Randolph Times: Oats prices continue to be the wonder of farmers. Henry V. Meyer brought in $56, and the experience of other farmers is similar. No one would look upon with more favor than they have for years in this vicinity. It is only a couple of years or so back that some of our farmers almost quit raising oats as a poor paying proposition.

Appraisers have been appointed by the governor to fix values on lots which are wanted by the Wayne State Normal in its plan to extend its campus, but which could not be bought at figures deemed justifiable. As soon as arrangements have been made and the district court directs, the property can be taken possession of by the state, as the Herald learns. Any future litigation will not interfere with progress of the improvement.

Randolph Times: The seed corn question is one that farmers are looking over now and the opinion is that good seed is scarce right now and will be scarcer as the season nears planting time. There is some old corn in the country here and there, and some careful farmers always keep on hand extra seed corn for just such an emergency. We read in an Iowa paper where a big field of new seed corn was bought in large quantities of old corn that would grow, and this they proposed to prepare and advertise for seed at a big profit.

Those who have braved the elements to see "The Cinderella Man" in which Mae Marsh appeared in the leading role, at the Crystal last Thursday night, were well repaid. Once inside the theater with the remotest corners well heated, none thought of the cold weather. Mae Marsh was at her best in "The Cinderella Man," and proved thoroughly pleasing. It is a fact well noting that photoplays put on at the Crystal are not mere one-star productions. Every character is represented by a performer well adapted to his or her part.

OFFICER AT HARTINGTON. Sidney L. Taylor, representing the United States Internal Revenue office, was in Hartington last week advising people in regard to the new tax law. Of his services at Hartington, the Herald of that place reports:

"Sidney L. Taylor of Omaha, an United States Internal Revenue Inspector, or he is commonly known, the tax income man, is at the court house this week, answering the questions of all who call upon him in regard to the income tax proposition. Up to this morning, about 1,100 men had called for information regarding their incomes, and of this number 800 or more had entered their names for blanks as being eligible to the war-income tax. The blanks, which should have been here before, are now on the press at Washington, and will be sent out immediately. They may be secured when they come at the banks or postoffice, and then, all that remains is for the individual, whose income requires it, to fill the blank out, and send it to Omaha. The tax payers have until March first to do this, and the government would like to have the remittance sent along with the report although that is not compulsory. "Mr. Taylor held his conference upstairs in the court house, and at almost any hour of the day he could be found there this week surrounded several deep by men anxious to find out something about the income tax proposition. Most of these inquirers were farmers, but there were also a number of business men among them. "The income man tax is very polite and obliging in answering the numerous questions which are asked of him, and his mastery of handling of the subject shows that he understands his business. Although but a young man, he is an expert."

Why Buick Valve-in-Head is Best Type of Motor

It directs all the power downward, against the piston-head. It has no valve pockets. It has less water-jacketed space than any other type of motor. It clears itself quickly and completely of dead gases after each power stroke. It is the most efficient and powerful of gasoline motors.

EACH Buick is built according to this formula: Sturdy mechanical construction with no unnecessary weight, safety, comfort, convenience, appearance—all very important features to look for in the purchase of a car.

If there is a better car than the Buick, it is a Chandler. Come in and let us show you.

The Alamo Unit Farm Light Plant

We have lately installed in our place of business the new Alamo Unit Farm Light Plant, which we urge you to come in and inspect. Every up-to-date farmer wants a light plant of his own and we have now just what he needs. The Alamo Unit Light Plant is built by the Alamo Engine Company of Hillsdale, Mich., the oldest and most reliable firm in the country. All parts are made of the best materials, properly proportioned and fitted together, making an engine that will not only last but will withstand hard usage.

from the fact that the engine, generator and switchboard are all combined into one, thus doing away with gears and belts.

The plant is built in such a way that there is very little vibration. It may be installed by using only three bolts and may be placed on any level surface. It might even be placed on the top of four glass tumblers. A lubricating oil pump forces oil to every bearing in the engine, under a thirty-pound pressure.

Any man, woman or child may operate this engine without the least danger. It is operated by automatic stops.

Come in and let us demonstrate this new farm lighting system.

The Poet Philosopher

MEN OF PEACE

In times of peace I am so mild they say I'm harmless as a child. It grieves me sore to swat a fly, to make a tree or chigger die, to trace all forms of life and strife, all quarrels which disfigure life, and I would walk nine miles, I snow, before I'd figure in a row. And nearly all the men I know were much the same, three years ago. We sat around the sunset tree and talked of straps across the sea, as folks will talk of things that they don't see, far corner of the map, of some wild tumult or affray on Saturn or the Milky Way. While foreign lions were being girt, and foreign cons were being hurt, we moralized upon the sin of kickapoo up so fierce a din, and told how glad we were because our grand old eagle shielded its claws, and sat as calmly on its perch as some white dove upon a church. But since that eagle quit its dream and parred the nations with its scream, we gather in the Blue Front store, and talk of war forevermore. Oh, how we'd make our babes whine, if not bungled up with rheumatism! Oh, how we'd fly the Prussian hides, but for the stitches in our sides! It's rather funny, is it not, that we old gays should talk such rot, and just to wallow in our crimes—but that's the spirit of the times.

