dropped slightly. Peace gossip had a weakening influence. Oats touched a new seasonal record at 89¢, and then, along with corn, reacted somewhat. Under government order the bakers of the country prepared to curtail their purchases of wheat flour and to turn out products containing from 5 to 20 per cent of more of other cereals or substitutes.

THE MONTH OF JANUARY.

Lincoln Journal. "On the long winter evenings" of this January the people had plenty of interesting news to read. One sensational event followed another in daily rotation. Woman suffrage won by a narrow squeak in the house, putting it up to the senate to say whether national woman suffrage is to accompany prohibition as an issue state by state. The weather alone kept the month from dullness. We counted that day pretty nearly lost to us, low descending mercury viewed from our hands less than a quarter of a ton of coal shoveled into the furnace. Eastern and central America had snow blockades added to their temperature troubles. Nebraska escaped this, but even to Nebraska January, 1918, gained an ugly eminence assuring it of long remembrance.

Our own internal doings were lively. Early in the month the president went before congress with a statement of war aims going far into details, making the most impressive and most democratic allied program yet promulgated. Meanwhile a great offensive against the administration's management of the war was carried on both in and out of congress. A statement by Secretary Baker brought the action to a pause late in the month by appearing to show that the government's war work had been on the whole well done.

Dr. Garfield gave the country one of its liveliest hours by ordering a temporary closing of factories to permit the railroads to catch up on coal shipments. Protests were many, loud and bitter, but the order was enforced.

It was one of the least interesting sional men are desired for this special branch: Horseshoers 20, saddlers 20, pharmacists 20, cooks, 40, typists or stenographers, 40, veterinary students, agricultural students, farmers, stable men, or men accustomed to handling horses, 1,860. The regular army age limit is from 18 to 40 years inclusive, who did not register, but this special branch requires men to be between the ages of 18 to 35 years inclusive, who did not register. Any information on this special branch, or any other branch of the service, which is now open, can be obtained by calling or writing the Regular Army Recruiting Station, 412 Norfolk avenue, Norfolk, Neb.

Luxury is only a temporary joy, and makes men die younger.

The Copper-Clad Cabinet Range

LOOKS BEST
COOKS BEST AND CLEANS
LIKE A DISH

The Copper-Clad is a Plain Range. It is smooth like a dish. It has no rivet and bolt heads on the nickel. It has no hinges, catches or latches on the outside. They are all inside like an automobile body.

The Copper-Clad is framed with a silvery nickel, making it the most beautiful range in the world. The chromeized iron never cracks, peels or discolors. It wipes clean like a dish.

The best thing about a Copper-Clad is that it outlasts any range, because lined with pure sheet copper where other ranges rust out. Between the sweaty asbestos and range body or outer casing is a sheet of copper that keeps the body perfectly dry and free of internal rust.

No other range has this feature. Some plate the inside linings next to the fuel, but that cannot stop the sweat. It's got to be between the asbestos and body.

If the Copper isn't between the Sweaty Asbestos and outer casing it's NOT a Copper-Clad.

I pledge allegiance to my flag and to the Republic for which it stands; one nation indivisible with Liberty and Justice to all.

Wayne people are anxious to see a company of home-guards organized...

Everything will be done to increase production in America this year in order to perform a greater part in supplying the demands of a warring world.

There always has been too much government red tape, and it is especially unfortunate during a time when things should be accomplished fast and without hindrance or delay.

Spaghetti is all puffed up over being restrained as a food product. It is unfortunate to put into spaghetti anything that could have been taken for another purpose.

Every person capable of employment should be rendering service that will help society and directly or indirectly aid in strengthening war preparations.

We submit this incident in the few leisurely days of the late Judge James Britton as evidence of the real man: A bouquet of carnations was sent to his bed by a friend.

In view of the great and constant flood of copy from different branches of the public service, seeking publicity through press columns...

The German autocracy is lying to its subjects most outrageously in order to stoke fighting and sacrifice. They are made to believe that American opposition is unimportant and that victory will soon come.

Edgar Howard in an editorial in his Columbus Telegram compares the Kaiser to Napoleon, and we believe does the latter somewhat of an injustice.

FOOD CONSERVATION NOTES

Our government tells us we must save more bread and meat, and our government knows.

We are told what to save and how to save it.

Every good citizen will cheerfully do what the government asks of him.

Each individual is either a patriot or a slacker.

Which are you?

The dealer or consumer who evades the government's rules is a slacker.

The consumer who buys the "substitutes" because he has to and then feeds them to the stock or stacks them in the pantry so he can buy more white flour is a slacker.

The consumer who is content in order to save that for which they are substituted.

If any one knows of a dealer or a consumer who is violating the government's rules and doesn't report it, he too is a slacker.

Some one tells me "These rules work hardship. Did you ever know a man that didn't do week-hardship?"

Do you want our allies and our soldiers and sailors to endure all the hardship? This is your war.

Another says, "The government will put us out of business. We can't make any profits." How about our boys who gave up business, profession and farm to fight our enemy and to give their lives if need be?

Do you think they are dreaming of material profits? Make winning the war your chief business, and congratulate yourself if you can "break even" in business while our boys are fighting.

