Randolph Times: While farm changes are considerable this spring nearly all the possibilities are being moving out of the state is less than for some years. The citizens of Nebraska are more and more coming to have a higher opinion of the state and the possibilities of increasing and retaining on farm lands.

It is true that rents are getting higher, but that condition is the result of the high prices of farm lands. Wisby, however, is contentedly W. M. Warner of the Lyons Mineral Co. is frightened for fear the general use of automobiles will result in reducing the human leg to insignificant proportions from a prominent one. "This," he says, "is the condition of the people of Mars," as that planet is many millions of years older than the earth and he thinks probably living millions of thousands of years. But how does this gifted editor know that Mars is inhabited or that the people, if such exist, have drumstick legs.

NOON DINNER AT THE GEM CAFE MONDAY

Citizen members of the Public Service club enjoyed an excellent dinner at the Gem Cafe Monday noon. The occasion was a public one.

In regard to the proposed opening of Winston street, much objection was urged, and it was open to the stock yards is Logan street, just east of Main street, and it was decided to have a meeting on Tuesday evening to fully consider the matter.

Staunch denunciation of the senate filibuster, defeating the president's program, was made, and a resolution was passed, and the dispatch of a message to Senator Norris criticising his part in such opposition at this critical time.

The party was a moving and free feeling one of good fellowship in merry-making. The ladies served an excellent lunch. Mr. and Mrs. Straight wish to thank their friends and neighbors for their help in moving and for numerous kindnesses they have shown them since living in the Wayne vicinity.

Mr. and Mrs. Straight have many warm friends in the neighborhood, and their new home is prosperous and contented in their new home.

TEACHERS RESIGN FROM WYNOT SCHOOL

Wayno Tribune: Following the termination of a petition among the patrons of the Wynot public schools, the superintendent, John E. Blievnick, and two grade teachers, Miss Hallie Lamberson and Miss Minnie Hanson, filed their resignations with the board of education last night.

The petition, which was signed by about fifty-five school patrons and taxpayers, was directed particularly against Superintendent Blievnick. The immediate cause of the filing of the petition was the fact that Mr. Blievnick punished one of the high school pupils in connection with a dispute over the raising of a flag over the building on Lincoln's street. These are the facts of this story—there always are, the instigators of the petition alleging one thing and the superintendent another. The Tribune will not attempt to give either version. Considerable feeling has been aroused and the more it is agitated the worse it will be for all parties.

Regarding the raising of the flag in the trouble, the school is very much disorganized, and the result will be a serious loss to every pupil in the school.

The board has taken no action regarding the petition or the resignation of the teachers. Mr. Blievnick and Miss Hanson and Lamberson left for Hartington today.

Mr. Blievnick and Miss Lamberson were students in the State Normal last year, and the latter's home is in Wayne. They got on this place last Friday. Mr. Blievnick informed the Herald that he had secured a position in the high school at Hartington, and that Miss Hanson had returned to her school at Winot. Mr. Blievnick explained that the trouble grew from punishment of a boy who called him a liar.

JOHN R. MANNING.

Funeral services for the late John R. Manning of Ashton, Ia., who died February 28, were held in William Beckenhauer's undertaking parlors in Wayne Sunday morning at 9 o'clock and were conducted by Rev. W. L. Gossard of the Baptist church.

The body, accompanied by relatives and friends, was taken to Carroll for interment. Services were conducted at Carroll by Rev. M. J. Diley.

Mr. Manning was born at Waukesha, Wis., November 10, 1845, and was therefore aged at the time of his death 70 years, 3 months and 18 days. At the age of 16 he removed with his mother to Orion, Ill., where the years of his young manhood were spent. At the age of 22 he united with the Baptist church, and continued a faithful member of that organization during the rest of his life. In 1882 he was married to Mary Teresa Hamer, and they have been born six children, five of whom survive as follows: P. R. Manning of St. Paul, Minn.; Miss Abigail Manning of Omaha, and R. H. Manning, G. R. Manning and S. R. Manning of Ashton, Idaho.

Mr. Manning came to Nebraska in 1882, and located at Carroll, where he engaged in farming. At Carroll he started neighborhood meetings and subsequently became a charter member of the Baptist church, organized largely through his influence at that place. Mr. Manning was served at one time as county commissioner. He also served this district in the state senate.

Quality Counts When You Buy Work Clothes and Work Shoes

Therefore quality counted with us when we selected our stock of clothes and shoes for men who work out of doors, in the shops, or at any trade. Our stocks are complete as to size ranges, and all men can be fitted here.

OSHKOSH Overalls and Work Shirts

Most men want their overalls and work shirts cut full and roomy—they want garments that will permit them to bend or turn with ease. That is a feature of Oshkosh overalls and Mogul shirts.

SOFT AND GOOD SHOES

- Close looking, easy wearing—will not hurt when they flex. You know how comfortable shoes should be.
- Built of sound, genuine leather—the strongest kind of leather. A layer of genuine, resilient cork between upper and lower soles and in vamp.

Easter Comes April 8th

This year, and it's up to you to combat the H. C. L. by having your old suit cleaned and pressed. Really, it is unnecessary to waste good money in buying a new suit just because your last season's outfit is somewhat soiled and stained. When the stains and oil are removed—and we put the finishing creases on the trousers legs, the suit will delight you with its fresh-clean appearance.

Our stock of spring dress goods is most complete. We have assembled a large stock with a wide range of patterns.

The prices of our spring line of dress fabrics are little for goods so scarce and hard to obtain.

Garments of Individuality

We were not easily pleased when we went into the market to buy coats and suits this spring. The garments we wanted had to have individuality as well as the kind of tailoring and style that counts.

Our store is becoming known as the place where a woman can be sure of getting becoming garments that are right in the style.

Daily these garments are disappearing from our stock to appear wherever well dressed women are seen. The hint is to buy while we have them.

TEACHERS PATRONS' MEETING A SUCCESS

BIG INTERESTED CROWD Celebration of Semi-Centennial of the Admission of Nebraska Into Union

The district court room in Wayne was filled to overflowing at the two meetings of the Wayne County Teachers' association last Saturday. Teachers and patrons were invited, and the occasion was made an appropriate celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the admission of Nebraska into the union. The court room was profusely decorated with flags and bunting.

The morning session began at 10 o'clock with invocation by Rev. W. L. Gaston.

The songs by thirty boys and girls from the Carroll high school came next and were thoroughly enjoyed.

A program of readings touching different phases of Nebraska history were read and proved interesting and instructive. The song "The Rural Schools" written by Mrs. C. A. Chase was given in pleasing style by pupils of rural schools.

