A GOOD RESOLUTION

Wishing you a Happy New Year, let us urge among your New Year's resolutions one to close your contemplated purchase of an Edison that it may be a source of comfort and cheer during the new year.

Edison lighted your home, made your telephone possible, multiplied the number of telegrams which could be sent over the telegraph wire, developed electric transportation, and gave the world the motion picture. He has contributed more to your comfort and convenience than any other man.

The New Edison

"The Phonograph with a Soul"

EDISON NOW GIVES YOU MUSIC'S RE-CREATION

What is Music's Re-Creation? Are these words merely an empty phrase of advertising—or do they have the significance of reality? You are familiar with the thin-toned voice of talking machines. You know that a talking machine's alleged reproduction of an artist's voice or instrumental performance has but a faint resemblance to the original. What will you say then if we tell you that the genius of Edison has perfected an instrument which literally Re-Creates all forms of music?

More than a million music lovers have heard the New Edison compared in public with its Re-Creation of the voices (or instrumental performances) of more than thirty different great artists; the music critics of over five hundred of America's principal newspapers concede in the columns of their own papers that an artist's actual performance (vocal or instrumental, as the case may be) can not be detected from the New Edison's Re-Creation of that performance.

Marie Rappold of the Metropolitan, proving by direct comparison that her brilliant and appealing voice is flawlessly re-created by the New Edison.

Madame Rappold and many other great artists have proven by direct comparison that Edison's Re-Creation of their work cannot be distinguished from their actual performances.

Come to us and ask to hear The New Edison

the new Edison invention, which re-creates all forms of music so perfectly that Edison's Re-Creation cannot be distinguished from the original. We shall not attempt to show you a talking machine. The New Edison is not a talking machine. It is the world's most Wonderful musical instrument.

Lucie, the producer of "Civilization," has passed beyond this embryonic stage of his work. He gives you in "Civilization," a dramatic picture of the fall of man from the beauty of aristocracy, the pathos of suffering. "Civilization" is the bible modernized and shown on the screen. It is a masterpiece of a great playwright, conceived, convincingly acted and perfectly photographed, delectable to the eye, a feast to the mind. Do you ever go to a church on a Sunday and hear a man preach during the burning periods of a great preacher. Have you ever heard an eloquent orator like Judge Isaac Franklin Bassett. This famous preacher once held an audience of an audience in their seats at the Baltimore hotel, New York, for one hour and three-quarters by the clock, without making, without saying a single word. He heard his hearers were physically transfixed and mentally fascinated by the remarkable address which he gave them. He has had the same experiences as a criminal judge of criminals. The text of his utterances was, "Why People Lie." In a hundred and five minutes the judge said to the jury, "I believe in your honor, we recommend them for their zeal, but they have made a wrong use of the flag, and we are here to correct their mistake."

Dr. H. Cunningham had charge of a Red Cross sale at Pilger last Saturday, and it was a thing to behold—a high tide of patriotism and generosity. One hundred contributed by Mr. Woodrow Wilson brought $81. President Wilson's picture sold at $10. One quarter was bid in at $20. A silk handkerchief went at $25. Fifteen hosiery were sold besides quantities of hats, coats and shoes, all contributed to the Red Cross in Pilger, and members of the committee in charge were thoroughly pleased.

Miss Sara Killen of the Wayne State Normal faculty, left Friday for Adams and Lincoln, Neb., to spend her Christmas with her relatives. She was accompanied by her niece, Mary Louise Killen, who was on her way to Waverne, Neb., to spend Christmas with her mother. Miss Mary Young, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Young of Emerson, and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Gillespie of this city, were in Wayne on her way to the youngest member of the Red Cross. Alice May was born December 23, and the same day named a Red Cross tag.

John R. Welch arrived in Wayne Saturday from Kansas City to spend Christmas with home folks, before entering the service on December 28. Mr. Welch will join the battalion which is leaving for France. He has given up a responsible position as an attorney, to answer the call from Uncle Sam. "Boy's" inventory of heavy flected underwear, 40 cent values at Wendt & Co.'s Saturday, 21 cents. Mrs. George Linn of Carroll, was in Wayne Friday on her way to Gosport, Kan., to attend the funeral of her sister, Mrs. Jennie Tanner. The deceased was formerly Miss Jennie Price, who lived for several years in Wayne. Mrs. Linn was accompanied as far as Sioux City by her husband. John R. Massie, teacher in the city school at Newton Grove, arrived Saturday to spend a week's vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Massie. On account of the closing of school early in the year, he will be absent from school during the holiday vacation at Newton Grove is reduced to one week.

Thomas H. Ince's "Civilization" is the great Broadway screen spectacle. "Civilization," set down for presentation at the Crystal theater, Wayne, on January 21 and 22, is something more than a mere movie. It is a masterpiece of a great playwright, conceived, convincingly acted and perfectly photographed, delectable to the eye, a feast to the mind. Do you ever go to a church on a Sunday and hear a man preach during the burning periods of a great preacher. Have you ever heard an eloquent orator like Judge Isaac Franklin Bassett. Coming "Crystal" Attractions

Beginning December 27 and including January 3

TONIGHT "THE AUCTION BLOCK" By Rex Beach. "The Auction Block" by Rex Beach will be presented in Wayne this evening. Rex Beach is the author of the "Nec-De-Well" and "The Barrister," but this is his greatest picture. Don't fail to see this great photoplay tonight. A special Goldwyn feature. Admission 10 and 20 cents.

