

About Grinding Lenses

VAIL

The Exclusive Optician

Has been asked a great many times if he grinds lens one word of explanation in this matter. The nearest places where lens are ground are at Sioux City and Omaha. Any grinding that has been done by any one in this immediate neighborhood, has only been edging them to fit the frames, which, by the way, has been represented and advertised as grinding your lenses while you wait, which, by the way, they cannot do with a grindstone.

Announcement

E. H. Dotson wishes to announce that he has purchased the R. N. Donahay Optical Store; and will continue to conduct an exclusive Optical business in the place formerly occupied by Mr. Donahay.

Mr. Dotson did not purchase Mr. Donahay's grinding equipment, but instead is installing one of the very latest improved models.

Mr. Dotson is not a stranger in this vicinity or a beginner in the Optical business. He has the distinction of being the first man to record a Registered Optical Certificate in this County.

I am now ready for business. Accuracy, Service, and Satisfaction are my aim. All work Guaranteed.

I have on file all the prescriptions of the glasses fitted by Mr. Donahay, and can quickly duplicate any lens without any of the pieces of the original glasses.

Everybody Happy!

What's the use of being all tucked out with the heat of the kitchen when you can cook better meals with less work on the Detroit Vapor Oil Stove, which burns kerosene without wick or odor, and doesn't radiate heat all over the place.

Hot weather loses its cooking terrors with this famous stove. Thousands will tell you so.

You owe it to yourself and to your health to see the Detroit Vapor Oil Stove—the finest product of manufacturers who have devoted years to the farm stove problem. Prices, $20.00 and up.

CONSERVATION OF WHEAT

Omaha, Neb., June 5.—Rigorous conservation of wheat and the building up of a reserve are urged by Herbert Hoover, United States Food Administrator, in a telegram to State Administrator Gurdon W. Wattles.

No matter if we have an unusually abundant crop this year, it must not relax our conservation measures, says Hoover. Instead we must begin to lay aside a reserve which can be drawn upon in the future, if necessary, when we might have a shortage in the food commodities.

The immediate need, however, is to supply sufficient wheat for the men over there until next harvest. To do this, we will be forced to cut our consumption to one-third of normal, which means that, wherever possible, we must eliminate wheat and products until next harvest.

NEBRASKA LIBERTY LOAN

According to final figures announced by Thos. C. Byrne, state chairman of the Nebraska Liberty Loan committee, local Nebraskans purchased $50,513,450 worth of Liberty bonds. This is an average of one bond to every family in the state, and represents a 58 per cent over-subscription. The total subscription to the three Liberty loans in Nebraska is $22,866,350, a per capita distribution of $85.14. Almost one-third of the Liberty loan subscriptions of Nebraska came from Omaha alone.

UNCLE WALT

The Poet Philosopher

WARTIME LOAFING.

In sundry sections may have risen, and cried, in ringing tones, that idle legs should go to prison, or else beat their bones. The scheme on neck should work until he busts his corset, or dislocates his neck. Oh, every corner has its loafers, who will not earn a wage, and him the village cop should go for, and put him in a cage. The man unfit to wield a saber, or carve Teutis with their presence in a war, or of honest labor—pitch hay or saw a board. There is a place for every sinner who has one leg and arm, and he can earn a bed and dinner on an moral farm. Yet husky men are idly standing in town, forevermore, and hold as brass they are demanding a handout at your door. In times of peace they put it over the coarsest stunts got by; but now all men should put up clover or hunt their holes and die. The earnest, key lads are packing the burdens of this time; and idleness is truly slacking, and slacking is a crime. There's no excuse for Henry Wilkes, their presence in a war, or let the peckers take their bills, and run the loafers in.

WINNING THE WAR.

The things I do to win the war are things I always did aher. So give me credit, I beseech, for loyalty that is a peach. I'd like to ride on a mounted steed and charge (the foe at frightful speed, I'd like to ride on an aeroplane above the clouds that send the rain, above the forest and the hill, and drop some bombs on Kaiser Bill. I'd like to walk a cruiser's deck mid scenes of battle and of wreck. But all such things are barred to me. I may not fight, on land or sea. I may not garner gory sheaves, because I'm fat and have the heaves. And so I'm doing things I hate, that I may keep my record straight. I'm digging soil and sowing seeds, and pruning vines and hoing weeds. I till the garden and repeat, and there are sunburns in my feet. That valued foodstuffs be supplied, I gather thistles in my hide. I grow the bean and marrowfat; I'll win the war or break a stat. I hope when history is writ, and warriors who did their bit are loaded with the heroes' bays, there'll be some mention of the boys who had to do their stunt at home, and grow things in the fertile loam. I'm doomed to raise my sparrowgrass while younger men battle pass, so I will do it with a will, and hoe my beets with wondrous skill, and raise fresh rhubarb by the keg; I'll win the war or break a leg.

GROWING WEATHER.

Oh, why repine? The crops are fine, the oats, the prunes, the barley; our hay, we trust, will surely lust the Kaiser's Bill and Charley. The wind that whoops and loops the loops, is multiplying rations, the rain and sun will can the Hun, and save the allied nations. Where'er I gaze I see men raise fine beets and peas and taters, and that will make the Kaiser quake, and jar a lot of traitors. The night dews wash the growing squash, refresh the yards and grasses; the sorghum vine is doing fine, and we shall have molasses. We will not stand for it, and we'll till each perch and acre, and put a crimp in that big simp, old Bill, the war lord fard. We'll sow and reap while others sleep, we'll ply our tools and push our mules until they bust their breeching. Our wheat and oats will get the goats of Kaiser Carl and King; the beans we raise, the rape and maize, will drive those Kaisers silly. Our wheat is great it's green and straight and stand as the prairie corn, it will chill both Carl and Bill, and make them sick of kaising.

THE INNOCENT.

"Oh, what," cries Prussia's chief, "have I not done to save the world from all this grief? We hear the Kaiser save the world, and weeps the tears of crocodiles, his victims strewn in heaps, in windrows, stacks and piles. The countless dead men lie on Europe's bloody plain, beneath the gray, the spring sky, by Wilhelm's order slain. The Kaiser's long range gun, fired from its secret perch, has cruel murder done among the babies in church. There is no crime so base that Bill would do it, no abyss of disgrace in which he will not walk. The villagers find their feasts where ever Wilhelm goes; old men, and girls, and priests he butchers, as his foes. He leans against a gun, and we can hear him roar, "Cease what have I not done, to sidestep all this gore?" The Kaiser's victims sleep, uncounted, everywhere; they're buried in the deep, they're slaughtered in the air; they're dragged from hut and hall, and from the church, to die; they're backed against a wall, and shot, and know not why. Now cries the loyal Hun (a heartwring Hun is he!) "Oh, what have I not done to stop this jamboree?" Come off your perch, old boss! Cease talking through your hat! You cannot get across with such a gag as that! In leagues of Flanders mud your murdered men repose; your hands are dripping blood, its dripping from your clothes!

BIG TALK.

The foe is always spilling in loud, majestic tones, and hopes he is congealing the marrow in our bones; in language high-falutin he twists the truth askew; the Austrian is tootin', the Teuton tootin' too. Old Hindenburg was boasting, in his fat Teuton way, through Paris he'd be coasting upon a certain day. The certain day was cheery, though rather cool and wet, but Hindenburg was leary—he hasn't got there yet. Big things they're always slapping, the Prussians in command, and we take pleasure cannoning the mighty things they're bragged. It's always been a habit of chesty Kaiser Bill, I think the foe a rabbit, whom sounding words would kill. "Your Uncle Sam had better," he said to Brer Gerard, "lie low, or donner, wetter! I'll join in pretty hard. Forever, always bluffing! 'Twill be the Teuton way, until we knock the stuffing from him, and eke the wretched words and so's tremending may scare a sheep, naphap, but they will only lead us amusement while we scrap. "I'm feeling pretty well," said Bill, "the Austrian is sports; let's clean up all the British, take the channel ports." To bragging he is given, he'll brag the long months through, he'll brag until we've riven the tootin' Teut in two.

WASTED ADVICE.

