Homer Seace testifies strongly in support of the benefits of sleeping porches, and says he regretted being compelled to vacate his fresh air apartment for a brief time recently at the suggestion of thirty-below-zero weather. He says at first he yielded reluctantly to the all-year plan of outdoor sleeping, but when he got into the habit, he found more refreshing rest-and-less sleep required. He found he could put more pep and zest into his work. He recommends it as a cure for inertia and other disordered or unnatural conditions.

PHOTOPLAY TRIUMPHANT

"Civilization" Held Audiences at Crystal Awed and Amazed.

People thronged the Crystal theater Monday and Tuesday nights to see the wonderful photoplay creation, "Civilization," and as they sat out at the close of two hours of exciting and bewildering scenes they gave expression to exclamations of astonishment and appreciation. The pictures made them think and think profoundly and seriously. "The best I ever saw," often were the first words that broke the silence.

The orchestra brought from Sioux City by Manager M. B. Nielson at great cost was of the highest order, and enlivened the scenes and furnished the interest. A voice with the orchestra sang appropriately and impressively. Mr. Nielson deserves and receives the grateful appreciation of Wayne and vicinity for furnishing such a high class entertainment with the highly essential music to go with it.

Of "Civilization" a noted critic has said this:

"You have heard them all say that there never would be another 'The Birth of a Nation.' Doubtless there never will be—just as there never will be another 'Secret Service' in the melodrama that talks out loud. But this does not mean that Mr. Griffith exhausted the possibilities of the photoplay when he was through. Thomas H. Ince followed the lead.

The title is an irony. The purpose is undubiously high. An emperor sends his people to war. Of all his agents the most powerful is a young officer, who has invented a deadly submarine. This young officer hears the message of the Mothers of Men, and sooner than torpedo a passenger vessel he opens the sea valves of his craft and dies with her. Into his body enters the spirit of Jesus Christ, and the man-othello spirit walks among mankind until peace has been brought.

"Certainly it is a sermon. But it is pictured in fire and blood. There is no escape from its utter drama. It rushes you on and on, breathless for the sequel. It takes you miles away from the theater right into a theater. A whole vast country is the stage—fields, roads, villages and cities, the sea and down in the depths of the sea, and far into the air above in biplane and gas ships."

SEE MYSTERIOUS LIGHT.

Norfolk News, January 21: Have you seen the balloon?

A number of Norfolk people declare they have and that it is not a star, either.

"It is a mysterious object, which has caused considerable comment among those who have seen it, is high up in the western sky shortly after dark and descends rapidly along about 8 o'clock.

"It is a balloon at Fort Robinson and they are trying to signal Fort Omaha. One man could distinguish the code signals and the Western Union got a telegram asking them to take a look to see how it appeared at this distance," said one man who is greatly interested in the object.

However, a dispatch received by the News through the Associated Press says Col. Hersey at Fort Omaha says there's "nothing to it" and the man who recognized the code signal" said that he noticed a flickering that might possibly be taken for a code signal. "The Western Union has received no such a message and so the mystery deepens.

A mathematical shark is trying to figure this problem-out. If a mountain two miles high can be seen about seventy-five miles, how high would a balloon at Fort Robinson have to be to be seen at Omaha, which is 200 miles away.

An amateur astronomer points out that, according to the almanac, Venus is the evening star now and he is not certain "in" question as to about where the "balloon" has been seen.

However, some of those who have seen the mysterious figure declare it is too large to be a star. So there you are.

The Heating Plant

The most important feature in any incubator is the heating system. Improper construction means cold corners or half-baked eggs in the middle of the machine.

The Old-Trusty's heating system is built on practical, as well as scientific principles. The hot water pipes are all pure copper. The hot water pipe-passes directly from the heat generator to the opposite side of the machine, and thence entirely around the outside of the case, back to the heat generator." By this method of heating, there are no cold corners and no hot spots. Every part of the machine is heated perfectly. That is why they produce such uniformly good results; because all there is to hatching eggs is a proper distribution of heat.

The church council decided to use the English language in the Sunday school in compliance with a resolution of the state council of deacons. THE FIELD OF BUSINESS. Sioux City Journal. The session of the legislature, week was the government order affecting the twenty-eight states east of the Mississippi river requiring nearly all business operations to stop for a period of five days, beginning Friday, so the railroads could clear their lines and relieve the acute fuel shortage in many parts of the West. Supplementing the five-day period of idleness, factories, and other calls in general will be required to observe as a holiday each of the ten days beginning today. This holiday observance will be mandatory upon saloons, all stores except those selling food and drugs, office buildings and amusements. Theaters, however, will observe each Tuesday instead of each Monday. The immediate effect of the order was to throw out of employment millions of workers and to further delay industry in its effort to catch up with orders. However, after a spasmodic protest of great violence in various sections of the territory, which produced in the senate a vote asking that the government delay its measure, excitement died down. Many exceptions from the working of the decree were made in favor of plants working on government contracts and other essential industries. The government requested employers to pay workers during the period of idleness, and some degree of compliance was indicated. Ship building operations were variously affected and to further delay industry in its effort to catch up with orders. However, after a spasmodic protest of great violence in various sections of the territory, which produced in the senate a vote asking that the government delay its measure, excitement died down. Many exceptions from the working of the decree were made in favor of plants working on government contracts and other essential industries. The government requested employers to pay workers during the period of idleness, and some degree of compliance was indicated. Ship building operations were variously affected and to further delay industry in its effort to catch up with orders.

