesson hour, which was devoted to the early history of Nebraska. Mrs. Bressler described the first homestead, which was established about nine miles from the present site of Beatrice. The work of the first surveyor, Rev. McCoy, a Baptist missionary; and the second survey by Manners, necessary to locate the first line of settlement, were also reviewed. The Union Pacific built the first railroad in the state, a forty-mile line terminating at Kearney. This was in the early sixties. A few years later it was extended to Salt Lake City to connect with the road which was then being built from the Pacific coast eastward. At the conclusion of Mrs. Bressler's remarks, Mrs. Carhart resumed the title of Major Frank North and his dealings with the Pawnee scouts. As to the number of counties in the state, there was some difference of opinion, but a comparison of authorities showed ninety-three to be the correct number. The meeting closed with an open discussion of early day experiences in Nebraska.

COMPULSORY SERVICE. Lincoln Journal: Here in the calm middle west it is doubtful if many people would think of the project for universal military conscription as anything more than a wild militarist dream. As a matter of fact, the movement has tremendously strong support in the east and in some parts of the west, so strong that unless some early international peace should give pause to the war excitement the system is likely to be upon us by the end of another year. The Army is now planning for it day and night. All the elements that went into the campaign for a big navy are now in full hue and cry after an army as big as the male population of the country. In his Lincoln address against conscription John Haynes Holmes gave three main arguments for universal service. One is needed to unite the people. Another is an educational need. It is the only way, short of great expense, to secure an army of the size needed. Mr. Holmes observed that conscription has been tried in many countries. Why, then, should it unite the United States? He supposed it needs uniting. He

THE SIOUX CITY AUTO SHOW IS BIG SUCCESS

Sioux City Journal, February 18: The eighth annual automobile show of the Sioux City Automobile Trade Association, which was brought to a close last evening, established new records with regard to attendance and the number and quality of exhibits.

The show closed at 10:30 o'clock, with music by the band, which the dealers and their guests danced on the main floor of the auditorium, which had been cleared, while a crowd which filled the balconies looked on.

There were more than 9,000 paid admissions during the five days of the show, in addition to the 100 admissions more than 800 dealers who had been specially invited registered. More than 70 per cent of the dealers who had been invited registered the entire show.

More attendance has not been the only successful feature of the show. The number of cars sold was also a record. The number of cars sold was also a record. The number of cars sold was also a record.

Dealers began removing their exhibits last night, immediately after the show, and by tonight the Auditorium and the annex will be empty. The annex will not be removed until after the Commercial Club short course.

The show has boosted the business of the motor dealers in more than one way, both directly and indirectly, and the dealers who have participated in the exhibit are unanimous in the belief that it has been a real success.

As an advertisement, the show has had several valuable characteristics which could not be secured in other ways. In particular, it is believed to have pleased the public.

People who came to the show, it was pointed out, came with motor cars on their minds, and they did not have to be switched to the subject from any other train of thought.

One of the hardest things about selling automobiles, as well as selling anything else, is to get the prospective customer to think about automobiles, one agent explained. That obstacle is already overcome when people come to the show. They are thinking about cars when they arrive, and it is easy enough to keep their minds on the subject when they are surrounded by $200,000 worth of the commodity.

LAST WEEK'S WAR RECORD.

Sioux City Journal: Progress of the German submarine campaign and misunderstanding with Washington, due partly to lack of diplomatic relations served to stir considerably the feelings of resentment and hostility between the United States and Germany during the 1354 week of the war, without provoking armed conflict. Sinking of the liner Japanese Prince, with twenty-five Americans aboard; of the Afric, with a loss of seventeen lives, and of the schooner Lyman M. Law, which carried no combatants, were the most threatening events of the submarine year, but in each case Washington decided that the overt act which is to force President Wilson to take counsel with congress had not yet been committed.

