NEWS FROM CAMP FUNSTON

J. M. Strahan and John Ahern Report Satisfaction with Camp.

Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Strahan received a letter from their son, J. M. Strahan, who left Wayne last Wednesday for Camp Funston, Kan. He says the boys reached camp at 8 o'clock Thursday morning and were all feeling fine. They received new clothes and were assigned quarters, meals three times a day. The Wayne, Thurston, and Dixon county boys are together in the 355th infantry of Company 1.

In a recent letter from John Ahern written from Camp Funston to his brother, J. J. Ahern, in Wayne, he said when the boys reached the camp, Glen Gildersleeve, Roy Reed, Ora Martin, and some of the other boys met them and helped them feel at home. Their uniforms which were furnished them consist of leggings, trousers and shirts; no shoes yet. The number of officers is 200. The captain is a regular army man and the lieutenants are men from the reserve camps; but all seem approachable and apparently anxious to get the boys settled satisfactorily.

The Wayne, Dixon and Thurston county boys who are together, are a fine, clean-looking bunch of fellows. They are in good shape and they are located in the best barracks in the camp, as the ground is slightly higher and they are on the corner of two intersecting streets. Electric lights and a sewer system are a few of the modern conveniences. The boys seem well satisfied with army life although they are looking forward anxiously to the drilling which was to follow a few days.

FINE FISHING TRIP

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Lund arrived in Wayne in their car Sunday from a three month's outing and at different places in South Dakota and Minnesota. Most of the summer was spent at Big Stone Lake, S. D., where they enjoyed fine fishing. The lake is about fifty miles long and three miles wide and is a popular summer resort. On Chautauqua beach, where Mr. and Mrs. Lund lived, were 125 summer cottages, which were always occupied. Fishing was good and Mr. and Mrs. Lund say it is only an ordinary catch to bring in eighty pounds of catfish in one afternoon. They also stopped at Java, S. D., to look after the crops on their farms. They spent several weeks at Diamond Lake and Green Lake, Minn., where they caught some big fish.

Mr. and Mrs. Lund said they returned early because the weather was getting too cold to live in the summer cottages.

TO AD FARMERS.

Lincoln, Neb., Sept. 24.—The state Council of Defense of Nebraska has sent out a letter to all parts of the state to learn what sections will need help in harvesting and husking corn and which towns will be able to supply help, in order that the council may act as a clearing house for labor to get the corn crop in. The council county council of defense is being sought in gathering the information. The council acting upon a suggestion of Governor Neville is also taking steps to see that livestock and crops left by men called to arms do not suffer neglect. It is estimated that this year's corn crop in Nebraska will exceed that of last year by 2,000,000 bushels.

The explanation given by the leader of the group was, "All the boys wanted to come so the General Wood could use us some place."

The big air space between the outer and inner panels is the best heat holder and prevents the heat escaping as it does when doors are of a single thickness. This air space keeps the outer panel from burning red. The fine burner of the polished ebony is a continual delight and cleans like a dish.

LOCAL CHURCHES HOSTS

State Normal Students Entertained by Religious Bodies.

The students of the Wayne State Normal were entertained Friday evening by the Methodist, Presbyterian, Baptist and English Lutheran young people's societies in the social rooms of the different churches. A committee of two from each of the societies held a meeting and planned an evening's entertainment which should be carried out at the place at each place. The plan was a success and all who attended report a jolly time.

About forty young people gathered at the Lutheran church and enjoyed the following program: Song, "America," address of welcome by Rev. J. H. Patterson, solo, "Auld Land Syne." Following this short program, Rev. Mr. Fetterolf explained the evening's plan of entertainment which was in the nature of a school. The course of study was made up of five branches which were conducted in different parts of the church. Miss Anna Venner conducted the geography class. Rev. Mr. Fetterolf art; Mrs. Earl Nelson history; Mrs. J. H. Fetterolf, music, and Miss Anna and Miss Nina Thompson domestic science. After receiving instructions in the classroom, refreshments of punch and wafers were served in the domestic science department.

In the Methodist church the program was conducted in almost the same way to a party of seventy students. Albert Iering, in behalf of the Epworth league, gave the students a cordial welcome to the society. Miss Xeva Aldrich's patriotic reading was a pleasing number on the program. The classes were in charge of Miss Edith Beechel, geography; Miss Glennie Bacon, history; Mrs. Frances Turner, music; Mrs. Harvey, art and Mrs. William Beckenbauer, domestic science.

The Baptist young people proved royal "entertainers" to a party of thirty. The program was thoroughly enjoyed; address of welcome by the pastor, Rev. Fletcher Jordan; song, "America," reading, "Miss Louise Strague, and solo, "Miss Ina Hughes." The classes were in charge of Miss Hazel Norton, geography; Rev. Mr. Jordan, history; Miss Ethel Huff, domestic science, and Mrs. E. E. Fietzwood, art. Seventy students enrolled in the classes of the Presbyterian church, boys and in sixes from ten-pound. Proceeding the recitations was a short solo by Mrs. C. T. Ingman, address of welcome by Rev. S. N. Cross, reading by Miss Mae Hiscox and the singing of "America" by the chorists. The class assembled in the direction of Miss Amy Stocking, music; Miss Mabel Dayton, history; Miss Elizabeth Durrie, geography; Miss Sara J. Killen, art, and Miss Alma Fritcholf, domestic science.

SOMEWHAT PERSONAL

We have been invited to communicate to the public the touching and affecting experience we had last Saturday afternoon. One of the Herald's angels went with us to inspect the engine for the purpose of spreading the good news of the high quality of his animals and inviting breeders who want to buy stuff to pick some from his herd, the intended work. We even took eight miles due west, in twenty minutes. We saw and admired red-coated pigs. We established cordial friendships with pigs ranging in ages from two weeks to two examination of the batteries. From what we could learn without an X-ray, these were all right. But she wouldn't move. We Johnson brought forth a stalwart horse and bridled the car to the top of a hill. We got in and the engine started turning around to get the angel and her flowers—girls of Mrs. Johnson—the engine again stopped, and the jig was up. The horse pulled us up three or four hills, but the engine refused to revive in every case. We sent out the S. O. S. call, but all hospital attaches were too busy to respond, and Mr. Johnson finally hitched our Ford to his car and pulled us to Wayne. As we dangled along behind the angel smiling reassuringly from the front ear, the rope broke and the Herald's Ford turned suddenly and tried to climb a twenty-foot bank, and nearly succeeded.