SNOWY WEATHER

The snow is deep, where'er we walk, and there is ice beneath; and now and then I fall a block, which sprains my ankles, and my back, and bars my wooden teeth. The snow is spitting down the ice some two feet deep or more; and, though the children yell with glee, it doesn't make a bit with me; in fact, it makes me sore. For snow brings that all larking licks which plague the human frame, inaugurates rheumatic thrills, and makes a man invest in pills, and loose the druggist's name. When snow he drops up to my knees, my friends all wail and wip; they talk of nothing but disease, describing all the maladies that have them on the hip. Each talks with violence—aloud of ailments that are his, of aches the worst you ever heard, so I can scarce get in a word about my rheumatiz. One talks about his trifling cough; how tough it makes him feel, how he laps nostrums from a trough—and this you see, where'er I go, wif! I cannot make my spuel. One talks of tonsils on the bum, that hurt him day and night, of aching tooth and throbbing gum; then you the wipers yet to come! There is more snow in sight! The snow is good for winter wheat, and wheat will win the war; so let's forgo our automatic feet, and give three cheers for snow and sleet; that's what our lungs are for.

USELESS EXPENSE

Before the war I used to buy all kinds of foolish traps. I like myself for whiskers dye, sombreros, spurs and chaps. Whatever I went toddling home, I packed a lot of junk, a setting bear, a face tooth comb, a Saratoga trunk. I bought whatever things appeared attractive to my gaze, including tassels for my beard, a pair of cates, a rattle, and since the war I have behaved like one whose sense is keen, and countess nickels. I have saved—which go for gasoline, I'm saving here, I'm saving there, I simply can't be beat; I'm saving on the things I wear, and on the things I eat. My garments used to make a noise like money, they threw away, but now I'm wearing corduroys of brinded brown and gray. Cigars of high imported grade alone for me had charms, but now I'm smoking stogie made on Kansas cabbage farms. And thus the coin I'm salting down, by working helpful wires; when I've a hunch I go to town and buy some rubber tires. We've lived in luxury so long, it's hard to break away; but if your grit is good and strong, you'll find the road, I say. Quit buying busts of Charles E. Hughes, to jolly fill a shelf; quit hiring men to shine your shoes, and do the job yourself. Quit spending coin for useless trash; tin hats and teddy bears; then you will always have the cash for motor car repairs.

MISPLACED PREACHING

I met a soldier from the trenches one day, when full of tripe; he filled the air with noxious stench with his old brier pipe. I always am severely moral, so virtuous I shine; with every form of vice, I quarrel, till it takes in its sign. "Oh, man at war," I cried, with fervor, "those that'd pipe away! Tobacco is the great sinners'—it kills, it haunts a day. Tobacco sets your nerves a-quiver, it's full of nicotine; it forms a spavin on your liver, and turns your whiskers gray. No man who's truly self respecting will make the ladies choke, or go along the street ejecting a cloud of filthy smoke! The soldier handed out a trifle of language rich and red, and then he snote me with his rifle, and sat upon my head. "The men who fight, you old fat shaker," he said, while I cowered there, "find peace and comfort in tobacco—it saves them from despair. The man who spends ten long hours croaking the coarse, unpolished for looks forward to his hour of smoking; when evening whistles blow. He crawls out from the mud and water where he has crouched all day; retiring from the scene of slaughter, he'd smoke his grief away. And when he lights his trusty brier, some moralist up and says, 'He needs a solace lighter than you pipes and noxious fumes.' Go forth and fight against the Germans, in rain and mud and snow; and then perhaps your little sermons, some charity will know."

MILITARY TRAINING

Bill Tomah Tinkle worked for me before the army got him, and such a slouchy you was he. I often yearned to swat him—He walked with an ungainly stoop, he chattered, and he snuffed, and didn't seem to care a whoop whose minds were sorely ruffled. When in repose he seemed to slump, as though his joints were ailing; he had to lean against a pump, a building or a railing. And when he went away to drill, I said, "Will be a pity, if they have many men like Bill down there now." But how stout this fellow seemed of gabbling nerves, swabbed and double-jointed, will look in France. Heek twenty cents—Haik will be disappointed! I saw this lad the other day, and he was slick and sassy. Hardly knew the blooming jay, he was so clean and classy. Erect, alert, well-groomed and slim, he walked with spring and vigor, as though his legs belonged to him, and not to some lay figure. The army took this redden gear, and made him into a fine, old warrior. The first of the nation scene—it beats the band all hollow! The army has magicians' beads! It takes the knock-kneed sinner, the man who is all neck and feet, and makes of him a winner.

BILL'S PROPHECY

It was away last winter the German ruler said in substance to the printers, "We'll paint the ocean red! With unrestricted sinking of every thing that floats, we'll end the war. I'm thinking, and get the Allied goats. Two months is all we're needing, of action in the seas, and you'll see Britain pleading for mercy, on her knees! Oh, England, you'd better take in your ancient sign! Gee-which and donnerwetter, the seas will soon be mine!" And Bill's long sullying, like a sixteen-year-old, "What is old England missing?" he asks of the crown prince. "We've sent ships to the bottom as fast as they could scow, yet Britishers don't seem to care a whoop! I said, in the beginning, I needed sixty days, a triumph to be winning, with laurel wreaths and champagne's hit the ceiling! Excuse those old times, it's no use—see England kneeling in less than sixty years." "Oh, sire," the prince begs answer, while tears flow in a flood. "It seems our name is France or perhaps it's Hohen-Mud. In spite of all our slaying, no prize the struggle yields; oh, that we two were mixing, down in the pretzel fields! Old England still goes boasting, her flag is in the breeze, her bulwarks still are floating, she's mistress of the seas."

