

The New Edison is a Vital Factor in the Nation's Life

THE NEW EDISON is a refining influence; it really enriches the life of the family which owns it. Unlike talking machines and other devices, which merely imitate music, it actually re-creates the singer's voice. And it does it so faithfully that no human ear can distinguish between artist and instrument. The famous Edison tone tests have proved this to more than 2,000,000 people. As a result one never tires of it. The novelty never wears off, any more than the novelty wears off Paggiacci, Aida or any other great opera. Music is one of life's greatest resources. And in the New Edison you have music—the world's greatest music, interpreted by the world's greatest artists. Not an imitation, you understand, but a Re-Creation. And never was the solace of music more needed than now—in this time of stress and anxiety. Don't figure money spent on a New Edison as an expense. It's a profitable investment. It keeps you and your family at home where you don't spend money. Call at our store and hear a demonstration

The Edison Tone Test Answers Your Question

"What instrument shall I buy?" That's been your question. And the Edison tone test has answered it. The tone test has proved that an instrument has finally been perfected which Re-Creates the singer's voice so faithfully that the human ear cannot distinguish between the renditions of the artist and those of the machine.

From the New York Evening Mail

"At no time in its history has the world stood more in need of healing influence, of sweetening in its bitter cup, than now.

"Make it a point to hear all the good music that you possibly can. It will be well worth your while to banish, be it for ever so brief a time, the menacing shadows that war has cast over the lives of us all. The glimpse into bright regions of the republic of music will make you stronger to deal courageously with the grim realities. It will renew your faith in the future. It will strengthen your determination to do your part to bring that future nearer and more certain.

"Hear all the good music that you possibly can."

The Round Oak Double Burner (Double Hot Blast) Burns Cheapest Fuel—Prevents Clinkers

The powerful improved double hot blast converts that 38 per cent of carbon in the smoke into heat units which are directly radiated into the room. Ordinarily it goes up the chimney. This saving of 38 per cent in fuel is very important; but when, on account of other and quite as interesting features, the Round Oak saves an additional 12 per cent, it instantly commands your favorable consideration.

Come and see the stove itself. See that absolute control is built into the stove, not simply assured. Discover why the patented cone-center grate and double fire pot prevent clinkers, with cheapest fuel. Examine the extra-heavy cold rolled boiler-iron body: See the door frames riveted-on—gas tight for life. Ask the weight.

It's the one best heater to buy, regardless of price.

ON THE SCREEN

HAS RARE VIRTUE.

The picture which virtue is rare among the big scenic films. "Joan the Woman" has an engrossing story. We are of the opinion that it would be still more absorbing if it were a live. It is so long as it could almost be called a two-part film of history and legend. Surely that is a novelty. It is so long as it is almost a novel, but Jeanie MacPher- son, who devised the film, has added a prologue and a sequel, concerning the Great War and has introduced Joan with a love of one of the English captains.

This, first of all, we see a young man in the trenches who discovers an ancient sword on the eve of the call for volunteers to perform a desperate mission. Back go the scenes that we find Joan, the peasant maid, in Domremy. The biography here is excellent, but there is some little delay in starting Joan's career. It is necessary to the point out, first of all, how she saves the life of Eric Trent, the English captain. Not till then does she see the world in which we find Joan, the peasant maid, in Domremy. The biography here is excellent, but there is some little delay in starting Joan's career.

Manager Nielson says that beginning September 3, each of these six famous screen stars will appear at intervals of six weeks during the year. In specially chosen productions and that the plays in which they are presented will be of the highest quality on the screen. The Vitagraph company has recently expended a great deal of money in the enlargement and improvement of its studio facilities and is planning to make this the biggest year in its history.

RHYMED REVIEWS. If you are tired of your wife, if you are weary of your work, cheer up—there's something yet in life. As long as there is Billie Burke.

A sweet and wholesome convent miss. Who longs for love and for romance, for someone she can hug and kiss—(I wish to gosh I had the chance!) Added to which, the girl has looks; So when she wumps her girl friend's brother, That highbrow just forgets his books. And how he loves her, and none other.

Beautiful Star Just 23. "I think there should be less of type and more of versatility in players, more subtlety and less of the obvious." That is beautiful Dorothy Phillips' criticism of the screen, and that is what has persuaded her to break away from the traditions and conventionalities of films, making for herself a reputation as one of the most free and individual of all the great players on the motion picture stage.

Miss Phillips—if you would know all about her—was born in Baltimore on October 30, just twenty-three years ago, of American parents. She was educated in the same city, and immediately after was one of our best novelists. Among his most popular works is "Old Wives for New." Jennie MacPherson was commissioned by Paramount-Attercraft to make a screen version of this work for creation on the screen by Cecil B. De Mille, director general of Paramount-Attercraft. Her result is a most entertaining screen drama with Elliott Dexter, Sylvia Ashton, Wanda Hawley, Florence Vidler, Theodora Roberts, Helen Jerome Eddy, Marjorie Manon, Julia Faye, J. Parks-Jones, Edna Mae Cooper, Gustav Seyffertitz, Tully Marshall, Elliott Leighton and Maym Nelson interpreting the principal roles. The pick of Attercraft screen artists are seen in this offering. "Old Wives for New" is considered by critics to be one of the best leading men appearing on the screen today. Theodore Roberts has been prominent in the characterizations for years back. He was equally prominent on the speaking stage before taking up picture work. The remainder of the story, which is a novel of the same title, it offers a series of scenes of vital interest to the public in reference to relationship in the home. It takes a new angle of the eternal triangle problem. At first the husband is guilty of an equal match for "Fatty" and Baster, but finally "Fatty" finds a way out of the trouble by making a dash for the rugged mountain fowler, Alice Lake. This leads to further difficulties, as Al St. John is a lover with primitive ways. How "Fatty" outwits the cunning mountaineer, and wins the fair Alice makes the most exciting comedy. In this picture Mr. Arbuckle has made a new departure in comedy. It is the broadest of broad burlesque and to relate the plot lucidly would be impossible. So let it be said the comedy from both the laugh-making and photographic viewpoints are even better than in "Out West" or "The Little Boy". The photography is particularly remarkable for comedy, such as the "shots" of the San Gabriel canyon being masterpieces in effects.

BOOKED VITAGRAPH.

