AN IMPORTANT MEETING.

The Wakefield department of two patriotic meetings, one of which was held in the German Hall near Emerson Sunday afternoon. At this meeting which was called to order by H. P. Shumway of Wakefield and presided over by Harry Keefe of Thurston county, an incident of profound interest happened at the conclusion of a speech by Mayor Wm. Harm of Bloomfield. Mr. Harm is a man of German extraction, and he is rendering a signal service to this government by telling people how much he owes the United States and how little he owes Germany.

Many in the crowd that packed the Emerson hall came from Germany, and Mr. Harm explained to them in clear and pointed fashion how the country of their adoption had accepted them without price, had given them a wealth of freedom and opportunity, had made it possible for them to prosper and educate their families, and now, imperiled, deserves their earnest, unflinching and unqualified devotion and support. The essence of Mr. Harm's message is this: "I came here with nothing, and found a welcome. What I have was made possible through the sacrifice of this government. I didn't make this country. It made me. It owes me nothing. I owe it everything. He would give the last cent and fight to the last ditch against the mailed fist of an unjust autocracy which he in poverty, left for the hope offered by free America. Prizes of patriotism were fanned to a white heat. A storm of approving shouts and handclaps marked the close of the speech. Then as the chairman, his face knitted by a serious purpose, proceeded to secure a test of loyalty, intense silence quickly ensued. He called to the platform a Thurston county farmer, and questioned him in regard to his attitude and utterances in connection with the war. One could have heard a pin drop. Members of the audience, aroused to highest pitch of patriotic fervor, hoped and prayed that their otherwise good neighbor would express a change of heart and prove one hundred per cent American. The chairman held up a picture of the Kaiser and asked the farmer if he had expressed a preference for it above the American flag. He said he had, but no longer felt that way. Then the farmer, restored to the affections of his friends, suggested in response to a query that the Kaiser's picture be burned. The likeness of the Prussian tyrant was soon reduced to ashes, and a wave of uproarious applause swept the audience. The crowd then approached a speaker from Kling who had the last clinging tentacle of Kaiserism and became an American with his whole soul. The momentary gasp and silence during glad cheers when the farmer saw his error and got right with his government. The hall was charged with the electricity of patriotism, and the meeting was a triumphant success.

David Lloyd George, the British premier, seeking forth British war laboring men of England, made it clear that the fight on Prussian autocracy did not seek to break up the German people or disintegrate the German state. The purpose is to secure just reparation for injury done and secure for all times deserved recognition of the rights of independent nations. The purpose is to understand, is to save the hand of the wretched and conscienceless military autocracy. The nations arrayed against Prussianism have lost faith in the ruling power of Germany. People in this fight for democracy and liberty, want to deal with the people of Germany. Confidence in a nation's rulers who violate treaties and cause the perpetration unnecessary barbarities, is shaken. The allies want the people of Germany to come to their senses and get rid of a military caste that has kept them in thrall and has long been a menace to the rest of the world. The cost of the war in blood and treasure, in outrage, torture and suffering has been too great to tolerate a compromise or patched up peace. The fight must go on until German autocracy has fallen before the righteous claims of democracy. In one paragraph, the premier says: "We are fighting for a just and lasting peace. These conditions must be fulfilled. Firstly, the sanctity of treaties established; secondly, territorial settlement based on the right of self-determination or the consent of the governed; lastly, creation of an international organization to limit armaments and diminish the probability of war."

Some steps have been taken in the direction of union religious services in Wayne during cold weather to save fuel and light. It is believed any one church edifice would accommodate the combined crowds seeking divine worship when the mercury is hovering around zero, and that by cutting out unnecessary heating plants, the policy of greater cooperation would be properly served. It is also pointed out that by getting closer together, church people would learn to know and like one another better, and be able to pull for common aims with increased strength and advantage. Familiar and congenial acquaintance here would also likely make easier sailing hereafter, we would judge. Consolidation of church services whenever possible would seem the practical thing to do.

The American people are being gradually aroused to a realizing sense of the diabolical plot the German nation expected to pull off on this country. We must not allow feelings of security to weaken our efforts. We are not safe until the imperious dynasty of Germany has been broken down, and the intrigues and aggressions of a pro-revolutionary have been effectually stopped. Sacrifices of all the people are imperative in this crisis, and the greater the sacrifice and the greater the united effort and determination, the sooner will peace be restored and the world made safe for democracy. Train crews suffer extra tax in struggling against cold weather with worn-out equipment. The task is severe during low temperatures when engines are in good shape. For instance, Sunday afternoon's train from Norfolk was over two hours late on account of the locomotive getting out of order, and the way the engine finally crept into Wayne suggested that it ought to be in a hospital recovering from something. It is hoped government control will not be long in seeing that much-needed new rolling stock is installed.

SLOAN FOR U. S. SENATE

Fourth District Congressman in Race to Succeed Norris

Congressman Charles H. Sloan of the fourth district announces his candidacy for the republican ticket in the senate on the republican ticket. The term of Senator Geo. W. Norris, republican, expires. Congressman Sloan issues the following statement:

"I shall be a candidate for the republican nomination for United States senator in the year 1918. The national republican platform for 1916 expresses generally my principles on economic and other important issues applied to conditions of peace."

"Now that the nation is involved in a great war I, as I have heretofore, shall hereafter, in harmony with the republican party, its leaders and adherents generally, cordially support a vigorous prosecution of this war to a triumphant and honest conclusion."

