WARD RANDOL TELLS OF FORT MEADE LIFE

Ward Randol, who left Wayne about the middle of May to enter the service of the United States army in the medical department of the post hospital at Fort Meade, S. D., enjoyed a five-day furlough with home folks here last week, returning to his duties at the fort Saturday night.

Mr. Randol is very enthusiastic over army life. The boys in the department in which he is training, are required to spend a month each in the dispensary in the kitchen, in the office and in the drug room.

After the men have had experience in all these lines of hospital service, they are given an oral examination. This examination, it is thought, will be held the latter part of August at Fort Meade.

Good food and comfortable quarters are enjoyed at Fort Meade, which is located in the heart of the Black Hills, one of the most picturesque and healthful spots in the entire country. The buildings at the fort are arranged in a sort of hollow square with a training field in the center. A large parade ground extends across the entire width of the camp.

The regular government menu is at present supplemented by an abundance of vegetables from the two large gardens, one of which includes three and one-half acres, cared for by the boys in the service. The man who is now in charge of the kitchen in the post hospital is none other than Dr. De Palma, who formerly played accommodations for Madame Schumann-Heink. This noted musician, who often received $500 a night for a performance, is trying to gratify his fame and his ambition to serve Uncle Sam at regular government pay. Nearly all of the boys in the hospital corps are college men, and although the material is somewhat untested, it is believed that the days also brought a full measure of keen enjoyment, and wholesome fun.

MISS MACK'S READING IS HIGHLY PRAISED

The audience that listened to the reading of George Hobart's "The Street of Vacillation" by Miss Mack in the auditorium of the Normal school last Thursday night gained therefrom a new sense of the mystic meaning of the words of the Wind Blows Where It Listeth and thus hearest the sound thereof and cannot tell where it cometh or whither it goeth. So is everyone that is born of the spirit.

For an hour and a half the listeners were in the grip of the intense situations that passed rapidly from climax to climax and in the splendid rendition, expressed itself in the heartiest ovation the writer has heard in Wayne.

The selection is a touching story of the youth who wanders far from the right path, meeting all the temptations that can beset him. It is couched in the beautiful and vivid style of the old morality plays in which all vices and virtues are per-

She Can Easily Stop All Outside Rust But She CAN'T Stop Inside Rust

You never saw a range rust so badly on the outside that a little oil or stove polish wouldn't stop the rust. But what can you do for inside rust, even if you knew it was rusting? You never know it until rusted through and you couldn't do anything if you knew it.

By placing the sheet of copper between the sweaty shelves and range body, in Copper-Clad Ranges, internal rust is prevented. The copper stops the sweat and the dry air space prevents any moisture from touching the outer casing. If there is no internal rust, you can take care of external rust with a greasy rag or a little graphite or oil or paraffin wax or stove polish. Any of these things stops the rust if you can see it.

Buy a Copper-Clad Range and be certain that your range will never be destroyed by internal rust. It can't rust out.

IN "REJUVENATION"

This comedy-drama in three acts, written especially for Chautauqua audiences, combines the message of the lecturer, the humor of the entertainer and the dramatic intensity of the reader. The strong modern political play of the hour is with a punch that rebounds with a laugh, dealing with suffrage, prohibition and eternal youth with an intensity of interest and such sparkling humor that attention never flags until the sixty-year "rejuvenation" of a grandmother to the twenty-year-old wife of the governor has been completed. A thoroughly professional company, with special scenery and costumes, including Mr. Hobe Greenleaf, for whom the part was written, as Lord Deskonfield, and Fred Congdon, leading man, as James McKenzie.

Carhart Pure Honey Extracted from the Comb

A ton of honey, 2,600 pounds of delicious sweetness, was the output of the Carhart Apiary last season. G. E. Carhart, well known throughout this section as the senior member of the Carhart Lumber company, is as efficient and as thorough-going in the bee industry as he is in the downtown hardware shop.

Among the Beehives

Other hats may be more becoming, but none feels quite so comfortable as a bee-hat to a novice about to enter the home premises of the busy "Buzzers."

Lined up in twenty-five colonies are literally thousands of bees all busy "making hay while the sun shines." Some hives have already stored as much as 150 pounds of honey.

Mr. Carhart is very careful to provide each hive with a queen excluder, a frame wired so as to allow the worker bees to pass back and forth freely and at the same time block the queens which are considerably larger, from going into the supers.

The queen bee is so busy laying eggs to replenish the race (bees by the way actually work themselves to death, living on the average of only three or four weeks) that she doesn't have time to feed herself.

Clever housewives find a dozen and one ways to use extracted honey in cooking. It is delicious in puddings and all kinds of desserts. Extracted honey is often combined with breakfast foods to give variety. It may be used in cakes for sweetening.

Extracting Process

The unique, and therefore, most interesting part of the Carhart apiary is the huge Root Automatic Extractor in the basement. This machine, which is a sort of a huge tank with four dasher-like arrangements, is always covered with a white cloth to exclude dust.

Mr. Carhart is very careful to provide each hive with a queen excluder, a frame wired so as to allow the worker bees to pass back and forth freely and at the same time block the queens which are considerably larger, from going into the supers.

It is a distinct advantage to buy extracted honey from a local man, whose bee-yards you can inspect. You can investigate his whole process of caring for the bees and preparing the honey for market and it will only make you more enthusiastic to buy nothing but Carhart honey.

Honey a Splendid Substitute for Sugar

In these days of soaring sugar prices, Wayne county housewives can find real economy in honey. It is rich in "inverted" or pre-digested sugars, and many who are unable to eat candy or cane sugar, have no trouble at all in assimilating the sweetness of honey.

Clever housewives find a dozen and one ways to use extracted honey in cooking. It is delicious in puddings and all kinds of desserts. Extracted honey is often combined with breakfast foods to give variety. It may be used in cakes for sweetening.

If you are among those who have never used honey to any great extent, this is your opportunity to cut-down expenses and add to the palatableness and wholesomeness of your meals.

FOR BEST SERVICE

In his class room recently, a State Normal instructor emphasized the need of plenty of sleep on the part of students to make them efficient and efficient. He pointed out 9 o'clock as the proper hour for retirement if one expected to rise early and be at his best during the day. (Perhaps the hour is a trifle early, depending on the time of rising in the morning.) Many of the students at the Normal are to teach the coming year, and they will insist on regular habits among their pupils if they are to be efficient. It is not consistent for them to practice in their school studies now the kind of training school officials will expect them to employ in their teaching.

It is a well known fact that the worth of a teacher is not measured by the amount of money he receives, but by the amount of work he accomplishes in any line of endeavor. No one, whether working as a student or as a teacher, can be efficient unless he has the highest service as a practice of being up late at night. The midnight hour is no time for retirement for one who is engaged in a profession or a school district or a business institution. We have known young people to engage in social frivolity until late every night of the week, and then wonder why their studies were not satisfactory. They yawn and moon around in the day time, and complain of not feeling well as an excuse for failure to do things which they ought to do. At night they have recovered sufficiently to tackle the nocturnal social whirl again.

Many teachers erroneously figure the time of their sleep to be a school district or a business institution. We have known young people to engage in social frivolity until late every night of the week, and then wonder why their studies were not satisfactory. They yawn and moon around in the day time, and complain of not feeling well as an excuse for failure to do things which they ought to do. At night they have recovered sufficiently to tackle the nocturnal social whirl again.

AS TO THE FUTURE. It is quite inconceivable that Germany could win the war. But if it were possible for her to win what would the strengthened and entrenched Kaiser do? Flushed with victory, would he put the yoke of autocracy on the United States? Would democratic governments end for a time and until people, galled beyond endurance by restricted privileges, revolt and demand a new deal? What would historians be able to say 500 years from now if Germany should win? Might they say this:

"For nearly a century and a half the United States had wonderful development as a free democracy. It was a land of great opportunity, wealth, genius, freedom and tolerance. Surfeited with riches and weakened by luxury and ease, refusing to listen to words of warning and failing to be duly aroused to meet the impending peril, it fell before Prussian autocracy, and was enslaved and its liberties were ground under the heel of imperial exactions and restrictions. Premise of democratization of the world was cut short by triumph of king rule."

But granting that America wins, listen to the fate which history has in store for her. "The republic of the United States, born near the close of the eighteenth century by breaking chains that bound it to a British monarchy, made successive triumphs over internal and external obstacles, and finally, in 1917, having grown powerful with its beneficence, was forced into a world war, and took a stand against the encroachment of autocracy and for extension of the democratic principles on which its government was founded. By reason of the victory which came as a result of entrance into the struggle thrones crumbled, kings abdicated, divine rights of rulers were repudiated, liberty was extended and guaranteed and people everywhere, in the vanquished as well as the victorious nations, rejoiced in the humanitarian position taken and maintained by the young and stalwart Goliath of the western world.

Decisive victory for the United States would mean commercial, social and political freedom for the world. For autocracy might mean an embargo on opportunity, on thinking, on everything.