Significant of second thought with regard to the order and the necessity for it was the fact that security values suffered little. The week in the stock market ended with features. The money market also was without startling developments. Secretary McAdoo announced the issuance of war certificates totaling $400,000,000 as the first step in flotation of the third Liberty loan. The certificates are payable April 22, indicating that the bond sale will be held probably in March. Liberty bonds of the 34 per cent issue sold at from 97.70 to 98.46; first 48 at from 97.58 to 96.80, and second 48 at from a maximum of 96.60 and a new minimum of 96.08. The price of wheat advanced, but grain prices started early in the week, but some bearish impulse developed later. January corn was high for the week at 1.27-58. The top price for No. 2 white oats was 83. Bills which will give the president power to enforce wheatless and meatless days and other food conservation measures were introduced in both houses. The federal licensing system for dealers in foodstuffs was ordered extended February 15 to various additional lines, including vegetable canners, dealers in salt and salt water fisherman. Secretary Wilson appointed an advisory council consisting of six men and one woman to assist him in his special functions as practically a minister of labor during the war. A railroad wage board was named by Director General McAdoo, who also announced the division of the country into three operating zones for railroads and appointed representatives to direct operation in each zone. The director general told congress that the government may voluntarily relinquish control of certain short lines not needed in the emergency. Daniel Willard, head of the war industries board, resigned. Chairman Hurley of the shipping board made public his plan to enlist a volunteer reserve army of 250,000 men for shipbuilding purposes. The supreme court ruled that the interstate commerce commission exceeded its authority in ordering the substitution of a rate "not to exceed" 24 cents a mile (the interstate rate) for the 2-cent railway passenger rate established in Illinois by the Illinois general assembly. Most lines of business throughout the country were hard hit by freezes and extreme temperatures. There was apparently no discouragement, however, and the expectation seemed to be that with a clearing up of railroad congestion and coming of more favorable weather conditions will be satisfactory.

BUSINESS SUSPENDED. New York, Jan. 21. - Almost deserted streets in the downtown business section and shipping districts gave evidence today that industrial New York generally observed the first of the "heatless Mondays" decreed by the national fuel administration. Sky scraper office buildings virtually were unattended, department stores closed their doors, hundreds of factories and small business houses were idle. All transportation lines in the city and commuting service were run on holiday schedules. Food stores were open, as were specialty exempted industries, but many of them operated on a restricted basis. Theaters were allowed to remain open but they must close tomorrow. The New York stock exchange closed for business but without heat, and banks did business as usual. Saloons were privileged to open until sunset on condition that they did not use either fuel or light. Local fuel administrators even forbade the use of lamps, lanterns or candles as substitutes for gas or electricity. Collier water had a discouraging effect. The increasing ice menace in the harbor has held up hundreds of coal laden barges from tidewater.

I pledge allegiance to my flag and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation, indivisible, with Liberty and Justice to all.

Great and growing responsibilities rest on the American nation. It is not only up to this country to deliver the knock-out blow for freedom, but to urge support to its allies and feed and clothe destitute Belgians, Armenians, Syrians and others who have been made to suffer through the atrocities of the war.

AN EDITOR'S DEVOTE

Editor E. D. Stone devotes two columns of his Harrington Herald to a defense of his loyalty which he feels has been questioned, and he presents a record of patriotic sacrifices and undertakings which should draw apology from people who have had the effrontery to assail him by insinuation or otherwise.

According to his record, if Stone is not one hundred per cent loyal, we would like to know what constitutes loyalty. We would wager the majority of the people of the county would guarantee that Stone, like most people, without shouts and without red fire, is an earnest and potent devotee of the government's war policy.

THE PURPOSE OF THE WAR

To End Menacing Autocracy and Prevent Future World Wars. (By Dr. J. T. House.) Events fall thick and fast these days and he is a keen patriot who can keep the drift. To me, the wisdom of our entrance into the war to end war, the war that by the choice of our people has become a war to establish a league of nations, was never before so clear as it is today.