Manager Nielson of the Crystal Theater has prepared a year-round program for the motion picture devotees by signing a contract with the Vitagraph company of America for fifty-two Blue Ribbon features, as the Vitagraph five-reel plays are known. This means that during the next twelvemonth the patrons of the Crystal Theater will see: Eight plays in which handsome Earl Williams is the hero. Eight productions with Alice Joyce of the soulful eyes as the heroine. Nine plays in which Harry T. Morey, the stalwart, is the hero. Nine plays in which winsome Bessie Froze will be seen in the characterizations which have made her famous. Five plays wherein beautiful Corinne Griffith, acclaimed one of the finest of the younger artists of the screen, will be starred. Nine plays in which Gladys Lee of roguish eyes and sunny smile, charms as the heroine. "THE LOVE SWINDLE."

Be very careful how you decide that man you are trying to land, because you may not be as lucky as Diana Rossion was. The whole trouble with Diana was that she had too much money, and although that may not seem like a crime now-a-days, yet Dick Webster hated the successful "sidekick" and wouldn't even notice Diana after that fateful breakfast party. And then Diana set to work to win him over. Whether she succeeded or not we leave you to find out but anyway there seemed to be a continuance of the breakfast just at the finish. Edith Roberts is Diana.

Count Leo Tolstoy has joined the ranks of Paramount writers. Pauline Frederick will soon appear in "Resurrection" based on the novel by the famous Russian.

Ding dong! Ding dong! Ding dong! Ding dong! Ding dong! Ding dong! Ding dong! Ding dong! What? God knows, ask him!

George Nickels, who played one of the important parts in a recent war film made in France, has returned to the Mack Sennett comedies. He says he has seen enough tragedy to last him for life.

Fourth of July proved rather unfortunate for Douglas Fairbanks, the Aircraft star. Some unknown person started a large firecracker on the roof of the Fairbanks film assembling room, causing a fire at six o'clock in the morning.

When D. W. Griffith was in London he had been approached by the war office to make "The Great Love," an Aircraft picture showing the death of the class feeling due to war. Queen Alexandra was one of the very first to volunteer her services and to state that she would be glad to appear in the film.

Wallace Reid and his company, with Ann Little as the leading woman, are making rapid work of "The Man from Funeral Range," a Western tale with plenty of zip and go according to report. It is taken from a play called "Broken Threads," the scenario being by Monte Katterjohn. Walter Edwards is directing.

Fifty of the prettiest girls in southern California wore $75000 worth of gowns in Cecil B. De Mille's latest Aircraft picture, "Old Wives for New," based on the famous story by David Graham Phillips. And now we defy any man or woman to stay away from the picture.

Ethel Clayton's first Paramount starring vehicle has been named "The Girl Who Came Back." It is an Americanized adaptation by Beatrice Marie Dix from the play, "Leah Kleesman." Robert B. Vipula is directing and work is almost completed on the offering. That it will be a highly enjoyable picture, with much emotional strength is the confident prognosis.

With her first picture, "The Cruise of the Make-Believe," finished at the Hollywood studios of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, Lila Lee, newest Paramount star, will soon work shortly on "Peggy the Pirate," her second film. The demure little actress has surprised the studio people from the first by her ready grasp of the details of the work and is being congratulated on all sides.

Fred Stone has finished "Under the Top," his first production for Aircraft, at the Famous-Lasky studios at Hollywood, and almost immediately following the completion of the big circus feature the famous star plunged into the production of his second picture. This will be "Johnny Get Your Gun," from the successful stage comedy in which Louis Bennison was starred some years ago. Under the direction of Donald Crisp, a number of the opening scenes have already been taken and the picture is said to be progressing with whirlwind speed.

Confusion and uncertainty prevail in many employing institutions. It is up to the girls and women to help out.

We should learn to value time and not allow it to be wasted. When there is so much to be done and so comparatively few to do it, no one in good health is warranted in loafing. This is no time for parasites.

The nomination of S. R. McKelvie for governor on the republican ticket is one of the pleasant surprises of the late primary. If our religion would permit us to bet we would bet on him as the winner in November.

Besides restrictions on newspapers to conserve the paper supply, some people suggest the advisability of trimming down the output of printed matter from different governmental departments with the same purpose in view.

Among other things in the government order directed at newspapers is one to the effect that no new papers shall be established during the war. We would extend that particular part of the order beyond the period of the war.

True Americanism is not necessarily loud and flamboyant nor necessarily silent and unostentatious. Some people are demagogues and others are not. But all must feel, if they are genuinely in sympathy with the government, and if they really desire the increased responsibility of citizenship at this time, like doing their utmost to support the boys in their titanic struggle against the forces of darkness in the world. The American colors must go to Berlin, and be unfurled there in the name of universal liberty. The more we can do in little ways in the great task of carrying through lappings of fire the blessings of freedom for all mankind.

Since George W. Norris and J. L. Morehead have been made the nominees of the republican and democratic parties respectively for United States senator, a great many people will be up in the air when they come to pass judgment in November unless some new course is suggested to them. But they are nominated by a minority of the voters of the state, and evidently neither measures up to the standard of statesmanship desired by the majority. It is believed many voters would not cheerfully support either of them. Then why deny people all exercise of conscience in determining the senatorship? Why not give voters who are not satisfied with either Norris or Morehead, a third choice? This would be fair at a time when the issues of a great war are involved and when people should be privileged to voice highest selection. It is believed many to represent them in the United States senate. It would seem only fair and just to put on the ticket by petition a man whose known qualities and alliances make him unobjectionable in all respects. These men have been suggested: F. W. Judson, Orem, Thomas Kennedy, male judge W. V. Allen, Madison; Samuel Rinkler, Beatrice. Other names might be added. Any one of them would do very well.

The resignation of the pastor of a local church reminds us of the difficulties with which we carefully surround the average minister after he has been installed long enough for the new to wear off. A major portion of us like the new preacher, on the start and predict a great religious awakening as a result of his advent among us. He is employed to lead and his leader on his own finds in his confusion that the different members of the church are the leaders, and that they lead in so many different directions that having only two legs securely fastened to one body, he can't follow them. His failure to track with leaders, some going north and others south, causes dissatisfaction and tends to cool the fires of church fervor. With some the preacher is too worldly, with others he is not worldly enough. With some, he is too much of a social star and doesn't take time for profound study. With others, he is too cold and austere, lacking capacity to radiate warm sunshine with which to cheer and encourage leaders in gaining material triumphs. He is too kind and generous, he is too cold and austere, lacking capacity to radiate warm sunshine with which to cheer and encourage leaders in gaining material triumphs. He is too kind and generous, he is too cold and austere, lacking capacity to radiate warm sunshine with which to cheer and encourage leaders in gaining material triumphs.