If I had taken my advice, and saved in peaceful times, today I'd doubtless have the price, all kinds of useful dimes. But while I urged my friends to save, in deathless prose and verse, for rain and foodstuffs things I gave the contents of my purse. While handing out the wisest words the statutes would allow, I gave my money to the birds, and was fed it to the cow. If I had taken my advice—"twas couched in ringing rhyme—I wouldn't now be buying the two ounces of a tin of My stick. I'd purchase by the pound, like wise and thrifty gents, and I would not be chasing round to borrow fifty cents. And I could help the Red Cross game, any of the bonds or so, and not be shivering in shame because I lack the dough. The price of everything I use, goes up, to heat the hand; the price of foodstuffs and shoes, and hoes to till the land; the price goes up, not once or twice—each day we see it, soot, I had taken my advice, I wouldn't care a hoot, I'm in the hole, I'm obliged, I cannot pay my tax, and I'm obliged to buy my coal in little cents at a seller. My heart, my feet are ice. I'm weary with disgust because I laughed at my advice, and burned up all my dust.

A REMINDER.

Boston Globe: The suggestion that China is ready to send 1,000,000 soldiers to the front in France whose the supreme command for them is a reminder that it was the Kaiser who first suggested the yellow peril.

The Brunswick

ALL PHONOGRAPHS IN ONE

All Over Town People Are Talking About the New Brunswick

THE new Brunswick Method of Reproduction has met with instant acclaim. And music lovers predict for The Brunswick complete leadership. Never before have people known such an advanced type of phonograph. It lacks all the crudities of yesterday. Tone is more natural than ever before. The most difficult selections, such as piano and orchestra, are played with absolute fidelity. The Brunswick Method of Reproduction includes The Ultona. Now all records can be played in the exact way each requires. A turn of the hand and the proper needle and diaphragm are presented to each type of record. Heretofore one-record instruments have prevailed. Some figure attachments. None of the leading phonographs can offer the advantages of The Ultona.

Your ideas of phonographic values are bound to change now. You cannot be satisfied with yesterday's standards. Times have changed.

Come in today and hear the wonderful Brunswick which is made by The Brunswick-Balke-Collender Co. See if you do not agree that it is the most perfect.

CARHART HARDWARE

THE EARLY DAYS IN NEW COUNTIES

From the Wayne Herald, June 7, 1900:

Mrs. F. M. Gregg left for a visit at her former home in Ohio.

Mrs. R. B. Crawford entertained party of ladies at a 5 o'clock tea.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Oldersleeve, May 31, 1900.

Miss Belle Temple of Norfolk, was visiting in Wayne with relatives and friends.

Robert L. Tubbs and Miss Minnie E. Bortoff were married June 1, 1900, by County Judge Hunter.

Mrs. H. S. Ringland entertained the cooking club at a 5 o'clock tea, in honor of Miss White of Des Moines.

Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Neely entertained ten couples at a whist party.

Mrs. Ed Raymond and Henry Ley won the prizes.

James Miller and Ted Philcox went to Wakefield where they played several sets of tennis with Messrs. Wheeler and Haskell.

Burglars attempted to enter the house of D. B. Tallman, but were scared away by the report of a gun fired by Walter Tallman.

Miss Clara Philcox and Miss Maude Benschoff went to Bellevue to attend the commencement exercises at Bellevue college.

The little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. McVicker fell under a horse and suffered a broken collar bone and a badly bruised arm.

Charles Betrand of Sioux City, and Miss Minnie Gaertner of Wayne were married at the Catholic church in Wayne June 6, 1900.

Miss Queenie Mellor accompanied Mr. and Mrs. George McNight and son on a trip to Chicago, New York, Buffalo and Washington, D. C.

Joseph D. Cullen and Miss Lucy Bruner were united in marriage at Norfolk, June 16, 1900. The bride was a former Wayne girl and had been teaching for some time in the Norfolk public schools. The bridegroom was a farmer in this county.

From Ponca Journal, June 6, 1918:

While our citizens to the number of a hundred or more were scouring the woods on Monday, near the river, two of them discovered a bee-tree. It was an enormous cottonwood, apparently hollow, and populated by a vast colony of the little insects. Doubtless it also contains a large quantity of honey.

While we regret that the river should wash Cuyington, it should it clean out the narrow gauge depot and track at that place, would it be any more than poetical or retributive justice? Probably not.

Numerous picnic schooners have passed through town during the past week, which indicates that the tide of immigration is setting this way. We are glad to see it, and settlers locating in this county will never regret it.

County Commissioners Wright and McKinnis, while in Sioux City on Tuesday, consulted with several of the leading attorneys of that place, in relation to the bonds voted by this county to the C. C. & B. H. R. R. company, and the opinions given were almost unanimous that the bonds would be defeated.

A pair of fine horses hitched to a light double buggy came cavorting into town yesterday, and the driver being a little salubrious and not hanging on to the lines as he ought, the team ran away, going up Third street as hard as they could pet. They ran as far as the hill west of town, when their prancing rage abated, and the driver, salubrious as aforesaid, once more regained his grip on the lines. No damage done. We should not mention this little incident, but news items are terrible scarce.

Forcing able-bodied idlers to work will be one of the accomplishments of the war that we hope will be continued after the war is over.

Nothing is more despicable than to make a false charge of disloyalty in order to satisfy private grudges. The war is too important and too serious to be used in any way to punish an enemy or reward a friend.

Former President William H. Taft is rapidly growing in popular favor. Following his defeat for the presidency he proved the "best loser" in America. He accepted defeat goodnaturedly, and has since been prominently identified with the advocacy of sound and responsible public policies. One writer refers to him as the "worst licked, the least sear and the best liked" man in the country.

The plan of Germany and Austria to prepare for another world war as soon as the present one is concluded will arouse the whole allied opposition to make even more determined effort to put the finishing touch on the two offending nations, and fix them so they cannot start another conflict. The United States will not quit until the militarism of Germany and Austria has been broken and their love for conquest and domination has been squelched. We cannot safely stop short of the complete overthrow of the King business.

Next week has been set apart for the measuring and weighing of children under 5 years of age to promote child longevity and child welfare. Mortality among children has been very great. Due development of many children has been prevented by deficiencies that could be removed if known. Disadvantages to child growth are often due to ignorance of causes. The idea is to educate people in their own care, to detect and uncover imperfections that, known, may be removed for the preservation and mental and physical welfare of child life.

A German submarine has appeared off the eastern coast of America and attacked and destroyed a number of ships. Although fortunately soldier transports and supply boats bound for Europe have escaped. It is said submarine operations in European waters have been virtually strangled, and that in their desperation the cunning Germans have sought to strike a blow at the door of the United States proper access with which this government has dispatched troops and supplies to Europe has apparently startled and dismayed the maddest and reckless enemy. The evident hope of trying to draw American warships away from European waters will fail because there are still plenty of fighting boats on this side of the Atlantic to meet the assaults of the enemy.

It is presumed by some people that a newspaper plant can suspend any time of week for an hour or a half day or a day the same as other business houses without curbing its production, but can't be done if results are to be as large as expected and time is employed with any system and regularity. To propose to the government and the public, a newspaper must be kept up to the highest possible standard of efficiency, and to do it, every day of the week must be given. Every week the Herald devotes many columns to promoting the work of different branches of the government. This service which is appreciated by the different departments as indispensable, could not be rendered so fully and satisfactorily if we were to accept every call to lie down on the job and close up the shop. In addition to government service, we have to meet all other requirements demanded from an up-to-date newspaper. The public should understand that a newspaper does not keep open to merely wait on customers, but to job supplies. The newspaper must be issued regularly, and if the standard is to be kept up, time for production must be held in the interest of the government particularly, we know that department heads would not have us reduce efficiency in order to satisfy any passing notion to close down for a day or less. Though we gladly give the government newspaper service and other assistance in support of the war, we can only obtain present results if we are to change our program of operation to suit every well meaning but misunderstanding individual group that has a notion to carry out. Necessary institutions are expected to serve stronger and better than ever. This policy cannot be adequately met by the newspaper by reducing hours of labor.

HE DIED IN FRANCE.

He died in France!
 I know—
 I, who love courage so—
 I must not weep, but only bravely smile.
 Still thinking all the while
 That, in some rosy haven where he lies
 At rest in Paradise,
 By a most gracious heaven granted chance,
 He smiles at me—my boy, who died in France!
 But now he's dead,
 In France, I don't know where.
 He thought I would not let him go.
 Dear, foolish boy, and brought me flowers
 And patted me and tried so to prove
 My heart for his great news. How could I had read it in his deepened eyes
 And sudden many ways?
 He was so proud that I could rise to his fair dreams,
 I prayed that he might fight, if die he must,
 Matched man to man with hope in thy trust;
 But in his last encounter he should meet
 A man who fought with grave and gallant grace
 And, while the blows fell, in the other's face,
 Be written admiration; so the last defeat
 Would not taste bitter from a foe so brave.
 This boon I could not help but crave.
 What little dreams a mother's thoughts employ!
 Surrounded he—a dozen to my boy!
 And yet I know—
 When through that dawn their faint shapes we descried,
 Thank God—he fought them all, and fighting died!