AN IMPERATIVE DUTY.

The statement by the State Council of Defense, published by NEBRASKA dailies last week, and published in today's Herald by request of the council, calls attention to opposition to the government in the prosecution of the war. Mention is made of the fact that the Lutheran church has been indiscreet in their attitude and utterances manifestly does not mean that the church generally is subject to adverse criticism at the hands of the church as an organization by Rev. Luther M. Kuhus is also published by the Herald. He shows that the church referred to is thoroughly patriotic in principle and is not in accord with any members who may have given expression to contrary sentiments. When the war was between Germany and England, people were at many in tabernacles. Naturally, there were pro-German and pro-English sympathizers. Now that this government is involved, it is the imperative duty of every citizen to stand by this government. Some have likely failed to understand the importance of this duty, and have yielded to indiscretions of speech. But the great masses, regardless of nationality, are loyal and ready to make any sacrifice needed to uphold the United States.

As those who have become subjects of criticism come to the aid of the requirements of citizenship, it is reasonable to believe the union of minds and singleness of purpose will be complete and ground for exposure will entirely disappear.

War forces unselfishness. People cannot think merely of self-comfort and self-gain. They can't devote themselves to mere amassing wealth and pleasure seeking. They are asked and required to look beyond self and to the preservation and security of the nation which protects them. If the American government means the preservation of its democratic institutions, it must uphold the rights of life and property would be jeopardized. We might be crushed under the heel of autocracy, and the security of every citizen. Treason is intolerable as those which were thrust aside by our revolutionary forefathers. In order to serve larger selfishness—to safeguard our freedoms and property rights—we must put up with self-sacrifice. We must put forth effort and make sacrifice to comprehend the safety and welfare of the entire nation. The security of America means the security of every citizen. Treason would mean danger for every citizen. Not only in the army and navy, on the farm and in the factory, but in every household and in every industrial and business institution, the things as well as big ones, should and must be done to strengthen and preserve the nation.

The half-page story written by Miss M. Forbes for today's Herald, on the sword which is the symbol of a local affair is very interesting and contains helpful suggestions in the direction of solving the food problem. Besides satisfying an appetite for sweets, honey is healthful and comparatively inexpensive. And the habits of bees are worth noting. Their industry should be an inspiration. They don't live long while the life they lead is intensely active. They don't allow any unnecessary loafing. The bee industry is worth studying, and the bee product certainly deserves a place on every household's table.

"Resolved that the pen is mightier than the sword" was discussed thirty years ago by high school debating clubs with the chances in favor of the affirmative. But the last few years the sword has been in the ascendancy and presently the pen would now score defeat in the kind of match suggested.

People who were encouraged by the notion that the millennium was near at hand, were evidently misled and it took a long time before we can abolish fighting machines and get along without the protection of trained soldiers.

The attorney general rules that liquor "in the person" in dry territory is illegal. What's the status of liquor in the person? Or does that depend on the quality and kind of liquor? Is it demonstrative or not?

COMMUNICATION.

Mr. Editor: The intelligence of the people of this community is such as to assure general appreciation of your interesting editorial on Religion and dogma. I wish to con-phasize the uselessness of the old conception of scholarship at which you take a sly poke and to note that increasingly a different conception of what constitutes genuine scholarship is gaining ground in all institutions of learning; as well as in the world at large.

A scholar in the modern sense is a thinker. A thinker is one who can analyze facts, classify them and use them in the solution of a problem. He is a scientist. He knows his own field. He can test his own results. He knows the difference between proof and speculation.

Such scholars are of untold value to society. They blaze the way in every field of new truth. Recently I noted that Pasteur was led into the amazingly valuable practical discoveries in which he passed many years by his interest in a purely speculative question of the spontaneous generation of life. General Goethals and his assistants made Panama safe by reason of the application of principles discovered by relatively obscure men. Further, the very explosives that made the construction of the canal possible were the work of those who were investigating purely scientific questions.

In other realms such as philosophy and religion the method of thought must be used and appreciated by the public if their fields of science are not to be abandoned by eminent thinkers. He who demands respect for his mere opinions as if they were established truth cannot command the respect of a thinking world.

von one day. Mr. Forbes will return to Wayne about August 1.

Prof. A. F. Gulliver has purchased the residence property belonging to Prof. C. H. Bright which is located on faculty row. They expect to move into their new home about August 1. The L. E. Panabaker property, which Prof. Gulliver has been living in will be occupied by Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Jenkins.

The statement reproduced in last week's Herald from the Oakland Independent, with reference to the election of J. R. Armstrong to the position of superintendent of the Wayne schools, should have read that he "did not make personal application until he was notified by the board that the position was officially open," instead of merely that he "had not applied for the position."

Leo McShane of Lincoln, who is now in the class in caring to be a member of the Missouri synod, wrote and said he was expelled from the synod. He explained his position by declaring:

"The Nebraska council of defense has not attacked the loyalty of the Lutheran church. The report of the council of defense says, 'We regret to the regret of the men and women who comprise the membership of the Lutheran church to put a check upon the in-American activities of some of their conspicuous and influential representatives.' I think, therefore, the action of this meeting is superfluous."

Rev. Mr. Saeger was answered by Rev. E. T. Otto, pastor of St. Paul's German Lutheran church, Omaha, who stated that Rev. Mr. Saeger has only recently moved to Omaha from Iowa, and therefore, had nothing official to do with the meeting.

Resolutions setting forth unqualified loyalty were adopted unanimously.

PROCLAIM LOYALTY

Omaha, Neb., July 17.—Outspoken in their expressions of loyalty to the United States, Lutheran clergymen of Nebraska, in connection here today, unanimously adopted resolutions setting forth that the church is living up to its doctrinal basis, which commands loyalty to the government.

Pastors and officials of the general synod, general council, Missouri synod, German Nebraska synod, and Norwegian-Danish synod were present. Half a dozen different languages are used in the churches represented by the clergymen present. Some of them came from a great distance. Rev. C. B. Harmon, president of the Nebraska synod, came from North Platte to the meeting.

The pastors who represented the Missouri synod and the German Nebraska synod at the meeting were most outspoken in their expressions of loyalty to the government. The churches of these synods use the German language, and their members are almost exclusively people of German birth or ancestry. The Missouri synod has 25,000 communicant members in Nebraska.

The only suggestion of any dissent from the patriotic resolutions adopted came near the close of the meeting when Rev. W. W. Saeger, a member of the Missouri synod, arose and said he was expelled from the synod. He explained his position by declaring:

"The Nebraska council of defense has not attacked the loyalty of the Lutheran church. The report of the council of defense says, 'We regret to the regret of the men and women who comprise the membership of the Lutheran church to put a check upon the in-American activities of some of their conspicuous and influential representatives.' ### Maximum Service at Minimum Cost

That is exactly the goods which the Maxwell car delivers. Three points, absolutely essential to car satisfaction, are emphasized in the Maxwell.

LIGHT WEIGHT

ATTRACTIVE APPEARANCE

LOW OPERATING COST

Comfort and convenience are also given close attention. Thirteen years of careful study has made possible such a sturdy dependable car. The low comparative price is possible because of scientific manufacturing methods and the great volume of business.

Let us demonstrate the 1918 Maxwell to you. A carload of 1918 Maxwells unloaded Monday.

AUTO NEWS NOTES.

Another field women have successfully entered in the business world is that of automobile demonstrators. For years car dealers found themselves at a loss to explain carburetors, storage batteries, and ignition systems to the inexperienced woman. Women were timid about starting out on the roads with a man in learning how to drive.

Perhaps Mrs. C. L. Johnson, who has secured a phenomenal increase in feminine trade for the Varn-Johnson Motor Co., Reo distributors, Savannah, Ga., is the most noted in this field today. Mrs. Johnson does not confuse the woman prospect with a long string of technical names, but in understandable terms she tells just what a certain part does, how it does it and for what purpose.

The woman demonstrator calls attention to the exterior effects and stresses the superior finish of her car. And above all, under her tutelage the lady buyer makes much more rapid progress in the art of driving.

AS TO CHAINS.

The Motor World gives these suggestions relative to caring for driving chains:

The chain in proper adjustment should carry about an inch of sag. Then if dirt or mud works into the chain parts, the slack will prevent undue strain upon the parts.

Chains should be regularly lubricated with heavy graphite grease. Occasionally they should be thoroughly washed with kerosene and immersed in hot tallow for two or three hours.

BUICK Line-Up for 1918

Both the 5-passenger and the 7-passenger Buicks in the chassis line of 1918 will be fitted out with the standard six-cylinder engine. The car known as the Buick Little Six, has also been made larger and improved by a dry plate multiple disk clutch and a new universal of the in-closed-type with spherical ball drive.

The 7-passenger shows wonderful lines with its double cowled and slanting windshield. The extra seats are disappearing.