That One Best Suit

SOME TIME in your life you have had one suit of clothes that had all the style you liked, always held its press and shape, and gave you lots of wear after you had expected it to be worn out.

That's the kind of service you get from one of the suits we make up for you from the immense woolen samples of Ed. V. Price & Co. At the present time we have customers in six states who send to us regularly for their clothes. A number of them live in large cities too where they have all kinds of chances to buy clothes of every make.

We feel that this is one of the best compliments that could be paid to our shop and the line of tailoring we carry.

The prices, too, for these clothes are modest. When you stop to consider that very ordinary hand-me-downs are selling for $30 to $45, our clothes are certainly cheap from $30 to $60—and you have them made to fit you and suit you exactly or we will not take your money.

UNCLE WALT

The Poet Philosopher

POOLS' PARADISE.

The German people live in hope because they're on a fasted up dope. The public prints don't dare to tell the battles are not going well. A German army meets defeat, and puts a panicky retreat. About a million Huns are slain, and stacked to midlevel in the rain. "Odish!" we cry. "The startled Teuts will shrivel at the sight of their sign." When they have heard of this defeat, and see their armies can't be beat, they'll shed all kinds of scaling pine, and doubtless will take in their sign. "Alas, they do not hear the news, and so escape a siege of blue. The war lords call the printers in, and say "Announce that we still win! Of course we dropped our guns and ran, but that was Luden-hinden's plan—a master stroke of strategy, as all of you will later see. Go print a lot of cheerful bunk and if you hint the luck is punk, we'll back you up against a shell, and drill you with a ton of lead." The printers then get out their sheets, and make big triumphs of defeats. The people read, and say, "G. Whiz, how wonderful our army is! Our kaiser undefeatable, and Hindendorff is wearing bells!" Some day the Teuts are bound to wake, and see how they've been fed on fake news they've been on the kaiser's joke—and then, perhaps, there'll be some smoke.

POOR OLD GERMANY.

The Turks are growing tired, they say, of Prussian bluff and bragging; the spirits of their armed array have recently been sinking. The Teuts pursue their martial track and gather in the plunder, while Turkish statesmen hold the sack, and cuss their luck like thunder. The Balkans now begin to wish they might spread their hunting; the Germans carry off the fish while they far are hunting. The Balkan is sore, the way the Prussians use her. "The truth comes and her o'er and o'er, she's bound to be a loser. She's learned the last that Bill, the Hun, is but a base deceiver, and if the war be lost or won, she's due to get the cleaver. And Russia's weary of the "peace" the Teut imposed upon her; she draws her sword with elbow grease, and would retrieve her honor. When Kaiser William reads the news, his mind is surely reeling, and with his large all-highest shoes he kicks holes through the ceiling.

WORDS AND COIN.

If words would swat the raging foe, and lay a swath of Teutons low, the war would end tonight; we've some news, lads, who'd elude the stuffing from the warlord Teut, and put his-hosts to flight. We've countless gents who spend their days inventing epigram and phrase, and a hard-boiled metaphor; the way they roast the Hun is great, and ought to jar that Wilhelm skate—but words won't win the war. The gent who stands erect at every chance, to make a few remarks. Dig up, dig up, before you spie! Dig up the bone, the buck, the wheel, the kroner and the yen! Go down in your tin snags bank, dig up the shilling and the franc, dig up the iron men! When you have stripped the strong-bow bare, then you may stand and how the air until the cows come home; but talk that isn't backed by wealth won't interrupt a Teuton's health, or cleave his crested dome. September comes—another "Loan" will call for every hard-earned bone that patriots can raise; and he who buys himself a bond does more to help our boys beyond, than all the screeching jays.

FLYING TIME.

Already the winged old-great Caesar, how the weeks roll on! But yesterday spring's knell was tolled, and now the summer's nearly gone! The sun, it makes a shorter round, and early sinks, far in the west; the wombat burrows in the ground, the warthog builds its winter nest! In my other days I used to view the passage of old Father Time with sorrow, for he made me blue—I thought his hurry was a crime. But now I watch the bright days flue, and murmur, "Each day is done,—" "We're this much nearer victory, we're nearer wiping out the Hun. We're nearer to the dawn of peace, —a peace that warranted to wear—when all the booming guns shall cease, and there'll be quiet everywhere. We're one day nearer to the hour when, crazy war lords must confess that Uncle Sam is clothed with power to resist their lawlessness." The days go by—no holding them! I merely fies them as they fly; about a million r. p. m. they seem to make, as they whiz by. The petrodaxyl soon will soar to climes more suitable to him, and from this bleak, inclement shore, the megathierium will swim. All signs betoken summer's death, the grass grows rusty on the hill, and soon he'll feel the frosty breath of winter, boisterous and chill. But every day that brings its flight brings nearer to our waiting through the triumph of eternal night, the downfall of infernal wrong.

LYNCHING BEES.

Our good, wise president beseeches that we shun them to elude, lynchings such gents as may offend; to show the world we're law-abiding, all forms of frightfulness deriding, should be our aim and end. We chide the Huns for being brutal, but protestations seem quite futile, and we're thrown out of court if we take ropes, some victim enlisting, and shoot them dead. But every lynching is still our outdoor sport. We're standing up for all things moral; we've taken part in Europe's quest to set this planet straight; we need clean hands, and these we're lacking if to the elm tree we go packing the hemp for some poor exhort. The time spent at a lynch- ing function, where many men, in vain conjunction, throw golden hours away, might have the Kaisers Bill and Charles, if it were spent in reaping barley, or halving clover hay. It is a waste of men to hang them; far better round them up and gang them, and send them to the penitentiary there they may scrap with weapons staple, but dead guys swinging from a maple can do no useful stunt. This game, to which we've been addicted, should be abolished, or restricted until the war is done; till this is done the world will sass us, and view with scorn, and doubtless class us with Visigoth and Hun.

BRACE UP.

