CHRIS ROSACKER KILLED

Known in Wayne County Where He Was Employed in Farming

Private Chris C. Rosacker, first Norfolk man killed in action in France, was for some time employed in Wayne county, and was a cousin of Louis Rosacker at this place. The young man, well known here, The Norfolk Daily News of Friday contained the following account of his death:

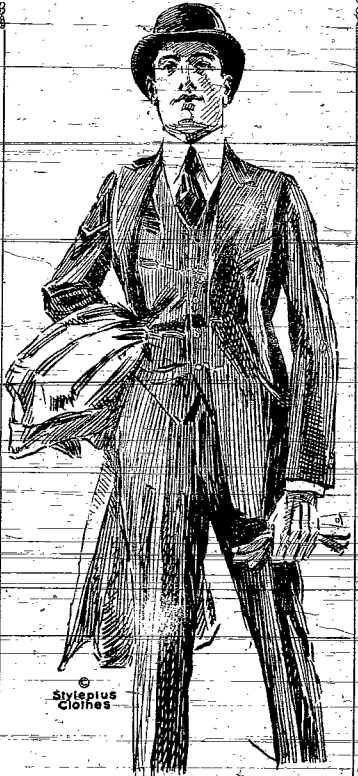

Private Chris C. Rosacker of an American machine gun battery which has been in action on the western battle front, was killed in action on September 3, according to official notification received by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry F. Rosacker, 302 South Twelfth street, Friday morning.

Private Rosacker is the first boy from this city to lose his life on the field of battle.

Private Rosacker was drafted in Wayne county April 26 and went to Camp Funston, where he remained three weeks. His regiment was sent to New York at the end of that time, where they remained for a week and then went overseas. Three and one-half months and one day from the time he was drafted, word of his death was received from him Thursday, dated August 18. He had been in the trenches then on duty, but was resting for a few days and expected to go back to the trenches at the end of that time.

Private Rosacker was 29 years old and unmarried. He was working in Wayne county when drafted. Last winter, however, he lived with his parents here and worked at the Square Turn tractor factory. Besides his parents, he is survived by three brothers, none of whom are in the army, and five sisters, of whom two live in Pender and two in Fremont.

The Rosacker family have lived in Norfolk only two years, moving here from Fort Calhoun.

WHERE DOLLARS GO

The end of the war will see more than $7,000,000,000 sent in France along by the American Red Cross since the beginning of the war. This is revealed in a statement just issued by the Red Cross War Council. Nearly half of this money—$34,382,877, to be exact—has been appropriated for the last half of 1918.

This was made necessary by a great German attack last spring which drove so many poor French families from their homes. The items of civilian relief and reconstruction of ruined villages alone have called for $5,577,605.75, and the end is not in sight.

The Red Cross is having to face the terrible task of combating tuberculosis among the women, children and old men of France, especially among the thousands who have been uprooted at the hands of the Hun. They poor back in a steady stream; those too, torn worn out or too diseased to be longer useful to the Germans, and the Red Cross immediately takes them in charge.

There are now seventy-six tuberculous hospitals in France, and requisitions for goods for ninety-six provisional hospitals have been approved, and they will be in operation in a few weeks. These provisional hospitals have 5,019 beds.

The Red Cross now has in France about 3,000 workers, many of whom work for nothing and pay their own expenses. Many others give their services for the sake of all their expenses are borne by the Red Cross.

It is this care of their wives and children which so encourages the men to fight in the last, and makes them so cheerful and fearless comrades of our own boys.

FATAL AUTO ACCIDENT

It was almost instantly killed and Leo Kane was severely although not dangerously injured in an auto accident occurred at 1:30 yesterday morning one mile and a half southeast of this place. Both young men live at Wislitz.

The two young men have been at training camp where they were a furlough. Mr. Nigh had been at the Great Lakes training school and Mr. Kane at a naval camp in Maryland. They attended a dance given in Fremont and were on their way home when the accident occurred. It was at the Meyer corner where the road turns sharply. No intelligent account of the mishap has been obtained, except that the auto was turned over. It is believed that these two while following the use of an account of intermittent lights on the machine.