Despite arrangements made by Great Britain to inspect the cargoes of neutral ships bound for neutral ports at Halifax instead of Kirkwall and expectation that a similar inspection station will be established in the United States, relief from the freight congestion at Atlantic ports seemed in sight, and it was generally accepted that this situation alone, which is attributable to the psychological blockade, will open up ports by German U-boats in British waters may bring about an early appeal to congress on the matter of the psychological blockade.

In this connection, a cable from the allies. If this commerce is appreciably helped by removal of the psychological blockade, it will be increasingly so, as the German U-boats, an increasingly serious form of railroad rolling stock and to eventual blocking of many American industries.

That this possibility is imminent and grave was indicated during the week by railroad embargo orders. That it may soon force the president's hand is likely. The situation has pointed out that congress may be expected to finish its session within three weeks of the commencement of the war.

A diplomatic break with Austria considered inevitable since the dismissal of Bernstorff, seemingly was foreshadowed by the ending of negotiations between Ambassador Perchard, at Vienna, and the Austro-Hungarian foreign office. American were reported to have been warned out of the deal machinery.

The information that Germany was avoiding war, provided those means did not include abandonment of the submarine "blockade" of England, was given the cold shoulder by President Wilson, who made it plain that he could be convinced of German sincerity in such a proposal only by a return to the peace given in the Sussex case. Germany thereupon declared that no peace had been conveyed at the instance of the imperial government, and that the communication along that line handed to Secretary Lansing by the German representative had been construed.

China, alone among neutrals, responded to the American invitation to joint action by notifying Germany that she will break diplomatic relations unless the submarine campaign is abandoned.

Attirm of American merchantmen, with a greater or less degree of assistance by the government, appeared as a probable early development. The problems of Washington were complicated by rebellion in Cuba and by bandit forays across the Mexican border into the United States, with incidental killing of three American cowboys. It was indicated that intervention will follow any decided success by the Cuban insurrection.

Authentic information as to the food shortage in Germany was given by the Associated Press correspondent from Berlin, who told of exacting requisitions, among the civil populace. Fats are almost unobtainable. Potatoes are not available in adequate quantities. Coffee and tea are only for the rich. Salt, sugar and vinegar are in the hoarding. The beer is of very poor quality. Removal of certain foods necessary to the ordinarily balanced ration has caused the people to suffer, even where sufficient food of a sort is to be had. Only the soldiers are well cared for. These conditions exist in Germany, which is being used by the German people for unrestricted use of the submarine, and indicate also a real reason for the German government's readiness to talk peace.

"The Eagle's Wings"

A Special Bluebird Uncaged In Wayne

"The Yankees are prepared neither for war or for peace," is common talk. What's your opinion? "EAGLE'S WINGS" will open your eyes.

A Plea For Industrial Preparedness, In Five Big Reels

FILMED IN WAYNE, FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 23---MATINEE and EVENING

"If It's a Bluebird, It's GOT to Be Good."

This scenario opens with a bitter fight in the senate over a proposed preparedness measure, and the plot thickens when the leader of the opposition discovers that his daughter is in love with an enthusiast of strong national defense. As the story proceeds both men become involved in a race which the Mexican "preests" make across the border into the United States. Of course the ultra-pacifist loses no time in writing to Washington for military protection, but he is told that there are no troops to send. How the nation is prepared for war in an amazingly short time, and how foreign intrigue is baffled and the honor of the stars and stripes is upheld, are features that are dramatically portrayed in the last scenes of the play.

"If It's a Bluebird, It's GOT to Be Good."

The New York Morning Telegraph has rightly called "The Eagle's Wings" a powerful production. It certainly is nothing less than that. This film was shown in Omaha last week to crowded houses for several days. Don't imagine it is a mere clever horseplay on the emotions. It is more, very much more than that. The reasoning is clear. "The appeal is genuine. Only within the last few months have Wayne screen 'fans' been privileged to see such features. Now at least four nights at the Crystal are feature nights, but remember that tomorrow night is an EXTRA SPECIAL FEATURE. State night pictures are not shown in Wayne every day. If you can't go at 7:30, be at the door about 9 o'clock for the second show.