FRIDAY, Blanche Sweet in "TIDES OF BARNEGAT" DECEMBER 28. In the little seacoast town of Barnegat, John (Blanche Sweet), the much loved school teacher, lives a happy and carefree life, loved by John Cavendish (Elliott Dexter), the young college doctor. Jane's vivacious sister, Lucy, returns from the city, where she has been sent to acquire a musical education, and among others whom she inspires with her talent is wild Hart Holt (Tom Norman), son of an old sea captain (Walter Rogers). This is a good, forceful story, along lines sure to appeal to the audience. Miss Sweet plays well her part, offering a touch of sweet sadness in part of her character. Admission 10 and 15 cents.

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 29. Jack Pickford in "FRECKLES" DECEMBER 29. "Freckles," a Lasky-Paramount offering, featuring Jack Pickford and Louise Huff, is adapted from the story by Gene Stratton Porter, whose works have been widely read and none enjoyed more than her "Freckles," a story with a human appeal and a touch of heart-interest which the picture brings out to even a greater advantage than the book. There is a touch of pathos emanating from the orphaned "Freckles," as presented by Jack Pickford, that knows no bounds and runs through the relegate of this Paramount offering with a nice consideration for all that is pathetic. Louise Huff presents the role of the "Angel." "Freckles" meets the "Angel" under circumstances which take an original turn and the events which taken together form the nucleus of this story all leading to an admirable climactic climax, presenting a form of picture entertainment which is novel in its very turn. Admission 10 and 15 cents.

MONDAY, DECEMBER 31. Billie Burke in "THE MYSTERIOUS MISS TERRY" AN AIRCRAFT PRODUCTION. Billie Burke, daintiest and most charming of stage and screen comedienne, in "The Mysterious Miss Terry," by Gelett Burgess, appears as a most baffling and fascinating young heiress. "Miss Terry (Billie Burke)" gets into innumerable scrapes and works all sorts of havoc in the hearts of the young men in her boarding house before a sudden, quick and unexpected turn of the wheel of Fate brings the play to a sweeping climax. "Those of us who have wished for a 'fairy godmother' to make our dearest wishes come true will recognize Billie Burke in her role of Miss Terry." Admission 10 and 20 cents.

TUESDAY, NEW YEAR'S DAY. "THE LASH OF POWER" Carnel Meyers in. "The Lash of Power" is a story of a man who is one of those in whom slumbered the latent forces which make of him either a curse or a blessing to mankind. He loved best in all the world himself. Then came his mother, and then Marion Sherwood. This story of a man created by power, is full of thrilling episodes. Don't miss this Bluebird special. Admission 10 and 15 cents.

WEDNESDAY, Ruth Clifford in "THE DESIRE OF THE MOTHS" JANUARY 2. Chris Foy and Dick Marr had been free-booting friends for years, stealing cattle and doing any ordinary crime to keep themselves in clothes and food. Marr turned traitor and put the sheriff's posse on the trail of Foy, who managed to escape from the gunfire of the posse. Foy, who went in the shoulder was all Foy collected from the sheriff's offering. The horse that Foy had been stolen from Colonel Vorhis, and the horse knowing its way home, reached the Vorhis ranch when Foy, in a weakened condition slid off the horse into the dooryard. Stella Vorhis, the daughter, made Foy her prisoner. She helped the wounded man into the house and tenderly cared for him. Colonel Vorhis refused to prosecute him, because he was from Virginia. The story is alive with interest and a strong drama. Admission 10 and 15 cents.

THURSDAY, Robert Warwick in "THE SILENT MASTER" JANUARY 3. Robert Warwick, the well known actor and movie star, has the leading role in this Selznick production, "The Silent Master." This is a drama of unusual interest and is one of the strongest in which Robert Warwick has played. M. B. NIELSON, Manager. Admission 10 and 15 cents.

GUARDING THE FLAG. Lincoln Journal. On the face of the reports which have reached the newspapers, the action of the DeWitt home guards in taking down the American flag and over a year ago, a local store is one of the fine incidents of the war. A local merchant of German name was found unresponsive to calls for patriotic service. He had no objection or supposed disloyalty, young men who thought they were doing a patriotic thing forcibly installed an American flag over the store front. The local home guard company marched to the store and removed the flag after hearing this explanation of the matter by Captain Stout. "We are here to remove the American flag from a false position. The flag was placed there by patriotic young men with good intentions, and in removing it we believe it is in their honor, we recommend them for their zeal, but they have made a wrong use of the flag, and we are here to correct their mistake." In this fact the men of the DeWitt home guard are feeling for the flag and a sense of its sacredness which all men might well emulate. It is one of the anomalies of the war that the men of the DeWitt home guard bring honor upon the flag by enforcing honor from persons charged with disloyalty. Was Jesus of fruit for their labors in behalf of the Armenian, Greek and Syrian peoples. The Methodist dist. Sunday school of Wayne gave $250 as a Christmas offering. Little boys and girls of the school earned as much as two dollars each by doing little jobs of work to earn a "bit" to help other little children in need. God bless our boys and girls. William Bonham, who has been the benevolent faithful superintendent of the Sunday school for years, retired from the office and Charles Gildersleeve has been elected with W. D. Redmond as his assistant.

WAR DIPLOMACY

(By J. T. House.) This government through the president as its entrance into the war and by occasional addresses and state papers, has developed a distinctive political strategy in this matter of political strategy we are leading the allies. Before the war, in his peace move, President Wilson called upon the contending nations to state their war aims. He performed a satisfactory service to the world and especially to the allies. The allies, somewhat reluctantly it is true, made a frank statement of their purposes and in later pronouncements have further clarified the situation. On the other hand, by refusal to come out into the open, the German government shows the most hypocritical nature of her diplomacy. As a result, the whole world saw that she sought, behind cunning phrases, to conceal her purpose to dominate.