Be willing to sacrifice. Save food. What we can save in Wayne county may win the war.

Be a patriot.

Food will win the war.—J. H. Kemp, Federal Food Administrator for Wayne County, Nebraska.

NON-PARTISAN LEAGUE

Criticized as Out of Accord by State Council of Defense.

Lincoln, Neb., Feb. 4.—The program of the National Non-Partisan League, was severely criticized by the Nebraska State Council of Defense in a letter by the council to O. S. Evans, state manager and secretary of the league, in response to Mr. Evans' letter offering the services of the league to the state council of defense.

The state council's letter is as follows: Lincoln, Neb., Feb. 1.—Mr. O. S. Evans, State Manager and Secretary, National Non-Partisan League, Lincoln, Neb.

Dear Sir: The Nebraska State Council of Defense has received your letter of recent date offering the services of the National Non-Partisan League in the work which the State Council is carrying on in Nebraska. In reply we beg leave to say that the State Council would be glad to accept the aid and cooperation of all organizations and individuals who are working in harmony with the government's purpose and understand that the winning of the war is the paramount duty of the day.

In this connection we desire to call your attention to the fact that some of the literature your organization is circulating in Nebraska is not in harmony with the concerted effort now being made by Americans of all political parties and of all classes of occupation in support of the great enterprise in which our country is now engaged.

Believes Members Patriotic.

"We recognize the patriotism of most of the men who have joined your organization in Nebraska. We feel assured, however, that these men have not carefully read and analyzed your 'War Program and Statement of Principles,' which so long as it remains in its present form will give hinder patriotic effort in Nebraska.

"We respectfully call your attention to the booklet now being generally circulated by your organization throughout Nebraska, and entitled 'War Program and Statement of Principles.'

"On page 21 of that booklet you say: 'The league took a decided stand upon the war question, and you will find in this pamphlet the league resolutions on the war and the statement of the first league congressman elected from the First North-Dakota district at a special election on July 10th, 1917. Read these carefully and you will see that the league takes a sound stand on the war questions.' For the reason that we feel that the league has not taken a sound stand on these questions, we call your attention to some of the things which we regard as untimely and wholly out of place.

"In the first and second paragraphs of the 'Resolutions on the War' by the National Non-Partisan League, you declare the league's loyalty and say that it stands unreservedly pledged to safeguard and defend and preserve our country. You immediately follow this by the declaration: 'We stand for our country right or wrong, as against foreign governments with whom we are actually engaged in war. Still we hold that when we believe our country wrong, we should endeavor to set her right.' Here is the question mark that has no place at this time in American literature, and which does in the light of the pure purpose of our country great injustice to its cause.

"In the fourth paragraph you declare that you are opposed to seceding for annexation and you have permitted this paragraph to stand in the face of the fact that over and over again it has been made clear that this is not a war for secession.

Divides On Class Lines. "You have permitted to stand the fifth paragraph wherein you plead for a policy that will be in harmony with and supporting the new era of democracy in her declaration of these fundamental principles. It must be clear to every thinking man that organizations which tend to divide the people of America upon class lines will sooner or later bring America to the very unhappy condition in which the new democracy of Russia finds itself today.

"In the sixth paragraph you say: 'The secret agreements of kings, presidents and other rulers, made broken or left without a knowledge of the people constitute a continual menace to peaceful relations. You have no authority for intimating, as you plainly do here, that the president of our country is party to any secret agreements.

"In the eleventh paragraph you charge the United States government, intentionally with an attempt to muzzle the public press and individuals, and you say: 'A declaration of war does not repeal the constitution of the United States and the unwarranted interference of military and other authorities with the rights of individuals must cease.' There has been no attempt on the part of the government to muzzle the press or individuals, nor has there been unwarranted interference of military or other authorities with the rights of individuals. Our public officials have been patient to a marked degree with the attacks upon our country's cause and that of our allies by publications plainly in sympathy with the Kaiser and his individuals who are doing the Kaiser's work, some knowingly and some unconsciously.

Rival Group of Monopolists.

"In the twelfth paragraph you say that this war is largely a convulsive effort on the part of adroit rulers of warring nations for control of a constantly diminishing market. Rival groups of monopolists are playing a deadly game for commercial supremacy. That is a plain denial of the truth uttered by our president when he said that this is a war to make the world safe for democracy. It is an unwarranted attack upon the high purposes and humane efforts of our country. It has no place in the literature of any organization that counts among its members patriotic men or expects to have its professions of entire loyalty accepted at face value.

"As a part of your decided stand upon the war question you refer to the statement of principles by John M. Baer, the congressman elected from North Dakota by the National Non-Partisan League, on print in this statement as a part of your war program and statement of principles.

"Throughout Mr. Baer's statement of principles you find 'ifs' and 'ands' and 'buts.' While professing devotion to our country's cause, Mr. Baer, in the second paragraph says: 'Patriotism, however, cannot be stirred in a war for destruction of German autocracy in Europe if it is begun by the suppression of democracy in America. Such a statement, with the inference which it carries, is wholly unjustifiable and has no place in American literature, particularly at this time.

