FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 7. Mary Pickford in "Madame Butterfly." No matter whether you have heard the opera, or read the novel or the play, you must see "our Mary" in her absolutely artistic portrayal of the forsaken Cho-Cho-San, the little Japanese maid who waits through the long months and years for the return of her faithless American husband. "Madame Butterfly" in pantomime makes a tender, poetic and wonderfully dramatic appeal.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 8. Madeline Grant in "The Daughter of MacGregor." As refreshing and vigorous as the little ocean breeze is this tale of a little Scotch lassie, Jean, who is just as fiery and just as pugnacious as her father. Consequently when he tells her he is about to marry again she rebels, and works her way to America. On this side she is just as lovable as ever because of her sunny disposition. And you will enjoy seeing how she meets crisis after crisis.

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 10. Bessie Love in "The Heiress of Coffey Dams." This is a Triangle that the Crystal had booked months ago because it is one of the best Triangles ever produced. Listen to what the manager of the Chicago Lakeside theater, which caters only to the better classes, says: "With Bessie Love in 'The Heiress of Coffey Dams' is a very clever picture, clean and wholesome. My patrons were very well pleased and said they were glad to see a pleasant picture presented in white instead of the usual color."

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 10. "The Flashlight" is an unusual story in which a picture accidentally taken plays an important part in solving a mysterious murder in the mountains. The hero Jack Lane, is a wealthy sportsman roaming through a northern forest for the love of adventure. Dorothy Phillips, so popular in many Bluebird plays, takes the difficult role of Delice Brixton, whose father is supposed to have been killed. Old man Brixton appears at the court scene and clears both Lane and Delice, who are accused. An interesting feature is the flight of the two fugitives down the river and through the forests. They are lost and almost starved. See this unique play.

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 11. "The Night," the fourth episode of "The Gray Ghost," the super serial featured at the Crystal every Tuesday night, is the most exciting chapter thus far. Eddie Polo as the hero's secretary, holds a whole gang at bay while Hildreth escapes from a cafe. Morn Light threatens the Gray Ghost with a sharp paper knife. Hildreth escapes to Morn Light's apartments, but is tracked by the Gray Ghost. Don't miss this episode. The official war pictures are shown Tuesday night. They give you all the thrill of the front. In addition the Universal Animated Weekly tells you a lot of things in one reel of pictures. Plan on the Crystal for Tuesday nights.

CO. E. OFF TO WAR. Tekamah Journal: The Journal publisher was on the morning train from Sioux City last Saturday morning. He took the 6:30 train for the 6088th day of the route to New Mexico. The first of the Nebraska troops picked up was E company that has been guarding the Omaha railway bridge across the Missouri at Sioux City. This company has its home station at Wayne. It made the writer know that he was back to his home county when the train reached Lyons when band and newspapers were exchanged at the depot with waving flags and cheer greetings to the boys going away to war. That was really the first sentiment of patriotic feeling that was exhibited along the route that far. The writer had been asleep might have known that he had reached Lyons for along those lines they are always enthusiastic and E company felt mighty good at the demonstration in its honor.

CALL OF THE PRESIDENT.

Every Woman in Nebraska is Asked to Register on September 12.

At the call of the president, the woman power of every county in the state is to be registered on September 12 in Nebraska. In other states there are different dates, and different methods. This registration involves every woman in the state, whether she be a housekeeper or office woman or professional woman. The president, the national women and the Woman's committee and the census department earnestly request that every woman register on that date. The character of the work is really ten-fold. A woman may give service to her country through work that is done wholly by herself and her family. Thus, if she has a garden or raises fruit, poultry or stock, she is serving the government and can register in the agricultural department. If she is an accountant, a bookkeeper, typist or stenographer or knows office work, she may offer to do from one to as many hours a week as she feels she can give to her country. The work may be done locally. It is not necessary for women to leave their home cities or states. Domestic work, for instance, would include the care of children, perhaps the orphans of a soldier who is at the front, making or sewing, or the preparation of surgical dressing and many other forms of service that can be done right in one's home. The point is that a woman should know about the readiness of the woman to serve and in what capacity. The classes of service are: Agricultural, clerical, domestic, industrial, professional, public service, social service, Red Cross, and Allied Relief, miscellaneous and contributions.

G. L. CASWELL'S COMMENT.

Praises Wayne Hospitality at Late Press Meeting Here.

G. L. Caswell in Corn Belt Publisher: "The newspaper men of the Northeast-Nebraska Editorial Association held their midsummer meeting at Wayne July 27 and 28, as guests of the Wayne newspaper men and the citizens of that splendid city generally. The attendance was not what it should have been for so good a program and so fine a pleasure session, but those who were present, feel well-represented being there. Mayor G. A. Lamberson of Wayne and the citizens of the city generally vied with each other in showing every consideration and courtesy to the visiting newspaper people, exemplifying their good opinion of editors and their willingness to co-operate with their own live and energetic publishers."

"The social entertainment of the visiting newspaper people was made something memorable by a number of the good, social and fraternal people of Wayne joining to give them a picnic dinner in the pretty little city park. Here under the trees on that hot summer afternoon eatables were spread in abundance with real chicken, fried chicken, all kinds of chicken, and more chicken, with all the concomitants of a delicious feast. It was a social enjoyment enjoyed as well. After the feast, President Mrs. Weekes called upon several of the visiting editors and some of the townspeople for brief speeches and they were also very timely and enjoyable."

