WINS - SCHOOL - DEBATE
Wayne High School Team Wins Debate From Emerson Friday.
The debate Friday evening in the Wayne high school auditorium between the local and Emerson high school teams, resulted in favor of the home team. The question, "Resolved, that military training should be adopted in the high schools of the United States," was intelligently discussed by both sides. The visiting team, which supported the affirmative, brought out several strong arguments in favor of the proposed movement, but these were readily met by their opponents, Albert Watkins of Lincoln, who is head of the state historical society, acted as judge.
Members of the visiting team were: Winfred Blume, Arnold Jensen.
Wayne: Virginia Bowen, Knox Jones and Don Gildersleve with Eloise Miller, alternate.
Prof. F. F. Gordien accompanied the Emerson debaters. The debate was the first in the state league series.

Recipes used at recent cheese demonstration in the domestic science department of the Wayne State Normal.
Cottage cheese, with heat, 1 gallon whole sweet milk. Warm milk to 75 degrees F. (ordinary kitchen temperature.) Add 1 cup starter. (Good clean sour milk can be used.)

Stir thoroughly, set away at kitchen temperature for seventeen or eighteen hours. (over night) Bring to 100 F. and hold at that temperature for 20 to 30 minutes. Drain through cheese cloth.
Cottage cheese, Reiner-Method, 1 gallon whole sweet milk. Warm to 80 F. Add 1 cup starter and about 1 junket tablet dissolved in 1 cup cold water. Stir milk thoroughly. Set aside at kitchen temperature over night twelve to eighteen hours. Drain without heating on muslin. Press until it weighs 1 1/2 pounds. Add 1 1/2 teaspoons salt.
Neutcheater cheese, delicious: 1 gallon whole sweet milk. Warm to 80 F. Add 1 cup starter and about 1 junket tablet dissolved in 1 cup cold water. Stir milk thoroughly. Set aside at room temperature over night, fourteen to eighteen hours. Drain, without heating, on cotton sheeting. Pour carefully from container so as not to break the curd. Press until it weighs 1 1/2 pounds. Add 1 to 1 1/2 teaspoons salt.

The Starter.
Milk which has been soured in clean, covered vessel may be used as the starter.
More uniform results however, are secured by cultivating the starter as follows: No. 1 Sterilize a pint fruit jar and lid. Fill with sweet skim milk. Cover and set away at kitchen temperature. When clabbered use for propagating real starter as in No. II.
No. II—Fill a pint jar with sweet skim milk. Set in a vessel containing water. Cool to 72 F., add 1 teaspoon of No. 1. Stir thoroughly, set away at kitchen temperature. When clabbered it is ready for use. It will keep four days in a cool place. Make new starter by repeating No. II.
Next week recipes for the use of cottage cheese will be given.

PARAMOUNT PICTURES PRESENT

Mary Pickford

"Stella Maria"

Mary Pickford, the sweetest girl on the screen, plays two parts in "Stella Maria." One is delicate and dainty, and the other, as Unity Blake, unlovely and unloving. Adolph Zuker, president of the Paramount corporation says: "This is Mary Pickford's best." The portrayal of two characters so vastly different by Mary Pickford will probably stand as a wonderful achievement in screen art. Frances Marion adapted the story to the screen, and Marshall Neilan directed the production. That they have caught the tender pathos of the novelist's work is demonstrated in this, the latest of charming vehicles for the appearance of the world-famous star.
 Admission 10 and 15 cents

My Country 'Tis of Thee, O sweet Land of Liberty.

I pledge allegiance to my flag and to the Republic for which it stands; one nation indivisible with Liberty and Justice to all.

Any new laws by the Nebraska legislature, now in session, which stimulate Americanism will be welcome. Any new law that will make it impossible for a man out of sympathy with the United States to stay here will be welcome.

Rejoicing over the capture of the German crown prince was turned to disappointment when it was found the report was untrue. The crown prince merits and receives a liberal portion of the detestation in which the ruling heads of Germany are held, and his capture would be a most welcome achievement.

Members of the North Nebraska Teachers' association are welcome to Wayne, and their stay will be made as pleasant as possible. With the State Normal located here, Wayne is the educational center of north Nebraska, and naturally takes delight in entertaining educational bodies and encouraging educational endeavors.

The legislature of South Dakota has passed a law to draft all loafers for work. The state will not tolerate a lot of chronic idlers and parasites at a time when labor is scarce, and when most people are working to the limit of endurance. The Nebraska legislature in extra session might well consider its idlers and pass a law that would make them of some service to society.

No preventing providence or no stack of cold feet in the meantime, we expect as a member of the homebuds, to sit up with the town Saturday night, and we hope people will deport themselves in an orderly and dignified manner. Being up all night, we shall incidentally be present when the clocks are turned ahead, and also shall be among the first to greet the Easter morn.

Mayor W. H. Harm, who spoke to an appreciative throng in Wayne Sunday night, is rendering noble and noble service to the government by devoting his entire time to pouring the truth into the souls of men. His unaffected style, his manifest sincerity, and earnestness, and his positive conviction enable him to point the way in a most forceful and effective manner. He is doing good for the cause of America wherever he speaks.

Next Sunday will be Easter among Christian Churches everywhere.

An Improvement on Pure White Lead

We offer as a decided improvement on Pure White Lead, a thoroughly scientific product—Bradley & Vrooman Crown White.

The following statements are not mere "glorians"—they are fact-tested and found solid by the experts of the highest authorities.

Bradley & Vrooman Crown White gives a surface that will not crack, chalk or peel—in the whitest of white—covers more surface than pure white lead—spreads more evenly and brushes more easily.

