PROPHCY.
Bixby in Lincoln Journal: "Seventy Weeks" is the name of a little brochure written and printed by Dr. H. H. Haynes, of St. James, Minn., who calls it "A Bible study" laying out the way to the world war and what is coming after. It is a prophecy, supported by copious quotations from Daniel, Ezekiel, Revelations, Romans, Luke, and John. By a system of signs and symbols as comprehensible as coal prices in Lincoln three numbers are reached, including "666," which stands for several things having no bearing on the subject before us. These three numbers are 1871, 1918 and 1963, from which the good doctor concludes that as 1871 ended the Franco-Prussian war, 1918 will see the end of the present world exhibition. The date beyond that completes man's itinerary upon this earth, which will burn like an oven until consumed. To us, the construction upon brighter and better lines for the eternal occupancy of such saints as can be mustered when Gabriel calls the roll. We dare say the doctor might be a little certain were he to choose a subject he knows something about.

Chronic Constipation.
It is by no means an easy matter to cure this disease, but it can be done in most instances by taking Chamberlain's Tablets and complying with the plain printed directions that accompany each package.

Come and see the Asbestos SWEAT

SEE AND KNOW FOR YOURSELF

SEE WHY COPPER-CLAD RANGES DO NOT RUST OUT

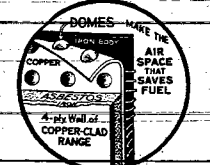

A section of a range body is heated and there on the iron body is the sweat from the asbestos. You see just exactly what happens every time you build a fire in your range. You see why the sheet of copper is used and what it does and how it does it.

SAVE A THOUSAND SHOVELS OF COAL EVERY YEAR

You know how the warm walls and air spaces of a thermos bottle hold the heat. You know that a house with a single wall is not as warm as the house with two walls and an air space. You know that storm windows, two windows with a space between are much warmer than a single window even if it is as thick as the two windows.

The Copper-Clad Range has four walls and an air space. See what it means in fuel saving. See how the heat is wasted by radiation on the three-wall construction and how it is saved by the four-wall thermos construction.

Suppose that you save but one shovel of coal at each meal, in a year's time you would save over a thousand shovels of coal. Pay? Of course, it will pay; and you owe it to yourself to see these two great demonstrations and know for yourself what range is the most economical, looks best, and looks best.

COPPER-CLAD RANGE

Copper-Clad means that a sheet of pure Copper is placed BETWEEN the two sheets of asbestos and range body. To place it elsewhere would be like climbing out on top of a roof to get out of the rain.

Dustin Farnum in "Davy Crockett."	"An International Marriage."	"MARTHA'S VINDICATION"
You all know the story of Davy Crockett, the famous Indian fighter, who saved the girl who was dearer to him than life, thrust his arm through the door of the deserted cabin, in which he found his sweetheart Eleanor and her craven lover snow-bound and held it all night against the onslaught of a pack of wolves. You will like the way the virile Dustin Farnum plays his soul into this splendid role.		It is around a genuine real-life countess, Rita Jolles, that the drama and smile of a wonderfully told story hinge. Her gown were created especially for this play. They are charmingly original; every woman should see them. The story has to do with Florence Brent, daughter of a laundry king, whose beauty and "satin gloss" of refinement, attract a nobleman of much ambition, but no scruples. The outcome is a big surprise.
FRIDAY, AUGUST 20 Nora Talmadge, who drifted into "movies" when fourteen years old, has always made a strong emotional appeal because she has been able to convey a thought or feeling by a slight movement of the head, a twitch of a finger or the varying expressions of her beautiful eyes. Sacrificing her good name to shield her sister she is attacked by the church council of deacons, and only an unexpected turn of the plot in which an automobile wreck features, fights the wrong, and squares things so that she is able to marry her sweetheart, John. (Also, two reel Keystone comedy.)		TUESDAY, AUGUST 21 Did you see those war pictures last Tuesday evening? They were the real thing; no pen sketches or long distance imaginings of the trenches. You saw features of the front such as had not been dreamed of. And you are going to see just such "honest" Injun war pictures every Tuesday night for seven weeks. WHO IS THE GRAY GHOST? Well, if you want to know, you must surely see the first episode "The Bank Mystery" next Tuesday night. Remember the serial is in addition to the War Pictures. "The Gray Ghost" is adapted from "Loot," which everybody read in the Saturday Evening Post not long ago. It features a master criminal known as "The Gray Ghost," whose identity is never even suspected, so thorough is his organization. "The Gray Ghost" is making an even greater hit than "The Voice on the Wire." Admission for the double feature Tuesday night, only 10c and 15c.
WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 22 THE GREATER LAW "The Greater Law" is pictorially one of the most beautiful that has ever been filmed. Many of the scenes were taken in the dead of winter among the California mountain snow-fields. The scene of the play is laid in Alaska where five reels of breathless episodes follow one another rapidly. The play takes its title from the action of the girl, who took the law into her own hands when she went to the Klondike to avenge the death of her young brother. HOME WEDDING SATURDAY