"From the picnic in the park, the editors were taken in automobiles to see the city of Wayne—prosperous and beautiful in its rapid development, with its state normal college a chief feature and its splendid and comfortable homes—the pride and glory of all. And then to the modern and comfortable home of Editor and Mrs. E. W. Huse of the Wayne Herald. Here many of the business people of the city were invited to join with the editorial guests in a full evening's entertainment, including speeches by Lieut.-Gov. Edgar Howard, President Clark Perkins of the N. P. A. and some readings and singing by fine local talent. Refreshments were provided and served by a bevy of ladies in the house while outside a real moving picture show was arranged, appropriate to the occasion. It was midnight when the rare evening's entertainment was concluded."

"Saturday forenoon ended the sessions and most of the visitors found it necessary to hurry away in order to get to their homes by Sunday. Wayne has the honor of a splendid and profitable meeting, and with more comfortable weather than 104 degrees in the shade, should have had a much larger attendance."

SWAM WHIRLPOOL RAPIDS

John L. Soules Won Wager in a Two-Mile Dash Down Niagara. John L. Soules had thrilling and perilous experiences before becoming a full-fledged constable. His "daring" as a peaco officer did not come to him when he donned the mantle of officer in Wayne. When he was first chosen to office he didn't put on bravery as one would expect on a pair of new shoes. Bravery came to him naturally and has been proven by many tests. This brief sketch is prompted by recollection of one of his stellar feats in a recent action hero's contest.

On a wager of $1,000 he swam whirlpool rapids, Niagara, July 4, 1900.

Early in that year a man by the name of Smith agreed to swim the rapids with Soules, and $1,000 was to go to the winner. For several weeks in advance Mr. Soules devoted himself to vigorous training. He swam and otherwise put force and vigor into his muscles. On the morning of the eventful day, he weighed 149 pounds and six ounces. He was 31 years old. Six thousand people gathered to witness the plunge from the Michigan Central bridge, Canadian side.

But Smith did not show up. He had weakened and evaporated. Soules did not disappoint the people, however, and was ready for exhibition at the appointed time. He looked like a circus rider when he stepped forward to throw himself into the seething water. The people gasped as he dove into the whirlpool. They gasped again when he was picked up by a particularly vigorous swimmer and carried four hundred yards from the rapids. The crowd gasped and cheered time and again.

The Norfolk Daily News of Thursday August 30, gives the following account of the showing of "The Tanks," the official war picture, under the auspices of Company 1 at the auditorium last week: The attendance record of the auditorium was broken Tuesday when "The Tanks," the official British war picture shown under the auspices of Company 1, was displayed for the first time. The picture was again Wednesday afternoon and will be shown for the last time Wednesday evening. The soldiers reported that 1,800 people saw the picture Tuesday. Other big crowds were expected to see it Wednesday afternoon and night. The soldiers sold approximately 1,100 tickets and the receipts from the sales by Red Cross girls up to Tuesday afternoon amounted to approximately $96.

Cigarettes 30,520,193,538 as compared with 21,887,757,078, an increase of more than forty per cent. Tobacco, chewing and smoking, 445,673,306 pounds, an increase of 28,300,000. It was a solemn sermon, according to executives which appeared in the newspaper report, and which follows: "One of the greatest ideals which men and nations should have is the ideal of work. The notion of their character and morals is the ideal of idleness," asserted Rev. Mr. Snyder. "They have believed that the aim of life is to avoid effort. Under the same mistaken ideas we spoil our children, fondly imagining we are showing our love for them by letting them loaf until they grow into the opinion that they are too good to work. "Education has long been conceived as a way of escape from life effort," he continued. "And as a result the professional men, the laborers, ministers and doctors who endeavored to seek out easy pathways of life when their places in life should have been those of hard-working farmers or tradesmen." But it is not only men who have sought the easier labor, stated Rev. Mr. Snyder. In these later days a multitude of young men are under the banner of the ideal prefer to be chorus girls or manicurists as an easy way to get food and clothing; but the easy way is never the best of ways when it comes to the standards we enshrine in our memories, he declared. "An Eden without toil has ever been the dream of most people, and they have looked forward to a future of everlasting loafing," Rev. Mr. Snyder asserted. "But there was an Eden of idleness. The nearest the experience of man comes to it was the savage life from which we have grown by grace of toil, and if there be any value in the legend of Adam and Eve it is that they were Adam and Eve in the state of innocence and the ignorant innocence of a tasteless Eden. "Under the impulse of the Spirit of Work and Love they left a life of ease in which they could only have had a vegetative existence. Man needs the pressure and strain of continual work to achieve the best there is in him. "Let us look about us to see the truth that the creative spirit of the universe is a working spirit. The work of God is never finished. He organizes the possibilities of beauty and righteousness of character of manhood and womanhood. It takes more of the creative genius to bring human souls to respond to the desire that there be light than to set the firmament ablaze with glory. "When the universe shall have caught the understanding of the gospel of work, then people shall live in the peace and understanding that their neighbors, although engaged perhaps in different or lower tasks, are of the common brotherhood, and there will be no suspicion or looking-down upon their brethren

THE FIELD OF BUSINESS.

Stout, City Journal. Development of government or regulation over industry again was the outstanding feature of the week in business. In the domain of price control important action was taken in the fixing of the basic quotation for No. 1 hard winter wheat at $2.20 for the 1917 crop. Prospect of unlimited delay in enactment of the war revenue bill was ended by an agreement between the Senate and House on the measure by September 10. Amendments already adopted in the Senate have increased considerably the proportion of big incomes and profits that will be collected by the government, and the probability is that still further advances along this line will be made before all pending amendments are disposed of.