OTHER CHANGES ON THE NEW MODELS WHICH WILL DELIGHT YOU ARE—

- 1—Grip type of brake lever in place of button top type.
- 2—Ball bearing in place of plain bearing distributor.
- 3—Raised radiator and hood giving a long, straight line effect.
- 4—Timken roller instead of ball bearings in front wheels.
- 5—Bodies roomier both in length and width.
- 6—Plaited buttonhole upholstery.
- 7—Pantasote top in place of mohair.
- 8—Hand pads on the doors.
- 9—New type demountable rims.
- 10—New Stewart quick-resetting speedometer.

SEE THE NEW BUICKS AND GET A LINE ON MANY 1918 IMPROVEMENTS ON ALL MODELS.

Is Your Battery Holding Its Own?

Your car is blazing its way through the heat of the midsummer sun. In a few months the same car will be battling through the grip of winter's worst storm. Always your car must meet new conditions. Roads, speed, traffic and many other causes are constantly tearing down or building up the storage battery of your car.

Whether your battery endures all these changing conditions depends not only on the kind of battery, but also upon the service behind it. Any battery, no matter how good, may easily be ruined by neglect.

Prest-O-Lite SERVICE

No matter what conditions you encounter—no matter where you may be—you'll find Prest-O-Lite Service waiting to keep your battery in good condition and insure you car satisfaction. Have your batteries regularly "supervised" by our Prest-O-Lite Service and avoid the greater part of your battery troubles.

When you need a new battery, remember—there is a Prest-O-Lite just the size for your car.

Build a Garage Before Winter Comes

Don't run that new, high-priced car into any old shed. You can't afford not to have your automobile protected in a rain-proof, dust-proof garage.

Give us your idea of a convenient garage, and we will be glad to submit figures of the necessary number of feet required for such a building.

And we'll guarantee that for Service, Appearance and Economy, you'll not find the equal of our lumber anywhere.

WAYNE, NEBRASKA, THURSDAY, JULY 19, 1917.

VOL. 30, NO. 7

MISS MADSEN'S STORY OF TRAVELS IN FORD

(Eugenia Madsen.)

I have nothing to write about this week and shall take the next issue to see how the Ford will hold up. I saw a new case car in the other day. But the most amusing place in the Herald Ford at as great a distance as possible from it. A dark cloud led the owner to offer to take me to Wayne in his car in case rain should stop the Ford. But my prayers were severely shaken for instead of a down-pour—the sun came out. It was late in the afternoon before I could again bring myself to believe that it was raining in state. I hear many longingly wish for a Packard, an Oldsmobile or a Jeffrey—how foolish! Each of these cars can be duplicated at one price. But the most amusing part of this world does not hold a counterpart of the Herald Ford. However, as Mr. Huse was thinking of rather trying to crank it up, I have had a witness his diabolical actions there.

A man gave me an order for stationery, and asked me to call at the house for the money. The wife was trusting look and leaving a friend in charge to watch the silverware she found it necessary to have a talk with her husband. I have been a teacher, hog medicine peddler and general service agent, but this is the first time I have been complimented with being given a "rogue" but the most amusing part of all was when George Motson, the genial high school janitor, remarked that I was still wearing the same hat I had when I left my home in my native town in my city. I told him it was beginning to be rather fierce-looking and he remarked that that was the way it looked when I got to it. The hat had been a different one, but that did not suit his aesthetic taste. Mr. Motson offered to select my next hat and if ninety-nine percent of the people did not judge it the best looking hat they ever had—would pay for it. When I arrived home I took an inventory of my hats and I decided that Mr. Motson had played safe.

Complications in general were good. One hears a few complaints about too much water injuring the corn on low land or about cut worms destroying parts of fields. Harvest has nearly begun and there is some anxiety about securing help. One man said that he had been able to hire a man at a needy time last month—he would have been willing to pay twenty-five dollars per month. He offered me three dollars a day if I would help him through harvest, but one condition was that I should do the cooking. After the first day I am sure he would be willing to pay an extra amount if I would omit that part of my duties.

(I believe I have proved my first statement.)

Miner, the club's representative at the gannning school recently conducted at the State Normal. During the session the Minervas elected Mrs. F. S. Erskine in place of Mrs. E. B. Erskine who resigned on account of leaving the city.

SOCIAL NEWS

An Ice Cream Social.

The young people of the Baptist church members of the B. Y. U. held an ice cream social and candy sale Saturday evening on the church lawn. Japanese lanterns were strung across the lawn. Refreshments were served at seven o'clock and a large crowd attended. The proceeds which amounted to $20 will be used for the general expenses of the society.

Entertain at Dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Jenkins entertained a few friends at a dinner Sunday in honor of the birthdays of Miss Elizabeth Durrie and Mrs. Jenkins. A large birthday cake lighted with little candles, made an effective centerpiece. Each guest received a little bouquet of sweet peas as a favor. Covers were laid for the following: Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Electwood, Miss Elizabeth Durrie, Miss Maude Williamson of Carroll, F. C. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Jenkins.

Interesting Session.

Miss Marietta Clasen was hostess to the regular meeting of the Young Women's Bible Study circle last Saturday evening. This is the first meeting which has been held in the Clasen home since it has been remodeled and redecorated. Miss Lelia Strand of Bruce, S. D., who is attending the Normal, had charge of the interesting lesson. Refreshments were served during the social hour following the lesson. An unusually large crowd enjoyed the evening at the Clasen home.

A Family Dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Noakes entertained at a family dinner at their home in Wayne Sunday. The occasion was the birthday of the son for several years when all the children were at home. After an appetizing two-course dinner had been served a photographer came to the house to take pictures of the party. The group included: Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Noakes and daughter Lucille, Mr. and Mrs. George Noakes and two children, Margaret and Marie, Willie Noakes and Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Noakes.

Farewell Party.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Rigg who left Wayne Tuesday for Iowa, were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Young Monday evening at a 5:30 o'clock supper. At 6:30 o'clock the girls of the Bible circle in a body sang a surprise to Mrs. Rigg, who had been a popular and helpful member of the organization for the last six months. During the evening Miss Blanche Fry, of Gregory, O. D., president of the circle, sang, and other special music was enjoyed. As a token of appreciation and good wishes the girls presented Mrs. Rigg with a gift—a deep-laid painted china. Light refreshments were served. Thirty guests were present.

A Pre-Nuptial Shower.

Miss Marguerite and Miss Goldie Chace were hostesses Monday afternoon at a delightful shower complimentary to Miss Florence Welch who is wedded to Harry Armstrong will take place next month. After the guests had arrived the hostesses carried into the room a large bowl of red, white and blue sweet peas and the guests were each given a chance to guess the number of blossoms in the bouquet. After much serious guessing on the part of the young ladies, Mrs. Chace announced the winning of the prize, the correct number being the loss of our dear wife, mother and grandmother—David Moler and family.

E. W. HOWES PHILOSOPHY

Most men believe they could create a great commotion by offering to sell out, and leave. Some men are so slow that it is necessary for those of ordinary activity to go back and hurry them along.

OBITUARY.

The funeral services for Mrs. David Moler, who died at LaMoille, Ia., last Wednesday, were held at the Congregational church at that place, Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Moler, whose maiden name was Harriet Eliza Shaner, was born in Gallia county, Ohio, April 17, 1845, and died July 11, 1917, at the age of 72 years, 2 months and 24 days. Her marriage to David Moler took place on March 31, 1863, her husband at that time being a soldier in the civil war. The youngest surviving children who were born to this union died at the age of twenty-one.

In 1876 the Moler family moved from Ohio to Marshall county, Ia., where they lived for several years. They lived in Holt county for twenty-three years, moving to Wayne in 1906. When they left Wayne they first of July for LaMoille, they expected to buy property and make that their permanent home.

Although for the last year Mrs. Moler had been suffering from muscular nerve trouble, her condition was not serious enough to hinder her to her bed. She seemed to be feeling as well as usual Wednesday morning. Shortly after 11 o'clock Mrs. Moler lay down to rest and in five minutes she was dead.

Mrs. Moler is survived by her husband, one daughter, Mrs. J. H. Huff of LaMoille, Ia., one son, H. A. Moler of Sioux City, one sister, Mrs. C. E. Reed of Richmond, Ind., nine grandchildren, three of whom, Edna Moler Grier, and Misses Bernice and Henrietta Moler, were reared in the Moler home from early childhood, and seven great grandchildren.

Mrs. Moler was a lifelong member of the Presbyterian church, and was united with the Wayne church at the time of her death. She had many friends at Wayne and elsewhere who will extend cordial sympathy to the surviving members of the family.

CARD OF THANKS.

We wish to thank our neighbors and friends at Wayne for the kindness and sympathy shown us in our bereavement. The loss of our dear wife, mother and grandmother—David Moler and family.

Great James J. Hill Million Dollar Kittson Co., Minn., Farm For Sale

EVERY farmer in the Northwest knows of the great "Empire Builder's" famous 22,000-acre Kittson County, Minnesota, farm. Selected by Mr. Hill over thirty years ago when he had practically the choice of all the land in the Red River Valley, the "Bread Basket of America"—it is one of the choicest pieces of land in the entire Northwest. During the last ten years of his life Mr. Hill spent something like $100,000 in improving this great farm.