Reaching Wayne we called in consultation another individual of expert car knowledge, and we found that our previous examination of the batteries had been rather too hasty and superficial, and that as a matter of fact the batteries were burned out and were ready for the cemetery. Accordingly new ones were put in and life was restored.

FORCED TO HONOR FLAG

Butte, Neb., Sept. 24.—About 10 o'clock Saturday night a crowd of several hundred men and women singing patriotic songs and giving cheers for the stars and stripes, marched to the homes of a number of Butte citizens, who, it is said, have been making distasteful remarks about the government, and demanded that they come out, swear allegiance to the flag and march down Main street waving Old Glory. All complied peacefully except one who had to be forced.

A sharp, dagger-like knife was found in his possession. It seems almost a miracle that a crowd of several hundred people worked up to the highest pitch of patriotism could manage these men in such an orderly way and have no violence done to anyone. Flags were nailed on the doors of those visited by the crowd and they were warned of what the consequences would be should they remove them.

BIRTH RECORD

Word has been received here announcing the birth of a son to Mr. and Mrs. Roy P. Redman of Hill. D. Mr. and Mrs. Redman formerly lived on a farm northwest of Wayne.

Victor Johnson, Breeder Of Durocs

Eight Miles West of Wayne is the Home of Twenty-Five Male Duroc Jerseys, and Over Fifty Sows and Gilts of All Sizes and Ages. Stock Purchased from Such Well-Known Breeders as Wallace, Pritchard, Dayton and Morgan. KING'S CHIEF, MODEL 4 AND WALLACE'S MODEL WERE THE HERD HEADERS THIS YEAR. Famous Sows Include Lady 2nd, Mountain Belle and May Blossom.

Here is a story about Duroc Jersey hogs that will interest you: This happy hog family you will find on the farm of Victor Johnson, eight miles west of Wayne. Great trees furnish cool shade in summer and a modern, well-kept barn with the latest improvements is a comfortable home at all times for the aristocratic Duroc Jerseys. Perhaps you would enjoy an acquaintances with the royal family? Then stroll past the farmhouse where bright flowers hedge the walk, and look into a fruit grove where the sun shines through the trees, glancing on the smooth, shiny red backs of twenty-five pure bred male pigs. They are an inquisitive lot, and as you look over the fence which hedges them in, they will grunt a welcome and eagerly try to push through the openings, wriggling their snouts in greeting. The best blood of the family flows through their veins. They are fine-haired and smooth, and there is no doubt as to their ancestry, for they bear all the earmarks of the pure bred Duroc Jersey.

HOGS EQUIVALENT TO BANK DEPOSITS.
With the world clamoring louder and louder each day for more meat—with the old world denuded of producing stock, hogs are going to swell bank deposits beyond present expectations. Every farmer owes it to the world as well as to himself to raise hogs and raise as many as possible. He owes it to himself to raise good hogs, profitable hogs that will bring big litters of well-shaped, quick-maturing pigs; hogs that will grow big bone on alfalfa and lard well on finishing corn. That is the kind of a hog the Duroc is. Like the Chester Whites and Poland Chinas, they are an American breed and in some parts of America, especially in New Jersey, they have been bred for one hundred years.

POINTS WORTH CONSIDERING.
Tracing the ancestry of King's Chief, the sire of seventeen of the twenty-five male pigs in one group on the Johnson farm we have the following record: King's Chief by King Climax and out of Belle Chief T.; King Climax by Big Bone Climax, and out of Tolsto's Chief. King's Chief was bought from the well known breeder, Robert Eritchard, and has been Mr. Johnson's herd header for two years. Seven of the twenty-five male pigs were sired by Wallace's Model, an 840-pound hog, and one sired by Model Fourth. Registration with proper pedigrees will testify to their superior qualities. Mr. Johnson hasn't enough male pigs for a public sale this fall, but the twenty-five animals mentioned will be sold privately. They are very desirable representatives of the Duroc type and should be quickly bought by breeders in different parts of the county.

SOWS AND GILTS.
Now that you have been properly introduced to the male pigs, come with us to the big barn and see another and larger group of Duroc Jerseys. It is a lazy time here, and the sows and gilts are taking life easy. They only blink sleepily and don't bother to move. "Hewie! Hewie!" The host calls the pigs and scatters big handfuls of grain over the ground. Like the effect of the awakening after the hundred years' sleep in the fairy story, was this call. The hogs knew what it meant, and they sprang up from everywhere, racing toward the feed. "This is a treat for them;" the owner explains, "they don't usually feed at this time." With their snouts rooting the ground, as the animals eagerly make away with the grain we have an excellent opportunity to take note of their merits. Again we see the glittering cherry color. Here are Durocs of blood and type farrowed to the master class; pigs of all sizes, sows of a good 800-pound weight to the finest pigs a week and a half old. Here we see them in the pink of condition, sturdy, big-boned and healthy. Tall hogs, big-boned hogs, deep and even-colored hogs, hogs that are the owner's pride, are the Durocs seen here. Inquire into the heredity of some of these sows: Here is May Blossom, sired by Golden Wonder out of Maggie Gano; another one is Lady Second, sired by Big Bone Climax out of Lady Princess; still another is Mountain Belle sired by Grand Model 8th out of Grace Wonder.

PUBLIC SALE NEXT SPRING.
In addition to the male pigs offered for sale now, Mr. Johnson has forty-five gilts that will probably be sold at public sale next spring. All these pigs were farrowed between February 28 and March 22, last.
Mr. Johnson has recently added a new herd header, sired by Wallace's Model, an animal of well known excellence. Considering Mr. Johnson's famous sows and superior boars, the showing made is well accounted for.
Victor Johnson offers a golden opportunity for you to buy Duroc male pigs of the highest type. Take advantage of it and buy now.