By his successive diplomatic moves, President Wilson has largely won the neutral world into opposition to German militarism. The same strategy of publicity for all war aims is directed to the important task of dividing the enemy behind the lines of the army. "Behold the world as you might see it," says our government. "If you do not, then all must know that you have something sinister to conceal. Let there be no more dark room diplomacy. All our cards are on the table now."

Under such constant fire as President Wilson is using, and now Lloyd George as well, the German government is finding great difficulty in keeping up its pretense of fighting a merely defensive war. "How about Belgium?" is asked, and it is pretty hard, even for the most ardent politician, to answer this question with a plea that Germany seeks only to protect herself against a world conspiracy to do her wrong. Under such a bombardment, how long can the people of the Teutonic allies retain the delusion that they are fighting against unjust assault on national life?

Such a question is not possible, but nevertheless there is not wanting signs, that the truth is beginning to dawn upon many of the enemy people. To begin with, the Teutonic enemies are not all Teutonic. There is much racial diversity among them. Many Slavs are under the government of Austria-Hungary. The so-called Bulgarians and the Turks are a people wholly alien to all their allies. Again, no nation is one economic group. That is to say, that the people do not have equal stakes in the war. The dynamic group stands to lose or win all in the struggle, but millions of people in Germany can gain nothing by success. What to all the peasants and laboring people is a German world empire? Simply nothing but taxation and compulsory army service. Further, the commercial groups of Germany are already ruined. What hope have such people to gain any material advantage from further fighting? To retain their loyalty the rulers of Germany must keep these people under the conviction that the Fatherland is fighting for defense. How wise, then, is the leadership of the allies in giving notice that this is not true, that we fight for the freedom of all peoples, including the Germans, for a safer world for every honest aspirant nation.

However, we are not left entirely to inference as to the wisdom of such leadership. Concrete testimony that it is making progress in undermining the morale of the enemies is not wanting. In particular the papers in Hungary are fiercely criticizing Prussianism, railing against its leaders and demanding the publication of such articles. This evidence of the success of this humane diplomacy already appears. It is important that copies have confidence in all the work of the administration, not only the conduct of military but also of political matters pertaining to the war. We shall fight better, cooperate better, give more generously if we see that our diplomacy makes for a safer world. The more we see the movement to make our purposes known to the enemy as humane and fashioned to help us not alone to win victories in the field, but also to make a future peace stable, this trusts will be further elaborated next week.

such leadership. Concrete testimony that it is making progress in undermining the morale of the enemies is not wanting. In particular the papers in Hungary are fiercely criticizing Prussianism, railing against its leaders and demanding the publication of such articles. This evidence of the success of this humane diplomacy already appears. It is important that copies have confidence in all the work of the administration, not only the conduct of military but also of political matters pertaining to the war. We shall fight better, cooperate better, give more generously if we see that our diplomacy makes for a safer world. The more we see the movement to make our purposes known to the enemy as humane and fashioned to help us not alone to win victories in the field, but also to make a future peace stable, this trusts will be further elaborated next week.

IN-MATTER OF INCOMES

Twenty-four Officers Will Start Out to Assist People.

Small, Dec. 21.—It will require a small army of men to make the city's income tax returns of persons subject to the new law. Collector of Internal Revenue Geo. L. Loomis, today announced that twenty-four officers will start from his headquarters on January 1 and on January 2, every one of them will be on the job in the county assigned him to meet the people and help them make out their income tax returns. The officer assigned to this county is due to arrive here on January 13 and to remain until January 23, after which he will have his office in court house in Wayne where he may be found every day of the dates stated.

It will be well for every unmarried person whose net income for 1917 was over $1,000 or over, and every married person living with wife or husband whose net income for 1917 was over $1,000, to call on the income tax man and learn whether or not they have any tax to pay. Collector Loomis said today. The person subject to tax who doesn't make an error in this year is going to regret it. The government will get after all income tax slackers.

There's hardly a business man, merchant or professional man who won't have to make return of income. Farmers, as a class, will have to pay the tax. The sale thing to do is to get your books, including the income tax man and learn whether or not they have any tax to pay. Collector Loomis said today. The person subject to tax who doesn't make an error in this year is going to regret it. The government will get after all income tax slackers.

FARMERS WITH WILSON

Omaha, Dec. 26.—The criticism which has been aimed at the farmers' acceptance of being out of sympathy with the government's war program, was disproved again at the recent meeting of the Nebraska Farmers' Congress in Omaha. It was the first meeting of farmers since the promulgation of President Wilson's recent message to congress, and many were interested in the various questions of the hour, including representatives of the government.

The deliberations of the congress were devoted almost exclusively to war-time problems. It seemed as though the farmers had come to Omaha to find out how they could help Uncle Sam to win the war, and they found plenty of expert advisers. The concluding session of the congress was in many respects the most important. It was devoted to a round table discussion of the resolutions which had been introduced. The resolution on price fixing was the hardest one to draft. There were few who wished to petition the government to abandon price fixing and allow the law of supply and demand to prevail. Their objections were offset by their earnestness. The price fixing resolution finally adopted by a large majority was to the effect that since the government had been declared the source of the farmers' products it should on the rest and also on all other commodities, particularly those which the farmer has to purchase. This respect the farmers were directly in line with President Wilson's own suggestion. The congress decided to hold its next meeting in Omaha.

FOUR POUNDS PER WEEK

Omaha, Dec. 26.—Four pounds of flour per week per person has been defined as a reasonable amount, according to a report by W. W. Wattles, federal food administrator for Nebraska. Consumers should bear these figures in mind in making their purchases so that there may be an even distribution of flour throughout the country. "We want to stabilize prices and keep them from soaring," said Mr. Wattles. "By the voluntary cooperation of the citizens of Nebraska we can accomplish this without hardships on any one or any class of

What a National Bank Means to You

The title "National Bank" is intended to convey a certain definite and particular meaning.