NOW OPEN TO ACTUAL SETTLERS

The Hill estate has authorized and instructed us to sell this land in quarter and half sections to actual settlers, to men who will go on the land themselves or improve and put tenants on it. No purchaser will be allowed to buy more than 320 acres, except the big place, known as the Humboldt farm. As it is the purpose of the estate to secure actual settlers for this great tract, none of the land is for sale to Bankers, Merchants, Lawyers, Doctors, Preachers or Widows, or any others seeking to buy it for purely speculative purposes.

Sale Starts at Once—Closes November 1, 1917—Possession Given March 1, 1918

You can go and see this land for yourself right now! The sooner you go the better your chances for the best choice of pieces. They are wide choices of locations. Purchaser can take either 160 acres or 320 acres of level, unimproved, prairie land, now in pasture, as low as $25 an acre; or he can take 160 acres or 320 acres in cultivation at $35 to $45 an acre. Purchaser can obtain a tract now in alfalfa or timothy, or with improvements of different sizes, part in cultivation, part in alfalfa, part in timothy and part in pasture; or he can buy the large place.

Mr. Nielson is a live wire in the moving picture world, and he is bound to see that Wayne people have none but the latest and best. Hartington Herald: The newspapers contain many interesting stories these days of girls and young women who are entering upon various careers and various life vocations by the young men and boys who have left for the front. The young women are working in the offices, cultivating in the fields, driving street cars, serving on the police force, and doing countless other things which have heretofore been considered a man's job, and are making good and proving their efficiency in every one of those positions. The star-club which sent the boys and young men rallying to the colors has, also, marshalled the girls and young women in the country's great military army; and they are marching forth to victory. The nation's extremity is the young woman's opportunity, and she is responding to it with commendable eagerness and zeal.

I. O. O. F. AND REBEKAHS INSTALL OFFICERS

The semi-annual public installation of officers of the I. O. O. F. and Rebekah lodges was held in the lodge rooms Friday evening. One hundred and twenty-five people, including members and guests, were present, and the evening was very pleasantly spent.

Rev. J. Bruce Willis of Winslow, was the installing officer. The newly installed officers of the I. O. O. F. lodge are: L. E. Panabaker, noble grand; Earl Merchant, vice grand; A. A. Chance, R. S. N. G.; W. O. Hansen, L. S. N. G.; N. J. Gandy, warden; O. W. W. Fisher, L. S. N. G.; R. S. S. Carl, Madsen, L. S. S.; R. A. Hinkle, O. G.; Ward Randall, I. G. E. E. Fleetwood, R. S. V. G.; J. E. Deibel, L. S. V. G.; J. E. Deibel, L. S. V. G.

After the installation ceremonies the following program was enjoyed: Reading, Miss Mabel Hanson, piano duet, Miss Bessie Crockett and Miss Dorothea Erickson; reading, Miss Nellie Juhlin; solo, Evan Dennis; solo, Prof. E. A. Sack; reading, Jesse Randol; piano solo, Miss Bessie Crockett.

At the close of the evening refreshments of ice cream, cake and punch were served.

CHALLENGE

The undersigned committee of the traveling men who reside at Wayne, hereby extend challenge to the business men of Wayne who are engaged in a business contest on a Wayne field on Friday afternoon, July 27, 1917, at 4 o'clock; the winners to take 100 per cent of gate receipts and to date same to Red Cross. Respectfully submitted—Kinney, Meyer, Miller, Coolidge, Committee.

WILL SHOW OFFICIAL WAR FRONT PICTURES

Beginning on the evening of August 14, the official war pictures taken at the front in France will be shown on the Crystal screen. Local people will be very much interested in seeing the American boys in action on the firing line. These pictures, all of which are strictly censored by the government, will be released by the Pathe company. It is understood that the capital is furnished by one of the Vanderbilts, and that all of the profit accruing from the sale of films will be given to charity, presumably for caring for the wounded and unfortunate during the present crisis. Mr. Nielson plans to run these war pictures every Tuesday evening.

Omaha Trade Exhibit: A good-for-nothing trader was pleading with a grocer to give him some goods on credit and used the argument that his wife and children would starve if food was not sent to the home. The grocer told the man to take his family to a nearby restaurant and that he would pay for their meal, at the same time letting every business man in that small town know of the deal. The trader went to work and paid for the groceries.

War's Cruellest Wounds Pierce the Hearts at Home

HERBERT BRENON DIRECTOR NAZIMOVA STARR BRIDES

Shall Love Be Sacrificed Upon the Altar of Imperial Greed for Power?

This is the question pointedly asked in the photodrama "WAR BRIDES" for which Herbert Brenon, the wizard Director, skimmed 10,000 feet of cream off a gross footage of 220,000 lineal feet of celluloid used in filming this spectacular story in which a frail but dauntless woman defies an empire.

This woman who clashes with the state is Joan, a young peasant girl, in which role the great Russian, Nazimova, will make her first appearance on the screen. The scene where Joan is told of the death of her husband in the trenches as well as the one in which she leads a long procession of women, all clad in black, to meet the king, is tremendously emotional, but such an artist as Brenon that he does not draw the audience into the conflict (as was true in "The Birth of a Nation") but he holds the theme so that the thrill is almost wholly impersonal. Nerves of sensitive spectators are not ravished, yet the mass of detail keeps the play wonderfully intense throughout the eight parts.

UNCLE WALT

The Poet Philosopher

GERMAN VICTORIES.

The German hosts are slowly losing, retreating inch by inch, positions of their careful choosing, and which they regard as a check upon the warriors being wrested by allied sword and gun. By Haig Pop Hindenburg's been bested; he'll soon be on the run. We Kaiser more than a little, and he has the chance, tall years of boy's men are winning among the hills of France. The more the Kaiser's men are beaten, the more he'll retreat, he'll yell, "get mastery to that! Such strategy is beyond all praising; for it must amaze we've lost ten miles of ground!" How long will patient Germans swallow the Kaiser's fairy tale, while they strive on with stomachs full of war, and long to see a "pon his word they have been leaning, and never found it right. He told them that his sublimating would shorten, end the fight. He told them that the wound quickly back Britain of the scene; he told them files so thin and sickly they'd foot no horse man, and soup because they were there, and still be counted sane.

MORNING EXERCISE

I walk five or six miles, and walk nine miles, the morning sun, when for when the day is young and tender, the old world is a place of splendor; this place, on these mornings show the make of anyone a poet. I walk long miles through dell and dingle, and meadows where the wildflowers mingle, and in the woods where birds sing, and streams are babbling, and when I'm tired, beneath a cedar, I sit and warble, gentle reader. "This is then I find my inspiration and my muse, and from this early walk returning, to my abode of song and learning, I find the muse has been at work, and of grub and coffee, brewed, and every day I'm regaining my sustenance of plain and fancy eating; for walking in the dale and dingle, and meadows, where the wildflowers mingle, admiring nature in her splendor, and the birds of every gender that celebrate the woodlands beauty in tones melodious and tooty—the morning ramble all normal, and I'll am a soulful poet, at breakfast time I do not show it.

NO HELP.

If all things should come to pass, it will not help to cry "Alas!" Life gives me fatoids in my back. When Lincoln said, "What's the good of a man who has no good excuse to see?" Then every day brought we and care, brought dismal tidings of despair. Great Abe would listen to the news that gave his government the blues, and cry (men though, he ought to wail). "Say, that reminds me of a tale. Some did not understand him then, some mirthless, narrow minded, they called him jester and buffoon, and they put up their doleful tune, and talked of dead men's bones and biers, and wept some forty kinds of tears. But you, we the boys, who who saw the things in his genial fun. Historians now love to bless the man who smiled in times of stress, who told gay yarns while others wept, and their supply of jokes never failed them. But you, who cry, "trouble is, it does no good to cry 'Gee whiz!' Pretend you do not care a darn, and tell the boys a rattling yarn."

ANONYMOUS.

I got some fierce communications about my warlike rhymes; my tales about the scrupulous nation, it seems, are simple crimes. "If you're so fond of red disaster, why don't you go and fight, and Europe's plains with carnage plaster?" Thus many people write. And some are men who thus assail me, and some are worthy dames; and in one thing they are all agreed: they do not sign their names. I've had a thousand bitter letters, since first this war arose, from readers who are chronic letter-writers. They talk as though they'd like to jail me for boasting warlike games; and in one thing they do not fail me—they never sign their names. Oh, readers of this moral paper, this clean, uplifting sheet, if you don't like my daily caper, jump on me with both feet. But be good sports, and when you're angry, let me know who you are, so that I will inspire me when I'm humping to write new songs of war. With canonic words, you 'lam and whale me, as I roll in my hamper, and you do not sign your names.

ALL CAN HELP.