Miss Florence Welch Weds Harry M. Armstrong at High Noon.

Seventy-five guests witnessed the marriage of Miss Florence, Era Welch, daughter of Judge and Mrs. Armstrong, and Harry M. Armstrong, son of Mrs. J. J. Armstrong, at high noon, August 11, at the home of the bride's parents.

The interior of the home was suitably decorated for the occasion. The color scheme of pink and white being used. The porch was made attractive by an abundance of golden glow and foliage. A flower in front of the double windows in the living room was artistically fashioned by baskets hung from the ceiling and filled with asters and trailing vines. Baskets of asters were used in decorating the piano and throughout the room. Sunlight was used effectively on the chandeliers.

Preceding the ceremony, Herbert Welch, brother of the bride, gave the invocation. Charles Chadwick, field cadman, was accompanied on the piano by Mrs. James Miller, who at the close heard Lohengrin's wedding march. Rev. N. Xenophon, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, who performed the ceremony, proceeded to the altar where he was joined to the bride.

Mr. Arthur Katherine, tax collector, and Mrs. M. A. Davis, who was dressed in a dainty frock of white net with pink trimmings, and Franklin Phillips, who wore a suit of white, came down the aisle following them came the bride and her father.

The bride wore a suit of blue corded silk, an exquisite combination of blue and white, and gloves and hat also in white. She carried a beautiful bouquet of roses and swansons.

Immediately following congratulations an elaborate two-course dinner was enjoyed, in which fourteen girl friends of the bride assisted in serving. The bride presented a dainty French menu to her guests, and the bride's assistants rendered to each of her assistants.

After the dinner Mr. Armstrong and bride left by automobile for Stanton where they took the train for Omaha. After September 15, they will be at home to their friends in Stanton, Mo.

The bride needs no introduction to the people in Wayne where she has always lived. She is a graduate from the Wayne high school, and taught in that school for a number of years. She graduated from the Wayne Normal and last year was a member of the faculty, having classes in advanced work in domestic science.

She attended the Nebraska state university and spent a year at Drake university in Des Moines. She is a young lady of many accomplishments and will undoubtedly prove an excellent homemaker. The bride comes from a prominent family. Her father, Mr. H. H. holds a responsible position as salesman with Crane & Company, plumbing supplies in Sioux City.

A host of friends in Wayne and throughout the county, and the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Nangle of Sioux City, Miss Carrie Henderson of Jefferson, Ia., Mr. and Mrs. Guy Thompson of West Point, Miss Faith Haskell and Miss Carol Marriott of Wakefield.

PEOPLE YOU KNOW CALLED
Wayne Men Receive Appointments in United States Army.

Among the 284 Nebraska men called to the training camp at Fort Snelling, Minn., as announced on Saturday, are Paul L. Harrington and Herbert A. Welch of Wayne. They expect to leave for the camp August 24 or 25. V. E. Wilson of Harrington, who was a student in the Wayne State Normal, a few years ago, and James J. Baughn, lieutenant of the Wayside school last year, was also chosen for training at Fort Snelling.

Paul Harrington, accompanied by his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. John Harrington, arrived home Friday by automobile from Fort Snelling where they visited the camp. Paul reports that the Wayne boys, Harry Edgerly, James Baughn, Waldo Hahn and James Steele, have made wonderful headway in training and are well satisfied.

Moulay's report states that Waldo Hahn has been appointed second lieutenant, field artillery section, officers' reserve corps of the regular army, and that James J. Steele has been appointed lieutenant in the infantry in the National Fourth company.