It is intended that this name shall distinguish the National Bank from all other banks and set it apart as a separate and distinct institution. The word "National" is to signify the control exercised over such a bank by the national government, making it and its officers subject to the National Banking Laws and a compulsory member of the Federal Reserve.

It naturally follows that a National Bank is conservative and sound. We solicit your patronage.

CHURCH CALENDAR

Presbyterian Church.

(Rev. S. X. Cross, Pastor.) The session will meet at the church next Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. Persons desiring to unite with the church may be present. The sermon for next Sunday morning will be on the theme, "Love's Unveiling." There will be special music appropriate to the New Year. All are cordially invited to worship with us.

Come to the Sunday school at 11:30. The Christmas spirit is still in the air. May it continue through the year of 1918. A good New Year resolution would be to be in your place in the Sunday school every Sunday during the coming year.

The sermon for next Sunday morning will be on the theme, "The Touchstone of Character." There will be special music appropriate to the New Year season.

German Evangelical Lutheran Church.

(Rev. Rudolph Moehring, Pastor.) New Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. Sunday school at 11 o'clock. Divine worship at the Wayne church, December 31, at 7 o'clock p. m. services at Wisconsin.

January 1, 1918, at 7 o'clock in the afternoon, services at the Wayne church.

The public is asked to receive kindly the following extract from a prayer offered almost every Sunday in this church:

"Grant also health and prosperity to all who are in authority, especially the president (and congress) of the United States, the governor (and legislature) of this commonwealth, and to all our judges and magistrates, and enable them with grace to rule. After thy good pleasure to the maintenance of righteousness, and to the hindrance and punishment of wickedness, that we may lead a quiet and peaceable life, in all godliness and honesty. May it please thee also to turn the hearts of our enemies and adversaries, that they may cease their enmity, and be inclined to walk with us in meekness and in peace."

First Baptist Church.

(Rev. Fletcher J. Jordan, Pastor.) The regular monthly covenant and business meeting will be held January 2, 1918, at 7:30, in the basement of the church. This is one of the important features of the church and it is expected that each member be present at that time as far as possible to pledge anew his fidelity to Christ.

Next Sunday morning divine worship with a sermon at 10:30. The subject of the morning discourse will be "Beauty, the Outshining of Truth." In the evening at 7:30 there is always a season of singing which is enjoyed by everyone present. After the sermon the ordinance of baptism will be administered. The young and old, the rich and poor are equally invited to share the religious privileges of the church of the glad land.

Notes.

Large congregations morning and evening at the Methodist church. The Christmas cantata given by Prof. J. J. Coleman and his excellent choir was highly appreciated by the congregation present which crowded the capacity of the church. Ensign Young presided at the pipe organ Sunday evening. The orchestra consisting of Prof. and Mrs. J. J. Coleman, Mrs. J. T. House and daughter rendered some very fine music as a prelude to the cantata.

PLAYING THE GAME.

The men who've studied things like these, who've studied them in fancy ways, say we can help things for the seas by having steady meatless days. They say, "Cut out the wheaten bread, one day a week, and eat corn-pone, lap up less sugar when you're full, and don't make the 'foeman' cream." It isn't much to ask, gentlemen, and to refuse them was a shame; so let's instruct our gifted folks to read the news and the papers, and eat once a week which braces me to play my harp; again I go down to the creek and fish a cod or carp. I'll have a good time in solemn state, three times a day, and see a loaf of white bread. I sternly order it away. I say to myself, out and make "do" on butter and on lard; the allies now are needing grease—we must not eat it by the yard." The government's most politic, it asks an Englishman, "What's the matter with the men in the fight, and cke the British and the French. Yet some there who give no heed, who laugh polite requests to scorp, and who propose to curb their greed and live on hens and fish and corn. They hang around in every town, you'll see them anywhere you look, and Uncle Sam is writing down their surnames in his little book.

GERMAN CHEMISTRY.

The German chemists work all night and hustle all day. "We'll make everything in sight a substitute," they say. "The people say they're needing meat, but meat is not for sale;" well, make a substitute of peat, and sell it by the pair. They cry for bread throughout the realm, but bread no merchants sell, well treat a block of slippery elm, and that will do as well. Though there's no sugar in the food, let this be understood; we're doing no refining sand, which will be just as good." The chemists make their turp jam and loaded nut-made, until the weary people damn their dark and mystic trade. The chemists brew their noxious dope, and say to hungry folk, "Cheer up, cheer up!" don't give up hope—we're making food of oak." The German parent, sick and sore, he holds his children starve; there comes a element to the door—Here is a brick to carve! It's made of shavings and old shoes, excelsior and tar; you're needing bread, don't have the blues, for this is better far." If famine comes to this our land I think we'll starve and die before we'll take from chemist's hand a loaf for a pie.

THE DAY OF WRATH.

For years one lesson I have taught, for years one sermon I have preached, which is that men should just pay some money for the rainy day. Before the world had war disease, and coin was growing on the trees, I cried and cried in thunder tones, "Oh, mortals! shun away some bones!" Behn this system are you sleek? Put down a parcel where 'twill keep! The rainy day will soon arrive, and prudent men will then survive. And now has come the day of wrath, which has here and there, and rising costs of this and that, and many tossing some the boat, the one who has no and bring his cause to murmur and repine. I'm all addressed by grateful youths, who say, "Your counsel was most wise, we are glad we hearken to your role, and heeked pots of kopeck seed, for in these crucial times, we start with our resources well to hand, and we can always raise a plank when Uncle Sam demands such junk." It surely stuns me, my savage heart, that men should not heed my counsel, when I have the force, which I'll take any advice.