A LEAGUE OF NATIONS.

By Dr. J. T. House.

Between the first Punic War and the second, it is said that a certain Roman senator always closed every speech on whatever subject with the words: "I am also convinced that Carthage must be destroyed." Let me begin each paper with the words: "German militarism must be crushed." I am now prepared to discuss my subject, "A League of Nations."

The subject is timely for, within the past few days, it has been mentioned both by Lloyd George and by President Wilson as a condition precedent to peace. It will be for the American people to realize how unsubstantial is any dream of peace that does not create machinery to stabilize international relations.

Both our president and the British premier name the sanctity of treaties as a sine qua non of peace. No more scraps of paper. The word of a nation must be sacred. Exactly—but how shall this be accomplished save we put behind every treaty a league of nations whose duty it shall be to make it good? If this be not done what shall prevent other violations of treaties? Repudiation of treaty obligations is no new thing. It is as old as the hills. If conditions be not altered, it will happen again. Nations are not before long some nation believing itself strong enough to do so will violate its pledged word. To fight for the sanctity of treaties is folly unless we are going to organize the world so as to enforce the fulfillment of treaty obligations.

Again, both spokesmen declare that we fight for the right of self-determination by all peoples and of small peoples to self-government. Belgium, Poland, the Balkans, Persia, Africa, Armenia, Arabia, the colonial dependencies are all to have self-direction? How? Surely by a league of nations committed to the principle that no world belongs to the people? How long, for instance, will an independent Poland retain its independence without a league of nations ever ready to protect it? What chance would Armenia have if left to defend its own autonomy? As well ask how long the lamb will lie outside the hungry lion when placed in the cage with the king of beasts.

Our leaders ask also for disarmament to the point necessary for domestic safety, in other words, the abolition of armies. How can this be assured save by a league of nations? Russia is in its early stage of an unique experiment in government, one of vast importance to human development. It may well be that the country of Tolstoy will, in the next century, accomplish more for the well-being of humanity than has any other by any other modern nation. A nation of peasants seeks now to establish justice and peace within its borders in ways yet untried in human history. How tremendous are the interests involved! Yet this experiment is foredoomed unless Russia be protected in her endeavors. President Wilson has done well, indeed, in making appeal for this suffering people and his patience and far-sightedness may even retain Russia among the allies.

Thus, as we consider each item, we find that without the capstone of a league of nations the whole program falls. Force must be mobilized for peace, but it must be force directed by international aims.

I believe we now enter upon an era of vast experiment in living. Imagination may not picture the possibilities for good that lie just beyond this time of horror and desolation. But the hope of successful experiment rests upon the possibility of organizing the world for peace by means of a league of nations.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Chace left Wayne Saturday morning for California to spend the balance of the winter.

MAZOLA

The Food Administration does not ask you to stop frying foods—only to use vegetable oils in the place of butter, lard and suet.

If the housewife had been asked to reduce the use of these products a few years ago we would have been forced to give up many of the delicious sautéed and fried dishes for which America is famous.

Today high prices of animal fats and the necessity for conservation do not worry the housewife—because she knows that she has Mazola, the pure oil from American corn, to depend on—in deep frying, sautéing and shortening.

In Mazola she has found the ideal cooking medium—it reaches cooking heat long before it smokes.

Mazola can be used over and over again as it does not transmit taste or odor from one food to another, even in the case of fish or onions—a great force for economy.

Also it makes exceptionally delicious salad dressings—there is no need to fear the rising prices or uncertain supply of olive oils.

Mazola is sold in pint, quart, half-gallon and gallon tins (the large sizes are most economical). Get a can from your grocer and ask him for a copy of the free Mazola Book of Recipes—or write us direct.

"My Country 'Tis of Thee, Sweet Land of Liberty."

I pledge allegiance to my flag and to the Republic for which it stands, one Nation, indivisible, with Liberty and Justice to all.

Nature invested so little in some people that not a great deal is expected from them.

Press dispatches Tuesday said the initiatives were being control in Germany. We supposed they were already very much in control there.

Extension of religious freedom with less materialism in religious worship, ought to be one of the benefits evolved from the present world chaos.—Less emphasis on lip service and more on heart service is the encouraging promise of a quickening of the world's thought.

Another contribution in the series touching different phases of the war, from the office of Dr. H. H. Hous, will be found in today's Herald. It was crowded out of last week's paper with several columns of other matter. The articles by Dr. Hous are scholarly, and are read by many who are interested.

It looks as though it ought to be made plain to the Prussian autocracy that no peace short of the abdication of the kaiser and his group of imperialistic war lords and the institution of a government by the people of Germany will be considered. The task of the war is too great to consider any compromise that might menace the future peace of the world. An eye judge by the words of the president and preparations going forward to meet the test that nothing less than complete extermination of the Prussian dynasty is expected.

