CHARLES F. FARRAN.

Charles F. Farran, announcement of his death at Astoria, Ore., of a flu after a lingering illness, was made in last week's Herald. He was born in Red Oak, Ia., October 5, 1873. At the age of 12 years he moved to Winside, Neb., and remained in that city until the age of 18 when he moved to Evanston, Ill. In 1898 he was married to Anna G. Thomas. In 1910 the family moved to Florida where they lived six years, and where Mr. Farran was struck by a motor car. In 1915 he entered the Woodman sanitarium in Colorado, and later moved with his family to Astoria, Ore., hoping that the change would benefit his health. It is believed that he would have done so, had the dread disease failed. He is survived by his wife and three children, his brother, George Farran of Winside, and his mother of Leakey, Wis.

Accompanied by the family and George Farran, the body arrived in Winside Friday night and interment took place in the family lot at that place Saturday. A large number of friends attended the last rites and extended their sympathies to the surviving relatives. The deceased had many friends who sincerely regret his loss.

STEPHENS FAVORS A SWEEPING INQUIRY

Washington, Feb. 24.—While the senate civil bill was under consideration today in the house, the board of inquiry appropriated $100,000 for a sweeping investigation of the food situation came up at which time Representative Stephens of Nebraska made a strong plea in favor of its adoption.

Chairman Fitzgerald of the appropriations committee antagonized the amendment and put himself on record in favor of an embargo.

Mr. Stephens' proposition, the Fitzgerald position intimated that an embargo would afford but temporary relief and declared the present condition has been developing for several months.

The situation is concerned. Fitzgerald stated that manipulators had gained control over the food supply of the country and especially the meat supply, that an embargo which would generally lower the price of food supplies, but in the long run would result in an increased price because it would decrease production.

The price, he said, "stimulates production which in the lower prices. The meat situation is most depressing and is due to the treatment of 20,000,000 head of cattle. There are 20,000,000 head of cattle in the United States than there were in 1900, which proves conclusively that the market conditions are so unfavorable as to decrease production.

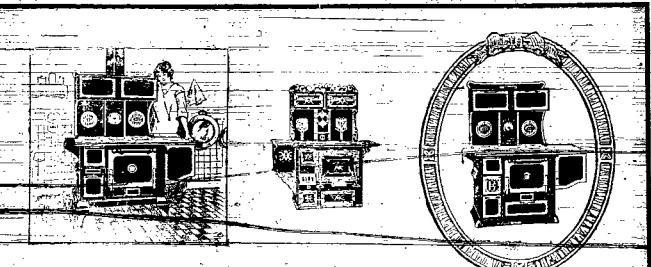

The four great packers who control all the fat steer markets of the country fix prices with the result that thousands of producers have been ruined and driven out of business.

Mr. Stephens concluded by saying that what was hoped to be done with the appropriation was to break up the monopoly of the packers and again establish competitive markets.

The amendment carried, 83 to 51.

JUST TO REMIND YOU:

You know that such a range as shown in the center is hard to clean; that it is ugly, unsightly. The ornaments are a sign of poor taste and bad judgment. When you go to buy a range you sometimes forget these things and let a low price blind you to such glaring faults. The Copper-Clads on the right and left are as elegant as your piano and some day you will thank us for telling the Copper-Clad story, because you can't be range happy until you have a Copper-Clad.

Notice how smooth and elegant this range is. It's like a picture.

Here is the hot punch feed that opens wide, even with the wash-boiler on the front-holes.

Here is the prettiest restorer ever put on a range. You can take it off and put it back in half a minute.

Notice that the ash pan sits clear inside the ash-pit and is shut-in with a tight double wall-floor.

Shows the "base" on which the cabinet-style sits. The nicked corners give an air of elegance.

If you want to sweep under the range, you will prefer this, the leg style.

WHY ARE COPPER-CLAD RANGES SO ELEGANT?

The answer is this patented Copper-Clad patented hinges. These hinges are all inside, out of sight, leaving the outside smooth and easily cleaned; that the Copper-Clad patented hinge is a howling success, is proven by the fact that nearly all automobile doors swing on concealed hinges, almost identical with the Copper-Clad patent.

The entire Copper-Clad surface is smooth, no catches, latches or half-heads; no lousy, freaky ornaments. The lines of the Copper-Clad delight the eye because of their simple elegance. You will never be range happy until you get one.

the right to vote upon all officers not named in the state constitution. That is all that can be done, of course, without a constitutional amendment. Since only the state officers and judges are mentioned in the constitution, this bill would give a rather large measure of suffrage to women, including a voice in the election of president. No legal question is involved for the right of the legislature to grant this degree of suffrage has been secured by the constitution. I am strongly in favor of complete suffrage for women, and therefore favor this halfway measure. Of course, I can see how some of the members of the legislature may hesitate to do in part by statute what the voters of the state so recently refused to give by constitutional amendment. Now that prohibition has carried, however, it is probable that woman suffrage also would carry if limited to the people.

CARELESSNESS.

I strike a match upon my boot, and light my three-for-five cigarette, then I light scotch through the door, and burn my finest buildings down, the morning papers say, "I took an orange as I talk, and drop the peel upon the floor, and then the next moment a flash-light from that orange of mine, and breaks a gallus and a squire, an ankle and a star. I scrubbed the cellar stairs with persimmon, and the next morning I went down to get some jelly, she stumbled over that pail and fell, and scolded her, queenly-brown, "I'm afraid you'll get a cold, and then she said, "Bring me a glass of water, and fill them with alum, and when I've made some dizzy head, I say, "Was, merely, a mistake, and my great-grandmother, being sorry doesn't care the girls, my victims must endure, and now and then they rise, brush my apologies aside, and make some puns, in my hide-and-black-my-story-eyes.

COVALESCENCE.

When one's been lying sick in bed, the highest seats, upon his head, and mullow, up to his feet, and every sense, oh, so sweet! The doctors, round my couch of straw, have piled the squiggle and the saw, for weary days, that endless come, I nod myself in knots and screamed, for every ache that has a name, like wassail in my stricken frame, and many aches not classified whizzed through my sinews, and I was, at last, I fell into a sleep, an old time slumber, rich and deep, and when I woke my form was free from every brand of agony. 'Tis at a crucial time like this, when full of convalescent bliss, a fellow feels how great is health—far greater than the whole world's wealth. And he can clearly realize how dippy, bitty and unwise, and unscientific, and unpractical, and another, peevishness. A million men you may observe, and straining every bone and nerve, year after year, to add one more gramatical dollar to their bank account, and they are, in fact, I have been, with poultices from feet to chin, and when he lies in solitude, and over their years of folly brood, they'll say, as I am saying yet, that health's the one and only bet.

TRIALS OF AN INVADID.

Have the arthritis in my knees, and remedy, and I have a very punk disease, I like to talk about it. Oh, I could tell you, and repeat, about acute lumbago, and how the doctor makes me eat such things as I do not like, and when I tell about the state of my old stomach's lining, it's wonderful how Fortate—my eloquence is shining. But when I try to tell of my aches, that I'm saying, my neighbors say, "The subject's stale, long since we found it objectionable, talk of balls and tennis, and the nations, strike together, it came a while the winter, and analyze the weather. The peach strike killed in Delaware; the late despatches tell you, and yet you sit and mander there of ailments that befall you. The women mills are shutting down because they can't get teases, and yet you roam around the town, and talk about the measles. The men's coats with ribbons, my healthy friends don't care a cent for all his sighs and wheezes.