CHURCH AND THE KAISER

(Contributed.)
 "The Lutheran Church—its History and its Position in the World," a booklet with the above title was issued by the publishing house of the Lutheran Missouri Synod. The booklet may be procured free by detaching the coupon from the Schmidt, Wakefield, Neb. Route 2. A few extracts are given below:
 "It is a common impression in this country that the Kaiser is the external, visible head of the Lutheran Church of Germany, and therefore in some manner, the head of the Lutheran Church in America. However, the kaiser is not the visible head of the Lutheran church in Germany. Prussia has a State church which is not Lutheran, but a union of the Lutheran and Reformed church called the United (Unitierte) State church.
 An oath of ordination has been widely circulated of late, which the kaiser is said to demand of every German Lutheran preacher in this country before he can take the office. The oath is pure invention, the outgrowth of fanatical religious hatred against the Lutheran church. Why has the Lutheran church, especially the Synodical Lutheran conference (with which the Missouri Lutheran synod is affiliated), parochial schools? Because it has always held that it is the duty of the church to give its children a thorough Christian education. Dr. Stanley Hall lately told the convention of the National Educational association at San Francisco: "You cannot educate in the public schools because the word of God is lacking; you can only train the intellect. The only people in this country who know how to educate the children are Lutherans and Catholics, with their parochial schools."

 "Who are the teachers in our parochial schools? They are without exception American citizens, and fully 98 per cent born in this country, educated at Normal schools at Chicago and Seward, Neb. These schools employ exclusively American trained professors."
 "What books are read?"
 "None but books written by Americans (except Luther's Catechism and the Bible) and printed in America have been used in our parochial schools within the memory of the present generation. Never is or was the national hymn of Germany sung in our schools."
 "The pilgrim fathers of the Missouri Lutheran synod left Germany in 1838 on account of religious persecution and oppression by the German government—and found a home in this glorious land of religious freedom! Thousands of Lutheran young men, in their colorful at the call of our beloved country."
 "Everywhere Lutherans are taking an active part in the liberty loan and Red Cross campaigns."

 Dear Reverend: We desire to express to the members of Evangelical Lutheran Immanuel church our highest appreciation of their noble and self-sacrificing aid to the liberty loan. This is an irrefutable proof of patriotism and loyalty, a wise act of thrift, and indeed a noble example for all to be followed by all organized bodies throughout the land.

Your Tractor Should be Tested by Every Farm Condition

YOU should base your judgment of a tractor upon what it has actually done in the fields—not alone upon what it promises to do in the manufacturer's catalog.

For five years the Parrett has been tested and proved worthy under every conceivable condition of soil and climate, on the prairies of the middle west, among hills of the east, the arid regions of the Northwest, the ricelands of the south, in Canada, Great Britain, and France.

The Parrett is a one man tractor. It does the work of eight to ten horses. Pulls three plows, will operate a 20 to 26' separator, burns kerosene and is so simple and easy of operation that a boy can do a good day's work with it.

The Parrett is made by a firm whose efforts are all bent towards making just one thing—the best tractor they know how to produce.

Service is built into this tractor at the factory—and built to stay. Your demands for repair service after the Parrett is put to work on your farm will be few and far between. Ask us for a demonstration.

BOARD OF EQUALIZATION.

Notice is hereby given that the board of county commissioners, the county assessor and the county clerk will sit as a board of equalization commencing on Tuesday, the 11th day of June, 1918, for the purpose of equalizing the valuation of personal property of the county, as returned by the precinct assessors. Any and all complaints on the assessment of personal property, or any complaints made on real property which was assessed in the year 1916, showing an error on the face of the assessment must be made at this time, and all complaints will be heard at this time.

All that are assessed are especially urged to call and inspect the books relative to their assessment, as this will materially aid us in avoiding any gross errors.

The board will continue in session for not less than three days and all complaints or protests must be made at this time.

Witness my hand and seal at Wayne, Nebraska, this 22nd day of May, A. D. 1918.

RARE MUSICAL TREASURES.

The Wayne State Normal Male Quartet and Artists' Recital.

For the past three years Prof. J. J. Coleman has financed and managed the May festival at the Wayne normal. The success, both artistically and financially, that crowned the gala day this season has established the occasion in the hearts of this community.

At the close of the pageant, the people went into the large and beautiful auditorium to listen to the concert by the Normal School Male quartet. This organization has existed, with slight change of personnel, for seven years, and has sung its way into the hearts of the people of northeast Nebraska and adjoining states. Those competent to judge affirm that this was the best concert yet given by the quartet. The fine patriotic selections, like "The

PROF. J. J. COLEMAN

Flag Without a Stain," and "The Sword of Bunker Hill," favorites of our great grandparents, were sung with splendid dash and spirit, while the softer airs, such as "Goodbye, Sweet Day," showed delicate appreciation and excellent technique. The duet, "On to the Field of Glory," by Messrs. Lackey and Coleman was especially popular. The whole performance was exceedingly gratifying.

The artists' recital by Dr. Elmer K. Smith, tenor, and Jessie Elliott Smith, soprano, of Sioux City, was all that our music loving public had anticipated. Dr. Smith has a robust tenor voice that completely filled the auditorium, while Mrs. Smith's voice is charmingly delicate and flute-like. The duets in which the two voices beautifully blended were especially pleasing. That these artists gave their services to our public free of all charge is deserving of high praise. It denotes the quality of their devotion to their art.

A string quartet is an unusual combination in this part of our country. It is a delicate and pleasing ensemble, lying between the solo and the orchestra. There is no more cultural form of music requiring, as it does, the utmost appreciation. To even listen intelligently to the Haydn music by the quartet demands insight into the art. That this excellent group of musicians should give their services to the Normal calls for the hearty praise that their generosity has received. The Heizer String quartet will be long remembered in Wayne.

The operetta, "The Wild Rose," given by the members of Professor Coleman's chorus class at 8:30 p. m., was a successful close to a delightful day. The singing and acting both captured the audience from the beginning. It was a sprightly, delicate, amusing, delightful affair. Everybody who laughed, cheered. The solo parts were well performed by Fern Kahn and Frances Oman, the costumes and dancing simple and pleasing. The staging of the operetta was managed by Miss Fairchild. For his constant devotion to a fine enterprise that has issued in a day so satisfying, Professor Coleman is entitled to every praise.

FOOD REGULATIONS.

Omaha, Neb., June 5.—Enforcement of food rules in Nebraska is the easiest thing possible, says Gorton W. Watters, federal food administrator. In fact, Nebraska enforces the rules themselves. They will not permit violations of the regulations, which make possible the supplying of food to the allies, and our own boys in the trenches. "While in Washington, Mr. Watters took occasion to advise food officials of the attitude of Nebraska toward food conservation. 'I am proud of Nebraska,' said he. 'Nebraska never does things by halves and the state is very conscientious in percent perfect in food conservation.'

OUR BOYS IN ACTION.

Omaha World-Herald: The American troops, in their first really serious contest with the enemy, bore themselves gallantly. They showed high courage. They were eager, keen to be unleashed, quick and glad to go. Their charge was splendidly victorious. Having stormed their way into Cantigny, they held back continuous tides of counter attacks. They fought as if the fighting were a holiday diversion. Splendid sport! The state is taking in the first breathing spell that was afforded.

Take Care of Your Tires

America's greatest need is for ships—more ships.

Every available vessel is being utilized in government service.

Many ships that have been carrying rubber from Sumatra and Brazil have been taken for active transport duty.

This will necessarily force a temporary curtailment of tire production.

So, make the most of the tires you have.

Use good tires.