A SPECIAL MATINEE

Mr. Nielson has arranged a special matinee for students at the high school and normal. If all possible, all children should be present. This play is in the afternoon. Shows under 15 will be admitted for 15 cents. If you want your boy and your girl to respect the flag and the eagle, our national emblems have them see "Eagle's Wings." Doors open at 4 o'clock.

A SIGN OF THE TIMES

This is a thundering, thrilling film of love and adventure written and staged by Rufus Steele. A state right picture which you cannot see at any theater for less than 20 cents. In this day of national crisis its message of patriotism strikes first with your inherent devotion to this government--of the people, for the people, by the people.

Is It To Be Now or Never?

Up to a certain point, a neglected tooth can be saved. Beyond that point it must be extracted. It is between is the time to say NOW or NEVER. No one would deliberately say never, but hundreds of people do "put off" going to the dentist until it is too late. The only safe rule is an inspection of your teeth every six months. It is the easy way, the economical way, the satisfactory way. Make it NOW.

DR. F. O. WHITE, Phone 307.

Pay the Price

The price should not always be considered as a matter of importance the great question is not: "Who will do it the cheapest," but "Who will do it best?" A fine suit, or a beautiful gown, may please the eye at first, but because of the cheap price, the hasty work in both the result is inevitable. Both the suit and the gown look badly after a very little use. How important that work on the teeth should be done with thoroughness and skill. You are gambling, with your health as the stake, if you get cheap work on your teeth. Economize elsewhere, but "Pay the price" for your dental work. Not necessarily the highest price, but a fair price, one that will guarantee you good work.

SENATE COMMITTEE HEARS SUFFRAGISTS

Lincoln, Feb. 15.—One of the most largely attended and most enthusiastic hearings of the winter was held this evening before the senate committee on privileges and elections when those representing both sides of the partial suffrage bill presented their arguments about three hours. A delegation of about seventy-five was here from Omaha.

Among the speakers for the bill was Prof. George Howard of the University of Nebraska. Rev. Mr. Wetherly of Lincoln, a Unitarian minister, who went to Europe with the Ford peace expedition. Miss Alice Howell, Miss Chick of the University of Nebraska, Mrs. Helen Rose, Mrs. Draper Smith and Mrs. J. M. Metcalf of Omaha and several other women from out in the state.

The argument of the anti bill was presented by Miss Minnie Bronson, graduate of the university of Iowa, who was introduced by Mrs. William Archibald Smith of Omaha. Miss Bronson's argument was so forcible that one time she was greeted with hisses from the suffragists on the other side. However, she kept her equilibrium and continued to drive home her arguments.

Law Observers Heeded.—Miss Bronson told the committee that it was not so much the making of laws that was wanted as it was the observance of those already made.

"We can make laws and provide for their enforcement," said she, "but the important thing is the observance of the law and that can best be taught from the mother's knee."

She denied that the vote of women had brought better conditions in suffrage states.

Rev. Mr. Wetherly sought to discredit her arguments calling attention to the fact that Miss Bronson had been paid to attend the hearing, while the speakers on the other side were volunteers.

School Bill Hearing

A hearing on the Howell Goodell bills to give the schools of Omaha representation by the vote of the representatives on the board at large, came up this afternoon before the educational committee of the senate and a spirited argument was had between advocates for and against the bill. Those who argued against the bill were L. H. Dunham, John Robbins, W. F. Baxter, Edgar Scott, Dr. Harold Gifford and A. R. Wells; while Harry Claiborne, Fred Hoye and Dr. Holovitchiner, appeared for it. All were from Omaha.

Banquet at Hotel

Two hundred and fifty women marched on mass from a downtown hotel to the state house and attended the afternoon session of the senate. There were representatives from all parts of the state. The banquet meeting at noon was said to be one of the liveliest suffrage meetings ever held in the state. Following an enthusiastic talk by the president officer, in which she advised women had been slow to do the dishes, the whiskey and the dust rag long enough, the entire body of women took up the slogan, "Do it now," and sallied forth to the state house.

