HIGH COST OF LIVING TO GET SOLAR PLEXUS

Omaha, Neb., March 31.—Intensive cultivation of the soil to aid in the defeat of the high cost of living is being urged by the state.

Plats of ground that hitherto have grown to weeds will be cultivated this year, and that has gone national wide, for intelligent intensive farming, will be closely observed.

Some time ago the United States department of agriculture conceived the idea of encouraging work among the farmers of the public schools in which the home and the school are closely connected in the work of cultivation of the soil. The plan is to have over to the several states for adoption, Nebraska being one of the first asked to try the plan. The University of Nebraska has fostered the idea in the state and through its extension department has succeeded in establishing a number of home-school garden clubs throughout the state.

Aside from this plan a number of farmers are advocating "lot gardening," and to that end are urging their citizens to cultivate every foot of ground that can be made to bear crops. To free, for instance, a man who owns considerable property has subdivided his lots into small garden patches which he will set to worthy parties at nominal cost, profits to go to some charitable institution of the city. Fremont merchants are cooperating in a plan whereby seal potatoes through "bulk purchases" will be supplied at low cost. Omaha has taken up the home-school idea with enthusiasm. Other cities are planning to try by means here adopted to their individual conditions to combat high prices by similar activity.

LAND BANK LOANS

Nebraska farmer: That most of the loans under the federal farm loan system will be made in those regions where interest rates have been highest, the regions against which the loan companies have discriminated, is indicated by the applications that have been received from the Omaha land bank. A recent statement by the officers of that bank showed that applications from farm loan associations in the four states comprising the Omaha district are as follows: Iowa, $13,500; South Dakota, $9,580; Wyoming, $24,700; Nebraska, $1,818,410. Most of the Nebraska applications, according to Secretary Dicks of the "Dorrer" bank, have been from west of the 100th meridian.

It is evident that farmers in Iowa and eastern Nebraska are not "falling over themselves" to obtain loans of the federal farm loan system. No doubt the reason is that the system means no great saving to them. They can obtain loans from other sources on nearly the same rate as that of the federal farm loan board's 5 per cent. The amortization plan of payment covering a long period, offered by the loan banks, is a distinct advantage to borrowers, but apparently an advantage sufficient to encourage farmers in low interest territory to borrow numerous farm loan associations.

The rates are different, however, even in those regions where farmers have been obliged to pay 8 and 10 per cent interest on land loans. The opportunity to obtain loans at 5 per cent is "just like getting money from home." When a great saving can be made, farmers are likely to turn to the loan associations and submit to a certain amount of neighborhood scrutiny of their affairs. To high interest regions the federal farm loan system is a godsend.

It is an interesting question whether the loan companies have been discriminating unjustly against certain regions or whether the federal farm loan board in making a flat interest rate of 5 per cent is giving those regions an advantage undeserved by the condition of agriculture there. In all events, the land banks are going to do their biggest business, it seems, in those regions that have always been high interest territory.

BIG BENEFITS OF THE FEDERAL LAND BANK

Omaha, April 4.—Omaha's new federal land bank is already over-subscribed with business. Applications for loans are coming in from all over the state, and new National Farm Loan associations are being organized by farmers and supporting every day to the bank. The fixing of a uniform interest rate of 5 per cent for the entire federal land bank system is hailed as a long sought for boon by the farmers and has already operated to reduce the interest rate on loans advanced by the old state agencies, although the federal bank has not made any loans up to the time.

The federal farm loan board at Washington is credited with an estimated annual income of over a million dollars in interest yearly to the farmers of the Omaha district of four states in the future as a result of the five per cent rate.

The officers of the new land bank are not only greatly encouraged by farmers of the active interest shown by farmers, but they also express their gratification over the demand for the new bank, which will soon be issued on the security of the mortgages to be placed by the bank. Advance subscriptions for these bonds now total nearly $500,000, although no public announcement has been made by the bank concerning them.

HOUSE WOULD REPEAL ALIEN LANGUAGE ACT

Lincoln, Neb., March 31.—The first house of the Nebraska legislature yesterday afternoon passed the bill repealing the law making compulsory the teaching of foreign languages in the public schools. WHEN IT RAINS.

The spring rains in Nebraska begin in April when two and two and one-half inches is the normal for the western portion of the state. May, June and July are the months of greatest rainfall. The normal rainfall for the entire state in May is 3.69 inches; June, 3.89 inches, making the total for the first three months of the year 10.67 inches, or 46 per cent of the annual precipitation. Expressed in a more detailed form, the normal rainfall for the southeastern portion of the state in May is 4.2 inches, June, 4.4 inches, and July, 5.25 inches, a total of 14.71 inches, or 43 per cent of the annual precipitation for that section. In the northeastern portion the normal rainfall in May is 4.2 inches, June, 4.4 inches, and July, 3.35 inches, a total of 12.01 inches, or 42 per cent of the annual precipitation in that section. The normal rainfall in the middle portion of the state in May is 2.97 inches, and July, 2.93 inches, or a total of 5.90 inches, which is 50 per cent of the annual precipitation. In the northwestern portion of the state the normal rainfall for the year increases slightly, but the normals for June, July and August show a slight decrease, being 2.69 inches for May; 2.91 inches in June; and 2.64 inches in July, a total of 7.61 inches which is 46 per cent of the annual precipitation.