I cannot sacrifice a leg, as you with delight; no odds how earnestly I beg, they will not let me fight. "You are too old," the sergeant cries, "to go across the sea; you have bum ears and mistief eyes, and gout and housemaid's knee." We only want your name and name. We want the foe in France; you are too fat and halt and stale to do stunts with a lance." I cannot shed my rich red blood beneath a foreign moon; as warrior my name is Miss, for I was born 100,000. But there are fifty-seven ways in which a man may aid the lads who fight the Prussian jays, though he can't wield a blade. You do not need a catalogue, those methods to describe; if you're not walking in a fog, they stare you in the eye. Each day I see new ways to help and give. Men Bill, and so I do not go or yelp, that they won't let me scrap. They will not let me bleed to death where roaring armies meet; they say I am too short of breath, and have too many feet. I cannot give my dead in hills upon a crimson field, but I can help to pay the bills for I am richly blessed.

OUR COUNTRY.

This is the country of our birth, the fairest land on all the earth. Here freedom is a living thing, not ink on parchment. No galling words are on our lips, we stand beneath the stars and govern. We mean it all our own, and not the ukase from a throne. The great republic of the west! The haven of the world's oppressed, the vital rest of all who plan a public harbor, a bed of seas. America! Ten million eyes are gazing where her banner flies, and countless hearts forevermore make plans to reach thy shores. The Ganges sullen flow, and by the winding, started Po, wherever men are tired and worn, whenever heart-sick toilers mourn, whenever life is sad and gray, the eyes of thousands turn this way. And that their eyes may to us turn, and that our beacons still may burn, informing all upon this sphere that freedom's still the thing we love, we take one more sword and brand to battle for our native land. For freedom, in the people's sight, if we surrendered what is right, would be as dark and dead a thing as though invented by a king.

THE EARLY DAYS IN TWO COUNTIES.

From the Logan Valley Herald, August 1, 1884. S. D. Relyea's house, was struck by lightning during a heavy shower. Mrs. Frank A. Philleo returned Saturday from her visit in Illinois. Miss Davies and her niece, Miss May Davies, are visiting friends in Huntington.

THE EARLY DAYS IN TWO COUNTIES.

John George Meshaler returned from California where he had gone on a course of his health. A hard hail storm injured the crops on the A. B. Slater farm three miles southwest of town. The house on the Jurgenson farm two miles southwest of Wakefield, was destroyed by fire Tuesday morning. The citizens of Harrington are talking of bonding that town in the sum of $5000 for the purpose of building a fire house. W. McCoy, principal of the public schools, went to Tekamah to visit friends and from there to Indiana to spend the balance of his summer vacation. Mrs. Fannie May Lewis of Missouri Valley, Ia., and Daniel Andrews were married in Wayne July 26, 1884. Rev. G. M. Lodge performed the ceremony. The Wayne baseball association was organized on Tuesday evening with twenty members. T. W. Moran was elected president; N. L. Leff, secretary; and J. J. Steer, treasurer. Two nines were organized with T. W. Moran for captain of the first and E. M. Smith of the second.

From the Wayne Herald, July 20, 1893: S. M. Winterburn opened an ice cream parlor opposite the Roman hotel.

The young people of the Presbyterian church held an ice cream social on the church lawn. The proceeds were given to the Pomeroy cyclone sufferers. A. J. Hartwig and William Beckenbauer were visitors Tuesday in Madison. John Lawrence has purchased the residence property of Eli Jones on Second street. Charles S. Beebe and Dan A. Spears were in Norfolk on legal business last week. The Ladies' Aid society of the Presbyterian church met at the home of Mrs. R. K. Chace. The college held an ice cream social Saturday evening. A pleasing program had been prepared. Miss Lacey Brummett has been appointed to the assistant principalship of the Oakland public schools. Miss Juller entertained the Monday club Monday afternoon. In the evening the husbands were invited to attend. Dan Harrington left for New York where he will meet his wife. The world's fair here before returning home. A match game of tennis will be played between Messrs. Gray and Hultz of Coleridge and Rev. Mr. Howe and J. C. Miles. John Reed's farm residence, four miles south of Wayne, was burned Monday evening. The cause of the fire was a defective fuse.

From Ponca Journal, July 28, 1878.

In this paper will be found a tippling, rattling, lutescent, and tipping old goose-quill of our distinguished poet laureate, J. Rockwell. He has at last again emerged from the cavern of retirement, tamped under the braying nose and maw of his masterpiece. Read it. The divine afflatus oozes out of it in robs. It started out one morning last week, the hunting dog of Counselor Barnes caught sight of it creeping along through the weeds, and thinking it was some sort of game proper to pursue, pursued it accordingly. He chased the unhappy train two miles without showing any signs of fatigue. The train, however, was considerably brown. The authorities of Cedar county one day last week consigned to the flames the 150 bonds for $1,000 each, which that county had voted to the C. & N. W. R. Company. The bonds in this series, the "Lumber Loan" Tuesday afternoon of last week just after we had gone to press our attention was attracted by a large crowd of men standing in the street in front of the court house, and in front of that crowd was a stove, throwing forth flames, smoke and burning cinders of the bogus Cedar county railroad bonds. The men witnessed the burning, and jubilated over the ashes, and saluted them down with loud cheers, groans and a glorious old drunk. Thus ended the first railroad chapter of Cedar county.

"DOUG" FAIRBANKS IN "WILD AND WOOLY"

Douglas Fairbanks will be in Wayne tonight, this time in the role of Jeff Harrington, a metropolitan youth eager to taste real western life. At Bitter Creek in Arizona they plan to stage spectacular hold-up in honor of Jeff's coming. Steve Shelby, a grating Indian agent, deciding to take advantage of the affair, offers to have the Indians perform at Jeff's coming. Jeff arrives and a whole program of western stunts is commenced. Truly the town appears as wild and dreamy as mentioned in his earlier dreams. He promptly falls in love with Nell Larabee, a pretty girl of the plains whose chief excitement hitherto has been the repeated refusal of the Indians to marry her. The time of the uprising arrives and Shelby prepares for the execution of his plans which result in real tragedy. The Indians appear on the scene and soon the people begin to realize that the joke has become a serious matter. In place of blank cartridges the red men are using real bullets, and in the midst of the genuine excitement, Nell is kidnapped by Shelby. The entire crowd is kept in the dance hall surrounded by the howling Indians, while Shelby starts for Mexico with the girl. The matter is explained to Jeff, who by superhuman efforts presenting many typically Fairbanks surprises, rounds up the band of Indians, rescues the girl, completely foils Steve and becomes the hero of the hour. See "Doug" by all means. Plan to be at the Crystal at 7:30 sharp.

Medicine and surgical science are doing more and more every day to cut down the total of men disabled for life or dying from wounds received in the trenches. And the whole profession of medicine is surely to profit by these humanitarian efforts at the front.

One of the facts learned since the war began is that the sooner a sick or injured soldier can be taken to a hospital and surrounded by the influences of home, the greater are his chances for recovery.

America had already begun to practice this idea in the opening of country hospitals. A tedious and injurious journey to a far-off hospital either by car or rail, it was found, often caused death, no matter how successful the operation. To overcome this disadvantage the home hospital was conceived. Its influence and benefits to any community are now unquestioned.

HILL'S GREAT FARM

OPEN TO SETTLERS

St. Paul, Minn., July 16.—Passing the constructive policy of their illustrious father, the heirs of the late James J. Hill have decided that they will divide up his great 32,000 acre farm, valued at one million dollars and allow farmer-settlers to have it instead of partitioning it among the Empire Builder's children.

The Payne Investment company of Omaha, nationally known as successful handlers of large tracts of land, has just been authorized by the Hill heirs to dispose of the famous estate and expect to have the entire farm divided and sold before November first.

One of Mr. Hill's notable sayings was that "Every settler in a new community is worth $300 annually to the railroad running through that section."

STATEMENT MADE BY COUNCIL OF DEFENSE

Lincoln, Neb., July 10, 1917.—To the people of Nebraska: After the most serious and solemn investigation and consideration, the Nebraska State Council of Defense deems it to be its duty to present certain facts to the patriotic people of Nebraska in order that they may have timely information as to the situation in this state.

On the whole, Nebraska is intensely patriotic. It has contributed generously in the way of Red Cross subscriptions, Liberty bond purchases and voluntary contributions. But reports come from various sections of the state relating to an American war and conduct, causing all the way from utterances of reasonable character to direct acts and words of disloyalty and embarrassments put upon faithful American citizens. These reports would be unbelievable but for the fact that they have come in such large number and from so many discreet and responsible men.

Many cases reported by individuals were upon investigation found to be exaggerated. The council adopted the policy of assuming that many of the so-called reasonable statements were true and proceeded accordingly along educational lines. In a number of instances personal friends of the offending persons were assigned to call upon them for the purpose of trying to convince them of the importance of Americans standing united behind the government in the present war. In many of these cases the plan was successful and change of view was brought about in the individual's point of view. In many other cases, however, appeal and educational effort were not productive of good.