CHRISTMAS GIFTS.

I've done my share as Santa Claus, with bush-shin wankers on my jaws, I ran the Christmas tree, all the Christmas gifts in sight were reminiscent of the fight that I've across the sea. My little girl, Evangeline, drew down a large tin of marbles, and never closed a barrel, she said this instrument of crime was more in keeping with the times than any scotch and oil. The baby drew a cartridge case, and happy smiles lit up his face, when I expected tears. Aunt Sarah got a flashing, blake and said, "I've what she'd prayed and prayed for many weary years. One kid received a bright tin box, and one a steel rifle, and another a bicycle. Increase's legs were oak, and they were soldiers, made of zinc, kenteians blue, and colors pink, and other war-like folk. "There was no sign of peace on earth, but a huge nickel's worth upon that Christmas tree; my grandise drew an aero plane, and said a gift more safe and same he surely never did see. And in the candy shelf was wrought in shape of cannonball and shot, and bombs and hand grenade; and as I ply my croaking pen I wonder, if good will to men must permanently fade.

THE WELCOME AGENT.

Today there walked to my door a man who wished to sell a book, in times of peace he'd be here, and his long spied I would not brook. His volume was the cheapest sort, but he insisted it was great, the kind of stuff that hits the spot, and makes a man a better seck. He talked a long and branded streak, he made his great and language whir, and I could listen for a week to such a line of bunk as his. He shunned the topics I abhor; he did not talk in ringing tones, how he would ruin the bloating war, and fill the land with Teuton bones. He didn't try to show the means by which he'd finish up the scrap, and can the Kaiser's submarines, and show the things clear off the map. He did not point at land tints, war's horrors on the ocean stirs, his book, "The Thousand Handicraft Hints," about all his eloquence and more. There's nothing like a Household Hint, when one is tired of dead men's bones and all the ghastly tales in print, or some year, "Davy Jones's good to find a book, methinks, that tells how reaches should be shot, or how to make a line of ink that will not fade, corrod or tear. For all we hear and all we read, brute war and bloodshed closer home, and so I said, "My friend, indeed, fill take twelve copies of your tome."

PATRIOTIC GIRLS.

I know a bunch of dumsels far whose spirit greatly I admire; they're full of patriotic fire. There's one of them so passing sweet, she's make the fetiching of fraus, and men are always at her feet with talks of rings and marriage vows. Her lover acts her in the end will have the mark of stripes, and she'll be a sister or a friend to others, but she won't be wife, "I'll never wear man who shirks, who does not, when his country calls," she says, "I'll out of Teuton's works with chop-axe hands, who wear a flow when facing some small sacrifice, and men there are who raise a howl whenever they dig up the price. But the women there who wear a flow, and men there are who raise a howl, they're spirit high, their own regret that they can't go and show us how to bleed and die. A man will wonder where he's at when for a bond he shells the rocks; his wife will snark her Sunday hat to buy the yarn for soldier's socks. A man will wish he must use some substitute for beef or cheese; his wife will sanction of her shoes, and hereaf, go to knitting bees.

From Ponca Journal, December 27, 1917.

A late sermon by Rev. H. W. Beecher in which he went for some of the old orthodox beliefs in a very free manner, is creating considerable attention in religious circles. Among other things he expressed his disbelief in the literal hell.

Several of our citizens, among whom are J. Wilbur, esq., of this place, and S. D. Bailey, Esq., of Newcastle, commenced last week doing their spring's plowing.

Christmas morning we noticed a lone and solitary fly crawling about our office windows. He was a hard looking case, and appeared to have the rheumatism in his "joints," but a fly he was, which we consider to be a pretty rare sight for Christmas in this latitude.

About fifty of the crack shots of Ponca assembled on Monday short distance below town and engaged in a shooting match. For ten cents you could have a shot at a huge gobbler. The noise sounded like the booming of a Play, and the smoke ascended in clouds. Guns of all kinds, rusty old fuses, nobby three loaders, brass mounted howitzers, old ten feet Kentucky kill-devils all were there, and made themselves heard, but mighty seldom fell. Six turkeys were killed, netting their owners about $11 apiece. The Ponca man is a tolerable hand at eating turkey, but he can't shoot. If he had money enough we would buy a turkey and set up a little shooting-match of our own. It would be better than a Chicago savings bank.

DRAFTING THE FARMERS.

Omaha World Herald. The drafting of men engaged in farming is a continual source of discussion. That the farms must be cultivated and enough men must be employed upon them to insure the crops of the United States is a self evident truth. It is equally evident that under our constitution all men are equal before the law, that the small exempt privileged class that will be exempt from military service cannot be attempted, and the discussion of such a proposition might as well be dropped. Men engaged in necessary work of any kind will be exempted by some system of selection, and farm work is as necessary to the propagation of the race as man's carrying big guns and rifles, but there will be no class exemption.

There is one class of men that might be drafted for work on the farms. A recent marital survey shows that there are more than 1,000,000 retired farmers who are capable of doing a large amount of farm work; who are living in the small communities, many of whom have the ability to become directors of such work, equal to that of the graduates of agricultural schools. They know how to handle the machinery, the care of animals, the best manner of cultivation and many other things that make farming successful. Many of them are in middle life, and spend their time around the store, the postoffice or on the streets discussing the war. These men might go back to the farms during the war, and the machinery to win it. The high school boys might also be sent to the farms, and if some of these retired farmers would work along with and direct them, great things could be accomplished.

Stomach Trouble and Constipation.