"In the third paragraph of his statement Mr. Baer complains that 'now there is no one to defend the lives of the men of the nation and that without first securing their consent.' It has never been necessary for an American president or an American congress to first secure the consent of the American people in an effort to uphold the honor and preserve the life of the nation.

Like German Propaganda. "In the fourth paragraph Mr. Baer says: 'The president says the German people are as peace loving as ourselves, and that we are denied in the pursuit of peace. Then why the millions of American men hood sacrificed upon the bloody field of war? Is it not because no means have yet been devised for bringing to agreement these two peace-loving people. I believe it is possible these two peace-loving people could and would agree to peace terms if their governments led the way by defining terms that would serve as a basis for negotiations. This statement by Mr. Baer was made after the president had delivered his message without victors' mes-

The paragraph just quoted amounts to an arrangement of our country and an effort to raise, in spirit and purpose, the German government to the high level taken by the American government. which the American people have been suffering.

"In the sixth paragraph Mr. Baer says: 'While we are fighting to destroy German imperialism, shall we fight to support English imperialism?' Obviously, as a result of the war, England holds in Africa a million square miles of territory. After an imperial council had been held between the British and colonial governments of the British empire, the premier stated to the world that Great Britain would not relinquish its hold upon this territory. This, too, is, inferentially, an unjust criticism of our own government, as though its purpose in this war is to uphold and support imperialism in any quarter. Again, we do not mean to say that this is German propaganda. We do say that it is identical in terms with the German propaganda with which the American people are now quite familiar.

"In the seventh paragraph, Mr. Baer says: 'Why should the United States aid England or any other country in their imperialistic designs?' Adding, 'If the German people and government are now willing to settle this war on the basis of the demands of our government we should no longer continue to war. We cannot know that we are not sending our young, strong capable men to die in the trenches, not for democracy but for imperialism unless the things for which they fight are explicitly specified.' Here again we find the unjust inference and language which have no place in American literature at this time.

"In the fourteenth paragraph Mr. Baer says: 'In waging this war it will we bear in mind that any cause which will not stand the light of truth cannot and should not prevail.' Here again we have another unjust inference, another question mark, another form of language in literature which has no place in American literature.

No Demands on Germany.
"Permit us to call your attention to the fact that while in your war program and statement of principles you make many demands upon our associates in this war across the seas; you make no reference to Germany. One who reads your 'War Program and Statement of Principles' might readily infer that Germany is a greatly abused nation, not at all responsible for this terrible war and ready and anxious for peace if only the American government would consent to peace. The fact that you make so many demands upon the allies and no demands upon Germany may explain the reports we receive that many men of known pro-German leanings have been very much interested in your organization and are very conspicuous in its meetings. It is true that you count among your membership a very large number of thoroughly patriotic men, but we cannot believe that they have thoroughly read and analyzed your 'War Program and Statement of Principles.'

"We feel sure that it will be clear to every patriotic American that such literature as this in Nebraska at this time, and we respectfully protest against its circulation."

"Organized efforts to divide Americans, separating men in the country from men in the towns, when they should be united in one common purpose is a distinct embarrassment to our government. We have the pitiful tragedy of Russia with the consequent damage it has done to the cause for which we are fighting as a startling object lesson along this line. 'An' the tragedy of Russia, lies not in that she deposed the czar, but that agitators in the pay of the German government in conjunction with the extreme nationalist-socialists among the Russians instituted a propaganda under cover of their new found freedom which deceived the people with promises of wealth and ideal social conditions so that the overthrow of the provisional government was effected. The result is that the people have ceased to fight, the wheels of the factories are still, and Russia, the land of undreamed of possibilities, lies prostrate and helpless today.

"It seems that the great reverse in Italy was due not so much to the superiority of the Austro-German arms as to the fact that the socialist group in Italy always encouraged by the pro-German elements in their population, were allowing themselves to be diverted from the defense of their country into quarrels among themselves. The result is that Italy lost in a few weeks all that she had gained in two years of heroic fighting and more besides.

May Cause National Tragedy.

"It remains for the people of America to determine whether the tragedy of Russia and Italy shall become the tragedy of this country as well. Well-meaning but misguided Americans may do the country quite as much harm at this time as the paid agents of the German government. Any agitation among the people at this crucial time becomes dangerous. We ought to be aware that we have German agents in our midst, and in places where we least expect them, who are quick to take advantage of any opening that will assist the cause of their imperial master. Social and political agitation provides the most fertile fields for their operations in this country.

"Reports we have received concerning the work of some of the organizers of the National Non-partisan league, taken in connection with its literature, are not reassuring from the American standpoint. Some of the private conversations of these organizers are not of the character that should be indulged in by thorough-going Americans at this time. Some of them seem to be much more interested in the success of the socialist party than they do in the triumph of the American cause.

"There is only one slogan for Americans at this moment and that is: 'Win the War.'

The Winside boys, however, were not so fortunate as the Wakefield boys beat them 24 to 26. This accounts for the unusual cheerfulness among the girls this week. The Wayne high school boys are expected here to play the Winside boys next Friday night. The girls' team has made no plans for a future game.