First, we have united the allies. President Wilson has led an increasingly other nations have fallen into the mill this country, Great Britain, France and Italy agree on the platform. Thus we fight better because we understand and can trust one another.

The simple honesty of the Russian has revealed the dishonesty of Germany. Let the allies hold on to their program of international organization and Russia may yet be saved to the alliance.

My present feeling is, very distinctly, that our policy is not only right, but practicable, that it is being pressed with consummate skill and that it is making headway.

DeLaval Cream Separator

Some of the points of superiority of the New DeLaval

Bell Speed-Indicator

No matter what anyone may tell you, there is only one speed at which you can turn a separator crank and get all the cream and cream of uniform thickness, and that's the speed indicated on the crank.

Every one of the New DeLaval has a Bell Speed-Indicator. When you slow down, the bell rings. It warns you every time the handle goes around too slowly. You can't be mistaken about it.

The New, Self-Centering DeLaval Bowl

The greatest improvement in cream separator construction in the last 30 years is found in the New Self-Centering DeLaval Bowl. The New DeLaval-concave-bottom, self-centering bowl is so designed and supported by the detached spindle that it will run true and do perfect work even after long wear, the great importance of which every cream separator user will appreciate. The gears, pinions and other moving parts of the DeLaval are exceedingly simple in arrangement, substantial in dimensions and always interchangeable. By reason of its simple construction and the fewer number of discs, the New DeLaval bowl is more easily washed and cleaned.

Automatically Oiled

All New DeLaval's are automatically oiled, every moving part of the machine being bathed in a constant film of oil. There are no oil holes anywhere in the machine, and the sight feed oil cup on the top of the frame provides for a constant supply of fresh oil. The automatic DeLaval oiling system makes the easiest cream separator to run.

IMPRESSIONS IN FRANCE

Extracts From Speech Delivered Recently by Ross L. Hammond.

Following are extracts from a speech delivered at Hartington recently by the Ross L. Hammond of Fremont. The fourteen members of our party, congressmen and newspaper men, traveled 1,500 miles by automobile along the battle front of France and Belgium, from Verdun to the sea to see how our boys are fighting. We wanted to see everything, right up to the front line trenches. And we witnessed the most colossal tragedy that human eyes have ever looked upon. Cities and villages ruined to the very dust. So completely have many of them been destroyed that a drink of water from an untested well might bring instant death for the Hun leaves a trail of death and desolation behind. The hospitals were crowded with the wrecks of human beings, the railroads were crowded with moving armies and the supplies of war. Everywhere and everything was for, or of, or about war.

Suffering uncertainty and half we have been lulled into a fancied security because of the great oceans which are on either side. But our very success of this war will prove to the world that we are no longer an isolated nation.

When we embarked the ship on which we traveled was camouflaged in a water tight manner so that the lurking submarine would have difficulty in distinguishing it from the ocean. For the first time in the eight days spent upon the sea, the sun can be seen unless the night comes. No ray of light could be seen and we crept along as noiseless as possible in the dark. The knowledge that the engine of destruction might arise from the waves and send us to the bottom. Not even the noise of the burning shells which come with the tenacious of the night rides in the darkness. And few men will ever know the great gratification we owe to the sailors and soldiers for their bravery. We Germans have an opportunity to see what the boys from Verdun can do. From here we stood over to Belgium. King Albert's county has been reduced by the cultured Germans to a territory eight by twenty miles, the size of the four townships. Yet with the 150,000 soldiers he is fighting on until victory is won.

At Belgium we went down into the first line trenches and saw how the soldiers lived. Then we began to have a clearer insight into our own duty in this great war.

It is not only officers about the stories of atrocities and was overwhelmed with the report of scenes they had actually witnessed. One day we saw a little child of children were cut off by the Huns and how the persons of others were violated. Brand Whitlock, American minister to Belgium, told how he saw 100 Belgians, old men, women, and boys and girls, mostly non-combatants, lined up against a wall and every one, absolutely defenseless, were shot down in cold blood. Also learned of German officers who compelled a mother and daughter to serve them a meal while they sat at the table and ate it. The table silver was used by these same officers in performing an operation on a woman in a delicate manner. The mother and child died.

These are not exceptional cases. They are the result of the positive orders issued by the Germans to inspire terror and desolation everywhere so that the world will quit before their approach. Germany does not deny these reports, but rather takes a pride in these occurrences. That is part of the German propaganda, to terrorize the entire world, so that they may more easily become the masters.

cut through and through; where shell craters abound, and the bleached bones of soldiers stick up through the soil. From there we went to the Rhems, founded by Remus—brother of Romulus, who founded Rome. For 700 years this beautiful city has been a joy to all the world; its cathedral attracting every lover of art and beauty. But Rheims is a pile of dust. From a city of 65,000 it has been reduced to 5,000 who are living in cellars and amid the ruin and desolation.