REPAIR OF CAPITOL IS NOW CONSIDERED

Lincoln, Feb. 18.—Nebraska may have to get along several years longer with a patched up state house while the people who have to work for the state will continue to shiver and shake in the winter and dodge water leaking through the old roof in the summer while the state library will continue to stand as a risk that few insurance companies care to handle except at a rate that is practically prohibitive.

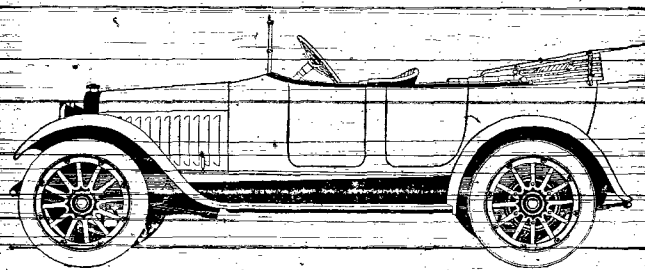

Some of the members would like to have the old east wing repaired. They say that $30,000 will repair it in good shape so that there is no danger of the thing falling down. They admit that this will not alleviate the deplorable condition which exists in other parts of the building nor will it place the state library, worth $500,000, under conditions which will lessen the chances of fire, but they are afraid to spend the money necessary to protect life and property, and so stick to the plan of a repaired wing in order to save some money.

Much Money Spent

More than $20,000 has been poured into repairs and improvements to the state house in the last few years. The building was discovered some years ago to be too small, to house the offices. A great deal of money was spent to put up offices in the basement and in the old baggage room, the normal board, the rooms now used by the board of control, the insurance department and some others. This was found insufficient and the fourth floor of the building was remodelled and fitted up in houses to help the situation. But the fourth floor rooms, under the tin roof, are hot for occupancy in the summer and too cold in the winter.

Members have been made to repair the roof so it would not leak, but the roof still continues to leak and property of the state is rapidly being ruined by the water, either from rains in the summer or from the melting snow at other times.

There is not a window on the north side of the entire building that doesn't let in the snow in drifts whenever there is a storm, even with storm windows on. Constant Expense. It costs the state over $3,000 a year to light the building because of the narrow dark corridors and the insufficiently lighted offices, many of which are compelled to keep the lights burning even on the brightest days. According to an estimate made by those who have investigated the matter, it would not cost the average man with property worth $10,000 more than the pay of a legislator to have the necessary amount of money needed to raise the amount necessary to erect a new state house. This would be about $1-50 a year.

Baptist Church.
(Rev. W. J. Gaston, Pastor).
If you want to hear the discussion in the hotel dining room Sunday morning and are not a regular attendant of some other church you are very cordially invited to worship with our church. All the Baptist people are expected to be present. All non-church users are urged to come. When you urge people to attend our church it is important to get members of other churches who should be in their own places of worship. We are praying that we are able to share the joy and the glory without a church home.

There will be good music both morning and evening. On Wednesday evening February 22 there will be a special service of prayer for which all members of the congregation are expected to be present. No one must fail. It is an important meeting. There will be several speakers and a program for getting under the church problems will be discussed. Refreshments will be served.

Next week we will publish a program for the entire month of March. The evening services during that month will be an innovation.

St. Paul's English Lutheran Church.
(Rev. J. H. Peterson, Pastor).
Divine worship, Sunday, morning at 11 o'clock. The new organ will be consecrated for sacred use at this service. The choir is arranging to give special and musical numbers and the pastor will preach a sermon appropriate to the occasion. The sermon subject will be "The Human Organ." The subject for the evening service will be "Eleg Brimings." The children of the Sunday school are entitled to special word of praise for their faithfulness in attendance during the cold stormy months. Most of those who are getting considerable distance have generally been in their places despite the weather. The children's picnic and cottage often exceed those of the grown-ups.