WAYNE PEOPLE UNITE IN PATRIOTIC MEETING

Chief Address of Evening Given by Prof. J. G. W. Lewis of Wayne.

Wayne people united in attending patriotic services in the Presbyterian church, Sunday evening, Feb. 4. J. A. Hahn, president of the Public Service club, presided and spoke briefly. He explained that it patriotic to be patriotic and that it is not only a duty but a privilege to help them who help us. Appropriate songs were given including solos by Prof. J. J. Coleman and Prof. M. S. Davis. Prof. Lewis spoke in part and its substance as follows:

"This meeting is the outgrowth of a feeling on the part of a number of our citizens that the people generally should be thinking about the meaning of the present great world crisis. Our government is sending out tons of reading material to our people to read and we believe that we may as well have the inspiration to be derived from a knowledge that we have the right side in one of the greatest crises in all history."

This is Not Merely a War: It is a Revolution.

"It will assist us in our thinking to realize first of all that the great world conflict is not a mere matter of international affairs. It is one of those great world struggles in which the common people rise up and take into their own hands functions which have heretofore been the prerogatives of a high privileged class. Other somewhat similar revolutions have been called by various names, such as the Reformation, the French Revolution, the American Revolution. In all these cases we find a privileged class which becomes blind to actual conditions and persists in showing us the wrong side of the blow to atoms, which fact is one of the consolations to be derived from the news despatches of the last few weeks."

"It matters that we realize the revolutionary character of the struggle for revolutions must be dealt with differently from the way we deal with temporary or incident disorders. The chief claim of President Wilson to a place among the world's great statesmen is that he has exercised the patience and forbearance of a saint."

"The revolution was precipitated by the central powers because they were the farthest backward of all the world in their progress to bring us to the next proposition in our thinking, namely, that this is a revolution in behalf of international cooperation. This means that the people are taking into their own hands the matter of international relations. This was badly needed, whether we regard the wiles of diplomacy of even recent years or whether we regard the system of international anarchy in which the nations of the world have been living up to the present time."

"The nations have held the torch to all nations, large and small, have equal rights to independence and justice. But at the same time we have admitted the right of any nation to make war on its own initiative and its own judgment, which makes it possible for the strong nation to override the weaker and take away territory or even the independence of that nation. We have been living in the state of international anarchy analogous to that of the frontier community where each man goes around and judges his own case and executes his own judgments. It is possible that many a good man has hung from telegraph poles in a western frontier simply because the vigilance committee was too small, because it did not represent the whole community or the commonwealth."

"In recent years the nations have been trying to find their way out of international anarchy. They have been holding Hague conferences, making treaties of arbitration, trying to establish international law and creating a community of nations."

"And it is just in this matter that Germany will be found to have been the greatest sinner. This is Germany's greatest sin: that she has steadfastly refused to recognize the community of nations. She has been slow to flatterly refuses to treat with the labor union. She has been the laggard among the great powers in the matter of international law and organization. True she has wanted peace, but on a basis which is no longer capable of sustaining peace, i. e. peace upon the guarantee of separate, individual nations. Her present program is to when to make war. This attitude of Germany stands out all through her acts of recent years. She has insisted upon treating as local questions things that have vitally concerned the world. She has insisted on a motto for herself not unlike that of one of our great frontiersmen who is steadily thinking of the frontier community life when he gives as a title to his own book, 'Fear God and take your own part.' There is one thing better than fearing God and taking God into account, that is fearing God and taking each other's part. This is the essence of President Wilson's war policy—it is the essence of the war aims of Lloyd George."

"The last point in this study of world problems may very well be placed under the heading—

America the Builder.
"It is the genius of America to build things. We have invented for the world not only some of the greatest material appliances, but we have also given to the world some of the greatest spiritual discoveries. Two of these have a peculiar suggestiveness to those thinking on the problem of world organization—they are first, our federal system of government whereby we have a nation of forty-eight states, each extending to its own local problems, yet a slight extension of authority to certain matters of interest to all; and second, the institution of a supreme court to act as a final arbiter of questions arising between the states."

"Aside from furnishing the world with these two great features which might be partly copied for world organization, we have to date done more than any other nation in the matter of making and establishing international law. This influence began with the founding of America which was a good illustration of the matter of international affairs and has continued with increasing force to the present moment. We have at the same time the honor in having the first great tribunal against the system we have done the most to construct and we are doing it with the same purpose that animated our forefathers, when they set out to form a more perfect union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defense, promote the general welfare, to ourselves and our posterity."

"We are working for something of the ideal of Jesus when he prayed for his disciples, and for all his brothers, and nation, should not rise against nation."

"The task is too large to admit of hate, partisanship, or even to be done by the matter of national safety."

"J. H. Kempf, food administrator for Wayne county, followed in giving the keynote of the evening, and stressing the imperative importance of strict observance. He detailed restrictions in the purchase and use of food, and said people should be more strict in their observance, were slackers and were not doing their part in the war. The singing of "America" closed the service."