Platte twenty-one times, have had periods of five or more days without rain; ten had periods of ten or more consecutive days without 0.1 inch or more of rain; ten had periods of fifteen or more consecutive days without sufficient moisture to benefit vegetation, and on three occasions drought conditions extended throughout the entire month.

While the average monthly rainfall for May and July is nearly the same, the rainfall is less likely to occur in heavy thunderstorms with the accompanying large percentage of run-off. Rain falls in May on the average on about the same number of days as in June, but in June periods are more likely to appear in May than in June. In the observations for forty years at North Platte, twenty-seven Mays have had periods of five or more consecutive days without rain; eleven have had periods of ten or more consecutive days without 0.1 inch of rain; fifteen or more consecutive days without sufficient moisture to benefit vegetation; and drought conditions existed throughout the entire month on seven occasions.

In July the showers are slightly farther apart than in June, but with greater rainfall in each shower. In the average July, rain falls at any one place on seven or eight of the thirty-one days. In forty years at North Platte, twenty-eight Julys have had periods of five or more consecutive days without rain; eleven have had periods of ten or more consecutive days without 0.1 inch or more of rain; nine have had periods of fifteen or more consecutive days without sufficient rainfall to benefit vegetation; and drought conditions existed throughout the entire month on five occasions.

The decrease in rainfall after July is rapid in the western portion of the state. The normal rainfall for that part of the state in August is only about 65 per cent of that for July. Not only are the showers in August farther apart than in June and July but the amount of rainfall in the average shower is less. Heavy rains are less likely to occur in August than in June or July, and drought periods are more common.

During the summer months a very large proportion of the rainfall in Nebraska occurs in July and August, but a short time but frequently there is a heavy rainfall. A slight or moderately heavy shower rarely occurs. During September light showers lasting twelve to twenty-four hours, accompanied by little or no lightning, become more common. Rain falls on the average four or five days during the month. In fact, two-thirds of the September rainfall usually occurs in one wet period, lasting from two to four days. In October, the dry season is rapidly approaching. Rain falls at any one place on an average of four of the thirty-one days. Drought periods are frequent and including parts of the adjoining months periods of twenty to sixty days have occurred without sufficient rainfall to benefit vegetation.

WHEAT SOWN SPRING WHEAT.
Omaha, April 4.—Without question from the winter wheat in Nebraska has been very seriously damaged, and it is the paramount interest of every grower in the state to know what he can do to help remedy the situation.

Where farmers are satisfied that their winter wheat is a failure, they should immediately seed their land to spring wheat. The Agricultural Exchange will supply spring wheat for seed at approximately $2.50 a bushel in cash—local lots—Omaha.

The University of Nebraska, Lincoln, will cooperate in giving information regarding reseeded damaged fields.

The first thing that should be done is to sow the wheat in the ground to put in corn because that means a total loss of any portion of winter wheat that may still germinate. Besides, what the world wants now is wheat.

We are going into spring with a very serious deficiency in moisture, and there is danger of losing the corn crop by drought. This may be avoided by planting spring wheat early, or, even one of the damaged winter wheat fields, or even the farmer who is going to reseed his winter wheat has no time to lose.

The Agricultural Department of the University of Nebraska says there is still time to sow spring wheat if it is done immediately. A press driver should be used for putting in the spring wheat.

SHOW THE FLAG!
Washington, Star, Nov. 15, is the time to show the flag. Fly it from the roof, hang it on the walls, wear it on the coat, show it as a proof of loyalty, for that is assumed and needs no specific declaration, but as an inspiration to others. Show the flag as a silent attestation of readiness to do your bit, however small or humble or dangerous or important, in the work that lies ahead.

The show it at every dwelling and every place of business. It should be worn on every coat lapel. No matter how small it is, the flag should show distinction and necessity or desire. True patriotism may dwell within a hour before which hangs a flag a foot long as in a dwelling over which hangs a flag a foot long.

Show the flag to encourage everybody to face this crisis with confidence. We know not what may come from the step which apparently may lead to success. It may draw us into a long, costly and bloody struggle. We may be attacked in an unexpected quarter. We may even have traitors within our own ranks through treachery and disloyalty. We must not meet this crisis lightly or with underestimate of its gravity.

STEADY NOW.
(Bixby in Lincoln Journal.)
When faithful things are done and said.
When rumors fill the air,
Then is the time to keep your head
And hold yourself foursquare.
Don't put your argument too strong—
You may be wrong, you may be wrong.

When aggravating deeds occur
Upon the raging man,
By which we hastily infer
That someone should be slain,
Scold not at him who says, "don't fight."
He may be right, he may be right.
It is no sign of sense to rave
When raving does no good;
Unfold the flag and let it wave,
But keep on sowing seeds.
The bravest men are always quiet.
Don't be a fool, don't be a fool.

We are so apt to go astray
When troubled by the Dutch,
We don't know what to do or say,
And so we say, too much,
For hate-by-much salture a pain,
Do let's be calm, do let's be calm.