Luther League meeting Sunday night at 6:45. Of late the topics studied have been of a practical character and have made the meetings very helpful to all attending. We would like to have the lecture room filled again at the next session. The subject "Catholics and My Burden of Sin Was There." Alvin Husted is the leader.

Thursday, March 1, Mrs. Harry McMillan will entertain the Ladies Aid. The condition on the roads and the weather may help to determine whether she will entertain at her country home or at the home of one of the members in town. The place will be announced on Sunday.

Reformation Church.
(Rev. S. N. Cross, Pastor).
Henry Hausman, next Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

The Y. M. C. A. men gave a very helpful program at this church last Sunday. A splendid service was rendered by united Christian workers.

"The Saving Name" is the theme for the sermon at the hour of 10:30 next Sunday. There will be special music under the direction of Mrs. W. J. Johnson, chorister.

The Sunday school classes will occupy sections reserved for them at the 7:30 service next Sunday evening. Each church will carry a Ralph Hausman of Omaha, will give the address of the evening.

Gertrude McEachen, chairman of the Missionary committee, will lead the Y. W. C. A. meeting on Sunday evening. The topic will be "The Home Mission Boards of My Denomination What They Are and What They Do." All are invited.

Mrs. Horace Rhoads will have prepared an excellent program of song and instrumental music for the Sunday evening 7:30 program. This is a service that will not want to miss. This will be a Washington's birthday and Nebraska semi-centennial church combined.

The P. P. S. E. held an interesting business meeting on Monday of this week. Plans are being matured to send a large delegation to the district convention this year. Reports of committees and officers presented besides a hour of friends working condition, manfully and otherwise.

KEEP THE BRIGHT SIDE IN VIEW.

Lincoln Trade Review: There is psychology in business and conditions often turn on the state of mind that may sweep over the business world. When men look for the dark side of things, cultivate pessimism, enter into general distrust, we are very apt to have widespread conditions of that character come upon us. When the business world looks on the bright side of things, believes in itself, keeps hopeful even amid discouragements, keeps watchful to take advantage of every business situation, we are most apt to have such conditions grow and develop and become permanent.

At the present time we are on the threshold of a crisis in national affairs. The nation has been patient with war conditions. The people have held steadily to the viewpoint that if possible, international dangers shall be avoided, but if unavoidable, they shall be met with a spirit of unity and firmness. The people of this nation that will carry the country safely through, it was never more important in the business world than it is at present. The discouragements and doubts and fears be relegated to the rear and that a unanimous spirit of confidence and optimism for the future shall be the single standard in the business public.

For a year or so after the war began, the feeling that there would be radical and dangerous conditions to meet when the war closed, made much headway, but in the moral and settled conviction of the business world, coupled with a disposition to avoid fear and doubtings, the country has grown away from first thoughts of conditions and what they shall be when the war closes until now the feeling is universal that no matter what occurs, the stability of finance and business and right relations on the part of the business world will take care of this country through any period of readjustments without serious loss or any general revolution in the business world.

We are in a period of unexampled high prices, but we cannot lower them by surrendering the time that can be profitably used otherwise, to the pessimistic general denunciation of existing conditions. The same are upon the people of this country, and if they are met in the right spirit, we shall be in an infinitely better position to stand those of the present and meet situations in the future than we would be were we to lie down and surrender to doubts and misgivings over things as they exist. It is always the profitable course to look upon the bright side, to cultivate confidence and to work together in a belief that things have not gone to the dogs, rather than to take the opposite course in the world of business activity. Never view the horizon with a gloom that in this frame of mind and live up to it than it is in these days, these climatic days that may lead up to still greater significance. Optimism and confidence in the business world of today will be a tower of strength for this country and its people through the uncertainties of the present which may continue longer than expected before the world returns to normal.