THE WEATHER EXPERT.

The weather prophit, in his den, among the jaded souls of men. He hands down daily, his decrees, explaining why we roast or freeze. To-day we shiver, but our was, because somewhere there is a "low." Tomorrow we shall bake or fry, because somewhere there is a "high." I do not like the weather expert, he is unimproved, by business-grip, he sits in his moldy tower, like Marianna in her bower, and scans his dreary maps and charts, and pities his dark and mystic arts. He doesn't care if people freeze and have the measles in their knecs; he doesn't care if a whoop or wheet-how many kitchen pipes may burst. The weather is to him a game, and stollity he plays the same, and he does not care if he would help us cuss a streak, when cold winds blow, week after week.

The department of education, against high food prices was extended today. The mayor's food supply committee sent to homes throughout the city by means of public school children 1,000,000 circulars urging people to eat rice instead of potatoes, onions and cabbage. Though rice is available at a low price, it is said to affect relief until legislative action can be taken. On Wednesday it was announced, a public hearing will begin at Albany on the Wicks bill creating a state department of foods and markets.

The department of health, in a report to the mayor, declared that there was less dependency and real need in the city than there had been for many years past. At the same time, the department reported that families with incomes of $800 a year or less would suffer by their inability to buy sufficiently nourishing food at the prevailing prices. The report urged that the poor be educated to buy food more intelligently and said that well-to-do people might contribute toward this education "by altering habits of careless and extravagant eating in their homes."

A number of retail merchants today joined consumers in the boycott against potatoes, onions and chickens and agreed not to sell these articles. Auto Trucks Gather Food, Baltimore, Md., Feb. 26.—Twenty-four five-ton trucks of the street department were sent out in the country surrounding Baltimore today to gather in farm products in an attempt by the city to help smash the corners' foodstuffs. Spot cash is paid to the farmers out of the city's contingent fund. Four city employees were detailed to each truck, two to dickering with the farmers and two to run the trucks. Mayor Preston said that he expected to cut 25 per cent off the cost to the consumers.

Increased $1 a Mile. Gaston, Ore., Feb. 26.—Farmers in this district have discovered that potatoes increase in value at the rate of $1 a mile as they travel. The cost of a car of 855 sacks standing on the track here is worth $2,500. When it reaches New York its value rises to $8,000. Farmers last week received the highest prices for their potatoes here—32 1/2 a hundredweight. Eighteen cars are en route and loading and many growers are holding for higher prices.

May Force Foods on Market. San Francisco, Feb. 26.—The whole force of the city administration is being used to find out exactly what food stocks are being held here in cold storage. It is reported that they have been informed that local cold storage warehouses were packed with the very food products that are being sold at famine prices on the plea that the supply is short. The board of supervisors' department of health, under a night and messenger and the police department will start at once a combined survey, it was announced.

Washington, Feb. 26.—Appropriation of $6,000,000 for federal relief in the present food situation and future investigation to devise better marketing and distributing methods was proposed in a resolution introduced today by Senator Borah of Idaho. Action on the resolution was deferred.

Boycott Effects Poultry. New York, Feb. 24.—Poultry dealers are experiencing a demoralized market, it was disclosed today, because of a systematic boycotting by housewives in Jewish quarters. In cars filled on local tracks are 85,000 pounds of poultry while wholesale houses have more. Housewives not only refrain from buying but attack persons who purchase occasionally at small stores and throw the poultry into the gutters.

The home gardening directed by the school, is the most effective way of improving boys and girls into closer relationship with the affairs of life, is asserted by G. D. Jarvis in a bulletin on "Gardening in Elementary City Schools" issued by the bureau of education of the department of the interior. Mr. Jarvis declares: "In or about almost any place there may be found an abundance of land that may be used for practical gardening by school children. Within the limits of many cities there is sufficient land, if intensively cultivated, to supply the people with all the vegetables and flowers needed. This unused land should be brought under cultivation. In order that the best use may be made of this land for educational and productive purposes, it is suggested that trained and experienced teachers of gardening should be employed in every city. A representative of the project is invited to our citizens."

HOW A NATION MAY BE ARMED IN SHORT TIME

The Eagle's Wings, Bluebird of special merit shown at the Crystal in Wayne Friday night, is a gripping appeal for common sense preparedness, the more forcible and convincing because it does not stoop to cheap emotionalism. The clever way in which the fact is developed that behind every man at the front there must be at least five men at home in the workshops turning out the necessary food, clothing, ammunition and other supplies, is unusually effective. In fact, the unique presentation of the idea portrayed in the picture all through the scenario, evidence the thoroughness and nicety with which Bluebird features are produced. It was a special feature, indeed, and one for which the Wayne people should thank Mr. Nielsen, who is ever on the alert to offer patrons only the best to be secured in the motion picture world.

TRYING TO OBTAIN A STATE MEDICINE

Druggists Healing Practitioners, Oppose Legislation, Make Protest Against Pending Measure.

Lincoln, February 29.—Two factions of the medical doctors are quarreling over pending bills to reorganize the state board of health. The bill appropriates $25,000 to meet the expense of the board and most of the bill asserts that the opponents of the bill should doubt as to whether its provisions would, if enacted, have much effect in conserving the public health. One faction of doctors is opposed to some features of the bill because they were suggested or dictated by one or more officials of the U.S. federal public health service, who are not licensed in Nebraska. The bill in absolute control of all state and local boards of sanitation and public health. The advocates of the selective license are holding several conferences on the subject, with a view of inducing the legislature to grant them a fair representation on the state board. They contend that nearly 50 per cent of the people of Nebraska are afflicted with the ailments of druggists being as distinguished from medicine, and that the percentage is increasing. For this and other reasons they are protesting against the bill. They have laid the matter before Gov. Nease in the hope that his sympathies may be enlisted. These several schools of scientific healing have formed an alliance for the purpose of preventing any legislation. They advocate the policy of judicial freedom and at the conference here today they decided to send out requests to their friends all over the state to write to the legislators praying for fair treatment in the matter. One of the speakers stated that our state constitution forbids the establishment of a state religion, thus leaving down a principle which must protect the people against the establishment of a state medicine, which the medical doctors are trying to get established by the provisions of pending bills.

TOO MODERN.

Lincoln Journal.—The United States is suffering in the matter of transportation because of its modernity. Before the interior of this continent had been settled the railroads came in and proved so enterprising and efficient that little serious attempt was made to develop internal water transportation. The Erie canal was left open and enlarged as a means of keeping freight rates to the port of New York on a favorable basis, but few other canals were left in operation even after they had been constructed at great expense. The Mississippi river and its tributaries, finally went the way of the canals. With development of the railroads the steamboats of the country have been left in ruin and the landings were turned over for factory sites and railroad switch yards. The amount of water borne traffic in the interior of this country is but "one drop in the ocean."

Now we are paying a smashing price for allowing the railroads to monopolize the nation's carrying trade. Freight rates are high and railroads cannot carry bulky goods so advantageously as they can by water. Because of high freight rates a period of discrimination, the public was forced to regulate the railroads. In attempting to ward off this public control the managers talked about impending ruin so persistently that capital became frightened. A special session of the stockholders in the New Haven, the Rock Island and other one and well managed properties. For ten years the country has been growing, and the railroads have not had the courage or the ability to keep up with it. A sudden business boom comes and the transportation of the country is at sixes and sevens. The Black Diamond, the official organ of coal industry, said on Saturday last:

"The national coal market has been forced to give attention this week to an aggravated current situation and also to the future market. It is a question which gave 'cool men' the most serious concern."