THE GOLDEN RULE.

In the great humanitarian struggle for free governments and free peoples, there should consistently be, among compatriots working shoulder to shoulder for a common cause, "neither approach to actual practice of the golden rule. And we believe the world, prompted by the necessity of self sacrifice and unselfish service, is more and more responding to the great principle set forth in the scriptures.

One example of patriotic and unselfish service is the assistance rendered by attorneys, teachers, preachers and others to registrants in answering questionnaires in the course of the government's classification. Many hours have been and are being devoted to this great work without compensation, and with no other idea than to help the government and the registrants. This worthy public service is one among many constantly and cheerfully given by men and women, boys and girls. Such devotion to public needs tends to bring together bonds of sympathy and fellowship, and exalts above mere money grabbing and personal ambitions. This service without selfish considerations, breathes the spirit of the golden rule, and augurs well for a higher and nobler social condition.

In this big job of securing and exciting human freedom, everybody must make sacrifice and do his full part, and harmony as well as courage should mark different and manifold tasks. The one who does the least is apt to be the one who offers the most criticism and objection. The one who makes the most noise, finding fault with the way things are done or seeking to pick flaws in the service or loyalty of others, may unwittingly do serious injustice, and prove an obstacle in the great movement for unity and efficiency. People burdened with service are not likely to have the time or inclination to engage in unnecessary fault-finding. If one does himself dealing mainly in complaints, he is very probably not carrying his share of the load, and ought to get busy. Increased activity and closer touch will magnify virtues and minimize faults.

In the great crucible of the war the American nation will be united and strengthened. The national spirit will be stimulated, and the social fabric will be more closely threaded with the spirit of the brotherhood of man. This promise to be one of the compensations of the titanic struggle.

THE EARLY DAYS IN TWO COUNTIES.

From the Wayne Herald, January 18, 1900:
 W. B. Stambaugh, south of Wayne, suffered a stroke of paralysis.
 Mrs. A. E. Tucker and daughter, Maude, entertained a party of ladies.
 A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. George Peters—January 10, 1900.
 The Wayne brick yards manufactured 1,500,000 bricks during the past year.
 The Baptist ladies served a chicken supper at the home of Mrs. J. W. Bartlett.
 Mrs. Henry Kellogg and son, George, left for a visit with relatives in Wisconsin.
 C. O. Fisher rented twenty-five acres of land south of the Logan for dairy purposes.
 Mrs. A. Grothart, died at her home in Wayne January 12, 1900, after a lingering illness.
 Charles Reynolds fell down the stairs in Miller & Sou's grocery and severed an artery in his left cheek.
 At a meeting at the Presbyterian church Miss Charlotte White, conly superintendent, was presented with a handsome set of furs by admiring friends.

 Lambert Roe and R. C. Osborn arranged to attend the meeting of the State Fireman's association as representatives of the Wayne fire department.
 The non-resident attorneys who attended district court in Wayne were: Judge Barnes, M. C. Hazen and D. J. Koeningstein of Norfolk; H. H. H. of Lansing; J. W. Sisman of Winslow; J. H. Brown of Wakefield, and H. F. Barnhart.

From Ponca Journal, January 17, 1917:
 Large quantities of wheat and rye were brought in this week. Yesterday the buyers were paying 75 cents for bushel for wheat, and for hogs $2.60 per cwt. live and $3 dressed.
 No grasshoppers were laid in Nebraska, Minnesota, Iowa, Dakota, Kansas, nor indeed in any of the western states or territories. At least, so say those who have been investigating. The future looks bright. If the west is no more to be afflicted by the hopper, there will be nothing to prevent abundant harvests in the future.
 The New Riders held forth in this town at Slough & Mikessell's hall on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings. A portion of the entertainment was of some kind and it was exceedingly stale, thin and flat. The hall was crowded both nights, (especially the first) thus showing that a good concert or theatrical company should be engaged, although they would be sure of a large attendance. As to the performance of this company, the music of their songs was doubted, all that could be desired, of that kind anyhow. (We are no judge, however, as we never heard anything like it before, and probably never shall hear it again, which as in itself would your petitioner will ever pay, etc.) There was one actor who did up his parts in first class style. The dancing was very good—the only thing that heaped that the platform whereon the dancers' feet (or feet) were displayed, was too small, which when they danced and pranced about, caused it to shake like a fever and ague patient, and reminded one of a diminutive baggage floor whereon Saratoga trunks and square box stoves had engaged in a jangle dance. In fact the dancing was a display of some of the most wonderful feats (or feet, perchance) of the age. This was the head before the entertainment was really frigate, as also was the orchestra during the performance. On the whole, the troupe did very well. They went to Dakota City from here and will perform there this evening. It is to be hoped that Father Magin will take care of them.

$8.00 for a 5c Sack of "Bull" Durham in France!
 Writing to a San Francisco paper, Francis Joffite tells how badly our soldier boys in France need tobacco: "One boy pulled out a half-used sack of Bull Durham and caressed it. His companion informed me that they had paid as high as 40 francs ($2) for a sack of Bull Durham."

