WAYNE FOLKS IN CHICAGO

Mrs. P. H. Kohl and Daughter Busy in Branches of Navy Service.

Splendid reports are received of the big naval review which was held on April 30 at the Great Lakes naval training station at Great Lakes, Ill., in honor of Secretary Daniels who visited the station at that time. Mrs. P. H. Kohl and Miss Marjorie were guests for the day at the officers' quarters at Great Lakes, and were thus able to view the impressive parade at first hand. Mrs. Kohl says that it was a sight which she will never forget to see 22,000 "jacksies" in full parade, led by John Phillip Sousa's band of 600 drilled musicians. The world-famous band leader has given up all other pursuits for the present, and is giving his entire efforts and time to drilling this magnificent band which is the largest in number the world has ever known. At present the band is divided into thirty smaller bands, all of which are out over the country leading parades and public demonstrations for the benefit of liberty loan campaigns.

Mrs. Kohl and Miss Marjorie are both working constantly in connection with the Women's Navy Auxiliary at Chicago and Evanston, Ill. Mrs. Kohl already has her navy uniform and in recognition of services rendered, Miss Marjorie is preparing for work in the upbuilding and care of the convalescent soldiers, especially those suffering from what is known as "shell shock."

A short time ago Miss Marjorie entertained the officers and their guests at the great Lakes station on an afternoon of readings and impersonations. She has been asked to repeat the same for the benefit of the sailors at the Y. M. C. A. entertainments. Miss Marjorie says her only wish nowadays is that each day contained more hours in which to do these things.

Mrs. Kohl and Miss Marjorie both send word that if any of the Wayne people have sons at Chicago or the Great Lakes station, or anywhere in the service near Evanston, Ill., they would be pleased if they could have the boys call them up by phone, or let them know in some way of their whereabouts. Address Mrs. P. H. Kohl, 1212 P. Street, Evanston, Ill. Phone number is Evanston 2425.

A KING'S PALACE.

How much the King of Italy appreciates the American Red Cross is indicated by his action in turning over a part of his palace at Genoa to be used as a warehouse for Red Cross supplies.

The Red Cross has been shipping millions of dollars worth of supplies for refugees and the families of soldiers into Italy. Large storage space was needed and the King solved the difficulty so far as Genoa was concerned.

The royal palace now being used as a Red Cross warehouse is a great stone building crowning one of the steep hills which rise from the harbor. It has two large wings, and there are thirteen rooms which the Red Cross may use.

Red Cross representatives have been sent into every section of Italy to remain and work among the people. They will see to it that the families of Italian soldiers do not suffer while the men are at the front. This is the same kind of work behind the lines which has been so successful in France and Belgium.

With the Austrians and Germans pounding at the north, and possibly for a time working among the Italian peasants out of their homes, the Red Cross will have need of all its resources to handle the refugees. The spirit of helping up the spirits of the people and the soldiers will be worth infinitely more than the mere money cost.

SHORTHORN BULLS.

Parties interested in raising cattle should call and see bulls raised by John S. Lewis, Jr. & Son. They are the largest type beef cattle, yet their dams give a good flow of milk. Herd headed by Britton Goods 339757, son of Imported Choice Goods 186892, the most noted bull ever imported. His get and the get of his son and grandsons have won more prizes than any other family of the breed. Such cattle in Iowa sales last month averaged $900 to $1,150 each. These bulls can be bought so they will pay for themselves in additional beef produced in a short time and good enough to head any pure blood herd in northeast Nebraska. Were founded, 1897, by John S. Lewis, Jr. & Son, Breeders, Not Scalpers, Wayne, Neb. Alt14d

New York World: Any estimate of the number of men who have become 21 years of age since June 5, 1917, and may be called for service under the amended draft law will necessarily require revision. Enlistments from this class of men have been very heavy, and the immediate effect of the new legislation will be to stimulate volunteering.

Detroit Vapor Oil Stove

Here is a wickless, odorless oil stove that lights and cooks like city gas. Burners are heavy grey annealed iron, last a life time, give intense heat, save one-quarter on fuel over gas, coal, wood or ordinary oil stoves. Heat directly under utensils. Two burners in oven assure prize baking results. Splendidly built, beautifully finished, requires no blocking. Makes cool summer kitchen. No back-breaking stopping. Extremely simple, safe and quick working.

TRAINED HELP NEEDED.

The civilian branches of the army and navy are in need of thousands of highly trained workers, and before the end of 1918 these branches must be increased to meet the needs according to the civil service commission.

The ordnance department of the army needs large numbers of mechanical engineers, draftsmen, chemists, and metallurgists. Thousands of inspectors are wanted to pass on the quality of ordnance ammunition and other supplies. The navy work statisticians, accountants, assistants in business administration, and specially trained clerks are needed.

The quartermaster corps wants several thousand examiners and inspectors, and passenger and freight clerks are needed. The signal corps is short of draftsmen.

The navy has an unlimited number of places for draftsmen, and a long list of positions for technical workers. Practically all branches of the service need stenographers, typists, bookkeepers, and clerks.

THE EARLY DAYS IN TWO COUNTIES.

From the Wayne Herald, May 10, 1900.
 J. Hoile and family of Laurel met at the Emil Weber home in Wayne.
 Thieves entered the Boyd hotel and stole $40 from the room of two young ladies.
 Miss Myrtle Ford was the recipient of a tin shower from a number of her lady friends.
 Mr. and Mrs. B. Johns of Three Rivers, Mich., visited their daughter, Mrs. Charles Shultze.
 The Wayne high school alumni association held its annual meeting at the residence of R. Philco.
 Carl Volpp, brother of County Treasurer Volpp, purchased the bakery of McVicker and Richards.
 Mrs. Charles Smith of Colorado Springs, visited her sisters, Mrs. R. E. K. Mellor and Mrs. H. F. Wilson.
 T. F. Bressler and Dr. W. C. Wigham built two large buildings in the Bressler and Britton addition northwest of the court house.
 The school board met and reorganized by the election of F. L. Nely as president; Dr. E. S. Blair, vice president; and D. C. Main, secretary.
 The semi-annual conference of the clergy of the Catholic church of the Jackson diocese was held in Wayne. Bishop Scanlon of Omaha, was present.
 Miss Myrtle Ford, sister of Mrs. F. M. Northrup, was married to Harvey S. Ringland, May 9, 1910, in the presence of forty immediate relatives.

From Ponca Journal, May 8, 1917.
 A copious rain visited us last night.—This was something long needed, and now the farmer feels happy.
 The new ferry boat of Ellwell & Son commenced running today between Ponca Landing and the Dakota side. The boat is safe and substantial, and can carry with comfort four tons. It is run by horse power.
 A gentleman from the Logan valley informs us that the tide of immigration is now flowing into that part of the country in a very lively manner. It is claimed that the population in the valley of the Logan will more than double before winter.
 The story which has been industriously circulated through the country lately, that a large body of hostile savages were coming to raid the western frontier of this state, is found to be a humbug. It was said that there was from 800 to 3,000 Indians on the war path, and that the settlers were fortifying and making preparations for a siege at Red Willow and other points. It now turns out to be merely a scare, got up by the stock men of the frontier for the purpose of keeping out immigration.
 A correspondent to the Lincoln Journal takes this view of the case, and says that immigration has been pouring in this spring in full tide and that unless checked in some way the stock men will have to move back their herds very soon.

NO MEATLESS DAYS NOW
 Omaha, Neb., May 8.—For the present there will be no meatless days, according to advice to Gordon W. Wattles, federal food administrator for Nebraska from Herbert Hoover.
 However, to obviate further meatless days it is up to the American people to exercise most rigid economy in the purchase and consumption of all meats and meat products.
 The demands upon us will be even greater than they have been in the past and only strict use will enable us to meet the demands. In March the United States exported 20,000,000 pounds of pork and 70,000,000 pounds of beef.