"The enforcement of all American rights and the defense of the lives, liberty and property of American citizens have been cardinal republican principles to which I have always given my unqualified support. In harmony with this principle during my service in congress, when it was my duty to vote, I have advocated and supported the building of a strong navy and the establishment of an adequate army. When next this question came up during the United States ships to defend against the German submarine assassins of the deep I voted in favor of the measure requested. It was my belief that the announcement by Germany of her ruthless submarine policy to begin with the republican party, its leaders and adherents generally, cordially support a vigorous prosecution of this war to a triumphant and honest conclusion."

"I have been a member of the committee which has been appointed to investigate the activities of the German agents in this country. I have been a member of the committee which has been appointed to investigate the activities of the German agents in this country. I have been a member of the committee which has been appointed to investigate the activities of the German agents in this country."

"I have been a member of the committee which has been appointed to investigate the activities of the German agents in this country. I have been a member of the committee which has been appointed to investigate the activities of the German agents in this country. I have been a member of the committee which has been appointed to investigate the activities of the German agents in this country."

whatever that necessity may be, it must be met with American genius and resources to the end that the original barbarism of the unspearable Turk and the modern barbarism of the insolent Hohenloher dynasty connected with the cadent Hapsburgs will feel and fall before the might of America added to the seasoned strength of the allied powers.

"As it was our duty to have prepared for war in time of peace so it is our present duty in time of war to engage in the campaign of peace. When the time comes, the industry and craft of other nations stimulated by their war depressed conditions will battle in the markets for the article which America alone will have, as she has now, the world's largest industry, commerce and wealth. To this end, as well as for purposes of meeting in a patriotic, constructive way the problems of the war needs the republican party's control of the national congress."

"A residence of more than thirty years in Nebraska during which I have had somewhat to do with the educational, legislative, judicial and agricultural interests, has made me familiar with the industries, resources and problems of this great state. I have studied their history and their legislation during the years I have been in the house and feel a genuine interest in them from a statewide standpoint. In serving the people while aiding, encouraging and developing their resources, with agriculture at its head, though all others are important, I shall, if elected, render unto the people the best service of which I am capable."

TRIED TO WRECK TRAIN

Hartington Herald, January 3.—Whether it was placed there maliciously by some alien enemy, or heedlessly by some mischievous school boy, the fact remains that Sheriff McFadden has in his possession a bolt which was found yesterday in the frog of the railroad track at Lange's crossing. The obstruction was serious enough to wreck a passenger train but had been on the down grade, and whoever placed it in the frog of the track committed a very grave offense, whether it was intended to be a warning against such actions in the future. Sheriff McFadden has no clue so far as to who it was that placed the obstruction on the track, but he wishes the individual to a warning against such actions in the future. He says, in his opinion, the bolt was put in the frog of the railroad track by thoughtless boys, but that the fact does not diminish the seriousness of the act. In these days, he says, boys and everybody else must remember that, in these matters, they are not dealing with an individual or a company, but with the United States government.

LICENSED WHOLESALERS

Omaha, Neb., Jan. 9.—That the Farmers' Union State Exchange may do business in foodstuffs as wholesalers, only, was the substance of a final ruling made by Gordon W. Waitles, federal and administrator for Nebraska. The union in Omaha is restrained from selling direct to the consumer, and is directed to continue to trade only as a dealer and regulations laid down by the federal food administration. Further the central body is directed to notify local Farmers' Unions that they must distribute foodstuffs according to the rules and regulations of the food administration. Mr. Waitles promulgated this ruling after he had been authorized from Washington to make a final ruling in the case. Recently Mr. Waitles shut off the supply of sugar in this organization, pending a final ruling on the same matter. The sale of sugar in 100 pound lots prompted the original ruling and precipitated this order of Mr. Waitles.

AN UNUSUAL DEAL

(Hartington Herald). A peculiar real estate transaction passed through the county clerk's office this week when a piece of land was transferred which did not exist. The alleged real estate was the northwest quarter of section 18 township 33, range 2, east, and the parties to the conveyance were Dr. E. J. Emmons of Sioux City and Frank A. Laska of the same place. The purchaser, the consideration was $18,000, and everything was all right and legal enough with the exception of one small detail that the land did not exist, having been practically all washed away by the rapacious Missouri river. Frank A. Laska is known yet just what adjustment will be made in this peculiar real estate transaction.

MERCHANTS' COUNCIL

Omaha, Jan. 9.—The war problems affecting retailers in this community are so numerous, with the call from retailers for more information from government bureaus, that additional speakers have been added to the program of the Nebraska Retailers' War Council in Omaha, January 21-23. Many retailers from western Nebraska and Dakota have written J. Frank Barr, the local manager, for programs. F. Wheeler, food administrator for Illinois, will cooperate with G. W. Waitles, food administrator for Nebraska, in an entire afternoon's discussion of food problems. Many of the county administrators of Nebraska will participate in this feature of the program and will give short local reports. The liberty loan and thrift stamp plans of the federal reserve bank will be explained by M. O. Cunningham of Omaha. Another added feature is an address by Walter W. Heath, an Omaha banker, on trade acceptance, the adoption of this plan of credit buying by retailers is urged by the government as it will increase the liquid capital of the United States by several billions annually.