It seems that turbulence of thought
May like a tempest roll;
Strong men are in the whirlpool
Caught,
And lose their self-control.
The quiet ones are heard to yell—
It does beat all, it does beat all.

To lead us into wild excess
Men travel far and wide,
And loudly howl—we can do less
Than "keep the peace" and "be Savvy to the waves and winds," "Be Still!"
And so they will, and so they will.

WINTER WHEAT HURT.
Norfolk Daily News, April 2: Reports that winter wheat in Madison county is not in good condition were partially confirmed here Friday by County Agent George A. LeGrand. Mr. Grant declared that the winter wheat was not coming out in his part of the county and that it appeared that the crop was somewhat damaged. Agent George declared that while it is yet early to tell much about the condition of the winter wheat in the part of the state had his doubts as to some of the fields. Apparently both men had the winter wheat crop not in good condition. None of the wheat seed which was reported to have arrived at Omaha from the west for Nebraska farmers, will come to this part of the state. Agent George declared that he knew nothing regarding this seed except what he read in the newspapers. It was apparent, however, that Madison county farmers will have no use for this seed.

Some damage has already started on Madison county farms. Some plowing is being done.

POTATO POTENTATES.
Nebraska Farmer. An clutch in the potato business of the potato industry in this state was started by the organization of the Nebraska Potato Improvement Association at Alliance last week. This organization has very good potentialities. It is a north-east Nebraska can measure up to its fullest possibilities in a potato region there must be investigation to determine the best methods of culture and how to handle the various potato diseases. Through their association, potato growers can secure a unit for the best potato varieties for the experimental station to carry out the needed investigation work. And then the association can serve as a clearing house for information, both that obtained by investigation and experience of growers. Just how the association plans to go in the matter of cooperative marketing, it does not know. It will fall short of the best possibilities unless it is making not so large attention to marketing. This should include transportation facilities and standardizing the product of the region as well as the best methods of growing. The means of getting the potatoes from field to consumer—for all these factors have to do with growers realizing the fullest possible return from their crop.

LONG TIME WITHOUT MAIL.
Laurel Advocate. Not for many years has Laurel been without mail as long as she was last week from 8 o'clock Saturday afternoon—and the Burlington passenger train ran daily between here and Sioux City. It was not until through the mail should have been sent out from Sioux City on the Burlington, and that from Omaha by way of Sioux City, and not be allowed to pile up at Waterloo, and wait for the track to be repaired. The first train Sunday brought forty sacks of mail for Laurel. The only daily papers that were seen here Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday were those brought out from Sioux City by passengers on the Burlington.

Insomnia.

Keep going a bicycle, it has to be propped up.
A good deal of rough talk doesn't mean anything but bad manners.
It is also true that we cannot hear ourselves as others hear us.
Don't loaf all the time you are waiting for opportunity to knock.
A woman is apt to think her husband should be more economical.
Some men imagine they are inspired when they are really crazy.
A woman would rather have a man hate her than get tired of her.
It may have occurred to you that a watch dog sees a good deal that isn't there.
Of course time is precious, but it wouldn't be if one had to devote it all to sleep.
You can't talk all the time, if you hope to give a correct imitation of knowing it all.
You can't always tell for sure, and that soulful expression may be due to biliousness.
No woman should wear so many rings that her fingers resemble a Christmas tree.
Telling what the other fellow should do is the mildest and most useless occupation.
Another unfortunate thing is the average man's inclination to believe everything he hears.
You have doubtless heard a fair one say he did his best, but the chances are he didn't.

A good many people marry for money, in fact, a good many more than get it that way.
Don't feel too bad because you are denied the personal liberty to make a fool of yourself.

Sometimes the "finishing school" seems to finish what little common sense they had to start with.
Ab-Adkins' notion of a mechanical genius is a man who can keep a pipe in good smoking order.
A Missourian's regard for "light bread" may also be entered into the superlative contempt column.

Nothing makes a man so tired after he has shaved all day as to hear how hard the woman have to rub.
There are excellent, but the rub is that machinery gets oiled when it squeaks, if an amateur is handling it.
Young men learn a few things, but seldom by listening to their fathers who could tell them a good deal.
A few old-fashioned mothers still exist, who, when they wash their babies, use saliva and a handkerchief.
Leave it to the average undergraduate, and he would rather make the track team than the debating team.
A young man may be excused for raising one mustache, but to prove he can, but he shouldn't make it his regular work.
So many men are trying to find out that the women can never hope to monopolize the world's supply of curiosity.
It is so easy to be mistaken that you shouldn't conclude out loud that you could do his, her or their work better.

A woman's position, woman high brow writes, should express her mentality and temperament. But some women have considerable temperament.
Putting a new ribbon in our trenchant typewriter probably is the largest job of its size. But it affords large opportunities for procrastination, which helps some.
It is our notion that the gum shot is a more effective force in politics than forensic oratory, or waving of the old flag. This should not be thus, but it will be as long as men can be made to swell up with importance over the thought that they are being taken into confidence of the high and mighty. And the sort of people who are fooled by such guff are the ones who are willing to work their heads off in politics, while other people are attending to their regular chores.