Twenty-five male pigs for sale NOW. This is the time to buy pigs—to select your herd headers for next year. Why not raise profitable, pure bred pigs and make the money invested double and redouble? It is an easy and sure way to make money. Buy a good pig and your returns will be good. THE PLACE TO BUY DUROC JERSEYS IS AT THE VICTOR JOHNSON FARM. GOOD TERMS. GOOD STOCK. GOOD CHOICE.

I pledge allegiance to my flag and to the Republic which it stands; one nation indivisible with Liberty and Justice to all.

W. H. Needham, editor of the Bloomfield Monitor, has been able to bring to light and turn over to federal authorities a Dr. Harry Zick, a Bloomfield optometrist, who could not conceal his bias for Germany and hatefulness for patriotic newspaper utterances. Mr. Needham received an anonymous postal through the mail some weeks ago, and turned it over to the local post-office. It was followed by another threatening the Monitor with loss of business. Some mental calipers are so narrow and so rigid that they figure loyally can be influenced by dollars and cents. But Zick was mistaken in the temper of Mr. Needham or the quality of his patriotism. The latter accumulated evidence against Zick, and with the co-operation of a postal inspector, Zick denied guilt, but later admitted the matter was then turned over to the United States district attorney for action. People of Zick type, entirely forgetful of the privileges enjoyed and the protection secured in the United States, should not be allowed to attempt intimidation of newspapers in their patriotic endeavor. A man like Zick seeking to knife from ambush the government which safeguards his interests, ought to be invited to leave the country and charged not to come back.

In their notes answering the pope's plea for peace, the Austrian and German governments artfully avoided saying anything that would suggest terms. Their answers were evasive and they made a great pretense of wanting the world freed from armed force and injustice. Germany's note explains the kaiser's aversion to war and his hope for permanent peace. It says the government would never have interrupted peace if it had not been attacked. Such talk to people acquainted with the history of the war is not only untrue but is treated to the limit, and the way it crucified Belgium in haste to throttle France punctures its sham of injured innocence. The ruin of Belgium, the destruction of hospital ships and relief supplies, the killing of unoffending women and children, the series of diabolical intrigues in this country of a sufficient to warrant suspicion of any offer of good intentions on the part of the enemy rulers. The brutal duplicity of imperial Prussianism is apparent. As the president suggests, peace must come from and be backed by the people of Austria and Germany in order to raise confidence leading to negotiations.

In view of the fact that food production is of supreme importance during the war, it would seem that the policy of exempting people actually employed on farms ought to be more closely adhered to. It has been taken from agricultural workers farm help would still be inadequate to meet demands in gathering the maturing corn crop. A farmer can do more for the government at this critical time by increasing his help than he could do in any other way.

The man who wants work can easily find it. The able-bodied man who idles away time ought to be made to work. The chronic idler would ordinarily offer the excuse of lack of employment. But the excuse for idleness is now so great he can't do it. After the war when there are more people than jobs, he will justify his idleness by the plaintive wail that he can't find anything to do.

The one who would resort to poison as a weapon, one who would take revenge on an unsuspecting fellow mortal by spreading disease germs among his fellow citizens, people as low as the imp of deep and darkest hell. Yet, according to recent revelations, that very thing has been done by the German imperial government.

Citizens of Gerard, Tex., are not slow in the matter of upholding the American soldier. They have collected a fund of $10,000 and offered it for the capture of the German commander who offered 400 marks, $100, for the first American soldier brought within the German lines.

The middle western states will be heard from in the war. The soldiers sent from these states are already showing their physical and mental superiority. No section of any country grows stronger of keener men.

We occasionally meet a man of haughty and austere mien—a man wholly wrapped up in self, with no sympathetic considerations and then we can better appreciate the intolerable nuisance a King must be.

As farm production is essential to the successful prosecution of the war, why not extend conscription to cover provision of labor for agricultural purposes?

Prussianism has equalled the atrocities of the dark ages in nearly everything except in eating missionaries. Perhaps none venture within a reach.

A few years ago all women were learning at the loom—they are learning to knit—a change for the better.

PRICE FIXING FAIRNESS.
Lincoln Journal: Farmers should withhold judgment for the present on the question of discrimination in government price fixing which Senator Gronna raises. The war has not yet gone far. Price fixing by the government is the present cause of complaint to be removed. The senators' complaint is that prices of farm products should be singled out alone for reduction by a general order. The price of the farmer's wheat has been reduced, while the machinery, shoes, clothing, lumber and wire which a farmer needs remain at unestimated war levels. Why is the farmer made the goat?

There is thus far a measure of truth in this, though not the measure one might infer from the complaint. The government has reduced the price of but one farm product, wheat, below the natural level. Corn is selling unrestrainedly at two dollars a bushel and a farmer can now sell his crop for future delivery at one more than a dollar. Cattle and hogs are selling above 10 cents on the hoof, more than double the normal price. Butter is selling at a dollar a bushel, a most remunerative price. Even the government price for wheat is three times the price which wheat was bringing a week before the European war began.

Meanwhile some headway has been made at price control in other lines. We are familiar with the new coal regime of government-fixed prices. A similar step has been taken with sugar. Steel was a glaring exception until lately, but though government prices have not yet been fixed, steel prices have advanced a dollar in an embargo and of prospective government fixing, nearly as far as wheat prices. Leather and shoe prices remain at an exorbitant level and the price of flour has advanced. Success in exempting cotton from price regulation.

The government cannot do everything at once. It is impossible that the best of all things will be achieved in price fixing. That would call for more than human skill and knowledge. But in these times of national stress we should not be too exacting. Deliberately or otherwise, the government should be exposed and opposed with all vigor. But the people of the country will be patient and refrain from premature judgments. Congress and administrative officials responsible for the conduct of the government should be convinced by such criticisms as those of Senator Gronna, however correct the tremendous harm they will be doing the country's cause by allowing mistakes to occur.