Evidence that the railroads have broken down flatly has been accumulating for years and the transportation matter came to a crisis this week. For instance, the railroads have been so far from handling the nation's business that mass meetings were held in New York to discuss the coal situation. That is the last word on the subject of the lack of preparation of the railroads for any such a demand as has been made upon them.

"When the railroads could not handle the load needed by the metropolis, it is needless to say that the movement of coal, which is the second necessity, was mighty slow.

Indeed, the coal situation was so tight that prices in all the big eastern markets were back to where they were in the tightest time of the season. That is, at the middle of between $6 and $7 a ton were being quoted.

The report from Baltimore is the most enlightening. It says that the home demand was so acute and the shortage of cars so great that the operating companies had to abandon the export market altogether in an effort to take care of the home situation.

Almost identically the same conditions apply to the movement of coal to New York and Philadelphia. There the demand was intense but the transportation situation was not so tight because of a shortage of cars and second because of a congestion of the terminals. In all of those places, the prices of coal rose to the highest levels of the year. To a marked extent, the same is true of conditions in New England.

"In Pittsburgh the railroad failure was so complete that the sale of the coal was not even made. It stopped and attention was paid solely to the movement of coal on contract. At Cincinnati, the spot market was relieved only by the liberal movement of coal via the river. The city could not get coal by all rail route and at the same time the gas supply was short, although showing some improvement over that of recent date.

Every lumber trade journal is full of gossip of short supplies at consuming centers and threatened failures of mills on account of the car famine. The Iron Trade Review of last week said:

"The trend of the railroad freight congestion seems to have passed from Atlantic coast ports to the middle west, largely culminating through the exceeding from Buffalo to Pittsburgh. More blast furnaces have banked in the past week and additional rolling mills are reducing operating time. The car situation has pinched pig iron supplies and foundry and malleable consumers are having for prompt delivery largely in small lots. This has advanced prices an additional dollar a ton at Birmingham, Chicago, Pittsburgh, in Virginia and in the east."

"If we were in an old country we would have developed our rivers and canals in advance of the railroads, and have them for use in this emergency. Our next great movement for business preparedness ought to be in the direction of setting our rivers at work, helping in the distribution of all heavy commodities.

IMPORTANT TO KNOW.

Bixby. In recent issues of the Omaha Bee a controversy has been carried on—concluded—to take the minds of the people away from long-aided considerations. Elliott Loomis of Chicago has again affirmed his theory that the sun radiates to heat but is a huge dynamo continually projecting electrical energy seven ways for Sunday. When this blaze, as it were, of incandescent glory penetrates the atmosphere of our fair earth, it meets a resistance which raises the temperature from twenty below zero to seven above; going considerably higher than that in the summer time. In making answer to this argument, Prof. William Smith of Bellevue, an astronomer of no mean reputation, boldly declares that "the amount of light and heat received per area by any planet is proportional to the reciprocal of the product of the major and minor orbit of its axis." This seems to give Mr. Smith a rather long end of the argument, but Mr. Loomis comes right back at him with the powerful assurance that the major and minor orbit has varying lengths with the seasons—leaves the readers exactly where they were when the argument started. What gets our goat is the perfect freedom with which these men discuss interstellar spaces, although they had measured the distance between Jupiter and January and found it one-seventh of a mile—meter above 2,678,942,331 miles. It is a little of a joke if one were to start off on a moon-to-Mercury excursion and not be able to find his way home?

These idle disputes are a source of distraction and get the mind tangled and tied to death.

They get us all tangled and tied to death.

I follow their logic with small satisfaction.

I feel that our brains are wasting their breath.

They get us all tangled and tied to death.

And wonder the earth without tribute or toll.

Their measurements are of calm satisfaction.

Because it is cheaper than carbon or coal.

These men in rantankerous terms.

They argue the question until they are old.

I know that the sun is a gracious sun.

For the absence of heat we denominate cold.

I know stellar space is exceedingly spacious.

Upon that assertion we all can agree.

I know the sun warms up my vitals, I brag, and that information suffices for me.

IN PLACE of "SPUDS"

Potatoes are a real luxury these days. Lots of people can't afford to pay between $2.50 and $3.00 per bushel for potatoes, so they are substituting other foods. For instance women have found that rice and beans will go just as far. Why not buy rice at 7 cents a pound and slip one over on the R. C. of 12? Why not lay in a supply of pork and beans, two cans for 25 cents? Beans are rich in protein and are, therefore, more valuable than potatoes as food.

SALMON AND SARDINES

May be used in place of high priced meats. Try some of Balboa California Sardines in tomato sauce, two tins for a quarter. They have an exceptionally fine flavor.

From People You Know

Stockton, Ill., February 15, 1917.
The Wayne Herald, Wayne, Neb.
Dear Friends: Some time ago we received the letter kindly requesting a letter for publication. We thought at the time we would be of little or no use to you. The description for the Herald another year, but as our country and life here are so commonplace we hardly know what to write that would be of interest. We have enjoyed the letters from acquaintances, and think it a nice idea, an improvement to an already good paper.
We came to Illinois. We live three miles from Stockton on the "Graves Place." Oliver's grandfather came here from Ohio in 1835. Zachary Taylor was in the White House and took this land as a homestead, and although he has been dead a number of years it is in his name yet. Their nearest trading point is that of the Galena port came in for a share of the settlers' patronage. Our town of Stockton was started twenty-nine years ago by the Chicago and Great Western R. R. was built through to Omaha.
Stockton is quite a thriving little town, but does not give us the advantage of the White House.
The thriving churches, the college and excellent public library and up-to-date business firms, it is harder for poor people to school their children here than in Nebraska for the parents must furnish the books.
We do not believe in being "knockers," must "boost" for our town, and tell you of the abundance of saloons and the nicely paved streets. There is one and one-fourth miles of paving in Stockton. The first was of brick, one-half mile of this and the rest of the town is the rest is asphalt and macadam.
It is made of eight-inch crushed stone when rolled, including five inches of one-inch rock and three inches of three-eighths rock with one inch of screenings between rolling. They put on the first coat roll well, then add the second and roll. They are called with a one-half inch. The cost of construction to property owners is $1.20 per running foot. This makes a fine street and wears well. We have a wide-awake commercial club and they are now pushing the matter of oiling the country roads for five miles in all directions from Stockton. They expect to begin in the spring. The cost of this will be $80 per mile, oiled nine feet wide.
The cost is paid by property owners and business men of the town. Several of the towns have adopted this plan or one similar and think it a great improvement for town and country, making a fine road for automobiles.
This country through here is more level than at Wayne with groves of natural timber here and there, but as you go west toward Galena becomes rough and of poorer soil.
Our children attend country school in a little stone house built in 1850. It looks as though it should be quite an historic spot, and I've been hoping to learn that some of our famous men and women got their first start at the pine benches, but so far have been disappointed.
We have no country club in this neighborhood and I have been looking for one anywhere near here. So I miss the Pleasant Valley club, but I would anyway if belonged to one here. We do not have as much sunshine as in Nebraska, except during the winter season and when we have a snow storm here it is usually preceded by rain or sleet, so the air seems damp and heavy. We noticed it very much last winter, but are somewhat used to it now.