Those who are afflicted with stomach trouble and constipation should read the following: "I have never found anything so good for stomach trouble and constipation as Chamberlain's Tablets. I have used them for the last few years, and now I can regulate the action of the bowels, but stimulate the liver and keep one's body in a healthy condition." writes Mrs. Benjamin Hooper, Auburn, N. Y.

My Country 'Tis of Thee, Sweet Land of Liberty.

I pledge allegiance to my flag and to the Republic for which it stands; one nation indivisible with Liberty and Justice to all.

THE NEW YEAR

The closing year will long be remembered as the one in which the war dogs were loosened and the nation entered the world struggle to help pull the teeth of a conscienceless autocracy. The country has been prosperous, but prices have been so high and the demands for help so numerous that it is doubtful if many gained material headway.

The new year, soon to be ushered in, will see the country merged deeper and deeper into the great war, and it will be the patriotic duty of people to respond more and more in men and money and other service in the effort to seal the doom of Prussian tyranny. Sacrifices required will likely be too great to permit people to amass riches. But if they are prosperous enough to meet the financial demands of the time, they may well feel thankful and may, rightly, desire accumulating surplus bank accounts until a dangerous foe has been baffled and peace has been established.

We look forward to the new year as an exceedingly eventful one. The history of the past year and feel confident that during the year, the American armies, once ready and in action, will act with a courage and skill that will amaze the rest of the world. The Herald offers the season's best wishes, and pledges its greatest possible service to its readers and to the cause of the government.

NEEDS OF THE HOUR

Charges of incompetency in the management of the war have been made and are being investigated by the War Department. The Kansas City Star charges that Secretary Baker is not big enough as an executive to head the war department, stating that "a real executive is needed to manage the war department if we are to win the war in the shortest possible time and with the least possible loss of life." The press generally will not reveal the facts and prove or disprove charges made. If lack of fitness is found in any governmental department, the public has the right to demand prompt dismissal of incompetent heads. Ablest executives are none too good to handle affairs during this crisis.

The people of the United States are making supreme sacrifices to prosecute the war with all possible haste and draw it to a successful conclusion with the least possible loss of life. In return they have reason to expect thoroughly competent management in every branch of the public service. Intense desire for sound judgment is not enough. Efficiency is indispensable. If a man is not sufficiently conversant with his task and is not capable of handling its duties, he should be replaced without delay by some one of known fitness. Too much is at stake to brook any looting or tolerate any unnecessary expense.

Besides demanding thorough competency in handling government affairs, the masses who are making giant sacrifices in contribution of blood and treasure, have a right to demand uniform loyalty on the part of all who are within the protecting folds of the stars and stripes, and who are stigmatized by condemnation of the execrable savagery of the Prussian war lords, any one who can excuse the infamous brutality of the Prussian system, consistently and unflinchingly, is not a liberty-loving democrat and has no business here. The sacrificing multitudes deserve to be the cause, which first in their hearts the pronounced and unwavering devotion of every soul in America. The finding of ground glass in consignments of clothing here would tend to inspire reports for army contracts, as furnished by Maj. Gen. Wu, H. Carter, is a late example of a sinister hand that should be stamped out by every citizen flanking within the United States. More attention to the concealed poison of Kaiserism in America and more interments for loyalty here would tend to prevent such a menacing dagger-thrust at the forces of democracy.

WOMEN DO THE BUYING

We have always contended that the women do most of the buying, directly or indirectly, and are largely the ones who read and benefit by the advertisements. They not only buy their own things, but the men's things as well. We find confirmation of our conviction in the last issue of the Omaha Trade Exhibit. That paper says: "The only article of clothing bought by men exclusively is their own collars. Only 80 per cent buy their own shirts. Men buy 50 per cent of the cases, the men's jewelry, handkerchiefs, socks and underwear are purchased either by the women alone or in consultation with them. In one-third of the cases the women help buy the men's shirts. Only one-third of the men buy their own handkerchiefs. On the other hand, the men purchase 90 per cent of the cases of the women's apparel. Women buy men's things exclusively eleven times as often as the men buy the women's things exclusively. Women cooperate with men twice as much as men cooperate with women in the purchase of their respective apparel. In one-third of the cases women are sole purchasers of their own underwear, face, thread, and cooking utensils. In 80 per cent of the cases they are the sole purchasers of dresses, cloaks, footwear, fans, parasols, clothes-liners, gloves, hosiery, handkerchiefs, shaving dishes, kitchen linens, ribbons, cloth, flour, regulars, eggs, butter, bread, cereals, water and canned goods. In over 50 per cent of the cases they are the sole purchasers of curtains, nutmeg, mustard, catsup, ketchup and perfumes. Women buy 83 per cent of the food, but less than 50 per cent of the house furnishings, exclusively. Women buy more of the magazines, men more of the newspapers. Women buy many wedding presents, exclusively, but men participate more largely in the purchase of Christmas gifts, birthday gifts, and children's toys. Only 5 per cent of the pets are bought by women alone, 20 per cent by men alone."

The average editor receives numerous requests for free publications these days, largely from the government, and accommodates as many as possible. The editor of the Herald of the public service. He also receives many communications from other sources, some of them of doubtful or of no interest. Among the accusations asserted recently one day lately by the Fairbury News was a long-winded letter from Carrie Chapman Catt, president of the National Woman's Party, to the New York and the News concludes its comment in this way: "The first thing that struck me was that Carrie had had me invited to dine with her to the extent with the conservation idea, for that letter contained a riot of words equal to an Irish washerwoman at a sewing circle. There were four big misprints, one written with a typewriter and closed space. To be exact there were 1,432 words. Following our usual custom we turned to print it in order to learn the identity of the inquisition, and there was the sweet little feminine name, written in a very large, masculine-looking hand, and underneath a short 'P. S.' requesting that I write and let her know what I thought of the letter! Mind you, 1,432 words—Carrie Chapman Catt's! I don't tell you what I thought of that letter. I'd be arrested. I haven't the least idea in the world what you were trying to do when you wrote that letter, but I do believe that any person who would dump such a behemoth of words on a busy man in times like these and expect him to read it, is a complete idiot. I padded cell. You know how I enjoy your communications, Carrie, but for the love of Mike, be brief!"