B. & V. Crown White is not a substitute—it is an improvement. Better investment.

even in Germany, will commemorate the resurrection—the resurrection of the prince of peace, resurrection of the spirit of the noble Nazarene, who loathed men and loved kindness and good will. The nation that outraged Belgium, striking defenseless women and children with terror and death, will now assume and parade regard for the teachings of Jesus who took little children into his arms and blessed them, and whose whole life must be accepted as a living rebuke to Prussian barbarism. Churches in Germany will partake of the holy sacrament in memory of the great example of peace and love. We will then ask divine blessing of armies licensed to outrage, torture and murder, women and children. What brazen inconsistency! What bald mockery! As we turn for a moment from the greatest battle of the ages to honor memory of the resurrection, let us reconsecrate ourselves to the grand-task of making the world more nearly at-one with the spirit of the Man of Galilee. Let us effectually exterminate the poison of Prussianism, put a stop to Prussian aggression, make an earnest endeavor to reestablish the religion which was perfectly exemplified 2000 years ago. Out of the chaos of the war, out of the baptism of blood, let us emerge with a more spiritual and more helpful, a less materialistic and less dogmatic religion. When mad Prussianism yields to force founded on truth and right, the civilization of the world, catching the real spirit of the Nazarene, ought to be pushed ahead 500 years.

CONSERVATION.

(Bixby.)
Spring comes, the furnace-fire goes down.
The dust blows in the street,
And we can live in this man's town
Sans artificial heat;
And yet the hungry coal men say
We must "buy fuel, right away."

Last week I mopped my fevered brow
And muttered "Mollie dear,
We are to have a respite now
For quite a half a year."
The coal men answered with a grin,
"Now is the time to fill your bin."

And so no rest of consequence
Rewards our virtuous deeds;
And so the burden of expense
Transcends our daily needs.
This thing is more than I deserve
Yet I'm admonished to "conserve."

RECAPTURE TOWNS.

London, March 27.—The British delivered a counter-attack today between the angle of the Aene and the Somme and recaptured Morlan court and Chippily, the war office announced this evening.

The French have been heavily engaged west of the Somme to give ground, the announcement states. Reinforcements for them are arriving.

An enemy attack in the neighborhood of Bucquoy has had no impression upon the British lines.

A number of other heavy attacks, both north and south of the Somme, were repulsed with heavy loss to the Germans. The enemy's troops are in Albert.

The Germans crossed the Aene yesterday and were met by a counter-attack and driven back across the river.

The British have again advanced their line south of the Somme to Proyart.

Washington Post: Thus far the German-American Alliance hasn't shown any interest in the war. Ernest Bernstorff felt that he did with the money.

Baltimore American: The sudden threats of the Teutons against the Scandinavian nations sound ominous—like the complaint of the wolf against the lamb for muddying the stream.

SIGNAL CORPS IN TEXAS

Description by Student in Miss Monte Theobald's School.
The following descriptive article written by Chestley Jones, Student in the class in English at San Antonio, Texas, taught by Miss Monte Theobald of Wayne, will be read with interest by Herald readers.
"The Signal Corps in San Antonio. Perhaps the most important factor in the world war, and in the present world war is the signal corps. The signal corps in the fighting machinery of a nation covers a wide area, but the most important and the most well known, is the aviation and aeronautical divisions.

"When the United States declared war on Germany, the first call from the allies was that this country furnish as many aeroplanes, and skilled aviators as possible. The allies through experience had learned the importance of these divisions. Realizing this, the United States began at once to make preparations for an extensive aerial program.
"The first important step taken by the government was locating a suitable site for such an important program.
"After considering numerous sites, San Antonio, now one of the chief military centers of the country, was chosen by the government for the chief training center.
"Very soon after this, Kelly Field, now the largest aviation field in the United States, was established. In the world, was begun. In less than two months, aeroplanes were to be seen flying over the city every day.
"The field has continued to grow ever since because the government realize the favorable conditions, and excellent location of the field.
"To carry on this enormous program, thousands of men representing every profession, and walk of life in America, were sent here to receive instruction. Some of the most popular and well known men of the country were here. San Antonio, The best educated men in the country realizing their need in this division, immediately volunteered their services.
"To discuss the real military standpoint of the subject only the men that receive the training, as has been said before, are the best. There are no instructors here, men in America. They represent the flower of American manhood.
"The daily activity of the men take very interesting. The fliers are not only men that take part at Kelly Field, large machine, and repair shops keep the aeroplanes motors in first class condition. Aside from the flying, there are ground officers, inspectors, and numerous others. There are also other divisions that are to be found in any training camp, used for the purpose of keeping the men supplied.
"The flying activity is perhaps the most interesting to the tourist and civilian. More than 150 aeroplanes have been up over Kelly Field at one time.
"The instruction at this field is devoted almost entirely to the first part of training—this therefore does not have the battle, type of machine. These machines will probably be used at Brooks Field, a field that is now under construction. This field will be devoted to the advanced stages in flying.
"The air men are taught the first principles in flying, that is, learning to fly, the ground and land safety. Observation work, scouting, air battles, tail spins, flips, and other duties will be taught at Brooks Field.
"The other division connected with the Aviation Corps, is the aeronautical observations. This is the newest addition that has been introduced in San Antonio, Camp Lind A. Wise is the scene of this activity. The aeronautical observations are very closely connected with the aeroplane observations.
"About six hundred fifty men are now stationed at this camp; most of them formerly of Kelly Field. What is known as the sausage balloon is used in this activity. The sausage balloon in some respects surpasses the aeroplane for the purpose of observation.
"To see the huge gas bag over the city, one might think that the occupants of the balloon would get very tired, but the men have certain places in the city to stay out, and in this way are kept very busy.
"San Antonio has five other military camps in, and close to the city which has assisted her into becoming a very important city, so far as war activity is concerned."