OUR WAR PLATFORM.
Lincoln Journal: There seemed to be no doubt yesterday that Congress would shortly accept the request of the president for a declaration leading to war with Germany. Nothing short of an immediate re-announced party by the German government, coupled with ample bond to keep its contracts; could prevent this now. What, now, is America to be fighting for?

What the president declares is a war upon not a nation but an institution. Hardly since the Declaration of Independence has a responsible national political body or individual undertaken so serious an indictment of a government at the expense of launching at the German government. He tells us more than we knew before of its perverted activities. It is a war upon the world with all its peoples. It regards no law which obstructs its path. It represents an abandonment of respect for the rights of other nations and a tolerable menace to the peace of the world. But it is the government, not the nation, the president attacks.

Peace, says the president, can never be attained except by a consistent democratic nation. The German government is essentially a menace to peace, and therefore it must be destroyed. The German government can never be our friend, he says, for such an institution is incapable of friendship.

We are to declare war, therefore, to free the world of a disturber and to establish a new order. We recognize conquest or indemnity. We seek universal democracy in order that the world may have peace. We declare war against Kaiserism and a great bargain will be struck. "Hoch das Deutschland der Kaiser" "Hohenzollern delenda est."

This declaration leaves America with two great tasks. One, of course, is to win the war. The other and more important is to keep its purpose true. America has a great moral battle to win if history is not to write us down a hypocrite. It is not to be our friend, he says, for such an institution is incapable of friendship.

CONSOLIDATED WITH THE WAYNE REPUBLICAN

WAYNE, NEBRASKA, THURSDAY, APRIL 5, 1917.

CONGRESS IS ASKED TO RECOGNIZE WAR

Washington, April 2.—Tonight President Wilson asked congress to declare a state of war existed between the United States and Germany.

While the news of the submarine sinking of the ocean liner, the American armed ship to sail into the war zone—was being told from mouth to mouth in the capitol, the president, before the session of the house and senate in joint session asked congress to recognize and deal with Germany's warfare on America.

Wants Army of 500,000.

The president said war with Germany would involve the nation with the governments now at war with Germany, including the liberal financial credits. He urged the raising of 500,000 men and the purchase of military equipment. The president made it clear that no action was being taken against the Austrian government and the other allied nations with Germany.

The president said in part: "On the 3rd of February last, I officially laid before you my extraordinary announcement of the impact of the German government, that on and after the 1st day of February, it was its purpose to put aside all restraints of law or of humanity and use its submarines to destroy the lives of our citizens."

"We have seen the last of neutrality under such circumstances. We are at the beginning of an age in which it will be fatal that the same standards of conduct and all responsibility for wrong doing shall be observed among nations and their governments that are observed among the individual citizens of civilized states."

No Quarrel with People.

"We have no quarrel with the German people. We have no feeling toward them but one of sympathy and friendship. It is their rulers and their impulses that their government acted in entering this war. It was not with their previous knowledge or approval."

Relief Ships Sunk.

The new policy has swept every restriction from the minds of our kind, whatever their flag, their character, their cargo, their destination, their errand have been ruthlessly sent to the bottom without warning and without thought of mercy for the vessels of friendly nations along with those of belligerents. Even ships and ships' crews trying to get to the shores of beleaguered and stricken people of Belgium, though the latter were provided with safe conduct through the prescribed area by the German government, were distinguished by unmistakable marks of identity, have been sunk with the same reckless lack of compassion or principle."

"This minimum of right the German government has swept away and the whole of the world of the lives of non-combatants, men, women and children, engaged in pursuits which have always, even in the darkest periods of modern history, been deemed innocent."

Thinks Only of Loss of Life.

"I am not now thinking of loss of property, involved immense and serious as that is, but only of the wanton and wholesale destruction of the lives of non-combatants, men, women and children, engaged in pursuits which have always, even in the darkest periods of modern history, been deemed innocent."

War Against Mankind.

"The present German submarine warfare against mankind. It is a war against all nations."

mal course by the unhappy victims of the last two months and I do not believe that the thought of the nation has been altered or clouded by them. I have exactly the same things in mind now that I had in mind when I addressed the senate on the 22d of January last. The same that I had in mind when I addressed the congress on the 3d of February and on the 27th of February. Our object now as then is to vindicate the principles of peace and justice in the life of the world against selfish greed and avarice that set up among the really free and self-governed peoples of the world such a concert of purposes and actions as shall henceforth stamp as the observance of those principles."

"Neutrality is no longer feasible or desirable where the peace of the world is involved and the freedom of the seas is endangered. It is a relic of a bygone age, and fundamental in the existence of the autocratic government backed by organized force which it controlled wholly by their will."

"We have seen the last of neutrality under such circumstances. We are at the beginning of an age in which it will be fatal that the same standards of conduct and all responsibility for wrong doing shall be observed among nations and their governments that are observed among the individual citizens of civilized states."

No Quarrel with People.