This program was carried out in the morning:

- Invocation..... Rev. W. L. Gaston
- Music..... Carroll High School Chorus
- Reading—"Discovery of Nebraska"..... Alice Garwood, District No. 18
- Reading—"A Territorial Day"..... Esther Eddie, District No. 75
- Reading—"Career of Buffalo Bill"..... Keith Gemmel, District No. 62
- Reading—"Location of Capital of Nebraska"..... Roy Spahr, District No. 45
- Reading—"Removal of the Capital"..... William Fischer, District No. 40
- Song—"Dance"

By Pupils of Winside High School—Mildred Cullen, Ruby Reed; Abbie Nelson and Mattie Frank.

Reading—"Nebraska, the Home of Arbor Day"..... Frances Suther, District No. 29

Reading—"Great Storms"..... Kate Scott, District No. 64 (Miss Scott won first place in county Reading Contest held in 1913.)

Reading—"The Grasshoppers"..... Nellie Wingard, District No. 24

Reading—"Lost in the Sand Hills"..... August Sabin, District No. 65

Reading—"Nebraska's Flower"..... Bernuta Lindsay, District No. 26

Song—"Written by Mrs. C. A. Chase"..... Pupils of Rural Schools

Recitation—"Starving to Death on a Government Claim"..... Winfred Miller of the Hoskins High School

History of the "Shoies Consolidated"..... By Willbur Meink of the Shoies High School

Music..... Wayne High School Chorus

A musical treat not mentioned on the printed program was that of August Sabin, an 8-year-old boy from district No. 47, who entertained the crowd with selections on an accordion.

The Wayne Normal quartet opened the afternoon program. A history of school district No. 1 was given by Mrs. William Hugelman, and was very interesting. District No. 1 first included the entire county, and now it includes only six townships in the southeast corner of Logan precinct. The first district was organized in 1871, at which time Dr. R. B. Crawford was county superintendent.

Judge James Raitton gave some reminiscences in his unusually pleasing manner.

Mrs. Charles Beech who taught at one time in district No. 1, was present and told the story of the first murder in Wayne county.

Prof. A. V. Teed of the State Normal gave an address on "Development of the Rural Schools of the State." He said in part:

"The pioneer schools were usually housed in a home or a log or sod school house. The school had little equipment and the teacher was often weak in scholarship and method. To balance the account, the teacher was more mature and the school was the center of the social activities of the community. Here were held the church and Sunday school services; the spelling contest, the debating society, the political meetings, the singing school and numerous other gatherings for which the people assembled from far and near."

"With the development and organization of the state, these schools have increased until there are but few places in the state where good schools are not within the reach of all children. While our schools are good, they have not kept pace with our development along industrial lines, for Nebraska ranks near the top in automobiles and the farm products of all kinds and the only survey ever attempted for the entire forty-eight states ranks us twenty-fifth in schools. The states were ranked upon ten features giving Nebraska as follows: Children in school, 20; value of school plant, 21; expense per child, 27; school days per child, 12; school year, 14; attendance, 27; expenditure in proportion to wealth, 31; (Arkansas ranked 30 and Missouri 32.) daily cost, 21; high schools, 16; salaries, 14."

"The rural schools have not kept pace with the city schools; due to lack of clearly defined standards for the measurement of progress and so lack of interest in district affairs. Recent years have seen a great awakening upon the part of the county people and the school authorities. Great mass meetings have been held in all parts of the state for consideration of the problem, and while there are the usual differences of opinion practically all who have studied the problem agree the movement for better rural schools must be along these lines:

"Secure better supervision by taking state and county superintendents out of politics and requiring definite preparation for this work. Rural teachers should have special training for rural service and should be given a longer tenure with better pay. The one-teacher school should be standardized, to secure better physical conditions. The thirty thousand boys and girls of Nebraska who have completed the eighth grade and are not in high school should be given high school privileges near home through the establishment of rural high schools and consolidated schools. Where conditions will permit, two or more districts should be consolidated to give a division of labor for the teachers, longer recitation periods for the pupils and high school privileges for all. This school should be located upon a tract of five to ten acres, which will provide for a lawn, playground, teacher's garden, and the teacher's cottage which solves the boarding problem and will attract better teachers. Such a school should be built with special reference to its use as a community house."

An illustrated lecture treating of Nebraska history was given by Addison E. Sheldon, lecturer on Nebraska history, state university. Mr. Sheldon traced the early history of the state and showed pictures of distinguished pioneers and historic spots. He was listened to closely, and gave much valuable information.

All who attended the sessions were well repaid and congratulated. Miss Sewell, county superintendent, under the complete success of the undertaking.

WILL LOOK FOR CAVE.

Hartington News: A systematic effort will be made to locate the mysterious cave on the farm of John Koutlesky, the eccentric farmer who passed away last December at the home of Ignatz Lammers, near St. Helena.

No trace of the will, or legal papers of the dead man have been found. During his lifetime Koutlesky told his friend Lammers, that all he had was "safely locked up in the safe in his cave." Although a brief search of the farm has been made, no trace of the cave has yet been found.

Mrs. Josephine Wilson of Tango, Mont., mother of John Koutlesky, has been visiting local friends for several days. Mrs. Wilson is positive that her son was possessed of more property than has yet been located. She is convinced that he maintained a secret hiding place in which he kept his papers and other valuables. The mysterious safe was listed for taxation on Koutlesky's personal as-essment for a number of years back and Mrs. Wilson is of the opinion that he would not have listed it for taxation if he did not possess it.

Mrs. Wilson expects to return to her home in Montana about the middle of March. Before returning she expects to make a thorough search of her son's farm in an effort to locate the secret hiding place, which has added such a mysterious atmosphere to the passing of the young farmer. Mrs. Wilson relates that in a dream which came to her while in her Montana home months ago some time before the death of her son she appeared to be paying a visit to the old home place and located the trap-door to a secret cavern by a large knot in a plank in the side wall of a room. Mrs. Wilson will make an effort to locate a similar place when she visits the farm in the near future.

It is difficult for a boy to love his mother while she is washing his neck and ears.

WORK SHOES

Yes sir, we have them. We carry four different brands that we think cannot be beaten for good, hard wear.

- KIRKENDALL
- FARM LIFE
- EASY WALKER
- DAIRYMAN

If anything, we are more enthusiastic about the "Dairyman" than any of the other shoes. We were told just the other day that a pair of "Dairyman" shoes lasted one man a year. Of course we cannot guarantee them, but with reasonable care they will no doubt give you that much wear.

ONLY SLIGHT ADVANCE Because we bought most of our shoes early last summer the prices are practically last year's prices. If you need work shoes for spring, let us fit you out.