ber willing to be known as a "Lincoln man."
Meanwhile the north was divided, with an immense element hostile to the war or indifferent to it. In January, 1863, Vandalism had its congress; the war in your hands in a most bloody and costly failure. Extravagance and corruption in the purchase of government supplies ran rampant. Lincoln knew it and his cabinet knew it and as far as they could they checked it. But they could not stop it. The secretary of war was nearly forced out of office for incompetency or worse. The enemy's present war had Lincoln tried out general after general and it was nearly three years before he got his army under satisfactory commanders. After more than three years of war the rebels were so far from whipped as to be able to throw Washington into a panic with a cavalry raid. As late as the early autumn of 1864 Lincoln thought himself beaten for reelection by a party which declared the war a failure. Not even after Gettysburg and Vicksburg did most people realize that the war had been won. Lincoln had difficulty to keep a war-weary people from surrendering on the eve of the collapse of the confederacy.
As compared with that experience, our own present war experience has been a bumpy one. Lincoln had an almost infinitely greater problem to solve his people and keep up their spirits. He had a less efficient government machine through which to work. There were inefficiencies and Chamberlain as not even a Senator. His own question whether his principal general of the first two years of the war ever really tried to whip the enemy's present war had Antietam if not its Gettysburg in its second month. We have had no such series of military disasters as sickened the heart of the north through to first three years. It must be to any student of the forces involved in this war that final success is only a matter of "fighiting it out on this line" or "it takes all summer." Democracy has had no such Gettysburg in this war as it had wandering in the "Wilderness" in 1862.

HOPE FROM HISTORY.

Lincoln Journal: We are now ending our first year in the war in circumstances which have put nerves to some strain. We hear cries of progress made toward meeting the enemy. Ships, airplanes and men have not been forthcoming as fast as we should have liked. Now comes this desperate thrust of the Germans against the British line in France, spending their own and our allies' blood in torrents, in hope of forcing the war to a decisive close by the end of the year.
If we are discouraged, what must have been the feeling of our fathers in the war which they fought to a triumphant end? History tells us.
The fall of Fort Sumter came on the two years following will arise from his shoulders from the disaster at Bull Run. From that day until the spring of the next year we seemed to stand still. Then the army we had gathered moved into Virginia and the unforgettable Wilderness campaign was fought. The year passed with its second defeat at Bull Run and what then seemed to be little more than a drawn battle at Antietam. The spring of 1863 brought Chancellorsville and its gloom. Two full years of the war found us still apparently floundering about, about nothing, and that congress had not a single mem-

MR. FARMER:

You are a busy man but just stop long enough to ask yourself this one question: "From the standpoint of economy, store efficiency and real satisfaction where is the natural place to buy your groceries?" From the fact the Basket Grocery is selling strictly for cash, placing itself in a position to buy and sell for less, we feel positive your answer will be in our favor.

This store has no credit burdens and no free delivery system for you to help maintain and you may be surprised to know, the elimination of these two merchandise evils saves better than an annual $2,000 overhead expense. If for no other reason is it any wonder we sell for less and have established a cash grocery business second to none in northeast Nebraska? Mr. Farmer, now is the time you have a surplus of eggs which serves you just the same as cash in securing good fresh foods at over the counter prices. This is an opportunity we offer the farmer. Will you accept and make your dollars do duty where they will serve you best?

"THE POWER OF THE SOUL"

Interesting Paper Presented by Member of Normal Faculty.

The following paper on "The Psychology of the Power of the Soul" was prepared by Miss Elizabeth Kingsbury, member of the State Normal faculty, and read by her before the student body recently.

"In this terrible crisis of the world's history, when it seems as if material affairs were topsy-turvy, we are able to use our spiritual power to lose our balance, to be overcome with pessimism, unless we keep a firm grip on faith, on faith in God, in the eternal spiritual verities, in our own soul, its reality and power. I am not going to preach a sermon, this is not the place and I am not the one to do that, but I am going to talk about a new philosophical attitude toward life—about the New Psychology, or the Power of the Soul."

"It has been said humorously, I suppose, by the Science of Mental Science, or of some of their allied doctrines, that the women of today are trying to serve up emulsions of the hoary philosophies of the past in 'dozes warranted harmless to any babe.' These philosophic syrups and sugar-coated pills are indeed so palatable, according to this report, that mothers are trying to introduce them into their homes instead of soothing syrups and pain-killers. They are to supply the place of every religion and are panaceas for every wrong. While the supporters of these so-called new philosophies loudly proclaim the universal brotherhood of man, they each give for themselves infallibility, absolute truth, and solemnly warn you against the snares of the false sister philosophies. Theosophists will warn you against the 'elemental' which Spiritualists call spirit of the dead. Christian Scientists call Theosophists self-centered the- orists, whose doctrine of Karma—of evil punishing itself—is a draw- back to progress, for according to C. S. there is no sin. Mental Science claims that Christian Science has borrowed its kernel of truth from Mental Science and, for the rest, wholly lacks the logic of sci- entific method and is a travesty of the name. New Thought people vainly try to conciliate all and, in the vagueness of their tenets lose the force gained by the others in con- crete and some special doctrine. "Whatever may be said of these philosophies, it is certainly significant that they have all secured a remarkable following in the last quarter of a century. Not only are such writers as John Fisk, Ralph Waldo Trine, Hegy Wood, Thomas Hudson, Christian D. Lasee and Orion Sweet Marden making New Thought ideas popular with the masses, but its principles are permeating modern theology and hel- ping to change the thought of not only of the lecturer room but also of the street, the drawing room, and the church. Why is this? Is it not because there is some great truth behind the theosophies of these individual beliefs? I would answer yes and say that this truth is the truth of the power of the soul. You smile scornfully and say that that theme is as old as the ages. I admit it. It is the cause for which So- crates drank the hemlock and for which Christ died upon the cross. In a divine light thus shed upon the theme shall I attempt to illumine it with my feeble candle rays? Only to draw the conclusions of a hum- ble student of psychology and to apply these conclusions to daily life.