This section could not compare favorably with Wayne county in crops this past year, but old settlers say the past four years of poor crops were unusual. The farm we are living on is really a good farm and hay land and pastures were fair the past season. The markets are somewhat better here than at Wayne.
We are 130 miles from Chicago.
Most of the farmers here are in the dairy business, sell the milk to cheese factories, paying much better than elsewhere. We raise about thirty miles from the section of Wisconsin where a specialty is made of raising Holstein cattle and dairy cows. Monroe, Wis., has an authority better here than at Wayne.
Lecith did, and said they gave the wrong name. It should be called
"wrong name."
Although we do not regret our move here we most certainly miss our Wayne friends and Nebraska seems more like "home" to us than Illinois. I have been in Chicago several half past seven we receive the Herald, almost in time to read at breakfast. It is like a letter and keeps us in touch with your pleasures and your problems, so we are almost usual "these days" weekly in October. We didn't go just last, but Lecith did, and said they gave the
wrong name. It should be called
"wrong name."

THE EARLY DAYS IN TWO COUNTIES

From the Logan Valley Herald
February 29, 1887.
Enoch Hunter removed from town to his farm, three miles east
this week.
Dell Strickland has been summoned to his old home in Illinois by the dangerous illness of his father.
Strickland brothers have closed their business at Norfolk, and the store has been reshipped to 1916.
The proposition for bonding the district to raise funds to build a school house went through with unanimous vote.
Five families, numbering in all twenty-five people came in last night and put up at the hotel temporarily.
They will move on farms today.
Sixteen head of horses were quarantined in the Vienna Brothers barn Thursday evening, all brought in by coming residents of Wayne county.
At the school meeting on Wednesday evening the block in which Strickland's house is located, was selected for a school house site. Its cost is $1,625.
Commissioner A. T. Chapin returned from San Antonio, Tex., last week. He left Mrs. Chapin very much improved in health, and will return for her in April.
Peter Oman, B. Cunningham and J. B. Norris took the train on Tuesday evening for the Long Pine country, where they have been in search of government land.
James Barbour has rented a house of A. B. Slater until he can have his own built. He expects his own house, with other families from his own neighborhood, to arrive here
this week.
The Deer Creek Vigilant society organized last fall to secure cooperation among the farmers for the protection of live stock, held its annual meeting at the Frazier school house on Saturday last. The society numbers fifteen members now,
and is a commendable institution.

They broke into Stough & Co's store, and were to be seen to blow open the safe with all the coolness of veterans in the business. They moved the tables and chairs into the front part of the room, then tipped over the safe upon some blocks, and leveled it up carefully. They then drilled a hole into it, poured in powder, applied a match and blew it open. There are two compartments in the safe, the interior one of which was not affected by the explosion.
The outer door was blown off, and the robbers, no doubt, gathered around, expecting to make a big haul. They were out in ten minutes, but found only some $15 or $20 in silver, and about $10 worth of postage stamps. Having pocketed these, they next turned their attention to the door of the safe, and permanently and tried by blows with a sledge, to get in, but couldn't make it. Then they went to work to drill into the interior, but after going part of the way they concluded it was no use. Hence their game was blasted. From appearances they must have been working at the safe for several hours. The tools with which they were to work, such as crowbar, sledge, etc., they left on the floor, and had been stolen from Messrs. Harding & Miller, whose shop had been broken into before the bank was raised.
They also broke into the building adjacent to the bank, which a few weeks ago was occupied as the clerk's and treasurer's office, and which they had broken into. It was thought was thus occupied now.
Had the county safe been there, it would no doubt met with the same fate as the one in the bank.
Great all the way to gather the rascals made tracks from here early in the morning, not much richer than when they started in on their nefarious scheme.
They were seen streaking off by Jackson on the hardack, going east, just at daylight. There were three of them. Between Jackson and Dakota City they abandoned the car and dumped it off the tracks, and that is the last intelligence of them.
Probably they are the same plundering scoundrels who have been garnering stores and houses in Sioux City and its neighboring towns lately.

CONTEST TO CAPTURE
BIG DOUBLE WEDDING

Some of the preachers of Wayne, may be tempted to fix over their fences and regard their most important and important institution. Two couples came to Wayne from Wausa last Thursday to be married. In the absence of the urban judge, who had gone to Sioux City to attend the funeral of a friend, the two couples were married by the Rev. Forest Hughes, clerk of the district court, who issued the necessary licenses. Then it was necessary to proceed for the tying of the nuptial knots, and then the friends and promoters of the different preachers of the town got busy. Forest Hughes explained what an important and important institution the Methodist church had become since John Wesley started it and urged it as an insurance against abandonment and infidelity. The Rev. George A. Porter, who was present in the interest of the Presbyterian church, delivered one of his best speeches in behalf of the Presbyterian institution. "I am in favor of the church," he exclaimed, "and we will not only insure intermarriage happiness, but unbounded prosperity." Sheriff Porter had hardly finished his caution when John Smith, anxiously breaking with a plea for the water route, beheld in the Constable Soule, who, as officer, citizen and preacher, to address you by the title of Baptist preacher. Then Constable Soule gave a carefully detailed history of the foundation and growth of the Baptist church. Small Hanson, leader of the Lutheran church, and the English Lutheran church, and did not rest his efforts on speech-making. He persuaded the would-be benedictors to let him perform a wedding ceremony. The Lutheran preacher and assist in opening negotiations. Emil showed his thoroughness and efficiency and came out of the contest with victory. Perhaps the most interesting and experienced arrangements, and before the day was over a double wedding took place at the Lutheran parsonage.

STATE'S EXPENSES TO SHOW BIG INCREASE

Lincoln, Neb., Feb. 27.—Appropriation bills for a total of $43,256,620 have been introduced in the Nebraska legislature. The bills amount to $1,200,000 in excess of the sums appropriated two years ago. In a time when the high cost of living is felt by every household in the state, the largely increased expenditures, the state seems to be no exception to the general rule regarding heavily increased demands upon its pocketbook. The legislature of 1915 appropriated the gross sum of $9,800,000 for all state departments, institutions, boards, commissions, and organizations. While the list of appropriations bills introduced at this session has already been diminished by the indefinite postponement of some of them, an increase of at least $2,000,000, or 20 per cent over the appropriation of two years ago, appears inevitable. Running the state institutions under the board of control will cost $300,000 more during the next biennium than it did in the last. New buildings and improvements to be constructed will involve an outlay of $200,000 more than was spent for the same purpose in 1915. Thus making necessary an increase of half a million dollars for them alone. The Taylor rural school bill, carrying a $1,000,000 appropriation, will cost a million in the next two years. The proposed levy for a state capitol will mean another million in the same time. If federal aid in the construction of a new capitol building is secured from $300,000 to $1,000,000 will have to be provided by the state within the same period, according to the way the bill is finally worded. Other heavy appropriations to be considered, which are new this year, are $165,000 to buy the Fremont normal school, $135,000 for a state printing plant, $20,000 for an als medical college, $100,000 for a foot and mouth disease indemnity fund, $100,000 for draining Salt creek valley, and $80,000 for a state fair hog barn.

For enforcing the prohibitory law that the legislature will pass a special fund of $50,000 is to be placed at the governor's disposal. This is another item which has been provided by the previous legislature but had to make.

