Auto News Notes

The "No-Glare" law, which was slated to go into effect on July 1, has been extended until July 25 because manufacturers were unable to fill orders for the "dimers." Car owners all over the country are leaving orders and dealers will do their utmost to provide the new prisms.

COLOR OF LIGHTS.

Vern Fisher has this letter from Secretary of State Pool in reference to the color of lights which many believed would be affected by the "No-Glare" law:

"It seems to me that the amber light is preferable to the white light, but as both colors have been used in the past, I can see no good reason why the question should be raised at this time as to the use of the amber-colored lights."

The automobile industry will continue to increase in spite of war is the prediction of Edgar Apperson, well known car manufacturer of Kokomo, Ind.

Mr Apperson says: "At the outbreak of European hostilities many manufacturers believed that the motor industry would slump. If there were men who foresaw what was coming they certainly kept their knowledge hidden. But at that, the war has not been entirely responsible for the big increase in the motor business during the past two years. The export of pleasure cars has been trivial and the companies that have shown the greatest increase in production have not been supplying Europe with cars."

"Now that we are with the allies, facing a common foe, it is only natural to assume that when the demand does come for pleasure cars in the European countries, America will naturally be the first to be asked to fill it."

REWARD OF MERIT.
 It is gratifying to note rewards that are paid to industry and faith. Twenty-nine years ago W. H. Jeffers started a messenger job at North Platte. He is now vice president and general manager of the Union Pacific railway system. How did he do it? He stuck to his job, worked hard and was loyal to every trust. His promotions followed unsolicited. With every advanced step, he turned attention to fitting himself for something higher. His preparation for promotion was noted and rewarded. Mr. Jeffers did not skimp his service and he barely enough to satisfy his employers. His motto, that earned his salary. He did not let a whim when given responsibility. He did not watch the clock. He did not aspire to a place he could not fill. He performed well the task in hand, was always on the job and always made good.

Mr. Jeffers' triumphs should encourage young men of today. He seizes opportunity as a greater and more important than the one before. He gives this note of encouragement: "Hard work and loyalty did it. Any boy can do what I have done." There are more big positions today than in the history of the world. Twenty-five years from now every one of these positions must be filled by a man who has today. To the boys I would say, "Be yourself for a position and the position will seek you out." Hard work and loyalty will do the business."

PUBLIC IMPROVEMENTS.
 Reluctance to spend money for needed public improvements is the reason most towns more ahead slowly if at all. Things are good enough, it is argued. People go along with the old. The old automobiles and automobiles in the old days. Introduction of the automobile some years ago, was hailed as a nuisance. Organized protest was made. But the other improvements mentioned, it is now regarded a necessity. People who travel much feel they cannot complete without using gasoline cars. Town looking backward, appreciates the importance of advanced steps. And it is the invariable experience that money put into public improvements returns many fold. The other improvements asked to vote bonds for drainage as a preliminary step to paving. Paving will boost the town along. Let us put more money into the town and get more out of it, besides enjoying the facility and comfort insured by modern improvement. Let us go forward, not slip backward.

LOOKING FORWARD.
 It is encouraging and refreshing to find confidence in immortality from a confidence in human transition and eternity. Dr. Lyman Abbott is an old man, and his life has been full of high scholarship and profound wisdom. He realizes that life on earth for him will soon draw to a close, and he has looked forward with happy anticipation to the life to come. "I have fought a good fight, I have often fallen, but I have kept up the race. I have been besieged all my life with doubts, but I have kept my faith." I look forward to the great adventure, which cannot now be far off, with awe, but not with apprehension. I enjoy my work, my home, my friends, my life. But always I have stood in the looking forward with hopeful anticipation to the life before me. When the time comes for my embarkation and I put out to sea, I shall be glad to be in the bow looking forward with eager curiosity and glad hopefulness to the new world which the unknown voyage will bring me."

Some people talk conversation eloquently enough, but don't practice it. They explain carefully how to trim consumption of raw material, and then forget or neglect to do it themselves. They remind one of the man who gets up in class meeting and makes a feeling prayer in support of justice and then goes home and acquires and cheats the other fellow. Lip service in this conservation campaign should be consistently accompanied and followed by actual practice.

The dictionary says a dogma is a doctrinal notion asserted without regard to evidence or proof. Thus as people develop wisdom and independence in thinking, they see the folly and futility and inadequacy in blindly faith to dogmas. Dogmas are harmless unless allowed to take precedence over spiritual truth and independent spiritual growth. It is not inadvisable to have a few dogmas on hand for pastime, but their utility as means of grace is probably nil.