"In the first place, how many of you realize that there is a soul? Do not consider this in the light of a religious harangue but from a psycho-physiological standpoint. Look within. Do you know from your own experience that you are not in this envelope of flesh and bones with its wonderful network of nerves, the ends of which you hold with your grasp the you with a capital 'Y' who are within? There are many excellent people who do not know it, who have never succeeded in differenti- ating themselves from their physical senses. It is indeed an interesting psychological problem to strive to come to a realization of the self.

Let us then, in all seriousness consider the question with which the new psychology have come to an understanding of the powers of the soul and a practical knowl- edge of the means by which they may be developed. It is in the Thought-world, say the people of New Thought, that we lay the founda- tions of life or death. "As a man sows, so shall he also reap," said the Wise Man of old. This is the kernel of the whole matter. This is nothing new, you say. Ah my friend, it is something new for peo- ple to take this seriously and to ap- prehend it as a scientific principle. How many of us have allowed our minds to become lumber-rooms of anger, jealousy, selfishness, and numerous other evils and have been tortured by the black monsters at intervals without knowing how to rid ourselves of them? Or, to de- scribe it in other words, how many of us have allowed ourselves to be annoyed by the rattling of a wagon or the scratching of a pen? How many of us fiddle our nerves, ache our rheumatism or other pet ailments? The New Psychologists tell you that all is God; that all is therefore ultimately and actually good. Smith confuses all.

"The New Psychologist accord- ingly sets to work to clear out his storehouse of ills. He soon finds he has undertaken a harder task than he expected. He is sorely tri- ed of one petty thought than another comes tripping into his mind. Here comes a great danger, for if he dwells on evil he will be surrounded by a mist which will prevent peace within and power and help- fulness without. Right here is the power of the Christian Scientists, the denial of evil as filling the mind with so-called demonstrations of the good flooded the soul with sunshine, so to speak, and the shadows flee away. But it is not necessary to become Christian Scientists with their extreme views, to gain the same end. 'Be not overcome of evil, but overcome evil with good,' with this talisman one can rout the powers of darkness. How? By hold- ing the thought of good before the soul, by realizing in the deepest sense that in God 'we live and move and have our being,' by living the Christ-life in every thought within and in every deed without.

"The absolute power of the soul is then, I believe, the fundamental truth of many of the new philoso- phical and religious systems which have sprung up in recent years. No man liveth to himself and no man dieth to himself. 'This prin- ciple is equally a part of the New Psychology of all who are sincerely in- terested indeed but none the less truly a part of their mental stock.

"We are immersed in a sea of be- ings," thought-waves, tremulous with good or evil images every- where on receptive minds, on re- ceptive minds I say, for minds dif- fer widely in receptivity. Every teacher has had pupils who catch nothing and others who grasp every- thing. This is not a matter of degree, is spoken. These receptive souls may be the happiest or the most miserable on earth. Why? They are not different in thought, but in- tentiously not even consciously, but truly nevertheless. Are you not sometimes among people where it seems that the best that is in you comes to the fore, and that when those spiritual forces are in the ascendant, and your soul expands under their influence? Then again do you not run up against stone- walling, negativism, and people who are utterly hard and unsympa- thetic? Again, have not evasions or malicious thoughts hit you like sword-thrusts even though they are not spoken? If you have not had these experiences you are not sen- sitive and I do not know whether you are most to be envied or con- demned.

"We hear a great deal about at- mosphere nowadays, by which psych- ic, or soul atmosphere, is meant. I do not know whether people are learning to see things in this way or whether they are learning to in- terpret influences which until now were overlooked or misunderstood. We certainly carry in the very crust of our consciousness a mighty power for good or evil. Which shall it be? Shall we be helpful conquerors or harmful vanquishers of our neighbors? Ide- ally we would learn to be uncon- cerned by any petty whim or pas- sion or prejudice; but if we dislike another or are jealous of another we will be just as sure as fate that our- ever expressed in any outward word or look—it will be felt just the same.

"In plain truth, what right have we to be our neighbor? He may have pushed his fence beyond our boundary-line; he may have said hard things of us at the village store. He acts from prejudice or from pas- sion and because he cherishes dark thoughts in his soul are we to do the same? A thought easily kindles a like thought in the brain of another. A spark of hatred from an enemy will quickly ignite tinder in our own heart but shall we let it grow into a flame? No we must smother it at once. We cannot afford to let the clear light of the sun be cloud- ed by evil shadows even if it is evil reflected from another. From the radiant purity of Christ, which bar- red no shadow, will in them and in words, 'Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do.'

"But some will say: 'It is wrong to harbor resentment for a natural and one becomes a prig by looking within all the time and keeping tab on one's thoughts. I mean to do right but I intend to live naturally and enjoy myself.' It is time enough when one gets to Heaven to be an angel! In answer let me say that I believe that Heaven is here as well as yonder and that the present truly is part of the heaven. True happiness is not a physical condi- tion but a mental state and all the joys of this life are greatly enhanced when flooded with the clear light of the spirit. The light by which we see in this world comes out of the soul of the observer says Emerson. Let us enjoy life to the fullest—a beautiful world is given us to enjoy, but let us enjoy it as masters, not as slaves.

this; many people believe in sending out healing thoughts to others in need of help. This can be done in two ways; first, by hypnotic sug- gestion, and second, by holding men- tally before the individual the idea of the All-of-Goodness. Many people do not admit that there is any difference in these two methods, claiming that it is all suggestion. Christian Scientists however and those inclined to their views say that the only perfect healing is brought about by making the soul realize its oneness with God who is all goodness, truth, health, harmony. This 'having hold of the larger life' gives a spiritual power that no mental or hypnotic suggestion of can do. Hypnotism is the injection of an idea, true or false, into another's subconsciousness so strongly that it induces a habit in the recipient. New Thought teaches the opening up of the soul to spiri- tual truth and the inducing of a be- lief in others in the power of the spirit through mental suggestion as well as by oral argument.