IF GERMAN COULD WIN

Linchon Journal: The chairman of the committee at the meeting at last week ruled out of order all questions and discussion based on the premise that Germany might win the war. Germany isn't going to win. The committee would spend time thinking of impossible things. The convention applauded, as conventions should applaud efforts of high hope and determination. Yet, in private at least, Americans ought to ask themselves frequently this very question. We know of no better method of determining mind and muscle set to the job of winning the war. Especially should this be done by the man who inclines to think that any kind of victory will be better than any continuation of the war. What would be the personal effect of a German victory on that man? A German victory would mean immediate attack on the United States. But it would mean ultimate attack on the United States. The United States would understand this and the man who is a pacifist would find himself condemned to live out his years in an armed camp where enduring peace is the least thing anyone would wish. The old America of individual freedom will take its place. Militarized America will take its place. It is worth while for the pacifist to ask himself: "If Germany wins, will he be more ready for the war's sacrifice if they ask themselves that question. The burden of armaments, the arguments required to defend against a German supreme in the old world, must come out of their pockets. The sons trained to take the father's place in the army will be called to the armies for at least part of their time, a perpetual economic loss to the country. The laborer has his share to learn from the question of Germany wins. The herded labor of Germany, without effective political power, subject to war lords' commands, for military and other fighting purposes, but never free, that is what a laborer may look forward to with Prussia rampant in the world. Are any American women anxious for the lot that falls to women in a world of rival armaments? Are they ready for the experience of the women of the United States? Victory tends to reduce all the world to the level of Prussia. In England and America women are approaching political and economic equality with men. In Germany they occupy a medieval status. Women above all may well ask themselves, if Germany wins. Of course Germany will not win. We have only to think of the result if Germany should win to make our backs so stiff that Germany cannot win.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. This is not only one of the best and most effective medicines for coughs, colds and croup, but is also a valuable remedy for many other important when medicine must be given to children. Many mothers have given it their unqualified endorsement.—Adv.

AN OLD POEM

Bixby in Lincoln Journal: In 1848 there was an uprising in Germany among the young republicans who believed that the time industry ought to be supplanted by something better. It was what followed the Hohenzollerns had the organization and the ammunition. Some of the noted rebels were Carl Schurz, Johann Gottfried Kinkel, Herr Tecker, and William Rottaker. Kinkel and Rottaker escaped to France where they were finally captured, and through Prussian influence court martial ordered shot. A timely uprising in Paris saved the lives of some of the republicans who came to America and became citizens of this glorious republic. While in jail after having abandoned hope of deliverance, William Rottaker wrote the poem hereto appended. Many Nebraskans will remember the son, O. H. Rottaker, once editor of the Omaha Journal, who died in France when he was only twenty years of age. He was a poet and a patriot. It is real poetry, and real poetry's scarce!—Chauz-De-Ponds, 1849.

To be led through the heart at sunrise.

Old world, adieu! Upon the coffin of my sweet, we lay the broken sword, the immortal.

Wreathed dream-flowers blighted by time's evil spells— We kneel before the scaffold just then grey.

Into the darkness, sobbing a farewell to what?

All that makes up the little lives of men: Home, love, old friends, dear to the heart of God's name.

The Summer bywinds for the Winter sea. The day that broke to sink in night again.

A night of storm clouds through which no stars shine. Oh, Fatherland!

Art thou dumb, blind, soul-deadened, art stricken down? A petrification of all petty things?

The lengthening shadow of a fine day of Kings? A servile knifing to a crown Born of a nation's shame in far-off days?

Upheld with feeble hands the grander laws. Fought in God's name for God's forsaken cause.

Forgotten even when He turned away His face. In angry seeming at our little strength.

Old world, adieu! The years of wrong and rue have passed, my own wrongs.

And smothered under the rust for willing limbs. The mocking glare of tinsel'd titles dim.

Thy part of manhood, and the fates. At which fair freedom worshipped are o'erthrown.

But not for aye! Wrong is a self-destroyer, and its death is in itself: we cry— Peace, and no armaments!

That we write our hands and angry cheeks are wet. With weeping for the thought that we have done.

With terror of the shame that cannot live. The light will break. And send its stirring radiance through the land.

For Right is an immortal: there will rise. A vast and storm and wreck when the dark skies

Will tremble with God's lightning, and His hand. Will write his awful message on the wall.

And when it comes. Upon my graves, the newer day will dawn. And truer men will gather there and say:

Who shed the light, and thru its rays we see the way. Blinded their eyes, yet still they know the sign.

And, therefore, strew we flowers where they rest!

SUGAR IN SMALL AMOUNTS

Omaha, Dec. 26.—A shortage of sugar is apparent and drastic measures must be taken that every one may have sugar, says Gordon W. Wattle, federal food administrator for Nebraska. The drain upon the United States for supply of the allies has knocked a big hole in the available supply. It is reported that no limit has been placed upon the sugar purchases is absolutely untrue and have been promoted by ignorant and existing conditions.

The federal food administration is asking the citizens to limit their purchases of sugar to small quantities and to buy only in bulk.

The Washington office has said that three pounds of sugar per month per person is a reasonable supply and that Nebraska citizens should limit their purchases in mind in making purchases.

Retailers are asked to limit sales of sugar to consumers to five pounds in cities and towns and in the rural districts not to sell more than ten pounds at any one time.