To Serve You Better

We have moved into larger quarters, just one door west of our old stand. This room gives many more conveniences, which you will appreciate the next time you visit the shop. Larger store rooms will enable us to keep a larger variety of meats on hand all the time. No housewife likes to serve the same kind of meat three or four times a week, and we are going to help you solve this question.

Our Automatic Slicer is increasing our sales of ham, and dried beef and such meats daily. Smooth, uniform slices of just the right thickness make cold meats of any kind more palatable. Include some cold boiled ham with your Saturday order for Sunday's lunch.

Deep consciousness of being non-productive, a mere parasite and useless parasite, rendering to society no service worth while, is a tragic and pitiable state of mind.

The prospect of a new modern hotel in Wayne is very encouraging. With stock in the proposed institution guaranteed to pay six per cent, there should be no difficulty in securing ample local capital to meet requirements.

The state department of justice at Des Moines, is reported to have ruled that newspaper printing in America flag is the breach of their editorial columns or elsewhere are violating the federal law. To defile the American flag at the head of an editorial column is distinctly an evidence of loyalty and patriotic devotion, and if the law makes it unlawful to do so, the law is clearly wrong and ought to be changed.

A storm of objection has been raised over the proposed opening of Logan street between the railroad tracks to the stockyards. It is complained that Window street is too far east and would be inconvenient and impractical. It is claimed that the opening of Logan street is the only course that will be satisfactory to farmers, and as the purpose is to accommodate shippers, it is deemed highly important to heed their recommendations.

The organized filibuster by a few United States senators to defeat the president's program for more active international commitments, is a wholly unwarranted and indefensible. The use of the filibuster in the senate to baffle a mere party measure is usually accepted good naturedly. A filibuster tried out to rout the purpose of the president and congress to safeguard American interests in a time of peril is tragic and inexcusable. Unfortunately, a filibuster against Nebraska was one of the few filibusters. An explanation to his constituents would seem due from him.

The state senate discussed a resolution to censure Senator Norris for the part he took in the filibuster which defeated the president's plan to arm merchant ships, but no action was put off. During consideration of the resolution, one amendment was offered to weaken the force of the criticism. It was intended to blame the majority for not having changed the rules and thus prevented domination by the minority.

The latter snobbish stroke of the senator, Senator George W. Atwater, is so childish it would be ruled out in a tenth grade debating society. The question is whether the president was right or wrong in asking for the privilege of arming merchant ships. If he were right, a large majority believed, the filibuster was wrong, and it would seem the acme of weakness to attack a resolution to say something about a method of procedure rather than to the men who organized and engineered it.

Notwithstanding that people are getting ready for the installation of March and get ready for plowing and seeding and other things incident to spring, the month invariably proves disappointing. The weather feels like it is during winter wingers painfully in the lap of spring. We approach March wistfully and with outstretched hands carelessly, but it never fails to disappoint. It is not a mere disappointment; defeating fond wishes and blighting ardent hope. After five months of snoring winter, we rather look for a bright, sunny day with a warm sunshine, firm fields and aroused nature to renew plant life. But March balks. It can deal out as much snow and cold as any winter month it feels like it, and it usually does just as well off as it does the top record in production of high-voltage wind. We get ready for spring, March 1, but it doesn't happen until the 15th. The state of Nevada, March was in just to fill up.

The Herald will give away with one new subscription one complete clock. It has a good, intelligent design. It has sufficient entrails to justify the claim of competence. It hasn't even had its appendix removed, though the Herald suspects it had it in operation of this kind. It is gentle and companionable, and won't talk back when spoken to in unchristianlike manner. It will be quick-on its back while all the other clocks are in its labyrinth of insides, and though it will lie like a pirate about the time of day when it happens to be running, it does so without seeming to want to offend. The clock has been out of the habit of running lately, but when it does run, it goes about the work in a cheerful, even happy manner. If the clock's works are taken out occasionally and bathed in the right kind of oil, we are confident they will be encouraged to push the hands at the right speed. There is only one to give away, and the first new one will get it if he wants it.

STURR HIGHWAY BILL TO A THIRD READING

Lincoln, Neb., March 7.—By a vote of 42 yeas and 19 nays, to three readings the Sturr road bill which provides that two or more counties may combine and employ a highway superintendent and appoint local road overseers. The salary of the superintendent is placed at $3,000 in Douglas and Lancaster counties and $2,500 in other counties. When two or more counties combine, the salary shall be based upon the population of the combined counties. Another bill sent to third reading was the Omaha school tax bill which raises the limit of the tax to 45 mills.

The Thomas bill to exclude newspaper advertisements from the expense accounts of candidates for office met its death yesterday. The committee having it in charge amended it so that it would not know itself. Thomas then presented an amendment which put the bill back in its original form and the house adopted that. The house played with the bill in this form for a time and then killed it with both hands.

A majority of the Douglas delegation won out when the Omaha charter bill came up for consideration before the house in committee of the whole yesterday. The members of Omaha did not want the bill to pass while Mr. Richmond and Mr. Shannon said they did. The house decided that they did. The bill providing public coinitor stations, a new police station, park extensions, etc.

It will not be necessary to reach consensus in the senate after the close of next May according to the ideas of the house which sent to the morgue the Mills bill providing that children of the public school should be permitted to devote one day as temperance day.

Mr. Nielson secured favorable action on his bill allowing a debtor to begin suit against his creditors and it is reluctantly and regretfully abandoned. Both of these two men are white-haired and both carried a cane, though it was only a brief time ago when they were among the most active and foremost of Fremont's citizens. Time has called and left his card in the wrinkles of the eyes and his mark in the nose and just as he always will do to the end. But the youth of yesterday may be the youth of today except for the physical infirmities it is the only will, mind and age can not defeat the marchless will and the spirit that, obedient to it, persists in retaining the glories of youth.

The bill dealing with state school lands were advanced to third reading and the committee for the exchange of school acreage allotted in federal forest reserves for an equal area of land just as good located so near where else there is no limit of acreage on the amount of land that can be leased to any one person.