Influenced apparently by the trend in the Senate, stock trading during the week was featured by several liquidations and hoast figures. The Russian situation also played a part, rubles dropping to the notably low mark of 18.4 cents. So determined was the bearish movement without being at all precipitate, that even news of America's rejection of the pope's peace plan had no appreciable encouraging effect. Rails, steel, oil, motors, everything suffered in the period of depression. The tendency was not alarming in proportion to its stubbornness, however, and seemed to have no effect outside the stock market, but it was received with satisfaction nearly everywhere. Millers agreed to exact a profit not to exceed 25 cents a barrel for flour and 50 cents a ton for feed. Voluntary co-operation of jobbers and the baking industry will be sought by the food administration in its effort to bring down the price of the loaf. Official promise was held out of a sixteen ounce loaf at 8 cents.

The wheat pit of the Chicago board of trade was closed. Fear of frost caused a bullish trend in corn futures which later was counterbalanced by reports that Trieste was being evacuated to the Italians. Purchase of Argentine corn at what was considered a fair price produced some weakness. As the week ended, corn and oats were firm. Hogs and provisions also advanced during the week, after hogs had gone down sharply from the $20 mark in the previous week.

Smaller food operators showed a disposition to oppose the president's price scales, on the ground that they would be forced out of business and the total production thereby curtailed. Some sentiment developed among the operators in favor of an arrangement for selling pools, under which operators big and little would be protected, and according to the mine owners, no appreciable advance in coal prices to the public would be brought about. Control of steel and copper prices by the government was forecast. New estimates given to Congress indicated that the total money authorization that would be needed by the government within the fiscal year ending June 30 next might be $21,000,000,000, and it certainly would be at least $19,000,000,000. Of this, $7,000,000,000 represents loans to the allies, and $10,000,000,000 the probable expenditures of the American government for purely war purposes.

Tightening of exports control to include cotton, all meats, sugar, and many other commodities was announced. In order to check exportation of gold, that also was placed subject to regulation under the license system. Further depreciation of the dollar in neutral countries of Europe is anticipated as a result of this policy.

The next Liberty loan installment, probably $5,000,000,000, is to be disposed of between October 1 and November 1, according to plans announced by the treasury department. Liberty bonds were strong on the market, bringing 99-30 to 99-8. Time loans ranged from 4 to 5 1/2 per cent. Call money went up to a maximum of 6 per cent. Bar silver struck a new high level at 89 1/2 cents an ounce. Bank clearings continued higher than those of a year ago, this being accounted for in part by generally higher prices and in part by brisker buying.

Prospects for gold were reported to be good. Retail trade at present is classified as fair to good. It is best in the regions of the army encampments.

In hospital service so much depends on the little things. Even after the patient has rallied satisfactorily from an operation, there is much left to be done to take him the whole way to health.

The care of the convalescent has come to be a science, requiring hard study and intense application. What shall the patient eat? When shall he sit up? When walk? These are but a few of the questions which confront the nurse, and the correctness and dispatch of her decisions are of vital import.

In the small country hospital it is possible to attend to all these matters with utmost care for there are comparatively few patients and each, therefore, receives every bit of attention necessary.

JUSTIFIES THE WAR.—Sheila, Neb., Sept. 1.—Rev. John J. Hershey, pastor of the Stella Lutheran church, principal speaker at a reception given the soldier boys here, declared his loyalty to the United States and his sympathy with the cause of the allies. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James B. Hershey, farmers near Grand Island. His father was born in Pennsylvania but is of German parentage. His mother was born in Germany, but came to America when 10 years old. Some of Mrs. Hershey's cousins are fighting in Germany and some of her son's cousins in the American army. Rev. Mr. Hershey said in part:

world, on the other hand we have the power of justice and righteousness endeavoring to give to the world freedom and an everlasting peace. Which of the two is going to win no man can tell at the present time. Germany has always been held up to the world as having reached a degree of efficiency in militarism unattainable by a democracy. But if the United States continues her preparations for the next two years as she has been doing in the past four and a half months she will have reached an efficiency along military lines that will discredit everything Germany has ever accomplished.

"German leaders derided America's entrance into the war as a blunder. They said that it was a compromise. The last four and one-half months is her answer to Germany's derision. It took Germany fifty years to reach the efficiency which she has attained along military lines.

"The world at present is in one of the darkest death struggles that has ever been recorded by the pen of man. There are two great powers contending against each other. On the one hand we have the power of might striving to dominate the

At the present rate America will reach an efficiency that will surpass Germany's by far inside of two years. And I am confident we will also prove this answer before the two years have passed.

"The question has been raised and is still being raised: Is it right for a christian nation to go to war? Is it right for a christian man to take the life of another man? As an answer to this, I will only quote what one of the great reformers of the sixteenth century, Martin Luther, said to this same question that was put to him. He said: 'There are times when war is justified as a means of overthrowing grievous wrongs and that a christian can resort to arms to uphold the state in time of peril.' He defined further that war must have as its final aim love. It must be waged only when the controlling purpose is the establishment of national and international peace and justice. This is for the best interests—the good of all. Then war becomes a solemn duty."

PROFITEERS.

Lincoln Journal: After long looking from a great distance upon the war profits of the coal operators and other corporate profiteers of the east, we find ourselves interested at being at the other end of the telescope. The New York Evening Post makes its first overture in business with which it sees the west now dripping, and remarks:

"The suspicion develops that, in spite of war stocks and strange new schemes to hold the state in place to make money, wealth accumulates on every rood of ground rather than where trade 'buys the land.' A pig as big as a tomat, exults an Illinois farmer, sells for $10. North Dakota boasted in 1910 of less than 75,000 farms and farmers. Director Cooper of the experiment station at Bismark, estimates that the total value of her five leading crops this year will be in excess of $205,000,000—that is, if we allow for a small increase in the number of North Dakota farms and farmers—each one will receive about $2,700 for these five leading crops. By the five leading crops he means oats, barley, rye, flaxseed, and wheat, and he puts the value of corn, potatoes and hay at $33,000,000, or nearly $500 more per farm. Then there are the hogs (which grow much bigger than tomat), the cattle, the sheep, and the fowls. We would advise automobile and piano manufacturers to direct their agents' attention to North Dakota and adjoining states; though it is probably that they are already well stocked with such luxuries."