Don't Waste Another Day.
 When you are worried by backache, lameness and urinary disorders—
 Don't experiment with an untried remedy.
 Follow Dr. Wray's people's example. Use Doan's Kidney Pills. Here's Wayne's testimony.
 "Verify it if you wish."
 Mrs. H. H. Kellough: "I was subject to frequent attacks of kidney trouble. I found Doan's Kidney Pills, which I got at Folber's Pharmacy, to be just what I needed at those times, and they always went away. I had suffered from nagging pains in my back and found it difficult to move around or lift because of the pain being caused. I would feel depressed and nervous, too. Doan's Kidney Pills always gave me great relief. I don't hesitate to endorse them. Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy; get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Kellough had. Foster-McClellan Co., Mfgs., Buffalo, N. Y."

Soon Over His Cold.

Everyone speaks well of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I have used it. Mrs. George Lewis, Pittsfield, N. Y., has this to say regarding it: "Last winter my little boy, five years of age, was sick with a cold for two or three weeks. I doctored him and used various cough medicines but nothing did him any good until I began using Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. He then improved rapidly and in a few days was over his cold."
Stomach Troubles.
 "If you have trouble with your stomach you should try Chamberlain's Tablets. So many have been restored to health by the use of these tablets and their cost is only 25c, that it is worth while to give them a trial."

WILL HAVE COUNTY AGENT

Pierce, Neb., Jan. 15.—The Pierce County Council of Defense, at a meeting Saturday morning decided to cooperate with the government in its effort to establish a county agent in every county of the state. A number of Pierce business men have promised the Council that an office, a stenographer, and other necessary equipment will be furnished to help the agent. Within the next two weeks an agent of the U. S. department of agriculture will be here to conduct meetings in every part of Pierce county. He will be assisted by a big line of speakers, all of whom will point out the urgent needs of the nation in an agricultural way.
Some few years ago Spencer Butterfield and other prominent agriculturists tried to interest the farmers in forming a county agent, but the time was not ripe for the movement. Now, however, the government has lent its influence to the plan and millions of dollars will be spent in organizing the work.

WAYNE MAN INTERESTED

Philip H. Kohl Joins Fred Volpp and E. R. Gurney in Big Deal.
Omaha, Neb., January 12.—A syndicate headed by Fred Volpp of Scribner, Phil H. Kohl of Wayne and E. R. Gurney of Fremont has purchased an option on the Lion Bonding and Surety company of Omaha. The Lion company began business in 1907 with a capital of $50,000. The officers and stockholders were practically all Omaha men. The company's progress was rapid and now its assets total more than $600,000 and it does an extensive business in all casual lines throughout the middle west.
It is said the Omaha firm handles three-fourths of all the fidelity business of this section in Iowa and Nebraska.

Henry Haubens is president of the Lion company. E. H. Lukarik, vice president, C. W. Shaffer, secretary. On the board of directors are Henry Haubens, E. H. Lukarik, J. A. L. Johnson, Henry Rohlf, Henry Keating and J. M. Hays.

Contemplated retirement of several of the stockholders is said to have resulted in the buying company to consider sale. Negotiations it is reported, were under way with a Kansas company when the Nebraska syndicate obtained the option.

AMERICAN LEGIONERS

Carried—Own—Flag—In—Secret to—War.

Few people know that in the famous American Legion of the Canadian Army, every man carried an American flag over his heart. When an American, eager to enter the big fight for liberty, went up to Canada to enlist he was first sworn by a Canadian soldier and then his commanding officer presented him with a small American flag, which was pinned inside his tunic.
"I'll carry this to Berlin or bust," was what many a man said.
"This in fact became the slogan of the famous 97th Battalion, which is written the plot of "For the Freedom of the World," Ira M. Lowry's motion picture spectacle to be seen at the Crystal theater soon.

Those who see the film will have portrayed for them the romance of a young American who enlisted in the Canadian Army, won the commission and also the love of a beautiful Canadian girl before going over-seas. Their adventures, their wanderings and their own wonderful sacrifice form the basis for a war story more thrilling than anything which has yet been done.
Made with the cooperation of both the Canadian government and the United States military authorities, the film has in it many thousands of regular soldiers and a series of battle scenes which in their realism have never been surpassed. The story was written by Captain Edwin Bower Hesser of the American Legion.

What About the Floors?

No incubator concern mentions the floor. Yet it is as important to an incubator and its heat as the floor of the dwelling house is to its comfort and economy of heating. The Old Trusty has a metal covered bottom; and is the only incubator, we know of, that has a metal covered bottom. The floor under the tray is matched and grooved California Redwood. Over this is asbestos and an extra layer of lining, a composition paper and then the metal outside covering. It is this kind of construction, throughout, which makes the Old Trusty Incubator so successful in the hands of the average user.

Buy War Savings Stamps or Pay Taxes--Which?