"We have no quarrel with the German people. We have no feeling toward them but one of sympathy and friendship. It is their rulers and their impulses that their government acted in entering this war. It was not with their previous knowledge or approval."

"Such a war was determined upon as was used to be demanded in the old unpolished days when peoples were not consulted by their rulers and were provoked in the interest of their neighbors' ambitions men who were accustomed to use their fellow men as pawns and tools."

"Self-governed nations do not fill their newspapers with spiced or acid courses of vituperation to bring about some critical posture of affairs which will give them a chance to strike and make conquest. Such a course can be only worked under cover and when no one has the right to ask questions."

"Cunningly contrived plans of aggression have been devised from generation to generation cannot be worked out and kept from the light only when in the privacy of courts or behind the carefully guarded curtains of a legislative assembly and class. They are happily impossible when Europe commands and insists upon full information concerning all the nations affected."

LOCAL THEATER MAN
GIVEN BIG WRITE-UP

Moving Picture Weekly, published in New York City, has the following to say in regard to the Crystal theater in Wayne:

"Such is the name of a German submarine. It is merely the key which enables the keen-eyed searcher to locate the little town of Wayne, or the Blackwater state. As to us, Wayne doesn't count importantly. Its population is only 2,140, but its special interest to the moving picture industry is that it includes one of the liveliest and shrewdest exhibitors that ever owned a theater."

"This name is M. B. Nielsen, and his success in running the Crystal Right here let us state that the Crystal doesn't pretend to rival the Rialto of New York, or the Coliseum of Seattle in point of size and luxuriousness. As a matter of fact, you could tuck the Crystal's three hundred seats into a corner of either of the picture palaces just mentioned and then hardly know it."

"But if the Crystal is small, its owner is big. In his showmanship ability, big in ideas and big in courage. He has remodeled and built this theater in the manner which he took hold of the theater and in less than five months converted it into one of the most profitable theaters in Nebraska."

"On January 1, Nielsen celebrated the New Year by purchasing the Crystal—look, stock and barrel. The progress he had made since he began his career in the theater was efficiently encouraging to prompt him to take the step which would enable him to put all of his ideas into effect without hindrance. He was not alone in this. Many of Nielsen's friends implored him to think twice before purchasing Nielsen merely grinned, however, and at the moment he was busy on an advertising campaign that presently made every man, woman and child sit up and take notice."

"The business done on that day rarely ever paid for the cost of the stock and the building. He was not alone in this. Many of Nielsen's friends implored him to think twice before purchasing Nielsen merely grinned, however, and at the moment he was busy on an advertising campaign that presently made every man, woman and child sit up and take notice."

to shoot the picture on the screen. Carefully studying the situation, Nielsen determined to convert his blue Wednesday to Bluebird Wednesday. An exhibitor of wide experience will testify to how the all he needed to do in order to put Bluebirds over with his patrons was to advertise them properly."

"Now, Nielsen is a firm believer in the business possibilities that lie in the exercise of personality. It is his never-failing practice to personally greet every man, woman and child entering the theater. As they know him, best of all, they have come to regard him as a personal friend."

"The Right to Be Happy" a Bluebird based upon Dickens' immortal "A Christmas Carol," was scheduled to be shown on Wednesday, February 14. From the day he received the advance notice of the booking, Nielsen told every person visiting the Crystal of the wonderful nature of the picture and the Bluebird."

"We have seen the last of neutrality under such circumstances. We are at the beginning of an age in which it will be fatal that the same standards of conduct and all responsibility for wrong doing shall be observed among nations and their governments that are observed among the individual citizens of civilized states."

They are happily impossible when Europe commands and insists upon full information concerning all the nations affected."

"This name is M. B. Nielsen, and his success in running the Crystal Right here let us state that the Crystal doesn't pretend to rival the Rialto of New York, or the Coliseum of Seattle in point of size and luxuriousness. As a matter of fact, you could tuck the Crystal's three hundred seats into a corner of either of the picture palaces just mentioned and then hardly know it."

"But if the Crystal is small, its owner is big. In his showmanship ability, big in ideas and big in courage. He has remodeled and built this theater in the manner which he took hold of the theater and in less than five months converted it into one of the most profitable theaters in Nebraska."

"On January 1, Nielsen celebrated the New Year by purchasing the Crystal—look, stock and barrel. The progress he had made since he began his career in the theater was efficiently encouraging to prompt him to take the step which would enable him to put all of his ideas into effect without hindrance. He was not alone in this. Many of Nielsen's friends implored him to think twice before purchasing Nielsen merely grinned, however, and at the moment he was busy on an advertising campaign that presently made every man, woman and child sit up and take notice."

"The business done on that day rarely ever paid for the cost of the stock and the building. He was not alone in this. Many of Nielsen's friends implored him to think twice before purchasing Nielsen merely grinned, however, and at the moment he was busy on an advertising campaign that presently made every man, woman and child sit up and take notice."

"We have seen the last of neutrality under such circumstances. We are at the beginning of an age in which it will be fatal that the same standards of conduct and all responsibility for wrong doing shall be observed among nations and their governments that are observed among the individual citizens of civilized states."