ROR REGISTRATION DAY.

Rural School Buildings to be Used by Women September 12.

Lincoln, Sept. 12.—All rural school buildings have been placed at the disposal of the women of the county for registration day by State Superintendent Clemmons, on request of the governor, with the further suggestion that registration day, which is September 12, be made a half holiday on that afternoon.

The state superintendent's office is having a serious time trying to supply teachers to school districts over the state.

According to Assistant Superintendent Dixon, the supply does not appear to be equal to the demand, although he believes that the shortage of "honor wages" which some schools are paying is not doing anything into the profession many who are able to teach, but who have been kept out of it because of the smaller salaries paid.

"Some of the calls simply say, 'Send us a teacher,' and do not stipulate the price to be paid, some of these admitting that it is simply a question of teacher and not salary."

WONDERFUL MOTHER LOVE

Actress of Seventy-two in Bluebird Play, "Mother O' Mine."

The subject of mother-love has been adapted to the screen in a beautiful story, interpreted in Bluebird play, "Mother O' Mine." It will be the attraction "Bluebird day" at the Crystal theater on Thursday, September 27, with Rupert Julian and Ruth Clifford in the starring roles. Ruby LaFayette, who at the age of seventy-two, is receiving her introduction to the screen, will play the title role in a sympathetic and natural portrayal. This old woman's mother was not stylish enough for her newly rich son, and when she came to visit him, unexpectedly, he proved that she was unwelcome when he referred to her as "his old mother." "The mother heard and understood (as mothers always do) and quietly stole back to the old home and the surroundings she loved best. Her son was due for a rude awakening, and then atoned for his neglect—but the lesson affected his entire life. The girl he loved understood, and was instrumental in consummating the happy ending to a touching screen romance. Setlad

Don't Wait for a Slump IN COAL PRICES

For although Uncle Sam has his eye on the coal situation, still it takes time to conduct investigations of the country's mines and to make satisfactory adjustments.

We Will Get the Coal

Of that we feel quite sure, but we can guarantee neither the time nor the price. It is unlikely that you will notice any considerable slump in prices for some time, and it is our advice that you fill your bins early, for the car shortage will also work to curtail shipment from the mines.

Remember, our coal is clean and will be delivered in a cleanly way.

USE RID-A-WORM

Rid-a-Worm is a hog remedy manufactured by C. A. Wheelock at Beresford, S. D., famous for his herd of mammoth Duroc Jerseys.—Stockmen all know that ninety per cent of hog losses are caused either directly or indirectly by worms, which not only sap their vitality but also make them much more liable to cholera and other diseases. In this time when hogs are hovering around the $20 mark it is folly not to guard against such losses.

Use It And Pay When You Are Satisfied

IT DOES THE WORK

Rid-a-Worm is so successful that we are altogether willing to let you test it out until you are perfectly satisfied. Rid-a-Worm will get rid of the worms and will make your herd thrifty and vigorous. Approximately 1300 jugs have been sold in Dixon county. The farmers in Cedar county are also heavy users of Rid-a-Worm. It is fed with remarkable success in Plymouth, Woodbury and many other counties in both Iowa and the Dakotas. Now is the chance for Wayne county farmers to cash in on this reliable hog conditioner. Remember you take no risk. Test it out on your herd.

SOME INTERESTING FOLK

Dr. House Tells of College Men and Women He Met at Gandy.

Gandy, an inland town of 150 souls, located thirty-five miles from North Platte, is a very ordinary village with, perhaps, nothing of particular interest to the casual observer. There are, however, some extraordinary facts about a few people of Gandy, gleaned by Dr. J. E. House, who had occasion to visit the town recently as an institute instructor.

The county superintendent, who also does the duties of postmistress, is a graduate of Boston university and Penn college. Her husband fits at the Central City college, later taking his law degree at the Nebraska state university. He is now managing the legal affairs of Logan county.

Through conversation Dr. House learned that his chauffeur, who drove him across country to Gandy, was a graduate of Columbia university. Going west for his health, this man became interested in the cattle industry. His endeavors as a rancher brought him wealth. He has since retired, and is now holding the judgeship of the town.

During the institute, a musical performance was staged under the direction of a pianist, a graduate of Brownell Hall, and a violinist, an alumnus of Kimball conservatory. Dr. House reports that it would be difficult to find a group of better young people than the thirty-six who enrolled for the institute. They were right up on the toes in the line of progress. Eager to learn and brimful of enthusiasm they are already assured of success. And yet, the situation is not a permanent one. Again and again, from just such a set-the-way place, as this have come men of unusual genius, men of unlimited vision, men of compelling power.

CHURCH CALENDAR

German Evangelical Lutheran.

(Rev. R. Moehring, Pastor)
Sunday school at 10 o'clock. Regular preaching services in the morning at 11 o'clock. In the afternoon at 3 o'clock, the pastor will hold services at the Lutheran church in Winfield. There will be no services in Wayne August 16, on account of the absence of the pastor who will be in attendance at synod.

Methodist Church.

(A. S. Buehl, Pastor)
At the 11 o'clock service next Sunday morning, the theme will be "Our Christian Soldiers." At 8 o'clock Sunday evening the message will be "God's Calendar," from the text: "Are there not twelve hours in a day?" Sunday school convenes promptly at 10 o'clock.

The Epworth league, Intermediate league, and Boy Scouts meet at 7 o'clock.

The theme for the Wednesday evening bible study is the great commandment.