It is disappointing to note the backward step on the part of China in disposing its president and returning to the regime of an emperor. The change is attributed to the dominance of a strong military leader. It looks as though much internal trouble were in store for China before a peaceful and progressive democratic government can be permanently established.

To permit the Herald's force of eight people to properly observe the Fourth, it was necessary to stem up and advance the work one day, and it was a small task. The job was made more laborious by reason of the fact that affairs incident to the first of the month intervened and people were planning for Independence day.

Ramshackle buildings and treacherous exceptions to the rule have first class hotels and granaries and are surrounded with attractive grounds. The exception to the rule would seem to testify to neglected opportunities.

An exchange suggests that the Wayne young man who went to buy some meat for dinner and then disappeared, may have become discouraged over the high cost of such luxury and decided to light out and lose himself.

WAYNE COUNTY SEEN FROM HERALD'S FORD

"I'll give you three dollars a day if you'll come out and pull morning glories," said Bernard Meyer living four miles southeast of Wayne, and only a strong attachment for the Herald prevented the purchase.

In speaking of the offer of three dollars a day, Dick Meyer said that when he was eighteen, (No, Mr. Reader, I don't flatter myself, although I thought I was anywhere near eighteen) he worked a full year for twenty-two dollars with a pair of shoes and a pair of boots thrown in.

"All his crops are in good condition. Having his own herd he does not need to worry about the 'hired man problem' nor the college student on the farm."

"Perhaps there are those who will think that ninety per cent of the hens in this county are in good condition."

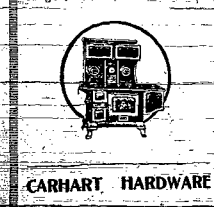

Try Bolting Dishes Together Until Airtight

Break? Of course they will break.

So it is with cast stoves or enamel stoves. If you bolt tight enough to get a tight joint, you break it.

The how are cast and enamel ranges made tight? By bolting loosely, then filling the cracks with stove putty or cement, as it is now called. It dries, all right, and holds before it is fired up.

CARRHART HARDWARE

J. N. Ellenburg has great faith in the potato industry. This year he has five acres—an unusually large acreage—for this section of the country.

"The farmers are much more optimistic regarding crops since the last years. While the corn has been late it is now rapidly pushing ahead and a big crop is expected."

Some ten or twelve miles from the farm, on the highway, a sign reads: "The Zaratrustra society at the Normal under the leadership of their advisor Miss Josephine..."

COMMUNITY DRIER IS STARTED IN LINCOLN

The following description of a community drier for fruits and vegetables, which was sent to Supervisor Herman Siems by the Agricultural Extension Service of the University of Nebraska, and is read with interest by gardeners and housewives:

The first community drier plant ever established in this country for drying fruits and vegetables, and which began operation recently in North Lincoln.

This new venture, which is as yet regarded as an experiment in the field of community cooperation, is thought to be the forerunner of a large number of drying plants that are likely to be established throughout the country before the season is over.

The new drying plant is modeled after the one recently erected by the Agricultural Extension Service. It makes use of a large electric fan which draws a stream of air over the sliced fruits and vegetables, and causes them to dry very rapidly.

The cost of operating the community drier is exceedingly small. It has been estimated that it will cost but 36 cents a day to operate the big fan.

It is expected that other communities will follow Lincoln's lead in establishing a community drier.

Succumb as a Slugg.
To captivate the world as a stage of songs is as simple as—well, as Yvette Guilbert says "is, for Yvette, who is as simple as, just her sparkling beauty." Here is her recipe:
"You must have in your one-voice all voices, all colors; in your one-voice all expressions; in your one soul all the souls of the world. All you must work, work, work! When you have worked for ten years, twenty years, you will find yourself only at the beginning."
There is a little more. You must have a long and stern course of vocal gymnastics for the voice, of plastic for the harmonious and expressive use of the body of history, literature, painting, sculpture—all forms of art and beauty must bring their influence to bear on the creative imagination of the singer, "for you are nothing, nothing."
And that is how it is done.—London Globe.