When the turn was reached the wheels were set suddenly to prevent going into the ditch straight ahead. Mr. Nigh was pinned under the auto and held in that position until nightfall. He was aroused and lifted from the machine from the body.

The cries of the two young men brought Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Meyer, who live nearby, to the scene, and they tried to give first aid. A physician was summoned from Hooper, but before he arrived, Mr. Nigh had ceased his life. He said the young man had his lungs crushed by the weight of the machine and that his death must have been almost instantaneous. The body was brought to a neighboring rooming house.

Whether Mr. Kane was in Hooper at the time of the accident, he too, had been at the Fremont camp, but he attended the use of a certain young man to this place in company with some Hooper young

ON THE SCREEN

PRIVATE PEAT.

The initial announcement concerning the production and plans of distribution of "Private Peat" one of the few truly great contributions to the literature of the present war, was made by the famous Players-Lasky organization under the leadership of Edward Lasky, the noted French producer who is now staging the Caruso-Artcraft films. "Private Peat" is now entirely completed and will be released in October in a magnificent and special, one of the films to be distributed during the season of 1918-19.

By special arrangement with Bobbs-Merrill company, publishers of "Private Peat" from whom the screen rights were obtained, and with the enthusiastic approval of the author, the organization while holding closely to the text of the story in every other detail, has an American setting throughout. The scenes are set in a New England village rather than in Canada, the troops shown in training were photographed in an American camp at Camp Devens, Mass., where Private Peat sailed for Europe, and the soldiers pictured in action on the western front are instead of Johnny Canuck.

"Private Peat" is an extended version of "Two Years in Hell and Back with a Smile" which the young Canadian soldier has written from leading cities all over the country. As a human document it has not been and probably will not be surpassed in all that has been written of the great war. Its truth is self-evident. Without bombast, without profanity, without vulgarity, the author makes his story believe, his story believe. The film it is said has been produced along the same lines.

The training camp scenes were filmed at Camp Devens, Mass., where Director Lasky and his assistant, Daniel Pennell, had the cooperation of War department officials and army officers with the result that they are said to have secured some of the most remarkable shots ever caught by the eye of a camera. The pictures were taken and shown to a contingent of 40,000 men left for overseas. This huge body of troops is seen passing in review. Appearing with Private Peat are the films "Big Bill" Sorrell, his "bunkie".

DOLLARS THAT FIGHT.

By Senator Henry Cabot Lodge. The war will be won by men and ships, guns, and airplanes. To raise armies and supply them, to build the navy and support it, and to furnish ships and airplanes, we must have money in large amounts. The expenditures of the government for the ensuing year are estimated at $24,000,000,000, a sum which battles the imagination to conceive. That amount is made up one-third from taxes and two-thirds from loans. The success of the Fourth Loan, like those that preceded it, is therefore, absolutely necessary. We must work with the highest speed, as if the war were to end in six months. It will be a long time before the money is paid back to last for years. Speed and preparation are both expensive.

Without the Loans We Cannot Have Peace.

We are fighting to secure a just, righteous and lasting peace. For a complete peace we must have a complete victory. It means that we must have peace of bargain or negotiation. No peace which satisfies Germany can ever satisfy us. No peace that leaves Germany in a position to renege the war against us will be worth having. It will be far from sufficient to gain all our objects on the western front—Belgium, Alsace, Euphrates, and London. The president with wisdom and foresight and great force expressed his determination to redeem Russia. Russia must not be left in Germany's hands. That would mean another war. Poland must be free. Slav republics must be established to bar the way between Germany and the east. Serbia and Rumania must be redeemed. All these things are essential. Nothing will bring them but complete victory and peace dictated by us and our allies. It is a conflict of ideas. It is the principle of evil arrayed against the principle of good. It is the battle of freedom and civilization against barbarism and tyranny. We must win, and we shall win.

SCREEN HOVERING.