The Nebraska annual conference convenes in University Place next Tuesday with Bishop Homer C. Stunts presiding. Nebraska Methodists now number 70,000 members with 500 ministers. There were more than three thousand Methodists students in the higher institutions of learning in the state last year.

The latch-string hangs out at the Methodist church in Wayne and you are invited to make this homelike church your church home.

St. Paul's English Lutheran Church.

(Rev. J. H. Fetterolf, Pastor)
Now that many of the teachers and scholars have returned from their vacations we see a decided increase in the attendance of Sunday school. The attendance last year was forty per cent above that of the previous Sunday. There are still others who would like to see in their places. The school-meets promptly at 10 o'clock.

Next Sunday, there will be the regular preaching services at 11 a. m. and 8 p. m. Strangers and those having no regular church home will be given a warm welcome at all our services.

The Luther league meets at 7:15 p. m. The subject is "The Deaconess in the Congregation." Old and young would do well to attend and learn more about the work of the deaconess in the church.

The officers of the church will hold their regular monthly business meeting in the pastor's study Wednesday evening, September 12.

Sunday, September 16, we will celebrate the Lord's Supper. This will be a communion for the synodical year. Do not allow any other arrangement to interfere with your presence at this blessed service.

Presbyterian Church.

(Rev. S. X. Cross, Pastor)
Our church for the fall and winter will begin next Sunday. Let there be a real rally of church-going people for both morning and evening services.

The subject of the Sunday morning sermon will be "What Direction is the regular monthly business meeting in the pastor's study Wednesday evening, September 12." This will be a communion for the synodical year. Do not allow any other arrangement to interfere with your presence at this blessed service.

Sunday classes are now complete-ly organized for continuous, constructive work. There is a suitable place for every reader of these notes in the Sunday school. We shall look for you next Sunday.

At the evening service, the sermon theme will be "Linked Lives." There will be a good music program under the direction of Mrs. Horace Theobald. The evening meeting is in many ways, the most interesting of the day.

The Y. P. S. C. E. invites you to attend the meeting at 7 o'clock. The society is immediately organized for the year's campaign. You may spend a profitable hour in the best of companionship by attending this meeting.

Have you joined the army of workers? As his share is that geth down to battle, so shall his share be that tarrieth by the stuff. Christian people have unexcelled opportunity at this time. Let no pains nor labor be lacking.

First Baptist Church.

(Rev. Fletcher J. Jordan)
The Baptist church extends a cordial welcome to the students who are to attend the Normal school this year. Be present with us from the start and let us get acquainted with you. Strangers are always invited and made to feel at home in the church of the glad hand. If you are a newcomer to our town, plan to be with us in our services next "Lords' day."

Rev. Roy E. York, corresponding secretary and superintendent of missions for the Baptists of the state of Nebraska, will be with the church September 9, and will give the address at the morning service, which begins at 10:30. The pastor desires that every member of the church be present as far as possible as he doubtless will have many things which will be of great interest to our local church. In the evening at 8 o'clock, the pastor will speak. Good music at these services.

The Sunday school convenes at 11:30. Classes are provided for all who remain for the study of God's word.

B. Y. P. U. meets next Sunday evening at 7 o'clock. The topic is "A Lesson About Excuses." Exod. 4:1-7. Come and help make the meeting profitable.

Choir practice Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. If you sing and are not engaged in any other choir we would like to have you with us. Let us worship God in the beauty of holiness with song and praise.

A UNIQUE CHIRO PARADE

Sixty-foot Human Spine Spectial Feature at Iowa Convention.

More than 2,000 men and women were in attendance at the national convention of chiropractors in Davenport, Ia., last week. On Wednesday night Dr. R. E. Palmer, of the Palmer School of Chiropractic, gave an address at the auditorium. In reporting the parade held the same day the Davenport Daily Tribune has the following account:

"One of the big features of the parade was the Human Spine sixty feet long which wriggled through the streets on the backs of twenty-five men. Each man was six feet high and three and one-half feet wide. The spine attracted considerable attention and was the cause of no small amount of comment along the entire line of march. On the spine was a large sign 'Chiropractic Fountain Head.'"

"To Nebraska goes the honor of having the largest number in the parade. The local delegation besides a large delegation on foot had thirteen automobiles covered with the Ak-Sar-Ben banners and the Nebraska colors, red, yellow and green. The Spirit of '07 taken from a famous painting, headed the Nebraska delegation. The Nebraska also had a beautifully decorated float on which students demonstrated a number of adjustments."

UNCLE WALT

The Poet Philosopher

TO WAR'S CREDIT.

The war has done some good, at least, for it has maimed the foulest beast that ever fed on men—Booze is the hungry monster's name, and governments have kicked its frame again and yet again. The divers governments arose and said, "If we would swat the toes, and knock them galley east, our soldiers must be sober guys, without bad cases of bloodshot eyes, and so we'll curb the Beast. No man is fit to bleed and die who's tanked himself with old red eye, no soldier should be sent to the front with a head full of wine, we'll have to put the lid on gin, and all of Booze's brood." We read about the millions slain, of dead men lying in the rain, and of war's horrors saying, "Right all the dead whom we weep make but a trifling little heap compared with Booze's crop. The governments are kicking Booze with large steel spikes upon their shoes, they're tugging him with brick, and Booze is scared and hollered, he skulks where once he strolled in pride, the heart within him sick. The beast is doomed, so let us do the war has shown the critics why it's neither safe nor sane; so we may view the world-wide may more actually, the while, and say, "The war is not in vain."

THE FAT PATRIOT.