COOPERATION

Omaha, Neb., Jan. 9.—Cooperation with the plans of the federal food administration for Nebraska of the soldiers stationed at Fort Omaha, and Crook was assured when Colonel Hersey, in command at Ft. Omaha, and Colonel Douglas Settle, commanding at Ft. Crook, met in conference with Administrator Waitles. The voluntary signing of pledge cards by the soldier boys; a board of officers in each camp to promulgate and carry out rules and regulations and take on food substitution to the mess men and cooks by a representative of the home economics department, were the suggestions of cooperation by the commanding officers. "Substitution of foods will be the chief line of cooperation," said the officers in a joint statement. "We will not cut the rations or make them less nutritive. It means we will systemize the methods of intelligent saving of foods which can be exported."

AUTOMOBILE INDUSTRY

Omaha, Jan. 9.—The war had no effect on the automobile business in Nebraska and surrounding states in 1917. Figures compiled by the Omaha bureau of publicity show that almost $50,000,000 worth of automobiles and accessories were distributed out of Omaha in 1917 to Nebraska, western Iowa, and the Dakotas. There is no doubt that the increased use of automobiles in this territory, together with the power and labor, particularly on the farms. "The increase of the automobile industry in this territory," says Manager Clarke G. Powell of the Omaha automobile show, February 23 to March 2, "verifies our prediction that over 3,000 dealers from Nebraska, Iowa and South Dakota will visit Omaha to see the 1918 models and lay their plans for the coming season. Only a small proportion of the automobiles distributed here last year were purchased in Omaha. That is the reason we say that Omaha auto show is not a show for Omaha, but for Nebraska and surrounding states."

"Cultivation will improve a voice but it won't create one."

Stomach Troubles.

TWICE PROVEN

If you are sick, sleepless, nervous, tired, dull days and distressing urinary disorders, don't experiment. Read this twice-told testimony. It's Wayne evidence—doubly proven.

W. H. Hogewood says: "My back was often so painful and lame I could hardly get up after sitting down. Other symptoms of kidney trouble left no doubt in my mind that my kidneys were in a badly disordered condition. I decided to try Doan's Kidney Pills and was not disappointed with the results. They relieved me almost immediately and in a short time I was cured."
(Statement given, August 4, 1910.)

On July 17, 1916, Mr. Hogewood said: "The cure Doan's Kidney Pills gave me has been permanent. My kidneys, I think, are more highly of them than ever."

Prefers Chamberlain's.

"In the course of a conversation with Chamberlain Medicine Co's representative, today, we had occasion to discuss in a general way the merits of their different preparations. At his suggestion I take pleasure in expressing my estimation of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I have a family of six children and have used this remedy in my home for years. I consider it the only cough remedy on the market as I have tried nearly all kinds."
—Earl C. Ross, Publisher Hamilton County Republican-News, Syracuse, Kan.—Adv.

Buy Stamps and Save a Soldier

Refuse to Buy Them, and Let Brave Men Die

While you are at home tonight beside the warm fire, many American boys over there in France will be out in the cold in blood-smeared trenches.

Tonight while you are in your warm, snug bed your own son or your neighbor's son "over there" may be dodging death from bomb and shrapnel.

The boys in the trenches have loaned their lives for you; won't you loan your money for them—loan it at 4 per cent compound interest, the highest rate the government has ever paid.

Buy U. S. War Savings Samps and you save the lives of American soldiers; refuse to buy and you let brave men die.

The government must have money now. The decision is soon to be made for or against America. Which way it will go depends upon you.

The more money loaned the government the sooner the war will end and the less American blood will be shed.

You can buy War Savings Stamps in 25-cent sizes, known as "Thrift Stamps" and $5 sizes, known as "War Savings Certificate Stamps." They are sold at the postoffice, at the banks, and at stores.

WOULD TAKE OFF TRAINS

Lincoln, Neb., Jan. 7. Alleging that there is a shortage of engine equipment and fuel, the Northwestern railroad filed application with the state railway commission for permission to take off four trains Nos. 5 and 8 between Omaha and Long Pine, and Nos. 403 and 406 between South Norfolk and Winterville. The railroad also points out that this is made necessary by war conditions.

No. 5 leaves Omaha at 2:15 p. m. and arrives at Long Pine at 11:55 p. m. No. 3 leaves Long Pine at 10:05 p. m. and reaches Omaha at 12:05 p. m.

It has been customary to reduce train service during the winter, but no action had been taken thereon up to date. The company says that Nos. 3 and 6, through trains will do local service, and freight trains will be instructed to carry passengers.

No. 403 leaves South Norfolk at 7 a. m. and reaches Winterville at 2:55 p. m. No. 206, returning, departs from Winterville at 5 a. m. and reaches South Norfolk at 12:05 p. m.

The application sets up that the traffic can all be cared for by other trains and the patrons will not be inconvenienced.

STATE EXPENSES.

Lincoln, Neb., Jan. 7.—State Auditor W. T. Smith, in his annual report, shows that 55,672 warrants were issued during 1917 for an aggregate of $116,304.66.

This is an increase of nearly a million over 1916, when 48,827 warrants were issued for an aggregate of $5,288,933.26. With an estimated population of 1,257,561, Mr. Smith shows that the cost of state government during the past year was $186 per capita.