FIFTY PER CENT OUTLET.
 Omaha, Neb., May 8.—Mills of Nebraska are asked to sell fifty per cent of their May output to the government. The previous order was for forty per cent, which was an increase of ten per cent over former requests.
 "This request only emphasizes the necessity for strict observance of wheatless meals," says Food Administrator Wattles. "Our allies and our own boys must have wheat and we must supply it. We can send them only what we do not eat."
 Minneapolis Journal: The government is going to have a powder plant—cooking—fine, square—mills. Here is the home of the Big Noise we have heard about.

UNCLE WALT.
 The Poet Philosopher.

A DISMAL DAY.
 An ice cold rain is falling, sometimes it's mixed with sleet; the optimist is calling "This rain will save the wheat." Then I forget the weather, and smile from ear to ear, and crack my heels together, and raise a lusty cheer. If rainstorms, blooming, bleeding, with gusts of sleet and snow, will bring the wheat we're needing, why let the moisture flow. I never can be doleful, I always must be gay; in gloomy mood and soulful I'd like to spend a day.
 If I should not be so blubbing, my fat cheeks the tears; but when I start my sobbing the optimist appears.—He laughs at my repining, with a hearty laugh, and says, "You knowes the weather that features every cloud. The war sometimes seems getting the only goat I own; I yield myself to fretting and pout; in quiet a groan, and while I shed the brim, and trot out doubts and fears, with features bright and shiny the optimist appears. He has a hundred reasons why I should not smile; he shows that doubts are treasons, and fears are out of style. So arm 'em arm we teeter, a reuben and a hick, and swear this life is sweeter than raffy on a tick."

A BIRTHDAY.
 Some, umpty years ago today I showed up on this planet, where northern streamlets dash their way between tall hills of granite. I'm growing old in count of years, that much I am allowing; but I am chubbier as die steers; that Adam used for plowing. If you'd convince me I am old, you'd have to bring the papers; for I am gay, my step is bold, and I cut fancy capers. Men often say, "You look so young! Your youth is scarcely civil; the rest of us by age are stung—why don't you head and shrivel?" And I reply, "The world's a joke, and life a transient flurry, and all our troubles end in smoke, so I refuse to worry. To me care looks like tawdry cents, I figure it to the foxes; it's worry ages dames and gents and puts them in their boxes. Oh, worry will not heal a sore, there no balm in weeping; so while you fellows walk the floor, I put in nine hours sleeping. And here I am all sound and hale, and fit and pert and able to take a bullock by the tail and throw it over the stable."
 Today I celebrate my birth with flares and Roman candles, while sighs recho round the earth, bragging of my age and worth. If tears would stand a single foe, I'd make a moist beginning; but not an ill is healed by woe, and so I keep on grinning.

SCHWAB ON THE JOB.
 We need more ships for speedy trips across the well known ocean, to carry boys to shoot our Turks, and quell the Teuts' commotion. The work has dragged although men bragged of how we'd turn out vessels; we make blue prints and charts in tints, while poor old Europe wrestles. We hem and haw and stall and paw while worn-out France is bleeding; and we produce the pulp excusing when ships are what we're needing. But now, methinks, we've lost our jinx, and things will soon be jumping; for Chas. M. Schwab is on the job, and we may see him humming. This mighty man has come to plan, to do, and cut out dreaming, and ships of his will shortly whiz for France, their sails set, and their masts flying. Doubt and mental quip, to foolish snarl and tangle, to chewing rags and empty brags, to stale debate and single, "For what purpose?" Schwab is on the job, the tireless early riser, and he'll build boats to get the boats of Carl and O'her Kaiser. "Carl has," says he, "he isn't tall to me of reasons for delaying; and there's a lid for every kid who stands around here bragging!" Now beat the drums! The giant comes, and no more waiting on the river. Charles M. Schwab is on the job, a trait of smoke behind him!

SMALL BEGINNINGS.
 Large oaks from little acorns grow, the wise man says long ago. Oh, he had lived and loved and learned, and ere he to the dust returned; he summed up all the things he had done, and found it a fact or two—and sprung them in the form you know: "Large oaks from little acorns grow." One day news from France was vile; the Teuts advanced a mile more, it seemed that they would win the scrap, and back—the allies off the map. And scores of men with aching hearts, were standing on a city street; their whole appearance was a frost; they said that everything was lost. "The Teuts have won," they said, and they were right, and right onward to the sea, and ere they stop their sinful games they'll be hard Windsor and St. James. We might as well take in our sign, and spend the fortune on a drink. I said to them, "Oh, morbid owls, cease putting up such doleful howls! There's nothing lost till Pershing wires that all has been used up in tires." A few brisk words I threw around, their pessimism to confound; 'twas all they needed, and they rose and bet ten bones and

THE COLD RAIN.
 The wind is cold, the sky is wet, the rain's continuous and moist; and many people sigh and fret who are in the mood of the rain. The woeers are so poorly built they view a dark day with affright; they think that all the beans are split if there should be a cloud 'n' right. But I have made a gaudy fire. I hear it roaring up the flue; and here I sit and sweat my lyre, and raise a happy howdy.—I look out at the liquid rain that hangs on the eaves, and see it washing down the pane, and do not throw a morbid fit. The rain will make the fields more fair, and that should cheer up the souls; and it will purify the air, and make the microbes thin their holes. The rain will save the oats and rye—that's what the good old rain is for, and thus we see if we have eyes, that storms like this will win the war. How often through a lack of rain, has this hour-stricken country groaned! So it is sinful to complain because your picnic is postponed. The country roads are dripping wet, no more cars along them purr; but it's wrong!

a wicked thing to fret because your joyride won't occur.

FRENCH NAMES.
 I'd chant an ode to Joffre, with ardor and delight, but up there sneaks a scoffer: "You don't pronounce it right; the name should rhyme with 'suffer,' O poet short and fat, and you're a dippy duffer, or you'd be wise to that: I raise my voice so mellow, not peeled, in a huff; they speak another fellow." "The French pronounce it 'luite.' I see there's no use flirting with such a stinking name until I know for certain how to pronounce the same. And so I start a sonnet about the mighty Foch, whose name has laurels on it—I make it rhyme with 'yoke.' Then says a poet neighbor, "Your sonnet is a botch, and wasted is your labor—the hero's name is Foch." I am would sing of Vpres, and also of Amoes, but will one rhyme with snipers—and other one with beans? I even balk at Paris, for fear I get it wrong, and such breaks so embarrass the man who trifles a song. I'd like to sing of Calais a martial stirring lay, but then, so help me Alice, I fear it is Calais, Fair France, I'd like to bring you a wreath of death-like song! Oh, France, I'd like to sing you, but get the language wrong!

Petty local disagreements should not be allowed to occupy attention and absorb nerve forces during the war period when interest, united effort is needed to defeat the Hun outlaws in the shortest possible time.

Dr. A. L. Bixby is being deluged with letters designed to convince him of the soundness of the doctrine of reincarnation, but he refuses to be convinced. He confesses that he has had his money's worth, and doesn't want to come back.

As the leader in shaping war policies and managing war activities, President Wilson's judgment which is supported by the best possible sources of information, should be accepted and followed. People who think they would do differently, might agree with him if they were acquainted with all the facts.

Sergeant H. J. Amundson, Harrison, Mo., soldier, boy in training at Camp Taylor, Ky., preliminary to going to France to fight the Prussian foe, was deeply incensed over the report of the yellow paint daubed on his father's store recently, and gave to the public at Hartington a note of scalding resentment. He says his father, though too old to longer assume the burdens of the store, insisted on doing so in order to permit the son to join the colors. The boy's justifiable indignation is expressed in this one sentence: "It is very humiliating to think a chap can't leave his home where he spent his whole life and volunteer and serve his country without having those he leaves behind him that are dear enough to him to fight for, insulted by some slacker too cowardly to say openly what he thinks he can imply by paint and who works at night like an ordinary criminal!"

As long as this war had to happen to put brutal autocracy out of commission and extend human freedom over the world, we should be glad to have lived to contribute to the mighty and righteous task. The demand for unselfish service and sacrifice was never greater. The opportunity to share in the cause of human liberty is here. The history of future ages will reward the people of this period for their devotion to extended and ennobled democracy. This young David of the western world, conceived in the hour of the world for a time will immortalize the heroic deeds and sacrifices of this nation. We can well afford to do our utmost. We cannot afford to be neglected by difficulty in an hour that will aid the government in hastening the war to a triumphant end.