Hovering, even on the screen, is the latest patriotic idea. Instead of the slick and sordid clothes brand new costumes and excessive ornamentation, the movie players of the leading companies will do as patriotic children will turn the crank of the screen as they would in life. In the latest picture made by the American Film Company called, "The Trenches" which is now being distributed by President S. P. Hutchinson. Mary Miles Minter, the star, appeared at first in the plumpest of plumage, quite natural for her role (that of a department store girl, but later, when the enter more prosperous, she takes the same character in a more modest and natural way. There is a decided tendency toward moderation. The effect is natural and pleases the exhibitor.

IBSEN'S "A DOLL HOUSE"

This is an elaborate and artistic dramatization of Ibsen's famous play which, originally presented in 1869 on the London stage, is still frequently received as a "legitimate" attraction. Maurice Tourneur's dramatization of the film version is due to the character with which he succeeded in emphasizing the salient points of the story and maintaining the atmosphere of a suspense. This action comes from the more prosaic, worthy when it is taken into consideration that, excepting for the interest created by the threatening and sinister behavior of Nora's well-meaning father, the play depicts merely the dissection of woman's place in the home, a problem which has been treated through, straight out, since the days of the Greek dramatists. As it stands, the picture makes a stronger appeal to those refreshing purely literary values rather than to the more common terms which attract better and simpler branches of screen entertainment.

The dramatic excellence of the picture cannot be denied. Miss Ferguson's beauty and talent invest the heroine role with appealing charm. Her performance of Nora is dignified, impressive and in every way worthy of the star's high reputation. H. E. Herbert clothes the part of Helmer with all the unpleasant attributes pertaining to that singularly irritating and unamiable person, Alexander Shannon is seen to good advantage as the revengeful, but later repentant Krogstad, and able assistance is given the principals by a thoroughly efficient support.

The photography includes a number of fine closeups and handsome interior scenes. The scene in which Miss Ferguson dances the tarantelle is especially well filmed and the lighting effects are remarkably well developed.

"HIDDEN FIRES"

Mae Marsh is always seeking to do something new in pictures, and in her picture "Hidden Fires" she plays a newsstand girl at a big hotel, she certainly seems to have found it. Not that you won't see the Mae Marsh of old, but the new Mae Marsh is too charming to lose for a moment—but you will also see a new Mae Marsh, and one who will give you a new idea of which her friends and admirers have in her ability to portray dramatic roles. To save the life of a grieving mother, Peggy Murray assumes the place of her lost father, and as might be expected, steps into a tangle of complications. Some of them are funny, but some of them are not, and you will watch the outcome with breathless enthusiasm.

CUPID BY PROXY.

Oh, Henry Ford, inventor of joy to the masses in the shape of the little car that travels right along, what side-splitting comedy is committed in its name! But the little car never is certainly the big idea in this latest comedy starring Baby Marie Osborne. It plays an important part in the production. It is all about two families who live next door to each other and what happens when one gets rich quick. "Snowball" is in the cast, too, and you know how much fun he is.

"A DOLL'S HOUSE"

Henrik Ibsen, the famous Norwegian playwright, devoted his best efforts to the development of the theme in this play which has time and time again proved its popularity as a stage attraction. And now the screen has won the story, and Miss Ferguson is playing the role of the thoughtless young woman reared by an indulgent father as a doll girl who, to save her poor husband's life, forges his name to check, and through that act undergoes a strange transformation. The role of Nora is one which calls for exceedingly clever acting, but of course the star is more than equal to the task. Don't miss it.

Work on the second Dorothy Gish series of Paramount pictures began this week at the Famous Players-Lasky studio on Sunset Boulevard, with another cast in which you see by far the majority. The new picture will be "The Hope Chest," by Mark Lee Luther, giving Miss Gish the part of Sheila, who is also the title character. It appeared in print, but the general theme of the story will be carried in the picture. F. L. Mott, who is the writer of the story, will direct the coming picture. He will be assisted by Leigh R. Smith, who is also writing the story. The company

PEGGY HYLAND'S LATEST

Some of the delightful stories which occur now and then in the making of motion pictures sprang up the other day in the filming of the play in "Bonnie Annie Laurie" in the trenches. Some of the villagers, Scotch men and women, carried away by the martial strains of the bagpipes, entered into a spirited exhibition of the "Highland" time. When they had finished, however, their best efforts were eclipsed by the last act here. The name of the play is "Bonnie Annie Laurie" a new William Fox production, and the star who thus disclosed her untapped fighting ability is none other than Peggy Hyland. You will see her play at the Crystal theater.