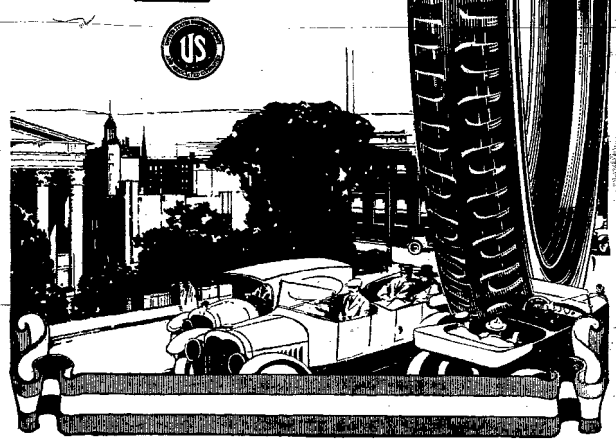

Take good care of them. Keep them in perfect repair. See that they are properly inflated.

Increase their mileage by careful driving. Keep out of car tracks and away from bumps. Don't scrape the curb or apply brakes too suddenly.

Get every mile your tires have in them.

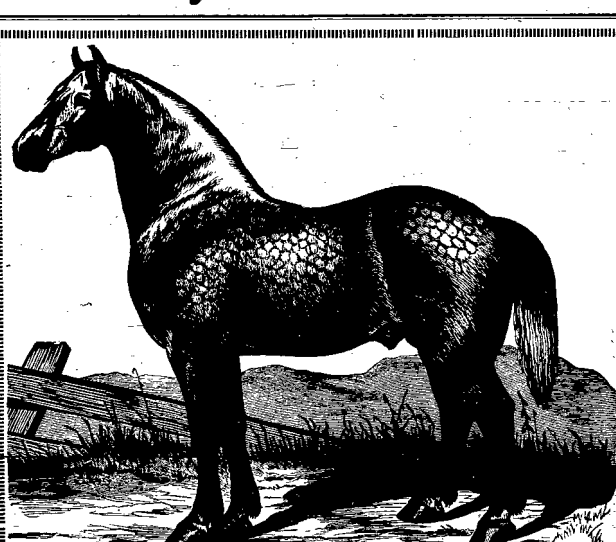

Only in that way can you be assured of your car's continuous service.

United States Tires are Good Tires

Chronic Constipation.
Perhaps you have never thought of it, but this disorder is due to a lack of moisture in the residual matter of the food. If you will drink an abundance of water, eat raw fruits and take lots of outdoor exercise, you may be able eventually to overcome it entirely. In the meantime use the most mild and gentle laxatives. Strong and harsh cathartics take too much water out of the system and make a bad matter worse. Chamberlain's Tablets are easy and pleasant to take, and most agreeable in effect. Give them a trial.—Adv.

LETTER FROM FRANCE.

Wayne Evans' whose letter to home folks at Traier, Ia., the Herald publishes herewith, is a brother of E. G. Evans who lives in the northern part of Wayne county. Two other brothers are in the service, being two in France and one in training, in this county. The letter which follows, will be of interest to Herald readers:

Somewhere in France, March 26, 1918.—My Dear Father: Just a line to let you know that I am well and to tell you of the good time I have had for the last week. I suppose you have read in the papers where the government has selected a place where the boys, after a period of service, are sent to rest. I received my leave of absence last week and will be away from the company for about twelve days. When the word came that we were about to be moved to this rest place, I was glad to be provided for us. We were all assigned to hotels the first day, and a fine lot of hotels I have never seen. I have been in the city and have stayed at any of them for less than fifty "bucks" a week. It is a sight-seeing resort for tourists.

I heard that had what they called luncheon (I called it dinner) and we surely did our part, although we felt rather lost without the boys. I went out with them then went out to see the sights of the city. The American Y. M. C. A. here is one of the finest buildings I have ever seen. It has every convenience for the soldiers. There is a large soldiers' canteen where we can get nearly everything we want. There is a large hall, about a dozen good tables, a place to visit or play checkers. There is a large movie theater and another theater where there are good American shows and vaudeville entertainments almost at all times. There is a reading room with about seven-ty-five large reading and writing tables. There is all in one large building of stone and marble. I wish you could see it. On a bulletin board in the Y. M. C. A. building is posted the program for each day. You can go out to the athletic park—where they have all sorts of games—baseball, basketball, tennis, golf—anything else you want, and then to the sulphur springs for a fine bath.

This is a city of about 20,000 inhabitants located in the French Alps. On one edge of the city is a fine lake, covered with boats, surrounded by high mountains. We took a trip to Mt. Revard on the cog railway, the top of which is covered with snow the year around. You can rent skis up there if you wish, but I thought best that "Heavy" should lay off them. I learned to roller skate once, you know, and that is a real mild sport compared to this. From Mt. Revard you can see Mt. Blanc, the highest mountain peak in Europe, and also the Swiss Alps and the Italian border, although about fifty miles distant.

The fine Sierraz Gorge is about one mile from here, and it is a fine sight. There are many other beautiful places, some of which are of great historical interest, such as the pass used by Hannibal, and Napoleon Bonaparte, which we went out to see. I am sending you some pictures, but wish you could have seen the real thing.

I have only two more days left and of course we will look around some, for it seems that one can always find something new and interesting here. I have enjoyed myself greatly and now I am ready to go back to business with the rest of the "buddies" and give the others a chance to see what I have. It will be

Genuine, Delicious, Foaming, Sparkling Malt and Hops

Temperance Lager Brew

Make It In Your Own Home In a Few Minutes, From a Pure Malt and Hops Extract

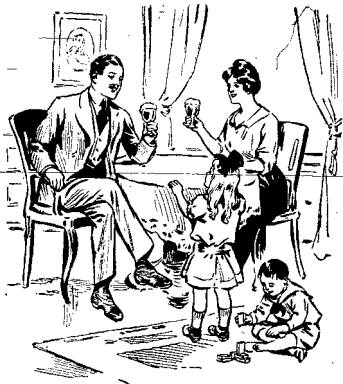

These are the days of temperance drinks. Although non-alcoholic malt beverages, "near-beers," etc., are now being sold in bottles everywhere, they all lack a certain indescribable snap and flavor. But you don't need to miss these desirable qualities. You don't need to put up with those flat, tasteless, lifeless substitutes.

It is not generally known that a genuine malt and hops brew—non-intoxicating, but with all the cheer and invigoration—can be easily made at home. Most people think that such a brew can be made only by a brewer. But a wonderful new process enables you to make, at small expense, as palatable and satisfying a drink as you could wish for. Just get a package of from any druggist and follow the easy directions which accompany it. You mix the Extract with 7 gallons of water—and you produce, at small expense, a most delicious, sparkling, temperance lager, entirely unlike the usual insipid substitutes.

It satisfies the palate perfectly. You will like it better than you did the old saloon beverage—and it will be far better for you. Malt and hops make the most helpful drink. Your homemade temperance lager will be rich in nutritious properties, and you will like it better than anything you ever drank.

You can keep it in bottles to be used freely by your family and friends whenever you like. And think how cheap it is! You can make this tasty, "tang-y," foamy, invigorating temperance lager for only

About 22 Cents Per Gallon!

A package of Peerless Malt and Hops Extract—enough to make a brew of 7 gallons—will cost you but $1.50. Where could you ever get a perfect beverage as cheap as that?

Try it now! You will be delighted. Remember, you will like it better than injurious alcoholic saloon stuff. Yes, you will like it better. YOU WILL LIKE IT BETTER!

Call on your druggist today. If he is sold out he can quickly get more for you from his wholesaler.

MUST NOW DO "CANDLING"

Omaha, Neb., June 5.—Every retail merchant in the state, buying eggs from producers, and selling to other than the consumer must take out a license, announces Gordon W. Waxes, federal food director. The original buyer of the eggs must also candle the eggs before settlement with the producer.

By these regulations it is hoped to reduce the amount of eggs, unfit for human food, that are coming on the market. Heretofore, eggs as a rule, have never been candled when they have reached the wholesaler or commission man.

The Doctor Away From Home When Most Needed.

People are often very much disappointed to find that their family physician is away from home when they most need his services. Diseases like pain in the stomach and bowels, colic, diarrhoea require prompt treatment, and have in many instances proven fatal before medicine could be procured or a physician summoned. The right way is to keep at hand a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. No physician can prescribe a better medicine for these diseases. By having it in the house, you escape much pain and suffering and all risk. Buy it now; it may save life.—Adv.

ORDER OF HEARING ON ORIGINAL PROBATE OF WILL.

The State of Nebraska, Wayne county, ss. At a county court, held at the county court room, in and for said county of Wayne, on the 20th day of May, 1918.