Rosebushes.
Quite frequently we find rosebushes not producing as fine large roses as they did during their former seasons. Some of the reasons for this are that they have been spotted and these do not seem to bring out the good qualities something else is needed.
Perhaps the roses need from one thing is certain—a little iron will not hurt them. Try burying a few cans beneath the rosebushes—wash them and bury them a few inches beneath the ground. This will give them enough to the roots of the roses that the roots can secure some of the iron and carry it to the foliage and the flowers.
From three to a half dozen cans to a bush is enough. The tin soon rusts off, and the thin sheet of iron will be rapidly gathered up by the action of the elements, and it is surprising how soon a can will wholly disappear.—Philadelphia North American.

Moving an Army.
Some idea of the complexity of the equipment of the railroads of the United States for the movement of troops may be obtained from a statement prepared by an official of the Quartermaster Corps, United States Army.
To move one field army of 80,000 men, consisting of three infantry divisions, one cavalry division and one machine gun regiment, would require a brigade of field army troops—troops auxiliary to the infantry and cavalry divisions—requires a total of 4,229 cars made up into 121 trains, with as many locomotives. These 4,229 cars would be made up of 2,115 passenger, 875 baggage, 1,050 box, 1,280 stock and 775 flat cars.
This quantity of equipment represents 0.7 per cent of the locomotives owned by American railroads, 3.2 per cent of their passenger cars and 0.2 per cent of their freight equipment.—American Industries.

Teeth of the Whale.
Although the whale is a warm-blooded, air-breathing animal, it is a cold-blooded creature. Its body is under water half an hour daily it comes to the surface every eight or ten minutes to blow, expelling a stream of water from its nostrils and remaining above about two minutes.
The orca or finback whale is sometimes more than 100 feet long. The teeth of the sperm or whale often weigh thirty pounds apiece. They are used for ivory, but are not as good as elephant-tusk. Whalebone, which comes from the right or whalebone whale is not really bone at all, but is made of horn or cartilage that grows in plates from the roof of the whale's mouth and serves the purpose of teeth, which are lacking in this variety.

Washed Dishes at the Table.
In former centuries a cistern for the washing of dishes at the table was part of the furniture of a well appointed dining room. In the present day, however, it is considered a disgrace to have dishes washed in it, when necessary they are washed in the sink.
"Peeps in his diary tells of purchasing a pewter cistern as part of his preparation for a dinner party. He made a magnificent dinner but the cistern is still preserved in the dining room at Burgley House, the seat of the Marquis of Exeter."

Pernicious Literature.
"Did you see that stout woman push that little man off the sidewalk?"
"What did she do it for?"
"Why, she's been reading somewhere that women are displacing men in all the walks of life."

Wanted the Limit.
"I used to try my hand at writing when I was in college."
"Ever wrote for money?"
"As often as I thought the old man would send me any."—Buffalo Express.

Reading.
If you like to read and have many books, be careful lest you read too much and think too little.
The feeble tremble before quinine, the foolish defy it, the wise judge it, the skillful direct it.—Mime, Roland.

MORE OR LESS IMPORTANT.
Honest Bill's show which exhibited at Wausau and Carroll last week, left the latter point for Randolph last Thursday. The show had four motor trucks for conveying equipment but often used its two elephants to assist over muddy stretches of road. The mud following Wednesday night's rain made it necessary to quit on the three animals for power. The bigger of the two giants became peevish over the way things were managed, and manifested his displeasure by kicking up a negro helper and flinging him fifty feet. The proprietor, in a fit of rage, struck the negro on the head with the butt of a rifle. The negro, in landing on his cranial extremity prevented injury. The negro left none the worse for the experience and the elephant seemed to feel a great deal better, believing it had rendered an important service by firing the negro into the air as a sign of disapproval and punishment. The way things had been going the animal turned to the task of pushing trucks with renewed zeal and enthusiasm.

One local gardener became so worried over the world's supply that he went to a neighbor to contract for use of the vacant spaces between the rows of potatoes in the latter's garden. This is intensive horticulture.

People have facial eruptions at one time or another. During such eruptions the physiognomy would trade off his face at a bargain and by a new one even at an advanced price. A Ford car will act up and cause a great deal of annoyance and pain. You finally clean the spark plugs and oil its internal works and off it goes all right. But while it is out of order you would trade it for a peck of potatoes. So with your face you would trade it for thirty cents and throw in a quart of healing balm in the belief that you could better yourself for a third of the cost at a ten-cent counter. One can dispense on facial outbreaks or skin irritations with assurance that plenty of people will disagree with him. Also with assurance that no two will absolutely agree on diagnosis and not one could absolutely prove its identity. The layman who has had chickenpox, thinks he knows. Another layman who has had smallpox is equally sure he knows. The layman also knows whether you got it, as a result of impurities in the blood, by contact with infection or in collision with a thousand-legged parasitic germ floating along on the wings of the air. Thus, it is: always was and always will be.