Cheer up, the heat may take the starch from you this time of year, but there will be no heat in March, and March will soon be here. Cheer up, though feeling half way dead, exhausted by the grind; there's always solace just ahead, and history behind. Cheer up, if tired of buying ice, which thins your meagre roll; for soon you will dig up the price for loads of slate and coal. Cheer up if war news shows reverse for armies of our town; the Teuts will strike a whelot worse than ever if we ever know. Cheer up if bread is lacking wheat, and long on bran and chaff; the tempting loaf you do not eat means some Hun's epitaph. Cheer up if all our wires seem crossed, and government diseased; believe me, everything's not lost because you are not pleased. Cheer up if you're beyond, than all the rest; understand; he's out to get some Bulgar kings, and see some Kaisers cannedy. If some discomforts you should know, know them, and gnaw your wheeze; our boys who face the fighting foe don't back on beds of ease. Cheer up! Let every word you utter be a word that cheers up, for other people need the comfort of your smile.

SOMETHING DIFFERENT IN THIS CIRCUS PROGRAM

Yankee Robinson Shows Offer an Entirely New List of Features.

An elaborate composition of words with confusing generalities, in the circus world particularly, convey no special meaning unless substantiated by convincing facts. Yankee Robinson's three ring wild animal circus comes to Wayne on Saturday, August 31. Its agents have been fully instructed to never issue one misleading announcement, therefore the public's confidence in this show's honest statements.

There must be some really great merit to a big enterprise of this caliber when it can announce and present such a high class list of attractive circus features as are offered this tour in a long praiseworthy program. It is not only commendable to the management, but pleasing to the patron. The opening costly gorgeous scenic display is rapidly followed by a thrilling program of skillfully executed circussacts unequalled in merit. Captain Irving's double group of performing lions, Ather's wonderful trained polar bears, Van Andrew's mixed group of leopards, jaguars and pumas; Ruth LeNore and her performing mountain lions; all these wild animal exhibitions are given in the big protected steel arena; there are scores of educated ponies, dogs riding monkeys, brown bears, herds of elephants; Buchanan's educated horses led by Tingo Chief and Texas Tommy are the new real wonders of the equine family, said by expert horsemen to be the most wonderful dancing horses ever seen on exhibition anywhere within any time. They will exhibit twice during the latest New York and Boston horse shows, and are alone worth the price of admission. When an immense flock of trained doves and pigeons are given their liberty from separate cages, they fly to the "prima donna on horseback," Miss Bessie Harvey, and hovering about her, form a very attractive feature.

Another new act that will prove a novelty is the trained and educated pigs. These are the first and only parkers ever seen on exhibition in a family group, doing entirely new and laughable stunts.

CONSOLIDATED WITH THE WAYNE REPUBLICAN

WAYNE, NEBRASKA, THURSDAY, AUGUST 29, 1918.

VOL. 32, NO. 12

SESSION COUNTY W. C. T. U.

Largely Attended Convention at Carroll Last Thursday

The county convention of the W. C. T. U. was called to order at Carroll last Thursday by Mrs. J. A. Wollert, the county president. Scripture was read by Mrs. William Beckenhauer, and prayer was offered by Mrs. O. V. M. A report of the Carroll branch was given by Mrs. Annie Jones. It was decided to send a quantity of fruit to the W. C. T. U. hospital at Kearney. An appropriation of $38.35 was made for scriptural manuals for the boys at Camp Cody. It was decided to furnish a field kitchen in France and buy an electric fan for a hospital at Camp Funston.

Report of the Wayne chapter was presented by Mrs. J. H. Boyce. The sum of $15 has been appropriated for clothing for the W. C. T. U. hospital at Kearney. The chapter showed that it had furnished money and quilts for army service besides working as a hostess for the Red Cross. Members of the Winside chapter were unable to attend and therefore presented no report.

The following officers were elected: President, Mrs. Alice Hubbard; Secretary and treasurer, Mrs. A. L. Cutler; Ways and Means, Mrs. J. H. Boyce. It was decided to hold two county conventions and one institute during the year.

The following program was carried out: Solo by Mrs. S. A. Luigen accompanied on the piano by Mrs. J. T. Horne. An address by Mrs. R. J. McKenzie, taking for her subject, "Carry On," was very interesting.

Solo by Mrs. Linn, accompanied on the piano by her daughter, Miss Clara Linn. An interesting paper, "What Women Are Doing Today," was read by Mrs. L. Blair.

A rising vote of thanks was offered to Mrs. Wollert for the successful manner in which she has conducted the convention of the organization during the past year. The twenty ladies in attendance from Wayne were royally entertained by the Carroll ladies. They accompanied to the Methodist church basement where delicious luncheon was served. Following the luncheon the ladies were invited to return to the basement where an elaborate prepared course dinner was served and thoroughly enjoyed. Four long tables formed a hollow square in which was a huge bouquet of green asparagus and yellow tinn flowers. Individual centerpieces were ferns and red geraniums. Places were marked by white napkins containing W. C. T. U. monograms in gold letters. The hospitality of the Carroll ladies was appreciated and will long be remembered.

THE FIELD OF BUSINESS.

Since the Journal is emphasized by federal authorities on the need of 1,000,000 additional unskilled laborers in war work and on the fact that reserves of skilled labor have been exhausted points more clearly than ever to the drastic curtailment of non-essential industries in the future. It was indicated that the community boards will pass on the essentiality of industries within their fields, and that the recruiting of labor for war work will be increasingly vigorous. Another feature of last week in the labor field was the decision of the war labor board, in the Smith & Weston case, that workers in ammunition factories cannot be denied the right to organize. Discharged employees of the Western Union Telegraph company, whose only disqualification was their union membership, will be reinstated. Abolition of the bonus system of rewarding miners in Ohio and other coal fields was decided upon by Fuel Administrator Garfield, who also indicated his opposition to wage increases for the miners. The house refused to amend the government's draft measure as affecting youths of 18, and the senate made no change in the proposed 18 to 45 age limits. The new revenue bill was practically completed by ways and means committee. A flat 10 per cent deduction as a minimum under the war profits tax was decided upon. About 90 per cent of businesses will come under the war profits tax, and the excess profits tax is in shape. Secretary McAdoo advocated and the committee probably will adopt a 3 per cent differential in the normal tax against unearned incomes. Food Administrator Hoover announced that, under interrelated-control, food distribution will be better handled and the need of severe rationing will be eliminated in all the allied countries. The interstate commerce commission in the private car case decided that no extra charge can be made except in cases where the regular rate is based on the cost of transportation in cars that are less costly to operate. Motion pictures were classed among the essential industries. The report of the senate's committee which investigated aircraft production charged mis-

Resigns as Registrar of Normal to Enter V. M. C. A. War Work.