"We have no quarrel with the German people. We have no feeling toward them but one of sympathy and friendship. It is their rulers and their impulses that their government acted in entering this war. It was not with their previous knowledge or approval."

Do You Need Dishes?

And very seldom do you find a housewife who is so well stocked with dishes that she could not use another set if they came as a gift.

Read This Offer:

You buy coffee anyway, perhaps more than one or two pounds a week. If you live on a farm and have extra men all the time your coffee bill is even larger. Now, with every 50 pounds of REDBIRD coffee, we are giving a 31-piece set of yield a crop. The secret of it all is infinite, infinite care and 'know how.' By the exercise of patience, infinite care and 'know how,' Nielsen has succeeded in working his losing proposition up to a point where he not only gets every possible bit of revenue but of Wayne, but also makes the surrounding towns contribute to his boxoffice receipts.

There are hundreds—perhaps thousands—of Crystal theaters scattered throughout the country. With but few exceptions, these houses can be developed and brought to the profit-producing stage by use of the methods pursued by Nielsen. In an article entitled "Know Your People" published in the Moving Picture Weekly some time ago, we declared that no exhibitor could hope for permanent success unless he cultivated his community. Nielsen's intensive farmer cultivates his soil.

WAYNE COUNTY ASKED FOR MEN FOR U. S. NAVY

An officer of the United States navy will be in Wayne tomorrow to secure recruits for the navy according to a telegram received by C. A. Berry, postmaster, yesterday morning. The urgent need of more men is expressed in the telegram which follows:

Omaha, Neb., April 2, 1917. Postmaster, Wayne, Neb. Our country must have forty thousand men immediately for the navy. The officer has called for full war strength. Nebraska must have 2,000 men to apply at once. A representative of the navy will be in your county tomorrow to get the names of men to go to government expense. Can you arrange public meeting where men can be assembled and examined. We must have men now. Thank you for your interest.

Wayne county to truly loyalty to the colors, all men should understand that the navy offers opportunities from a purely personal standpoint. If you are not in a position to assist, would be glad to have you send me the name of some patriotic man who can. Men must be between 17 and 30. Parents should come with young men if possible. Request mayor and newspapers to cooperate. Wm. W. Wadell, Lieut. U. S. Navy.

RISE IN COST OF FOODS.

Washington, April 3.—The cost of living is constantly rising. During the month before February 15, reports the April number of the "Monthly Review of the Bureau of Labor Statistics of the U. S. Dept. of Labor," the combined price of twenty-seven principal foods went up four per cent. Onions led with 77 per cent jump. Potatoes went 30 per cent. Five articles—four, rice, raisins, coffee and tea were stationary and eggs was the only food that decreased in price. Substantially, these articles cover the average table menu. Compared with 1916 retail prices most commodities are higher. Only three, rice, coffee and tea, were no higher on February, 1915, than the price of 1916. Sme articles have risen tremendously; others less in proportion. Of those comparatively innocent of swollen value, nine have increased less than 10 per cent.

Table with 2 columns: Item and Price. Items include Sirloin steak, Bacon, Raisins, Bread, Milk, Sugar, Coffee, Tea, Round steak, etc.

Round steak, rib roast, chuck roast, plain herring, beef, ham and canned salmon have increased less than one-eighth in price above the prices averaged in 1916. Lard, eggs, butter, cheese, flour, corn meal, potatoes, onions and navy beans have jumped to prices entirely abnormal. So far as it is possible, housekeepers should endeavor to find substitutes for these foods. Many families, appears, are discarding potatoes in favor of rice and other foods the prices of which remain more nearly normal.

Be Tailor-Made This Spring

All men are different, yet the ready made clothes manufacturer acts on the presumption that all men of the same chest measure, vary little otherwise.

But just think of the difference in shoulders, arms, waist, neck, height, and individuality. All these are considered, only when your clothes are made to order.

A visit to our shop puts you under no obligation to buy. When you see the values we can offer you, and the dainty styles for Spring that we can give you at prices no higher than you are now paying for the ready-made kind, well, we'll leave the rest to your judgment.

How About Having A Toe Cut Off?

Would you have your toe cut off because it had a corn on it? Certainly not! You would have the corn treated. Then why have a tooth out because it is decayed or aches? Your teeth were intended to last as long as your fingers or toes. They were intended to be the proper care of them. They are as important from the standpoint of good health as your fingers or toes. Then why not save them?

Safe Medicine for Children. "Is it safe?" is the first question to be considered when buying cough medicine for children. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has long been a favorite with mothers of young children, as it contains no opium or other narcotic, and may be given to a child as confidently as to an adult. It is pleasant to take, too, which is of great importance when a medicine must be given to young children. This remedy is most effective in all cases of croup. Obtainable everywhere.—Adv.

CHEVROLET

The Product of Experience

Yes, Chevrolet cars are as truly the "products of experience" as the locomotive, the ocean liner, the skyscraper.

Safety is none the less a factor of inestimable value because it is unseen. The thought of the tremendous responsibility thrown upon the scores of tiny parts unseen and hidden away in the fabric of a motor car, is the thought behind all Chevrolet workmanship. And no less extensive organization than the Chevrolet Motor company could hope to duplicate a car that would sell for anywhere near the Chevrolet price.