Consistent with food conservation week and to avoid a good many tragedies involving the olfactory nerves, we would suggest the advisability of inventing an onion detector. We would not interfere with that delectable vegetable in the soil of its nativity. We would let it grow and smell triumphantly. We would not attack its odor in any of the various stages before reaching the human stomach. Once there, however, we would have the invention take the smell in hand and destroy it. This would give a man the desirable freedom of use without allowing it to trespass on the public.

The cemetery is a very beautiful place. It is a very comfortable place, but one would not go there to find animation, bustle and excitement. On the contrary, the business district is not so restful and comfortable. It is made of selfish energy and enterprise. One way to keep out of the cemetery class is to keep up improvements and make new ones that will inspire and cheer.—Design and paving will help.

SAFEGUARDING FOOD IN STORAGE.
Lincoln Trade Review: A very important work will be taken up by the insurance companies of the world. They will cooperate with the different state councils of defense, the work being the looking toward a thorough inspection of every grain and food product as handled and stored. Elevators at best are poor risks from fire, but in times like these, when grain prices are three or four times their normal value, the country is depending every energy to increase and conserve food supplies. It is highly proper that every precaution be taken against destruction of grain by fire. The problem of feeding the world would be greatly simplified if the losses in shipping could be reduced to a minimum. The position of the world's supply of submerine on the ocean there should be any considerable loss of food stuffs through fires in this country, it would be a serious question to answer. It is probably a thorough inspection of the many hundreds of warehouses and elevators in this state will show where a little extra care and attention given to the burning fires may give much property.

There is another danger too which can be largely met by putting owners of warehouses and elevators where grain is stored upon their guard against incendiaries. Efforts will be made to have all large storage elevators more carefully guarded at night and day than they have been in the past. There are always in times like these, irresponsibles who through passion and prejudice, would not hesitate to destroy food property if the opportunity was at hand for them.

There was a widespread feeling, when war was declared, that incendiary fires were liable to be frequent and there is surprise on the part of those who have thought of these conditions, that there has been so little property destroyed in the last few months in this way. Properly guarded, the most possible course and the action of the underwriters of the country in making a survey of all risks where food is stored and the action of the state board of control in cooperating with them, is exactly along right lines. More than ever, in times like these, an ounce of prevention is better than a pound of cure.

COMMITTS SUICIDE BY DRINKING POISON

John Miller of Bloomfield, committed suicide Friday afternoon at a local drug store. The cause, Mr. Miller, had been manager of a lumber company for twelve years and was one of the most successful and enterprising men in town. Citizens of the town have no clue as to his reason for committing the deed. He was found by one of the employees in a street adjoining the lumber yard.
Former owners were held in by the Methodist church Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. A large number of people attended the services.

COAL AND OTHER THINGS.

Lincoln Journal. By virtue of the reduction in coal prices to which the bituminous coal mine operators have agreed at the suggestion of the government, a saving of about $100,000,000 per year in the cost of coal at the mines has been made. The saving to the consumer will be still greater, since distributing costs are usually proportioned to cost at the mines.

This means that by virtue of their control of a natural resource, the mine operators, but for the intervention of the government, could and would levy a tax of $2 per ton on the coal that is mined, about a reasonable profit for their service. For there is no suggestion that the prices agreed to are unprofitable.
This means an old problem in a new way. Anthracite coal has long been known as a monopoly. The mine owners and operators have held the power of taxation upon the people of the country. But because their monopoly was based upon ownership of natural resources, and not upon a "conspiracy in restraint of trade," they have been undisturbed in their easy street.
The same situation prevails in the case of steel. It is not a conspiracy in restraint of trade, but actual ownership or control of the natural sources of steel supply, that has made the relative monopoly of the steel industry. In less measure, yet to a certain extent, this has been the case with lumber. The foundation of the Meyerhauser mine was a conspiracy in restraint of an empire of timber. It is the same with copper and lead. It is the same with water power. This form of monopoly, the great vital of all, we have never attacked.