THE COSTLY CONTAINER.

Omaha Daily Rec: Our housewives are perturbed over the increasing cost of filling the market basket, but the one factor that is being overlooked, or at least going without its due consideration, is the growing costliness of the container which we have been educated up to demanding for all our food products. With the price of paper, strawboard, sheet metal and tin, glass, rubber, cork, wax, and tinning, boosted by dealers from unexpected and uncontrollable sources, the carton, can, jar and box is no longer a negligible element. To be sure, people can still buy bulk goods, not come up in single packages, but he who wants to do it after enjoying so long the convenience and satisfaction of the package product? But if we insist on the costly container that has so revolutionized the food purveying business, the cost cannot be avoided when the bill comes to be paid.

FINING CO-OPERATION.

Nebraska Farmer: A bill sponsored by eight farmer members of the lower house of the legislature makes it unlawful for any livestock commission man or firm to charge more for selling a carload of livestock belonging to more than one person than is charged per head or by the car when the stock is owned by one person. It is the practice at Omaha to charge a higher maximum commission for selling a carload of stock belonging to more than one owner. This amounts to a fine upon joint shippers and to that form of cooperative shipping in which the animals of the different owners are marked and sold separately. The bill is aimed at an abuse which I believe should be abolished. It does not seem reasonable that the small additional accounting necessary for carloads of stock shipped by more than one owner justifies a possible increase in the maximum charge of $10 a car for hogs and $5 a car for cattle.

GETTING GOOD ROADS.

Fremont Tribune: Opposition to the road program for Nebraska contemplated by the federal aid, as distributed is said to be abating at Lincoln. The legislature must provide for a uniform system of road building and for the federal aid to fund to match the federal fund if the national program is to be accepted in this state. So opposition has been centered there. The first manifestation of disapproval came at apparent on account of the belief that macadam roads would have to be constructed everywhere that federal funds are to be distributed. This looks as if a project for the farms as in as yet settled a state as this to enter upon. But there has been definite notice to the effect that roads of such nature, construction, are of plain — and with this information a mollification of the hostility to the good roads movement that has been set under way. Roads surfaced with gravel or with a mixture of sand and clay are thought to be of sufficiently permanent quality to meet the requirements of the government. And where roads of more durable character are wanted they can be provided with a proportionate expenditure.

Nebraska must remember that it is getting to be one of the best of the benefits or not. It will not greatly enjoy this jug-handled method of dealing with the situation. This much may be assured in advance. We greatly need a systematic development of the highways that lead to our primary markets. This initial transportation cost is by far the heaviest item of our commerce. By all tests this state is near the bottom of the list of states in its manner of dealing with its roads. Being third from the bottom, the quality of its roads is not an enviable place. Using post roads, or the ones traversed in the delivery of mail for a nucleus is a pretty good place to be in the present emergency. It is excellent time. To procrastinate is to lose both time and federal money.

BASKETBALL GAMES

AT CARROLL FRIDAY

Three games of basketball were staged at Carroll Friday night. Wayne Wakefield and Wausa furnished matches for Carroll teams. The Wayne high school boys were defeated by the Carroll high school team score 4-12. The Carroll second team was defeated by the Wausa second team, 30 to 12, and the Carroll town team was defeated by the Wakefield team, 42 to 21. C. A. Crawford, member of the faculty of the Wayne school, made a very satisfactory score.

Wayne line-up: Carlin, P.; Rennek, F.; Grothe, C. and captain; Gorgie, G.; Randall, G.; Petteroli, substitute.

Carroll line-up: L. Kesterson, F.; McKenzie, E.; Kesterson, C. and captain; Allenworth, F.; Jones, G.

FOR HOW LONG?

Wayne raises a pertinent question: "For how long?" This is a question that has been asked in the first question that naturally arises is, "How long will he keep well?" Temporary relief is one thing but a lasting cure is altogether different. There is nothing temporary about the cure of Doan's Kidney Pills as the following evidence proves beyond a doubt.