Present, Jas. E. Brittain, county judge.

In the matter of the estate of Edward Frederick Gustav Kruse, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition of August Christian Kruse, praying that the instrument filed on the 20th day of May, 1918, and purporting to be the last Will and Testament of said deceased, may be proved, approved, probated, allowed and recorded as the last Will and Testament of said Edward Frederick Gustav Kruse, deceased, and that the execution of said instrument may be committed and that the administration of said estate may be granted to Rollie W. Ley as executor.

Ordered, That June 12th, A. D. 1918, at 11 o'clock a. m., is assigned for hearing said petition, when all persons interested in said matter may appear at a county court to be held in and for said county, and show cause why the prayer of the petitioner should not be granted; and that notice of the pendency of said petition and the hearing thereof, be given to all persons interested in said matter by publishing a copy of this order in the Wayne Herald, a weekly newspaper printed in said county, three successive weeks prior to said day of hearing. (Seal) JAS. E. BRITTAI, County Judge.

Writing the Boys

Are we negligent about writing to boys of our own town who are away, offering their lives if need be for us? The war has been so long that we call attention to this as some of the boys who are not blessed with plenty of relatives get few letters from home. Let us begin writing to our own town's boys. The following letter to his mother in Winside will interest every body:

America's Expeditionary Force, May 5. My dear mother, so I will write a few lines which may reach you by that time, but shortly after. The noblest thoughts my soul can claim; The holiest words my tongue can utter.

Unworthy are we to praise the name More sacred than any other; An infant when her love first came, A man, I find it just the same; Reverently I breathe her name, The blessed name of mother."

Well, mother we are having fine weather here and we also have a chance to see quite a bit of the country. We have moved since I wrote last and I think we must be right in the best part of it now. One is greatly impressed by the sudden change when going through the country and then pass one of the quaint little towns. There are rich fields in the valley with beautiful scenes in the valley where the small town is hid among the trees. But the first thing you see upon entering town is a farm with perhaps an entrance to the house through the barn. Some of the houses are very old, built mostly of stone and often times with the date of erection carved in the stone over the door. I saw one house which was built in 1620. I do not know of any more to write about close with lots of love from your son—Corporal Soren Peterson, Co. No. 1, M. P. 1st Division, A. E. F. via N. Y.

BELATED ADVICE.

Kansas City Times: Maximilian Harden has warned Austria that it cannot accept the alliance which Germany has offered her. Austria, he says, must insist upon a peace that will leave her free to look to the United States for help at the close of the war. The German editor has given Austria some good, but some very belated advice. Austria already has been swallowed.

SHOWERS OF BLESSING.

Kansas City Star: However thank heaven, at the very moment when bombs were falling upon the Red Cross hospitals in France, the money was falling upon the Red Cross also in America and the rain was falling upon our wheat fields.

The McCormick No. 6

Is not a McCormick No. 4 mower made over. It is a new mower with all the good features of the No. 4 embodied with many improvements added.

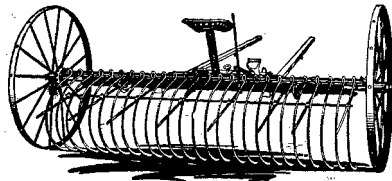

NOTICE THESE GOOD POINTS

Countershaft Easily adjusted
The outside end of the countershaft is kept in place by washers and cotter pins.
This construction makes it possible to make an adjustment on the countershaft in a few minutes. You will notice also that the adjustments are made from the outside of bearings, which is a desirable feature.

FLEXIBLE GAG ARRANGEMENT

To do good work under all conditions, in rough meadows as well as smooth, a mower must have a flexible gag arrangement. It must be possible to raise the bar reasonably high without increasing the angle between the pitman and knife.
The McCormick No. 6 is an improvement over most mowers in this respect. The cutter bar can be raised to the first notch, and if necessary to the second notch while the machine is in operation. The cutter bar has the same angle in both positions in relation to pitman and coupling bar. You will appreciate this extra high lift in rough, stony, or stumpy ground, or in going across a newly cut field and crossing windrows.

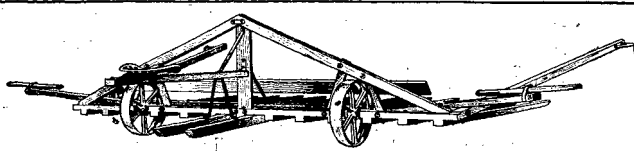

McCormick Self Dump Rake

The McCormick self dump rake will meet your requirements under all conditions. It has gained a reputation in every locality for durability and ease of operation. It dumps quickly, and the teeth return to the ground close to the windrow. As the rake fills, the cleaner rods float above and retard the hay so that it does not roll into a ropy form.

WHEELS INTERCHANGE.

The wheels of the McCormick rake interchange so that when one side of the ratchet is worn the wheels can be reversed, giving practically the wear of two rake wheels in one. The wheels have staggered spokes and heavy steel tires. They are large and keep the rake running smoothly when on rough ground. The inside ratchet is covered with a shield which prevents the hay from winding or interfering with the tripping device.

No machines equal McCormick sweep rakes and stackers for economy when stacking hay in the field. No other method equals this in saving of time and labor.

McCormick sweep rakes are made in nine styles, so that every field condition can be met successfully. They will gather hay from either swath or windrow.

A great meeting next Tuesday, June 11, at the Methodist church. Addresses by three of the great men of Methodism. Dr. Fakerson of Tokio, Japan, president of the great Tokio university, was vice of the U. S. in Japan for several years.

Rev. J. J. Kingman who has been in India for twelve years, is one of the most successful missionaries of the American board.
About one hundred stereopticon slides will be used to illustrate Dr. Kingman's work in India.

All free. No collection taken. No admission fee, and all who come will be welcome.

First Baptist Church.
(Rev. Fletcher J. Jordan, Pastor.)
The Northeastern association meets at Tilden, Neb, June 12-14. We ought as Baptists to endeavor to make these associational meetings inspirational and helpful. Dr. W. O. Anderson of Omaha, will lead all the devotionals. Other strong features will be a part of the program. Let us decide to attend this meeting if at all possible.
In the morning at 10:30 next Lord's day the pastor will speak on the theme: "The New Commandment of Love." At 8 o'clock the subject will be: "The Power of Christ."

Miss Hazel Norton will have charge of the young people's meeting Sunday evening at 7 o'clock. "Progressive Christians" will be the subject considered. The scripture text is found in 2d Peter 1:11-11. A very cordial invitation is extended to all young people, but especially to the summer students at the Wayne State Normal school.
The Sunday school convenes at 11:30 a. m. Classes will be found for all who attend. Children ought to be present so that they can hear all about the program for Children's day.
Choir practice Thursday evening at 8 p. m.
Plan to worship with us next Sunday. Strangers, students and all people without a church home are earnestly invited to all the services on the Lord's day.

Presbyterian Church.
(Rev. S. X. Cross, Pastor.)
"The Issues of Life" is the subject for the Sunday morning sermon next Sunday. This is a study in "The Supreme of Heavens." All are heartily invited to attend this service.
We especially invite all students and teachers in the summer school to be at home in all the activities of this church during their stay in our city. Our aim shall be to contribute to your pleasure while among us.
The Sunday morning preaching service at this church is a 10:30. At 11:30 sharp, the Sunday school convenes and is in session for one hour. The Y. P. S. C. E. meets each Sunday evening at 7. The evening preaching is at 8.
Be at Sunday school and get into line for the Children's day program, coming soon. Our primary and junior departments are hard to beat. We invite visitors to inspect these departments at any time. Have the children in Sunday school now while the roads are good.

"The Anglo-Saxon vs. the Hun," will be the theme for the discourse on next Sunday evening. There will be a good music program under the direction of Mrs. A. R. Davis, chorister. All students of the times are urged to be present. What is the main issue of the war, so far?
Miss Elizabeth Mines will lead the Y. P. S. C. E. meeting next Sunday evening. The topic will be "Progressive Christians." The Junior or the Intermediate does his task with joy, but he soon outgrows them and wants bigger. Every year should find us planning bigger, better things.