WOMAN'S WAR WORK

(By Mrs. J. G. W. Lewis.)
The field of woman's war work is so broad that it cannot be taken in at a glance. With the first mention of the phrase "woman's war work" there comes immediately to our mind the vision of the Red Cross nurse, of hundreds of women in the Red Cross rooms, making bandages, and plugging their needles, doing those things which minister to the physical needs of the soldier in the camps, on the firing line, and in the hospitals. But this is not woman's war work. In almost every industry and profession, both in Europe and in America, women are taking the places of men who have gone to the front. They are working in munition factories, in lumber yards, in coal mines, on the railroads, as machinists, as conductors, as mail carriers, and in a host of other occupations which hitherto have been open only to men."

"But the great mass of American women are still in the home doing the things that have always done—preparing the food, making the clothes, rearing the children. But the women in the homes are doing and must do more than their usual work in time of peace."

"Our federal government" early recognized the woman power of America as a definite reliable factor in the conduct and success of the war and accordingly in April, 1917, the Woman's Committee of the Council of National Defense was created. Its purpose is to coordinate the activities and resources of the organized and unorganized women that their power may be utilized immediately in time of need. It is to supply a direct channel of communication and cooperation between women and governmental departments. This purpose is worked out through the state divisions of the Woman's Committee of the Council of National Defense and each state-wide organization of women is asked by the federal government to report on their activities to the Woman's Committee of the state."

The lines of work carried on by the Woman's Committee of the Council of National Defense are classified in thirteen departments, as follows:
Registration.
Food Production and Home Economy.
Food Conservation.
Women in Industry.
Child Welfare.

Existing Social Service Agencies, Health and Recreation, Educational Propaganda, Liberty Loan, Red Cross and Allied-Relief, Americanization, Nurses Training, Singkers Bureau.

The plan of organization of the Woman's Committee is the same in the nation, state, county, and even in the precinct where local conditions make it feasible. Each department of work has its head or chairman. Next week we hope to tell something of the work of the Woman's Committee in Nebraska, and in Wayne county. The matter of increased food production is to be strenuously pushed in the next few weeks and must receive our earnest thought and consideration."

FOR YOU TO ANSWER.

Your county stands ninth in the list of thirty-three counties in Nebraska in reference to purchase of the first of War Saving Certificates. Where do you stand? Are you doing all you can? If not, why not? "War" saving "stamps" is $25.20. The report of sales up to January 26, was $12,625. Let us show our patriotism by forging to the head of the line. This is no one man job. Every man, woman and child in Wayne county must feel that it is up to him Teaching thrift and saving through the purchase of war stamps is the duty of every American citizen. No one can afford to spend a dollar for waste-ful luxuries. Cardin J. Gibbons says such an expenditure resolves itself into a dilapidated act. The government must have money now. It depends upon your money and time. Purchase war saving stamps and purchase them freely. By so doing you save the lives of American soldiers, refuse to buy dimes and you let brave men perish.

An explanation is here offered in case there are some who still do not understand the mode of purchasing them and their significance.

At the last session congress authorized an issuance of two billion dollars in government securities in amounts of 25 cents and $5. The 25 cent securities are known as "Thrift Stars" and the $5 size are called "War Savings Stamps." The secretary of the treasury was given until January 1, 1919, to dispose of three securities. The obvious reason for this was to prevent the loan being taken up by big investors, who are looking for the high rate of interest which is paid. The small amounts in which the war savings securities can be obtained were made to allow every man, woman and child in the country to aid in loaning the government money for the prosecution of this war. Five dollar saving stamps when attached to a certificate are practical government bonds. They pay 4 per cent interest compounded quarterly, which is equivalent to about 4 1/2 per cent. The 25 cent stamps will not bear interest but when one saves sixteen of them and turns them in for a $5 war savings stamp, the investment begins to draw interest. The $5 stamp carries the highest rate of interest the government has ever paid on money it has borrowed. During December of last year and January of this year $5 war savings stamps have cost $4.12 each. Beginning this month and continuing through the year it will increase 1 cent per month up to December, 1918, when they will sell for $4.22 each. A card is given with the first 25-cent thrift stamp, on which sixteen of the thrift stamps can be pasted. When one purchases a $5 war savings stamp, or turns in a card with sixteen of the thrift stamps on it and 12 cent extra, he gets a war savings stamp and a war savings certificate. The card or twenty of the war savings stamps, the name and address of purchaser are written on a certificate when bought. If it is lost all the finder has to do is to drop it in the mail box in accordance with the instructions on the card, it will be returned to the owner. The war savings stamps are not subject to taxation, except inheritance tax, and are worth over $5,000 per year. Nebraska's quota is $20,000,000 which means about $20 per person in the state. These stamps may be purchased at the postoffice, city bank, most any business house in your city or through your school instructor. The public and rural schools of the county are doing a wonderful work in the sale of these thrift stamps. Some rural schools report a hundred per cent, that is every pupil buying a purchaser of these stamps, showing the patriotism of loyalty of teacher, pupil and patron.

The sacrifices we are enacting of the noble American boys for the lives and liberty of us who stay at home make an irresistible appeal for us to support them with our most earnest efforts in our work at home. Let us reach our quota before the year is half gone—Rollie

W. Ley, Chairman War Savings, Wayne County.

He says the winter has been mild so far, and that the family likes the climate and country.