SENATE DELAYS ACTION

Lincoln, Neb., March 7.—The attempt of Senator Moriarity to censure Senator Norris for his action in opposing President Wilson's armed neutrality bill failed yesterday. Amendments by Senator Beal and McMullen, bringing up a discussion which finally ended in a motion to indefinitely postpone the resolution by a vote of 12 yeas and 20 nays. One of two democrats, Mattes and Snow, voting with the republicans to indefinitely postpone, with McMullen absent. When the vote was taken, the majority of the republican Senator Beal of Custer offered a sub-motion "disapproving the conduct of the small group" of filibusters. This took the sting out of the motion to indefinitely postpone. Then along came Senator Adam McMullen of Gage with a second substitute regretting the filibuster but placing the bill on the calendar. The senate rejected the senate rules to prevent a minority getting the upper hand. Senator Mattes of Otoe moved that the resolution and memorials to congress be postponed until the original motion with the amendments be tabled. A roll call was demanded and the vote stood 12 to 20 against tabling. The senate then adopted Moriarity's motion to postpone the resolution until Wednesday morning so that every senator could have a chance to scrutinize the various proposed resolutions.

to flow on, of course, else we wouldn't get anywhere and there would be no future, nothing but the eternal present; the unborn would never be and thus their right to life and happiness would be denied. Nevertheless, it always awakens emotions of regret when one sees himself and his friends accumulating the indisputable evidence of senility. There is something so intoxicating about youth, there is such a glow of promise, the skies so bright with hope, that this golden age of man is prized beyond measure and it is reluctantly and regretfully abandoned. Both of these two men are white-haired and both carried a cane, though it was only a brief time ago when they were among the most active and foremost of Fremont's citizens. HEAVY SNOW FALLS

Snow began falling Tuesday night, and a stiff norwesterly wind tossed it into drifts. All rights yesterday were delayed and the storm had the proportions of a blizzard were touched in western Nebraska.

Omaha Bee.—A March blizzard prevailed all over northwestern, western and part of central Nebraska last night, according to the reports received at railroad headquarters. On the Alliance division of the Burlington road, the snow was reported to have reached a depth of nearly three feet. West of Haigler, Neb., to Akron, Colo., a blinding storm was in progress; the made it the part of prairie and the were delayed and the storm had abated. The temperature was not low and there was little drifting. The storm which began at Alliance early Tuesday and continued all day reached Revere, Sargent, Burwell and Kearney, to the east by nightfall, and was traveling south and east, with a high wind prevailing.

Snow fell most of the day on lines of the Burlington in eastern Colorado. Reports from the Northwestern railroad, which is a branch line, indicated a severe blizzard westward from Long Pine. Sheep and cattle in the open it was reported were suffering and some loss was feared in the westward growing sections of central Nebraska, where the drought had been prolonged the snow was welcome.

M. B. NIELSON SECURES AIRCRAFT PICTURES

M. B. Nielson received this morning a letter from the manager of the Aircraft studio at Chicago, city, stating that he had booked the three big productions of 1917, 'Less than the Dust', 'The Pride of the Clan' and 'The Four Little Girls' in all of which Mary Pickford had starred since her affiliation with Artcraft. It is unusual for a town the size of Wayne to contract such pictures, but it is only another evidence that Mr. Nielson has implicit confidence that the people of the community will support and appreciate a high class theater.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Caroline Clasenman, aged 72 year, 11 months and 28 days, died at her home in Wayne, Tuesday evening, March 6, 1917, at 8 o'clock after months of intense suffering. The funeral services will be held at St. Mary's Catholic church in Wayne tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock and interment will be made in the local cemetery.

Caroline Clasenman, nee Helmuth, was born in Prussia, Germany, March 2, 1845, where she made her home until she came to this country and located in Lyons, Ia. In 1868, she was united in marriage to Gerhard Henry Clasenman, who died in 1905. She has six children, three girls and three boys, all but one of whom are living. After living in Lyons for three years, the family moved to Mrs. Grigger, Ia., where Mr. Clasenman was employed in the sawmills. At the end of seven years they moved on a farm near Wakefield where they lived until twelve years ago, moving at that time to Wayne. Mr. Clasenman died June 9, 1905. The surviving children are: Mrs. Mary Johnson, Avoca, Mo.; Mrs. Anna Soll, Scribner, Neb.; Henry Clasenman, Wakefield; Mrs. Julius Chason, Carroll; Lee Clasenman, Wakefield; Joe Clasenman, Wakefield; John Clasenman, Yakima, Wash.; and George Clasenman, Wakefield. Frank Clasenman died seventeen years ago in Lyons. The children are all in Wayne to attend the funeral except John Clasenman of Yakima. To his family, with many dear friends who extend to the sorrowing family their deepest sympathy.

WAYNE OPERAHOUSE TO BE REOPENED WITH MOVIES

Pictures to be Shown for Month, Beginning March 15, and Vandeville Later if Public Will Support It.

Official announcement that the Wayne opera house will reopen March 15, as the Orpheum-Rex Theater with a program consisting exclusively of high-class photoplay films for one month to start with, was given out by G. R. Hallock, manager of the new 'movie' house. In order to set at rest doubts concerning the future policy of the Orpheum-Rex Theater, Hallock, who represents the Interstate Theater Exchange of Duluth, Minnesota, emphatically asserts that nothing but high-class motion pictures will be shown at the former opera house. 'The Orpheum-Rex theater will be conducted in accordance with the policies which permeate the showing of the best film, the field provides,' says Hallock. 'First-class vaudeville performances will be given later. The Orpheum-Rex theater is to be devoted exclusively for one month to high-class motion picture productions. Within a few days a formal statement of policy, prices and plans will be announced,' says Hallock. M81ad

GARD OF THANKS

The members of the Manning family wish to thank the many friends, who extended sympathy and assistance during the sorrow in the loss of their father, the late John R. Manning. Attorney C. H. Hendrickson was in Emerson yesterday on business.

Ahern's Now Is the Time to Sew. And save yourself just that much work in the hot weather this summer. You can get your materials and trimmings now better than later on because you can now have first choice of all the new materials which have just arrived. The new styles for summer wear are all decided and the patterns are here to guide you in your sewing. Choose your materials now and get the spring sewing out of your way this month.

The Spring Goods Are Here

All the materials and trimmings for your summer dresses are now in. We can't describe all the varied styles and cloths here but we have arranged them all on tables in the center aisle at the store where you can see for yourself just what is to be worn this spring and summer. Come now and see them and choose your materials while our stock is at its very best.

New Curtain Materials. There are styles in curtain materials nowadays just as in dress goods and we have the correct ones to show you. Swiss net, Swisses and cretonnes are here in designs suitable for the different rooms in your home and we can help you plan pretty and effective ways to make and hang them.

New Home Sewing Machine. We have only two of these splendid machines which we can sell at the old price of $35.00. They cost more now so if you are planning on a new machine get one of these before the price advances. There is no machine made at any price that will do better work or wear longer than a New Home. They are very simple to operate and every part is guaranteed.

Ever See a Baffle Plate?
 Notice the arrow head in the upper center of the "Baffle Plate"—a partition in the bottom of a Copper-Clad that makes the heat go to the front of the oven before it can pass out. It baffles the quick exit of the heat and prevents "cold corners" in the oven.
 This is a small feature, yet this perfect distribution of the heat is what makes the Copper-Clad oven like a fireless cooker—oven heated and all burners closed.
 You will be "Range Happy" ever after.