John Bressler, Jr., and Francis Jones who enlisted some months ago in the army, were in the U. S. navy, left for Omaha Tuesday in response to orders to report for duty yesterday morning.

A Lincoln report says that Joseph E. Byrdy, brother of Mrs. O. J. Byrdy, of Wayne, was made captain following training at Fort Snelling.

FRIDAY ENDS CHAUTAUQUA

Strickland Gillilan Stars in "Sun, Sand and Sea Breeze."

The eleventh annual chautauqua ended Friday evening when a large audience gathered despite the threatening clouds, to hear the noted humorist, Strickland Gillilan, in his lecture "Sunshine and Awkwardness." The ease with which he gave over little anecdotes with a perfect humor, and his stories, many of them of his own experience, weaving in original poems, brimful of heart interest, accounted for the close attention and enthusiastic applause which he received. His description in verse of the taking of the family group picture was inimitable. The sly juddges and knowing looks through the audience evidenced that all had gone through the experience and were, therefore, on common ground with the poet-humorist. Never were the listeners afforded a laugh with the audience evidenced that all had gone through the experience and were, therefore, on common ground with the poet-humorist. wonderful respect for the mother's wishes, which she thinks the nearest human approach to the love of God. He closed his talk with a lot of his own verse, which thrilled with religious emotion.

The music on the closing day consisted of a number of original songs, many of them original specialties by the Mason's colored singers.

They carried the audience back to the days of camp meetings and plantations. The soprano soloist showed especial talent, her voice being soft, birdlike and clear. Their farewell song was encored several times.

MISS MADSEN'S TRAVELS

Wayne County Will Contribute Full Share to Food Supply.

(Eugenia Madsen.)
If the question of food is going to be a serious one in the future, it is going to be a decisive factor, judging by the crop output at present. The forecast of twenty bushels of wheat and sixty bushels of oats per acre is not uncommon, while the corn, although a little late, is very promising. With prospects for a good crop of corn in general, the pool of the idea of paying ten cents for the right of picking corn for some persons expecting to make their fortunes in that way this fall will probably receive as great a shock as did the crop of the year.

Two days ago, if Nebraska's leading county newspaper is to continue in service during the fall, we wish to advise you not to insert an advertisement for ten cents per bushel for picking corn or the same result may ensue as in the case of the advertiser in the Binford Bugle who calling at the office to see if his offer reward of ten dollars for the recovery of his dog had brought results, found the office deserted and the entire force out in search of the canine.

The other day I thought I had lost my pocketbook. The thought gave me such a shock that I let go the steering wheel and that lightning didn't have enough initiative to go straight ahead without hitting a gutter and as a consequence I almost landed in the ditch. I don't know which caused the greater relief—the finding of the purse or the lightning in the car.

For three weeks I have been saving those fifteen cents to spend at the Winside carnival.

As I was driving through town this evening, I saw a man in the driver's seat of the car. I didn't know that machine had such a piece of apparel, but presuming that the motor carriage is as subject to chills as it is to heat, I gave the car a little very fitting vesture. The noise that car caused not only held my attention but the attention of the inmates of all houses within a radius of two blocks. I don't believe that my & I attracted more attention. I now know how a person feels when he expects to be blown up by an infernal machine. I thought of losing the car on the street, but knowing that some Wayne joy riders are no respecters of motor cars, I didn't want to subject my innocence to any dangers. A Ford speedster whom I met and used the case and assured me that the loss of this piece of apparatus did not affect the running of the car and the only danger was to the driver's nerves and ears, so I left the car at the Herald office. I was not there when the owner started the machine, but I understand that he was unable to work for two days.

early enough to permit treatment and care when otherwise the victims might have gone on without discovering their condition until too late. Already arrangements are under way for treating several thousand cases of tuberculosis that have been known to exist in these areas.

HOSKINS PEOPLE APPEAL

New Complaint Filed Charging Violation of Liquor Law.

The result of a hearing in the county court yesterday of the state vs. Theodore Schlack of Hoskins, charged with intoxication, the judge assessed a fine of $10 and costs, and in the case of the state vs. Erwin Schlack, charged with resisting an officer, the judge announced a fine of $5 and costs. Both cases were appealed to the district court.