The government must have billions of dollars to win the war. Money can only be secured by the government through taxation or through the sale of government securities.
You can be taxed and never get your money back or you can buy War Savings Stamps and get it back with interest. Which plan you choose is up to you.
If the American people do not buy War Savings Stamps the government must use the only alternative. Taxation is easier for the government than floating loans and if the people are slow in subscribing to loans they will be taxed.
War Savings Stamps are sold in 25-cent sizes ("Thrift Stamps") for children and $5 sizes ("War Savings Certificate Stamps") for grown-ups.
With the first 25-cent stamp you are given a card with room for fifteen more stamps. These stamps do not bear interest, but when the card is full it can be traded in on a $5 stamp that does.
With the first $5 stamp bought you get a certificate card with spaces for twenty stamps of this size.
The $5 stamps draw 4 per cent interest compounded quarterly. This is equivalent to about 4 1/2 per cent, and is the highest interest rate ever paid by the government.

Lieutenant Whitfield was born and reared in Peru, and this has been his home nearly all his life, he being the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry H. Whitfield. ## FRED L. BLAIR

Wayne's Leading Clothier

From among her many lovers the fancy of This is engaged by Paphnatus, a wealthy young man who is noted for his learning.

The young philosopher at once falls in love with the beauty, whereupon a jealous rival plans his death. Just as he is emerging from the house of This, this rival sets upon him, but, in self-defence, Paphnatus kills him.

Although violent deaths are common in the Alexandria of that day, and there is no likelihood of Paphnatus being punished by the authorities, his Christian precepts tell him that murder is a heinous sin; and completely overcome with remorse at what he has done, he gives away all his worldly goods and becomes a monk with a group of other men doing voluntary penance off in the desert.

Then, when he has become celebrated for his holiness, he conceives the idea of converting This because it would have a tremendous effect on people everywhere in the great cause, by saving the soul of the most notorious figure in the city of Alexandria.

The outcome of this situation is one of the most thrilling portions of the film.

This will be shown at the Crystal Theatre on Thursday afternoon, January 24.

They live in a Welch community. All are farmers and are members of the union. The sextet gave its closing concert Thursday evening.

Buy War-Savings Stamps or Pay Taxes--Which?

The government must have billions of dollars to win the war.

Money can only be secured by the government through taxation or through the sale of government securities.

You can be taxed and never get your money back or you can buy War Savings Stamps and get it back with interest. Which plan you choose is up to you.

If the American people do not buy War Savings Stamps the government must use the only alternative. Taxation is easier for the government than floating loans and if the people are slow in subscribing to loans they will be taxed.

War Savings Stamps are sold in 25-cent sizes ("Thrift Stamps") for children and $5 sizes ("War Savings Certificate Stamps") for grown-ups.

With the first 25-cent stamp you are given a card with room for fifteen more stamps. These stamps do not bear interest, but when the card is full it can be traded in on a $5 stamp that does.

With the first $5 stamp bought you get a certificate card with spaces for twenty stamps of this size.

The $5 stamps draw 4 per cent interest compounded quarterly. This is equivalent to about 4 1/2 per cent, and is the highest interest rate ever paid by the government.

ANNIVERSARY OF STORM

Thirty Years Ago Big Blizzard Swept Nebraska Prairies.

Saturday, January 12, was the thirtieth anniversary of the notorious blizzard that descended unexpectedly on the middle west and caused suffering, injury and often death, and last Saturday's weather which pushed the mercury well toward the bulb, was a striking reminder of the event. The anniversary was appropriately observed by keeping up warm fires and bundling up well when venturing into the outer elements. People observed the occasion by staying indoors as much as possible.

The broken prairies of the early days were frequented by blizzards. In the sixties and seventies and early eighties no winter passed without a few able-bodied blizzards. When a blizzard started it usually lasted three days. If it fell short of such duration it lost standing in society and didn't get first-page position in New York newspapers. During a three-day siege, which usually gave enough warning to enable settlers to gather together their households and look out somewhat for the comfort of their live stock, business was quite suspended, and the main occupation in invariably poorly built dwellings was to keep from freezing. Train service was almost as irregular as it has been during cold snaps the past few winters. But the blizzard of January 12, 1888, digressed from plans followed by previous storms. It fired no signals, and came wholly unannounced, disregarding all precedents and well established rules. The morning of January 12, 1888, dawned clear, and throughout the forenoon and until after dinner the elements were mild and breathed no signs of evil intention. Teachers and pupils were in school and others were about their usual employments in the afternoon when suddenly clouds gathered and the wind wheeled to the northwest and turned on highest speed. Soon snow began falling thick and fast, and it was carried along at a terrific rate by the biting gale. Teachers looked out of school house windows with feelings of uneasy apprehension. Mothers and fathers viewed the raging elements in painful anxiety over the safety of their children.

As night drew near there was no let-up in the storm. In most towns, teachers and parents managed after severe struggle, to get the pupils to their homes. In rural schools, the condition was more serious. Some teachers tied their children together to battle the elements in reaching nearest farm houses. Others decided to stay in school houses all night, often compelled to burn furniture to keep warm. A number of teachers and children perished in the storm. Others were permanently injured by freezing. Many immortalized their names by heroic endeavors.

The next morning the wind had subsided and the sky was clear. The blizzard violated precedent by coming without warning and lasting only three days. None since has equalled it in ferocity. None before or since equalled it in spreading distress and fatalities. It is believed the protection afforded by groves which have sprung up everywhere is a safeguard against the old-time blizzard.

DISCONTINUES GERMAN.