CHURCH CALENDAR

St. Paul's English Lutheran Church (Rev. J. H. Fetters, Pastor) Sunday school meets promptly at 10 a. m. Next Sunday is the time for the annual election of officers of the school. This election is of interest to every scholar and should be present to take part in it. Public worship with sermon at 11 a. m. and 8 p. m. The theme for the morning sermon is "The Good is the Enemy of the Best." The evening message "Win the Day" is the first vision, "The Four Beasts." At 7:35 p. m. the Luther league meets for the study of the topic: "The Lord's Supper." There will also be a short business session at which new officers will be elected for the coming six months. An important matter will be brought up for action at this business session. It is one in which every member should be present to express his views. Mrs. N. J. Juhlin will entertain the Ladies Aid society next Thursday afternoon. The work of the teacher training class, interrupted for several months, will be taken up again. The class meets in the pastor's study on Friday evening. This is an excellent time for new members to join the class. Those taking the course express themselves as being delighted with it. An excess of the great need of trained teachers in this study should appeal to many to qualify for efficient work in the church. Presbyterian Church (Rev. S. X. Cross, Pastor) The invitation is ever cordial to be one of us and worship with us in this church. Plan to be present next Sunday. The theme for the Sunday morning sermon will be: "Open Windows." Upon what view do your windows open, pray? The Sunday school invites your interest and hearty cooperation. Next Sunday is a good time to start, if you haven't started. The Sunday evening services will be of special importance. The sermon will be on the subject: "The Master's Consecration." The Y. P. S. C. E. is alive and growing. Do your bit by providing your presence. The fact that you are there means very much. The church desires to be of almost service. Give us an opportunity to do our best by you. Attend the services. The next meeting is on Wednesday at 7:30. You will be glad you came, and will come again. Try this time.

First Baptist Church (Fletcher J. Jordan, Pastor) The Sunday school will present next Sunday evening at 8 o'clock a state mission day program, consisting of addresses by Professor Lewis and the pastor, singing, recitations and exercises by the children and young people. A very interesting program is expected. The offering of the evening goes to missions and will apply on the church's missionary budget. The general public is cordially invited to come and hear the children perform. At 10:30 the subject of the sermon will be "Job and His Wife. Come and let us worship God in the beauty of holiness." After the morning service the Sunday school meets immediately. The school earnestly solicits your presence next Sunday. Classes adapted for all ages. The Y. Y. B. U. meets as usual at 7. The subject is State Missions. Neh. 11:1-4, 21-25. Miss Etie Gilbert is the leader. A meeting of the advisory board will take place October 1. The board is made up of the deacons, trustees, and the heads of the other departments of the church. Please be present at that time as far as possible. Covenant and business meeting Wednesday, October 3. Reports from the president of the young people's society, treasurer of the church, president of the Ladies' union, president of the missionary society, superintendent of the Sunday school, budget-treasurer and assistant treasurer of the church are called for. Communion service October 7. This is a time when the church comes together as a family. We are expecting a large number out that Sunday. The state convention meets at Hastings October 13-19. A big program is provided. Sixty men of national character or Dr. George W. Feltz, Rev. J. H. Franklin, Dr. W. D. Ebbank, Dr. C. L. White, Dr. A. P. Behan, and others will speak. If you are planning on going, please communicate with the pastor as soon as possible as Rev. Ray E. York is anxious to know how many the convention will have to entertain. MISSION FESTIVAL Last Sunday the annual mission festival was celebrated by the Evangelical Lutheran congregation northeast of Wayne. Rev. E. Gebke is the pastor. In the morning Rev. N. Sereres of Carroll delivered a sermon in German. In the afternoon Rev. N. E. Harms of Wisner delivered a sermon in German in the church, while Rev. Mr. Sereres preached in English to an overflowed meeting in the grove. The choir of the congregation as well as the sixty pupils of the parochial school entertained the services with appropriate songs. In the afternoon 145 automobiles were on the ground. The crowd was estimated at 1,000. The ladies of the congregation served a delightful lunch in the schoolroom. A substantial sum was collected for mission purposes.

People Speak Well of Chamberlain's Tablets. "I have been selling Chamberlain's Tablets for about two years and have heard such good reports from my customers that I concluded to give them a trial myself, and can say that I do not believe there is another preparation of the kind equal to them," writes G. A. McBride, Headford, Ont. If you are troubled with indigestion or constipation give them a trial. They will do you good.—Adv.

ATCHISON GLOBE SIGHTS. What matured rapidly in Scotland this year. The hay crop was somewhat smaller than had been hoped, but the quality was good. Over-eating causes more deaths than bullets, but nevertheless we'd rather live in a country where people give you a trial than in a country where they wonder where the next meal is coming from.

In hospital service so much depends on the little things. Even after the patient has rallied satisfactorily from an operation, there is much left to be done to take him the whole way to health.

The care of the convalescent has come to be a science, requiring hard study and intense application. What shall the patient eat? When shall he sit up? When walk? These are but a few of the questions which confront the nurse, and the correctness and dispatch of her decisions are of vital import.

In the small country hospital it is possible to attend to all these matters with utmost care for there are comparatively few patients and each, therefore, receives every bit of attention necessary.

THE FIELD OF BUSINESS:—Continuance of labor troubles, particularly in lines of industry closely affecting the national defense; extension of governmental price fixing to sugar and copper; further steps in the way of control of commodities; forecast; a wabbling corn market; some improvement in stocks, and considerable caution in most commercial buying were features of the last week in the business world. A considerable easing of the money market in the latter part of the week was a factor in improving conditions generally. Treasury bonds, which did not go below 99.88, touched 100.02 above par, in several transactions. Bar silver continued its weekly feat of setting a new high record, reaching $108.12 cents an ounce.

Stocks were heavy as the week opened, even first class industrials being affected. Unsettling in Russia and the high money rate of the week were influences. Labor difficulties contributed, particularly in shipbuilding and affiliated lines. Time loans ranged from 5 1/2 to 6 per cent and call money brought 5 1/2.