In the meantime, complaints in numerous instances continued to reach the state council. Careful investigation of many of these complaints makes it plain that the Council of Defense is making this frank statement to the people of Nebraska. Acquainted as the council is with the solemn and deplorable facts of the situation, it cannot conceive of such a situation or believe that the condition described is so general as to make it serious enough to come to give to the public this formal statement. When the Liberty bonds were in process of sale, a number of bankers reported to the State Council that they had been threatened with withdrawals of deposits in the event they purchased Liberty bonds or participated in their sale. The council issued a warning calling attention to the fact that such threats amounted to treason and would be so treated. This warning had wholesome effect. Under directions from the council, the secretary of the state banking board wrote to the various national and state banks of Nebraska, making inquiry as to threats of this character. Several hundred of these reports were received. The larger number of banks reported that no threats had been made. A number reported actual threats and a much larger number reported statements that amounted to implied threats. Most of these reports said that the warning issued by the state council had had, unquestionably, good effect whether upon those who were inclined to antagonism either from thoughtlessness or from outright opposition to the government. These reports show the strong, independent spirit of most of the Nebraska bankers. A majority made it very clear that they would not tamely submit to threats involving patriotic action. At the same time a large number of these reports showed that there exists throughout Nebraska a very general misunderstanding of the purpose and the necessity of this war, and the council was urged to carry on a system of education through patriotic meetings. Some idea of the situation as it affects bankers may be obtained by the suggestion made in the larger number of these reports, that the column in the bank reports providing for the statement of moneys invested in Liberty Bonds be omitted until the conclusion of the war. Many of these reports said that while they had invested in these Liberty bonds they thought it best not to make any great noise about it. Following are extracts from two of these reports which are fair samples of perhaps seventy-five others:

"We don't fear threats but would not be greatly surprised if the fact became known. We had invested in Liberty bonds, a good many deposits would be quietly withdrawn." Also: "We have had no threats but have had frequent inquiries as to whether or not we were going to invest in Liberty bonds. This makes it very hard for us to advertise the bonds in connection with the bank. We shall, however, do our part."

It is hardly possible to present in this statement the instances that will fairly show the real situation in one Nebraska town an American of German birth engaged in the banking business has so openly and prominently in his support of the government that he has lost several thousand dollars in deposits controlled by Prussian sympathizers. From one town to the next well authenticated report that while nothing has been done in that town to aid the Red Cross efforts to hold Red Cross meetings and to help Germany, and violently antagonized.

Many crosses reported by thoroughly responsible business or professional men or farmers have shown that men of commanding influence in the community have openly expressed their sympathy with America's enemy and have persistently discouraged every effort to help America. One man engaged in the banking business stated publicly that his bank would do nothing for the sale of Liberty bonds, adding: "I would commit suicide before I would take up arms against Germany." One of Nebraska's best known and most reliable citizens reports the seriousness of the situation in his community saying: "The patriotic sentiment is so strong that even some of the patriotic citizens seem to be afraid to do their full duty and feel considerably intimidated. Another report says of another community: "Many of the business men seem to be timid for fear they will lose business if they engage in patriotic activities." Where the complaints deal only with the reasonable or thoughtless words of a single, or of one or two individuals, it is not serious for such cases may be handled with words of warning and through educational efforts. But the extracts cited above are fair samples of a very large number of reports showing where whole communities are more or less affected by the un-American attitude of influential men. These complaints have come in such number and from such responsible sources that it is impossible longer to withhold them from the public. In certain communities men working for the country's good have been embarrassed and handicapped, in some instances threatened with personal violence and in many instances promised damage to their business at the hands of men who are openly opposed to our country's cause. From every section of the state come reports showing the need in Nebraska of a widespread educational campaign. It is very generally reported that among the native born as well among many of the foreign born, and coming from all over the country there can be no question there is general misunderstanding as to the meaning and the purpose of the war and the necessity of these a general lack of sympathy with the war. To meet this misunderstanding, the council is preparing to cover the state with lectures and meetings to be held as soon as convenient in every town in Nebraska.

Some of the strongest support and best cooperation has come to the council from the members of German birth or descent and the council clearly recognizes the perfect loyalty of the larger number of the Nebraska Germans of German origin. But there are some who have been in sections of the state upon our country's cause have reached such proportions that they must be given serious attention. The interests at stake are so important for the patriotic men and women of Nebraska to remain in the dark. An aroused public sentiment at this time will go far toward the protection of life and property, toward the conservation of food supplies and in furtherance of the effort to place Nebraska squarely in line with the national government. Conscious of the wrongness of its own members at first, to take the situation seriously, the council is perfectly aware that these words of warning will be a revelation to many and that they may not be accepted by some with the seriousness to which they are entitled. It is, however, necessary to give the warning and to solemnly appeal to all patriotic men and women to bear themselves in order that Nebraska may be put in fighting trim for America.

For the council and the seriousness of the situation has for it no other concern than that involving the best interests of Nebraska and the United States, the council speaks with perfect frankness and respect to serious evils that can be cured by a thoroughly aroused American sentiment. To this end and in this spirit the council takes the liberty of making public the names and refusing to be controlled by an indisposition, natural among thoughtful men, to do the unusual. But the war in which we are engaged is a national and general one and the support of that war must be universal, too. The council refuses, therefore, to temporize with serious situations involving the welfare of the country.

The University of Nebraska is a patriotic institution. Its efficient chancellor and most of its capable faculty are working zealously for America's welfare and to general support of that war must be universal, too. The council refuses, therefore, to temporize with serious situations involving the welfare of the country. The University of Nebraska is a patriotic institution. Its efficient chancellor and most of its capable faculty are working zealously for America's welfare and to general support of that war must be universal, too. The council refuses, therefore, to temporize with serious situations involving the welfare of the country. The council has come to be practically an adjunct of this organization. But several professors of the State University have so persistently given encouragement, publicly and privately, to those who are out of harmony with the American cause that the council deems it necessary and proper to publicly register protest against these practices. It is not fair to the parents who send their boys to the front, nor to the boys themselves, that the commanding influence of an educational or other circles shall be permitted to cultivate sentiments that are detrimental to the cause for which the boys fight. When all the forces and agents of the business and agricultural interests of the state are being employed for the protection of food supplies it is not fair that conspicuous and influential and, presumably, law-abiding men shall teach doctrines that may encourage the vicious and the lawless to acts of violence.

Perhaps never in history has it been deemed necessary by a public body of single citizens to issue a general organization and to appeal to the patriotism of its members to offset and check the dangerous tendencies of many of the conspicuous representatives of that organization. Because of the reliable reports that may be said to come from every section of Nebraska—and come in number by the hundreds—it is necessary that the council should issue an appeal with respect to the organization known as the Lutheran church. The conspicuous representatives of that church have very generally and in a large measure universally refused to cooperate with any of the several efforts made by patriotic citizens for the support of the government. On the contrary, they have generally publicly and privately, discouraged the American cause, and have shown marked partiality for the cause of America's enemy. Depending upon the American patriotism of the men and women who comprise the Lutheran church membership, the council makes this appeal to them to put a check upon the un-American activities of some of their conspicuous and influential representatives. The council could wait until great damage had been done from this source before making its protest, perfectly aware that its protest is unusual, but conscious of the absolute necessity for such a protest; the council makes its protest now in order that every citizen's interests may be faithfully protected. Confident that it is useless to make further appeal to the conspicuous representatives of that church; the council addresses its appeal to the rank and file of the church membership, and hereby calls upon that membership to make known, on behalf of the Lutheran church, its attitude toward the country that gives it protection and religious liberty. In the discharge of its duty to America, the Nebraska State Council of Defense, intends to employ its power and authority to the limit in the effort to suppress in Nebraska any interference with the determination to pay for a speedy and successful conclusion. It will strive to put down every attempt to handicap or embarrass or discourage those who, grateful for the blessings they enjoy as American citizens, are trying to repay, at this critical time, the great debt they owe. To this end, we appeal to every patriotic man and woman in Nebraska, regardless of birth or ancestry.

Signed: Edgar Howard, Acting Governor; Robert M. Joyce, George Conland, George H. Harries, Richard L. Metcalf, George O. Murphy, Dr. E. O. Weber, Sarks B. Hrbkova, Chas. A. McCloud, George E. Johnson, J. B. Boush, P. L. Hall, jr., Adjutant General, Nebraska State Council of Defense.

The Lutheran Church. In defense of the Lutheran church, Luther M. Kuhns, editor of the Luther League Review, issued this statement, published Saturday: "The Lutheran church is loyal, patriotic. Whatever may have been the individual opinions, prior to the act of congress declaring that a state of war exists between the United States and Germany, there now can be but one opinion and one sentiment. Men and women of the Lutheran faith have loyally borne their share of burden and sacrifice in all the ways of this country. Now that the country calls its citizens to rally around the flag, the illustrious example of General Peter Magnusberg, at Augsburg, who has stepped aside his robe as a Lutheran pastor and displayed the uniform of an officer in the continental army and enlisted his own parishioners, is a reminder and inspiration of the men and women of the great Lutheran church of their duty as patriots. Thousands of Lutherans are already enlisted under the flag, either in the army or navy of the United States. From colonial times until the present Lutheran men and women have borne their full share of service for the flag. In this national crisis Lutherans will loyally stand die for their country. The history of the past will be proved by the deeds of the present."