MOTHERS' DAY.
To My Own Dear Mother: Next Sunday is Mother's day, and the occasion is calculated to exalt motherhood and stimulate mother love which is the purest and noblest love in the world. Since you left here seven years ago, a gigantic world cataclysm has happened. It is still happening and will keep on happening until the ulcer of Prussianism which burst and menaced with its poison the world's health, has been effectually removed. In this trial by the fire of war, mother love is the indispensable, unconquerable and sustaining power. Mother love cannot accept with the selfish purpose and cruel methods of ruling despots. It cannot harmonize with those forces which would subjugate and enslave unoffending peoples of the earth. Mother love covers mother, secretly and openly, must consistently gravitate to the aid and comfort of the nation combined against Prussian aggression, Prussian oppression and Prussian atrocity. Was it not mother love, leavened and electrified by the divine, that, appearing from the invisible world, saved from destruction the greatly outnumbered armies pitted against the maddened host of the kaiser at the Marne? Is not mother love a buoying force on the ocean and in the trenches? Is not mother love penetrating the veil of eternity and lending strength to the righteous cause of world freedom, exalted civilization and enlarged opportunity?

"You, mother, were the idol of my soul, and your hopes and expectations always caused my tenderest solicitude. This was true before you passed away, and before we laid your warm tenement to rest, and it is just as true now. What is true of you is true of every true mother. It is true of every true son and daughter. Thus, mother love, always a potent force, from visible and invisible sources, is aroused before to the highest possible degree. Love keeps up the home cheer, the home fortitude; it maintains the soldier's boy's spirit, hope and resolution. Mother love is synonymous with love for a free country, for an untrammelled citizenship, for spiritual evolution and exaltation. Every one who struggles and then love is an infinite force for good. All honor to her, be she here in person or in spirit!"

Proper Food for Weak Stomachs.

The proper food for one man may be all wrong for another. Every one should adopt a diet suited to his age and occupation. Those who have weak stomachs need to be especially careful and should eat slowly and assimilate their food thoroughly. It is also important that they keep their bowels regular. When they become constipated or when they feel dull and stupid after eating, they should take Chamberlain's Tablets to strengthen the stomach and move the bowels. They are easy to take and pleasant in effect.—Adv.

SECOND BIG CALL FOR MEN

Governor Neville Receives Orders to Mobilize 1,573 Men.

Lincoln Journal, May 4: Governor Neville has received orders of the second large general call for selected men. While Nebraska's gross quota under this call is 12,490, it will be necessary to furnish only 1,573 for the reason that credit has been given for volunteer enlistments in the army and for men already inducted by local boards under special calls.

In the first general call under the draft law, population was used as the basis for arriving at the quota for each state and for each local board. Under that call, Nebraska's gross quota was 13,876 with an enlistment quota of 5,691 leaving a net quota of men to be actually entrained for camp of 8,185.

One of the changes in the selection process proposed by the department and now before congress is to use the number of men classified in each state as a basis in determining the quota for the states and for the local boards.

When this proposed change was submitted to Governor Neville he communicated to the federal department contending that inasmuch as there was bound to be a lack of uniformity in classifying men not only among the local boards in Nebraska but among the several states in the union due to the divergence of opinion of board members and to a variance of interpretation of the regulations and in some cases to an utter failure to properly understand the intent and purpose of those regulations, such a system without the aid of a commission of experts would be extremely unfair to all registrants in general but especially to those under the jurisdiction of the local boards that had adhered strictly to the regulations. Governor Neville also contended that until such corrective procedure had been instituted an all inclusive committee remedied either population or total number of registrants less aliens should be used as the basis for determining the correct quota. The boards should be given credit for the men who have enlisted from their territory so that each state should each county should be proportionate share without working an unnecessary hardship on agricultural communities where under the present plan men actively and completely engaged in farming will be permitted a postponement of induction.

General Crowder has advised that in the absence of the new quota legislation the new call just announced will be made on the basis of population as was done in the first call and credit allowed for army enlistments. Nebraska's gross quota is 12,490. There were enlisted in the regular army July 1, 1917, to March 31, 1918, 42,818 men who were enlisted in the national guard from Nebraska during the same period, 1,868; there were enlisted in the enlisted reserve corps and national army, from April 2, 1917, to March 31, 1918, 1,547, making a total of 7,878. This leaves Nebraska a net quota of 4,612. There have been inducted by local boards under special calls issued from time to time by the department a total of 2,084. By allowing credit for this number of men, there is a balance of 1,628. Of this number fifty-five will be colored men, leaving a final net quota of 1,573.

The gross quota of 12,490 will be proportioned to each local board on the basis of population and each local board given credit for the number of men enlisted from their territory. The table giving the quotas for each board is now in preparation in the government office and will be announced in a day or two. Under this new call, and also because of the patriotic spirit of Nebraska boys has been reduced from 12,490 to 1,573, directs that the men be entrained during the five day period beginning May 25 for Camp Dodge, Des Moines, Ia. Under all previous calls, aside from the small special inductions, the men have been entrained for either Camp Funston or Fort Logan. This is the first contingent to move to Camp Dodge. Only white men and men physically qualified for general military service will be inducted under this call. Mobilization orders giving the number of men to be furnished by each local board, together with the schedule to be followed, will be forwarded to local boards within a few days.

NEBRASKA'S WAR ACTIVITIES.

The east is finally awakening to the fact that the west is awake to the war situation and that it has helped in the change of sentiment. Not only does the state lead in per capita war savings stamp sales and Green Stamps, but it also stands high in the third liberty loan campaign. Every county in Nebraska has oversubscribed its quota, although the previous campaign only 30 per cent of the counties did so.

OVERRIPE.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Austria is again ripe for revolt, according to London reports. But the trouble is that Austria has been ripe for so long that it is in that condition of overripeness in which it is not worth picking.

WRITING TO SOLDIERS.

In a recent statement the War Department strongly advises against discouraging letters to soldiers.

"Recent reports from commanding generals of certain army divisions indicate that one of the fruitless activities of soldiers absentees is themselves without leave is the discouraging letter from home. Such letters frequently give alarming and exaggerated reports of conditions surrounding the soldier's family, that some member is desperately ill, that all are starving, or that they are being in some way harassed. In instances such letters have so preyed upon the minds of soldiers that they have absented themselves completely from the service, only to find that conditions had been grossly exaggerated.

"Meanwhile, the soldier had been absent without leave—a serious military offense. His problem then became one of facing the penalty or getting deeper into Trouble by deserting. Sometimes the soldier's pride or self-respect led him to desert.

"Every soldier wants to receive letters from home. They should be frequent, cheerful, hopeful, and appetizing. The soldier should be making for his country. They should be full of family incidents and cheerful home gossip. They should protect him from the terrific alarm and the small annoyances of everyday life. They should encourage him by giving full confidence that his family and his friends stand behind him in the great enterprise he has undertaken.

"The value of such letters to soldiers is beyond estimation. The harm that discouraging letters from home do to him is clearly indicated by reports at the Adjutant General's office. Here are the extracts from recent reports of division commanders:

"I find, also, that many of the families of the men write to them of unsatisfactory conditions at home, sickness of relatives, and how much various members of the family wish to see the soldier. These letters, so far as sickness, etc., are concerned, are often overdrawn, but, combined with the homesick feeling, often result in the man going absent without leave and finally being dropped as a deserter.

"I am, now, through the newspapers of Indiana and through lecturers in Kentucky whom we are able to reach through the office of the adjutant general of that state, endeavoring to advise the home people of these men of the seriousness of these offenses and that their efforts should be to assist every man in performing the duty that has devolved on him, to lighten his worries and, above all, to regard desertion, in its proper light. I shall also attempt to get the West Virginia papers to institute a campaign of education along similar lines.