CARHART HARDWARE

VICTIMS OF PROSPERITY.

Omaha World-Herald: Food riots in New York city. Within sight of the boards of directors are housed within sight of Broadway's glaring lights, its cafes and pleasure palaces and the wealth of millionaires who street and a stock exchange where more numerous and more princely fortunes have been won, by gambling within a few months, than were ever garnered together by honest labor in ten times as many years.
 And they are not poor riots due to hard times and lack of employment. They come in a time of unprecedented prosperity when there are more jobs than there are men and women to fill them. They come in a time when the United States is already the wealthiest of nations, producing richer returns from its energy and enterprise and labor than ever before in its history.

And the rioting is done by the poor mothers of starving children. "Starving children" when the fathers and mothers, and in many instances the children themselves, are not doing it.

These mothers take the combined family earnings to the market to buy food. And the combined earnings are not sufficient to pay the prices that are demanded, when at the same time rent must be paid, and fuel and clothing purchased. The mothers, in their rage, attack the tradesmen and spill their stocks into the gutters and fight with tooth and nail against the policemen who charge down upon them in the name of law and order.

And in this same city where American mothers are becoming as dignified to fight for their children, there are warehouses and freight cars and dock yards packed and cramped, with food—millions upon millions of dollars' worth of food. It is waiting for the submarine scarce to be done so it may be shipped to Europe and the life, at enormous prices, to nations that are so lousy in the hellish work of murder and destruction that they have no time to produce food for themselves.

Why should women and children be obliged to fight the animals for food in the richest city of the richest country in the world? Why should women and children be obliged to fight the animals for food in the richest city of the richest country in the world? Why should women and children be obliged to fight the animals for food in the richest city of the richest country in the world?

THE BASIS OF SUCCESS.

Omaha Examiner: The American people are suffering from a lack of success. He dreams dreams in which he is a great success. He imagines himself a popular millionaire or a naval hero, or else a powerful statesman or a commanding capitalist. He reads impossible tales of boys who accomplish things that few men can do. But meanwhile he is taking no steps leading to any exceptional career.

THE FIELD OF BUSINESS.

St. Louis Journal: The opening of the first spring month found industry and trade proceeding at full tilt despite a collection of handicaps, any one of which would be considered serious in ordinary times. The international situation is sorely troubled, with war seeming to be hanging just around the corner. Transportation is congested and embargoes are in force on many railway systems. Prices are unprecedentedly high, with no insurance against further material advances. Labor is scarce and in keen demand. Back of all is the uncertainty as to the effect upon conditions if the war should come to an end in the autumn, with no certain American participation in it. Regardless of all these obstacles, the industrial output as a whole is restricted only by capacity of plants and inability to secure labor. Some of our present current trade managers to set new high records, notwithstanding difficulties of distribution and steadily increasing prices.

It is holding its own in a way that suggests the underlying strength of the industrial and financial situation upon which dividends are based. All authorities agree that trade is starting out better this year than it did last year. A $5,000,000,000 bank clearings total for last week suggests that there is no exaggeration in these estimates. Some substantial reductions in food prices were seen last week largely as a consequence of recent measures designed to give preference to shipments for the relief communities where the food scarcity was really serious. The car congestion has been materially relieved in a general way by new economies in the handling of cars. The prospect is that the worst of this phase of the situation is over.

TRAINING BOYS.

Lansing Mich. correspondence of the New York World: "The most magnificent school in the United States does not compare in opportunities for character building with the old-fashioned New England home of fifty years ago with its strict training that laid the foundation for a splendid manhood."

This spoke Gov. Ferris of Michigan on the eve of his retirement from office and sufficient time to have been learned obedience, self-reliance, self-control, and a sense of duty. I learned self-reliance in that old New England home. I did not know any more than I do now, and I hated lines. We need to be better trained men. Mr. and Mrs. Earle Potter were entertained at 6 o'clock dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Piel on Sunday evening.

Last week the southwest quarter section 4, Township 25, Range 1, was deeded by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Maas to their son, Henry Maas. The consideration was $10,000.

On March 1 August W. Schultz and wife deeded their farm, the northeast quarter section 30, township 25, range 2, to William Lang, the consideration being $18,000.

Among the many friends of Rev. Mr. Burkhardt, late of Pierce, will be glad to learn that he is pleasantly located at Berksford, S. D., having accepted a call to the Congregational church at that place.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Maas and family moved into their new home in Norfolk last Wednesday. Mr. Maas lived on his homestead farm for thirty-five years. The place will now be tenanted by August Brandenberry, who arrived with his household goods last Thursday.

Last Saturday in Wayne Rev. Mr. Charles G. Hoskins officiated at the German Lutheran church, which joined Mr. August Krueger and Miss Anna Denzke in marriage. The young people will make their home on a farm five miles east of Wayne. Mr. Krueger is to be congratulated for his wife is a very lady of great charm. Best wishes for a happy married life are extended by friends to the young couple.

SOME INTERESTING HISTORY OF SCHOOLS

The following paper reviewing the early history of Wayne county schools was read before the teachers meeting in Wayne last Saturday by Mrs. William Hingeman, and proved very interesting.

History of School District No. 1.

School District No. 1, for some years known as "Black Oak," has an account of frequent wranglings and alterations among the school officers, employers, teachers and pupils included at first, while all Wayne county districts divide the county so that district No. 1, comprised the precincts of Hancock, Beuna, Plum Creek, Leslie and the south half of Logan, while districts No. 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36, 37, 38, 39, 40, 41, 42, 43, 44, 45, 46, 47, 48, 49, 50, 51, 52, 53, 54, 55, 56, 57, 58, 59, or by leaving a written notice at their place of residence, and to make a return of such notice to the chairman of the meeting. R. B. Crawford, county superintendent, public instruction.

The Crisis Times, a newspaper, was also postmaster and a resident of Wakefield for many years. His wife and one daughter are still residents of Wakefield.

In 1871, the county superintendent of public instruction of Wayne county, Neb., received from you there was a school meeting held at the residence of Cyrus Hunter, in school district No. 1, on Saturday, February 11, 1871, at which the following officers were chosen to preside: A. Fletcher, moderator; Enoch Hunter, secretary; Isaac Miner and C. E. Hunter, tellers. Returns notice made by George Hunter, secretary.

Many here will remember Enoch Hunter, long a resident of Wayne county and county judge of Wayne county.

The first school-house in Wayne county was built near where the town of Hastings now is in 1850. It was a frame building, fifteen feet wide by twenty feet long, with a single room for both school and teacher. It was built by John Boeckenhauer and sixteen hundred dollars.