Possibly the "Greatest American of the deep sea" of the twentieth century, the most remarkable ever born in this hemisphere, is the dominating figure in this wonderful reconstruction of the life lived in the sanctuary of Assunon by the courtly colonial aristocracy who still remained after Paraguay had won its independence. As in that picture, with broad strokes of vivid color, the author recreates for us an age and civilization which have both vanished. He makes the past once more a living and breathing thing, and we are struck by the tones and notes of these people of Paraguay exactly as though they were fellow citizens and friends of our own associations, which lie hidden in the almost forgotten archives of Spanish-American history.

DR. RALPH HOUSEMAN
HERE IN CONFERENCE

Dr. Ralph H. Houseman of Omaha, secretary of religious education for the Presbyterian church in the vicinity of Nebraska, was in Wayne Sunday and Monday afternoon at the regular session Sunday, and spoke very favorably of the organization throughout the school. In the evening the classes came in groups and occupied seats reserved for them. In most cases each body had the seats roped off with the class colors. Many classes had pennants, and a number of them had made an artistic border of pink and white. Flags were effectively used on the rostrum and in the auditorium. In the address of the evening on "The Agency of the National Asser" Dr. Houseman pointed out that such a demonstration on the part of the young people was an innovation that promised much for the future. "A country, a state or a nation is great," declared the speaker, "not by reason of its census, its crops or its cities, but because of the men and women it produces. The greatness of a nation depends on the homes, the type of government and the kind of training given the youth. A nation cannot be greater than its youth." Dr. H. Houseman, of Columbia, Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, said that although the public school system of the United States gives the youth wonderful inheritance, it does not provide those spiritual legacies without which they cannot but fall far short of the demands made upon them as a nation. "This religious education the schools would give if they could but they cannot; the homes could give it if they would but they will not, and it is therefore left for the Sunday school, the only agency that makes a systematic effort to reach all ages with positive religious instruction."

Dr. Houseman was busy all day Monday holding conferences with teachers and workers and advising them as to the best methods to use in the various departments of the Bible school. He returned to Omaha Tuesday morning.

SOCIAL NEWS

Hendrickson and son Maxwell, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Auker, Miss Florence Baird, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Auker and sons, Edwin and Hagar.

The Days Gone By.

The atmosphere of the days gone by prevailed at the Baptist church last Sunday evening when more than a hundred young people gathered in suits and dresses that looked back to the times of George and Martha. Miss Virginia Joseph, George and Martha, sang several pieces. Miss Maud Assouy, who is a student at the Normal, also sang. Miss Casco was costumed as a young girl. Miss Veneta Copp and Miss Mabel Hanson gave patriotic readings, and Lyle Mabbott told a clever huncher story. During the social "mix" which followed the program, the guests enjoyed refreshments of hot chocolate and Washington tea cakes.

At The Newly Home.

Mrs. W. A. Neely entertained the ladies of the Rural Home society and their husbands at a Washington dinner at the home of Mrs. Neely last Sunday evening. The ladies in the national colors were everywhere. The guests found their places at two long tables, where a sumptuous cherry tree was used as a centerpiece for each table. Mrs. Neely was assisted by Mrs. C. E. Fariss and Miss T. C. C. in serving the excellent three-course dinner. The cake and ice cream were both dined in red, white and blue. During the after dinner hours Mrs. James Miller carried off the honors by hauling down the greatest number of flags in a conversation game. She received a silk flag for her excellent generalship. A large crowd of music and an old-fashioned quadrille closed the pleasant afternoon. The next regular meeting of the club will be with Mrs. Edward Perry in four weeks.

Musical Recital.

The twenty pupils of Mrs. Grace D. Keyser's class in music appeared in piano recital Saturday of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Blair. Every number in the program, which is given in full below, was well executed and showed that each student was studying for greater ends than mere reading of notes or keeping of time. The spirit of the descriptive selections was especially commendable. The program:

Johnson so favored the guests, the mothers of the pupils and several of Mrs. Keyser's musical friends, with the vocal selections, "Beaming Eyes" by Mabel Lewis, an encore of the song "Violets." The recital which was the second given by Mrs. Keyser's direction, was a decided success. Mrs. Keyser plans to have another one during the summer vacation period.

Men Entertained.

Monday evening at 6:30 o'clock a social gathering was given at the Bible class of the Presbyterian Sunday school, sat down to an elaborate banquet, served in their honor to the ladies class from whom they took in the six weeks' course which closed recently. The guests of honor found places at three long tables on which plant and candelabra with red papers were used effectively. Members of the ladies who did not assist with the serving, enjoyed the feast of chicken and other good things carefully prepared. The ladies were good users, indeed, for in addition to providing the banquet, they sang and cleared for the victorious men. Clever parodies adapted to popular tunes similar to the following were used:

Time: Ancherb Augustine.
Here's to the men's class.
The men's class, the men's class.
Oh, here's to the men's class,
Which is with us just now.
God bless them—they need it.
God bless them—they need it.
Oh, here's to the men's class.
The men's class, the men's class.
Here's before, before, before, before.
H. Jones called the meeting to order for the program. The Normal orchestra played "When the Lights are Low" by Englemann, and for a second selection, parts of the "Bohemian Girl" were used. Attorney A. R. Davis, leader of the men's class, spoke briefly on the plan of his group of workers. He pointed out that it was compelling while white to spend one hour of the week discussing religious and moral questions, since every man who is fit at all to himself realize that he is going to spend eternity somewhere. The span of life is all too short for anyone to make the necessary soul growth for the immortal life, seemed to be Mr. Davis' contention. Mrs. James Miller played two piano organ solos. Miss Maud Assouy, by Johnson and Gavotte from the opera, "The Bohemian Girl," by G. Puccini, was sung by Mrs. D. R. Houseman, who chose as his subject "The Atmosphere of Action." He urged a program of business, crystallizing itself in some definite form of expression. The Sunday school should create a deep passion for goodness, a holy ambition for service. Houseman stated that those in the Bible school should not be content with being good "sisters." Workers should strive to build the youth for the church as well as the church for the youth. At the close of the address Mrs. A. R. Davis and Mrs. T. T. Jones sang "The Sunshining of Your Smile" by William Bay and "Miss Beatrice Miller of Battle Creek" played several violin solos. The program was indeed, one of merit, and the committee, which arranged the pleasant evening, is deserving of much praise.

BIG HOLSTEIN SALE

At a sale held on Wednesday last week under the direction of the Nebraska Holsteiner Breeders' association, eighty head of cattle brought $23,970 over the block. The nine bulls sold in the ring struck the high average of $404, but the top price of the sale was captured by a 5-months-old calf, bought on a bid of an even $1000. V. L. Dayton, a local Holsteiner breeder, attended the sale.

Dental Disease in Nursing Women

Dr. Harold Waller gives a report in the November Medical Review of a successful outcome in a series of his cases in which recent lactation in nursing women was due to oral sepsis. As the cause of this disease is associated with the breast, feeds and vomiting are among the early symptoms. The child loses weight, and there is a persistent biliousness of the extremities quite foreign to one whose diet and digestion are in accord.

Where there is a gain in weight it is unsatisfactory. The appearance of the mother may suggest often that she looks well and frail; but not in all cases. It is common to be told that the woman is rheumatic and is subject to recurrent sore throat. Attacks of neuralgia, stiff neck, gumbolitis, indigestion, vomiting, loss of weight and strength are complained of. Inspection often shows caries of the teeth, swollen red swollen gums (gumbolitis) and loose teeth.

Waller found that the results obtained after proper or even inadequate attention had been bestowed upon the dental condition, of the mother were (1) the increased rate of gain in the child's weight and (2) the length of time over which nursing can be carried on. He also noted that the improved health in the mother, with increased flow of good milk; a cessation of dyspeptic symptoms in the child, with general systematic improvement.