You will find more value—visible and invisible—in the Chevrolet car than in any other car—exactly price in America.

AT-SCHOOL GLOBE SIGHTS.

As a rule those who lack faith in a town also lack ambition.

It is a painful truth that the pinch hitter doesn't always get a hit.

No man who habitually wears a sneer can pull a very large vote.

Those who do, their best are less numerous than those who say they do.

There are a great many people who mistake a charge for a conviction.

A country reporter is never overly anxious to start Monday with a sunrise.

The chances are that the man who insists he is as good as anybody isn't.

More people are suspicious than are superstitious, and that's a good many.

When a bossy woman marries a man who refuses her, how people laugh.

Women overestimate the danger there is that their husbands will be stolen.

Neither did the notion that the goose is a foolish bird originate with a hunter.

Next to the corner's jury the official investigation probably finds out the least.

UNCLE WALT

The Poet Philosopher
WASTED CHANCES.
In every town are vacant lots, with varied rubbish lumbered, producing cheap forget-me-nots, and cockleburrs unattended. Year after year, when Autumn winds are sighing, and every brand of noxious weed, thereon is multiplying. If all those vacant lots were fenced and planted with corn, less often would we hear men groan in hunger-stricken garrets. And here we see the nation's vice, the waste that has no ending, economy can cut no root, while we have coin for spending. Why plow the weed-grown neighborhood, and plant the bean and tater? Our stand off at the store is good; we think of such schemes late. All winter, in our little town, some folks were hardly starving; some charity was being doled out, some charists for the poor were being doled out, some they termed their future course to sweeten. The cool we banded them is burned, the grub we gave is eaten. The spring is here—why look through the window for the wide and grand it? And when again they're beetling bread, the town will have to find it.

THE SPECTRE.
Last night when I had gone to rest, a ghost came to my side: it was the most astounding guest that ever man espied, it avoided my eye, but he sat, he watched me, he gazed. Before last night I used to scoff at ghostly things of dread; I laughed to scorn the ruffid toff who said he'd heard their tread and told him where he might get off, and where to soak his head. But, oh, the horror of last night I shall not soon forget! I lay and gazed in morose thought, I said to myself, "Sweet, that ghost, aglow with bluish light, was something fierce, you bet. How long 'twas there I do not know—it seemed to me ten years, and through my eyes I felt the dune, all grain and ice, as last I saw the phantom go, back to its misty sphere." Then I arose and said, "By heck, no more will I set my nose to a corner of a chimney's neck, ere to my couch I lie." I'd surely be a mental wreck, if more such ghosts were nigh!

THE WIND.
The wind blows off my lid and makes me reel and sick, and say distressing things; it jars me like the dice, it blows my whiskers loose, it swats me and it stings. It comes and takes a fall from my new parasol, to my intense disgust; it blows all kinds of dirt against me, it blowsy shirt, and fills my ears with dust. "Yet blow, O wind," I say, "and all the livelong day your program weird rehearse; for if you'd disappear, they'd find some wether worse." If winds should cease to blow, we'd have a lot of snow, or rain, or had, or slush; perhaps a thunder-bolt would give my mussie a howl, and make my hairprings hush. However bad things be, I look on them with glee, embracing them in verse; when evil things are gone, we'd only see the dawn of some thing twice times worse. I look on things like this, and so I'm full of bliss, when I'm not full of prunes; and all the windy day I wend my way, fat with wind, and wicker-sprigged tunes.

AN OLD STORY.
"Well, it'll soon be given the coat of living, 'neath the noxious blow!" So men are crying as they go plowing the spade and rake and hoe. About ten million, perhaps a billion, have made their solemn vows to labor in the garden, garden, encourage'd by their fraus. We'll all be raising green goods amazing, all kinds of peas and beans, our bosoms glow, and all will be showing hunk stacks of luscious greens. And while we're humping, we'll hear the slumping of prices at the store; they'll be descending, still downward winding, till they'll cost us no more. Oh, trying when you've been plowing the hoe, all summer long, it makes you sad-dish to find your radish is worth less than a song. You'd never be raising fierce endeavor by raising things from seeds, and you determine you'll do no squirming, hereafter in the weeds. This year you'll find us at work, dad bling, in our cheap sweat-stained duds; in years thereafter we'll shirk with laughter if you name home grown spuds.

REJUVENATION.
When the winter's done with snowing, and the vernal winds are blowing, and the husbandman is being hoing in the settle, then, I cast off the robes of sadness, and I whoop around with gladness, and I join to madness, for I'm feeling young again. I feel the rheumatism is creeping up and down my system, keeping me so sore I swear aloud, till I see an ancient geezer, feel as though I'd lived a century. I feel the rheumatism is creeping up and down my system, keeping me so sore I swear aloud, till I see an ancient geezer, feel as though I'd lived a century. In the wintertime I totter, like a sheep that's led to slaughter, wishing death, wishing bring his water, and then I'm from the scene; nothing but my plume can break up, nothing their my soul can shake up, and I do not even wake up when you talk of gasoline. But when frosts prevail, I speak with the "bible" and have brought me taken that old winter's grip is broken, when through woodland, glade and dell, orioles and wrens are whinging, and the joyous choir is singing, and the flowers, from earth are springing, then you ought to hear me yell.