Then on to Verdun. Owing to the international agreement signed by Germany with all other nations Belgium was to be neutral territory, to no form of its borders. When the critical time came, however, King Albert and his little army stayed the invading huns long enough to give the French time to prepare. But Verdun is in France the first town south of the Belgium line. The battle of Gettysburg was fought for three days. But the first battle of Verdun lasted eight days. Its immensity can best be imagined when you understand that at least $100,000,000 worth of ammunition was used by the French alone in the eight days. And the battle of Verdun is still raging. Until the war Verdun was a city of 50,000. There is not a single inhabitant left. Over 200,000 allied soldiers have lost their lives on this theatre of war alone.

One of the most impressive sights to me was the cemetery where there are over 1,000 new-made graves with a white cross above each one. We stood there within the range of the German guns and could see the flash and the smoke followed by the whistling of the guns as the big shells whistled overhead. Not a bird or pennant fluttered. Not a single note of music was heard. Not a soldier was in sight. But down in the trenches two armies are matched. We witnessed a terrific bombardment and to our uninitiated eyes thought the Huns had the best of it, but learned the next day that our allies went over the top.

We next went to Vimy Ridge where the brave Canadians gave the Huns a sample of what the boys from Belgium can do. From here we went to Belgium. King Albert's county has been reduced by the cultured Germans to a territory eight by twenty miles, the size of the four townships. Yet with the 150,000 soldiers he is fighting on until victory is won.

Germany does not deny these reports, but rather takes a pride in these occurrences. That is part of the German propaganda, to terrorize the entire world, so that they may more easily become the masters.

This conflict is between two forms of government, autocracy and democracy. If you have any sympathy with the Germany of old, your place is to help in this fight for the world of military autocracy which has overwhelmed the German people. And we are today not only fighting the German war lords, but the united German people. There is not a minister who dares speak in Germany except his sermon is censored. There is not an independent newspaper that dares print the truth. Even an individual may hardly have an opinion of his own. A friend of our family in South Dakota had a sister in Germany, the mother of three little children. After the outbreak of the war she wrote to her sister here telling about conditions in Germany and criticizing the government. When the letter was received there was written across the bottom one sentence: "Your sister was shot this morning."

There are some things about an autocracy that are commendable. They compel a united country. In America liberty must no longer be taken for license and those who are unwilling to do their duties must be made to understand their obligations. There is no time for dallying. The time has arrived for action. Every community has a duty to perform and the time is now. "To be a united nation we must speak a common language. There is no reason or excuse here and now for the use of any foreign tongue. Such schools as foster this teaching must be abolished. Newspapers printed in foreign language about whose loyalty there is the slightest question, must be put out of business. This nation cannot be half American and half foreign."

Profess Chamberlain's. In the course of a conversation with Chamberlain Medicine Co's representative today, we had occasion to discuss in a general way the merits of their different preparations. At his suggestion I take pleasure in expressing my estimation of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

I have a family of six children and have used this remedy in my home for years. I consider it the only cough remedy on the market, as I have tried nearly all kinds." Earl C. Ross, Publisher Hamilton County Republican-News, Syracuse, Kan.—Adv.

If there wasn't tissue paper around it a woman didn't send it. If Americans, as a people, have any shortcomings at all, it is that they prefer to be careful rather than good for goodness sake.

"LEST YOU FORGET." The Wayne Roller Mill gives 38 pounds of Superlative Flour, "THE BEST ON THE MARKET," or 45 pounds of Graham, also "THE BEST ON THE MARKET," for each bushel of wheat. If you have no wheat we can buy it for you.

SUBSCRIPTION BARGAIN.
Six more shopping days before the advance of the Herald's subscription rate to $3 a year. A newspaper covering in news features the whole county and neighboring territory is manifestly worth more than a newspaper that devotes itself to reproduction of matter from other sources. Many new and renewal subscriptions, taking advantage of the prevailing bargain rate of $1.50 per year, and the many expressions of surprise that the justifiable increase in price has been so long delayed, in view of increased cost of production, testify to general appreciation of the scope, thoroughness, and purpose of the Herald. Until February 1 you may pay as many years in advance as you wish at the old rate of $1.50 a year. Don't delay taking advantage of the bargain opportunity.

NEW HOARDING RULE.
Omaha, Neb., Jan. 23.—The holding of any foodstuff for more than thirty days' supply by dealers, manufacturers, wholesalers, or retailers, constitutes hoarding and the purchase of more than the usual amounts by customers will likewise be so construed.
"That's the new hoarding rule announced by Governor W. W. Poynter, federal food administrator for Nebraska.
"The purchasing of greater quantities is robbing our associates in the war," said Mr. Poynter. The new ruling will be enforced to the letter and those who violate it had better consider carefully the consequences before they disregard the ruling.