The above being true does it pay to neglect the teeth?

PLAN A CELEBRATION OF SEMI-CENTENNIAL

Today marks the semi-centennial of the admission of Nebraska into the union and in honor of this event, the regular county meeting of teachers and patrons, scheduled for Saturday, will be programmed with stories and songs harking back to Nebraska's early statehood days. Every number has been planned to effect a patriotic program of unusual interest. The boys and girls of the rural schools will want to attend. Every teacher will want to attend. And furthermore, patrons will want to attend. The morning program for the most part will be given by students themselves. Stories of territorial days, descriptions of the great storms and an account of the grasshopper year will be featured of interest. The Wayne high school chorus, the Olympic quartet of Carroll and the Normal quartet will furnish appropriate music for the two sessions. Several old settlers will detail experiences of early days in this country. The main addresses of the afternoon session, which will open at 1:30 o'clock will be given by A. V. Teed of the State Normal faculty, an expert on rural school administration, and Addison E. Sheldon, writer and lecturer on Nebraska history, from the university of Nebraska.

With these attractions this meeting deserves a large patronage. People should be acquainted with the history of Nebraska. They should learn something of the early days of Wayne county. They should know when and under what conditions the town of Wayne was incorporated. Many of these facts will be brought to light in Saturday's meeting. It behooves all who can to join in this celebration, which marks the fiftieth birthday of the state.

CHURCH CALENDAR

Cemeter Lutheran Church
(Rev. R. Moehring, Pastor)
There will be no services at Wayne Sunday as the pastor will preach at Winside at 10:45 in the morning.

Methodist Church
(Rev. A. S. Buell, Pastor)
All of the regular church services will be held next Sunday. The pastor will preach a Lenten message. Come at 10:30 for the morning sermon and stay for the Sunday school.

All of the young people's societies will meet at 6:30; be sure to attend one of them and stay for the evening sermon.
Work is progressing nicely on the chancel both in the basement and in the decorating of the auditorium. Several mid-week meetings are being held at the parsonage this week.
The Woman's Home Missionary society meets with Miss Redmond Thursday.

Program Every Sunday Night
A very interesting series of Sunday night programs has been arranged for Sunday nights during the month of March. It is Mr. Gaston's idea to publish these programs in advance and make each one of them to combine the features of a regular service and a sacred concert. One of the features will be the introduction of a reader. Miss Mack and several of her pupils will be called upon and will fill places on the spring programs. On the evening of March 18 the ladies will furnish the music and in doing so will enter into a contest with the gentlemen who will furnish the music on the next evening, March 25.

The program for next Sunday night will be as follows:

Opening hymn by the chorus choir.
Invocation.
Ladies quartet.
Scripture.
Vocal solo by Miss Muriel Casady.

Reading, McKinley's drying prayer, Miss Mack's "The Other Wise Man." Mr. Gaston bases his discourse on Van Dyke's story of the same name.

Ladies' prayer.
Closing hymn by chorus choir.

Presbyterian Church
(Rev. S. X. Cross, Pastor)

The first Sunday evening at 7:30.

At the mid-week meeting next Wednesday evening, the subject will be "My Favorite Verse in the Bible."

The address on next Sunday evening, at the 7:30 hour, will be the first in a series of four on "The Big Things that People Think about Today."

The session of the church will be asked to sanction the adoption of the twenty-point standard for this Sunday school. The Graduate Roll is making an excellent beginning under the superintendency of Mrs. William H. Morris.

The evening choir, under the direction of Miss Florence Theobald, will present an extra fine music program for the 7:30 service next Sunday evening. In token of the appreciation in which the work of both choirs is held, the music committee has ordered two dozen new chairs for the use of the singers.

The subject of the sermon at the morning service next Sunday will be: "A New Beginning." There will be special music under the direction of Mrs. W. E. Johnson, chorister. All are cordially invited to attend this service. The boys and girls of the Sunday school are especially invited. Any visitors are always welcome.

If you will help by your presence to make the evening services of this church a still larger success, we may be able to give a greater two days meetings during the month of March which will largely determine our future policy as to social service. Help solve the problem.

St. Paul's English Lutheran Church
(Rev. J. H. Fetterolf, Pastor)

During the present month the morning sermons will be addressed especially to christian people calling upon them for sober meditation upon their past conduct with regard to spiritual things. Nothing is so conducive to a christian life as serious examination of self. To this end we have selected the seven last chapters of the book of Hebrews to be read at the church on the evening of March 1st. The subject is "The Church at Smyrna and its Lessons for Our Church."

Our evening sermons during the month of March will be addressed on the character based on Pilgrim's Progress. We believe that the experiences of Pilgrim repeat themselves in a large measure in the lives of seekers after truth, and that his pilgrimage from the City of Destruction to the Celestial City, in its events and stages, portrays the soul's exodus from the bondage of sin to the freedom of heaven.

By hearing this series, Come and bring your friends with you. The Woman's Missionary society will hold its next meeting at 7:30 p. m. at the church on Wednesday, March 1st. It is fortunate that up to this time the treasurer has not been able to secure the mission study books. But regrettable as this is, there is plenty of material available on the subject to be studied to have an instructive program.

The ladies of the Aid society have again divided into four circles for the purpose of conducting food sales the last Saturday of each month. Every number one held the first exchange last Saturday. While the proceeds of the sale are a strict secret to all except the members of the circle, it is apparent that the change netted such a pleasing total that the others will have to do some hustling to beat it.

Do not forget that our Sunday school meets regularly at 10 a. m. and the latter league at 6:45 p. m. These are not services for young people only. The older ones receive just as hearty a welcome.

Series of Social Events—A Real Surprise

On Saturday afternoon, about thirty friends, neighbors, descended upon the Theo Gustafson home as a complete surprise in the unexpected family. The afternoon hours were spent in a social way after which a tempting luncheon was served, provided by the thoughtfulness of the ladies. Mr. Hoogner in his own pleasing way with very touching words spoke of the greatness of this community, but again of another by the removal of this respected family from our midst and wished them success in their new home northeast of Wakefield. He also presented them a series of letters of friendship from the neighbors on Park Hill.

Another notably distinct triumph of the successful staff of the Wayne hospital, of which Dr. S. A. Lutgen is the surgeon, is found in the recovery of Dewey Keister who was suffering from very serious appendix trouble. When an institution or individual renders especially meritorious service, the fact deserves to be known and appreciated. In the case of a surgeon, supported by his perfectly equipped hospital, knits together broken threads of life and turns back fast approaching death, he deserves credit and applause. It is most creditably done in the case of Dewey Keister.

THE FIELD OF BUSINESS.
St. Louis City Journal. The business community spent the whole of last week wrestling with the complex problem of apportioning and distributing to the best advantage the country's supply of food and fuel. Federal, state and municipal authorities, commercial organizations and transportation officials bent their energies toward the relief of a situation which has grown more acute since the augmentation of terminal congestion in New York through suspensions of trans-Atlantic sailings, following announcement of the new German submarine blockade. At the close of the week the indication was that the emergency had been relieved somewhat, both as to scarcity of food supplies in the far east and as to fuel supplies in a number of western cities.