I climb a mountain ten miles high three time a day I do it, and when I've weighed myself, I sigh, "I lose no left, besting me, I try to get to make myself so thin, much exercise assisting, the corporal would let me in, when I attempt enlisting. I ply the dumbbells and the 500's, and in my arms, I tug him with patriotic dubs who wish to save the nation. I see the thin man going by, and envy him his figure, I shapely get like that," I sigh, "can't see the force most of the time, I'm loaded down with fat, and he can climb a German, and dent his head or break a slit, and leave him dead or squirming." I hail the thin man and ask if he is not interested in going in shape, for my task for chasing Hun's affrighted. "I'm on my way," he makes reply, "to file exemption papers, I've no desire to bleed, and I'm out of martial capers. The hero's wreath I do not court, I would not slay by dozens; besides, I am the sole support of nineteen benighted cousins." I see a man in front of me, thin as you yearn for battle, barred out because of surplus weight, nose-stay and feed the cattle; while men who have the proper shape are fixing up the path that leads to glory.

SEPTEMBER AGAIN.

Once again September's smiling in a manner most amusing, once again she brings refreshment to the jaded human jays, who have suffered through a season that was hot beyond all reason, that was but a combination of a lot of sizzling days. As when one's who's lost, forsaken, suffering for bed and bacon, sees a lighted cottage window, that invites him to repose, so a delegate member of our august and mild September, with her refreshing smiles, and a balm for all his woes. By the heat of summer smitten, by the flies and mosquitoes, when at the end of August, near the limit of his nerve; then September comes serenely, after months that soaked him meanly; he would load her down with posies, he admires her, and has as many pleasant thrills as though I climbed their ridges. And I alone and sane and safe, yes, I, who do this rhyning; for all the other tourists chafe to climb, and keep on climbing. When e'er they look upon a peak, they say, "It's quite a boulder; we'll climb it if we take a week, and bust a shin or shoulder." And so with alpenstocks and ropes, and other doodads silly, they're wearing out the mountain

LOOKING FORWARD.

The world will be a better place when Kaiserism meets its doom, for then the well known motto will be, "see true liberty in bloom." For years the Kaiser's been a threat, 'en when he talked of peace the most; he made the whole world go in for very high prices, and he's a big host. Of some one lives next door to me, of whom I live in constant fear, I may be nominally free, but freedom of that sort is dear—'I have a large dog, and a large stuffed chug and a crease, a large stuffed club to beat him up, if he attempts to break the peace. I never know when he may come, on some fine day, and knock me out of my wits, or mix up out of plumb, and so I can't sleep at night. It's vain to tell me I am free, that laws protect me, and police; while he always is your boon of peace. Thus to the world has Kaiser Bill a menace been, a nightmare threat; while talking peace he yearns to see the globe in carnage wet. Because of him the nations bear a load that sapped their strength away, and manufactured tools of gore instead of tools for peace. When Kaiserism is suppressed, when it

WHAT "THE TANKS" ARE

—The mayor issued a proclamation for a holiday in honor of "The Tanks." A parade, in which 5,000 people participated, concerts by Sousa's celebrated band, and the mysterious Red Cross nurse were features of "The Tanks" week at Omaha. The total receipts were over $10,000.00. Omaha charged 35c and 50c.

At New York

"The Tanks" made the biggest hit of the year. One night saw box office receipts reach $50,000. The nation's most famous men and women thronged to see it. When it was shown at the Strand 90,000 people saw the performance during one week. This broke all records for the famous Strand Theatre, and even then thousands were turned away.

At Norfolk

—On August 28, 1800 witnessed the thrilling spectacle of "The Tanks." On August 29 even greater crowds thronged the auditorium. Norfolk people were impressed with the reality, the hideous reality, with which the battle of Ancre was filmed.

Everywhere

—"The Tanks" has scored a wonderful success at Boston, Indianapolis, Birmingham, Buffalo, Toledo and Spokane and other big cities. It is the official war picture. Have you seen it?

goes down with sick'ning thud, the world will have a long sweet rest from all this talk of war and blood.

IN THE MOUNTAINS. Majestic mountains round me stand, with awful gorges by them; I find them noble, solemn, grand, the blue prints don't belie them. Here I have lived while happy weeks, and so I couldn't tinge them; I've gazed upon the snow-capped peaks, and never wished to climb them—I look upon the mighty hills, by which men seem like midges, and have as many pleasant thrills as though I climbed their ridges. And I alone and sane and safe, yes, I, who do this rhyning; for all the other tourists chafe to climb, and keep on climbing. When e'er they look upon a peak, they say, "It's quite a boulder; we'll climb it if we take a week, and bust a shin or shoulder." And so with alpenstocks and ropes, and other doodads silly, they're wearing out the mountain slopes, and spoiling vistas hilly. And here—in this great pleasure ground they labor nine times harder than when at home they go their rounds to fill the family larder. At home, if they worked half as hard, they'd prance in righteous rages, and hand out protests by the yard, and strike for higher wages. If one can call his labor pay, you'll never see him weary; he'll put in nineteen hours a day, and still be fresh and cheery.

to scrapper); so let us get ourselves in shape to meet whatever may happen. Let's purchase small tin saws, paint, and in them put the marks and frames, and other coin untainted. In time of war prepare for peace, that peace of mind unending, which comes to prudent folk who cease all vain and useless spending; who have a package put away, should evil days come night them, who'll do without their pies today, if they lack goin to buy them. Keep out of debt, for debt's a curse when times are calm and cheerful, and now that war is here it's worse—it's something dread and fearful. Be prudent now, before the stress of war has made us humble, and when the crisis comes you'll bless the day you took a tumble.

support of our government at this time. Activities which in the past have not been subject to criticism are looked upon in a much different light just now. It is no time for the colonization of Germans where the seeds of pro-Germanism prosper. It is much better that the activities of such organizations should be turned into channels that will prove the loyalty of their members.