W. D. Redmond who has been registrar of the State Normal at this place since the school came into possession of the state eight years ago, has resigned with the intention of joining V. M. C. A. war workers in France. He left for Omaha Saturday morning preliminary to taking up his new work.

It is believed Mr. Bright is eminently qualified to fill the shoes of the registrar, and a host of friends hope he will accept the trust.

Mr. Redmond has made a most acceptable registrar. He endeavored himself not only to students and faculty members, but to townspeople generally, and all will greatly miss him. WE CAN DO WITHOUT.

Aberdeen News: The amendment is made again, that there will be now wool clothing for civilians soon because the available supply will be needed to clothe the soldiers. "Woolen clothing is comfortable and convenient and more lasting than clothing made of some other material, but, like wheat flour and some other things, it is not an absolute necessity, and Americans will find they can get along without it quite comfortably if called upon to do so. And none of them would feel comfortable in a woolen suit if he knew some soldier was made uncomfortable because of his selfishness.

THE BOYS OF 18.

Chicago Tribune: The idea that 18 years is too tender an age for military service is refuted by the cherished traditions of our own great civil war. It is our boast that it was "fought by boys." It is refuted by the records of every nation at war except the United States. It is refuted by acts which anyone can observe who will see the training of young men. They learn their duties more readily than men of older age, they have greater enthusiasm, better morale, more adaptability, along with endurance and fortitude.

FURTHER CONCEALMENT IMPOSSIBLE.

Chicago Daily News: Enemy propaganda has worn so many disguises that it has about exhausted the supply and goes around almost naked.

New York World: Outside of South Carolina, very few persons will be found to dispute President Wilson's assertion that Cole Blaise ought not to be elected to the United States senate.

THE EMPTY COAT.

(Author unknown.)
"Ain't no use, a-hangin' there, On its peg no more! Sleeves a-shovin' too much wear, Pockets badly tore. Prob'ly, when the war is done, I'll be too small, Guess he'll have another one— if he comes at all. But it's sacred in our eyes; Somethin' like a prayer; Now it looks so lonesome-wise, Jest a-hangin' there. Seems like yest'ay I stood, Watched him 'bout his chores; Bringin' in the kitchen wood, Stompin' 'cross the floors. Laughed to see him snoopin' around Like he used to snoop; Wishin' happy when he found Ma was makin' soup! Now that he ain't here no more Ma and me jest glance 'n' at that old coat he wore For he went to France, Nights, when all the doors is shet, Fore I go upstairs. Touch its sleeve an' find it wet— Ma's he'n cryin' there. Somethin' smartin' my eyes, too. Haxe-to-wink-lem-light. When I whisper, 'Froud of you! Good night, lad! Good night.'"

Minneapolis Journal: The Yanks went over the top with the rebel yell! This country is now one.

Ottawa Farm Elevators

Are you going to Buy an Elevator? If so, do not fail to investigate the Ottawa.

In 1897, or eighteen years ago, the Ottawa manufacturers started the farm elevator business. Since that time it has been their chief aim to keep the lead in design, quality and variety of their goods, and they are very confident they have succeeded in each of these particulars. Every crib or granary built on the farm in the Middle West today is designed to use an elevator in connection with it. The economy in building, as well as in gathering and handling the crops, calls for this. No matter what shape or design the crib is, the use of the shovel for filling it is never thought of. Elevators can be bought cheaper at the Brune & Co., Quality Store in Winside than at any other place in the country.

Manure Spreaders

Litchfield and John Deere spreaders are the popular kinds carried by this store, and their merits and prices should be investigated before buying elsewhere. Now is the time to buy a new spreader, and Winside's big implement store is the place to buy it.

The above is our Portable Steel Elevator with Steel Cross Conveyor, Expanding Derrick and National Dump with Engine Drive. The National Dump can handle the steel platform. The American Dump can be used and the outfit can be driven by horse-power.

How About a Furnace?

ENJOYS LOW PRICES

Omaha, Neb., Aug. 28.—Nebraskans in general and Omahans in particular have reason to be proud of the fact that they live in a city where fundamental foods are cheaper than in any other state. This comes because of the keen direction exercised over food matters by food administrators of Nebraska. Another tribute to the Nebraska administration is that profits permitted by retailers are usually very low. Prices of food stuffs are fair and reasonable and often greater than that taken before the war.

Omaha's prices are taken as the basis of comparison with thirty-four cities of the union which include every city of importance. Nebraska's prices are a whole way off from Omaha's that the comparison will apply for the state.

On eighteen fundamental foods, Omaha's prices are lower than twelve than the average prices in these 34 cities; on five, Nebraska is higher, and on one, may be said to be the same. The commodities—flour, hominy, cornstarch, cornmeal, corn flour, butter, eggs, crackers, rye flour, barley flour, oatmeal and corn syrup. These Nebraska is higher—sugar, bread, rice, bacon—and lard. MAY HAVE SUGAR

Omaha, Neb., Aug. 28.—Though Nebraska exceeded its sugar allotment for the month of August by 5,000 pounds, the state will have ample sugar for canning and preserving purposes. Housewives may have all that is actually necessary for canning purposes, says the federal food administrator for Nebraska.

Nebraska used 1,244,000 pounds during August, says the federal food administrator. The word "actual" which means that a great many of Nebraska's families are "laying by" a winter supply.

Do not permit fruit or vegetables to spoil, urges the food administration for Nebraska. Can every possible pound, but use as little sugar as possible in canning and preserving.

It is better to use discretion in the matter of canning than to be short this winter, when prices will be higher and fruits and vegetables will be scarce, says the food administration.

YOUR STORAGE BATTERY

Some Electric Starting History

Nearly every car owner knows that Mr. T. A. Willard had a great deal to do with the starting battery, says Mr. J. A. Gurnea, local Willard Battery expert, but only a few know of the part he took in making electric starting and lighting practical for automobiles.