"Being good is thus one way of doing good; the inward condition of good is as necessary as the out- ward expression. What a beautiful experience it would be to meet one another always on that spiritual plane, to be so full of light that it would illuminate our very presence. This is the ideal of the New Psy- chologists—a Heaven on earth worth striving for.

"As we look back over past ages nothing I think stands out more prominent than the increasing so- cialization of Christian principles. The ever greater application of Christian principles to human life. Even in the terrible war which is horrifying the world, the Christian comes with love and pity, and such organizations as the Y. M. C. A., V. W. C. A., Red Cross, and Knights of Columbus, shed a heav- enly glory upon the blood-red-dened battlefield—it marks a new epoch in warfare when the soldier is cared for and surrounded with do not claim that the loftiest spiritual ideals are present in all nor even in a majority of the people of today, but I do claim that a con- siderable and ever increasing num- ber live in the joy of spirit domin- ance.

"What is this newest and sweet- est blossoming of the spirit? It is the coming of the soul into its own, the realization of its relationship to God and of its glorious mission of endless growth and progress. It is based on the foundation principles of Christianity, cultivated systemat- ically and rigorously as standards of daily conduct and, equally, of daily thought. It is the recognition of spiritual standards of right and wrong; the judging not merely the deed but the hidden motives behind it; the realizing that the only true life, the life of the soul, is made up of unceasing thought-waves beat- ing on the psychic atmosphere all about it, for good or ill; that these thought-waves are but the surface movements of the deep sea of the conscious and subconscious self.

"With this profound consciousness of the reality of the immortal soul all souls become very precious to us. We believe that beneath all shadow and all strain lies the clear crystal of divine being; we are ready to give not only our money, our acts, our thoughts, but even the gentlest love of our hearts to crippled souls, to people deprived rather than depraved, to lift them and encourage them, that they may reach a higher round in the eternal climbing up to God."

Don't Starve Your Battery

A starving battery is in a worse fix than a starving man—it gives no warning of its weakened condition. It suffers and struggles along until the last ounce of energy is gone. Then it "quits"—suddenly.

Your battery may be "starving" right now. Maybe it needs a drink, or a freshening charge to restore it to its normal healthy condition.

Let our experts inspect and test it today. Our service is at your disposal—no matter what make of battery you use. We'll add distilled water, if needed. If repairs are necessary, we carry a complete stock of battery parts for all makes of batteries.

Some day you will need a new battery. Try the Prest-O-Lite Battery. It will give you more power, more endurance and longer life—more value—than any other battery. We have the correct size for your car.

BRIGHT IN CALIFORNIA. Former Wayne Citizen Makes Good in Western Investments. A copy of the Daily Democrat, published at Woodland, Calif., received by this office, shows that Charles E. Bright, former member of the Wayne State Normal faculty, has not followed the custom of the average returning emigrant, but is locating in the golden west. He has been making something on investments. The average eastern man going west usually buys early and pays more than he gets for his worth and then if he is able to sell at all, he sells at a sacrifice. It is a rule, seldom broken, for an eastern man to get his feathers singed before he has been long on the western coast. But the fact that Charley had thoroughly investigated and located the best before locating there, together with his well known habit of doing his own thinking, probably accounts for his triumphant upswing of precedent. The Woodland Democrat says: "Showing the wonderful increase in the value of Yolo county land the Bryns Land company today has sold the west before location level ranch near the city, for $16,000."

"The same firm sold the property to Charles E. Bright in November for $13,500. He sold this property to Bright of $2,500 in three months. Some of this profit was spent in advance by Bright in making needed repairs on the farm."

"The property is well known in the county, and it is said that it is not unlikely that the property could be sold again at a price over $16,000."

UNCLE WALT
The Poet Philosopher

CONSERVING HENS.
They've handed down a stern decree, the conservation boosters; that hens immune from death must be, though we may shoot the roosters. Say it Hoover, says his merry men, whose ukase must be heeded. "It is a sin to kill a hen, when eggs are badly needed. Fresh eggs are good beneath one's belt, the test-books all determine, and when they're stale they'll do to pelt the peace fan and pro-German. We'll put the Turtons in a box, and buy one more bullet, if we kill off the crowing cocks, and spare the cackling pullets." And now, in every butcher's store, from Waterloo to Wooster, the helpful hen is seen as usual, but her neck is stark of rooster. Oh, lead the roosters to the block, for rooster meat is corking the Leghorn and the Plymouth Rock, the Brahma and the Dorking! Oh, give the roosters chloroform—too ancient for beheading; and eat them cold and eat them warm, their feathers use for bedding. I bake, once, the kitchen fire, a food of proper gender; I also cook a rubber tire, which is a bit more tender. I chew the rubber tire a while, and then I chew the rooster, and say, "Hoover skinned a mile, as conservation booster!"

THE MISCHIEF MAKER.
A tick is but a harmless thing that should no grief or madness bring. No man should weep to see a tick, or have connivances in his back. I brought a box of ticks one time, the package cost me half a dime. I strewn the ticks along the road that runs in front of my abode; and motorists who came along made speech, gripping, fierce and strong. I heard them, as they changed their tires, while I sat greasing up my tyres. If they but knew who did the trick, they said, they'd gladly hang the tick. For days and days they stopped their boats and sent big cussedners through their throats. A tick's worth of ticks will queer a lot of joy, in this old world. A nickel's worth of heated air will cause much trouble and despair. I know a bilious man who talks pale treason in his daily walk. He says the war's a big mistake, and we were guilty of a break when we broke in and took a hand; and dared the Teuton Parberrand. His words have punctured tires and tubes for many patriotic rhes; who were with loyalty red hot before they struck his Tommy-rot. Some day, tired out by traitors' words, they'll hang the war's a big mistake, and seek the mischief maker's lair, and make him eat the hemp right there.