Legislative expenditures increased to $200, the state institution improvement fund $49,844, university activities cost $258,307.64, and state aid road funds were $11,663.37. Special levies automatically increased the amount available for university and normal school activities.

General fund warrants aggregated $3,012,211.12; university, $1,690,396.25; normal schools, $166,207.49; and miscellaneous funds the remainder.

UNUSUAL YEAR FOR CROPS

Lincoln Journal, January 2: In spite of the fact that 83 per cent of the winter wheat acreage in Nebraska was killed last spring, about 30 per cent of the alfalfa and half the clover fell a victim to the severity of the winter and that the killing frost of October 7—damaged all corn crops, materials like Nebraska farmers got more than 132 million dollars more this year for what he raised than he did last year.

The figures are the result of a careful study and estimate made by representatives of the government and given out by A. E. Anderson, Nebraska field agent, who has offices at the federal building at Lincoln. Mr. Anderson makes the following summary:

"The year, 1917, from an agricultural standpoint was very unusual in many ways. The most striking factor was the loss of 83.7 per cent of the winter wheat, equivalent to 5,048,000 acres. Later it was learned that the federal banking at Lincoln, half of the crop was killed, making a total loss of 3,323,000 acres. As a result the corn acreage was increased 24.8 per cent, spring wheat 33.3 per cent, oats 33 per cent, barley 93.6 per cent, and the balance applied to other crops.

"The months of April, May and June were very favorable for small grain and for this reason, as well as the increased acreage, the total production is very large. Even winter wheat fields having one-fourth of a crop produced a fair crop.

"The cool and wet months of May and June, which were favorable for small grain, had the opposite effect on corn. Its growth was retarded by cool and wet weather and later by extreme July drought. After the rains came in August corn made unexpected progress and by the latter part of September an average crop of a fair grade of corn was promised. The killing freeze of October 7 changed the situation entirely. While 80 per cent of the corn was killed, the remainder was so damaged that it seemed as if it would never dry out. It is estimated that 20 per cent of the corn is seriously damaged, while most of the remainder will be of poor to fair grade after it is thoroughly dry."

Don't Junk Your Old Cars

Exercise judicious conservatism by having them converted into valuable and serviceable trucks. More than fifty automobiles have been dumped aside and replaced with new ones in this territory during the past two years. Why not effect an important saving by bringing such cars to the Clark machine shops and having them fixed up for trucks.

Farmers Need Trucks

Farmers need auto trucks and are going to have them. Their time is too valuable to fool along with lumber wagons, and they won't do it. Therefore, trucks will come more and more into use as indispensable to farm operations. In thus improving service, why not economize by converting a used car into a truck that will serve just as well as a new one, and then by such method save enough money to buy a new automobile.

Ask Ralph Clark to explain the proposition to you. He can show you a real saving.

G. A. R. ELECTS OFFICERS

Following Election, Resolution for Flag Display Adopted.

Casey Post No. 5, G. A. R., met last Saturday and held its annual election of officers with the following result: Robert Skiles, commander, R. P. Williams, senior vice commander, A. Lindsay, junior vice commander, A. J. Ferguson, patriotic instructor and chaplain; E. Q. Sala, officer of the day; Mr. Harmon, guard. There are now sixteen surviving members of the local G. A. R.

At the conclusion of the election, the following resolution was introduced and adopted:

Resolution.

Whereas our country is now engaged in the greatest and bloodiest war in the world's history, and whereas it is the privilege and bounden duty of every true man to not only contribute labor and money toward the relief of the suffering but in every way within their power, and on every occasion show their patriotism, and

Whereas we believe and know that a proper display of the National Emblem has a tendency to create true patriotism.

Therefore be it resolved, by Casey Post No. 5, G. A. R., that the county-commissioners of Wayne county, be and they be it so ordered, be displayed on their house grounds every day;

That the board of education be asked to have the flag raised and lowered every day in the week at the high school grounds;

That the faculty of the State Normal display the flag on each of the new buildings daily;

That the city council of the city of Wayne be asked to procure and erect a suitable flagstaff in front of the city hall and see that the flag is displayed every day;

That every patriotic church in the city of Wayne display the flag on the outside of the building, either near the main entrance, and that this display continue at least during the present war.

And be it further resolved, that in the event that any society, school or corporation feels that it would be a burden to comply with our request, that Casey Post No. 5, G. A. R. will on request procure the flag and see that it is raised and lowered every day.

Adopted this 5th day of January, 1918.

WORD FROM LLOYD FITCH

Wayne Boy Writes Home of Trip From Camp Funston to Georgia.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Fitch recently received the following letter from their son, Lloyd, who was transferred from Camp Funston, Kas., to Company S, First Mechanics Motor Regiment, Ft. Augusta, Ga. His Wayne friends will be interested in reading this letter:

Augusta, Ga., December 21, 1917.

Dear folks:

We have arrived at last at our destination and we surely had some ride. We started Tuesday and arrived here Friday. We passed through Missouri, Kentucky, Illinois, Tennessee, Mississippi and Alabama. We are now about 125 miles from the coast.

When we passed through St. Louis, Mo., and Birmingham, Ala., our company, which is made up of 250 men, paraded up and down the streets. We had sleepers all the way from St. Louis and we enjoyed the trip. I never saw any insects and was the food which was corn beef, bread and coffee. It was impossible to cook anything on the train, so it was corn beef, three times a day.