WORK IN THE NAVY. The whole navy yard service is humming with activity, but there is a shortage of labor, in certain lines and ship construction and other work is suffering in consequence.

Anglesmiths, blacksmiths, boat-builders, carpenters, cooper-smiths, drillers, fabric workers, frame benders, machinists, power sewing machine operators (women), salivators, ship draftsmen, shipfitters, shipbuilders, subsistence officers, ordnance, and other mechanics and technical men are badly needed. The United States Civil Service Commission is urging us to patriotically accept the duty that persons trained in these lines offer their services to the government at this time of great need.

Representatives of the Civil Service Commission at the postoffices in all cities are giving full information and supplying application blanks. No written examinations are required.

Chicago, December 15, 1917.

AN OPEN LETTER TO OUR TRADE

Dear Mr. Business Man: Do you know what is meant by the announcement recently made by Secretary McAdoo, that Nine Billions of Dollars would be spent by the government and our allies within the United States during the next year?

Do you know what Nine Billions signifies? It means that if a man had commenced work at the beginning of the Christian era, 1916 years ago, and received a salary of Eight Dollars, for every MINUTE of time from the moment of his birth to twelve o'clock midnight, December 31, 1916, including an extra day for leap year, every four years he would have received eight billions, sixty-one million, nine hundred fourteen thousand, eight hundred and eighty dollars, or nine hundred thirty-eight millions, eighty-five thousand, one hundred and twenty dollars less than the sum which will be scattered broadcast during the next twelve months among the one hundred and five millions of people of the United States.

If you do not believe it, here are the figures: There are 525,600 minutes in a year. Add an extra twenty-four hours for leap year every four years, and multiply by 1916 years and you have One Billion, seven million, seven hundred thirty-nine thousand, three hundred and sixty minutes in the entire Christian era of 1916 years.

Reverse the problem by beginning at the present date and spreading the proposed expenditure of Nine Billions of Dollars over the past ages at the rate of One Dollar for every minute of time, and the calculation would take you back some amount over Seventeen Thousand Years.

Do you begin to understand what a Billion Dollars is? It is a pleasant prospect to contemplate. We like it. Therefore, let us fancy a man of bygone ages who controlled the gasoline market, or had a Henry Ford income Sixteen Thousand years ago, and made it his business to distribute One Dollar bills every minute of his time, night and day, to all of the people of the earth for Sixteen Thousand years. The total of his pay roll would amount to Eight Billions, four hundred and nine million, six hundred thousand Dollars. In other words he would have a bank balance that would enable him to continue his good work for a couple of thousand years into the future. In a nutshell, all of the people of the earth would have been either spendthrifts or bond clippers.

That is the meaning of Nine Billions of Dollars scattered over a period of Seventeen Thousand years. Now crowd the entire Nine Billions of Dollars into twelve months, and go out and tell your neighbor, if you have a conscience to do so, that there will be a lack of prosperity in this country and no opportunity to make money during the next twelve or fifteen months. Let your pessimistic friends play the part of plain idiot, if they want to. Nobody cares.

If that Nine Billion Dollars is forthcoming according to the promise of Secretary McAdoo, and it is evidently known what he is talking about, we will not worry about the high cost of living, internal revenue tax, or the price of gasoline.

Think it over. It will make you sleep better. Yours truly, Alfred Decker & Cohn.

P. S. The present indication is that Secretary McAdoo will ask for Eighteen Billion Dollars for 1918, instead of Nine Billion. Accordingly you can double these calculations, thereby further appreciating the great amount of money put into general circulation next year.

COMMISSIONER'S PROCEEDINGS

Board met as per adjournment. All members present. Comes now Fred Larson and says that for the year 1916 he was assessed with an assessed valuation of $2,168 on 139 acres in 10-26-5 which made the tax $66.12, which was paid under protest for the reason that the same was an error in assessment and not in consideration of adjoining land based on its real value as farm land. On motion the board reduces the valuation to $769 which would make the tax $22.06 on this amount and orders county treasurer to refund to the said Fred Larson the sum of $22.06.

Comes now John Russell and says that for the year 1916 a part of south half of southeast quarter of section 27, township 25, range 1, was assessed at $135 assessed valuation which made the tax $6.50, that the said tax was paid under protest for the reason that the valuation was more than the property cost. The board after due consideration rejects the application for a refund and orders treasurer to distribute the tax.

From Harry Millward.
The following is an extract from a letter Harry Millward formerly of Lincoln, now in the U. S. Army, but on account of not having taken out his second nationalization papers, refused. He then went to Canada and enlisted. The beginning of his letter which follows in part, will show how the boys away from home enjoy the cigars. It was very interesting to read the account of me a Christmas package. I was just in the act of rolling a cigar out of the natural leaf when the postman came and told me that the Master Cullen had sent me a package for me; so off I go to get it and when I opened it, there were the ten packs, mind you real ones! I surely enjoyed the first one. I had been out for ten days. We crossed to Vancouver; left there Monday noon. About midnight we started to smoke. I had a pack of yours. Then some of these "would-be" smokers began to put hands on their heads and on their stomachs, and I wondered what in creation they were doing. They were coughing and sneezing and about 10 p. m. we were in the Pacific before and her ladyship, the Rainbow, surely acted as though she meant business. In the cook's galley pots, were cooking a few things from side to side with the rock of the ship as though they were of flesh and bone instead of tin. Tomorrow morning we were in Victoria, day all over Canada. Three political parties, liberals, conservative and another which sprang up for union government are in the field. It is almost impossible to get any news of the world an example when it comes to mobilizing its fighting forces. Once again I thank you for the cigars. The candy was fine, but oh, those smokes.