A HOME GUARD CONGRESS
Norfolk is planning to hold a monster home guard military congress next fall, with prizes for best drilled companies. In the course of its announcement, the Daily News of Norfolk has pointed out the Captains of home guard companies throughout the Norfolk territory are requested to interest themselves in the military congress in order to develop greater skill in drilling among home guard companies and in order to make the congress a success. Every home guard captain is urged to write to the home guard military congress committee of the Norfolk Commercial club for information in order that the necessary support may be secured from every corner of the territory. Red Cross members, the Council of Defense, and patriotic citizens all over the Norfolk territory will be appealed to to interest their home folks in the efforts of the Norfolk club to make the military congress successful.

Companies to Camp.
Norfolk is prepared to take care of an unlimited number of home guard companies. The city's athletic grounds, North Point, where the local guard company drills weekly is large enough to accommodate many companies at drill at one time. The splendid facilities and the closeness of the field to the city, too, have their advantages. Preliminary suggestions are that the soldiers take over the Chautauque park for encampment grounds where at least two regiments of troops could camp for a short time.
The military congress committee is now busy on the formation of working committees and when this has been completed some important announcements are to be made. Captains of home guard companies, however, are asked not to hesitate in making suggestions and as the big military meet is to be held at home guard affairs with the regular army as a judge, the committee will appreciate prompt response from every part of the Norfolk territory.

PATRIOTIC FLORISTS.
Philadelphia Public Ledger: No one should consider the florist industry nonessential since 38,000 florists all over the United States have pledged themselves to keep the base hospitals supplied with fresh flowers. What more fitting service could they render to our wounded soldiers?

HARNESSES.
Heavy and light farm harness of best oak leather made by hand by first class harness makers always on hand and at prices lower than the present market value.
Repairing promptly and rightly done by hand while you wait. Come in, examine my goods and be convinced that you get more value for your money than elsewhere. John S. Lewis, jr., Wayne, Neb. Allifad

SHORTHORN BULLS.
Parties interested in raising cattle should call and see bulls raised by John S. Lewis, jr. & Son. They are the largest type beef cattle, yet their dams give a good flow of milk. Herd headed by Britton Goods 339757, son of Imported Choice Goods 156802, the most noted bull ever imported. His get and the get of his son and grandsons have won more prizes than any other family of the breed. Such cattle in Iowa sales last month averaged $900 to $1,150 each. These bulls can be bought so they will pay for themselves in additional beef produced in a short time and good enough to head any pure blood herd in northeast Nebraska.

LIST OF FOUR-MINUTE MEN

Those to Speak at Crystal Theater Evenings Next Week.

The four-minute men are combining in this campaign the idea that all should work with and main support the administration in this way with the nation-wide child welfare program as a government measure to be presented at the Crystal theater for next week will be as follows:

Monday, June 10, Prof. A. F. Gulliver.
Tuesday, June 11, Carl F. N. Claussen.
Wednesday, June 12, Dr. J. T. Housh.
Thursday, June 13, Prof. J. G. W. Lewis.
Friday, June 14, Fred S. Berry.
Saturday, June 15, Rev. Fletcher Jordan.

H. Kemp and Rev. S. X. Cross spoke at a patriotic meeting in the opera house, last Wednesday. This was a precinct meeting and a large number were present. Mr. Cross spoke on the subject, "We Must Fight to the End." Mr. Kemp spoke on "Food Will Win the War." A hearty patriotic enthusiasm was manifested, as well as a fine community, get-together spirit.

On Thursday afternoon J. H. Kemp spoke to a large mass meeting of citizens at the opera house in Beelen. This was a Memorial day occasion, and Mr. Kemp spoke on a general patriotic theme, as well as on food conservation.

A LITTLE OF MY LIFE.

(By Marguerite Clark.)

Whenever it is suggested to me to tell the story of my life, I always remember and appreciate the attitude of the farmer who, when asked if he had spent his whole life upon the farm, answered most emphatically, "No, not yet." For the "not yet" of one's existence is, to me, the only part to be reckoned with or worth the telling. But of my life thus far there is, of course, a little to say, and I will say it, beginning with the first really important event as all well-regulated life-stories begin.

This happened in Avondale, Ohio, a few years back, we will say, though not quite so few as many of my friends would care to profess to believe. In spite of their theories, I am in long dresses. I do not wear my hair down my back, and although I sometimes play wittily, I really am beyond the age when one confesses it boldly and in public.

My birthday is the twenty-second of February—Washington's birthday—a fact which I deplored as soon as I realized that the holiday celebrations on that day were in honor of the fact of my birth as to the fact of his! Then I grieved very much because I had no birthday entirely devoted to my own use, and a little neighbor invited me to my good fortune and I thought better of a contemplated change.

My father was a merchant in Cincinnati and my mother was a young society woman of that city, who had not the slightest hope in the world, I fancy, that her daughter would attain the sacred stage, to say nothing of the screen, which was at that time an unknown dream. As far as I know, I have no actor-ancestors, and I am sure that no one who ever loved the theater very much, so the desire for the stage in me, like "Topsy," must have "just grown."

My father and mother, under circumstances shaped themselves to allow my ambitions to become realized. Both my mother and father died before I was eleven years old and I was left in the care of my sister—I doubt if many parentless children are supplied with as happy and satisfying a substitute as I received.

They tell me that the army of chorus girls who come from the F. V.'s is the largest in the world unless it is counted by the number who began their dramatic careers in a convent. But my first aptitude for the stage did display itself during the three years I spent in the Ursuline convent in Ohio.

I had always been fond of reading, and literally lived in a fairy world, curled up in a corner, and in my mind was when I should have been playing and exercising with the other girls. I have heard that nearly all children, at that age, are interested in the life of a butterfly, which is a perfectly normal phase in their development—secretly believe that they are not living the life of a butterfly, but that they are being adopted in some mysterious way, and one day may expect their real parents, who will carry them off to a better state of life.

I think that this phase in me took itself out in the feeding that I was really a fairy-person, perhaps even better, for I was not quite quite aspire to that—condemned to mortal existence until such time as the spell would break and I should be free to return to the green or the red or blue fair-book from which I had issued. Until then, to be sure, I should have been in a pink, blue, and white Marguerite Clark's bed, study her lessons, and to all appearances be Marguerite

Clark, ...but—the—day—would—come!

One afternoon I was sent with a message to the convent where I was hearing some of the older girls in a play. It happened that the play was one from the convent library with which I was familiar, and when I arrived the leading-lady was stumbling very badly over her lines. Ordinarily, I was shy and would never have dreamed of speaking any of the older girls, to imagine their surprise, as well as my own, when I heard myself suddenly pipping up, not only with the forgotten lines, but the proper accompanying business as well.

Whether the girl refused to play after that, I don't remember, but the sisters reproving me, that perhaps they would have to let "little Marguerite" have the part? was carried out, and I played the leading role. That was the beginning, and after that I was usually given the leading parts for lack of any one else to do them, suppose.

I realized, I think, the years of work and struggle and disappointment ahead of me even if no success should ever be mine—and realizing this to a greater extent, perhaps, than most novices do—still my ambition for a stage career shaped itself, and upon leaving the convent I came to New York to study with this end in view.

Edna Aborn, danced to see me in an amateur (with the exception of my dramatic school certificate) production, and offered me my first chance—a position in the chorus of the opera company, thus I made my debut with him in Baltimore, Maryland, and by the time I had a few lines to say in "The Bohemian Girl," and an unknown singer was sending me flowers at every performance, I began to think that I was doing very well indeed. And then the young man came in, and he said, "Dane saying that everybody loved me, but that if I loved them, for heaven's sake to please stop singing! I could not sing, it appeared according to the critic, though I had been doing so, recklessly.

This may have been one reason why I did not get any engagements, although I missed its excitement when I left it occasionally for straight comedy and drama. I played "The Merry Widow" and "The Eternal Temptress," following this with "Happyland," a revival of "Wang," "The First Child," and "The First Child"—finally becoming prima donna and creating the role of Nadine in "The Beauty Spot." My first opportunity to star was given me by the Shuberts in their production, "The Wishing Ring."

And how I hated starring and its responsibilities, even though it meant a mile or two along the road to success! I was at once made to understand that if the house was empty, it was the star's fault, not the fault of the play or of the weather. If the house was full, the play must be good. If a scene fell down, the star didn't carry it—a slip on the part of any member of the cast could, of course, be traced to the star! Each part, however, with its own particular difficulties, was a new stone for the next, bringing me nearer the work for which I was most happily fitted.