We now at last recognize the "natural monopoly" aspect of the coal business—by government price fixing. The same thing is true of steel, the same action in the case of steel and lumber. This takes under water pressure a vast field of business in the zone of government regulation. After the removal of trusts, the assumption that the one like the other represents a natural monopoly. Will their monopoly powers be turned back to these newcomers in the form of regulation, or will water pressure be removed? To do that would be to say that monopoly is very well for peace, but intolerable in war. Not to do that involves the loss of an extension of governmental function as to make an American head swim.

SPEEDING UP FREIGHT TRAINS.

New York World. The Illinois Central during the last month is said to have broken all railroad records in moving all freight cars on three or four days of forty to fifty miles a day. This is compared with an average of twenty-five miles for all other roads and an average considered practically by the Interstate Commerce Commission of thirty miles for all roads.

If this is possible for the Illinois Central which originates 85 per cent of its traffic, it should be more possible for roads whose traffic is largely passed on to them from other roads.
The problem of freight congestion is thus made to assume a more solution. The road is not wanting in freight equipment so much as they are wanting in the efficient use of what equipment they have. One freight car moved forty-two miles a day is the approximate equivalent of two cars moved hardy twenty-five miles a day. The one car is as good as a pair of gross income as the two cars and a net

BIG FARM DEAL.

Neigh, Neb., June 28.—A large real estate deal was closed here yesterday when John H. Ritscher of Clearwater became owner of the 560-acre farm known as the Wood south of Hartington, Neb., near east of Neigh on Antelope creek. The farm was sold by Duvel and Payne realty company. The consideration was $36,000.
The farm consists of hay land largely and is considered to be one of the best pieces of land in this part of the country.

LIGHTING PLANTS.

Coleridge Blade. The Randolph Times says that the same company which bought the Hartington light franchise at Hartington is trying to buy the municipally owned plant at Randolph. With a large and cheap power center a large corporation could supply current to a number of towns cheaper than each town can own and operate its own plant. However, from what the Hartington city officials say, at the price the new concern intends to charge the town, Randolph had better continue to operate her own plant. The truth is that any of these municipally owned plants soon get, if properly managed, to good city properties, and as the bigger concern must depend for its basic power upon the same source as do the municipally owned plants, viz., gas or kerosene or crude oil, the possibilities are not promising to supply current to distant points much cheaper than can the same points do it locally. With an enormous water power plant at Niobrara, current could be supplied all over northwest Nebraska cheaper than it is possible to do at a plant where every unit of energy means just so much certain cost.

Cooperative Selling

Means money in your pocket because the cost of selling is reduced on every side. The Farmers' Union exists for the sake of the farmer. Flour, coal, salt, feed and other commodities are bought and sold on small margins for the benefit of everybody.

And the Wayne Union is growing. Customers have come as far as from Randolph to lay in a supply of Monitor flour. One party, who had used the flour and knew the quality, came for twenty-five sacks but only 700 pounds could be spared him. The supply of alfalfa seed ran out long before all demands had been answered.

Get acquainted with the Union policy. You will like it.

Watch our ad next week. Something of great interest to every farmer will be announced.

CHILD WELFARE DAY WEDNESDAY JULY 11

It has been planned that on next Wednesday, July 11, the following program will be observed:

At the noon hour a picnic dinner will be served in the church to all visitors from the country.

During the afternoon, Dr. Lutgen will examine and score a limited number of babies.

The meeting is open to the general public, but mothers especially are invited to attend.

A Mistaken Idea...

Some people have an idea that in order to have a bank account, they must have a large sum to deposit; that the bank does not care to be bothered by small accounts.

This, however, is not true of the State Bank. This bank welcomes new accounts, whether of $1 or $1000, and the same courtesy and service is accorded the small depositor, as those in more fortunate circumstances.

It is our object and wish to serve the public in financial matters in a manner that shall be satisfactory to all—old or young, rich or poor.

We Want Your Banking Business and will be pleased to have you open an account with us.

Distinct advantages attach to the country hospital, especially during the summer months. Even with the windows and doors open, comparatively few disturbing noises jar the nerves of the sick, often super-sensitive because of the pain they have suffered.

And, again, it is so much easier for home folks to brighten the sick room with flowers and add certain little touches that fairly breathe the atmosphere of home. It is convenience itself for friends to drop in with some cheery remembrance to shorten the day.

These ideas are not fiction; they are facts. Surround the convalescent with that all-wonderful influence of "home" and the desire to work and live and love is increased a thousand-fold.