I never saw a state all the way down here that looked so good as Nebraska. There are lots of cotton fields around here and in Alabama one saw some plumes and smelters saw for the first time a wild turkey in Kentucky.

There are no mountains around here and this weather feels like to me. We wore our overcoats down here from Funston and the fellows asked us what we were going to do with them. The grass is green, but the leaves on the trees look like they had been frosted.

"I am in a company of picked men and I am proud to be one of the company."

"We will leave this camp for France before long. Our work at present is repairing aeroplane motors."

A carnival of subscription payments followed the announcement of the Herald's increase in price from $1.50 to $2 per year beginning February 1. The Herald is considered to be the best at $1.50 a year, and people are naturally pushing their subscriptions ahead in great numbers.

INTERESTING.

The following from a staff correspondent of a South Dakota paper in which it appeared was sent to a Wayne friend:

Camp Funston, Kas., Dec. 29.—A belated Christmas gift came to the Christmas committee headquarters today, a small package without name of sender or any instructions for its disposition. The postmark on the stamp was "Wayne, Neb."

A knitted helmet was in the package. As a token of gifts is completed, it was handed to a correspondent to give to anyone who needed it.

The correspondent of the camp came by a sentinel who rubbed his ears to protect them from the biting winds. A proffer, quick acceptance, and hastily the helmet was put on. His name was taken to account for the helmet to the committee. The sentinel gave it as "Theodore Mastin, Company E, One Hundred and Fourteenth Supply."

"Your home town?"

"Wayne, Nebraska," the sentinel replied.

Earl Merchant

BOY WRITES FROM FRANCE
Interesting Account of Life in French Aviation School.

In the South Bend Tribune of December 19, appears extracts from letters written from Earl Merchant, a lad of Eldredge who is with a French aviation corps and who is a nephew of Mrs. H. J. Merchant of just south of Wayne. The review of experiences being of sufficient general interest to warrant reproduction here, follows:

Interesting accounts of life in the French aviation schools are told by Donald Eldredge, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Eldredge, who left seven months ago for France. Mr. Eldredge has taken his training at the Camp d'Avord, on December 7 he was awarded his brevet. He expects to leave soon for the front. One of his test trials consisted in flying his biplane at a high altitude and on investigating he found he was without gasoline. Upon effecting a landing he discovered a French chateau where he was forced to spend several days while awaiting aid from a mechanic in writing of his experience.

"I was really enjoying the trip as far as Issoudun, when all of a sudden my motor stopped, and I looked to find the trouble. No gas! I inquired for a telephone, and no telephone. So I walked to the small town of Thizay, and still no telephone. Last night I stayed here at this chateau. There are three rooms. I am sure I heard his daughter call him the count—the mother, grandmother, and two daughters, both of whom speak perfect English without hesitation or accent. The daughters are beautiful and I imagine one is 20 and the other 21."

Victim of Carelessness.
A second letter written three days later says: "I, a victim of a careless French mechanic, of bad weather, and of a forgetful American mechanic, am writing from the same chateau about which my last letter told you. Finally, I telephoned to Camp d'Avord, but they could not spare me a mechanic to stay with me until good weather comes, but will send one with gas on the first flying day. The you see I am accepting the hospitality of these lovely French people, when I should have left them this morning. Above a window in the old chateau is carved 1694, and from the old portraits in the halls and rooms I know that I am with people of an old family. The mother speaks English, though not fluently. The grandmother is an English girl, but she is all good grandmothers, and there is an aunt who is partially paralyzed, but who comes to luncheon in a wheeled chair and apparently enjoys the conversation and jokes. Then last the marquis; he speaks no English, but his French is easily understood. He is the most typically French of them all. I have been very busy, but I am so enthusiastic over this house-child. Perhaps I shall never see any of them again, which is quite likely to happen. I have forgotten that I have been away from home seven months, in a foreign country, and leading a soldier's life. I could never repay these people for the amount of home life they have given me.

"I have been reading Dickens' 'Our Mutual Friend' and my article in French. At other times I have been writing letters to give to the captain such as to provide each pilot on brevier with a propeller case and a wireless telegraph outfit. Also, to carry a razor, a clean shirt, four handkerchiefs and a clean extra. For I have felt so dirty here. We had a fine dinner tonight, as usual, and then left to sit around the large fireplace. From all sides of the room old French cavaliers look down upon you, and too ladies whose hairdressing and fashions indicate that they must have read in some old newspaper that a party of pilgrims were sailing for America."

War is End Quickly.
In still another letter he writes: "Surely we will all be together for some time. If you should hear any real news of peace you had better cable me car fare and boat fare to get back before the big rush, and there will be a great rush to get back after peace is declared. We know nothing of the length of the war; many have figured to finish before spring."

Some idea of the tests which an aviator must pass before he is awarded his brevet is given in the following letter from Mr. Eldredge:
Has 12 Sorties.
"Meanwhile between the two trips I have been testing and working. I had 12 sorties in double command, Caudron and then four 'droits' and two 'gauches' all alone, then two serpentines and two spirals. Thus I have made 20 flights. I am expected to fly my next flight at about 2000 meters. I shall attempt 3000 meters (9000 feet). After that two small trips to Chateaux and back, 80 kilometers, then two triangles, Chateaux, Romorantin and back, and I am breveted. The above flights I shall describe."