FARMERS AND PRICES.

Though it is known there is an abundance of potatoes in this part of the country, and though they are brought on to the public market by the wagon loads almost every day, the growers are still demanding $1 a bushel and frequently haul them home rather than take less. It is asserted commission men here are responsible for the condition, assuring the growers that they will take all they have to sell at $1 or more a bushel later in the season.—Durango Dispatch.

This complaint is a fair sample of the unreason that creeps into the volume of protest against the high cost of living. It would be very hard for the consumers if all the farmers would bring all their potatoes to town and sell them on the open market on the same day for such prices as the consumers might be willing to pay. That is, it would be very nice for the consumers for a little while. They would have cheap potatoes while they lasted, but they simply would not last the year round unless there were some sort of conservation. Knowing that potatoes sold as high as $4 a bushel this summer, many people have a notion that even though the supply is materially increased, potatoes are not unlikely to be worth better than $1 a bushel next summer. If this expectation is maintained large quantities of potatoes will be stored next fall to meet the demand of next spring and summer. The farmers have not the best possible facilities for storage, but why should they, he so foolish as to bury their crop to rot, and some city man reap the advantage that may come to him through storing and waiting for high prices to come?

Low Cloverleaf Spreaders

—THE SPREADER THAT SPREADS EIGHT FEET WIDE OR MORE—

The "Why" of the Wide Spread

After years of experience of designing manure spreaders the International Harvester company work up to the fact that a spreader was not a success unless it threw a wider spread than the mere width of the beater. Thus it was that the new Cloverleaf spreader with a 45-inch box and an 8-foot spread was put on the market.

The speed of the spon is increased so that the manure is fed to the beater twice as fast. Therefore the density of the strip on the ground per square foot is the same as it would be from the old-style spreader. But since the spread is twice as wide, the unloading time is shortened by practically 50 per cent and the traveling distance reduced an equal amount. Should you hesitate on buying a Cloverleaf wide-spreader?

The "How" of the Wide Spread

To secure the wide spread it was only necessary to, in some way, receive the manure as it came from the beater and change the direction of its motion to the sides instead of to the back. This is done by means of two steel discs attached just back of the beater. The discs, which are fitted with aging irons on the inside, revolve rapidly in opposite directions. The beater throws the manure directly against the discs and it is caught and thrown out in a wide spread.

The width of the spread may be changed by adjusting the wings at the side. If wanted, the strip may be cut down to just the width of the box or it may be extended until the beater is throwing a strip 8 feet wide or more.

FEATURE 1. Manure Pulverized. When you use the Cloverleaf spreader the manure is given two beatings. It is cut and torn by the beater, and is then caught by the wide spreading discs and thrown out upon the ground. A hood so holds the manure that the discs act on every part of it. And the finer the fertilizer the sooner it becomes thoroughly mixed with the soil.	FEATURE 2. The Slatted Roller. Has a particular advantage because it is flexible and allows most any size of a load to be put onto it. Light manure may be piled high in the center, and the slatted roller revolves on the top of the load, retaining the top and crushing the lumps so that all the manure is fed to the beater uniformly.	FEATURE 3. Roller Bearings. Always lighten the draft, but the roller bearings on the rear axle of the Cloverleaf are contained in self-aligning boxes which prevent any danger of cramping or twisting the rollers. The bearings operate in clean grease held in dust-proof oil cups. Trouble with the draft of the Cloverleaf is entirely overcome by this arrangement.	FEATURE 4. All-Steel Frame. Because all the strain of hauling comes on the frame nothing but the best steel is used in the Cloverleaf. And besides the frame is strongly braced and trussed to withstand the strain of any load. The steel bars, cross-bracing the main frame, absolutely do away with any giving or sagging.	FEATURE 5. Lead Pulled Straight. The pull of the load on the Cloverleaf is straight from the frame. The tongue is attached at about the level of the bottom of the box, and the horses are relieved from the "constant" worry and strain of neck weight. And the narrow front tracks save the horses' front legs and shoulders from being bruised by the tongue.	FEATURE 6. Gears Very Heavy. The worm and worm gears, which in fact meet the strain of the entire load, are very heavy and, in addition, are oiled in an iron case, dust and dirt tight. These gears are also reversible which "lengthens" their life 100 per cent. They "run" with a jerk but with a steady motion throughout the unloading operation.