AVOIDING TREASON.
I would not like a traitor fall, my back against a limestone wall, a firing squad in front; 't would be a dismal way to end the little path

CALL ON Wm. Piepenstock FOR HARNESS

Saddles and Everything in Horse Furnishing Line

I humbly vend, this finish to my trust. So I keep tabs upon my tongue, and see that loyal words are sprung, when I rear up and spiel; disloyal words may do great harm, may paralyze some soldier's arm and make him drop his steel. The careless talkers drift around, and fret and scold and paw the ground; perhaps they mean no ill; but they'd be wiser if they could save an hour for their idle yappings to be heard in Kaiser Bill. In times of peace each native gent could stand and cuss the government—until his lungs went home; I used to do it, I confess, we all enjoyed it more or less, and all endorsed the game. Free speech is numbered with the lions for which our fathers soaked their names and stripped the strongbox bare; when gentle peace is here once more, we'll all be privileged to roar, and rant around and swear. But now sweet peace is done to death; and he who uses up his breath to grumble and complain, to show that all we do is wrong, is striving dumbly to provoke the Teuton Teuton's rage. I would not like a traitor swing from some tall tree where robins sing, a rope around my neck; and so I spring the kind of dope that ticks of confidence and hope, and always will, by heck.

IN OUR TOWN.
It's hard for us to realize that war is daily roaring, that every minute some one dies, that blood in rills is pouring. Things go along the same old way, as they've been going always; the lawyers climb day after day, their grimy stairs and hallways. The little boys are playing ball, as are the larger fellows; and in the musty music hall the public speaker bellows. The merchant prince is after kalg, as though there were no battles, and now he springs a bargain sale of stoves and baby rattles. The mayor cries, "Take the trash away!" which scheme the town indorses; Jim Billings runs his yellow dray, and whales his 1-2-3 horse. The idle rich, the upper crust, ride to the coast, and Deacons, and throw the clouds of choking dust on tired and plodding voters. The candidate proceeds to chew his rag in old time manner, and tells how much he'd gladly do, to save our threatened banner. The schismar makes the children hum, and plies her trusty ruler; the peeler's pick's one passing barn, and file him in the cooler. The tightwad's cluck upon a dime pale death alone can sever; oh, things go on, in this stern time, about the same as every.

THE WEARY WOOD.
The war is breaking the world and making it sicker than an owl; the farthest nations are short of rations, and putting up a howl. I've just been readin' how poor old Sweden is one big snarl and kink; the kaiser's war way has busted Norway, and Denmark's on the blink. No land so humble, it does not grumble; no country's so remote it isn't feeling, and madly feeling that it will lose its goat. In every dwelling some gent is yelling that war's a frightful post; in mountain cottage the peasant's pottage costs twice what once it cost. The lone Nyaragas, as well as Kansas, have felt the deadly chill; in Chinese Canton they get a slant on a vastly bigger bill. The shepherd lonely whose task is only to guard his woolly bunch, feels Wilhelm hitting when down he's sitting to eat his frugal lunch. The arctic hunter, whose spear is blunter than any spear ever used, has a brand new snickerness. There is no tavern, no hole or cavern, no jungle dense and dark, no river dismal, no wet swamp, where war's not left its mark.

WORRIED FARMER.
The farmers were complaining, the water was too dry; and then it started raining from out a leaky sky; the rain came down in billows, mixed up with snow and hail; and the farmers were crying, and raising a wail. The farmers are allowing the ground is now so wet, they cannot do the plowing which is their one best bet. They've been crying and they're raising, they cannot stop their beans, they have to do their choring in boats and sub-marines. I've never known a granger who wasn't feeling sick, who was to grief a stranger, who didn't file a kick. The banker and the baker are smiling, cheerful men, and e'en the undertaker will gambol now and then. The butcher and the rooster will raise a glad hooray, when Spring is drawing closer, and like the lamkins play. The sexton and the pastor file his fat of plums, and they'll forget disaster until disaster comes. The lawyer and the tinker, the justice of the peace, pronounce this world a clinker, and life is sick as grease. But always and forever the farmer's face is grim; the gods all make endeavor to put a crimp in him. A song of woe, untiring, is coming from his throat; the pocket net is ever coming to gather in his goat. To him there's nothing charming beneath the sullen sky— and if you've followed farming, you'll know the reason why.

BOX SOCIAL.
A box social was held in school district No. 7, March 15. A program given by the pupils, lasted about an hour. It was followed by the sale of baskets which amounted to $36.35. A two-pound box of candy centri-buted by Grandma McQuistan for the benefit of the Red Cross, brought $133.60. It was sold nine different times. Following are the names of those who bought the candy and turned it back to be resold: William McQuistan, $20.10; Rollie McQuistan, $16; Charley McQuire, $18; Herman Louge, $15; Charley Arn, $15; Henry Korth, $15; Amos Longe, $10; Grandma McQuistan, $10; John McQuistan, $6.50. The last person to buy the box was William McQuistan for $10, making in all $133.60. Also $16 of the amount taken in for the boxes was put with the $133.60. After the supper had been eaten, $1 was found and turned into the Red Cross. Elsie Wornock who lost the $1, wished it to remain with the Red Cross. The entire amount contributed to the Red Cross was therefore $150.60, with $29.85 left for school supplies.