"A division inspector submitted the following in this connection: 'While stationed at Columbus Barracks, I met Sgt. I. H. Barrack, member of a general court-martial that tried approximately 100 enlisted men for desertion from national guard regiments stationed on the border. I believe I am safe in saying that a least 90 per cent of them gave their reason for desertion the fact that they had received letters from home to the effect that a wife, sister, or mother was either dying, very ill, or in destitute circumstances, and begged the man to come.'

THE NEW FINANCE

Lincoln Journal: At Tekamah the other day, in the heart of a region where the corn ears sometimes have to be quartered before they can be got through the sheller, the moon was auctioned off under brisk bidding for the neat sum of $1000. At Oakland, another corn belt town, a flock of wild geese which happened to be passing over was put on sale. A man who had lately sold an ear of corn for fifty dollars and received title to his property. We hear weird tales of speculative prices paid for a farmer's whiskers; of a delicious bid for the excitement tunc of the Star Spangled Banner as discoursed by a brass band; of such prices for auctioned pigs and calves as no Dutchman ever in his wildest moments paid for a tulip.

Now none of this is on its face new. Nebraska heard something a year or two ago of men who had paid high prices for, not high flying wild geese, but equally inaccessible Arizona—or was it New Mexico—wild horses. One of them, a Nebraska banker, paid several thousand dollars for a common brick. Then there was the farmer who a year or two ago paid a thousand dollars for a couple of bananas. Bankers say that Nebraska people are buying patches of blue sky every day, taking as evidence of title beautifully engraved certificates of stock. Nebraskans have paid high prices for the bottom of Florida seas and lagoons. Court proceedings have lately disclosed that Nebraskans have gone so far as to buy Oklahoma sand storms.

But the blue sky transactions at Tekamah, Oakland and other places, though superficially all the same were fundamentally different. In both cases men and their money were parted without tangible return; but here the resemblance stops. It was not a case of tools and their money at the auction of wild geese, the moon and the farmer's whiskers. This money, instead of going to swindlers to be spent in riotous living, went to the Red Cross to salvage human life.

Nebraska welcomes and encourages these new transactions in "blue sky." They usher out the blue finance that exchanges money for experience, and usher in the new finance by which men exchange money for life. Liberty bonds in place of gold bricks. Red Cross receipts instead of deeds to celestial terraces such is the nature of the change. The new finance leaves us no poorer while it makes the world richer. Let the sale of migrant wild geese, moons and waving whiskers go on.

GIFT TO RED CROSS.

Canadian soldiers, who are making the Germans pay so dearly for every inch of ground in the fighting area and who have repeatedly thrown back the German hordes, are to be the beneficiaries of a gift of $500,000 just made by the American Red Cross to their own Canadian Red Cross.

This gift to the Canadian Red Cross follows closely upon a gift of $1,000,000 to the British Red Cross and both gifts are made, to emphasize the close sympathy and friendship that exists between English and American soldiers and civilians.

Hundreds, perhaps thousands, of American youths men enlisted in the Canadian forces before our country entered the war and the Canadian Red Cross used its resources ungrudgingly for their benefit. Consequently this gift in one sense simply repays the generosity of the Canadians.

While the American Red Cross placed no restriction on the gift, the wish was expressed that the Canadian Red Cross would use the money for sick and wounded Canadian soldiers in the battle front. The gift has brought forth the most cordial expressions of appreciation from the people of Canada as well as from the soldiers.

Best Remedy for Whooping Cough.—Last winter when my little boy had the whooping cough I gave him Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. writes Mrs. J. B. Roberts, East St. Louis, Ill. "It kept his cough from and relieved him of those dreadful coughing spells. It is the only cough medicine I keep in the house because I have the most confidence in it." This remedy is also good for colds and croup.—Adv.

CONTRARY TO THEORY.

Cassius City, Mo. The German prisoners in Russia are not showing any hurry to get back home, which seems to disprove the theory that you can't separate a German from his government.

USE THE SEDITION LAW.

Lincoln Trade Review: Patriotic people in this state who earnestly desire the suppression of sedition and the bringing to justice of men disloyal in word or act, should become acquainted with the sedition law that is now upon the statute books and concentrate their efforts in support of that law. This law of sufficient strength to bring any offender to the bar of justice; its execution is placed in the hands of the state council of defense and in the courts of the state through which all justice should be administered.

The sedition law should, in every locality and with right action, be used to succeed yellow paint, personal violence and the destruction of property, no matter how great the provocation may be for these outside methods of punishment are too often lead to results reactionary and regrettable. The use of yellow paint may be in response to righteous indignation, but the enforcement of the sedition law is much more effective than the generally secret plan of decorating the homes or places of business of offenders with yellow paint.

The state council of defense, with the sedition law in its hands, rightly is demanding that these methods of expression outside of the law be not resorted to, be not encouraged or supported. There can always be an element of personal antagonism or revenge for supposedly personal injuries fostered in the application of punishment done under cover. The sedition law provides punishment to the men, order and lawful punishment and effective punishment, because coming from the state and not from individuals acting on their own initiative.

What is needed in connection with the sedition law, is courage on the part of those who are satisfied that the law is being violated, to report the offender to the council of their support and testimony and use the law, rather than to organize and express condemnation through meetings outside of the law. There is no question as to the overwhelming public sentiment in this state along patriotic lines and those who know that the sedition law is being violated, should not be afraid to speak out. There is no after pride or satisfaction in attempting punishment through the painting or the tar and feather methods. Professional agitators are not afraid of them, but after all, punishment through the law and by the law is the kind that is longest effective and that stands the test of time.

UNALTERABLE LOYALTY.

Lincoln Journal: Eighteen leading university professors of German birth have written in a declaration of principles on the war pledging "unalterable loyalty" and "material support and influence" to the American government. One of the signers is Prof. Laurence Fossler, whose fine American spirit has warned off all approach from the German department of the University of Nebraska. The manifesto asks that German-Americans everywhere join in supporting these principles:

"We view with abhorrence and condemn without reservation the part which the German imperial government has in provoking or permitting the present world conflict. We disavow and disown the doctrine subversive of international security and future peace, that international covenants may be set aside whenever it is to the interest of any nation to do so, and we condemn, unqualifiedly, as unworthy of the Germanization, the various acts of violence, in disregard of such covenants, which have been firm adherence to the political principles and ends for which the United States has entered the war, the condemnation of a national right, the self-determination of nations, the discrediting of militarism and imperialism, and the substitution thereof of liberal and democratic ideals and principles of government, and we pledge our unalterable loyalty, our material support and our influence until these ends shall have been attained."

COULD NOT PROSECUTE.

Harrington Herald: The law passed by the last session of congress which prohibits the prosecution of any civil action against a soldier, was given a local touch when County Judge Bryant ruled that the charge of paternity brought by Maudie Berg against Carl Korff could not be prosecuted at this time. Korff was home from Camp Funston on a furlough and was arrested on a warrant sworn out by Miss Berg upon the preliminary hearing Judge Bryant suggested that the defendant give a bond of $1000 to answer to the charge after he is discharged from the army and this was agreed to.

"There is good reason for this law," said Judge Bryant, "and there is no doubt that the proceedings could be suspended in district court until the soldier was discharged. It has been reported that there are several thousand war veterans in the vicinity of the various cantonments. This is most probably an exaggeration, but if a man could be prosecuted, innocent or guilty, left open a chance for German propaganda to cripple our whole army. While regretting its effect on the individual

C B & Q Corn Planters

Can be Depended Upon in the Field

Winner of Gold Medal at San Francisco Exposition

Why C B & Q Planters Drop Kernels Accurately

The Gold Medal was the highest award conferred on corn planters at the San Francisco Exposition in 1915.

The importance of this victory of the C B & Q planter means more when one stops to look into the reasons which led the Jury of Awards to confer this honor on this planter.

The award means that the C B & Q planter is constructed of high-grade materials throughout and therefore with proper care and handling will give good service for a long period of time.