My first telling work was in "Baby Mine," in which I created the role of Zoie Hardy. At this time Mme. Bernhardt was playing in a theater nearby, and after my performance I would run to her theater on the chance of seeing her in her dressing room. Mme. Bernhardt is, to my mind, the greatest actress the world has ever known, and her presence in inspiration. Her portrait as "Alaiglon, with inscription, "A Ma Gentille Camarade, Marguerite Clark," is one of my dearest possessions.

ABOUT THE SILENT DRAMA

At a recent dinner tendered her at the Ritz in New York City, Pauley is questioned by the press as to the powers as an after dinner speaker and more than before in her whole enthusiastic career, demonstrating a sense of art with the "Silent Drama" as an art—with capital A. Quoting Charlotte Cushman's words she said in regard to the motion picture: "My only equals all other artists and is when I should have been playing and exercising with the other girls. I have heard that nearly all children, at that age, are interested in the life of a butterfly, which is a perfectly normal phase in their development—secretly believe that they are not living the life of a butterfly, but that they are being adopted in some mysterious way, and one day may expect their real parents, who will carry them off to a better state of life."

SAMMIES IN PLAY.

"Thousands of our own 'Sammys,' now in the regular army cantonment, take part in the picture. The public will be treated to the thrilling story of the life of its own boys under the command of the real war hero, Empey, go over the top in day after day, fighting the German trenches. They will see their own aviators circling in the air as they are now doing over the German lines. They will see our machine gunners, bombers, bayonet charges, and the use of machine guns in action as they are in the trenches. The veil will be lifted from the western front and America will be seen playing her part. "Over the Top" has a stronger appeal than any picture ever flashed upon the screen, because it is based on truth, not fiction; because it depicts a drama in which we are all playing parts, either at home or abroad; because it presents a real hero; and because it reveals America in her great heroic hour, coming to the aid of humanity as champion of civilization.

Admission 25 and 50 cents.

SECRET OF GOOD LOOKS.
Elsie Ferguson, the beautiful star in "The Song of Songs," says the secret of good looks is to prevent worrying, for worry makes wrinkles and a woman is as old as her wrinkles. She should worry! Any woman naturally blessed with her putchrida—and incidentally her income—could refrain from worrying with very little trouble.

PICTURE CAUSES GRIEF.
Miss Edna Maison, the vampire of "A Rich Man's Darling," a Bluebird photoplay, "A Rich Man's Darling," for more than a year has been contributing her entire salary in an effort to obtain a few comforts for the Australian soldiers fighting on the western battlefield in France. Although away from Australia for three years, she retains all that innate love for the country of her birth. When the Australian soldiers were first shipped to France, Miss Lovely and her mother took invoice of their worldly goods and decided that through strict economy they could live some time on their nest egg. Then came the decision that Miss Lovely would work for the soldiers alone.

other husband-to-be. The screen vampiring of Miss Maison in her attempts to separate a wealthy banker from his money was so realistic that the young man feared she might develop similar tendencies following their marriage. Director Edgar Jones heard of the possible broken engagement, and used his offices to bring the couple together. The engagement is still on.

PROVERBS A LA MOIE.

Beauty, thy name is Anita Stewart. Movie, and the family moves with you: go to bed, and you're home alone. All the world loves Mary Pickford. Boss's spring eternal in Theda Bara's breast. Douglas Fairbanks is a joy forever. It's a long film that has no love-making. A little slapstick now and then is related by the most fastidious men. It's a wise fan that knows what Chaplin will do next. People who "live" in movie houses utter few groans. The female of the pictures is as popular as the male. Performers have to rush in where directors fear to tread. Discrepancies will happen in the best of films.

Following "Mr. Fix-It," Douglas Fairbanks' Artcraft picture will be "Say, Young Fellow!" In this subject the star appears as a cub reporter.

Despite announcements to the contrary, Gustav Seyffert's, lone of the most valued members of the Lasky stock company, will remain with the organization, appearing in Paramount and Artcraft pictures. He will be seen in "Old Wives for New."

Wallace Reid is working on "Less Than Kin," a Paramount picture, under the direction of Douglas Crisp. Ann Little is leading woman.

Charles Ray will soon make his appearance in "The Claws of the Hun," a Thomas H. Ince production to be released as a Paramount picture.

William S. Hart has returned from his liberty loan tour, and is now at work on "Shark Monroe," for Artcraft release. At a special showing of "Miss Mary Pickford's latest Artcraft picture, all present declared it to be the best production in which the star had ever appeared.

Frank French Comes Again and Urges Local Support for a Local Institution

A Maximum of Success and a Minimum of Fatalities.

A Proud Record That Makes the Hospital First in the High Corner of the State.

NOT long since we passed by the cottage on the north hillside where hangs the familiar sign "The Wayne Hospital" and, Moses like, we felt like removing the shoes from off our feet while standing with bared head on the holy ground in front of that institution where the operation or healing has been going on for approximately two years and a half.

Tradition delights in the story of a famous Spaniard who crossed the sea over and half the world around in keen-eyed search for some "hot spring" out of which he could drink an extension of life and a set-back into the blossom time of his twenties. Perhaps the nearest he ever came to finding a spring of that kind was when he got a lung full of Nebraska atmosphere. But if the modern hospital had been in operation at that time his search would not have been fruitless and he could have drank long and deep to both health and youth.

That's the kind of a spring that bubbles up in the Wayne Hospital. For more than two years help and health have stood together at the open portals of the Wayne Hospital to welcome all comers and speed all goers. The helpfulness of the institution, with its almost phenomenal success in healing, is not only the source of pride to its founders, but the constant theme of all its patients.

In the Day of Beginning

We still remember the December time of 1915 when the hospital first opened its doors and said "Come unto me all ye who are sick and full of aches and I will give you a treatment or an operation that will relieve pain and if possible give an extension of life."

Since that time the surgeons and the nurses have been busy. The good work has been going on; the knife has been going down into the lesions of the body, and all manner of operations have been performed. Permanently diseased parts have been skillfully whittled out and offending appendages have been relegated to the scrap heap. Miracles have been performed and when you come to consider that 4,000 patients have been treated and approximately 600 operations, both major and minor, have been performed, it is not hard to estimate that literally more than a thousand years of life have been added to the longevity of the people of Wayne and vicinity.

Science and skill have held the sceptre and almost incredible cures have been performed.

No Barn Side Poster

This is no screaming advertisement—no barn side poster, calculated to outrage professional ethics. The surgeon in charge is in no way responsible for what is said here. He will never know what these columns say until he sees it in cold type the same as any other reader. Nor is the editor responsible. He has no license to add to or detract from the sayings of this page. Every word is innumerate to his blue pencil. This paragraph is written in the first person and, Frank French, alone, is responsible. I am the sole dictator of this space, the supreme arbiter of this English, and I am telling the story because it needs to be told and the telling will serve humanity. I am telling it to the sick, because they need the help, such as former patients have received, and I am telling it to the well for they are liable to be sick with a sickness that patent nostrums cannot help.

The Incense of Gratitude

We have written on a thousand different subjects, but when it comes to writing about the Wayne Hospital there comes a personal phase, of a personal experience, that causes us to burn the incense of gratitude on the front porch and pay the institution sincerest tribute. You will find a "French" name on the roster of patients. The most prominent member of the French family underwent in this institution a major operation, exceedingly complicated and difficult, and yet it was so skillfully and successfully performed that in the French home the refrain of praise never dies out.

In most things of life you learn by actual experience and graduate from no department without bumping into every corner of the gamut of life and death.

Only One Fatality

No organization, corporation or institution in Wayne has been more successful or served the community more efficiently than the Wayne Hospital. Practically every operation a success, every patient helped, all kinds of suffering relieved—what more could be expected? Two years and a half of service with only one surgical fatality marked on the record, and that in no way chargeable to the institution. Rejected by other hospitals, the patient was received here because the management believes it is the mission of the physician and surgeon to do all that can be done to relieve pain and extend mercy to suffering humanity, even though it is known from the beginning that little help can be extended or death long delayed. Hats off to the institution that makes it easier for the living to live, and the dying to die.

Has Won Its Name

Two years and a half ago when the doors of the Hospital were opened to the public there were those who passed it by with little thought, and some regarded it as a Nazareth out of which could come small, if any, good. Calamitous prophecies were prophesied and many who forever cast their eyes upon the far-off city, believing that everything is better somewhere else than at home expected failure and had their mouths all set to say "I told you so," but to those who expected failure and incompetency there came a disappointment, and happily, for the city of Wayne a happy disappointment. The Wayne Hospital has made good. It has demonstrated that it has science and skill and that its chief surgeon was to the manor born. That the methods are of the best known to the medical world, the equipment the latest, the most improved and up-to-date, that the nurses are competent, courteous, and kind. A combination of this kind, together with the comforts and sanitary conditions, has made the splendid record of which not only the Hospital, but all Wayne can well feel proud.