GREAT FEEDING ABILITY. Omaha, Neb., Jan. 23.—Nebraska's wonderful ability to feed itself and other people is shown by Guorden W. Wattles, federal food administrator for Nebraska, in an address on "Crumbs which fall from the rich man's table."

"For every man, woman and child in Nebraska the state produced last year 700 pounds of meats, 647 pounds of lard and 112 pounds of sugar," said Mr. Wattles.

"With our wasteful habits, the average consumption of flour per person is 150 pounds annually, and sugar, 88.8 pounds annually. If we did not economize but continued these habits we would have enough left to feed flour to 2,000,000 others, meats to four and a half million others, and sugar to 257,500 others."

"But if we follow the suggestions of the food administrator and eat four pounds of flour each week, two and a half pounds of meat each week, and three pounds of sugar each month, we could save in addition the equivalent of 201,666 bushels of wheat, twenty-five million pounds of meats, and sixty-six million pounds of sugar."

"What a wonderful army we can take care of and feed, and what a wonderful tribute to the state of Nebraska."

NEW MEATLESS PROGRAM.

Omaha, Neb., Jan. 23.—A meatless day each week is a question not each day; and a porkless Saturday. That's the new program for conservation of meats, according to Guorden W. Wattles, federal food administrator for Nebraska.

"In order that we may get the necessary conservation of meats, a better distribution of this program is imperative," said Mr. Wattles. "Every householder in Nebraska, every member of every family, and every commercial, catering place should immediately adopt these suggestions and make them a part of their life which will not violate under any circumstance."

"Our associates in the war need meat—and lots of it. It's up to us to furnish it or we will win this war. If we do not furnish it, no one will."

The hotel men of the state are being advised of the new meatless program and are being urged to immediately make it effective.

The response on other officials of the government by the hotel men assures a ready cooperation in this respect.

The homes should rally to the call of the government and give serious consideration to these requests which come from necessity and not because of any desire to limit any citizen.

A TEST OF PATRIOTISM.

Lincoln Journal: America is justified in a feeling of profound satisfaction with the prompt compliance with the coal administration's orders by the industries affected. Only a few cases of non-compliance were reported, and most of these were overlooked on the ground of misunderstanding. Many manufacturers felt outraged by the order. They have been accustomed to giving orders, not to taking them.

Yea, the good soldiers of the industrial armies, they obeyed.

The effect would have been most unfortunate had a spirit of defiance and resistance been shown. The country showed no patience with craft resisters. It did not approve the action of those who tried by legal process to break down the law. It would not approve it now that the principle of the draft is applied to business, "capital" were to resist where "manhood" acquiesces.

As far as yet reported, not a single suit in opposition to Dr. Garfield's order has been attempted. American industry has bowed to the "draft," notwithstanding the latter-

When it is planned to close the theaters of New York an extra night a week to save coal, the theaters of the city employ an attorney to try to secure a modification of the order. But even in this case, apparently there is no disposition to use "force." The attorney is employed merely to convince the fuel administrator, if for no other reason than the order from the government standpoint. The order is drastic, but as Dr. Garfield remarks, war is drastic. The effort of Senator Hitchcock and the senate majority to secure a five day stay was, in the circumstances, similar to the demand of the Russian troops to hold referendums to de-

Attention

Live Stock Shipper and Farmer

Has it ever occurred to you that in shipping live stock that your most dangerous step is on the railroad?

Should You Have a Loss How Much Do You Get?

The Hartford Fire Insurance Company, by means of its complete live stock transit policy, offers you absolute protection against loss arising from the crippling, death, and, unless otherwise provided for, loss on live stock in transit from point of shipment to destination.

When you have raised, fed and fattened a carload of live stock, or when you have bought a carload worth the money, you have earned a profit through your energy, industry and ability.

So why take a chance when you can insure them at a very small premium.

With a Hartford policy you can protect it. Payment of losses is made for full market value and is made immediately, putting your business on a cash basis.

Your membership listing costs you $1.00 for a lifetime. After that you pay so much a head, shipping to Sioux City or Omaha markets. Hogs cost 9 cents a head, cattle 15 cents a head, regardless of weight.

This is absolutely the best protection you can get, and we can recommend it.

Mr. Edward I. Vogt of Omaha, special agent for the Hartford Fire Insurance Company, is here at the present time and intends to solicit the entire country. Should Mr. Vogt call on you give him an opportunity to explain his proposition thoroughly.

When in town, stop in our office and let us go over the matter with you. It will pay you.

Organization.