Mrs. J. C. Hansen, Wayne, says: "It was not my back that troubled me so much as the irregular action of my kidneys. I also had such terrible headaches at times that I couldn't bear to look up. Doan's Kidney Pills cured me."

Mrs. Hansen gave the above statement in June, 1907, and on July 15, 1916, she added: "The cure Doan's Kidney Pills gave me has been lasting."

On account of potatoes being a normally high priced people are convinced that they are an important and indispensable article of diet. And this reasoning is supplemented by government advice which says: "General use of potatoes in the family diet is based on sound economic and dietetic reasons. From the point of view of dietetics, potatoes furnish starch in one readily digestible form, contain mineral substances of importance to the body, and tend to make tissues and fluids of the body alkaline, thus counteracting the tendency of meats, eggs, fish, and like foods to create acid conditions. Since the body does its best when its condition is either neutral or slightly alkaline, potatoes perform an important function in the body besides furnishing energy-producing material. Greater care should be exercised in peeling potatoes — not only because peeling too deeply is wasteful but because soluble mineral salts found in the potato are present in the material near the skin."

BURNED TO DEATH.

Three dead. Last Thursday afternoon the house occupied by the Frank Cox family on the John Cox farm about a mile north of Plainview caught fire and two little children of Mr. and Mrs. Cross were burned to death, while neighbors, not knowing that the children were in the house, busied themselves in carrying out the furniture.
Mrs. Cross and her 5-year-old son had been after the mail, leaving the 18-month-old girl and 3-year-old girl in the house alone. Mrs. Cross stopped at the John Cox home on her return from the mail box, never dreaming but that the little tots as home were safe. However, it is thought that the house caught fire from the chimney, and the roof dropped in on the children. Roy Johnson was the first one to reach the burning house and he entered the two north rooms at the risk of his life but was unable to get into the south room where the two little girls and their mother were. A man of limited means and this coupled with the death of his two children is a very sad blow indeed. He is in the employ of John Cox and lived in a separate house from the Cox family. The people of Wayne county deeply sympathize with Mr. and Mrs. Cross in their sad misfortune.

WARM ROW FEATURES LEGISLATIVE GRIND

Lincoln, Neb., Feb. 14.—As the outcome of the altercation which took place in the lobby of the Lincoln hotel Monday night between Neilson Douglas and Trumble of Sherman in which the latter slapped the Omaha man on the eye, Shannon of Douglas and Trumble staged another dramatic altercation on the floor of the house in which the former made charges reflecting upon Trumble as chairman of the corporations committee and the latter retorted by using the same unglorious words.
It developed in the colloquy between Shannon and Trumble that the bill H. R. 218 requiring disclosure of contracts for the sale of state cars, was voted upon by the committee last Thursday and instructions given the chairman to report it out for the general file with an amendment allowing the companies until January 1, 1918, to make the required change in their cars. Chairman Trumble, however, did not report the bill but he thought because the amendment had not been drafted.
—Bill Then Postponed.

In the committee session Monday

Mr. Daise moved to reconsider and a motion was then adopted to reconsider it for indefinite postponement, the vote being 6 to 3.
Mr. Shannon moved in the house that the bill be placed on the general file notwithstanding the request for reconsideration. He charged Trumble with bad faith and playing into the hands of the corporations in not reporting the bill after last week's voting. All sorts of charges were handed about including one that the bill was not introduced in good faith. The whole controversy was quelled when the house adopted a motion by Peterson to refer the bill back to the corporations committee. Chairman Trumble then announced a special meeting immediately after adjournment for the purpose of reconsidering it again.

To guard against such occurrences hereafter a motion was made by Mr. Richmond, and adopted by the house requiring the chairman to take a record of the roll call whenever a vote is had in a committee on the floor as a part of the record of the house.
The house in committee of the whole advanced to third reading the Stearns bill establishing a school of irrigation at Scottsbluff.