New York bankers intervened to stabilize conditions, with good effect, some loans going at the low rate of 2 1/2 per cent. The government's announcement of fixed price of 23 1/2 cents a pound for copper was regarded as satisfactory, and other metals profited also by the understanding that an end to uncertainty was in sight. The copper price established was about 3 cents under the market. Beet sugar manufacturers agreed to a government scale

THE SAVINGS HABIT

THE SAVINGS HABIT IS WHAT COUNTS. THESE days. Any feeling of unrest or uncertainty that might arise during these trying times can be safely put aside when you have the security of knowing that there is on deposit for you at this bank a neat, tidy sum—the results of your steady and consistent savings—by means of which you can tide over any temporary inconvenience.

There was never a better time to start than RIGHT NOW. The sooner you start the sooner the amounts will pile up to a substantial sum. Laying aside a little each day is easy and you'll never miss it. And you don't have to call upon your imagination very hard to realize what a benefit it will be to you, should you be suddenly called upon to use it.

and end October 27. Additional loans made to the allies brought the total to $2,991,400.00. Investigation of the hemp and sisal industries with a view to reducing prices was promised.

A decrease of 3,000,000 tons a month in bituminous coal production was reported, causing fears of difficulty in view of the great needs of American industries and the growing necessity of exporting large quantities to France and Italy.

Earnings of 180 railroads of the United States for July were $108,000,000. Net earnings for the same month a year ago were $103,000,000. Expenses were $41,000,000 greater than in July, 1916. For the seven months ending with July a new high record for revenues and expenses was made. Eastern lines did not share in the gain in profits that was shown by the 180 railroads considered together.

TO AVOID LABOR FAMINE

Farmers Urge Relief to Gather Maturing Corn Crop.

Washington, Sept. 25.—Representatives of more than two million organized farmers met President Wilson at the White House yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock and discussed with him the methods of securing exemption of farm labor in connection with the draft.

The farmers were accompanied by a large assemblage of senators, representatives and numerous persons from various states who gathered here to present their case to the president. The farmers presented a memorial drawn by the Federal board of farm organizations, federation of national farm associations, which was formed shortly after the outbreak of our war with Germany, as a means of giving the farmers voice in national affairs. The board proposes to do for farmers what the American Federation of Labor does for workers and the Chamber of Commerce of the United States does for organized business interests. Joining the board were the legislative committee of the National Grange. "The memorial fol-

"Because the world is short of food, the government has asked the farmers to produce more and increase their product. In answer to the call, the farmers have done and will do their best. But already a large proportion of the farms are undamaged, and the process of depletion proceeds unchecked. America is making the same mistake that England made instead of learning from her experience. We believe that it is against the national interest and safety, as well as against the purpose of the law and government, to let this drain go on.

"What we seek is a more perfect administration of the purpose of the act to protect the essential occupations. We ask you to see to it that farm laborers and farm owners may be kept or placed where they may serve the nation best.

"The situation demands prompt and effective action on the part of the government. There is growing unrest and dissatisfaction on the part of the great part upon the well-founded belief that the purpose of the government is not carried out. The organized farmers of America look to you to set this matter right. They await anxiously the nature of your action for their relief.

Skilled Workers Needed.
Farming is a highly skilled occupation. Trained farm labor cannot be replaced to advantage by untrained men, women and boys. Furthermore, the common necessity to make the farm laborer, whoever he may be, a member of the family circle still further restricts the availability of strangers.

"The return to the farmer is far below that to men equally skilled in any other occupation, while the special risks he runs from weevils and insects and diseases are greater than theirs by far. Therefore, men who leave the farm seldom return to it.

"Official figures taken from the school census of the state of New York show that in June, 1917, there were 16,000 less farm hands on the farms of New York than there were in June, 1916. On March 1, 1917, farm labor supply in the United States as a whole, as reported by the bureau of crop estimates, was 15 per cent below normal, which means that one in every seven working farm hands had been taken away from the farm. The Perry mission changed the current of Japanese life on that occasion. The spirit of inclusion and exclusion dominated the country. Foreigners were forbidden to enter and natives were not allowed to leave. Intercourse with the outside world was unthought of. Government and people were content with their own ways, their home trade, their simple, self-centered lives. The American commodore calmly and coolly broke down the barrier of isolation and unobscuredly loosed the forces which have made modern Japan.

I chug along from burg to grad, good—gasoline—a-burning—where roads are good, where roads are bad, on highways straight and winding. "Oh, motoring," I sigh, "is bliss, my good old car's a treasure; what outdoor postime equals this for pure and lasting pleasure." And as I gambol through the dust, with other autos racing, my thrillbare tires begin to bust, and spool both tube and casing. I toil and labor, till the surfings, pins, or collars, and when repairs the workmen make, they charge me ninety dollars. And so I'm walking near-and far, for high-motors are not care, but say, "We wouldn't give a cent for any sulky skates' lament." I wipe the dirtprints from my face and have the well known walking pace.

WILL HISTORY REPEAT ITSELF? Omaha, Dec. Sixty-four years ago Commodore Perry, commanding a fleet of primitive craft, entered the forbidden harbor of Yedo, bearing a letter from President Fillmore to the emperor of Japan. Foreign violation of the sanctity of Japanese waters at that time was risky business. Anticipated trouble was proffered for Perry delivered his message by exercising diplomatic tact and straightforward friendliness, even though Japanese law was violated by the act.

The Perry mission changed the current of Japanese life on that occasion. The spirit of inclusion and exclusion dominated the country. Foreigners were forbidden to enter and natives were not allowed to leave. Intercourse with the outside world was unthought of. Government and people were content with their own ways, their home trade, their simple, self-centered lives. The American commodore calmly and coolly broke down the barrier of isolation and unobscuredly loosed the forces which have made modern Japan.