The county chairman was appointed about the middle of August, 1917. On October 7, the women of the county met in mass meeting at the State Normal auditorium and the other officers were elected. Precinct chairmen named, and food conservation and liberty loan committees appointed. Since that time Miss Pearl Sewell has been appointed chairman of educational propaganda.

Registration.

At registration time, September 12, 1,001 women registered in Wayne county for patriotic service. Thus letting their county, state, and national governments know what they were able and willing to do, should they be called upon for any kind of service.

Second Liberty Loan.

Two hundred fifty-four women took 332 bonds, amounting to $33,000 through the eleven banks of Wayne county.

Food Pledge Card Campaign.

One thousand two hundred eighty-six food pledge cards were signed in Wayne county. Outside of what was done in the schools, the canvass was made entirely by women.

Membership Fund Campaign.

During the membership fund drive December 10 to 15, $259.48 was subscribed throughout the county by about four hundred contributors. Wayne county's apportionment was $170.

Christmas Cards.

The Christmas post-card gotten out by the state committee was placed on sale in various stores in the towns and $23.98 was realized from its sale.

The above report tells nothing of the time and effort put into the work by the various committees and the precinct and county chairmen. One has only to read between the lines to know that there has been some sacrifice of time and energy by the loyal women of the county in order that the work might be accomplished.

Mrs. J. G. W. Lewis, Chairman Women's Committee, Wayne County Council of Defense.

Mrs. Lewis also reported for the Wayne County Red Cross the shipments made of knitted goods and hospital garments. The work done by the chaper in surgical dressings was also given mention.

NEW YEAR TROUBLES.

New Year's day I made a pledge that I would smoke no more. I began to hedge and to baffle myself with stogies. I used to smoke just now and then, before that pledge sublime, but now, while sitting in my den, I'm at it all the time. I have all kinds of weed, I wot, in boxes, cans and jars; I smoke a pipe until it's hot, and then I try cigars. In all tobacco stores, I'm classed and bought up smokers' tools; the old weed has a better taste, when smoked against the rules. All smokers sometimes the smoke and pipes and nicotine they say, "Too long we've borne the yoke of habits punk, we wenee. Tobacco is a frost and blight, from which all men should be kept. It's a trouble than delight; we'll cut it out right here." And we'll have they made their vow, and placed it in a frame, before they'd give a cave no faith in him. Ah, they have no faith in him. Ah, they're grown tired of striving, of vows too long surviving, from pledges he breaks free, and while those vows are dying, he hears the women cry, "We know how it would be!" The month of January is sad and solemn, very, it is the moon of woe; for all the world is saying, to gentls from virtue straying, "Well, well! We told you so!"

NEW YEAR MUSINGS.

The New Year is a sight to see, to people safe and sane, and I've no doubt that it will be a year of stress and strain. There'll be a thousand urgent calls for coin in socks and legs, to purchase useful cannonballs, and shells and wooden legs. Our toys will go from the store, and come from our shores they'll scoot, to paralyze those Teuton scamps, and make them cease to Teut. And over as the battles wax, and the men are the foot of being down on our shapely backs the heavier will grow. Before this brave year runs down we'll know, beyond all doubts, who are the pikers in the front, and who the dead game scouts. We can't get by on bounce and brag, in crucial times like these; a lot of bunk about the bag-woni-help-things-please-sound-and-big won't put a foe to flight; we'll have to dig, and dig, and DIG, if we would show we're white. The terms are simple, the foe is being wot down; it's either glory or disgrace for every gent in town. The year will show us if men's souls are sordid or sublime, and slackers, waded to their rotls, will have a heasty time.

AMERICANS FOR REVENUE.

Men come from every foreign land, and they are the folk who bring when they reach our well-known strand, they bear their yokes no more. They come, with us to work and live, to share our soup and grutes, enjoying all we have to give our bulwarks and our boons. They seldom have nine dollars' worth of assets when they land, but in this fairest land on earth they get the cardinal rule of come-in-and-stay with winning smile, "And make yourselves at home; take off your things and stay a while, and use our fire-wood comb." 'Tis strange that any hypheened skate can for an hour forget how he was welcomed at our gate, and made a household pet. Our house is now beset by foes, and who do all we have should long to twist the foe-man's nose, and spoil his larboard shin. Yet some there are who ate our pies, and drank our honest tea, who do not loyally arise to ply the checkerman. They do not bravely lend a hand to guard our threatened door, but stood up for the Fatherland that shipped them from its shore. I'd like to see such ingrates shipped back to their native soil, to see their friends and kindred whippin' their ruler bold in oil.

GOING TO EXTREMES.