This stress of the situation was brought to the attention of the whole country by a series of food riots in New York city. The disturbances occurred in the poorer districts of the east side, where the foreign population has become greatly wrought up over steady increases in the prices of practically all commodities on the daily bill of fare. The penalties of course, were wholly unmeted, being aimed at the peddlers and small grocers who have been selling food at relatively small margins over cost to them.

The only tangible betterment in the situation made during the week was in the matter of distribution. Acting in cooperation with the interstate commerce commission, the American Railway Car Service Association apparently is doing its best to increase the transportation facilities of the country to supply its most pressing needs. As a result of this activity, fuel trains have been given precedence over passenger trains to localities where the coal supply was in danger of exhaustion, while all shipments of foodstuffs to the east have been expedited in every feasible way. Empty cars from congested yards in the east have been sent west in and there to be unloaded, with food stuffs destined for local consumption in western terminals. In a comparatively short time the new policy of the railroads in giving preference to shipments of urgently needed commodities is expected to mitigate the trouble caused by inefficient distribution.

A good deal of the distress in New York and other eastern industrial centers apparently is being met by the fact that the working people have not increased in proportion to the increase in their cost of living. This phase of the subject is in fact dealt with temporarily in New York by a relief commission, which will procure food supplies for sale at low prices to those who cannot afford to pay prevailing prices. There is talk of bringing in congress to apply some form of federal regulation under which supplies of food would be apportioned and prices fixed. This is the method employed in England, which is not generally being regarded as a drastic measure will prove necessary in this country at this time.

A number of causes are combined to bring about the conditions that are now causing so much concern. The underlying cause, of course, is the abnormal European demand for American foodstuffs. The export demand has extended not only to foodstuffs, but to most commodities in common use. The lack of vessels to carry exports and the lack of rail facilities to get them to the seaboard have caused transportation difficulties which have aggravated the trouble. Severe snow blockades have added their contribution. The German submarine blockade, while its effects have not been so extensive as imagined in some quarters, certainly has increased the seaboard terminal congestion, with a reflex influence extending into the middle west.

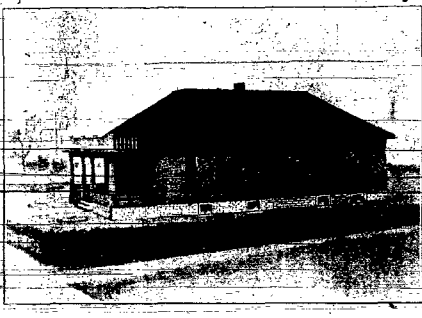

While agitation and investigation may help in removing unnecessary or artificial restrictions of trade, the emergency in the main is one which can be best met by making arrangements to increase the supply of foodstuffs or to readjust consumption to exclude commodities whose prices have gone beyond the level of rational economy.

NOT A GOOD COMPARISON.
Omaha Bee. Many have been told that the American republic is traveling the same road to the certain destruction that overtook the Roman republic. Certain features of national life seem to suggest parallels that invite comparison and the dolorous conclusion that unless we mend our ways we will forfeit our liberty and end our career as a nation. Romans under the despotic rule of imperial tyrants. This resemblance is on the surface only. If the discouraged brethren will dig a little deeper they will find that the ideal of the two republics is as may comfort and encourage them.

Perhaps the nearest approach between the history of Rome and that of the experience of the United States is the decay of the military spirit that came with prosperity. Romans fought not only to preserve their country, but to extend its dominion of luxurious ease, and a disinclination to serve as soldiers, until, at the end of the empire approached, under Constantine, we find the Roman citizen-soldier. "I did not raise my boy to be a soldier," while the populace, fed by the bounty of the emperor, applauded. In seeking to enjoy without wisely providing to SEVERAL DIFFERENT styles of bungalow aprons, made up of gingham and percales, in stripes, checks and plaids are now in for your selection. Many prefer the style of apron to a house dress because it is so much cooler.

WON'T YOU SAVE your self darning by having your children wear Cadet hosties? They not only have double knees but also the famous linen heels and toes. You will be surprised at the amount of wear these thirty and thirty-five cent hosties will give you.

THE NEW CHECK HOSE are also on the shelves now. They retail at 75 cents and are well finished and of a good firm weight. The delicate pinks and lavenders as well as the Stripes are going to be very popular this season.

SOME OF THE NEW swim goods are here and others are coming. The flaxons and voiles are coming to be leaders again this summer, but you will also see novelty goods that will make you eye attractive. The dainty trimmings bought to combine with these goods are on display in the window.

HAVE YOU A ROOM that needs some blue and gold drapes for color? Our piece, which is especially attractive, sells at 75 cents a yard. The cretonnes are cheaper ranging from 25 cents to 50 cents a yard, but they are equally as pretty enough for any room.

protect their prosperity, the Romans went down to ruin.

This is the chief lesson America has to learn from the history of Rome. Decadence incident to idleness produced its lawful effect. Our republic is founded on a conception of human rights unknown to Rome; its institutions and its permanence resting on the equality of its citizenship. Its life comprises barely an eighth of the span compassed by the Romans in their growth, grandeur and decline. In that time it has accomplished more of real good for humanity than Rome did in its thousand years, and its mission is scarcely more than entered upon. Proper devotion to that mission requires more than lip-service from all citizens.

A GRIM BUSINESS.
Lincoln joins the grim nature of the enterprise Great Britain entered upon with its declaration of war on August 4, 1914, is disclosed in the Carson appeal for half a million dollars that the navy and the address by Lloyd George before parliament calling upon the nation to make "fresh sacrifices in order to meet the menace of the submarine. It is clear that war cannot be carried on successfully on the present economic scale unless every citizen is ready to do his share toward the common fund. The citizens of Great Britain are therefore called upon to help mobilize every pound of energy to meet the submarine war and to provide tonnage for the foreign trade.

The future necessities of Great Britain must be met by using home instead of foreign goods, whenever possible, in order that ships may be released for carrying the war materials. Foreign luxuries are virtually prohibited. Even so necessary an article as paper is to be cut down in supply by two-thirds of a million tons a year. Books and magazines are to be curtailed. The timber and pit props must be cut from the ancestral forests of Britain, and no longer imported from America and Scandinavia. Resources will be limited to a few million barrels a year, and distilling in proportion. To stimulate the breaking up of pasture land and the planting of crops, the government fixes a rural wage for farm laborers and guarantees high prices for farm products for periods of from one to five years. All the time work must be rushed on their vessels to meet the emergency caused by the sinking of ships.

This address by the premier is the gravest utterance made by the British government since the beginning of the struggle. It reveals a determination to see the thing through at all costs. The gravity of the case may be slightly over-stated in order to bring the British people to support the extraordinary measures that now seem necessary to success. Taken in connection with the well known distress of the general public, it gives the picture of a lightning bolt of the menace of the brink of ruin toward which civilization seems to be moving with irresistible force.

BOX CAR SHORTAGE

Omaha Bee: Quite a brisk controversy has sprung up between President Griffin of the Chicago Board of Trade and Commissioner McChord of the Interstate Commerce Commission as to who is responsible for the shortage of cars and the former condition complained of in many interior points. Charges and counter-charges are hurled back and forth between these gentlemen, but little relief is afforded the communities affected. Two months ago when the food and fuel situation reached an acute stage provisions were made by the railroads that relief would be forthcoming, but practically the same condition prevails today. General distribution is still disrupted, that is, the cars may be shown to shipments destined for export. This, in turn, has been interrupted in its flow by developments in the war area, and the congested eastern terminals are once more jammed so that traffic is all but suspended. To a nonexpert mind, it appears that the present condition will be rectified if the railroads were to give a little more attention to local and not so entirely devote their efforts to facilitating through traffic. Serve America for a while and the future necessities of the war phase of the situation will quickly disappear.