This inflames the stomach and causes nausea, vomiting and a terrible headache. Take Chamberlain's Tablets. They will tone up your liver, clean out your stomach and you will soon be as well as ever. MARKET YOUR WHEAT.

Omaha, Neb., March 27.—Market your wheat before the first of May. Save only enough for seed purposes. This is a war call and you can do no greater patriotic service than market all wheat.

The joint appeal is sent to the farmers of Nebraska by Herbert Hoover, food administrator, and Gordon W. Wattless, food administrator for Nebraska. "We are behind in our pledge to our associates in the war. We have promised to supply them with wheat sufficient to make their bread. So far we are behind in our shipments. We must show the soldiers in the trenches that we are back of them to the last ditch. We must feed them, even if we have to go without wheat."

That's the joint request of these men who are giving their time to their country.

EXCHANGING STOPPED.

Omaha, Neb., March 27.—Hereafter, the exchange of wheat flour for wheat will be discontinued by millers throughout Nebraska. The only exception is that a miller may exchange for the amount that can be bought on the open market, and in no event to exceed 100 pounds. At the same time, the man who exchanges must take substitutes covering the amount of the exchange. The Nebraska Millers' association adopted the above agreement in response to a request by Gordon W. Wattless, federal food administrator for Nebraska. The purpose of the action is to further conserve wheat and to equalize the distribution of this important commodity.

"We are making no sacrifice in eating one-half substitutes," said Wattless in his address to the millers. "In my opinion we will be eating one hundred per cent substitutes before the next harvest comes. We are behind in our promise to feed the allies and our boys in the trenches. We must and will make good our pledge to our associates in this great war for democracy."

Mrs. E. M. Smith entertained a few friends in honor of Miss Lucile Harris of Omaha.

E. D. Mitchell purchased the residence property of Mrs. G. W. Riley who expects to move to Washington.

The North Nebraska Teachers' association convened in Wayne for its annual session. A large crowd attended.

The city of Wayne employed eleven teachers in its schools and the monthly payroll was $610, almost $55.50 per teacher.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Craven celebrated their thirty-eighth wedding anniversary by inviting a number of friends and neighbors.

Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Olmstead entertained friends at a card party. Mrs. Will Weiler and Mrs. Cunningham secured the prizes.

Mrs. B. Cunningham left for a visit with her daughter, Mrs. C. Sharp at Clearwater and also with the family of her son, H. F. Cunningham, at Chambers, Neb.

The Kruger building adjoining Robert Heft's was divided into apartments, one for the barber shop of Wheaton & Lueders and the other for an office for Perry and Porterfield.

Fred Cook, a renter on one of A. B. Clark's farms, north of Laurel, was found dead in the field, behind a seeder with which he had been putting in wheat. The deceased was a brother of Mrs. Charles Miller of Wilbur precinct.

From Ponca Journal, March 27, 1912.

But now devote your attention to the Missouri river, also glance at Sioux City, in Iowa, also at the Dakota Southern R. R. in Dakota and at the various cities and towns along that railroad, for a letter to make twelve miles headway, has to start on a roundabout course of travel through all these indicated portions of Iowa and Dakota.

Now how do you suppose a letter travels when it starts in the mailbox from Ponca, directed to either place above named. Perhaps it will be thought that a carrier will get said bag and go direct twelve miles and make the trip in two hours. This would indeed be naturally considered the right thing to do, provided there were mail routes established from Ponca direct to those places.

Would the grave and revered heads in the legislative, executive, or any other department in Washington, have the kindness to lay aside for a moment all other business and excuses, and turn their scrutinizing and considerate gaze upon the mail routes in Dixon county, although this county forms but a small portion of the republic which your worship design to govern, yet if you could know what a disagreeable and annoying, yea, infernal manner, the mail routes in this county are arranged, you would, no doubt, hasten to our relief. By looking at the map you will notice that the town of Ponca, is situated at the eastern side of the county, and at the present termination of the great work of internal improvement, the C. C. & B. H. R. R. You will notice also the flourishing towns of Ionia, Newcastle and Daily Branch, each of which is situated twelve miles distant from Ponca.

Thus, a letter sent to Daily Branch, first goes to Covington over the C. C. & B. H. R. R. At Covington the letter is embarked on a ferry boat, and if the weather and waters are propitious, it arrives in Sioux City. Here the letter rests a few hours, and then again sets forth. It is placed on board of a mail car, and is sent skimming by rail over the pleasant and fruitful bottoms of Dakota, visiting several fine towns, and finally towards evening, arrives at Burbank, a driving place, (so-called after an eminent statesman of that name.) At Burbank, the worn and tired letter carries a day or two and is then transferred to a carrier, who escorts it out of the territory. It again braves the perils and terrors of the rambunctious Missouri, and wearily lands in Ionia. Here it again poses until the mail across the country brings it to its destination in the Daily postoffice, and when, after the lapse of a week from the time of starting, it gets there, it has journeyed sixty miles, whereas it ought to have made the trip in twelve. Can't something be done to abate such a cursed nuisance? If you've excited these, we will ordain and decree agreeable changes in the mail routes we will never ask another favor. Of course you will do it, and the sooner it is done the better it will be.

To The American People

There is no foundation for the alleged violations of law attributed to our Company by agents of the Federal Trade Commission and I want to say emphatically that Swift & Company is not a party to any conspiracy to defraud the Government. Nor has Swift & Company been guilty of improperly storing foods or of making false entries or reports.

Conferences of packers, where prices have been discussed, have been held at the urgent request and in the presence of representatives of either the Food Administration or the Council of National Defense. And yet the packers have been accused of committing a felony by acting in collusion on Government bids!

We have done our best, with other packers, large and small, to comply with the directions of the United States Food Administration in all particulars, including the furnishing of food supplies for the U. S. Army and Navy and the Allies, now being handled through the Food Administration.