My neighbor reads the papers daily, and he acts gloomily or gayly, according to the news; one day he's sulking in his attic, a victim of the blues. When e'er the allies meet reverses my neighbor sits around and curses, a grouchy gent. As he and wife the times make a mistake, he stands upon his head in rapture, and shrieks of victory. This sort of thing is most exhausting, and many sleepless nights it's costing the day when I wot; it's hard on an human mortal to switch around from sob to chortle, from anguish to delight. I sit in silence calm and quietly, as though the Germans, summarily, may sink a score of boats; no stories of ill luck confound me; "Some day," I say to those around me, "we'll get those fellow goats." One swallow does not make a summer, one tinsmith does not make a plumber, one scamp won't make a war; some victories the fates is rakin' and handin' two; base hits he's making—that's what

JANUARY GRIEFS.

The month of January is anything but merry, a trying time, for now we're talking straight and, chee, it bores us greatly to go the narrow way. We've cast old sins behind us, and passing hours remind us how much we miss the same; but we have made our pledges—none but a piker hedge—and we must play the game. Oh, these are wretched times—when we do not strive to cheer us, or soothe us in our woe; our downfall they're awaiting, and then we'll hear them prating, "There now! We told you so!"

A WINTER DAY.

It is a bitter, roaring day, the wind comes whopping down the road, and I would give ten cents for May, with azure sky and babbling rill. The winds each moment colder grow, that is our cry, with every howling blast, and there are symptoms none of snow; my cordwood pile is getting low; such weather is a rank disgrace. It's sad to see the furnace at the costly cost and call for more, then shed around some sickly heat, not strong enough to melt the sleet that's drifted underneath the door. It's sad to stand by the stove, and know that each expensive lump, diminishes your hard-earned roll, and puts you deeper in the hole, and brings you nearer to the dump. My scanty wages—my only means of here—here, that made me well—it's hard to see such money burned, to see one's savings hourly turned to ashes, which one cannot sell. An assipile's all I have to show for long weeks in the clanging mart; for endless journeys to and fro, for weary trips in rain and snow, and things that rend the human heart. The snow is on the ground, and every minute brings an added jar; I sit as gloomy as a king, while the girls waltz round and sing, "Brighten the corner where you are."

WAYNE NEWS

This Case Has a Hint for Many Herald Readers.

A Wayne woman has used Doan's Kidney Pills.
She has found them as represented.
"She wishes her neighbors to know she publicly recommends them. No need to look further for a tested kidney remedy.
The proof of merit is here and can be investigated.
Profit by the statement of Mrs. J. Meister. She says: "I used to have weak kidneys and I was hard-broet face, a heaving down pain in my back. When I turned in bed bent over or got up from a chair, knife-like pains made me cry out. I could get little rest and my kidneys acted too often. The trouble kept me in a run-down condition until I got Doan's Kidney Pills at the Roberts Drug Co. They gave me excellent relief and continued use entirely rid me of the trouble."
—Price 60c at all dealers.—Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Meister had. Foster-McBurrn Co., Mfgs., Buffalo, N. Y.

THE EARLY DAYS IN TWO COUNTIES.

From the Wayne Herald, January 19, 1900. Mrs. J. J. Williams entertained a party of friends at a 5 o'clock tea. K. E. Mellor was elected one of the directors of the First National bank. Mrs. Ran Frazier secured the Perin hotel which will be opened to the public February 1.

Robert Jones, the new county surveyor, returned from a visit in New York and other eastern points. Fred Jensen and Miss Carrie K. Anderson were married by the county court in Wayne January 23, 1900.

Frank Moore, a contractor in Wayne, who was seriously ill for a long time, was out visiting with old friends. Mrs. Frank Strahan entertained a host of little boys Saturday at a party given for her sons, Percy and Beverly.

The German club gave a masquerade ball. The persons winning prizes were Miss George Ellison, first; Miss Minnie Couch, second; L. Leinhecker, first and Gus Kuhl, second.

At a meeting of the Woodmen of the World at the fodge room, ten new members were initiated after which a public installation of officers was held.

Sam Hayes, the newspaper dealer, does not propose to be behind the times. Sunday morning, he left at 4 o'clock for Emerson and returned before noon with the daily papers.

From Ponca Journal, January 23, 1907. Normal schools are to be established at Hastings and Fremont, a part of the state normal school system.

The first settlement made in Dakota territory by white people was in 1839 at Vermillion, and was made by settlers from North Bend, Dixon county.

Senator Sullenberger is a member of the following senate committees: Finance, ways and means, elections, claims, public charities, and education.

Saturday night was most horribly cold, the thermometer indicating 18 degrees below zero. Sunday night, however, was just as far the other way, being in fact, uncomfortable warm. Monday was like a summer's day.

Several of the leading citizens of Dakota territory, who have been talking lately, state that it is generally conceded in that country, that within two, or at the utmost three, years, their county seat will be removed from Dakota City to Jackson.

DR. HOUSE AT BANCROFT.