Furthermore, it means that the planter was operated in the presence of the Jury of Awards and found to work properly, the plates and valves operating together so that the plates dropped a high percentage of kernels accurately. If the planter was set to drop three kernels to a hill, practically all the hills contained three kernels, not three, then two, then four, but three practically every time.

In the final analysis the award of the Gold Medal to the C B & Q planter means that this planter has no superior in the corn planter world.

Equip your C B & Q with the simple power drop attachment shown here and use the planter without check wire. The attachment consists of two simple lugs, one on the seed plate shaft and one on the valve shaft. The valves are opened automatically. By shifting the chain on the different sprockets, or by changing sprockets you can obtain almost any hill distance desired. Power drop supplied as an extra.

You can use edgedrop, flat-drop and full-hill drop plates in the same hopper without any change in the mechanism.

To secure the best planting results all seed corn should be graded and seed plates selected that will fit the size and shape of the kernels to be planted. The planter then has an even chance to perform its work.

On the C B & Q planter the plates are operated directly from the solid steel axle. The drive chain is always kept taut by an automatic chain tightener, which prevents any lost motion in transmitting power.

This construction all has to do with the efficient working of the plates and the valves of the planter. The plates operate exactly on time so that the desired number of kernels are delivered to the upper valves and are there waiting to drop when the valves are tripped. The valves have a force feed action—in other words, a plunger which forces the kernels out together and into the bottom of the furrow.

The action of both the plates and the valves is positive. The power is dependable, the gears are carefully cut and therefore mesh properly, insuring a high percentage of accurate dropping for this planter. Adverse field conditions are met successfully by the C B & Q planter.

One of the strongest features of the C B & Q planter is the combined variable drop and clutch. The clutch is built into the dropping mechanism in a way that is simple and effective. By means of the variable drop, 2, 3, or 4 kernels can be planted in each hill and the change can be made from the seat without stopping the team. The clutch is positive and accurate.

Both Ends

(Producer and Consumer)

Against

The Middle

(The Packer)

The consumer wants to pay a low price for meat.

The farmer wants to get a high price for cattle.

The packer stands between these conflicting demands, and finds it impossible to completely satisfy both.

The packer has no control over the prices of live stock or meat, and the meat that can be expected of him is that he keep the difference between the two as low as possible. He does this successfully by converting animals into meat and distributing the meat at a minimum of expense, and at a profit too small to be noticeable in the farmer's returns for live stock or in the meat bill of the consumer.

Swift & Company's 1917 transactions in Cattle were as follows:

Average Per Head
Sold Meat to Retailer for	$68.97
Sold By-products for	24.89
Total Receipts	93.86
Paid to Cattle Raiser	92.88
Balance (not paid to Cattle Raiser)	8.61
Paid for labor and expenses at Packing House, Freight on Meat, and Cost of operating Branch distributing houses	7.32
Remaining in Packer's hands as Returns on investment	$ 1.29

The net profit was $1.29 per head, or about one-fourth of a cent per pound of beef.

By what other method can the difference between cattle prices and beef prices be made smaller, and how can the conflicting demands of producer and consumer be better satisfied?

CONSOLIDATED WITH THE WAYNE REPUBLICAN

WAYNE, NEBRASKA, THURSDAY, MAY 9, 1918.

VOL. 31, NO. 48

FOR THE RED CROSS DRIVE

Prof. O. R. Bowen, Chairman of County Campaign, Issues Letter.

Prof. O. R. Bowen, county chairman of the second Red Cross war fund campaign, has issued the following letter:

To the members of the rural school boards of Wayne county:

The school boards in the different rural school districts are the committees to take charge of the Red Cross drive which begins on May 21.

The director in each district is to be the chairman. If there is a vacancy in this office one other member is to act as chairman. The chairman is to send in the report from each district.

The nation is calling for $100,000,000. Wayne county must raise $120,000. This means at least $120 to each man, woman and child.

In order to raise this as a total, may I please give $5 or $10 each. It is expected that there will be many $25 subscriptions in the county.

Each district to be $100 per cent must raise $120 for each inhabitant. Some districts say that they will double this amount.

Let us talk this over with your neighbors, so they will be ready when the drive begins.

This drive is not for Red Cross membership. The money raised is a gift to the chairman.

You will soon receive another letter. At that time you will receive blanks and further information.

The name of each man, woman and child to be listed. After each name the donation of each is to be put down.

Several men in the county have already given a log. This should be listed in every case.

We are anxious that a complete list of the names of all persons in each school district be made, as this will serve as a census of the county, to be used in other work of this nature.

The county papers will be asked to publish the total population of each school district and the amount that each district has donated.

In the war saving stamp drive every school district in the county must have reached its quota.

WHY EDITORS CAN'T SLEEP

Jefferson, Iowa, Herald: The Carroll Herald last week spoke of a former resident there as "diseased," the editor having written it "deceased." No wonder editors sometimes rave in their sleep. There are about fifteen thousand chances in every issue of a paper for mistakes like that, or worse, and if an occasional mis-spelled word creeps in, or an omission of a name, or a new item is overlooked, people should be reasonable, if they can't be charitable and remember that if the editor didn't never go bugs every week watching for just such mistakes and keeping them out of the paper, there would be at least fifty times as many as there are. If you think it's a snap to run a paper and please everybody in the way of news, without a single error, just come in and try it one week. All you will have to do will be to hunt up and write twenty or thirty columns of news, rewrite several dozen articles, sometimes in the department of agriculture, see that they are set to please the advertisers, read the proofs of them, read the proofs of all the news matter that comes in, get ads for the week, they are as nearly correct as possible, read the proofs on all the job work printed, see that the jobs are delivered on time, keep the booklets, attend public meetings either day or night, read the exchanges to keep up with the outside news, and incidentally get time to correspond with visitors and callers and keep up your acquaintance with your family. Above is the regular routine of weekly newspaper editors, not counting extra work when any of the machinery balks or breaks, or something else goes wrong. Are you surprised that they sometimes get into "diseased" instead of "deceased"?

General, I do not believe in rushing into print, as one is easily misquoted and the department reports which have been circulated either through lack of information or maliciously by my enemies, I submit to you.

QUALITY—of merchandise, which goes above and beyond every other consideration.

LOW PRICE—That is brought about by buying in large quantities—A very moderate scale of marking profits.

The steady rising tide of prices is constantly cutting down the margin of safety between the cost of necessities and the best income.

It becomes of the highest importance for you to keep this margin—which means buying power for comforts and necessities—as ample as possible without resorting to lessened quality.

Our store helps you to do this by maintaining the high quality standards at the lowest possible prices.

Our stocks are well selected—new, fresh, desirable goods in generous quantities, bought right at lowest prices, and priced the same way, with the express intention of maintaining our standard of values.

That we may continue to enjoy your confidence intrusted in us.

That we may be of the "greatest service to the greatest number."

NEWS FROM THE SOLDIERS

Items of Interest Concerning Wayne County Soldier Boys.

Dr. and Mrs. C. T. Ingham received a card from their son, Ralph Ingham, last week, written in Chicago, saying he was on his way to some Atlantic port, but was not permitted to give the name of the place. He had been in training in the medical corps at Fort Riley, Kas., for some time. His parents do not think he has yet sailed for France.

Vaughan Williams of Carroll, received a card Saturday from his cousin, Captain Clifford E. Powell, of Council Bluffs, Ia., on which he wrote that he had seen Lieutenant E. B. Erskine of Wayne. Mr. Williams has been "over the top" twice and is seeing real service.

MONEY NOT WASTED.

All of the money being expended for war purposes is not going to be a waste. Some of it is going to be shot away; some of it is going to be sunk at sea; some of it is going to be invested in machinery that will be useless in time of peace.

But a very great portion of it is being spent for things that will be as valuable when peace comes as now, though they cost so comparatively needed then ships—for instance. And as for the immense amount spent in adapting our manufacturing plants to war purposes, it is estimated that 90 per cent of our war machinery can and will be used for other manufacturing work after the war.

The invisible and intangible forces, the moral forces of the world, the soul and conscience of mankind, are fighting on our side.

ON THE SCREEN

"BRACE UP," "MATINEE IDOL"

Football Game Utilized to Stage its Thrilling Scenes.