Ideal Way to Apply Manure

The only practical method for spreading manure on high-priced land and when high-priced labor is used, is with an up-to-date machine. It has been tested out again and again that corn, wheat and hay actually yield more per acre after even one application of fertilizer. If you are going to fertilize at all, do it the right way—with a Cloverleaf spreader.

Why A Spreader Pays For Itself

Not only does spreading manure scientifically increase crop returns, but it saves labor as well. When the spreader gets into the field it requires only 3 to 5 minutes to spread the entire load. Hauling the same load with a wagon would take at least twenty minutes. You will almost save enough time in a year to pay for the latest model Cloverleaf spreader.

AFTER THE WAR.

Won't the old world seem just splendid when this weary war is ended, when we hang our swords and shotguns up behind the kitchen door? And I hope, when done with slaying, we'll devote our time to having, that the thunder of the cannons and the heard on earth no more. All the world should be disarming, and the kings should turn to farming, when the dove with snowy pinions in our view again appears; for we've had enough of slaughter and of blood that flows like water—what we had should satisfy us for at least a million years. But the war must drag on further, with its dreary wholesale murder with its endless useless battles, all the Kaiser has been chased, all the iron prize, smashed and gone, says he's had enough of glory, and the sword of wrath has fallen from the royal madman's hand. Then, when there's no longer tidings of the curtain and its ridings, and the pawing, neighing warhorse has to haul the farmer's plow, this old world will be alluring, with a peace that is enduring, this old world that is so weary and so horror ridden now.

THERE'S NO ESCAPE.

There is no earthly spot, no cave, no hole, no desert blizzards, hot, where agents do not go. I've tried to hide myself from men who sold me books, hush on a mountain's shelf, in lonely forest nooks—in vain; for everywhere the agents find their way; they track me to my air, with works by Bertha Clay. I've hid in hermits' cells, that little comfort gave; in far sequestered dells I've lived, in grove and cave. I've quit the haunts of men to find some loneliness, some place, where I might meet again behold an agent's face. On bleak and barren moor I have concealed my frame; and when I felt secure the agents always came. Now on a mountain top, above the fleecy clouds, in cabin home I spon, remote from madding crowds. At last, serene and calm, I scanned the plains below, and said, "At last I am where agents never go." But still as I spoke I saw a dame approach with a stock of oak and large gun-metal brooch. She looked me in the eye, and cried, her voice a scream, "Say, don't you want to buy the works of Charlotte Braeme?" Then, down the mountain side I slid, in my despair, and ruined all my hide, and tore out lots of hair.

THE WICKED KAISER.

The Kaiser, so dispatches say, would bring his dirt disasters, and his home agents, in his pay, as selling poisoned, plastic, worm-delic, goppers, in old cheeses, and if you put one on your torn, you'll die of punk diseases. O'er tales like this we groan and grieve, and wring our hands and sniffer; we are so easy we believe such tinhorn brands of piffle. The Kaiser stole my shorts, my pants, and killed my old cat, Tabby; he put some poison in her cup, and knocked her cold and dabby. The Kaiser's agents come at night, when darkness o'er us thickens, and all the cops are out of sight, and steal my Leghorn chickens. The Kaiser sent his loathsome spies to rob my humble dwelling; they stole some sinkers and three pies, and left me vainly yelling, "The Kaiser's pretty busy now, with enemies all round him, who kick up such a beasty row the racket must confound him. Yet he finds leisure while he kills, and dodges new disasters, to send out men with poisoned pills, and germie porous plasters. Oh, bunk and piffle! Tommyrot! Some Ananias told it. Say, will we ever learn to spot a fake when we behold it?"

THE CANKERING COST.

The cost of living is so beastly my bank account it kills; my language is not chaste or pretty, when I pay up my bills. Retirement has to be my motto, if I survive at all, and so I use the same old auto you saw die last fall. You see me with all my expenses remorselessly cut down; I only use two residences, one rural, one in town. It keeps me hustling, toiling, scuttling, to pay my bills when due, though I have but one blunder button, when I am used to two. The wife is raising a commotion since she can only spend a fortnight in the heating ocean—she's used to months on the sea-going trip. I've forgotten just when I wore silk shirts; the ones I have seen made of cotton, and such a come-down hurst. Methinks it times get any tougher, I'll take a nonchance jaunt, there's something wrong when men must suffer the grievous pangs of want. To ruin's brink you see me, wretched, impoverished, and lean; I'm in a touring model, instead of limousine.