COME AND SEE

For it is impossible to describe this greatest war picture that has ever come across the Atlantic. You see in "The Tanks" ninety minutes of war marvels that picture every phase and every vital scene in the complete and overwhelming BATTLE OF THE ANCRE. It shows the giant British "Tanks," the colossal war monsters, ponderous, uncanny, fire-breathing war dragons that plunge irresistibly forward, through wire entanglements, over trenches, through forests, over swamps and into the trenches of the enemy, belching a torrent of fire and steel and death—the mighty vanguard of the advancing armies of our Allies.

"THE TANKS" IN ACTION

No history, however vividly written, no matter how eloquent, could tell of such scenes as these films portray. The all-seeing faithful eye of the official British cameras call a story begging description by mere words. The advance of supply trains and troops, the brave soldiers awaiting eagerly in the first line trenches for the command to charge, then "over the top" into the maelstrom of furious hand-to-hand encounters. Behind them giant howitzers hurling out a curtain of fire to beat down the first three lines of enemy defense, while machine gun and small arm fire riddle the visible enemy. Pictured here are whole regiments of captured Germans, scenes in dressing camps and hospitals, Red Cross workers salvaging human life under murderous shrapnel fire and the scenes of jubilation in the victor's camps at the triumphant return of the victorious allies. Nothing more remarkable, nothing more tremendous has ever been pictured.

ALL OFFICIAL PICTURES

Every inch of the five reels of "The Tanks" is "honest-to-goodness" official. With only shrubbery to shield them from view, half a dozen British camera experts, chosen by the government, made the picture, but two of them will never see the film, for they were killed by a bursting shell while at work. A lively duel between a Boche and a French aeroplane is also a feature of "The Tanks." We are charging only 25c and 35c for "The Tanks" because we want everybody to see it. Remember the receipts of the sale of this film go to the war sufferers of Europe.

"Chiropractic Democracy"

Was the theme of the great national convention of chiropractors that we attended at Davenport, Ia., last week. B. J. Palmer, head of the famous Palmer School of Chiropractic, in his annual lecture to 2,000 Chiropractors, compared man to a huge office building which has somewhere a power plant, which lights and heats every floor and moves all machinery. The brain is, likewise, the power house of the body, and the spinal cord and connecting nerves are the series of wire connections.

The Trouble Begins

With the lighting of the house when the fuse "blows out." Similarly, when the functional work of one kidney, one lung or one arm stops the other kidney, lung or arm has to do double duty. It is imperative to keep the whole body in such condition that each organ will do its full duty and not "soldier." Such cooperation in bodily functions means health and freedom.

Washday—a "GLAD" DAY? Why Not?

THE MAYTAG MULTI-MOTOR WASHER DOES THE WORK

OPERATES ON GASOLINE

Yes, the Multi-Motor Maytag was built for farm women and others who do not have the chance to use the Maytag Electric Washer. It operates on gasoline—five cents' worth will do the family wash. This simple little engine may be attached to any small machine. It is strong, durable, smoothrunning, quiet, clean. Come in and see how simple it is to operate.

THE MAYTAG STANDARD

The Maytag people are placing washing machines in homes with but one purpose—to give better service on washday than has ever been given. Such influential schools as the Ains and Purdie Home Economics departments have enthusiastically indorsed the Maytag Multi-Motor because they want day-in-and-day-out, year-in-and-year-out service. And that is Maytag.

FEATURE NO. 1

May tag Swinging Wringer is a wonderful convenience. The wringer, with a simple movement of the lever is swung into any position desired—over the rinse water, basket or stationary tub—and works perfectly wherever you put it. Clothes can be sent through the wringer while the washer is washing another lot. The swinging wringer is an original Maytag feature.

Feature No. 2

The engine of the Multi-Motor is securely fastened to the frame beneath tub—out of the way all the time. The base serves as the gasoline tank. For compactness it can't be beaten. The motor is air-cooled with internal combustion without valves or other complicated parts. It is absolutely safe and a child of ten can easily operate it.

FEATURE NO. 3

Another unique feature is reversing the motion of the dolly with a half turn of the handle on the lid of the washer. This is an important factor in washing clothes quickly and thoroughly. A half turn of the same handle locks and unlocks the lid. Everything on the Maytag is designed to save time and needless motions.

FEATURE NO. 4

The pulley on end of shaft can be used to drive a sewing machine, churn, cream separator, food chopper, bone grinder, feed mill, knife grinder, pump, grindstone of even a milking machine. It is not necessary to disconnect the motor in any way from the machine. The Maytag Multi-Motor is the kind to buy if you want to kill a whole flock of birds with one stone.

FEATURE NO. 5

"SAFETY FIRST" was uppermost in the minds of the mechanics who built the Multi-Motor Maytag. All the moving parts are carefully enclosed so that you don't need to worry about the children getting hurt. The wringer has a special release lever that instantly releases the pressure on the rolls and does away with the chance of injury either to the fingers or clothes.

Safe, simple, economical and wonderfully thorough in its work—

From Ponca Journal, September 4, 1879:
Mr. Orr went out hunting the other day with his dog, and the dog was struck. This is the first case of sunstroke among the canines yet recorded.
We had a ride to Elk Point one day last week. The country between the river and that town is a sea of sun flowers, and not a wheat stalk was visible during the whole distance. On the route we did not see any evidences of life whatever, no teams, nor people, and it was the most lonesome, sad and dreary region we ever passed through. Elk Point, although not as lively as it used to be, still has a large amount of business done there, and the place contains some of the most active business men in the west. The wheat crop in that county was this season been almost an entire failure, yet there will be a large crop of corn.
L. Newton, Esq., who lives a few miles southwest from Martinsburg, annually raises and sells in Sioux City about one hundred fat hogs. On Monday he took down to that place, seven, which weighed from 350 to 500 pounds each. He raises the Poland China breed, and says it takes twenty-five bushels of corn to make a four hundred pound porker, live weight. He takes them alive to Sioux City, in a large cage, and there sells them, the present price being $2.25 per hundred. He stated that he thought the average weight of the hundred hogs which he sells every year, would not be less than 400 pounds each. Hence, even at the extremely low price of $2.25 per hundred, he makes on the hog crop, $500. This is better than raising wheat.