Separation of Church and State. While the Lutheran church believes in the separation of church and state, the doctrinal position of the church presented at Augsburg in 1530 is plain and explicit and leaves no doubt as to its attitude of loyalty toward the government and its antipathy to the government's antireligious attitude. The sixteenth article of the Augsburg confession explicitly says: "In all civil affairs, they teach that lawful civil ordinances are good works of God, and that it is right for Christians to bear civil office, to sit as judges, to determine matters by the imperial and other laws, to award just punishments to rogues in just wars, to serve as soldiers, to make legal contracts, to hold property, to take oaths when required by the magistracy, to render to the government its tribute." This is the recognized doctrinal position of the Lutheran church on which the entire body of Lutherans stand and is a test of Lutheranism. Nothing in this article can be construed as treasonable to the government; it is strictly loyal. This statement is of binding force today and no single man or pastor or institution can alter or amend this portion of the Lutheran church as a whole and claim any authority for so doing; and to this confession today every Lutheran minister at his ordination is obligated.

Reaffirmed at Chicago. In fact, the binding force of this confession was reaffirmed by the general synod of the Lutheran church at its recent session convened in Chicago, July 20, when it unanimously adopted subscription to this confession as a part of the doctrinal basis for the union of the three great English bodies in America, namely, the General Synod, the General Council and the United Synod in the South. The General Synod includes the Nebraska (English) Synod and the German Nebraska Synod. On July 5 at Atlantic City, N. J., "The Committee on Constitutional Revision" of the General Council of the Lutheran church in America" recommended the adoption of this same basis for the amalgamation of these bodies and the General Council members of the Augustana Synod which is the Swedish Lutheran church in America, and which is a very considerable factor in the membership of the Lutheran church in Nebraska. Don't Spend Your Money for Useless
Telephone Attachments

Special devices claimed to improve telephone transmission, eliminate noise, etc. are offered for sale by agents or in advertisements.

Most of these devices are deleterious to the service.
They are simply made to sell, with the compulsion of the sale the seller's interest ceases.

This company is responsible for giving efficient telephone service and hence cannot permit the attachment of appliances to its instruments or lines that will interfere with their proper operation.

For this reason our telephone contracts provide that no devices, except those furnished by the Company, shall be attached to telephone instruments or wires.

We are prepared to furnish extension arms, extra receivers,
etc. to meet any unusual condition.

STATEMENT MADE BY COUNCIL OF DEFENSE

...position and attitude of the Lutheran church as a denomination in its attitude of supporting the government in the war in which it is now engaged with Germany.
Nebraska Lutherans' Pledge.
"This same general synod to which reference has been made, which is the authoritative head of the English churches and a large portion of the German churches in Nebraska, took the following action, in which the delegates from the Lutheran churches in Nebraska participated and concurred. This action leaves no doubt as to the attitude of the Lutheran churches as a denomination in Nebraska. Here it states:
"The general synod hereby pledges its unwavering loyalty to our government and country in the great war in which we are now engaged for the purpose of preserving our national honor and re-establishing international law and order in the world."

"This action of the general body of the English Lutheran churches in Nebraska and of the churches connected with the German Nebraska Synod, that is an integral part of this general body. No matter what may be the statement by individuals here and there to the contrary, this is the official declaration of the Lutheran church as a church and the voice of loyalty to the government of the United States. It is not the expression of any one man, or any one church, or any one institution, but the unanimous action of the whole church officially assembled to legislate for the denomination."

I come from old colonial American stock. My ancestors fought in the colonial and revolutionary wars of American independence. I am a Lutheran and an American Lutheran and I am not ashamed of my church for its position in civil affairs, where it would have extended a little further and made more effective
the call to the colors were delayed
a month or six weeks in the great
corn belt states it would give opportunity to gather the great crop and have it in full security before the young men take up the work of soldiers in the field. In Nebraska
for example the corn crop will be ripened by the middle of September
or first of October and ready for harvest not later than the middle of October. By withholding the call to the colors in this state until the middle of November the training of the young soldiers will be delayed anything but a month or so. The great corn crop can be harvested and put under shelter. It is already certain that a shortage of farm labor will
be experienced for 13,000 young men
already have gone into the service
and the government from the Omaha
district. In this district the corn crop will be about 300,000,000 bushels, and every grain of it will be needed. General Crowder's recommendation should not only be heeded, but, if possible, the extension
suggested should be granted.

Are You One of Them?
"There are a great many people who would be very much benefited by taking Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy for indigestion, weak or disordered stomach. Are you one of them? Mrs. M. R. Seal, Baldwinsville, N. Y., relates her experience in the use of these tablets.
"I had a bad spell with my stomach about six months ago, and was troubled for two or three weeks with gas and severe pains in the pit of my stomach. Our druggist advised me to take Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy, a bottle home and the first dose relieved me wonderfully, and I kept on taking them until I was cured." These tablets do not relieve pain, but after the pain has been relieved may prevent its recurrence.—Adv.

ROUGHING THE PRESS.

Nebraska Farmer: A certain class of short-sighted men, who are engaged during the present months engaged in the very questionable pastime of roughing the press. The injustice of their criticism is well understood when the facts are considered.
The statement that the press of the country has stood solidly back of the government and the administration since our entrance into the war seemed imminent, may be accepted practically without amendment. Here and there are isolated cases of publications that have been apathetic if not actually in opposition to the war. Now, however, there is very little of that.

Since the war began preparation for it in this country has been primarily dependent upon the press.
The notice of the draft made through any other channel and it was stated that anyone who failed to be informed would not be considered guiltless. The Liberty bond campaign was dependent upon the press, upon the publicity given it in the press. The same may be said of the campaigns for the Red Cross,
the Red Triangle and other charitable purposes.

Newspaper criticisms of the government's methods of conducting the war have been limited to well tempered facts and little has been said or done that would tend to entertain the administration or congress in the speedy passage and enforcement of provisions intended to facilitate the successful conduct of the war.
For all of this service the press has not received one cent, nor has anything been asked or expected.
That in spite of the fact that in other countries engaged in the war

all of these services have been paid for. In the light of these facts the criticism of the press is ill timed and poorly advised. Especially is this true when it comes from some editor of publication who has not rendered any such worthwhile service.
We think that the average reader will properly classify such knockers.

WAYNE EVIDENCE FOR WAYNE PEOPLE

Home testimony is real proof.
Public statements of Wayne people carry real weight.
When a friend or neighbor says
competent respect.

The word of one whose home is far away invites your doubt.

Here's a Wayne woman's statement:
"And it's for Wayne people's best fit."
Mrs. J. Meister, Wayne, says: "I used to get nervous for the and I was fairly free from a bearing down pain in my back. When I turned in bed, beat over or got up from a chair, knife-like pains made me cry out. I could not get to rest and my kidneys acted too often.
The trouble kept me in a run-down condition. Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at the Roberts Drug Co., filled me of this trouble. I am 30, at all dealers. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y."

DRAFT AND CORN FIELDS.

Omaha Daily Bee: Provost Marshal, General Crowder, has recognized one great and vitally important point in the coming draft, especially recommending that men actually engaged in the essential farm operations be not taken for immediate military service. In some parts of the country commercial bodies, county farmers' associations or similar organizations are planning to watch the progress of the draft and to secure as far as possible exemption of men needed on the farms.
This is all right as far as it goes, but it would have been extended a little further and made more effective
the call to the colors were delayed
a month or six weeks in the great
corn belt states it would give opportunity to gather the great crop and
have it in full security before the
young men take up the work of soldiers in the field. In Nebraska
for example the corn crop will be
ripened by the middle of September
or first of October and ready for harvest not later than the middle of October. By withholding the call to
the colors in this state until the middle of November the training of the
young soldiers will be delayed anything but a month or so. The great
corn crop can be harvested and put
under shelter. It is already certain
that a shortage of farm labor will
be experienced for 13,000 young men
already have gone into the service
and the government from the Omaha
district. In this district the corn crop will be about 300,000,000 bushels, and every grain of it will be needed. General Crowder's recommendation should not only be heed-
ed, but, if possible, the extension
suggested should be granted.

CREATING PREJUDICE.