DRAFTED.

Jim Brick was heaving wood for a mer'ly wholesome cheerfulness, no hanky he was good to see, with out a touch of yellow. And while, to earn a shining-bone, he plied the ax, stout-hearted, his father called him up by phone, and said, "My boy, you're drafted." An instant Jim looked rather sick; perhaps he thought of mother, and all the family of Brick, the sister and the brother. A sweat stood out upon his brow, I saw his pale lips quiver and thought, "Alas, this young man, now, has got a chicken's liver." A moment Jim looked full of care, then said a cheerful halloo: "I'm glad I'm called to do my share, you bet your bottom dollar! So far this day my labor ends—the news this fact determines—I want to go and tell my friends that I'll be posting Germans. I want to let a certain girl that I have been elected to make the Kaiser's whiskers curl, and make the Prinz dejected. I hand Jim a bunch of flowers, and said, "Go, do your playing; I'll only dock you seven hours when comes the time for paying." When he was gone my eyes grew dim with patriotic fervor. "The country's safe white boys like Jim," I said, "are here to serve her!"

POOR GERMANY.

Old Kaiser Bill is bad enough; you must admit it's pretty tough to have a king like that; a man so arrogant and vain, with egotism so insane his head outgrows his hat. It must be tough to have a king who always says a crazy thing when wisdom's in request, who was, before he took his lance and started trespassing in France, the universal Jew. But Kaiser Bill, with all his sins, his withered arm and shriveled heart, has points we should admire; his heart is not entirely stone, and people say they've heard him groan o'er all this blood and fire. The load he carries is so great he'll sink beneath it soon or late, and he will cash his string; then, if the Hohenzollern line be not uprooted, stalk and vine, the kron prinz will be King. The German nation, with the wretched face, the runt of a decaying race, the war's prize also ran. When he is monarch Germania will with yearning think of Kaiser Bill, who in the least a man. Poor Germany! To look ahead and think that when your Wilhelm's dead, this prinz will be on deck! It will be punishment severe for all the woe you're causing here, the ruin and the wreck.

AS TO RUSSIA.

Oakland Independent: Elhu Root on his return from Russia, calls attention to a misconception on the part of many of our people in Russia. He says that in that country conditions are as orderly and people as tranquil as in America. Newspapers tell of mistimes of troops, of rioting in the cities, of resignations of cabinet members, and so on; and from reading these things people get the impression that chaos reigns supreme in that vast country. But it is just such abnormal happenings as these, lynchings of Negroes, disturbances by I. W. W.'s, resistance to the draft, sporadic cases of treason; that are enabled to the papers of Europe from America. We who live here know that these disturbances are few and small, but how are people of Europe to know that they are not general? It will be so easy to remember Mr. Root's reminder, and he should know, for he has been on the ground. And he is most optimistic about affairs in Russia.

CHURCH CALENDAR

St. Paul's English Lutheran Church (Rev. J. H. Efferloff, Pastor). Sunday school next Sunday at the regular hour, 10 o'clock. Preaching service at 11 o'clock. There will be no services in the evening.

German Lutheran Church (Rev. R. Moehring, Pastor). Sunday school at 10 o'clock. Preaching service at 11 o'clock. There will be no services in the evening. At 3 o'clock in the afternoon services will be held on the side. A week from Sunday, August 26, there will be no services as the pastor will be out of town.

First Baptist Church (Rev. Fletcher J. Jordan, Pastor). The Baptist church will hold its regular services next Sunday both morning and evening. At 10:30 the pastor will take as his subject "Prayer." In the evening he will speak from the subject "Follow Me." The general public is cordially invited to all the services of the church. If you are stopping in our town over Sunday, come and worship with us. Good music at all these services.

The Sunday school meets as usual at 11:30. If you have not been in the habit of attending plan to remain for the session next Sunday. We will leave you out promptly at 12:30. You will find a class where you are made to feel at home.