Everything seems hard at first when you first come to do it, but when you are in the air all seems so fine and easy, and when it is over you are surprised at the ease of it all. Droit or zinec means, right or left. You rise to 100 meters and drive it at right angles to the direction of the wind and your landing, shutting off the gas as you nose her over. When you come on a bus with a class you push the manche a l'air or broomstick control to the side you want to turn. Your machine banks away—up, down, setting—and you turn a sharp corner, straight out and land on your piste. The serpentine is used to lose height in a short distance. You climb to 500 meters, dive very slightly, then make an 'adroit' or a gauche, and another 'adroit' and then make your piste. The spiral is done at 600 meters and is about the same as the adroit, but you keep the controls over until you have made one complete turn, then you are the most exciting and most interesting of them all. So now I am flying and a 'droit' or 'gauche' day of flying weather will finish me."

This afternoon the clouds were rather low so the month or finished about 100 meters. Later, however, he called for the men ready for 'triangle' and sent them off. Several in the class legged me to go back to the camp with them, but I want to finish the letter. I wrote out a little letter the monitor asked for us and I was the only one present. He told me to go to 2000 meters for 15 minutes and then come down unless the clouds became very dark or dark to come down before my time was up.

"For brevier work they give us a 1000 meter line with a few forms and overheads. I hung the registering barometer over the small windshield in front, tested the motor, and went off. I was obliged to keep the engine in sight for I had no map. The motor was a stationary, rotary type Anzani, and it went very well. At 2,000 I shut down the gas so that I would not climb, but even then I got as high as 2,200 before the time was up. I stayed over 20 minutes, flying first one way and then another, always around the ground at some places so I kept my eyes on the ground. I passed the first layer of clouds which were nothing more than mist; at 1,200 I rose above some white, soft, downy clouds that felt like rolling over in, but I avoided them for fear I might lose myself, so I looked for breaks and rose between them. When I got up I could always see the ground at some places so I kept my place by the different towns that I recognized. At the end of 20 minutes I thought I had become bored with the scenery and started down. I dove to 1,500 meters and then put on my motor for a small four days' trip at the end of which I made a spiral, a serpentine and last an 'adroit' and landed right in front of the hangars. Ben!

"I still want to go to the front for a while with the French. I should like to see the commission anyway until I get to the front, and then I hope to get it sooner that way, too. I have no fear of the American army for they are doing almost the impossible in and equipping them. But a month or so of time at the front with the French will make me far more valuable to them than if I changed now. I'm sure of that."

On account of the greatly increased cost of operation, the Herald finds it necessary, as announced last week, to raise its subscription price to $2. This will be done February 1. In the meantime subscriptions will be accepted at $1.50 per year, and a subscriber may pay as many years in advance as he wishes. Why not take a paper that not only gives you the news of your own community, but the news of every section of the county and neighboring territory? Wouldn't it be wise conservation to take one paper that will give you the news that you would not otherwise get without paying for it in any other way? Think it over. Then take advantage of the bargain opportunity at $1.50 a year, good until February 1.

TO HELP THE ARMENIANS

Wayne County to Raise Funds for the Suffering Armenians.

Rev. W. J. Shallerass, district field secretary of the Syrian and Armenian Relief society was in Wayne Sunday and helped organize Wayne county to raise funds for this work. This movement is nation-wide, and a campaign is being made to raise $300,000 in the United States for the suffering Armenians.

He has been asked to raise $200. Wayne's proportion here $200. The matter of raising this fund for the county will be taken up through committees in each of the townships. The committee elected are: President, W. H. Gillespie; vice president, W. D. Redmond; secretary, I. R. Armstrong, and treasurer, A. D. Erickson. The four sub-committees are: Carroll, Rev. R. J. ## GERMAN BORN, BUT AMERICAN

Fremont Herald: Carl Ballweg, a lumber and coal dealer at Emporia, Kas., is a native of Germany, but has lived in this country for thirty years. When Christmas time came he got out a Christmas card and sent it to every friend he knew. It is a new-style Christmas card, but it is a card, nevertheless. Here is what he had printed on the card: "I speak from the viewpoint of the foreign-born. I and millions of others like me came to this country of mine with friends. We were opposed on all America had, her free lands, her free schools, and above all, her spirit of open-hearted comradeship. The only thing, but she gave us all. We swore allegiance to her flag, her constitution and her laws. We would be recent immigrants, perjurers and curs if, in the hour of our need, we were met with her enemies and were disloyal to her cause."

MORE WORKERS NEEDED.

The United States civil service commission is issuing calls every day urging stenographers and typewriter operators to take the examinations for entering the employ of the government. Civil service examinations in those branches will be given in Nebraska in the following towns and cities: Fremont, Grand Island, Hastings, Holdrege, Lincoln, Norfolk, North Platte and Omaha. The examinations will be held in each of those places every Tuesday beginning at 8:45 o'clock a. m. For more information, letters should be addressed to the United States Civil Service Commission at any of the places named above. Full instructions will be sent free of charge.

What a National Bank Means to You

The title "National Bank" is intended to convey a certain definite and particular meaning.

It is intended that this name shall distinguish the National Bank from all other banks and set it apart as a separate and distinct institution.

The word "National" is to signify the control exercised over such a bank by the National Government, making it and its officers subject to the National Banking Laws and a compulsory member of the Federal Reserve.

It naturally follows that a National Bank is conservative and sound.

We solicit your patronage.