The incident links past and present, and foreshadows a future possibility. Just as Perry insisted on official Japan receiving America's message of neighborly good will, Americans of today with greater emphasis insist on imperial Germany heeding the message of democracy. Japan resented intrusion with much the same attitudes Germany now shows. But official Germany must swallow the dose even as ruefully as Japan did. The prescription is just as good. Later on the patient realizes and appreciates the same arrangement as Japan does. In all probability the historical sixty years hence will record the coming of a mission from the

MR. MAN

Man walks through life with a good tread; and finds the going rough; through all his youth he looks ahead—the future is the light. He'll do great things in coming years, when he has half a show; his fame will ring through all the spheres and reach to Broken Bow. He's so impatient for the time when he can hit the spots, that youth, the golden and sublime, is gone before he wits. "Youth, youth!" it passes like the wind, and cannot be recalled; a man works up some day to find he's tired and old and bald. He sees the wreck of noble schemes and murmurings, through his tears "The plans of youth are idle dreams."

that won't outlive the years." Now he is always looking back, as once he gazed ahead—his eyes are on the rugged track that knew his hopes of (read). The future has no charms for him, it smiles far him no more; the past appeals to him grown dim, he talks of days of yore. Oh, youth, forevermore your gaze is fixed on things ahead; while age laments the vanished days, and sadly counts its dead.

THINGS GOES ON

Another summer's looped the loops, and Autumn's round the doorway snoops. Now Autumn's strict—a success, and all her golden days I bless. She brings a soothing balm and sweet for souls wearied by the heat, she veils herself in purple haze, and brings cool nights and pleasant dews and gives the woods a crimson tint and hues too wonderful to name. She comes with her harvest, but soon she begins with dry blasts; too soon, too soon she wails and droops, another summer's looped the loops. Another summer's shining bright, and all her days grown a bit more gray, we've traveled further on the road that leads to where we'll stop the load. I take my mirror and behold my face, I say that I'm getting old. My eye that once shined steady stars, no more sends forth a dazzling glance, no more it glazes like a fish and on the eye a reflection from its death, and I am wearing wooden shoes. So last the seasons summer while we're waiting for the fall, and winter's coming of the snow. Time hurries on and scatters years; I perhaps our waiting voice he hears, but doesn't answer, looped the loops.

WAR TALK

I leave my work to roast the Kaiser throughout the neighborhood; I'll get caught that I'll go over I would see some wood. She says I ought to feed the cattle and dig spuds with a spade, while I am planning siege and battle, retreat and advance. My wife says I'm a fool, with wiles, my masters, great things they do not heed; they care no hoof for war diseases, if there are cows to feed. To plan great wars on an empty able, and wish to buy wigs that I will crawl beneath the stable and gather all the eggs. Oh, there are times when I'm disgusted because I'm in my own country, and all the punk and busted boucheads they've pulled in France. I know just why the war was started, and I could tell them how to put an end to it right nobly and break the German news. But when I start my explanation, my wife gets on my trail, and drags me from my congregation, to pack a water-pail. She doesn't care to hear of trenches, or of the German slump; she says I ought to take some wrenches and fix the kitchen pump. She doesn't care about the navy that sails the dark blue sea; she says I'll have to stir the gravy while she is brewing tea. And thus the patriot's rewarded, who loves the rag to chew; there's always something punk and cordid that he is killed to do.

GRIEF CULTURE

Neglected sorrows gather thrives, they must be nursed if they'd survive. I sometimes sit around and mope, like a cat who's lost her wif, I grouch around and scowl and sulk, and dish up sighs and groans in bulk. If people note this woe of mine, and try to stop the flow, I bring, I sigh more deeply than before, more furiously wailing the floor. There is no fun in being blue, if I give no one steps to pity you. If, when I groan and tell my sorry tale, the doctor says I'm not care, but say, "We wouldn't give a cent for any sulky skates' lament." I wipe the dirtprints from my face and have the well known walking pace.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Bowen went to Norfolk Wednesday to attend the golden wedding anniversary of Mrs. Bowen's parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. V. Norwalk. All members of the family were there and many friends gathered to celebrate this occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ross and son Ernest started for their home in Los Angeles, Cal., last week, after visiting a few days with Mrs. Ross's sister, Mrs. Lillian Brown. They had spent the week with Mrs. Brown several weeks and were on their way home. They made the trip in their car.

Theodore Rytcheback was visiting his parents in Wakefield last week. He was on route to Grand Island, where he is a student in the theological seminary. Mr. Rytcheback was formerly a resident of this place, his father being pastor of the Swedish Lutheran church here for eight years.

Ernest Long, 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. David Long, who live seven miles south of Wakefield, died Tuesday, September 25, 1917, after a short illness caused by typhoid. He was born May 19, 1899 and was 18 years, 3 months, and 16 days old at the time of his death. Funeral services were held from the German Lutheran church at 11 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Rev. E. Borneman officiating. Many friends in Wakefield and vicinity extend deepest sympathy.

An Auto Accident.

The 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Britton was severely hurt Sunday in an auto accident which happened at the Swedish Lutheran church. The little boy was riding in James Mitchell's car when an automobile from the opposite direction owned by a party named Wilton, ran into it. The car bumped so hard that the little fellow was thrown out and his head was cut badly in several places. A physician is caring for him and he is getting along nicely.

Celebrates Birthday.

A large number of the members of the Swedish Lutheran church gathered at the parsonage Tuesday afternoon to help the pastor, Rev. J. T. Kraft, celebrate his birthday. The occasion was a complete surprise to the pastor, but the guests had planned on it for some time. The men do so at all reported a pleasant time. Rev. Mrs. Lundberg who was visiting at Rev. Kraft's made an appropriate talk and presented a number of gifts. Refreshments were served in the parlors of the church.

School Notes.

The boys organized a basketball team last Friday and elected Milton Birtney captain. Mauritz Carlson business manager. Prof. Earl Bruce gathered at the parsonage Tuesday for four times a week in the skating rink and a good team is assured for this winter. The girls organized their team a week earlier. Old Resident Here.