Long before electric lighting was practically considered, Mr. Willard had perfected a battery for lighting railway coaches and was famous with every detail of the system. This was in the days when all motor cars were "autos" and had to be "wound up," when acetylene lights were the best to be had; and the spark came from a set of dry batteries.

Electricity had one big job on the automobile that it didn't have on the trolley, and that was starting. As starting, even with the most economical motor took considerable current the battery had to be kept full and ready for use.

One of Mr. Willard's biggest jobs in automobile starting and lighting was to make a generator that would keep the battery on "charge" all the time except when the engine was going very slowly. He developed the extra-brush system of regulation which regulates the charging regardless of the engine speed.

Another important thing Mr. Willard did was to help perfect the small low-voltage lamps that are used for head and tail lights and for light on the dash. He not only advocated low-voltage lamps, but proved that better results were possible with 6- or 12-volt systems than with the earlier 24-volt systems. The higher voltages are rarely found.

The most recent and perhaps the greatest contribution Mr. Willard made to automobile electric lighting is the Threaded Rubber Insulation. By this invention the use of durable, long-lived rubber brush system of regulation electric lighting batteries was made possible for the first time. In a way that was characteristic of Mr. Willard's ingenuity, he solved the problem of inserting nearly 200,000 tiny threads in one of the battery insulators.

Asbestos Fire Clay Cooking Ware

In presenting these goods for the consideration of the public, we do so in full confidence that every claim that we make for them will be fully borne out by their use.

It has long been conceded that there is no class of cooking vessels so free from injurious substances as those made from fire clay, and experience has demonstrated that food prepared in these vessels is not only more palatable, but also more healthful, than when vessels made from other material are used.

Made of refined fire-clay and crushed asbestos by an improved process, the result of many years' experimenting, we are enabled to furnish a class of goods superior in character at a very small portion of the cost of vessels of corresponding size made of any other material.

W. A. HISCOX

FROM WARREN E. MCGREGOR

Writes From France to His Parents Rev. and Mrs. D. W. MacGregor.

Rev. and Mrs. D. W. MacGregor have received the following letter from their son, Warren E. MacGregor, who is with the American expeditionary forces in France, July 30, 1918.

Dear Father and Mother: It has been over a week since I've been in a place where I could drop you a few lines of real interest, so no doubt you have been wondering what's afoot here in the 'toubie'.

As usual, hikes have been taking up most of our time, but now the boys are all in the front line. So I believe we will be here for two or three weeks.

I have been living in underground dugouts, some of which are thirty feet deep. I was in a "tip-ten" part of the time, and for a few days I lived in style on the hay of an old tumbled down clay barn.

At present I am some eight miles from the front line. We expect to be there later while we are in this sector. Even at that distance "Jerry" drops bombs near us every night and the big guns shoot ten miles beyond us every five minutes. We are always on the lookout for shells and bombs. We are situated between a large city and the front line. This makes our life shells this town consisting of simple shacks. Sleeping is fine—no. For a week, I was camped in a trench, and I have a good knowledge of ancient history, telling about our ancestors in the ages of long ago.

These seven miles seemed a long journey, especially with eighteen-pounder gas shells, shrapnel, etc., falling all around. It was new to me, so I hardly conceived the idea that I was in the danger area. After two hours of slow marching, passing cemeteries, trenches, old captured German tanks, and exploded shells and shell holes, we arrived to report to the Australian column. After the other officers on the reconnoitering party reported to the colonel, he asked me who I was. I told him and you ought to have heard his laugh. He said they had no plans for a front line so near the front, and most of them were back in "Blighty" (England). In four years of the war I have the honor that is what I can call it of being the first dentist within ten miles of the front in this sector.

The colonel said as long as I had taken the time to come up, I could stay a couple of days and look around. I did and enjoyed it greatly. At the end of two days I started back. It was raining "pitchforks," as the old saying goes. I was all alone, and did not know the way any too well. After two and a half hours I was in a "tip-ten" trench, and rain, the mud ankle deep, I arrived safely in my dugout.

My wife by you don't think I appreciate the fact that I am in the front line, especially having been scared red hot by shells dropping some thirty yards from me in my exit.

At the end of the last night I was in my dugout and now expect to be here some three weeks. I have been telling other dentists of my short adventure. Last night I had them so scared they could hardly sleep. At 11:30 one of our Missouri mules started to Bray, and they thought to be sure the gas alarm was going off.

Tell Frances and Will I will bring all the souvenirs back I possibly can. I will do my best; your loving son, Warren E. MacGregor.

KNITTING PROSPECTS. The Wayne county chairman of the Red Cross has received the following information of interest: 1,400,000 pounds and while additional yarn may be obtained, the total will be considered to be 10,000,000 pounds used last year.

The Red Cross has in addition ready for distribution 1,600,000 sweaters, 134,000 pairs of socks, 228,000 pairs of socks, which, with new articles to be made, will meet the more urgent needs of our men during the coming winter.

From September 1, 1917, to June 30, 1918, the Red Cross distributed 1,870,000 pairs of socks, 1,870,000 pairs of socks, and also sent 870,000 knitted articles to the Red Cross commissioners in France and Italy.

FROM THE BATTLE FRONT

Ralph Ingham of Wayne Writes to Norfolk News From Front.

(Norfolk News, August 23.)

Ralph Ingham, formerly a reporter for the News, whose home is at Wayne, Neb., is now serving in a private in the medical corps and was directly behind the "big push" on the Marne front where he helped to take care of many wounded American soldiers from the fighting front. A very interesting letter has just been received from Ingham, whose fingers itch to write letters of the fact that his hospital is being shelled and "kultured" by German airplanes, is anxious to be in the front line trenches.

"Since I wrote you last my hospital has moved up to the rear of the front. We were at Baumont, France, when I wrote last, but now we are on the most active front in the war, and the dream of my heart—the real hospital work with the American troops. Our hospital has won a very enviable record since we have been established. In fact, we are known here as the 'French' which is no long distance from us, believe me—and also in Paris. We have handled many thousands of patients in a few weeks we have been going and we have proved that our training at Fort Riley, Kansas, has not been for naught."

Our New News Hand.

"I know from the Paris papers which we read that all Americans are following with great interest the present drive, and our victory over the Germans. Our hospital is right back of the "big push" and would reach us in a very short time if not for our dash. We get the news first hand.