MISS MADSEN HEARD FROM. Herald Ford's Companion and Friend Writes From Chicago. Chicago, February 1, 1918. Dear Mr. Huse: And did you tell the Ford? I saw an article in the (Times) speaking of my interest in reading all Herald items. Never did I rail against late as I did when I pondered upon the fact that I did have the necessary eight or ten hundred dollars with which to purchase that machine, of course, you wouldn't dispose of it, or less, I should have the car here in order to give Chicagoans a demonstration of what speed really is. Here many of the limousines fall when they attempt to climb an incline of a centimeter. My admiration for the Herald Ford has become unbounded since I recall how it climbed precipices, leaped ditches, and forded streams. What surprises me is that the chauffeurs here are so idiotic that they don't know that all there is to be done is to pour hot water on their machines. I am afraid that if the Side Street grocer were here his sale of prunes would diminish if he undertook to help all in distress. I had expected to make any intellectual conquests when I came to this university, I must admit I have been disappointed. My dreams and the reality are perhaps not unlike that of the dusty, weary traveler who was met on the roadside trudging some distance behind a crowd and asked why he was following the people. He replied: "Follow them! I've got to follow them, I'm their leader." I had some interesting work last quarter and hated to leave it, but I made up my mind when the professor sent me grades they will humor me to the extent of suggesting that I repeat the courses. I had one course in the study of religion, which was criticized on the ground that it was all psychology and no religion. I also had a course under one of the head professors who took great delight in occasionally asking the foundations of the old order of things, to the great consternation of most of the delights of others. I must say a dear, dear son, please refrain from the discussion. This professor is not in favor of capital punishment for him who chances to eat his pie with his knife, for example. You would hardly have recognized Shakespeare and Browning after his discussion of these two poets. Some persons in class faint and if any of the rest of us derived any amusement from the criticism of Shakespeare some of us at least paid for it when we attended that same afternoon a lecture on the subject of "What is a paper?" an hour and three minutes explaining what this writer meant by the word "window" in his plays. I enquired of the persons who sat near the doors who were able—and joyously availed themselves of the opportunity—to slip out of the door unobserved. Yet after all I am glad to report that I still retain my faith in the dictionary. I have seen and heard some of the great artists here from Charlie Chaplin down to Call-Curry. My seat at the theater is first class as the contents of my purse. But even in my most balmy days, J. Ogden Armour, has not had occasion to look at his nose in the rear view of the top galleries which I have never quite reached must give the spectators a feeling that they are sparing an exhibition on Mars (I shall spare your feelings by not putting down the pun on the word "Mars" that came to mind). I see that the Herald has advanced to two dollars. I am sure that will eliminate all Ford trouble hereafter. The erratic conduct of that machine was in the main due to the fact that it couldn't keep its self-respect and at the same time arouse such suspicions as people always have when they feel they are getting something for nothing. I think an safe in saying that the advance in price will add great dignity to the Ford. This school is not unlike others in the most people are to be sure that they have no time to become educated. But then I believe it is you that holds that people get their A. B. in colleges and then go out into the world and learn the rest of the alphabet. However, even the most stupid of us are generally able to quote a little Nietzsche or Bergson, or some of the quotation marks when we get through. Remember me to the Ford and pour a few kettles of boiling water over it for old time's sake. Sincerely, Eugene Madison

Why Adjust the Spine?

Because the middle of your back from head to hips contains a part of your skeletal frame that has everything to do with the state of your health.

The Backbone of man is the key to his health. People are sick when the joints of this column become disturbed to the extent that the displaced segments compress the spinal nerves.

A backbone in true alignment means good health in all body parts.

Contra-wise, any subluxated segment of the spine will produce disease in such parts of the body as are reached by the nerves in its paths.

Have an Analysis of your spine. It costs you nothing.

the vegetable oil from corn which gives the best results in general cooking—at least cost

THE housewife has found that Mazola—the pure oil from corn—is even better than the old cooking mediums for deep frying, sautéing and shortening.

And more economical.

Mazola does not transmit taste or odor from one food to another—can be used over and over again.

A recent demonstration showed that the same tinful of Mazola could be used eighteen different times for deep frying.

Since it is a vegetable oil, it enables you to save butter, lard and tallow, as well as the cost of the same.

And next time you want an especially delicious salad dressing, try Mazola.

Mazola comes in pint, quart, half-gallon and gallon tins—buy the large sizes for greatest economy. Also ask your grocer for the free Mazola Recipe Book, or the direct.

Your money refunded if Mazola does not give satisfaction.

UNCLE WALT The Poet Philosopher

THIS FATEFUL YEAR.
This year, should see the crapping end, should hear the songs of peace ascend. The Prussian hosts still face their foe, and through their warlike motions go, and would compel us, if they were in the shape to saw much wood. But all their fighting men who made of war a passion and a trade are dead, or shy of legs or lamps, or fenced in foreign prison camps. No longer does the Teuton find in war a solace to his mind; of such rude games he's had enough; he'd rather busy at home mending the Prussian armies are composed of doctards who for years have dozed before their fires, so old and weak that walking made their hinges creak and their knees tremble. They go to school to drill around with deadly tools: The hacks-and-has-beens of the land bear arms of Kaiser Bill's command. To face them go our stalwart sons, whiff-cum the frames of war-worn Hans, and show the world how Yankee snap can draw new lines upon the map. When once our boys have got their stride in battle, on the other side, I don't see how Bill's weary crew can help but throw up hands--do you?