Patriotic Meetings.
A patriotic meeting was held in German Hall, near Emerson Sunday evening. It was called to order by Hon. H. P. Shumway, chairman of Dixon County Council of Defense who introduced Hon. Harry Keefe, vice president of the Council of Defense, as presiding officer. The audience sang "America," led by Prof. Dudley of Watthill. The first speaker was Mayor William Harm of Bloomfield, who gave a timely and forceful address. He made a dramatic and pathetic appeal to all his friends of German birth to be loyal to this country that had done so much for them. He said that there were any of them who had not been right in the past, for God's sake, to get right now, and he asked where they would be after the war if they did not line up with their adopted country now in its hour of peril.

Mr. Harm came from Germany at the age of 17, hungry and ragged, and she had to be this great country, he was willing to give it back, if necessary, to defend its liberties. At the conclusion of Mayor Harm's address W. S. Ebersole of Wakefield, sang the "Battle Hymn of the Republic," the big audience making the building ring with the chorus. At this point Chairman Keefe called Gen. Paul, a farmer of German birth to the platform. Mr. Keefe said that reports were going around that Mr. Paul had been saying things, which, if true, it became a low estimate.

Mr. Keefe said, that sometimes these reports were not true, and it was well to find out. Facing Mr. Paul, Mr. Keefe stated that this was the reason why he had been invited to this meeting. He asked Mr. Paulson if he had not said things which he should not have said, and holding in his hand a picture of the Kaiser, he asked Mr. Paulson if he did not express a preference for that picture above the American flag.

Mr. Paulson said, "What shall be done with the picture and the man said, "Burn it up." He then lit a match and burned the picture, while standing before the people who showed their approval.

It was a history-making moment. After the applause had subsided, the chairman introduced Dr. W. H. Nelson, eighth grade, Chester Hubbard, second grade.

Dr. Nelson spoke for an hour and read the oath of allegiance which they all, like himself, had taken when they came over. He emphasized each part and showed what it meant to swear by an oath to renounce the Kaiser and defend the constitution of the United States.

"Those who have taken this oath and broken it are governmental adulterers," he exclaimed. "This is America and only those who are loyal citizens can be allowed to live under its flag," said the doctor with emphasis. Both speakers gave forceful addresses which rang true to this country.

At the close of the meeting, the gentlemen from Bloomfield, that they were with them in patriotic sentiment and loyalty to Uncle Sam.

The meeting was a phenomenal success and will do a world of good in all this county. It will live in memory as the greatest patriotic assembly ever gathered within its walls. It will be remembered with a new name, "The Wilson Hall."

A Wakefield patriotic meeting was held on Monday evening and both of the above gentlemen repeated their speeches of the day before. In addition, J. J. Boucher of Omaha, spoke on the savings stamp campaign and the great help it brings to the United States in equipping our soldier boys with necessary clothing and guns. He was very witty. His appeal to help was answered with a forceful expression by the packed auditorium. He was followed by Rev. Frank Williams who delivered a powerful appeal to the audience to stand by the home guards and give them more than a flash light to guard their elevators. He spoke eloquently of the parents who made the sacrifice of their boys to act in our places as soldiers of Uncle Sam to defend our homes. It was all a great day for Wakefield. The singing led by W. S. Ebersole was inspiring and the band did itself proud with its patriotic music. John D. Haskell was chairman and Charles Oliver was stand and bearer and waved "Old Glory" at the head of the column as they marched to the platform, which was occupied by leading farmers and merchants together with Revs. Williams, Kraft, Gehcke and Bornemann.

School Notes.

J. J. Boucher, prominent Omaha attorney, made a patriotic speech before students of most of the grades of the Wakefield school in the assembly room Tuesday morning. He explained the aims of the United States in prosecuting the war against Germany, and showed the importance of sacrifice on the part of all to accomplish the righteous purpose. He encouraged the children to do their utmost in conservation and in promoting the cause of the government. He explained that for fifty years Germany had been preparing to dominate the world and showed the course the enemy government expected to follow. He was given close attention and hearty applause.

The Alamo Unit Farm Light Plant

We have lately installed in our place of business the new Alamo Unit Farm Light Plant, which we urge you to come in and inspect. Every up-to-date farmer wants a light plant of his own and we have now just what he needs. The Alamo Unit Light Plant is built by the Alamo Engine Company of Hillsdale, Mich., the oldest and most reliable firm in the country. All parts are made of the best materials, properly proportioned and fitted together, making an engine that will not only last but will withstand hard usage.

from the fact that the engine, generator and switchboard are all combined into one, thus doing away with gears and belts.

The plant is built in such a way that there is very little vibration. It may be installed by using only three bolts and may be placed on any level surface. It might even be placed on the top of four glass tumblers. A lubricating oil pump forces oil to every bearing in the engine, under a thirty-pound pressure.

Any man, woman or child may operate this engine without the least danger. It is operated by automatic stops.

The Alamo Unit Farm Light Plant derives its name "Unit"

The session of this church passed a resolution last Sunday morning advocating the omitting of all the churches of Wayne in Sunday and midweek-evening services, in the interest of fuel conservation.

Mr. H. Jones, superintendent of our Sunday school, had some new plans of a very excellent character, for the Sunday school work for 1918. It will pay you to get into line for the coming year's work. If it pays to do Sunday school work at all, it pays to do it right.