J. Seymour Lash and son Floyd of Waukomis, Okla., arrived in Wakefield last Tuesday evening to visit the former's uncles, George Childs and Mrs. Lillian Childs. The older residents of Wakefield will remember when Mr. Lash came to Wayne County with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Lash, and brother, Fred, in 1877. They came in an immigrant wagon, taking thirty days to make the trip. They settled on a farm on the Logan bottom. Their house was built on his goods. In twenty-two miles south for that was the nearest railroad. Frank Crane generously offered to let Mr. Lash haul a load of wheat to Vinster to bring the wheat on his goods. In 1882 the Lashes built the hotel, while the commercial hotel was being built they lived in a shack. In 1901, Mr. and Mrs. Lash moved to Norfolk. All members of the family visited Wakefield twice since that time. His wife, formerly Miss Emma Blanchard, died since his last visit here. His parents and brother died several years ago. Mr. Lash

WHY Every Farmer Should BUY A Standardized Wagon

It doesn't pay to buy just any kind of a wagon, for unless your wagon is "standardized" you will have all kinds of grief when you come to get repairs or new parts. Today the reliable firms have agreed to make the different parts according to specifications fixed for wagons of various capacities. Thus a standard 4500-lb. capacity wheel would carry a larger load than the ordinary 3 1-4 wheel.

Five Other Reasons Why You Should Buy A Columbus

THE FIFTH WHEEL.	THE FOUR WHEELS.	THE BOX.	THE GEARS.	LITTLE POINTS.
Next to the standardized advantage the Fifth Wheel is the most important feature, unique on the Columbus wagon. This fifth wheel of malleable iron is located between the front axle and the bolster directly back of the tongue. This fifth wheel prevents serious rocking of either the pitch or the bolster.	The timber that enters into the construction of the Columbus wagon wheels is not ordinary wood, but choice pieces—thoroughly seasoned and carefully selected. The hub is of inspected oak and strengthened with four steel bands. Automatic machines turn, shape and bore out the center for the skein boxes. The mortises for the spokes are also made by machinery.	The Columbus box is the last word in both material and construction. The wood on the sides is bay poplar and cottonwood. The bottom is long leaf yellow pine, free from knots and windshakes. Oak cross sills strengthen the box. On the front end an extra sill protects the corners and bottom boards from whiffletrees.	The Columbus gears are all that they should be—and then more. The hickory axle is reinforced by a steel truss bar along the bottom. Steel clips hold it rigid.	No detail that would add to the service of Columbus wagons has been overlooked. The seat is wide and roomy and comfortable. It is fitted with a high, lazy back and flexible springs.
With just the circle of iron as formerly used the strain would be too heavy at times and the reach would snap. At other times the front bolster would spring up and cause the king pin to break. And the top plates are just enough bigger than the lower ones to prevent dirt from collecting.	Oak and hickory alternate in the spokes. The square shoulders of the spokes set squarely on the hub. The felloes, of straight-grained oak, are shaped and bored for the spokes. When the wheel is finished they fit snugly together. The rims and tires are made with the same care.	The sides are three boards, securely fastened by binder rods. The angle-iron grain cleats make it absolutely grain tight. Because the box on the Columbus is so thoroughly braced and reinforced it is a particularly good wagon for hauling grain. In actual tests it has been found to carry heavier loads than ordinary wagons.	The bolsters, made of oak, are well tanned. The wood is protected from wear by a steel plate on top of the bolster. A heavy steel strap is securely fastened around the end at the point where the mortise for the stake is cut in the bolster. The extension stake loops and the bolster stakes are of an exclusive pattern. The hounds all around are extra long and placed wide apart on the axle. They are fashioned of extra heavy pieces of straight-grained oak.	The tool box, attached to the front end-board, can be locked, and is handy for carrying a rain coat, tools, lunch or parcels.
				The International Folding End-gate divides in the center. The lock-nut is very easy to operate. The link end rods are so constructed that they can never be lost.
				In fact the Columbus is stronger, heavier and better constructed from every angle. Get wagon satisfaction in a Columbus.

From the Ponca Journal, September 26, 1898:

Messrs. Leach and Green have the engine and other necessary machinery on the ground ready for use. We earnestly believe the company has very bright prospects ahead and that their anticipations of striking a valuable vein of coal will soon be realized.

It has been suggested that it would be a proper course if the citizens of the county should refrain from burning the grass on the prairie this fall. It is said to be much better for the soil, and especially for the grass crop of next year, to wait until spring before the prairie are fired. Another reason for allowing the grass to remain during the winter is that it prevents the snow from drifting and filling the roads, thereby often rendering them impassable.

Wayne County Matters.

—Ponca, Sept. 22, 1898.

Editor Journal: As it has become fashionable to give descriptions of journeys, I thought it would not be amiss to give a little sketch of our travels to La Porte.

Last Monday morning in company with Sheriff Jones, behind his matched team boys, we wended our way to Martinsburg, which, by the way, had grown nearly beyond recognition. It is a fine location for a town and it bids fair in the not very far distant future to make a place of considerable note in the county.

From here we traveled up South Creek to the Logan valley, and people would hardly believe a story of the vast improvements that have been made. This county does not look like it used to.

Fine large farms and fine houses now cover the prairie where just a few years ago, it was a vast plain or natural meadow. Now it looks as though civilization had struck in.

After leaving Logan creek we traveled over a little higher country, finding less water, but plenty for all practical purposes. Still we found the same improvements.

La Porte was reached about 2 o'clock. We stopped with Mr. Aker, as jolly a host as one could wish and there we partook of his table comforts with a hearty good will.

After dinner we went to see some of the shirk bands with County Clerk Crawford, Attorney Britton, and Superintendent Harrison and Editor Hunter.

Next morning we started home, reaching Ponca about 1 o'clock. Having had a very pleasant trip.—J. T. LaFollette.

HOW TO KNIT

General Directions (1) All knitting is better and more elastic if loose. Casting on and binding off must be loose. (2) To cast on double for sleeveless jackets allow about 2 1/2 inches of yarn and cast on with double thread very loosely. To bind off double, knit first 2 stitches together, put new knitted stitches back on and knit more together, and put new knitted stitch back on needle. Repeat very loosely until all stitches are bound off.