DON'T SPOIL IT.
The man who has his nose doors from me has hustled since the war began; and it was truly good to see the way he boomed each helpful plan. He made me buy another hand, although I thought all I could stand; "Will help our boys across the pond," he said, "to get the Teuton canned." For Red Cross funds he humped around, and made me knock over a three dollar tin I had just coughed up a pound, and owed much money at the store. "Here is a man," I often said, "who does as much to win the fight as one who leaves a swath of dead to shock the kaiser's brooding sight." But yesterday he came to me, and when he'd talked an hour or three, he left me feeling pretty tired. "No doubt," he said, "you've marked my curves, you've seen me boosting worthy things; and every patriot deserves the guardian of his honor." "This year '11 be a candidate for congress--for I need the dime; I hope you'll keep your hair on tonight, and vote for me. I'll be six times," Oh, idols with their feet of clay! Still whited sepulchres we find! Can't this broad land produce a Jay who has no cheap John ax to grind?

THE UNKIND ACT.
My aunt came to me, in my lair, and talked while I was busy; I smote her with a rocking chair, and knocked her out of my gloomy daze. The butler bore her form away, and sent out for a doctor, and I could hear the sawbones say, "The blow has badly shocked her." And, sitting there in solitude, remorse, sorrow drove me shy. I sighed, "Oh, why am I so rude, ungrateful and naughty? Why do I thus my temper lose; the guardian of my honor, my hard guests with chairs and shoes, when they come in to chatter? If I had said, 'Dear aunt, you see that I'm composing sonnets so please don't talk just now to me of fare-betwix and between.' I know that she'd have understood; she would no longer tease me; for she is gentle, sweet and good; and always wants to please me. But no, I swat her with a chair, and make her top-knot bloody, and servants drag her by the hair from out my gloomy study. I am a brute! I should be cained! My soul is dark and shady! Alas, that I should raise my hand to such a smooth old lady!" Next day, a sad, repentant man, went to her pardon; she soaked me with the frying pan, and chased me through the garden.

MIDWINTER.
The wind is shrieking at the door, the ice is thick upon the river; don't feel comfy any more; all day I sit round and shiver. The windows rattle in the blast, the snow is heaped against my loved; I'm burning coal so doggone fast it keeps me busy with a shovel. Another cold wave's on the way--the last one was a rig-rattled hummer; all for a red-hot August day, oh, for a sizzling slice of summer! Too long! Boreas has reigned, and I am tired of winter's rigors; ah, can't it be that I complained of trifling things like flies and chiggers? I clean the flue, I shake the grate, I carry coal to hungry heaters; am the idiot, skate who grounded because of harmless skeeters? Am so shy of good horse sense that when fair summer had her lining I leaped up head against the fence, and wished that winter was beginning? It's hard for one to realize when this cold world with ice is heaped, that once he befeet at ice-free skies, and kicked because the winds were heated. My breath's translated into frost, as down the cellar stairs I scamper, to shove out a trap door, and kick the snow some tinhorn damper. The coal man gets all I can earn, except what goes to pay the plumber; and as I watch the wages burn, I say, "No more I'll kick at summer."

GROUNDHOG DAY.
Now Groundhog Day, my friends, is here, most fateful day of all the year. The groundhog has all prophesies skinned who fuss with maps and measure wind, who multiply the world's distress with hugheness, forecasts in the press. The groundhog scorns all lows and highs; he views the landscape and the skies, and if the weather's bright and fair, with signs of springtime, every where, he crawls right back into his hole, and sighs, "Oh, winter, let her roll!" There'll still be snow and ice, and we cannot find me a spring day! But if the skies are overcast, and there's a chill and wintry blast, the groundhog says, "I'll stay outdoors, and start to do my vernal chores. Old boreas, has come and went, he cannot fool me worth a cent." The groundhog's grammar may be punk, but his predictions are not bunk. As we grow old our wits wane, our memories grow dim, and other signs; and human prophets make us sure they don't guess right one time in four, and they are guessing every day, until they guess their lives away. The groundhog, most retiring serf, hands out a guess but once a year, with moderation most sublime, and hits the bullseye everytime.

A DAY OF SNOW.
It is a brutal winter day, as I compose this deathless verse; the snow is deep; the skies are gray, and every hour it's growing worse. As from my window I look forth, I see my neighbors totting past; the wind comes shrieking from the north, and they are reeling in the blast. They're traudging through the drifts of snow, and they are cold and full of grief, and yet they show no sign of woe--for this will save the crop of wheat! "This storm is worth ten million seeds!" they cry, as shivering they pass; for they are patriotic buds, and aches and aches--there's no grass. My neighbors have no fields of wheat, they don't expect to raise a peck; but still they smile, with frozen feet, and snowdrifts sliding down the neck. The storm to me means rheumatiz; already, as I write this line, I feel the symptoms through me whiz, and the ache howl in my spine. This snowy day to me looks sweet, although rheumatiz I abhor; for snow will save the wheat, well known wheat, and wheat is bound to win the war. Thus do we all, in divers ways, sue honest loyalty disclose; we'll suffer through all beastly days, if that will help to swat the foes.