There was never a greater need for keeping the home fires burning or a greater danger of neglecting them. The common thought and activity of our people is diverted from accustomed channels and centered on war. It would be poor patriotism to let service and purpose to help men die out of our church life at this time.

It is planned, at this time, to have George Guille with us in bible conference, beginning February 10, and continuing one week. The Assembly's committee on Evangelism endorses this work. Other churches and everybody, without reference to church affiliation, are invited to take advantage of these meetings. They will be of interest to all of us.

Walk up to the bargain counter while it lasts and plank down $1.50 for the Wayne Herald for one year. The paper will serve you faithfully and abundantly. The bargain preceds February 11.

THE FIELD OF BUSINESS. Sioux City Journal. Despite the inevitable lull of the post-holiday season, the last week was a satisfactory one in the business field. It was marked by some sensitiveness of the stock market, delay of factory work in the east because of snow and coal shortage, and interesting developments with regard to the government's policy on several matters. The sentiment arising from a casting back over the year was optimistic on the whole. The general effect of the peace and war situation also was more favorable than for some weeks past.

President Wilson went to congress with his recommendations for railroad legislation, those recommendations following closely the plan outlined in his proclamation of federal control. He asked congress to guarantee earnings on the basis of earnings for the three years prior to June 30, 1917, and to provide for maintenance of the lines in at least their present condition. The bill introduced in the two houses to meet the situation will, if passed, make government control continuous not only during the war, but until congress decides to revoke it. This feature is taken to point toward possible government ownership. Under Director General McAdoo reorganization of the railroads on a national instead of a competitive basis went on. The railroad war board was dissolved. Movement of necessary freight, particularly coal, was given precedence over everything. It was indicated that a wage agreement affecting railroad employees will be reached without undue delay. Many passenger trains are to be removed. Western motive power will be taken east to relieve congestion there.

The president also laid before congress an administration measure authorizing the leasing of water power lands, with the idea of developing them as power-generating plants for the use of the army. The possibilities of this measure are captivating to the imagination.

The sugar administration announced that in a short time sugar supplies in the country will have become normal.

Preparations for collection of the new and old income taxes, affecting some 7,000,000 people were started.

Recommendations of the department of justice that suits to compel dissolution of the Harvester Trust, the shoe trust and the steel trust be postponed affected some shags favorably. The recommendation was made on account of the war, and one of its aims is to prevent new financing operations in competition with the government, as would be required in case of dissolution of the big companies. Peace rumors caused some shags to get out of the market this week, but later the news of Russian trouble exerted the contrary influence. International bonds gained. Liberty 4s sold for from 97.26 to 96.86 and the 4s from 98.80 to 98.50. Time loans brought 5 1/2 and 6 per cent. Call money tended to be easy, the range for the week being between 2 1/2 and 5 1/2 per cent.

Peace reports, the weather and transportation conditions caused fluctuations in grains. January corn was at its maximum for the week at $1.27, and No. 2 white oats touched 33 1/2 cents. The top cash price for corn was $1.00 for No. 3 yellow. It was announced that 2,500,000 tons of Argentine wheat for the allies are to be handled mostly through American mills.

Exports for 1917 exceeded $6,000,000,000, setting a record. Wholesale and retail trade for the year also was reported to have measured up satisfactorily with the preceding year.

COLONEL OF FOURTH.

Lincoln Journal—January 2.—Col. Phil L. Hall, jr., of Lincoln, formerly in command of the Sixth infantry, Nebraska national guard, has been assigned to command the old Fourth Nebraska, now the 127th United States heavy artillery at Deming, N. M. His assignment came to Colonel Hall on New Year's day. Governor Neville received the following message from Colonel Hall Tuesday forenoon:

"Assigned in command of 127th field artillery, heavy. Best wishes for a happy New Year.—Hall."

This message indicates that Col. Phil L. Hall, jr., of Omaha, who was in command of the old Fourth Nebraska, is relieved of his command and is succeeded by Colonel Hall. Until official orders from Deming are made, public nothing will be known as to whether Colonel Baehr is to be assigned to other duty or remain unassigned or will leave the federal service. Colonel Hall's assignment is supposed to be permanent.

The cause of the change of colonels is not disclosed, but it is known that a federal inspector recently during considerable time to an inquiry into the qualifications of officers of regiments and other units of Camp Cook, where the old Fourth and Fifth Nebraska regiments are stationed. Colonel Herbert J. Paul is colonel of the Fifth Nebraska. Colonel Hall was in command of the Sixth Nebraska, but his regiment was split up and merged with other troops when it reached Camp Cook. Since that time Colonel Hall has been unassigned, being without a command, or was on special assignments, such as the sale of Liberty bonds in officers' and other units. It had been rumored that Colonel Hall had fitted himself for service in France and had taken the overseas examination. It had also been rumored that he might be sent to France to take practical training and be returned to the United States to complete the training of soldiers in American camps. He is now assigned to command the old Fourth Nebraska and as a result will lead that regiment when it is sent to France.

Colonel Baehr of Omaha was the colonel of the old Fourth Nebraska for several years, his commission in that position dating from May 10, 1902. After the Fourth and Fifth returned home from the Mexican border Col. George A. Eberly, commanding the Fourth, resigned and Lieutenant Colonel Baehr was made colonel, a position he has occupied up to this time.

If women knew how people admired them when they speak well of their husbands they would do it often.