Contribution to Bancroft Blade: In spite of the fact that some of the world's blizzards in years was raging last Friday evening, a number of people found their way to the gymnasium to hear Dr. J. P. House of the Wayne State Normal faculty, on "The School as an Agency of Democracy." That Dr. House gracefully consented to give his lecture under the circumstances, speaks well for the seriousness of his purpose; and when he finished his masterly discussion, his hearers agreed that they had been more than justified in having the storm.

Dr. House is not one of those lecturers who seek specious effects by playing upon prejudice and by indelicate rhetorical flourishes. With him, eloquence consists in getting important things said well; and that is a very good definition of eloquence.

We have no space to offer anything like an adequate review of the lecture, which required an hour and a half to deliver and which at every point was closely reasoned. During the first hour, the speaker was concerned with a general survey of social relations, to the end that he might arrive at a definite definition of democracy before discussing the public school as an agency of it.

Contrary to the average opinion, perhaps, he showed how democracy is concerned not so much with the matter of universal suffrage; as with the problem of making the world a fit place for the people in it, and in doing so, he did not content himself with benevolent generalities, as so many speakers and writers do, but discussed the question in a scientific manner.

It was a patriotic American speech with not one word of jingoism—which is something of an achievement just now. Everything that he said was well calculated to make better Americans, in the sense that nothing save that which is good for all mankind can, in the long run, be good for our country.

ARMY OF STENOGRAPHERS Washington, D. C., Jan. 23.—There is today in the city of Washington in active operation an army whose ranks are a little more than 100, but whose members are doing a very large bit toward winning the war for America—an army of stenographers and typists, twelve thousand strong, recruited from every state in the union. A majority of these soldiers of the notebook and typewriter are said to be in and out of their nimble fingers faithfully click out the tremendous volume of correspondence and records required by a great nation at war. They have no beds, no uniforms, their work is all work and has no thrill romance; but the United States could not stay in the war a month without them. The rapidly expanding departments of the government in Washington—employ stenographers—and typists with a speed that seems insupportable. The United States civil service commission estimates that there will be twenty thousand government employees of this class in Washington at the end of this year. Owing to the general demand the commission is finding it a difficult task to meet the calls of the departments. Examinations are held every Tuesday in 450 cities, and the commission states that an examination will be held in any city at any time, day or night, when there is prospect of assembling a class of three or four competitors. Eligibility may be obtained through passing an examination in practical tests in shorthand and typewriting. It is practicable to complete such an examination in one hour. Representatives of the civil service commission at the "priorities" in all cities, furnishing definite information to persons interested.

Soon Over His Cold. Everyone speaks well of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy after having used it. Mrs. George Lewis, Pittsfield, N. Y., has this to say, regarding it: "My water my little boy five years old, was sick with a cold for two or three weeks, I doctored him and used various cough medicines, but nothing did him much good until I began using Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. He then improved rapidly and in a few days was over his cold."—Adv.

PRESSURE ON GERMANY.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat: That Germany will have to suffer after the war from loss of trade due to the emitties it has arranged by this execusable conflict and the methods it has used in waging it is not to be doubted. The theory that friendship and business do not mix is well enough for ordinary experience, but we think it safe to say that friendship and business will operate as a team in opposition to Germany for some time at least after the war comes to an end, and this will be the case regardless of the terms of peace. There will be the feeling in all countries where the stamp "made in Germany" will not be a detriment to sale. Germany knows this; its business men know it well, even though some of them pretend to believe that the animosity of civilization is an affection and will disappear before the persuasiveness of the German business agent. They know this feeling is real and they are now racking their brains for some method of restoring German trade that will most effectually construct this mutual infuence. Germany is essentially a material nation. Its ruling autocracy wants power for power's sake, but its business elements want power for gain's sake and there is no influence that presses so closely to their hearts as that which is expressed in terms of money. They would be indifferent to our country simply as an emotion, but as a source of economic loss it becomes to them a matter of grave concern.

There is sound sense, therefore, in the proposal of the National Chamber of Commerce is laying before its members throughout the country for their acceptance or rejection, which contemplates a refusal to trade with Germany after the war unless a government is established responsive to the wishes of the German people and free from the tariffistic principles and aims of the present government. A combination of American business men for that purpose is suggested, which holds the alternative proposition—that the American people will not join in discrimination against German goods after the war if the danger of excessive armament has been removed. This would be a private movement, clearly distinguished from governmental action, though undoubtedly it would have its influence upon governmental policies. And, being private, and representing as it would the business interests of the country, it would be likely to impress the business interests of Germany more strongly than would official action, for it would show very plainly the feeling and attitude of the elements of the American people. It is a business business will have to deal, such a movement at this time should bring an economic pressure to bear upon Germany, that the German people will weaken its resistance and hasten peace.