Herbert Rawlinson, star of the new Bluebird feature, "Brace Up," has always been recognized as a typical "matinee idol," or lady's man of the stage and screen, and in the fitting of many of the important scenes of his new picture, "Brace Up," most conclusive proof of this was again demonstrated.

A football game between rival colleges in Los Angeles was utilized to stage many of the scenes in "Brace Up" and a flock of college girls, who were watching the regular game were horrified to see the sturdy, good-looking halfback, who had gone into the game at the opening of the third quarter, knocked out and carried from the field. Many of them rushed from the grandstand as volunteer nurses, and when they discovered that the player was not really hurt, but only faking, laughing, making his picture.

"Brace Up," the word was passed and the grandstand was practically emptied of the fair college girls and work on the picture was temporarily suspended while they took possession of their hero and forced him to conduct an impromptu reception. The football scene from the frame "Brace Up" was staged between halves. Most of the spectators thought that the scrimmages were the opening plays of the third quarter, and many of the fair feminine fans, in spite of the fact that they were in the front row, found themselves rooting the spectacular and bold work of the new halfback of the visiting team.

IN "WOLVES OF THE RAIL"

Review of William S. Hart's Latest and Best Screen Role.

For swiftness of action "Wolves of the Rail," William S. Hart's third screen role, is also his best. He is seen in the role of the road agent, more commonly known as the train robber. Reformation comes at the dying moment of his hide, and then he becomes a detective to change identities with him and concentrates his efforts on vanquishing the band of robbers which he has just defeated. The story, by Denison Clift, is developed logically, and a fine vein of suspense is introduced when the robbery is made to detain Mr. Hart's performance as a real thriller when the train is tearing up the rails on the same track as the oncoming train and the two collide and bring it to a halt, only narrowly averting a collision. Following this, there is a lot of fine fighting between the train and the railroad president, so impressed with the character of the man who has swept the country of robbers, as he and the girl in a retaway despite the protests of the real detective.

Real Hart material was provided in the picture, as the actor has taken full advantage of it. His role is somewhat apart from those he has been accustomed to playing in his previous work, and the actor makes for better entertainment all around. Vola Vale as heroine, C. Norman Hammond as the burly detective, and Malbone MacDowell as the railroad president contribute much to the success of the picture. Special settings, such as a station, office and switch, and the use of machinery for the utmost realism, while the photography is of the best.

The Story and Players.

In this picture, the death of his mother, Buck Andrade (William S. Hart), train robber, journeys back to the town of Menlo Park, California, where he meets Cassidy (C. Norman Hammond), detective from New York, sent out west to round up the gang once he has been arrested. He meets up, but Buck surprises his old comrades by holding them up in turn and driving them away. Cassidy and the gang are arrested and he is held under arrest. Buck, however, turns the tables quickly and taking Cassidy to his mountain cabin, he writes letters of introduction, he presents them to the division master and begins to secure the country for the robbery. He then returns to the majority of them. His romanche with Faith Lawson (Vola Vale) also begins here. Cassidy's escape and the arrival of President (C. Norman Hammond) precipitate matters to climax. Buck is revealed in his true colors and is about to be placed under arrest when the station is attacked by a band of Mexicans, headed by Pablo (Billy Elmer), and Pasquale (Fronas Kurihara), ex-members of the Hollapop band. A train load of soldiers is due to arrive at any moment. Pablo starts an engine off down the track with the idea of causing disaster. Buck, his knowledge of the country serving him in good stead, takes a short cut and leaping to the cab of the engine saves the day. The soldiers vanquish the Mexicans and the president in gratitude and admiration makes it easy for Buck to escape from Cassidy with Faith.

FINE PATRIOTIC DRAMA

Real Appeal to Thinking Men and Women of America is Coming.

"Over There" is a red blooded patriotic drama, happily free of mawkish sentimentality, but with a real appeal to the thinking man and woman. It is a product of the Charles Richman Pictures corporation and is being distributed through Select exchanges. As Monte Jackson, Charles Richman gives a sympathetic character study and Anna O. Nilsson, as his fiancée, shares the honors. Other members of the cast include Gertrude Berkeley whose work as the mother, "War Brides" won her the plaudits of the critics, and Walter Hiers, who has played the role of jolly fat friend to so many heroes and heroines of the screen. The direction is by James Kirkwood, for many years associated with Mary Pickford.

Montgomery Jackson, wealthy young Wall street operator, who the love of Betty Adams, a lovely daughter of Colonel Adams, a retired army officer. Although their engagement is an established fact, it is not at first formally announced. With the outbreak of hostilities between the United States and Germany, Betty's set plunges into war work. The girls take up Red Cross duties and the men enlist. Only Monte Jackson jags in his patriotic duty. At an enlistment dinner given by Tommy Hill, a good-natured fat lad in love with Betty's old sister, the men present who intend to serve are called on to stand. Colonel Adams is the first on his feet followed by every man in the room but Monte. Even the butler comes forward and gives notice. Monte declares that he is unable to leave his business and the matter is dropped.

Monte's mother tells the Colonel that her son has an hereditary horror of blood. She relates that a short time before Monte's birth she had witnessed a murder and that the unknown occurrence had stamped her unborn child. Walter Mason, Colonel Adams' side, is deeply in love with Betty and his contempt for Monte's attitude knows no bounds. He refuses to relinquish hope of Betty's heart, and is deeply engaged in recruiting work. Intensely patriotic, lovely and appealing, she pleads for recruits from the deck of New York's big land battleship, "The Recruit" and her charm wins instant response. Monte hearing of her presence on "The Recruit" from his office boy, dashes over to see her. As she comes up the steps to greet her, Betty believes that at last he has come to enlist, and her disappointment on his refusal is cruel.

For days she has been forced to realize that Monte's position with their friends is becoming untenable and that only consideration for her is preventing a break. They quarrel over the afternoon's incident, but the rupture is smoothed over by Betty. Betty's face, the face of her love for Monte, frantically holds to her faith in him. That night has been chosen for the announcement of Betty's engagement and the dinner guests appear in khaki and nurse's gingham. Early in the evening Mason appears before a deputation of Monte's friends which necessitates his immediate departure. The important announcement is made hurriedly and the guests are told that Monte to complete Betty's happiness by enlisting. Monte, forced to a decision, definitely refuses to join the colors.

Monte's friends, who are all his and Betty, horrified, watches him take the insult. Even her former fiancée breaking at last, she slings her hands off her fingers and gives it back to Monte. Rising, she announces that she is engaged, but her father has mistaken the name of her fiancée. He then tells her to choose Walter Mason as her future husband. Mason draws a white leather from his pocket. Betty and the guests are told that it is Monte, bitterly reproaching him for the wreck he has made of her life; then turning blindly, runs out of the room. After a short follow, leaving Monte alone.

Monte stumbles home carrying the leather, light-blenched in his hands. In the days that follow, he faces the fact that he is cowardly.

His business partners, both of whom have entered the service, sends it to Betty with word that he is blacklisted at his club. His friends cut him dead. franklyn FARNUM. If anyone thinks that Franklyn Farnum, on account of his infectious smile, is afraid to take a chance, he should see "Fast Company," which will make its first appearance at the Crystal soon. In this Bluebird feature Farnum suddenly wakes up to the fact that he is an Irishman, and as such should, fight. Grabbing a six-inch beam, he swiftly gets four policemen, five plasterers and three trench diggers hors de combat, and goes down to glorious defeat amidst a rain of nightsticks. Mr. Farnum has gained a loyal following among the fans because of his agreeable personality, his agility, and his smiling acceptance of all sorts of chances. He will be especially well remembered for his work in "The Clock," in "The Man Who Took a Chance," and in "A Stormy Knight." Swift moving events, lightly passing comedy incidents and a general atmosphere of good cheer will make "Fast Company" ideal entertainment for those who love to be surprised into laughter. Early might be 6-year-old Mary Miles Minter judging by her golden curls, her blue eyes, and her winsome smile. In the "Fall of the Romanoff" she was the 6-year-old princess, while in "My Own United States" she is a little boy. Bradley Barker indulged in pneumonia between the finish of the "Million Dollar Dollies" and the beginning of "Men," a picture soon to be released, in which Charlotte Walker and Gertrude McCoy appear. To add insult to injury, his first scene in the latter was a hectic encounter.