The second school house, which was in district No. 1, was built in 1851. It was a frame building, twenty feet wide by thirty feet long, with a single room for both school and teacher. It was built by John Boeckenhauer and sixteen hundred dollars.

Mr. Boeckenhauer, who built the first school house, had a son named George, who was a teacher in the school. Mr. Boeckenhauer, who built the first school house, had a son named George, who was a teacher in the school.

October 27, 1873, a school district No. 1, established by Miss Mary Keel. The school was very small, numbering only six pupils present, but the teacher secured earnest in her work and the interest of her pupils. This was a three months' term during the summer and fall of 1872.

Andrew Bennis, county superintendent, advised that this day Miss Dora Crain of South Creek, Neb., presented herself as a candidate for teacher of common schools and a clerk of a meeting was granted a third grade certificate and authorized to teach in district No. 1 of Wayne county.

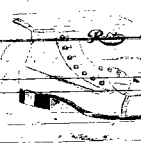

D. C. Patterson, county superintendent, January 21, 1878.

Visited school No. 1, taught by James Elliott. He seemed to be doing all in his power to advance his pupils.

Visited school No. 1, taught by Miss Julia Fair. Had quite a large school and all seemed to be doing nicely.

Last Week We Told You of Color Combinations

This was so well received that we feel sure you will be glad to have the following suggestions:

- Brunettes should wear red, yellow, olive, orange and russet.
- Blondes should wear blue, green, mauve and purple.
- Women with brown hair look best in green or dark blue.

Never select a hat merely because it is new or because you fancy it. Select it in relation to your face and clothes.

Price tailored furs are almost irresistible, at very reasonable prices.

We will soon be ready to show you the more elaborate hats.

MANUSCRIPT WILL BE USED IN UNIVERSITY

A request has been sent from Columbia university, New York city, to F. D. Stone, editor of the Hastings Herald for a copy of the paper on "Newspaper English" read by Mr. Stone before the meeting of the Northeast Nebraska Editorial association in Hastings in January, and reproduced in the Wayne Herald the following week. Those who read the article will realize its value to any student of journalism.

HOW ABOUT YOUR WALLS

Do They Satisfy You Just As They Are?

Look around the house a bit. Don't you realize that a few dollars spent on wall paper will make your a brighter home during the spring and summer months? We have an excellent showing of papers for parlors, living rooms, dining rooms and kitchens. It will surprise you to find how reasonable the prices are, compared with the strong advance on modern lines. Come in the morning and select your patterns at leisure.

Be Tailor-Made This Spring

All men are different, yet the ready-made clothes manufacturer acts on the presumption that all men of the same chest measure, vary little otherwise.

But just think of the difference in shoulders, arms, waist, neck, height, and individuality. All these are considered, and when your clothes are made to order.

A visit to our shop puts you under no obligation to buy. When you see the values we can offer you, and the nifty suits for Spring, and the suits for Fall, you will find them higher than you are now paying for the ready-made kind—well, we'll leave the rest to your judgment.

THE phenomenal success of the Wayne hospital during the few months since its establishment is but another link in the chain of evidence proving the necessity of a fully equipped hospital in the small town so that the sick and injured may receive the needed attention at the critical time. It is an admitted fact that dozens of cases are lost just because the operations had to be delayed several hours.

THE strictest attention is paid to sanitation all through the hospital. Inspection of all rooms is invited at any time. Call on your relatives at the hospital and see for yourself the care they receive.

Disease Caused by Bad Teeth

How people realize the troubles caused by neglected teeth, many times the trouble is so serious that it is nearly always causing pain and suffering. Neuritis, neuralgia, toothache, and many times is not recognized as coming from the teeth. Riggs' disease, or pyorrhea causing diseased jaws, loosening and loss of the teeth is the direct result of neglect of the teeth. Sciatica and other forms of rheumatism, neuralgia, and even general paralysis have been traced to neglected teeth. Temporary and partial blindness, deafness, and blood poisoning are not uncommon as caused by diseased teeth. Why will people neglect to have their teeth cared for and run the risk of getting these diseases? The dentist's bill would be a small sum compared with the doctor's bill for the greater troubles.

The New DeLaval's A Wonder

For It Is A Bigger and Better Separator than the Old Model for the Same Money

The Greatest Improvement in Separator Construction in the Last Thirty Years

If you are trying to get along without a cream separator or with a half-worn-out or unreliable machine, why not get a New DeLaval NOW and stop your cream waste? You don't need to count the cost because the DeLaval will soon pay for itself. The farmer who gets a DeLaval now, will get a better machine, a simpler machine than any previous DeLaval. Furthermore, the capacity is larger although the price has not been raised a cent. Only the tremendous volume of DeLaval sales makes it possible to give the farmer more for his money when others are giving less.

Every New DeLaval is equipped with a Bell Speed-Indicator, which warns you if the speed is too fast or too slow. This is a simple, but necessary attachment.

Some of the Points of Superiority of the NEW DELAVALS—Models No. 12 and No. 15

The New DeLaval bowl design gives a greater capacity and makes possible closer skimming.

The much lower speed of the DeLaval insures minimum wear on gears and much longer life to the machine.

The concave, self-centering bowl, supported on a detached spindle, runs true and does perfect work after long wear.

There are fewer discs; they are unnumbered, interchangeable. The bowl is, therefore, much more easily washed.

All parts are automatically bathed in a film of oil.

The tinware is sturdy; well suited for long hard wear.

UNCLE WALT

The Poet Philosopher

LIGHTNING CHANGES

The morn was fair; the balmy air suggested May or June; I took my way down town that day, to buy myself a gun. My wife was all aghast, she fanned her sudden shills and tricks, and said, "You're out of your mind, John!" I didn't mind her, I said, "The skies are blue, the waters through the spruce have come to stay; the jowls were wide and thin, just as they were when I was a boy." In spring attire I took my lute and paced the village street and chirped and smiled like any ward child, and danced on buoyant feet. Then from the north a blast came forth that smote me thigh and hip, and struck that man my frame's torn by fourteen winds of spring.

DISLIKE

I never liked J. Jimson Jones. He never fitted his curves; his voice had harsh and grating tones that seemed to jar my nerves. I didn't like the way he walked—he had many graces; I didn't like the way he talked, the way he wore his face. His joints were loose, and swayed his back, his teeth adjusted wrong; his feet were large and wouldn't track, his whiskers were too long; I used to wish he'd move away, to some far foreign shore, so when I journeyed day by day, I'd see him never more. Then I felt sick and went to bed, and called in Dr. Guy. He felt my pulse and soaked my head, and said I'd likely die. For weeks I suffered there, with rheumatic pain, and made such noise in my bed, as to send the neighbors out. And Jimson Jones came there each day, to see what he could do; he led the cows he shredded hay, and milked the critters—soon, I think, he understood me as a man, my pain he'd try to ease; for hours he'd feel my fevered brow, and help me ease my disease. Again I'm sure, he had the means to cure me, but he wouldn't. I'm sure, he had the means to cure me, but he wouldn't. I'm sure, he had the means to cure me, but he wouldn't.