On Saturday evening an Indian from the Winnebago Agency came into Jackson, Iowa, to sell a pair of horses and wagon, and his wagon was loaded with goods which he said he was hauling from Sioux City to the Agency. He was fearfully dazed, and did not know where he was, and when he was asked where he was he said he was passing through, he tried to drive around John Steverson's livery stable, and then drove off in a half dazed condition to the Police. In a short time he returned and turning at the R. R. depot followed the road past Mr. Hogan's place, and when about half a mile south of Jackson, his wagon upset. The Indian was flung out, and upon him fell a barrel of pork which striking him in the chest crushed him in a horrible manner and must have caused his death instantly. A short time afterwards Messrs. Crosby and Farnbacher, passing along the road, discovered the Indian, and word having been sent to Coroner R. H. Campbell, he came that night and summoned a jury, which rendered a verdict in accordance with the above facts. After the inquest the coroner took charge of the Indian and horses and wagon and forwarded them to the reservation. The name of Indian was Tom Harding, and he belonged to the Winnebagoes.

others proposed raising much more revenue by taxation, particularly from war profits and incomes. With a vote on the bill set for September 10, several amendments have been adopted in the direction proposed by the progressives, including the rejection of the higher postage rate. The house of representatives was in virtual vacation throughout the month, but began consideration of the soldiers' insurance measure in the closing days.
American soldiers continued to stream across the Atlantic, though with no public announcement of their going and coming. The draft began turning in first fruits toward the training camps. Under supervision of the new shipping board, ship building operations went prosperously. New and larger credits for financing the war were planned. The substitutes seemed to be giving less worry than formerly. American preparation to throw her whole strength into the war seemed to be going on rapidly and efficiently.
When, accordingly, the pope, supposedly with the knowledge and approval of the central powers, put forward a peace proposal based on a return to the status preceding the war, President Wilson, speaking for the United States, replied that more than restoration of the status quo must come as a condition of peace. Peace, when made, must be made with responsible representatives of the German people, not with the conquest-seeking, irresponsible, contract-jumping government now avowed in Germany. There would be no crushing of Germany, no punitive damages, no war upon its trade; but Germany must cease to menace the peace of the world.
Thus ended the first short, but the fourth year of the war, the allies making slow gains in France and rapid gains in Italy and determined to continue the war to a successful end.

THE MONTH OF AUGUST
Lincoln Journal: August began by healing some of the agricultural wounds of the preceding month. Nebraska was favored by good rains which largely restored the corn from the effects of July drought and hot winds. Throughout the country, crops hastened prosperously to maturity, though with the wheat promising only a fair total yield. Under the provisions of the food control bill, which finally became law early in the month, the president set a price of $2.20 a bushel for the 1917 crop of wheat. The food control bill itself set a price of $2 for the 1918 crop and the gathering of seed and the plowing for the new crop was among August's activities.
The working out of a system of government wheat control was only one of the month's developments in war economics. Under the authority conferred by the food control law the president set the price of coal at the mines, making the price of soft coal average about $2, whereas it had been selling much higher. By arrangement with the food administrator the price of beet sugar was reduced a cent and a half a pound at the refineries. The senate in the meanwhile was the scene of a great struggle over taxation. The finance committee reported a bill raising about two billions, including a levy of half a billion on war profits and numerous taxes on consumption and transportation, including an increase of 100 per cent of the postage rate on letters. Progressive senators led by Borah, Hiram

Telephone Traffic in Peace and War

Purchase of army supplies, the mobilization of troops and the gigantic war preparations have necessitated an unusually large number of local and long distance telephone calls.

We are handling 30 per cent more long distance calls than we did before the war began, and heavy demands have been made upon us by the government for telephone equipment, and for trained men for the army signal corps.

In this time of the nation's greatest need you can "do your bit" by asking only for equipment you must have and by making only such local and long distance calls as are absolutely necessary.

AS TO THE CAR SHORTAGE

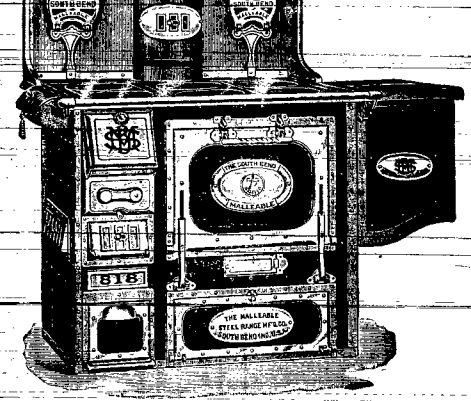

Lyman Sholes Sends out Statistics to Defend Railroads.

That the railroads have been unjustly criticized for the present car shortage is apparent from statistics compiled recently by the American Railway Association and sent to Agent T. W. Moran from Lyman Sholes of Omaha. These figures show that for a period of ten years preceding the declaration of war the railroads were offering the public more cars than it was able to use 92 per cent of the time.

Only a few months had elapsed before trainmen began to realize that almost as serious as the car shortage itself was the congestion of loaded cars at terminals. So it is that they have sent out appeal after appeal to users of freight cars to cooperate by loading and unloading cars as quickly as possible.