Wayne People Star in Crystal Movies

The crowds at the Crystal Friday evening in addition to seeing captivating Mac Murray play the title role in an intensely human story "Sweet Kitty Bellairs" thoroughly enjoyed the review of scenes taken in the business and residence streets of Wayne. The camera man proved himself an adept in catching characteristic poses of Prof. Coleman Grant & Sons, J. G. Mines, Sam Wischoff, Dr. R. N. Donahay, Chris Davies, Rollie Ley, Senator Phil H. Kohl, Prof. and Mrs. O. R. Bowen and many others. Those who saw Charlie Baggart chop wood at lightning speed will no doubt crowd him with orders for work by the job. At the rate he was making the chips fly every tree in Wayne county could be laid low within a month beneath the strokes of his keen Kutter. A lively clog dance by a jovial negro added variety to the "home" pictures.

The fairer sex seemed to shun the camera more or less, but in accordance with the current message "what the camera didn't tell tonight" will divulge at some future date. Crystal patrons may expect feminine stars in the next production.

—IMPORTANT—

If you have not already insured your crops against wind, hail, lightning and fire, give the need immediate attention. No one can afford to neglect or delay such important protection. A valuable crop may be destroyed in a few moments, and then, without insurance, you would have nothing to show for your effort and expense. A great company stands ready to secure you against loss. Are YOU Going to Sell Your Wheat Crop for about one-half price, as you did last year?

We advise farmers to build Granaries. To store their grain and make 100% on their investment.

We think that if you will come to our yard the first time you are in town and tell us the amount of grain you want to store and get the exact cost of the material that it will take to build a granary or crib, you will buy the material and make an investment that will pay you big for your trouble.

It's Time to Paint Up

All the buildings on your premises. Wonderful, isn't it how much a coat of paint will change the appearance of a whole group of buildings?

But it isn't altogether a matter of improving the looks of a place. It is altogether poor economy to let your house and barn go in need of paint. The lumber, no matter how well seasoned it is, will weather in Nebraska winds and storms unless it is protected.

Let me figure on your jobs of outside painting.

I sell and hang wall paper at prices that appeal to the thrifty housewife.

Electric Lights on the Farm

Are no longer a dream, but an accomplished fact. A CUSHMAN plant, which can be installed at a cost that is too insignificant to consider when you think of the lasting benefit, adds to the comfort, well being and happiness of every member of the family.

Not only does the Cushman plant flood the home with daylight brightness, but it furnishes an abundance of electrical energy to operate the separator, feed mill, washing machine, corn sheller, wood saw and a dozen other farm appliances.

Martha & Hypse.
Martha S. Hypse, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hypse of Wahoo, who formerly of Wakefield, was instantly killed Thursday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock by an electric shock received while ironing in the basement. Either through a faulty electric iron, defective wiring or the dampness of the clothes upon which she was working the current was grounded through her body. The fact that she was standing on a cement floor no doubt affected the force of the shock. The girl fell with the iron in her hand, and her father, rushing downstairs when he heard her scream, was partially stunned when he tried to loosen the girl's hold on the iron. Mr. Hypse, who retained consciousness in just a moment, attempted next to cut the wires with his knife. The steel of the knife, coming in contact with the live wires, gave him a terrific shock and he keeled over as though dead. Another daughter, in trying to extricate her father and sister, was also knocked in the floor unconscious. As Mrs. Hypse hurried down the stairs she saw the three lying on the floor. She snuffed off the switches, and finally got the wires loose.

Wahoo physicians were quickly called, but nothing could be done to save the life of the girl who received the first shock. For a while the father was thought to be in a serious condition, but he has now recovered.

The funeral services for Miss Hypse were held at the Swedish Lutheran church at Wahoo at 8:30 Sunday afternoon. Short services were conducted by Rev. J. T. Kramer, assisted by Rev. Sandahl of Wahoo. In the afternoon, an automobile accident north of Fremont having caused the party a long delay at Wisner. Six of the cousins of the deceased acted as pallbearers and four cousins as flower girls. The remains were interred in the Wakefield cemetery where one sister and one brother are buried.

Miss Hypse, who was a little past 22 years old, was born and reared in Wakefield, where the family lived until 1911. Besides her parents she leaves three sisters and four brothers. Scores of friends extend heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved family in the tragic death of daughter and sister.