"Our Mary" is not only famous in making of pictures, but has also been successful in using her good offices and thereby reuniting Douglas Fairbanks and his wife. Only two more pictures before she retires from screen.

MAYOR HARM AT PIERCE.

Pierce, Neb., May 4.—This has been a patriotic week in Pierce for on Wednesday evening Mayor Harm addressed the people of Pierce. His speech was one of the greatest ever heard here along the line of patriotism.

Mayor Harm spoke from the view of one born in Germany, who at the age of 17 years left his native land to escape servitude and military life. He said: After time that the allies are not fighting the German people, but fighting for the life of democracy and world-wide humanity. The people of Germany had been blinded and cunningly deceived by autocracy Prussianism, the junkers and war lords—that have a strange hold on the German nation. He said that the kultur of Goethe, Schiller and other famed authors and great men of the German nation was not the "kultur" of Von Moltke, Von Hindenburg, the kaiser, and the rest. He declared that the Germany of his fathers and fathers' fathers is not the Germany of today. He said that the German nation of Germany were to be successful in his ambition to become a world monarch, people in the United States will not permit it. He said that the same fiendish brutality would be visited upon our homes, wives, daughters, mothers, sons and fathers that befell those in Belgium, France, and the German American alliance was a disloyal organization and working for the interests of the kaiser. Harm also denounced the German newspapers in this country which had poisoned the minds of the German readers against America. Mayor Harm said he believed in extending sympathy to certain extent to the German people here who had been deceived by German propaganda, saying all about trying to convince them of their errors and support Uncle Sam logically, and then if reasoning and pleading with them would do no good, to send them back to the land from which they came.

THE FIELD OF BUSINESS.

Sioux City Journal: Successful liquidation of the third liberty loan campaign, with a not yet determinable over-subscription of the $3,000,000 minimum, marked the last week. Particularly in the east the focusing of attention on the loan drive affected interest and activity in the normal lines of business.

Securities opened the week inertly, with a moderate showing of strength in the money market. However, stronger, largely because of the government's liberal policy of financial aid. An interesting subscription to the Liberty Loan was the absence of Persh, who asked to invest $100,000. Former war loan issues inclined toward heaviness, the 3 per cent bond moving downward from 92.06 to 92.86, and both first and second 5s reacting also.

A new minimum for fires was reported. Time money went at 5 1/2 to 6 per cent, and call loans from a minimum of 3 1/2 to a maximum of 6 per cent, with an easier tendency at the end of the week.

Beginning with Austro-Italian peace talk a fall in corn and oats was stimulated by reports of reselling of cash grain in the east. July corn fell several cents from 21.94 closing price, but recovered on indications of increased export business. No. 2 white oats cash, went from a top of 85 1/2 to 79 1/2 cents and then recovered in part.

An increasing concentration upon war work to the detriment of the nonwar industries was noteworthy. Government domination of raw materials and fixing of prices became more pronounced and general. It was disclosed that the entire supply of pig iron and steel had been virtually commandeered; that passenger automobile production would be curtailed at least 75 per cent; and that drastic further restrictions on imports are to be imposed to free tonnage for the quartermaster's department. Maximum prices on petroleum stocks of hides were fixed on the basis of prevailing figures of April 24.

A commission on ports and shipping of a grand agreement between Norway was announced. Directors of the war finance corporation and members of the finance issues commission were appointed by the president.

Rising costs and extreme scarcity of many commercial products were reported. Low temperatures hampered retail trade somewhat. Finding of substitutes for many articles commonly manufactured or imported became an object of interest.

Threatened May day labor disturbances failed to materialize. Assistance was given the government in averting these by Thomas Mooney, convicted dynamiter, for whom President Wilson had interceded. Mooney discouraged the calling of strikes as demonstrations in his favor. The labor board prevented a strike in pulp and paper mills and efforts were made to settle difficulties between the principal telegraph lines and their union members.

Loss of $100,000,000 during the first quarter of 1918 under government operation of the railroads was reported. Earnings of United States Steel in the quarter were $37,000,000, exclusive of certain expenses and the special taxes—these amounting to $31,000,000. Two hundred additional wooden steamships were ordered. The railroad administration ordered more than 1,000 locomotives of standard type to be joint property of all the railroads and increased its freight car orders by 70,000.

The senate postoffice committee took up again the postal rate increases on second class matter that are scheduled to go into effect July 1.

Washington, May 7.—A requisition on all states except Arizona, Delaware and Vermont for 4,000 specially qualified draft registrars to go to camp May 20, was sent out today by Provost Marshal General Crowder.

Why You Should Own an Oakland

EXCEPTING only the element of utility, cost of operation and maintenance is today the most important factor in the satisfactory ownership of an automobile.

The primary purpose of Oakland is to build the maximum capacity for service into its product, but the aim to make this service economical is second only to this.

As a result this new Oakland Sensible Six delivers the highest usefulness to the owner with an economy unique in the present car field.

The high-speed overhead-valve Oakland engine is immensely powerful and efficient, delivering 44 full horsepower at 2600 r. p. m., or one horsepower to every 48 pounds of car weight.

BECAUSE of the light weight of the Oakland Sensible Six and its generous tire equipment, owners regularly report tire mileages of from 8,000 to 12,000 miles.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, increased its indurated character. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only medicine in the world that cures it. It is taken internally. It acts directly on the lined and mucous surfaces of the system. When you have had Catarrh for any time it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

The public is cordially invited to participate in all the services. Good music will be one of the features. A royal welcome awaits you. Let us pray for the success of the meetings and God will richly bless us for all the time and money that we may spend.

Next Lord's day, Mr. Sherrod will speak both morning and evening. Giving worship at 10:30 and 8 o'clock.
B. Y. P. U. meets at 7 o'clock next Sunday evening as usual. The subject will be: "Denominational Fellowship," and the leader is Mrs. Shirley Sprague. Let all our young people come to this service.

English Lutheran Church.
(Rev. J. H. Pesteroff, Pastor.)
Sunday school 10 a. m. Why not have the whole family present at the school next Sunday morning?
Next Sunday is Mother's day and will be observed in this church with special services at 11 a. m. The object of this service is to honor the best woman who ever lived—your mother. If she is living honor her with some loving remembrance and if she has gone to her reward, then make it a special point to cherish her memory by spending a part of the day where she would be most pleased to have you spend it—in the house of worship. Since the campaign for a universal remembrance and tribute to mother has been organized it has received wide recognition. Both in and out of the church there is a growing disposition to pay a part of the debt of love we owe to mother. The day has been recognized and recommended by the governors of most of the states and congress has made it a national holiday. We are doing all we can to make it a red letter day in our church. Out of love and gratitude to your noble and self-sacrificing mother will you not come to this service and help to fill every pew on the day especially set apart for the honor of mother? There will be special music and a sermon on Prov. 31:28.

According to custom we will dismiss our evening preaching service to give the congregation an opportunity to hear the sermon to the graduates of the high school at the Presbyterian church.
Luther league meeting at 7:15 p. m. The topic for discussion is "I Plead for Us." The meeting will be led by the pastor.
Mrs. Zeigler will entertain the Ladies Aid next Thursday afternoon. This will be an important meeting and calls for a large attendance. Election of officers for the coming year is one of the items on the program.

Methodist Episcopal Church.
(Rev. D. W. MacGregor, Pastor.)
Sunday school 10 a. m. This is one of the interesting services of this church. 11 a. m. sermon, followed by sacrament of the Lord's supper and reception of new members.
Evening services, Epworth League, Intermediate league and Boy Scouts will meet at 7 p. m.
There will not be any preaching service at the church in the evening. New members have been received into church fellowship the last two Sundays. The pastor will preach the baccalaureate sermon for the high school graduates on Sunday evening.
Baptized With a Coconut Shell. A boat, a hole and brain can baptize any Bornean. C. M. Worthington, Methodist missionary, has proved it when he went to Borneo; he found a government regulation that said not more than one religious denomination could work in a given place. It happened that the field he selected had already been assigned to another church, but the other church had established no work. Was that going to turn away a Methodist? No! It-C. M. Worthington knew it!