"The big guns find us constantly, but we have reached the place where we rest their eyes. Our hospital has had its share of German "kulture" from the German airplanes. I have seen many of these stories, but I have been fairly lucky so far, though, I suppose, one time may yet come.

"Here is where you get your real news stories. Gee, if I could only write up some of the things I gather here in ten minutes I could keep the editor swamped with hot copy. But I am saving all the good stories and some day I may get a chance to use them."

Wants to Go to Front.

"I hope later to have my chance to go to the front and see real service—then, I will be happy. I do not have a long way to get there now but I want to go there for days, weeks, or months if necessary."

"We have a beautiful site for a hospital, overlooking a great, quiet little French city. We occupy an ancient chateau. Ours is a very old, intentionally pretty place and has a French history. It is owned by a real countess, and confidentially to the boys talk it much. The French strive to learn our language, so we occupy most of our time teaching them English."

"One of the few German patients, who with the German prisoners who are arriving, tell us very stirring stories of Germany and conditions there. "One thing is certain, Germany still has supplies and men to fight for some time." The present drive is showing them that they are up against the Americans. One German told us today that they hoped to have peace before the Americans arrived over here, so you can see they are being hoodwinked."

Know Now America is In. "A German officer was asked yesterday if he realized that America was in the fight. He said that the present big drive has revealed that the Americans certainly are in the fight."

"Our boys are wonders. We handle many hundreds of them every hour. They come and go back to the front, and they bear their wounds with bravery and all kinds of courage. I hear stories of fighting that would make me sick if I heard it at home, but I have seen these stories, but I have been fairly lucky so far, though, I suppose, one smile, as though it was a part of the day's game. It is a game and we have come to look upon it so. Our boys have proved beyond a doubt that we are superior to the German forces even with a smaller number of men. When the rest come over—well it is going to be a grand finale.

Useful Tree.

An American tree, known as the ash, or butter tree, is beginning to attract commercial attention. It supplies fuel for stoves and also that may become an article of commercial importance. It is already exported to Europe, where makers of artificial butter use it.

Almost two-thirds of the nut is vegetable butter. The tree begins to bear when it is fifteen years old and reaches full maturity in twenty years. It is a late-maturing, cold-resistant utility tree. It could be used in making candies and soap.

HOLT COUNTY LAND

Now is a good time to come up and see the land in Holt Co. and see what can be done up there. Lots of farmers are selling their corn in the field for nearly what the land can be bought for, and any kind of hay land is bringing over half of what it can be bought for.

How's this: 160 acres only 5 miles from O'Neill, it can be bought for $100 per acre and will take a car in on purchase price.

OUR SAVED FOOD FED THE ALLIES

Food Administrator Writes President America Conserved 141,000,000 Bushels Wheat.

CREDIT DUE TO WOMEN.

Meat and Fat Shipments Increased by $44,600,000 Pounds.

Conservation measures applied by the American people enabled the United States to ship to the Allied armies and to our own forces overseas 141,000,000 bushels of wheat and 841,600,000 pounds of meat during the past year, valued in all at $1,400,000,000.

This was accomplished in the face of a serious food shortage in this country. Despeaking the wholeheartedness and patriotism with which the American people have met the food crisis abroad, the Food Administrator, in his letter to President Wilson, explains how the situation was met.

The total value of all food shipments to Allied destinations amounted to $1,400,000,000, all this food being bought through or in collaboration with the Food Administration. These figures are all based on official reports and represent food exports for the harvest year that closed June 30, 1918.

The shipments of meats and fats (including meat products, dairy products, vegetable oils, etc.) to Allied destinations were as follows:

Table with 2 columns: Item, Amount. Includes Wheat 141,000,000 bu, Meat 841,600,000 lbs, etc.

Our slaughterhouse animals at the beginning of the last fiscal year were an appreciably larger than the year before and particularly in hogs; they were probably less.

The full effect of these efforts began to be felt last week in the first half of the fiscal year, when the exports to the Allies were 2,133,100,000 pounds, as against 1,205,500,000 pounds at the same period of the year before.

This compares with an average of 801,000,000 pounds of total exports for the same half years in the three-year period previous.

In cereals and cereal products shipments to terms of cereal bushels out of the United States were:

Table with 2 columns: Item, Amount. Includes Wheat 141,000,000 bushels, etc.

The exports to Allied destinations during the fiscal year 1918 were:

Table with 2 columns: Item, Amount. Includes Wheat 135,100,000 bushels, etc.

These figures, however, do not fully cover the volume of the effort and sacrifice made during the year by the whole American people.

The magnitude of our effort for agricultural conservation in planting a much increased acreage in 1917, not only was there a very large failure in wheat but also the corn failed to mature properly and our corn in our hands was very small.

I am sure, Mr. Hoover will be concluding his report, that all the millions of our people, agricultural as well as industrial, have contributed to these results should feel a very definite satisfaction that in a year of universal food shortages in the northern hemisphere all of those people joined together against Germany have come through into sight of the coming harvest not only with wealth and strength fully maintained, but with only temporary periods of hardship.

It is difficult to distinguish between various sections of the country, in homes, public eating places, food stands, urban or agricultural populations in receiving credit for these results, but no one will deny the dominant part of the American women.

Tractor farming is necessary to overcome the present labor shortage and world-wide food needs, and the Waterloo Boy tractor is an important factor in meeting the demand.

Up-to-the-minute in every detail, the Waterloo Boy is equipped with Hyatt Roller Bearings, a perfect automatic oiling system, trouble-proof ignition, a powerful 2-speed valve-in-head motor, with exceptional transmission strength, and easy accessibility of gears and bearings.

John Deere Pony Tractor Plows

In the most important farm operation—plowing—the light tractor pays the biggest returns on the investment. Regardless of how good the tractor is, however, the fact must not be overlooked that all it does is pull—the plow behind does the actual cutting, turning and pulverizing of the soil.

Pay particular attention to the plow. Buy one of an established reputation—a tractor plow that you can be sure will do its work properly because all other plows made by the same factory have been giving excellent results for years.

First the walking plow, next the riding sulky and gang plows, then big engine plows and now the Pony Tractor plow—John Deere plows have been a success for over eighty years.