Randolph, Neb., Jan. 18.—The teaching of German in St. John's German Lutheran church parochial and private schools has been stopped at the request of the county council of directors. It was also thought best that the gospel message be preached in the language of this country as best conforming to American spirit and interest.

The congregation accepted the situation and the German school closed and the preaching will be in English. They will, however, use the German hymnals and sing their songs of praise to God for the great fund in which they live in the German tongue.

The new order will not interfere with the major part of the congregation in hearing the gospel, for nearly all of them can understand the language of the country of which they are now citizens. A few of the older members may not be able to do this and to them the pastor will make calls and expound the scriptures at their homes.

St. Francis parochial school of this city has given up the teaching of the German language of its own choice. From this time on no German will be taught there. The voluntary action of the sisters of this school is meeting with much favorable comment. German has been taught in this school as a part of the regular course, but is now discontinued.

AMERICA'S ATTITUDE.

"We do not wish in any way to impair or to rearrange the Austrian-Hungarian Empire. It is no affair of ours what they do with their own life, either industrially or politically. We do not have the desire to dictate to them in any way. We only desire to see that their affairs are left in their own hands, in all matters, great or small."

"We shall hope to secure for the people of the Balkan Peninsula and the Turkish Empire the power and right to make their own lives safe, their own fortunes secure against oppression or injustice and from the dictation of foreign courts or parties."

"And our attitude with regard to Germany herself is of a like kind. We intend no wrong against the German Empire, no interference with her internal affairs. We are in fact fighting for her people's emancipation from fear along with our own—from the fear as well as from the fact of unjust attack by foreign or civil powers of the better world empire. No one is threatening the existence or independence of the peaceful enterprise of the German Empire." (From the President's Message of Dec. 4.)

MEET TO ORGANIZE.

Brown of Grand Island, Supt. R. R. DeLoe of York City and Prof. O. H. Sutton of Kearney. Prof. Sutton was elected secretary.

MILK QUENCHES FIRE.

Osmond, Neb., Jan. 14.—When the Degree of Honor lodge met in the noonday hotel at the usual hour Saturday afternoon an overheated stove caused the wall of the building to catch fire. Had it not been for the presence of mind and quick action of one of the members who extinguished the fire with a bucket of milk, a serious fire might have resulted. As it was Postmaster Scott got his share of the milk, being busily engaged at his desk in the room below.

USE OF YELLOW PAINT.

Plainview, Neb., Jan. 14.—Two places of business are painting their lawns Sunday night, the northman and Goos, general store, and the Republican Weekly. It looks as though a gallon or two of paint had been thrown over the windows.

At thirty a man is not old but has begun to be old-fashioned.

wheat exports were 39 per cent greater last year than in 1916; wheat flour exports increased in the year 30 per cent; all bread-stuffs showed an average increase of 39 per cent; copper exports were 60 per cent greater last year than the previous year. Iron and steel exports increased 46 per cent; meat and dairy products, 47 per cent; Chemicals, 16 per cent; coal exports, 43 per cent; cotton goods exports averaged a 16 per cent increase; mineral oils increased 10 per cent. There are others among the large items showing the increased volume of trade this country enjoyed and the general prosperity that attends such increase. On the other side decreases, most of them advantageous items, as follows: There was a decrease in failures in 1917 over 1916 of 20 per cent and a decrease in the liabilities of failures of 5 per cent; 41 per cent less foreign securities were sold here last year over the year previous; There were 30 per cent less new securities issued in 1917; the stock market decreased 20 per cent in its volume of business in 1917, a business that is largely speculative. Building expenditures in the country were 28 per cent less last year than the previous year, this item indicating a conservative business, attributable to both the higher costs of material and also the general feeling of economizing. Alien immigrants arriving in this country in 1917, were 55 per cent less than the number of aliens arriving in 1916. These are some of the leading items from which the percentage of finance and industry in the United States for 1917. Certainly they indicate in their tenor and nature, increased activities along these lines, indicative of larger employment and an all around increase in business advancement and prosperity.

Obituary. (Continued.) Gertrude Dorn King was born on October 15, 1864 in Broadhead, Wis., and passed into the beyond on January 10, 1918, at her home in Wakefield, Neb., at the age of 53 years and 3 months. When quite a child she moved with her parents to the C. P. Pa., where they resided until she was 16 years of age, when they went to live in Chicago. Here she was united in marriage, a few years later, to the Rev. S. H. King, who was a member of the Red Cross in a theological seminary. They were married on April 10, 1886, when Mrs. King was 21 years of age, and went immediately to their first church at Fisher, Minn. From that time, for thirty-two years, she was identified with all the ministerial life of her husband, and it would not be surprising to say that Mrs. King has been as much interested in the ministry of the living word and as energetic therein, and in all the benevolent work of the Red Cross, as he has been. From Alaska they went to Iowa, where the sons, who had to come the time being divided between the towns of Seymour and Perry. Then followed nine happy years' work in the Red Cross, and in 1911 they went to Harrington, Wash. In the April of 1916 they came to Wakefield, and in no other place have they been more successful or more happy in their life.