The young people's society will meet at 7 o'clock. This meeting is led by the president, Miss Hazel Nelson and the subject is "Definite Purpose and the Success it Wins." 1 Kings 9:1-9. Let each member be prepared to make some contribution to the meeting.

Thursday evening at 8 o'clock there is the regular choir rehearsal. The choir has been very faithful during the hot weather and we thank you for it. Let's worship the Lord in song.

These are perilous times and we need the help which comes from on high. We can supplicate the Throne of Grace in our homes, but there none as quick to answer as to a body of people when they meet in the name of Christ with a united purpose. The mid-week meeting meets every Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock promptly.

Presbyterian Church (Rev. S. X. Cross, Pastor). The coming two weeks will be vacation time for the pastor and his family. A group of our young friends have gotten together and made it possible for us to take a trip and a rest. For this kindness we are very profoundly grateful, but there none as quick to answer as to a body of people when they meet in the name of Christ with a united purpose. The mid-week meeting meets every Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock promptly.

greater zeal for the fall and winter work. Next Sunday is Intermediate day in the local Sunday school. The Boy Scouts and the Rainbow Girls will rally in force to the work on next Sunday. All are urged to be in place in the Sunday school at this time. It will be a privilege to see the importance of the Sunday school work. We will not be slack in doing all we can to boost the work along.

The J. J. S. C. P. will continue to work on the regular basis on Sunday evenings. A group of Christian Ministers, the Pastors and committee, will look after certain lines of the church work and keep us informed of the work they are doing. The C. E. society is in line sleep for some good constructive, aggressive work this fall.

You are urged to take in all the church. Remember that our every service is for Christ and the church.

PHILOSOPHY OF OPTIMISM

One of our foremost living leaders of modern thought reminds us in an address delivered some time ago that of all the religions of the world, and of all the philosophies evolved by master minds, there is not one but is predicated upon the eventual triumph of good over evil and that despite all the wrongs and yet framed any scheme of education, politics or society upon the hypothesis that the influences making for wickedness in the world will finally come to the explanation of this is of course, man's optimism—his conviction that his aims and purposes are right and that the end of only reasonable profits from America's allies. The priority bill giving power to the government to direct the order of transportation of any commodity will refer to any other commodity and anything else, other things, that there shall be no increase in freight rates before January 1, 1920, without the advance approval of the interstate commerce commission.

It will do us good to dwell upon this thought at this particular time, when all the inhabitants of the earth seem to be in a ferment and to be engaged in a struggle with death and discouragement as to the future. There have been conflicts and catastrophes in manifold succession ever since the dawn of history, and even the most ardent student of the historian has had no difficulty in finding them steps in human progress—or, at any rate, in no way stopping the course of progress. All of our modern troubles, of which Liberty have been gained only through frightful bloodshed or destructive revolution, but are universally conceded to be well worth all and more than the cost.

The same optimism that has animated mankind from the beginning still guides the human heart, and it is this optimism that gives us the day—that the darkness of the battle will be followed by the dawn of peace and greater happiness—that the forces of good will again, as always, triumph and hold their superiority to the forces of evil.

THE FIELD OF BUSINESS.

Sioux City Journal: Although there has been some pessimistic tendency, industrial prospects as indicated during the last week are not at all discouraging, and even the indication that the government is resolved to enforce reasonable prices on war supplies sold to the allies, as well as to the United States, had no serious influence upon business in any line. Crop prospects showed improvement, owing to rains in districts where moisture was badly needed. Railroad earnings for the year, as forecast by the reports of the interstate commerce commission covering the month of June, are likely to pass all records.

Labor troubles, particularly in the copper fields of Montana and the southwest where the I. W. W. have established a species of terrorism, have been unpleasant. Any labor shortage under present circumstances when the maintenance of one of our largest industries is at stake, a corresponding curtailment of other plants is bound to be disturbing. Price fixing activities of the government itself, in connection with depressing trade factor by the fact that so large a part of the country's enterprises is already devoted wholly to the turning out of supplies for the government itself. When mills are taxed to their capacity to fill present and future orders there is naturally little response to regulations that are intended primarily to govern business which cannot now be accepted.