"For two years," he says, "I was repeatedly refused permission to baptize. Then I hit upon a plan. Hiring a little boat, I filled it with three of my converts. We rowed out three miles and there on the high seas, beyond Dutch jurisdiction I baptized my men, using a coconut shell which lay in the bottom of the boat, and which, ordinarily, was used to bail out water. When returned to the island, I went to the Dutch official and told him what I had done. He studied me a moment. Then he broke into a laugh. 'A regular Yankee!' he said. After that I was allowed to baptize wherever I pleased." Recently the government gave $17,000 gratuitously toward a Methodist mission hospital.

Presbyterian Church.
(Rev. S. C. Croft, For.)
The Sunday morning sermon will be on the subject: "Foolish Questions about Religion." There are several that one is accustomed to hear in which the whole community is interested.
The subject to be discussed at the morning service next Sunday is one that concerns every citizen, whether member of the church or not. There will be special music under the direction of Mrs. A. R. Davis; chorists.

The Sunday school invites your interest in the great work it is now doing. The organization of the school is complete, and worthy work is to be had in all the grades. Modern Sunday school methods are used. You will be able to find a class to suit you.

The Y. P. S. C. E. has grown until the lecture room is filled at each Sunday evening meeting. Visitors are always welcome at the meetings of this society. Come next Sunday evening and enjoy an hour with the young folks before the regular evening service. The topics discussed are always those of modern, practical interest.
The church stands for social service of the highest type. All the desire to do for the best things for the community are invited to come and unite forces in a campaign for civic righteousness and human service. The church is fitted to do a great work along these lines, but it needs the presence and fellowship of all who desire to serve.

APPRECIATION.
The relation of the newspapers of the country to the liberty loan and other governmental efforts is expressed in the telegram of Secretary McAdoo to the editors assembled in New York last week in attendance on the meeting of the American Newspaper Publishers' association.
"Will you be good enough to express to the members of the American Newspaper Publishers' association, now in session, my sincere and warm appreciation of the great service they have rendered to their country by their consistent, unselfish, and patient support of the successive liberty loans, which have been offered by the treasury department."
"These loans could not have succeeded without the support of the newspapers, and it gives me great pleasure to make this acknowledgment. An enlightened public opinion is the chief asset of a democracy. By keeping the people of America informed on public events and transmitting word of the financial and other needs of the government, the American newspapers have performed a public and incalculable service to the nation. I know that the services will be continued and that the newspapers will do their full share in assisting America to win this war for democracy and justice."

THE LOAFER.
Anamosa Eureka: The loafer is just now more of a parasite than he ever was. He is just a bit more conspicuous, and a whole lot more offensive. But in picking the loafers there is always the mistake of blaming him on to the pool halls. As a matter of fact he is a more desirable being on the steering wheel of a big car than he is showing ivory balls over a felt covered table. He no more desires the edging of a bathing beach than he is chattering up for a difficult shot. He can't be blamed on to any particular business or any particular thing. He's just naturally downright shiftless, and doesn't want to work—even to help his country.

Prest-O-Lite BATTERIES

A Member of The Prest-O-Lite Clan

The members of this happy clan hardly know a battery "grid" from a piece of cheese. They don't know and don't want to know about the functions of "electrodes" or "electrolytes."

They are tickled to death to leave all that engineering "dope" to their battery-bug-friends, and the expert who runs the Prest-O-Lite Service Station down the street.

What they do know is that the little box of power, labelled "Prest-O-Lite," is an all-the-year-round, one hundred per cent performer in wet, dry, hot and twenty below zero weather; —that it carries in storage the necessary surplus power to feed the electric head-lights and spin the stiffest engine under conditions that would have forced any other man's battery to lay down on the job.

They know that the Prest-O-Lite Service expert is the proper party to pam on the condition of the battery and from time to time apply the simple treatments necessary to keep it up to its rated capacity.

They know that this service man's station is just down the street. That it's an easy matter to stop the car at his place for a few minutes once a month; —And—they know that the said Prest-O-Lite Service man is a human being—a deserving battery engineer who in accordance with our well known policy makes no charge for "inspection" or distilled water—but has his fixed rates for all other services rendered.

If you can say "Amen" to this solution of all your car battery problems you are eligible to membership in the Prest-O-Lite Clan.

BOND ISSUE TRIUMPHANT

Seventeen Million People Purchase Third Liberty Bonds.

Washington, May 6.—Analysis of liberty loan reports today showed that probably 17,000,000 persons bought bonds in the campaign which closed last midnight—7,000,000 more than in the second loan, and 12,500,000 more than in the first.
Latest tabulations showed $3,316,628,250 reported subscriptions but the treasury department now believes the actual total, which may run to $4,000,000,000, will not be definitely known until May 13.
Secretary McAdoo gave out this statement: "The people of the United States may well felicitate themselves upon the triumphant success of the third liberty loan. It is a most heartening manifestation of their patriotism and of their inflexible determination to support our gallant army and navy, a victorious contribution for America's activities. It should like to thank the thousands of men and women throughout the country, every class of our citizenship, for their effective assistance and cooperation in this great victory behind the lines, without which a victory on the front cannot be achieved."

Should Retain Bonds.
"I earnestly hope that every one who has bought liberty bonds will be able to keep them for the period of the war at least. The slogan now should be to 'keep your liberty bonds'; no one does his share fully if he merely buys a bond and then sells it immediately below par on the market."

If each and every purchaser keeps his liberty bond he helps to protect the credit of the government by maintaining the market at par which is a very helpful thing in war times.
Iowa Makes Good Record.
Partial returns today showed that New York will lead all states in number of individual subscribers, with four million and the state also leads in actual money totals. Pennsylvania probably will be second in number of subscribers though the state's figures are not in and Illinois third with nearly 1,250,000. Iowa with 500,000 subscribers out of a population of little more than 2,000,000 made one of the best subscription percentage records. Foreign states report subscribers as follows:
California 524,482; Washington 150,312; Oregon 95,695; Idaho 56,597; Utah 40,800; Arizona 19,998; Nevada 12,377.

Managers of the campaign in the San Francisco district wired that subscriptions there would exceed $250,000,000 and that every state district and virtually every county had reported its quota. The Atlanta district which has been on the bottom of the percentage table during most of the campaign, made the most sensational finish of any district and the managers predict that the district may eventually show an over-subscription of 50 per cent. The St. Louis district reported that all 362 counties in the district exceeded their quotas. The grand total for the district at 3 p. m. Saturday was $176,617,000 and the quota percentage was 135.
K. C. District 131 Per Cent.
From Kansas City came the announcement that the district showed an official total of subscriptions on Saturday afternoon of $170,221,200 which amounted to 131 per cent of the district's quota. Sales by states follow:
Northwest Missouri $27,010,000; Colorado $24,280,000; Kansas $40,752,000; Nebraska $41,416,000; Oklahoma $29,679,200; Wyoming $5,359,800; Part of New Mexico $1,622,900.—Three hundred and twenty-four counties out of 300 in the district were over-subscribed.

DRY HUMOR.

Saturday Evening Post: The chief reserve ranger of the big government forest along the Grand canyon, in Arizona, had occasion lately, in the course of a somewhat extended trip, to travel as far east as Kansas City. When he returned in his post of duty he brought along an Irishman who had expressed a desire to go west and grow up with the country.

When they struck the desert the Irishman looked for a spell at the dry and arid prospect. Then he said: "Mister, I don't want to say anything unpleasant about this country, but it looks to me like it would take nine acres of it to rust wan nail!"

Baltimore American: The Russians are protesting against German outrages and peasants of the Ukraine massacred three squadrons of Cossaks. The Hun peace is bearing its natural fruits.