FUNSTON IN KANSAS.

William Alton White in the Emporia Gazette: He died listening to music. The sweet and adventurous strains of "The Beautiful Blue Danube!"—the waltz to which every heart throbs gloriously, while youth still sings in the soul.—He held that forest of God's precious gifts the joy of seeing every dream he dreamed come true, and beautifully true. He went into youth with the gay serenity of childhood, looking with a glad glance at everything about him, testing of every form of nectar that the fates hold fine and worthy. He went into maturity with the zest of youth always in his blood. He served his country; he was loved of friends and beloved of those nearest to him. "Life never stated for him. It was a long and happy day of merry adventure. And his death was a joy, leading to the brim with its richness, he drank its best and never knew the dregs. "How beautiful it was," he cried as he heard the music: then the angelic voice beckoned him, and he went into death-life's grandest adventure of all—with youth still warm in him. He lived and he died the eternal boy. When years and their changes would have bound him, he ran to hide from them in immortality.

For a Bilious Attack.

When you have a severe headache accompanied by a coated tongue, loathing of food, constipation, and a bitter, vomiting of partly digested food and then bile, you may know that you have a bilious attack. While you may be quite sick there is much consolation in knowing that relief may be had by taking three of Chamberlain's Tablets. They are prompt and effectual. Obtainable everywhere.—Adv.

POTATO PULCRAT.

Hartington Herald: From now on we can not be expected to associate with common people having succeeded in acquiring the fabulous amount of fat white bushels of potatoes. This acquisition places us on a plane of aristocracy far above that of the vulgar crowd who now nothing more valuable than automobiles and diamonds, and naturally makes us exclusive. There are few, if any, in our class.

$100 Reward, $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one reward that anyone has a chance to win. It is the reward of $100 offered by the Chicago Board of Trade for the discovery of a cure for the disease known as "The Great Chicago Cough." This is a constitutional disease that requires a constitutional treatment. "Hall's Catarrh Cure" is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the germ of the disease, and giving the patient strength by its purifying and refreshing nature in doing its work. The proprietors will pay out of their own pockets any sum that falls to cure, and will refund the money if the patient dies of the disease. Send for a free trial bottle and full particulars to "Hall's Catarrh Cure Co., Toledo, O." Sold by all druggists. For the proprietor, J. C. Plummer, 219 E. 1st St., Chicago, Ill.

ATCHISON GLOBE SIGHTS.

"Will you mind a fool is the most amusing sight." It isn't necessary to go on the stage to experience stage fright. There are also quite a number of cowards who haven't been found out. If you always want to argue, you should be a lawyer, and get paid for it. The only way a candidate can enjoy a landslide is to come out on top of it. A boy's principal problem in "cold" weather is how to wash without getting wet. People might know more exact than they had rather be entertained than instructed. The most tragic sight is a "has been" Christmas tree in an ash barrel in the alley. Mortgageing the house to purchase a motor car isn't an indication of financial acumen. There are men who don't like music, but few of them have nerve enough to admit it. Careful observation leads to the belief that few men drive their fields away with battery. While salvation continues to be free no wall gets dangerous close to an evangelist's humble home. A Kuhlidge man is so anarchistic, he is always anxious to find what the nuts are so he can break them. "Al" Adkins says he has learned from experience that it isn't the girl who threatens to scream who screams. One who tried it once says the Bohemian life consists largely of an effort to make booze take the place of real food. A girl is apt to have more ardent admirers during the hammock season than at a time when Christmas presents are in order. What has become of the old-fashioned man who said of his neighbor's son: "There's hemp seed sown for that young rascal?" While a somewhat painful process, breaking in a new pipe will rarely cure the tobacco habit, man being a patient cuss and persevering. When a man, who is naturally disagreeable, makes up his mind to run for office, and gets out to mold his efforts to be sunny Jim make the people who know him want to laugh one minute and cry the next. His efforts to be agreeable are so sunny, and yet so painful.

"The Arab rides a dashing steed, the cowboy rides a bronc; the wild goose rides on wings of speed and loudly from his home the deep sea sailor rides a ship across the raging main, in cars the townman takes his trip in search of sport or gain. In many ways—some above and some below—other means will be found out, among the future years, then, aeroplanes and submarines may become carriers of the good news to him, and all shall soar above or dive below, nor shall we ever see a man who walks up the street, while those who walk may calmly go upon their comforted feet. Then, remember, that if you are sure that like it well, when we no longer fume and rage about the heinous smell; when man no longer has in dodge to save his sweet young life, and take the nature of his struggle, and take the stress from his strife—Rufe Hoskins.

OUR THRIFTLESS NATION.

Self-denial is a fundamental virtue, especially for all who have their own way to make in the world; happiness for the great majority of people depends on the "self-denial" of the thrifty. Thriftless nations are their gratification, because when unchecked, those desires are forever stretching out beyond present reach. It seems strange that, especially in our country, people shrink from

We Keep Your Car in the Best of Condition

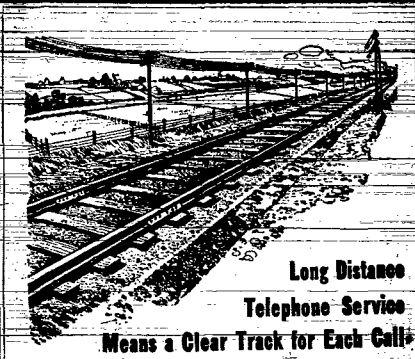

Your automobile needs treatment once in a while, just like the human body. The Carburetor may be out of order—the spark plugs may be dirty—the cylinders may be clogged up with carbon and working poorly. In fact, your car can get sick, just as you can.

If there is anything the matter with your car, call us up, and we'll give it a thorough examination—locating and repairing the trouble quickly and economically.

saying "I can't afford it," when economy means safety and contentment, whereas false pride brings disaster at all. Only nine leave as much as $5,000. The average estate left by the other twenty-five is less than $1,300. Ninety-seven out of every hundred lose their earning power at the age of sixty-five, and as most of them have saved nothing, they become dependent on relatives or on the public. It is estimated that there are one and one-fourth millions of such destitute persons in this country, most of whom might have escaped that sad fate, if Judge Harmon of Ohio in the Youth's Companion.

Long Distance Telephone Service Means a Clear Track for Each Call

For each long distance call, we must set aside an entire circuit made up of two wires.

Enough of these circuits must be built, operated and kept in repair to provide service at any point at any moment. For many hours each day the wires are idle, but they must always be ready for service should anyone want to use them.

Telephone calls cannot be hung on a hook to be distributed out through several hours, as operators may have time, or wires may be clear, to send them. Every call must be handled as quickly as possible, because there is a party ready to talk.

The large majority of long distance calls are handled in a few hours during the busy part of the day. The rest of the time an expensive equipment is practically idle.

Only One Conversation on a Circuit

If a railroad company were forced to keep a track clear from one end to the other for each train and haul but one car at a time on that train, freight rates would be extremely high.

Only one telephone message at a time can be carried on the telephone track of two wires. For every telephone call we must have a clear track from one end to the other.

Many long distance lines carry very few calls—not enough to pay the cost of keeping the wires in repair—yet to give a universal service these lines must be held ready for such calls as our patrons want to send.