Improvement is seen in the transportation system, although the volume of haulage has reached proportions which are beyond the capacity of the system. Soaking rains in the middle west weakened corn prices during the week, while generously adding to the prospects of the year for production. The interstate department of agriculture, in its latest estimate, predicted a corn yield surpassing any before in history, a decreased production of wheat, but big gains in barley, eye white and sweet potatoes, tobacco and hay. Thrashing returns from many sections were so favorable as to depress wheat on the market. Cash corn, which is up to $2.45 for 24 white, dropped sharply to the neighborhood of $2.25, the dropping out of distillers as big purchasers being partly responsible for the slump. Oats moved downward in sympathy with corn. Hogs and cattle held generally strong.

The interstate commerce commission's railroad report, covering earnings of 183 lines in June, showed a gain for the month of $8,000,000 as compared to June, 1916. Probabilities are, the report indicated, that gross earnings of railroads will be 20 per cent greater in 1917 than in 1916, and that despite high increases in operating costs, the difference between income and expenditures will be the largest greater than that of 1916. Treasury figures showed that the amount of money in circulation in the United States on August 1 was $2,900,000,000, a total which is 23 per cent greater than that of 1916, and which establishes a new high record. The amount of gold in circulation and in the treasury on August 1 exceeded by $1,340,000,000 the total just prior to the outbreak of the war. The treasury offering of $300,000,000 in certificates, preliminary to floating of the next installment of the Liberty loan bonds on the New York market, dropped to a new minimum, 99.52.

Gold imports from Canada and exports to the United States, which were $1,000,000,000, touched its high mark of the week at 44 to 5 per cent. The food control bill was signed by the president and gave the power to control food, fuel, fertilizer and agricultural machinery was thereby given to the government. Prohibition of the use of grain for any other commodity, and anything else, other things, that there shall be no increase in freight rates before January 1, 1920, without the advance approval of the interstate commerce commission.

The president, increasing of the commission from five to seven members, also was made legal, and the president will appoint the additional members. A conference of governors of 17 states was called by the Illinois defense council to consider means for the reduction of coal prices. The session will be held August 16.

PEACE TALK.

Lincoln Journal: Senator La Follette's effort to secure legislation in congress cannot achieve any definite good at this time. The only result which can follow discussion of specific peace terms just now, and this is the result sought by Germany in endeavoring to stir up such discussion—is the raising of issues tending to divide the allies. The initiative in peace discussion must come, as matters stand now from Germany. And that initiative can come to nothing unless it involves specific promises on one point without which there can be no peace short of the defeat of the allies.

Whenever the German government is specific about Belgium, and offers its peace talk with a pledge to release and restore Belgium, then the way is open for peace talk among the allies. That concession by Germany would indicate, in its spirit, is sufficiently chastened to make possible a worth while peace.

TO SAVE KANSAS PIGS.

Lincoln, Aug. 11.—In a letter to the Nebraska state board of agriculture today, J. C. G. Hays, tax assessor of the Kansas state board of agriculture, asserts that the corn crop in Kansas is not going to be large enough this year to feed the pigs raised in that state. He asks the Nebraska board to direct the matter to the attention of corn growers in this state, in order that they might be induced to buy the young hogs which Kansas cannot feed and thus save them from going to slaughter before they attain their full weight.

The corn crop in Kansas is said to be far below the head and neck, is but little of the old crop on hand, making it imperative that the hogs be sold or slaughtered. If farmers in neighboring states will take the young hogs and fatten them, Mr. Mohler declares, they will greatly increase the meat supply of the nation and at the same time find it a profitable investment.

Ginghams Percales for School Dresses

Yes, just a little over two weeks and school bells all over the county will call some 2000 children to their books. This means that every girl must have two or three dresses besides aprons and a good supply of underwear. On our shelves is a big assortment of neat, 36-inch percales in both lights and darks, and a full line of Glenkirk ginghams has been billed out for immediate delivery.

Attractive Patterns Galore

Never before have we selected such a display of ginghams and percales. And the prices are not much higher than formerly. Plaids are the thing, and the combinations of colors are exceptionally good this year.

Shoes and Stockings

Sturdiness characterizes every pair of boys' and girls' shoes in the house. They are made on lasts fashioned for comfort and service. No "pinchey" toes or heels that hurt.

And as to stockings, we have them all weights; the extra heavy for growing boys, medium for the kindergartners.

Make this your headquarters for outfitting your boys and girls for school.