There are many points in favor of the John Deere tractor plow which we will be pleased to explain to you. One thing, whether down at work or raised eight inches above the ground for transportation, the bottoms can be kept level. Let us show you other advantages.

The demand for war work has compelled us to reduce our force, increase salaries and pay cash. Therefore, we must require cash on all labor and supplies. This will prove mutually advantageous.

Fairview Farm offers a Wealth of Milk and Beef

Opportunity to buy a young bull of highest type from H. J. Miner's famous herd of Polled Durhams and Shorthorns

"Milk and Beef" The Slogan

Any one who knows a cow when he sees it knows that breeding which will produce the most milk and the most beef is the most profitable. Thus, Mr. Miner has always bred for both milk and beef, and he has found the two important aims triumphantly accomplished in the Polled Durhams and Shorthorns. The last year he has sold stock from his herd to well known breeders in Colorado, Iowa and Nebraska, and not one has failed to be more than pleased with results.

"Milk and Beef" The Slogan

FAIRVIEW STOCK FARM

A mile due south of Wayne is the farm of H. J. Miner whose grand herd of Polled Durhams and Shorthorns has attracted much deserved favor. Mr. Miner grew up in the fine stock business, and has devoted many years to study of pure bred animals and to careful selection of best breeds. He learned long ago that the choicest was none too good, and made it a point to allow only the best in his yards. The result is a herd of sixty animals that would be a source of justifiable pride on any stock farm in the world.

A Opportunity Now for Particular Breeders

Before going farther into the merits of the Miner Herd, we want to call attention—with a tón of emphasis—to the fact that breeders may now buy bull calves of the high milk and beef type. Mr. Miner has some for sale. These calves are Polled Durhams and Shorthorns, and the former are nicely polled. All are coming of serviceable age, and all show excellence in every point that counts. These calves come from celebrated stock whose blood lines guarantee milk and beef in abundance. If you want a herd header that will more than measure up to your highest expectations, make a selection from the Miner herd, and do it now. Review the ancestry of these calves, and then act if you are in the market for fine stock.

The Senior Herd Bull

Confessor's Sultan, the 4-year-old herd head at Fairview farm, is a polled rich roan, weighing 2,100 pounds in ordinary flesh. He is considered by competent judges one of the very best bulls in the state. To quote from his previously written record: "Confessor's Sultan is more than a master sire of the Polled class. He has character. Every line in his contour speaks of individuality. Distinctly masculine in head and countenance, this bull shows plenty of vigor, plenty of power, to impress upon his progeny his own positive likeness and quality. This animal is a beautifully marbled roan with shoulders wide but not too upright. His back and loin are broad with thick-fleshed parts. His legs are straight-lined and short enough to insure in his gets flanks and thighs carried low, a paramount consideration when breeding for beef as well as for milk.

"As to ancestry, Confessor's Sultan was sired by Select Goods, a get of Confessor, a massive $4,200 Durham bull exported to Beunos Ayres, S. A. His mother was of the Lavendar family, a granddaughter of the world-famous Whiteall Sultan. The Choice Goods blood comes directly through his sire, Select Goods, whose dam, Queen of Goods, was sired by Golden Goods, a son of the imported Choice Goods. On the roll book in the American Shorthorn Association Confessor's Sultan answers to number 418741, while in the Polled register he is number X11701."

CONFESSOR'S SULTAN

Another Wonderful Sire

Blocky Lavendar is another herd bull on the Fairview farm. He is coming 2 years old. He is of the low-down, beefy type, and comes from the proven milking strain of the Lavendar family. This bull was good enough in the senior calf class at the Lincoln, Sioux City and Huron state fairs to walk away with the blue ribbons. In the prize ring, he has defeated bulls that have sold for over $1,000 apiece. Doesn't that fact add jewels to the crown of Blocky Lavendar? Most assuredly, we would say.

Now, while the two splendid herd bulls are not for sale, their worthy descendants are for sale, and like their prototypes will distinguish themselves as herd heads.

PART OF SENIOR HERD IN FAIRVIEW PASTURE

The Fairview Dams

The mothers of the calves offered for sale are of exactly the right breeding. They are Scotch and Scotch-topped, tracing to the Knightley family, known in the early days as "Fili pairs." All are good milk producers, one testing as high as five per cent. Let us quote again:

"The dams in the Fairview herd are as distinctly feminine as Confessor's Sultan and the young bulls are masculine. Refinement marks them as successful breeding cows. Florence Knightley is the oldest matron in the bunch. Her fine traces quickly back to the royal blood of Florence Knightly Fifth."

The Knightley family, named after an English breeder in the early part of the nineteenth century, developed a wonderful record for milk, cream, butter and beef. The Knightley type is characterized by "beautiful fore quarters, gay carriage, general elegance and strong family likeness." Every cow on the Fairview farm is of individual quality—a living picture of the Miner ideal.

Visit Fairview Farm

The superior qualities of the sires and dams in the Fairview herd have been told briefly. A visit to the farm will be still better and more convincing proof. Any competent judge will appreciate the breeding of the young bulls offered for sale at this time, and any breeder in need of a herd header will want to make a selection from the Miner herd.

Chickens

When you visit the Miner farm to inspect Mr. Miner's herds of Polled Durhams and Shorthorns, don't forget to visit the poultry yards where Mrs. Miner spends so much of her time. Here you will see between four and five hundred pure bred Silver Laced Wyandotte and Buff Cochins chickens, besides a flock of ducks.

Mrs. Miner has been in the chicken business twenty-two years and has put an abundance of energy into raising the best flock possible. The Silver Laced Wyandottes are excellent layers the year round while the Buff Cochins are the best chickens for eating purposes that can be raised. Mrs. Miner has a flock of spring chickens ready for market.

A glance at this picture of rare young milkers is argument enough that Mr. Miner has attained the acme in both milk and beef

Rabbits

Another achievement in livestock at the Miner farm is the rabbitry. It is interesting to go into the pens and see forty or fifty white, pink-eyed rabbits and Belgian hares (all pure bred stock) living contentedly in their clean, roomy wire cages. Mrs. Miner started in the rabbit business a year ago and has been very successful in raising these little animals. Since the call for conservation is going through the land, many people are glad to know where they can buy rabbits, and thus save beef and pork. Is there anything nicer for a pet for a little tot than a clean, white rabbit? If you are interested in rabbits, call Mrs. Miner.