"THE FORBIDDEN CITY"

Norma Talmaque's pretentious Chinese production, "The Forbidden City," which, according to all advance reports, will create a sensation when released, has just been finished and is now being sent to Director Sidney A. Franklin. It will be ready for the screens in two or three weeks. Miss Talmaque's support is the best she has ever had, including Thomas Meighan, her new leading man. A. E. Warren, Rogers Lytton, M. A. Rale, Reed Hamilton, and a number of famous Chinese actors whose adaptability to screen work will be admirably demonstrated in "The Forbidden City."

STARS RED CROSS WORKERS

The various Red Cross shops in Los Angeles report that an excellent trade is being done, and that they by the various stars of the motion picture colony who appear regularly in the role of salesgirls and floorwalkers. A recent Saturday afternoon sale occasioned those in attendance included Olive Thomas, Bert Lytell, Belle Bennett, Juanita Hansen, Teddy Sampson, Mary Turpin, Charles Seymour, and other well known players.

SOLDIER'S OLD LOVE SONG.

The most consistently popular song of British soldiers in the first hundred years, and one dear to our own soldiers of the Civil war, is the Scotch ballad "Bonnie Annie Laurie." This song is now being introduced from a genuine source at Francis and James. The fame of this fine old song of love and loyalty has now been firmly established for all time by being interwoven with the new William Fox photoplay to which it gives the title. This play will be shown soon at the Crystal theater.

CHARLES RAY IN NEW ROLE.

Charles Ray is called upon in his latest Paramount picture on the Fox studio to play the role of a sleepy, almost dopey, college student. This was no small contract for an actor with the virility of Mr. Ray and need of considerable rehearsing. In fact so hard did the star work to appear naturally dopey that it almost got to be a habit with him before the story was well under way.

LIBERTY LOAN FILMS.

Bill Hart, Fatty Arbuckle, Wallace Reid, George A. Coburn, Lillian Gish, Elsie Ferguson, Charles Ray, Dorothy Dalton, Enid Bennett, Mack Sennett, William Fairbank, Marguerite Clark, Mary Pickford, and Douglas Fairbanks are all contributing specially made films to help the Fourth Liberty Loan.

The other day Billie Burke received a large basketful of little ducklings for her estate, "Turkey Creek." She is a collector of strange water birds, her cranes are the last of the species, and her geese and ducks all possess pedigrees that would make a professional collector green with envy. "I never cared much for hens, although every actress is supposed to express a desire to raise hens," Miss Burke remarked. "I'm as old as Rocky and inquisitive, would not want them around my house."

Vivian Martin, supported by Niles Welch and Charles B. King, will play the role of George Weirford in a new Paramount picture last week concerning which little is as yet known. We are sure that it is a comedy-drama with many intimate and touching scenes. It is an original story by Edith Kennedy.

Rupert Hughes, the popular novelist and short story writer, who has contributed quite largely to the literature of the screen, is responsible for the story from which Francis Marion made the scenario for Mary Pickford's newest Arcraft offering, "Johnna Kilitist."

Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks have been asked to go "Over There" to entertain our soldiers. Adolph Zukor, president of Famous Players-Lasky, has asked to see the contracts of any of his stars who go over to cover such an emergency.

What with drawing posters for the marines and editing his Paramount comedies, Jimmy Flinn is spending a busy twenty-four hours daily, including Sunday.