Flag Raising.
The Fourth of July will close in Wakefield with a patriotic rally and program at the high school grounds, where the new flag will be raised with appropriate exercises. The program, in charge of W. S. Ebersole, Rev. S. H. King and A. M. Hypse, will be carried out as follows:

Medley of patriotic airs—Band.
Dedication Speech—A. M. Hypse.
America—Chorus and Band.
Prayer—Rev. J. T. Kramer.
Solo: Red, White and Blue—Miss Myrtle Carlson.
Address: "Our County's Emblem"—Rev. S. H. King.
Flag raising by Charles Oliver and other G. A. R. men, while the band plays the Star Spangled Banner.
Salute to flag led by Eleanor Ware, Faith Nuernberger, Eleanor Mathewson and Vivian Fleetwood. Benediction, Rev. F. Williams.

Miss Haskell Leaves.
Miss Faith Haskell has gone to Loretto Heights, Denver, Colo., to take Red Cross training at the Fifth National Service school. This school, which is conducted under the direction of the Woman's section of the Navy League, offers courses not only in the various phases of Red Cross work, but in wireless telegraphy and many branches of clerical work. The camp is managed along strictly military lines and is under the direct supervision of army officers and Red Cross nurses. Miss Haskell will register for a short course, returning to Wakefield to help in the active work of the chapter at this school. Miss Haskell left Wakefield Sunday, stopping one day in Sioux City to visit friends.

State Road Assured.
It has been definitely decided that the state automobile road will run from Wakefield to Ponca. State Engineer Johnson, who was in this section of the state looking over the route last week, stated that $20,000 will be allowed by the state for Dixon county.

It is expected that the contracts with about the first of the next year, although the plans for the Wakefield-Ponca branch of the road will no doubt be ready within a few weeks.

It is also thought quite probable that the road in Wayne county will run from Wakefield either south or west.

Red-Cross Fund.
Through the thorough and consistent efforts of all the teams of the finance committee of the Wakefield Red Cross the goal, which was set at $2,500, has been reached and passed. Monday, evening the total for the Y. M. C. A. and Red Cross fund combined was $3,312.70, and the returns were not yet complete.

Scientific Freezing of Ices, Ice Cream and other similar desserts is the kind done when you use SIMMONS' WONDER FREEZER

And as with everything else that gives unusual results, "there's a reason." It is this way. The blades are so arranged and hollowed out that the cream is forced from the bottom of the can to the top and again to the bottom. Not only does this unique up-and-down motion make the process of freezing lighter and quicker, but it gives the cream a velvety consistency that is altogether delightful.

MR. KOHL'S ROOMMATE GIVES EXPLANATION

Regarding the importance of the service in the United States navy to be rendered by Tracy Kohl, his roommate at Dartmouth college writes the Herald the following letter of explanation which will be very gratifying to the young man's Wayne friends.
Hanover, N. H., June 25, 1917.
Editor Wayne Herald:
Wayne, Neb.
My Dear Sir—
On receiving through the last edition of your paper I find a short notice pertinent to the enlistment of Tracy Kohl, the son of Senator and Mrs. P. H. Kohl of your city, in the navy at the Boston yard. The notice is scarcely worthy of the specialized branch of the national service in which Mr. Kohl has been accepted, I am taking the liberty in writing you in an attempt to explain the significance of his acceptance.
Mr. Kohl has not enlisted in the navy simply as an able-bodied seaman, as your notice would indicate, but he has been taken into a very highly specialized branch of the service after most strict examinations; mental and physical. The work of his particular department will be directly with the great ship building industry that the government is soon to begin. Mr. Kohl was one of the first class of the twenty men chosen to receive over two thousand applicants for this work; and he is now studying cost-accounting and big business methods in the business school of Harvard, preparatory to taking up military work in the navy in the fall. He has already been recommended to Washington for the commission of assistant paymaster which will give him the rank of ensign in the naval reserve. As a respectable young man, W. William Cunningham, Dartmouth, '19.

BUSINESS AS USUAL.
Nebraska Farmer: This slogan is being quite generally used nowadays, though it is a misnomer of the thought it seeks to convey. To everyone it is apparent that under abnormal conditions a country by a gigantic war, business cannot be as usual. That people who in sympathy agree upon the actual operations of this appeal, disagree emphatically

UPON THE MANNER OF EXPRESSING IT WAS SHOWN LAST WEEK IN TWO ARTICLES WHICH WE PUBLISHED UNDER THE HEADINGS "SHALL BUSINESS BE AS USUAL?"