PEACE AND WAR

Peace is the noblest, greatest, peace, peace that's firm and stable, with shock absorbers on my jaws, I boast it all I'm able. Year after year, without success, this theme I have been yapping; but there's a time to talk of peace, a time to talk of war. When some great disaster threatened some with some great dirt, I don't admire the peace crafter, bore whose tongue goes ever faster. I don't admire the bloodless wight who thinks the land's a goner, if we could all get up and fight them wallow in dishonor. I didn't raise my maiden aut to be a noisy bragger, but when the battle charger pant, she'll step out doors and hold her head high, I didn't raise my wight to fool with swords and lances, but she, I know, will pass up peace whenever a foe advances. I am too old and fat to fight, out where the weapons rattle, but warlike odes I'll gladly write, to cheer you in the battle. Go forth, brave hearts, bold, unafraid, if there should be a riot; I'll bring you pails, of lemonade when ever things are quiet.

OPEN CONFESSION

I think Bill Shakespeare did a dandy job, his hooks untouched, stand on the shelf; and I could take my pen, I trust, and write much better junk myself. Long o'er his pages I perspired, and sickened 'neath the trivious strain; his noisy bombast makes me tired, his style obscure gives me a pain. But when I'm in the social swim, I do not dare to talk like this. The Avon bird, I wish you'd, I'dered him, like myself with bliss! I hate the dismal horrid daubs Old Masters painted long ago; they look to me like miser jobs, the pigments spread with blunder or thing. At these odd works I gaze and stare, and fail to find pleasing thing—fat corrupted looting here and there, and earned angels here and there. I feel the truth here, but I'm not sure, I'm not sure, I'm not sure. I feel the truth here, but I'm not sure, I'm not sure, I'm not sure.

THE WAR SPIRIT

If I wasn't taking my sword and shield, and go forth to the crimson field, to slay my country's foes, I'll carve the foemen with my steel and pile the dead in rows. I wish that bloody war might cease; I stand up strong for balmy peace, abhorring martial fuss; but when my striken country calls, I don my bomb-proof overalls, and load my trusty rifle. The trusty sword of Bunker Hill I take down from the window sill, where it has rusted red; and where the enemies are thick I travel on the double-quick, and stack up cords of lead. In times of peace it's well to toast the captain and his gory host, and say that war's a frost; but when our country calls, "To arms!" we face the danger and alarms, and never count the cost. I seize my lance and musketoon, to meet the foe on land or sea, and from him spill his grease, and when the guns no longer roar, and I quit sloshing around in gore, I'll whop again for peace.

CHANGED TIMES

In the times, when spring was near, the fans would talk, uniting, about the team we'd have this year, to pentant fame aspiring. Down at the Blue Front, sater Kraul, stare we go, in the gloaming, and thrash the prospects o'er and o'er, our long chin whiskers combing. But now I seldom hear a spiel about the southpaw preacher; the talk is of the steering wheel, and misture lean or richer. We labor at our punk cigars, and talk like men and brothers, indorsing certain brands of cars, denouncing sundry others. We talk of our staid and ancient limbs, and lay aside our crutches, and talk of rubber tires and rims, of windshield, brakes and clutches. We think of climbing hills on high, when our bits the gravel; for all things mundane are a fake excepting motor travel. To talk baseball I sometimes try, but find the going rocky; the talk's of climbing hills on high when other cars went balky. I fear me much the grand old game has lost its livery station, in this our town—perhaps the same throughout the car-track nation!

FOOD PRICES

Nebraska Farmer: Again the high cost of living has come to the front. There have been reports in the press of a rising price of wheat. The question and a new crop of government investigations has been started. Only three months ago the country passed through a period of similar agitation. None of the investigations started then yielded results. Likewise I do not expect that anything but talk will come from the present wave of excitement. High prices for foods at this time are due primarily to scarcity and to the flood of gold, which has cheapened the dollar. Apparently no one has food trust, except the packers' combine, in existence. If food products other than meat are being hoarded, therefore, it is due to scarcity and not to combination. Men will hold products when prices strongly indicate a rise in prices. When the supply of potatoes, for example, is not great enough to go around and prices are climbing, everybody who has potatoes, whether a dealer or farmer, is inclined to hold.

It is worth while to consider whether undue hoarding of foods would be likely to occur if food products were so plentiful that no one would hold anything to be sought without danger of having stuffed on his hands when the new crop came in. In other words, the remedy for hoarding is abundance. Exactly the same principle applies to commodities other than foods. Monopoly prices on wares of any kind are not likely to exist if production is ample. Curtailment of production is the first requisite to monopoly prices.

Under normal conditions, with the ways to production open, I think we could depend upon supply and demand to keep prices reasonable. But abnormal conditions arise. The war in Europe is a large factor in the present food scarcity. Production cannot be adjusted immediately to such abnormal demands. Moreover, bad seasons cause temporary shortages in the food supply. These temporary shortages, whatever the cause, give great leverage to those who control the supply of foods, and inspire demands that the government interfere to protect consumers against extortion.

Government interference would seem almost justifiable in a time such as this when many people in the cities are going hungry for food. But if the government undertook to fix maximum prices as a means of protecting consumers, would it not be under obligations to fix minimum prices in times of superabundance to protect producers?

FARM LOAN BANK TO OPEN

Omaha, March 3.—Within a month the officers of the federal farm loan bank, Omaha district, expect to be installed in temporary quarters ready to transact business. And it has been set as the tentative date for the opening of the bank and in all probability temporary offices will be maintained at the Commercial club until permanent quarters are selected. The announcement several days ago of the officers of the bank for this district was followed immediately by a District Office in the respective positions those whom the federal government had already appointed for these places. The charter for the bank is expected to issue from Washington any time at which time the federal government will pay into the institution the capital stock for which it has been authorized to amount to more than $210,000 as only approximately $40,000 was subscribed in this district to the total capital stock of $250,000. Applicants for the bank will be appointed soon, it is believed. According to Frank C. Odell, secretary of the bank, it will be necessary that one each from Nebraska, Wyoming and Colorado be appointed as well as more immediately voting to the large volume of applications for loans that has come from these states. It is said that applications for loans now exceed more than $200,000. President D. P. Hogan of Massachusetts, Ia., vice-president J. M. Carey of Cheyenne, Wyo., treasurer F. D. Morcom of Sioux Falls, S. D., and Registrar M. L. Corey of Hastings, Neb., expect to remove to Omaha as soon as they can arrange personal affairs. The other bank officers are Frank C. Odell, secretary, of Omaha.