APRIL.
Now the April rain is dripping, and the April birds are yipping; in the fields the colts are skipping, and the hungry calves lament; there's no disposition of leaving, and the colts with colds and sneezing, spring across the world is breezing, winter's sulking in his tent. April is the month of enlightenment, April, when all go planning where the gentle rain is slanting from the clouds that quickly break; April is the month, dear reader, when we grind the plow and speed her, and get out the cin and cedar, and do things with hoe and rake. Spring is full of charms and graces, bringing smiles to all our faces, driving off the hag, and the little pigs are playing, and the speckled hens are laying, and we chortle while we're straying in the sunshine and the rain. Winter's gales and gaffs, fogs, gotten, we are planting prunes and cotton, where the soil is rich and fertile, 'twixt the plunger and the bar; maybe all the plants we cherish will cut up and die and perish when the sun is hot and garish; but we do not care a darn.

ACT QUICKLY.
Do the right thing at the right time. Act quickly in time of danger. In time of kidney danger, Doan's Kidney Pills are most effective. Plenty of Wayne evidence of their worth. Mrs. Henry Hansen, Wayne, says: "I was subject to spells of backache for a good many years. I think the cold, over-exertion, is what caused it. My rest at night was broken by the pain in my back. Doan's Kidney Pills made me feel like a different woman." (Statement by Mrs. Hansen.) On July 15, 1916, Mrs. Hansen said: "I occasionally use Doan's Kidney Pills when I feel my kidneys need toning up. They keep them in good condition." Sold at all dealers. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfgs., Buffalo, N. Y.

BUSINESS.
(Sixty).
While statesmen persistently ranted Of war on the ocean's blue-floods, A common-place patriot planned— His garden to unions and spuds. Said he: "While these fellows are giving For the toes of the nation cold lead, My scheme is to help out the living. Since no one can comfort the dead."

"While hundreds go down in the ocean, Whose waves beat the rock-burdened strand, I pay increasing devotion To those still alive upon land. 'This war all the world now disgraces. Its purpose deserves little praise; I prefer feeling the faces Of those who will buy what I raise." He spoke and I had to be going; I had but a moment to stop— Last seen he was planting and sowing.

For he was a thrifty old top. Safe Medicine for Children. "Is it safe?" is the first question by a parent when a young one is made for children. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has long been a favorite with mothers of young children as it contains no opium or other poisonous and may be given to a child as confidently as to an adult. It is pleasant to take, too, which is of great importance when a medicine must be given to young children. This remedy is most effective in relieving coughs, colds and croup. Obtainable everywhere.—Adv.

ATCHISON GLOBE SIGHTS.
It only takes two dogs to constitute a mob. Even putting on one's shirt seems like awfully hard work Sunday morning. Men have their little vanities, but comparatively few bald men wear wigs.

Of course your anger is always useless under the head of righteous indignation. If a doctor orders a girl either to put off more clothes or go south, she will go south. A boy may have difficulty in learning to smoke, but that is a simple lesson compared with learning not to.

What has become of the old-fashioned man who said to his wife, where you must plead with them to keep your breath and cool your porridge? When a man is enjoying a righteous grouch a delegate from the Sunb shine club is apt to make him madder than ever.

In writing a business letter don't address a customer as "Old Time" unless you have been lit up with him a time or two. Police judges are cold, stern men, unless you have been lit up with them to shield your proud family name.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by the use of Searles' Hearing Aid. This tube is inserted into the ear, and it is entirely closed. Deafness is the result of an accumulation of wax in the ear, which is nothing more than an inflamed condition of the ear. We will give you $100.00 Dollars for any case of deafness cured by Searles' Hearing Aid. Searles' Hearing Aid is sold by F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, Ohio. Searles' Hearing Aid is sold by F. J. What You Pay For On a Long Distance Call

In making a long distance telephone call you have the use of more than merely the wires over which you talk. The wires are only a small part of the equipment provided for a long distance call. There must be switchboards, terminal rooms, pole lines and many other kinds of apparatus such as dynamos, batteries, calculagraphs, testing apparatus, repeaters and loading coils to magnify the voice currents, and other expensive equipment generally unseen by the telephone user.

In making a long distance call you have the services of two or more operators who connect you and guard both ends of the line while you talk.

In addition to the operators there are other employees watching the equipment in the central offices and reparation guarding the long distance wires.

Repairmen Always Ready
Somewhere along the line, the branch of a tree, a strong wind or an electric storm may put the wires out of order. But nearby is a telephone man ready to hurry to the spot, so that the line may be quickly repaired and service restored.

The amount you are charged when you make a long distance call is to help maintain the line, to facilitate the payment of interest on the investment in the equipment used for long distance, to aid in the payment of taxes on the property and assist in paying the employees' wages.

We endeavor to obtain only such a return on the investment in our long distance lines as could be earned on the money if it were invested in any other business involving equal risk.