We will continue to do our utmost, under Government direction, to increase our production and assist the Food Administration. We consider that the opportunity to co-operate whole-heartedly and to our fullest powers with this branch of the Government is our plain and most pressing duty.

The Trade Commission Attorney has, by false inference and misplaced emphasis, given to disconnected portions of the correspondence taken from our private files and read into the Record, a false and sinister meaning with the plain purpose of creating antagonistic public opinion.

The services of the packers of the United States are most urgently needed, and I regret exceedingly that we should at this time have to spend our efforts in defending ourselves against unfounded, unproved, and unfair assertions such as are being daily made public.

FOR USE OF WHEAT FLOUR
Omaha, Neb., March 27.—New rules and regulations, effective Monday, March 25, for the distribution and use of wheat flour have been promulgated by Gordon W. Wattles, food administrator, upon advice from Herbert Hoover. They are:

First—Householders must not use to exceed one and one-half pounds per week of wheat products for each person in the family. This means not more than one and three-fourths pounds of Victory bread, containing the required amount of substitutes, and about one-half pound of cooking flour of all kinds combined.

Second—Public eating places and clubs to observe two wheatless days each week, Monday and Wednesday, and one wheatless meal daily, as at present. In addition, they are not to serve in the aggregate a total of more than two ounces of wheat products to any one guest at one meal. No wheat products are to be served, unless specifically ordered.

Public eating establishments are not to buy more than six pounds of wheat flour per month per guest.

Third—Retailers shall not sell more than twenty-four pounds of flour to any town customer at any one time and not more than forty-eight pounds to a country customer at any one time. And they only with an equal weight of substitutes.

Fourth—Bakers and grocers are asked to reduce the volume of Victory bread sold by selling three quarter pound loaves where the pound loaf was sold before. Bakers are also asked not to increase the amount of their wheat flour purchases beyond seventy per cent of the average monthly amount purchased in the four months prior to March 1.

Fifth—Manufacturers using wheat products for non-food purposes are directed to cease such use entirely.

Sixth—No limit is placed upon the use of other cereals, such as corn, barley, buckwheat, potato flour, etc.

"If we are to supply the necessary wheat to our associates, we must comply with these regulations," says Wattles. "We must reduce our consumption one-half, and only strict compliance with these rules will enable us to do so. This is a military necessity and must be so construed."

CORNMAL PRICES.

Omaha, Neb., March 27.—In order to standardize the price of cornmeal in Nebraska, a committee representing the Nebraska Millers' association agreed with Gordon W. Wattles, federal food administrator, that the following should be observed by all millers as fair:

First—Two and one-fourth bushels of corn should be used in making 100 pounds of cornmeal.

Second—The fair cost to add for manufacturing forty cents per hundred; a fair profit which the miller may add is 12½ cents per hundred, agreed additional expense in less than car load lots, fifteen cents per hundred (this eliminates jobbers' profit); cost of 100 pound sack, 27 cents; in case miller sells f. o. b. consigne station, 20 cents per hundred may be added.

Third—All costs should be figured on the basis of No. 3 white corn on the price maintaining at the miller's market. From the total thus obtained, should be deducted the amount received from the sale of corn bran or other residue from milling, on the basis of twenty-four pounds from each two and one-fourth bushels of corn.

Fourth—To get the price of yellow corn meal, the market price of No. 3 yellow corn should be deducted from the price of No. 3 white corn; then take two and one-fourths times the difference and subtract from the cost obtained for white cornmeal.

The following example, based on the market price of No. 3 white corn in Omaha, at $1.80 per bushel; gives the fair price for 100 pounds white cornmeal in Omaha:

Cost of corn 2½x1.80	$4.05
Manufacturing cost	40
Profit	12½
Jobbing expense, less than car load	15
Freight (if prepaid)	20
100 pound sack	27
	57

Less 24 pounds bran at $1.35 per hundred

Cost of 100 pounds cornmeal (white)	$4.865
Yellow cornmeal, 100 pounds
Cost white corn	$1.80
Cost yellow corn	1.65

Difference 15
21 times 15 cents

Cost 100 pounds yellow cornmeal

That's why the Nebraska Liberty Loan committee is doing everything it can to furnish you with exact figures that will show what your fair share is, and what your neighbor is expected to do.

Do I have any doubts of the Nebraska people doing their share? Had you been with me at Bob Manley's meeting in the Omaha Chamber of Commerce, with a large room full of volunteer workers, every one anxious to do his bit, that standing room was at a premium, your answer would be "No."

On the Firing Line Skilled Telephone Men Keep the Wires Working

Former Bell Telephone employees are helping operate the telephone systems along the American lines on the European battle front.

These former Bell employees in the army signal corps are getting the same pay that they did at home.

The difference between the wages formerly paid these telephone men and the amount the government pays them is being made up by the Bell System.

Every month along that portion of the firing line in Europe occupied by each 600,000 men, enough telephone wire is stretched from New York to the Mississippi river and back again is destroyed.

In spite of the war and what it has meant to this company in the increased number of telephone messages to handle, the enlistment of so many of our trained men, the shortage of equipment, the scarcity of labor and the high cost of telephone materials—

In spite of all these obstacles, we are meeting the needs of the public for telephone service in a remarkably successful way.

A Surprise Party. Mrs. Frank Williams, wife of the pastor of the Methodist church, had a birthday last Thursday, but her friends of the Ladies' Aid society, and others, were determined that it should be just no ordinary birthday. Accordingly, to the number of about thirty, they gathered at the parsonage in the afternoon, in what was a perfect surprise on the object of their visit. They took with them baskets which turned out to contain the ingredients for a bounteous lunch which was served at the close of a fine afternoon's visiting.