With their own people and with the people of the community in general. In all branches of the activities of the Red Cross, Mrs. King has been identified. Mrs. King has ever been most energetic, a most successful Sunday school teacher, regretting to give up this work on account of her illness. She has rendered capable help in connection with the Aid society, and was, indeed, if anything that was going,

Only a moment of dark. A dream of the fleeting night. And then the beautiful break-of-day. And the quiet peace of light. And you found yourself where you longed to stand. In the repose of the Fatherland.

Right in the thick of the prohibition in Nebraska, and that was Mrs. King composed a rousing cantation song, "Nehraska's Going Dry," which was sung throughout the campaign, and which did much to rouse to enthusiasm the great crowds which gathered in meetings for the winning of votes.

The service of funeral service, which had been planned for Sunday morning at 10:30 was postponed until half past two in the afternoon, in the hope that the sons, who had to come right through the storm devastated region of the middle west, might possibly be on the forenoon train getting to the city of Chicago.

This time they will start from Chicago that they had got thus far and be unable to come any further as yet. Mrs. King had been so ill that she had been unable to be out of her bed. The service will be

"Your Figure Is Greatly Improved"

That's the result your friends will be quick to note when you wear a NEMO CORSET. You, however, will be more strongly impressed with the wonderful improvement in your health!

Every Nemo, even the one selected for figure-improvement alone, has hygienic features that are invaluable. The Nemo "bridge" construction, for instance, characterizes all Nemo Corsets. This is an original method of balancing the corset, so that the top of the corset has a tendency to spring away from the body, giving freedom for deep breathing. It also causes the corset to fit snugly over the abdomen, insuring and erect, graceful carriage.

In addition to the Nemo "bridge" the model shown, No. 216, has elastic inserts in the bust, which add to its ease and comfort. Long, flexible skirt; girder top. Designed for slender figures. In pink or white, coutil, size 22 to 28. Exceptionally low in price $2.50

Owing to their patented health features—for which you pay nothing extra—and to their unusual durability, Nemo Corsets are the greatest obtainable corset values.

THE FIELD OF BUSINESS. impossible to prevent suffering of city populations, compelled a slow cessation which brought about a complete stop of manufacture in even some of the most essential war industries. The acute railway congestion and short-ages of fuel in many parts of the country were the dominating factors in a business way during the last part of the week. Even government decisions tend to be ignored under stress of the storm situation. Extreme cold, with considerable snow and ice in some sections, made it work on one day out of the week.

might speedily be required of even contractors engaged on war contracts. No ready relief from the fuel shortage, occasioned by inability to distribute supplies, was seen by the administrators.

Except for the depressing effect of this condition, a tendency of business to revive in many lines that had been inactive during the autumn adjustment season was noted. Security values were somewhat sluggish, reacting variously to the war aims address of President Wilson to peace rumors, to disappointing returns covering railroad earnings, and to the lack of fuel for the steel and iron industries. French bonds were strong, but a slump in Russian paper developed on rumors that repudiation was contemplated. Liberty 3 1/2 per cent bonds ranged between 108.28 and 108.60. First 4 1/2 converted 3 1/2 sold at 98.78 to 97.84 and the second 4 1/2 at from 96.80 to a new minimum of 96.26. Time loans ranged between 5 1/2 and 6 per cent and call money between 2 1/2 and 5 per cent. Peace talk had some effect on grains, but transportation problems mainly controlled. January corn was highest for the week at $1.27 3/8. No. 3 white wheat sold at a top of $1.77. No. 2 white oats brought a maximum of .83. Snow in the white wheat belt materially improved the prospects of that crop.

Probability that a government license system will be applied to all issues of private securities, in order to prevent competition for investment money, was one of the most interesting developments of the week. A bill to provide necessary authority for such measures or other measures of the same purpose was stated to be in preparation. Definite discouragement of all state, county and municipal improvements expenditures, as well as similar expenditures for private enterprise, apparently is to be applied. For instance cities will be expected to refuse building permits except on showing that the work contemplated is essential.

Director General McAdoo's advisory board was reported to be ready to urge taking over of the country's express lines along with the railroads. All organized railroad employees it became known, are to ask wage increases, the ground for the raise being the need to pay more money in order to hold the men from going into other industries offering higher inducements.

The problem of providing labor for agriculture, shipbuilding and war contract work was taken up with the establishment of a separate federal employment service under the secretary of labor, which will cooperate with other agencies throughout the country and coordinate their work. Up to 30 per cent of the output of all flour mills will be bought by the government and used as a reserve, after supplying the needs of the American and allied forces. Coal exports during 1918 are to be limited. The binder twine supply will be controlled. Mark L. Requa was appointed head of the new division of the fuel administration. The senate passed the Walsh-Pitman bill authorizing leasing of oil and mineral reserves for private development. The government's request for shelving of suits against the shoe machinery, harvester and steel trusts was granted by the supreme court except in the shoe machinery case.

Railroad net earnings for November in the east, west and south fell below the figure for the corresponding month in 1916, and the total for the first eleven months of the year for ninety-eight lines included in the interstate commerce commission's report showed a drop from $639,000,000 to $618,000,000. The oil output for 1917 set a new high record with 349,800,000 barrels, but the consumption considerably exceeded that amount.

Compulsory observance of wheatless days at public eating places was pointed to as an early possibility, and the food administrator explained that augmented supplies of wheat and meats must be provided for the allies.