Boost the Home Institution

People of Wayne, you are called upon to support your home institution and you can all afford to do anything else. It is operated for your accommodation; everything connected with it savors of home comfort. It eliminates the commercial aspect of the big city hospital, where all care and attention are purely mechanical and every phase of the home is eliminated, where the patient not only must battle with the onslaught of disease but contend with homesickness as well,—where they can see none of the home folks without much added expense and where flows and comforts from friends and neighbors are not sent in every day to add to the comfort and contribute cheer.

It's worth the price and you had better spend twice the money to keep your sick at home where they will have the personal care of attendants who are interested not alone in the record of the Hospital, but in their patients as well, because they are friends, neighbors, of the home town. But at home the cost is less—far less.

A Hospital a Necessity

A mercantile establishment is a great thing, a bank performs a useful function. We must have factories. The butcher, the baker, the candle stick maker must have a place in every community, but the Hospital is not like unto these. It appeals to the community for support, but not alone on the basis of commercialism, which can only say, "keep your money at home." The Hospital is semi-philanthropic, humanitarian in its nature, and charitable in its ministrations. It is and should be first in the order of community importance. The health of the people is more important than the wealth of the people. It is infinitely more important to have a place where they can mend a broken arm than a place where they can catch a torn shirt. Raiment is not first among the needs of the body, and while food is necessary there must be a body able and strong to receive and assimilate the food. So first the body, then the food and last the raiment, and in like order, first the Hospital, then the baker and the grocer, next the clothier.

We appeal for the support of all home institutions, but we clamor most for the support of the home Hospital. For the benefit of the merchant and the producer we say in the language of the steel slogans nailed all over our county: "Buy it in Wayne." But for the benefit of the Hospital, your local physicians and surgeons, we say: "Have it cut out in Wayne." But that doesn't meet the requirements. That is perhaps too mercenary. The Hospital cannot be wholly commercial and we do not ask the support for the sake of its bank account, but on higher grounds we ask your patronage so that you can be helped physically and the range of the Hospital's usefulness extended and increased as the years come and go.

The aim of such an institution cannot be the making of money alone. The surgeon who operates only for the fee he is to receive is a cold-hearted barbarian and deserves no consideration from his fellowmen, nor can such a surgeon ever be truly successful. Success is never remunerated with gold alone. But success needs gold and can use gold to almost better advantage than anything else.

The Hospital needs money; must have money, else its minstrations of helpfulness are circumscribed and cannot be maintained.

Investigate your local institution. See for yourself what they have, and what they are doing and we are convinced you will withhold no commendation or refuse your patronage.

An Advertising Feature

One of the things I note and mark well is what former patrons say of the Wayne Hospital. I have talked with scores of them. I have talked with those who live in Winside, in Carroll, in Wakefield, in Emerson, and in many other places round about the city of Wayne, and they have all the same story to tell. Without any exception, tune or no tune, then sing the praise of the Wayne Hospital, and their opinion of Wayne and impression of its commercial facilities are more or less favorably biased by their good opinion of the Hospital. Every time the Hospital makes a friend for itself, to some extent, it makes a friend for the town. A good school advertises the town and helps everybody in it. A good store advertises the town as well as itself. A good newspaper says "Good town" to everybody that reads it and the good Hospital that delivers the goods makes friends for itself, takes its stand along side of the school and of the store and the printing office, and boosts for the town. It is an advertising feature that should not be underestimated.

Modern Equipment

The late appliances, the modern methods employed, the wide experience of the surgeons and attendants put the Wayne Hospital in the front rank of institutions of its kind and enables it to perform any kind of operation, major or minor, complicated or simple, that can be successfully performed in any other place.

We have read the list of their operations and have been almost startled at the difficult tasks they have undertaken and the success that has resulted. It compels us to say that the Hospital is eminently successful. The list of operations is a long one. They run into high figures and string out like the figures on a box car. The technical cognomen of some of them is almost as long as the list itself. We would nail up the names of these operations on this page, but we cannot spell them, and you could not pronounce them, and neither of us would know much more about them, but we do know that they have been performed and life has been saved.

We know that the Hospital is long on results, and results are what are making for it an enviable reputation. Throughout the entire north and eastern sections of the state as well as in some of the border state, its reputation has gone abroad and from an ever widening circle it is drawing and will continue to draw, its future patrons.

Large Plans

The institution is not large enough. They have not room enough and but for war conditions the plans prepared for its enlargement would have been executed long before this. It was better, however, that the doctor did not despise the day of small things, but was willing to begin under conditions that left all around him room for growth. But he laid the foundation well and deep and he has now the foundation of a new and larger building and he has laid the foundations of thorough going, efficient Hospital work that will go on for years to come.

If we were to be taken apart and set up again with some of the appendages and supernumeraries eliminated we would just as soon trust the skill of the Wayne Hospital as any we know, and we know many of them in the larger cities of Omaha, Lincoln, Des Moines, Kansas City, and elsewhere. We had rather trust our life in the hands of the man who is in love with his profession, who avails himself of the benefit of all current investigation and post-graduate courses, who keeps abreast of the times, who knows the latest and uses the best.

MISPLACED CONFIDENCE

Subscriptions for German Red Cross Used for Propaganda.

Recently the Bloomfield Monitor published a facsimile of a draft showing that funds collected from Americans of German birth a few years ago for the German Red Cross were really used to promote German propaganda in this country.

"How Nebraska's German ancestry were supposed upon to furnish money for German propaganda in this country by appealing to their sympathies in the name of the German Red Cross is illustrated by the draft herewith facsimiled.

"This exposure of the fraud was made last week up in Knox county through Editor W. H. Needham's Bloomfield Monitor.

"The money for the draft was subscribed by Germans living in Knox county for Red Cross work in Germany during 1915, and the publication recently of the evidence that the money instead of being sent to the German Red Cross was turned over to the chief German propaganda in this country, Dr. Dernburg, for purposes entirely reverse to Red Cross relief in Germany, was a blow to many of the contributors.

Bridging the Gap From Steer to Steak

Live stock is raised on the farms and ranches of the West. Meat is eaten in the large cities of the East, and by our boys in France — thousands of miles away.

The day of transporting live animals from ranch to seaboard and overseas has passed. There was too much waste. The modern packer locates his large and specialized plants in the producing regions. He ships the dressed beef in refrigerator cars, and holds it in his own refrigerated branch warehouses until delivered to the retailer. For shipment to foreign ports, he transfers the meat to refrigerated ships.

By means of his nation-wide organization the modern packer maintains a continuous flow of meats to all parts of the country, so that each retailer gets just the quantity and quality of meat his trade demands, and at the time he wants it.

Swift & Company recently shipped 1,000 carloads of meat products in one week to our Armies and to the Allies.

Bridging the gap from ranch to consumer can be done successfully—and at low unit costs and profits—only by large business organizations.

Swift & Company's profit on meat, always so small as to have practically no effect on prices, is now limited by the Government to about 2 cents on each dollar of sales.

Candidate For Sheriff

I. E. ELLIS

I have filed for the republican nomination for sheriff of Wayne county. I have lived in this county over fifteen years, most of which time I have been in business in Wayne. Before coming here I lived at Wakefield for eight years, going there from a farm near Pilger, Neb. I was born and raised on a farm in Pottawattamie county, Iowa. This is the first time I have asked for an office in Wayne county. I served as constable in Dixon county for a number of years. If I am intrusted with the office of sheriff I will do everything in my power to fill the office properly and efficiently.

Lay the Foundation Now

Being able to take advantage of a business opportunity leads to fame and fortune. Not being able to, means a continual struggle for existence and a humdrum life of worries and anxiety.

Successful men in all walks of life today lay the foundation of their success to the starting of a bank account—the laying aside of a little each week or each day if possible, until one day, when their opportunity arrives, they had to their credit a nice, tidy sum—a comfortable capital with which to start out on.

The welcome doors of opportunity swing open only to those who are prepared to enter. The golden stream of dollars comes only to those who know the combination of thrift and economy. Drop in and let's talk it over.