Mr. Filley contended that it was unwise for people to buy promiscuously and spend their money extravagantly for luxuries and amusements. He contended that in the matter of necessary building operations the customary activity should prevail. These arguments are entirely compatible and yet it appears that they were on opposite sides of the question.
Extravagance and waste should not be tolerated at a time so critical as now and yet they result more harmful in effect than for people who have the money not to spend it wisely for the things they would normally buy in the conduct of business or in providing the comforts of living for the masses of commerce were stopped all revenue for the war would have to come out of savings or the sale of properties that have been used in the conduct of business. If they were not so effectively business can be conducted the more easily and wisely the war can be financed.
Nor is it necessary for people to become panicky and depressed in order that they may render the greatest service to their country. Several thousand men are now being trained to lead our troops in this war and the ones who will be more for the more responsible positions are those who have a disposition of cheerfulness, a determination to make the most of a bad condition and to overcome every situation with calm judgment, untroubled by fear or worry.
Business cannot be as usual. That we all admit. But it can be normal so far as war times admit. Therefore, if the farmer needs better buildings and has the money to pay for them he should build them. If he wants an automobile he is entitled to it. The products of his labor are not going to go farther in that direction than they would in normal times. It is no crime to play and laugh and to resort to those recreative practices that keep the body fit for the hardest trials. To this extent business can and should be as usual.

Are You One of Them?

There are a great many people who are very much troubled by taking Chamberlain's Tablets for a weak or disordered stomach. Are you one of them? Mrs. M. K. Searl, Baldwinville, N. Y., relates her experience in the use of these tablets. "I had a bad pain with my stomach about six months ago, and was troubled for two or three weeks with gas and severe pains in the pit of my stomach. Our druggist advised me to take Chamberlain's Tablets. I took a bottle home and the first dose relieved me wonderfully, and I kept on taking them until I was cured. These tablets do not relieve pain, but as the pain has been relieved may prevent its recurrence.—Adv.

Bright in the faculty of the Wayne State Normal, the West Point Teachers' Association, in congratulatory resolutions, passed under a resolution of the board of education at Wayne, he will not accept the new position until he is released by the board. It is generally hoped that the normal will stand as the way of his advancement. West Point friends learn with great pleasure of Professor Bowen's election.

Pierce Call: The many friends of Prof. O. K. Bowen here in Pierce will be greatly pleased to learn that at a meeting of the state normal board held at Lincoln last week he was elected to be head of the mathematics department of the Wayne State Normal in place of Prof. C. He was superintendent of the Force public schools five successive years, and was re-elected for the sixth year, but accepted the superintendent of the school at West Point at an increase in salary and had by the Board board. THE MILITARY SALUTE

Reproduced from Lincoln Journal. The salute that is rapidly spreading among civilians and there is a reforming society with nothing to do, it might grapple with the "massacre."

Everybody is saluting now. It ought to be sufficient that millions of our sailors and soldiers are busy "cutting the right hand away from the body," that the folk at home are ardent imitators.

Ladies saluting each other, not with the sisterly kiss, but with a graceful sweep of shawl arm. And boys who have dropped out of their corps, seem to find satisfaction in compromising with the salute.

Where will it end? Will it ever end? These questions open up an alarming vista for the people.

Let us consider the day when saluting will have taken a fixed place in our existence, when the office boy will swing to attention when the senior member of the board of directors as they enter. And also the day when the domestic servant and the policeman will salute the people.

These courtesies before the breakfast table mark its appearance. The salute of football players joining in such a tribute of respect to their opponents is well witnessed, but as to that I reserve prophecy.

Be that as it may, as the learned say, saluting has become a tyranny. It is a most degrading and degrading thing to have a fellow human being who hoard up opportunities to salute as some people hoard up money and canned goods. They should be handed over to the committee of public safety.

What energy is wasted in the army in saluting! Why a man in uniform should be constantly saluting is something that baffles me. It is so non-understandable that I suspect it to be a Hunnish device, like liquid fire projectors and poison gas.

A sympathetic secretary of war would abolish it, as flogging in the navy was suppressed.

There are people in the army who would like to get rid of saluting, but their hands are limited to their proper sphere. To them the army still stands for red jackets and pith helmets. And in their eyes saluting is a most degrading thing.

It is in their eyes saluting is a most degrading thing. The victors of Verdun are not patriotically attached to the rigid forms that mark it.

In the army it is in our army. It is a military salute. It will find saluting degrading upon, patted and praised. It is a grave and responsible matter, not to be trifled with.