THE EARLY DAYS IN TWO COUNTIES.

From the Logan Valley Herald, March 7, 1894:
Miss Maude Gamble paid a visit to Omaha. The new school house site is 316 feet square, and cost the district $1,625.

E. A. Spahr and family of Harlan, Ia., have arrived in Wayne, Neb., on Friday. They were to remain some time visiting friends.

Henry Ley is bound to keep up with the times and is putting up bones with a view to his horse. Charles O. Johnson of Woodhull, arrived Wednesday and will become a permanent resident of Wayne.

Rev. J. F. Heilner, pastor of the Baptist church, tendered his resignation Sunday evening, to take effect June 1. Dr. Chickering returned from Council Bluffs the latter part of the week, since which time he has been on the sick list.

The marriage of Miss Maude Gamble to Mr. W. C. Matson, took place at the home of both of this city.

During the ten days ending on Tuesday, last, twenty-four car loads of immigrants' movables were received in Wayne.

County Treasurer Britton received the new car recently bought of H. E. Ketchum.

Miss Fannie Gamble of Woodhull, Ill., niece of W. C. Gamble, arrived in town Wednesday evening, and is visiting relatives here.

A serious accident happened to A. B. Slater, while walking on the depot in the middle of the main street, and before he could get away the horses were upon him.

From the Wayne Herald, March 8, 1914:
A child has resigned the office of police judge.

The young son of Editor Cunningham was taken seriously ill Saturday night.

A young son arrived at the home of Charles Gildersleeve and wife Wednesday evening, March 28.

George Wilbur has established a meat market in the building north of Bartlett & Heister's furniture store.

Walter Weber went to Clarks today. He will try his luck hunting geese along the Blatte before returning.

Miss Mary Naugle and Mrs. E. H. Jones will entertain a number of their friends at the home of the former this evening.

Mrs. Frank will entertain the ladies of the Monday club Monday afternoon and the meeting was a very pleasant affair.

brated Dixon county coal-mines, which, however, at this time are not being worked.
Arriving at the landing, the horses were tied, and the party proceeded on their journey on foot, over logs, scaling precipices, scrambling through brush and vines etc.

Three-quarters of a mile of this traveling brought them to the level of the river, where Perrigore had been digging out the bones of antiquity.

The fossilized remains, there exposed, were of a nature which was unexpected and interesting.

The bones lay at the base of a high hill on the left. A few feet to the right was the river. The bones were arranged in a single, slightly curved line, the length of which was about twenty feet.

When the bones were about a half to two inches in thickness.

This was all there was to the scene, it was enough to well repay the party for their visit.

The next Perrigore was busy building several large iron bound boxes in which to deposit the bones, previously to shipping them to the Smithsonian Institution, a trip to visit the remains, and all returned equally well satisfied.

Many conflicting opinions and theories were advanced in connection with the discovery, and some of them raised the question as to whether the bones were of a large or small animal, and also what animal when it lived, etc.

It was some time before it was decided that these were the bones of a Plesiosaurus or a Sea Serpent, it was decided that it was with equal plausibility maintained that it was the petrification of a hair-snake; it was, to say the least, quite large.

It was intimated that it might simply be the backbone of some unfortunate horse, who, discouraged by the loss of his last winter, had curled himself down in that place, and there died.

Others said that it was a petrified whorl. Still others, that it was the vertebrae of a large extinct animal, which arrived at a correct conclusion, if the bones were of a Plesiosaurus, which were of a recent date, dating back to the Arctic or Carboniferous period, and hence some 60,000 or 80,000 year old.

The remains, on close examination, were found to give off a familiar odor, or smell very similar to that which prevails the summer after a pig-sticker near a slaughter house. It becomes a scientific question as to whether these remains could retain that remarkable effluvia during a period of 100,000 years.

It is to be longer than 100,000 years. Therefore it may, probably, be safe to assert that the bones are not over 100,000 years old.

It may be (yet, without the presence of Father Martin and Prefecture we cannot fully determine) that this curiously petrified tail of some large animal, and that the beast itself is buried in the hill, and hence, if Mr. Perrigore follows up the trail he will soon arrive at the junction of a series of Dinocerium or Hypo-griff.

As a tail, it was, after getting on muscles, sinews and hide, a very large one, not less than four or five inches through, a tail of such strength and size, indicates that the Dinocerium, to which it was appended, must have been of enormous magnitude, having a head of at least fifty or sixty feet long, and thirty feet through it, and when standing, being not less than twenty-five feet high.

What a monster you would now see as such a monster would be the forest! A whisk from such a tail would not only merely drive off flies and mosquitoes, but would knock down trees and overturn rocks. It is indeed, fortunate that he lived 100,000 years ago.

We trust that in the interests of science, Mr. Perrigore has been encouraged to excavate and dig out the couraged to excavating beast whose tailbones, thus laudably rescued from oblivion, he has put into a meat-sack, and they are now deposited in N. S. Porter's granary for safekeeping.

NEBRASKA YOUNG MAN OVER SEVEN FEET TALL

Omaha, Neb., Feb. 28.—Nebraska's biggest man wants a job. A Kipling-style young man, from Creighton, who measures 7 feet 2 inches in height and tips the scale at 196 pounds, is in Omaha looking for work.

Interested in Madsen's propositions here they are:
He wears trousers—forty-four inches in length and thirty-eight inches in girth. It takes a size eighteen collar to enclose his neck, and a number twelve shoe to enclose his feet.

Ralph's reach is over eighty-two inches. He is so tall that he has to stoop perceptibly to pass through, or under, an ordinary door frame.

His stride carries him over seven feet of ground at every step.

Ralph says he doesn't have any trouble sleeping in the ordinary bed because he likes to curl up in his handkerchief is the only thing he can buy in ready-made wearing apparel.

We Keep Your Car in the Best of Condition

Your automobile needs treatment once in a while, just like the human body. The Carburetor may be out of order—the spark plugs may be dirty—the cylinders may be clogged-up with carbon and working poorly. In fact, your car can get sick, just as you can.

If there is anything the matter with your car, call us up, and we'll give it a thorough examination—locating and repairing the trouble quickly and economically.

Armour's

Is a Star Brand and no mistake. The hams are juicy and delicious; the bacon is generously streaked with lean.

For a tempting display of Armour's products. Dried beef, sauer kraut and sausage are some of the specialties. The big advantage of Armour good is that they come in sealed packages and are, therefore, absolutely sanitary.