Nebraska Farmer: Criticism of Germany must be made with a regard for the feelings of loyal Americans of German birth. This, I believe, every loyal American tries to do. I deprecate those statements that are made for the purpose of creating prejudices. Not only are they unjust, but they accomplish no good end. I call people who deal in such "cheap politics" disloyal to the best interests of our country.
President Wilson in his war message to congress made it plain that his charges were not directed at the German people, but at the autocracy that governs them. His charges were confined to the facts and his statements were tempered with a handsome regard for the feelings of all Germans who are seeking the light.
Colonel Roosevelt in his recent address in Lincoln treated Americans of German birth with every kind of respect and criticism most severely all those who have not been able to shake off their allegiance to the Fatherland. He was right. Ones of German birth who have every right of mention of the barbarities of Germany in this war, and who do not yet understand that the United States is fighting for the freedom that has been accorded to foreigners who have come here in search of it, are still allies of the Kaiser and should go to Germany
where they may live under his rule.
It is the duty of every true American to understand that we are fighting new the cause of the American revolution and the success of our undertaking is no less important now than it was then. One who talks of the shrine of German militarism can render no worthwhile service in this contest.

TWO MEALS PROPOSED.
Bixby in Lincoln Journal: On the theory that we eat more than the good for us, Carl S. Vroman recommends that the American people adopt the habit of eating two meals
a day during the war. "No doubt it would prove of great advantage to those of us whose daily employment is of a sedentary nature. It would prove something of a hardship to the stalwart farm hand who works twelve hours in the field and then does the chores, but he might in time accustom himself to the new two meals a day habit. One who arranges to maintain his strength for the full day's demands upon it.
When you get right down to brass tacks and steel, plain hundreds of people render themselves inefficient and thoroughly miserable by clogging their systems with too much food. Then for relief they take pepsins, and substitute of bismuth, laxatives that vitiate their blood and poisons that paralyze their bowels, and they have to be operated on for appendicitis, and drink sour milk for hardening of the arteries; and they go about detailing their misery and making others almost as miserable as themselves—and because they are all broken down and done up by overfeeding, Doctor Brady will help us out in this, and so will any wise physician who has a heart, and who would rather see you well and strong than to get your money and see you get empty-handed to the un-teraker."

SOCIAL NOTES.

A Theater Party.

Last Tuesday was Miss Eleanor Mathewson's ninth birthday, and she entertained at a party at Duntap's movie theater. A jolly time was reported by the little folks.

A Dancing Party.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar McGee entertained a party of forty friends at their country home, south of town, last Friday evening. The evening was spent in dancing and a general good time. At a late hour the guests were served delicious refreshments.

A Surprise Party.

A party of young people enjoyed an outing at the timber claim south of town Monday evening. The purpose of this occasion was to help Miss Ethel Linder celebrate her birthday. Cars were provided to take the guests to the woods where they enjoyed an appetizing supper made over a campfire. All present report a jolly time.

At Sunday Dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Levine who live northeast of Wakefield, entertained a few friends at dinner Sunday at their home. The guests were seated at long tables with home grown flowers. Covers for the dinner were laid for: Mr. and Mrs. G. Johnson and family, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Sar and family, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Ekberg and family, Mrs. C. A. Johnson, and Mr. and Mrs. Levens.

Methodist Church.

(Rev. H. King, Pastor.)
Sunday school at 10 o'clock.
Morning preaching at 11.
Epworth League at 7 p. m.
Preaching in the evening at 8 o'clock.

Mid-week service, Wednesday evening.

Bad Hail Storm Sunday.

Last Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock a hard hail storm struck the country for a distance of two miles in width, northeast of town. The storm moved to the south passing through Bancroft, Pender and Lyons. Many farmers who were in the fields at that time report a total loss of crops. T. C. Jensen, Sun-Hoie, Ralph Axel Tegling and John Sulfrie were among severe sufferers. Only a few had hail insurance.

Canning Demonstration.

A canning demonstration under the auspices of the County Council of Defense was held in the basement of the Presbyterian church Monday afternoon. Ernest Hayes and Mrs. Henry Nuernberger who attended the canning demonstration in Wayne a few weeks ago, demonstrated how to use the cold pack method. A large number of ladies were present with little pads of paper and all report the meeting a very instructive one.

Swedish Lutheran Church.

The district Luther church will hold its annual convention at Wausa Friday and Saturday of this week. Miss Ruth Erickson and Lewis Ekeroth were appointed delegates from this League to attend the meeting. Rev. J. T. Kraft also expects to attend.

During the absence of the regular pastor next Sunday evening, a student from the theological seminary at St. Paul will preach there both morning and evening.

Hold Reception.

A reception was given last week at the Swedish Lutheran parsonage for Mrs. C. J. Holm and family who recently arrived in Wakefield from Worcester, Mass. Rev. Mr. Holm has been in Wakefield several months, but on account of the children finishing their school the family arrived only a short time ago. Rev. and Mrs. Holm were presented with a purse of $60 from the members of their congregation. The evening was a pleasant home-warming and all report a pleasant time.

Presbyterian Church.

(Rev. H. King, Pastor.)
Sunday school at 10 a. m., G. W. Henton, superintendent.
Morning service at 11.
Junior C. E. at 3 p. m. Miss Vida Leamer, superintendent.
Senior C. E. society at 7 p. m.
Evening worship at 8.
Prayer meeting on Wednesday evening at 7:30.

Missionary Meeting Friday.

The ladies of the Missionary society held their regular meeting Friday afternoon on the church lawn. The afternoon was devoted to listening to a report by Miss Vid Leamer of her visit at Hastings, Neb., where she attended a missionary convention. Her talk was extremely interesting as well as helpful to those who heard her.

Methodist Church Notes.

Baptismal ceremonies by immersion will be administered by the pastor in the near future. Any one wishing to participate should make application to the pastor as to the place and time.

The last district quarterly conference was held Tuesday at the church. All the reports from the different organizations were read and the records show the church to be in good condition. The report from the women's society was especially interesting and showing a general increase in all lines. Rev. Mr. Williams was extended a unanimous invitation to accept his present charge for another year.

Celebrates Birthday.

Mrs. Mary J. Heikes celebrated her birthday anniversary last Sunday at the home of her son, Samuel Heikes in Dakota county. This was one of the most pleasant birthday celebrations ever held for the mother and all the children except one were present. The party which was a most enjoyable picnic for children and great grandchildren, numbered seventy.

At the dinner hour a long table, a hundred feet in length was spread with a bountiful picnic dinner which was thoroughly enjoyed. Many of the guests came from a long distance to attend this celebration. The children who attended this birthday anniversary were: William Lyman, Samuel and Charles Heikes, Mrs. Anna Long, Mrs. Little Slaughter, Mrs. Mary Airstone and Mrs. Leticia Harmon. Mrs. Ida Miller of Pennsylvania was the only one of the immediate family who was not present.

Mrs. Heikes moved from Juniata county, Pa., to Dakota county, Neb., Sunday, July 15, 1917. She moved to Wayne county and the following week to Wakefield.

CARROLL.

Baby and Mrs. Clark George and children left Friday for Adams, Neb., to visit relatives returning home Tuesday. They made the trip by automobile.

W. W. Williamson and daughter, Miss Maude, left today for a trip in the west. They will visit Denver, Colorado Springs, Pueblo and Leadville, Colo. They expect to be away a week.

Miss Lulu Hulbert left Friday morning for Elliott, Ia., where she will spend two weeks with relatives. She will also visit points in Missouri before returning home and expects to be absent altogether a month.

Mrs. Ed Wessel went to Norfolk Saturday to meet her friend, Miss Trudy Kelly, of Atkinson, Neb. They went to Carroll Saturday to spend Sunday with Mrs. Wessel's parents, returning to Carroll Monday.

Ben and Joe Young of O'Neill, Neb., arrived in Carroll Saturday for a visit at the home of their cousin, Mrs. James Hancock. Joe has enlisted in the navy and is waiting orders to report for duty. These young men lived in Carroll until five years ago when they moved to O'Neill.

Charles Closson, L. W. Carter, Frank Hughes and D. B. Carter returned home Friday from Lakes Andes, where they had been enjoying a week's fishing. The men returned with a large number of fish, mostly bass, which they distributed among their friends. They report a very successful trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Davis and Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Jones left Monday morning for a two weeks' visit at different points in the east. Mr. Jones is the pastor of the First Presbyterian church at Chillicothe, O. Before returning home they expect to visit Washington, D. C., New York City, Niagara Falls and other eastern points.

Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Setzer of Red Oak, Ia., visited several days last week at the home of the former's sister, Mrs. Harry Burress and family. The men and Mrs. Setzer were on their wedding trip, having surprised their friends at Villisca, Ia., the home the bride, by quietly going by auto to Fremont, Neb., where they were met by the afternoon train. They were disappointed on their trip by the bridegroom's parents, M. and Mrs. H. P. Selsler.

The parting gift

A KODAK

For your soldier friend. The capable and sturdy Vest Pocket Kodak will do much toward relieving up the inevitable heavy moments of camp and shipboard.

And from purely selfish reasons, too, a Kodak is the very gift for you to make think of the pictures he will send you.

Vest Pocket Kodak - it fits the uniform, $5.00.

Remember we can fit you out with a special case to protect the machine. This case can easily be attached to the belt.

The new 2C model at $12.00 is a wonder. Ask about the Kodak Dime bank - Let the children earn a kodak.