SLEEVELESS SWEATER. 2 1/2 hanks of yarn; 1 pair Red Cross Needles No. 3. Cast on 48 stitches, knit 2 and purl 2 for 13 inches and sew up leaving 2 1/2 inches open space for thumb 3 inches from the edge. Cast on and bind off double. WHISTLE NO. 2. 1-2 hank of yarn; 4 Red Cross Needles No. 3. Cast on 32 stitches and knit 2 and purl 2 for 7-1/2 inches. To make opening for thumb, knit 2, purl 2 to end of 34 needles, turn; knit and purl back to end of needles; always slipping first stitch, turn. Continue knitting back and forth for 2 1/2 inches. From this point continue as at first, for three inches in the hand. Bind off loose and buttonhole thumb opening. Cast on and bind off double. MUFFLER. 2 hanks of yarn; 1 pair Red Cross Needles No. 3. Cast on 50 to 60 stitches or scant 11 inches. Knit plain for 2 inches, always slipping first stitch. Don'ts for the Knitters of Socks. Don't cast on tightly. An otherwise well knitted sock may become useless by a tight cast on. Don't knit your wool. Join the ends by slipping, or by knitting the ends double for 2 or 3 inches. Don't make a heel with a seat on the heel. Remember a man may not have a chance to change his socks for many days, and a lump or knot brings a blister. If the blister breaks blood poisoning may set in and result in the loss of a foot or even of a life. We cannot afford to lose our men through negligence or ignorance.

Don't use black, dark or bright colors. Feet again less danger of blood poisoning. Don't use needles too fine for the wool. The knitting should be elastic; if too tightly knitted the sock becomes hard as a card. Don't make a foot less than 10-12 inches long. Don't use pins in fastening pairs or size tags. Directions for Knitting Socks. Semi-Double Heel and "Kitchener" Toe. Materials: 1 hank light gray, natural or white wool. Needles, size one-eight inch in diameter. Cast on 72 stitches on 4 needles. 24-24-24. Knit 2 purl 2 for 4 inches. Knit plain for 4 inches. Narrow for ankle as follows: * Knit one on "First" needle to be called "middle-back" stitch. * Knit next two stitches together (called "narrowing"). * Knit first and 2 stitches of "Third" needle. Also thread first 2 inches of wool at beginning of sock and weave it into the leg lengthwise. Wash socks with Lux soap in lukewarm water and rinse in same temperature. Dry socks on smooth surface, shape and stretch to original size, and leave to dry. The loosely in pairs with piece of wool. Measure socks carefully from tip of toe to tip of heel, mark size on small white card and sew on socks. Sizes should be from 10-1 1/2-11-1 1/2-12. It is suggested that any bits of wool of any color may be knitted into the socks. This answering the purpose of putting to good use remaining light blue wool in situation by making distinguishing marks of ownership of pairs, and saving the stock of wool which would be scarce and high-priced.

REMARKS. 1 hank Yarn. 2 Amber needles. Red Cross No. 4. 2 steel needles. With Amber needles cast on 54 stitches. Knit plain 10 inches for front; slip on spare needle. Has a High Opinion of Chamberlain's Tablets. "I have a high opinion of Chamberlain's Tablets for biliousness and as a laxative," writes Mrs. C. A. Barnes, Charleston, Ill. "I have never found anything so mild and pleasant as these tablets with such satisfactory results." Adv. SHOULD BE PREPARED. Hartington Herald: The tragic and shocking murder of a defenseless school teacher last Monday morning a few miles from this city suggests the thought that steps should be taken to prevent the repetition of such horrible crimes and that these victim women who travel school miles from any house should have some means of protecting themselves. The idea probably never occurred to some of us before, but when your coat or skirt is torn in the situation of a country school teacher is a dangerous one. There she is, right out in the midst of the open prairie without a school protection; and without defense, with a child to bear her cries for help she is attacked; and under these conditions she is prey to the many evils from this city. It happens to come along that way. So it was in the case of the fine young woman who was shot to death last Monday morning in her schoolroom at many miles from this city. There was something unexplainably sad and pathetic about the killing of Cornelia Hintz. She had started out that beautiful September morning rejoicing and after a quiet Sunday spent at home and resumed her school work with vigor and ambition. She was only a young girl just out of school herself, and this was one of her first experiences in teaching. She felt joyful and buoyant, as all young persons do at the beginning of the week and school was well under way when the amorous, murdering monster was seen pressing his unwelcome attentions upon her, creeping into the schoolhouse and shot her dead. It matters not that the man who killed this young school teacher had killed his own worthless father; it is a blessing to humanity, but it cannot restore the fresh young life which has been ruthlessly blotted out. Cornelia Hintz, a beautiful child, died in the schoolroom where she lay after the tragedy, not for vengeance, for that has been appealed, but for protection for the hundreds of other young women who were occupying the same hazardous positions. Horrible crimes like the cold-blooded murder of this Cedar county school teacher might occur more often if it were not for the law that makes no difference. The fact that it has occurred even once shows the possibility of these tragedies, and it is this attention that is so completely to the need of some sort of defense on the part of the young woman who teach the rural schools. The suggestion seems to be a proper and pertinent one that the country school teacher be armed—that she carry some weapon of defense and know how to use it in order that she may be prepared for just such unlooked for events as the one which has sacrificed a beautiful young life, filled a home with mourning, and cost a shadow of grief over the entire community. Any young woman who goes to school, for from human aid, should be provided with some means of self-protection which she can use in time of need.

Experience the Best Teacher. It is generally admitted that experience is the best teacher, but should we not make use of the experience of others as well as our own? The experience of a thousand persons is more to be depended upon than that of one individual. Many thousands of persons have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for coughs and colds with the best results; will this show it to be a thoroughly reliable preparation for those diseases. Try it. It is prompt and effective and pleasant to take. Adv. Notice to Creditors. The State of Nebraska, Wayne County, s. In the County Court. In the matter of the estate of Margaretta Gorden, deceased.