Camp Taylor, Ky., Jan. 25.—Captain Ervin A. Froyd, of Springfield, Ill., today was promoted to a major in the National army. His appointment was included in a list of about 200 promotions, most of them of second lieutenants in the 84th division.

Captain Froyd has been adjutant of the 33rd infantry since this camp opened, and his promotion is due to exceptionally meritorious work there. The 33rd is composed of men from East St. Louis and nearby counties in Illinois.

He was commissioned a captain last April and sent to Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind., where he assisted in rounding the recruits of that camp into effective officers. He received his military training at the University of Nebraska, where he was a major in the college military attachment. On the basis of his training, he was granted a commission in the National army without further training. In 1909 he was graduated from the university in civil engineering.

MEATLESS AND WHEATLESS DAYS.

Breakfast is to be meatless every day. Tuesday is to be meatless. Saturday is to be porkless. Monday and Wednesday are to be wheatless. Every evening meal is to be wheatless. Explanation: On wheatless days and meatless meals of other days use no crackers, pastry, macaroni, breakfast food, or other cereal food containing wheat, and use no wheat flour in any form except the small amount that may be needed for thickening soups, or gravies, or for a binder in corn bread and other cereal breads. On porkless days and meals use no cattle, hog or sheep products. On other days use mutton and lamb in preference to beef or pork. Porkless means without pork, bacon, ham, lard or pork products, fresh or preserved. Use fish, poultry and eggs. As a nation we eat and waste nearly twice as much meat as we need.—J. H. Kemp.

OUR WAR AIMS

What we demand in this war, therefore, is nothing peculiar to ourselves. It is that the world be made fit and safe to live in; and particularly that it be made safe for every peace-loving nation which, like our own, wishes to live its own life, determine its own institutions, be assured of justice and fair dealing by other peoples of the world as against force and selfish aggression. All the peoples of the world are in effect partners in this interest, and for our own part we see very clearly that unless justice be done to others it will not be done to us. The program of the world's peace, therefore, is our program.

ARMY CANTEEN SERVICE

How Red Cross Uses it to Help Soldiers in Trenches Abroad

Canteen service as provided by the American Red Cross for our soldiers in France is one of the most potent influences for keeping the men contented and in the right frame of mind to smash the Germans, says Mrs. Jean Hull, who is in this country on two months' leave.

"A canteen is a long-shack where the soldiers are served coffee, sandwiches and more substantial food, as well as sweets. Here a soldier may get his clothes mended, may have his cleaned after the filth of the trenches, and if he is homesick may pour out his heart to one of the American women in charge."

In other words, the Red Cross canteen furnishes that home-like touch which means so much to a man three or four thousand miles from his family and friends.

Mothers with boys in France or in training to go to France will be made happy in knowing that such care is given to their sons by the Red Cross. The American women who have volunteered to run the canteens are among the nation's most cultivated women. They are enduring conditions which are marked clean after the surroundings of their own homes.

"Lots of times an American soldier will come into the canteen with a spell of the blues," said Mrs. Hull. "He has been out in the mud, is tired and hungry and most of all wants sympathy. When he sees us women cheerfully washing in a mud puddle, cleaning in cold rooms and working long hours on a stretch he gets ashamed of his feelings and goes up. They are mighty glad to see a woman from home and find her reading, music and chatter most alluring."

About Constipation.

Certain articles of diet tend to check movements of the bowels. These are: corn, wheat, rice, cheese, tea and boiled milk. On the other hand raw fruits, especially apples and bananas, also granular bread and whole wheat bread promote the movement of the bowels. When the bowels are badly constipated, however, the sure way is to take one or two of Chamberlain's Tablets immediately after supper.

EXPLAINS REGULATIONS.

Omaha, Neb., Feb. 6.—That an understanding of the new rules and regulations of the food administration may be had and confusion explained, Food Administrator Wadsworth offers these interpretations of rules:

1. Graham, rye or whole wheat flour are not substitutes for white flour. Rye flour may be purchased without substitutes. Whole wheat or graham, however, must be purchased with substitutes. Consumers buying six-tenths as much substitutes in weight as they buy of whole wheat or graham flour.
2. Bread must contain at least twenty per cent cereals other than wheat flour. All bakers must have twenty per cent or more in their breads by February 2.
3. In baking breads, bakers may use all the milk they desire; however, they must sell at the same price as if no milk were used and they cannot advertise this bread as milk-bread.
4. Consumers in buying substitutes must buy an amount equal to the amount of their bought flour. Retailers must sell in the same proportions, pound for pound.
5. Breakfast is the meatless meal and the hours are constrained to 10 a. m. to 11 a. m. Restaurants that stay open all night shall quit serving meats at midnight and not begin until 10 a. m.