The Meadows Farm Elevator

The Elevator That Pays Its Way

Don't Scoop

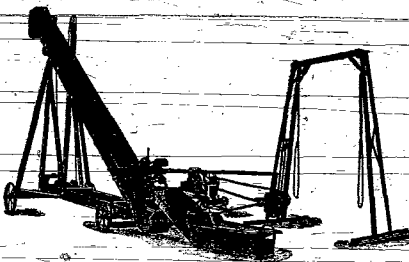

Handle Your Grain With a Meadows Elevator

A Meadows elevator will make more money for you than any other grain elevator because it is built to satisfy and to meet your demands. In building cribs, it is the foundation, roofing, and flooring that costs you the most money. If you use a scoop or an inferior elevator you have to build low cribs, but if you use a Meadows elevator you can build one crib for all of your grain, both ear corn and small grain. You thereby save the cost of one or two foundations, floors, and roofs. This is another way in which the Meadows elevator makes money for you. With large cribs in which to store your grain, you do not need to sell direct from the field, but can hold for the best prices. By holding your grain for favorable prices, you many times will make the price of both elevator and a crib. Large cribs for storing grain are made practical by installing Meadows elevators. Another big saving is in repairs. You will need very few of them for Meadows elevators. In many large factories the repair end of the business is one of the most profitable parts, but, frankly, we will say that if we had to depend on the repairs we sell for profits we would go broke. A Meadows grain elevator will not be an expense; it will be one of the best investments you have ever made.

Don't lag behind! Don't work at a disadvantage! Don't depend on muscle to do the work that the elevator will do better, quicker and cheaper.

Muscle-Saving Machinery

In these days when work is plenty and labor is scarce and high, the "hired-man" problem looms up like a specter on the busy farmer's horizon. The farmer who provides himself with muscle-saving machinery not only gets the pick of men, but he cuts the corners of cost and time and makes more net profit on his crops than his neighbors who farm "by hand." Foremost among the modern inventions for saving time, strength and muscle is the Sandwich Farm elevator—a machine that relieves farm help of the laborious, muscle-straining, back-breaking work of unloading corn and small grain from wagons to granaries, bins and freight cars. This work comes at the climax of crop-gathering, when nerves and muscles are already strained to the breaking point, and when every minute counts. Probably as hard work as there is on the farm is where you, your family or hired hands, have to shovel the corn into the crib. It means a constant bending, pushing and raising thereof that back and arms and makes every muscle of the body ache. It is exhausting, laborious drudgery for even the strongest men. It's a thank nobody likes and that most hired men despise. Yet such is the need of help and haste at corn husking time that even the young boys are forced to do this work that is almost to much for men.

UNCLE WALT
 The Poet Philosopher

HONORED POVERTY.

Until the kaiser's goat is slain, his eagle torn asunder, no man has any right to gain a lot of swag and plunder. Of course it's always wise to have the knives cold and the dammy—to help to sit the Tenth Knave, and back up Uncle Sammy. But he who salts his money down to make his bank roll greater, while Uncle Sam needs every crown, will look much alike a traitor. When Wilhelm is an also-ran and his long sword is rusted, he'll be a proud and happy man who proves that he is busted. I dug up every cent I had, for bonds and stamps and taxes, to help to arm the soldier lad with guns and battle-axes. If you can make a spide like that when this grim war is over, the pretty girls will deck you hat with laurel, myrtle and clover. Perchance some skate may ply his jaws, and tell us, braggart-hearted, I am much richer than I was before the war was started. Then he'll be shunned by loyal men, and I'll shame him and dog-dag him, and in outer darkness then they speedily will cast him. I'd hate to push myself abroad and swagger among the living, if I had made myself a wad, while other men were giving. I'd hate to flaunt a hefty roll and feed on diamonds and the other men were in the hole through making sacrifices.

AUTUMN DAYS.

The leaves will soon be falling down, regardless of the cost; the grass will soon be turning brown, lipped by the eager frost. The lovely flowers will bear their knell when frost gleams on the lawn, and soon the flies we love so well will all be dead and gone. All winter are the gorgeous plants that lately graced the soil and garden. The chiggers and ants will cease their useful toil. The summers' gone, the autumn's here, and soon, give whiz, how soon, we'll see the year of the year with church bells all in tune. Some day from arctic wastes there'll roll a blizzard wearing belts and scores of folks will gaze for coal, to warm the dealer dwells. Send us nine.

ounds of coal," they'll cry, "regardless of the price! Our aunts and children freeze and die, our shacks are cold as ice!" And then the dealer, honest soul, will cry, "Cadsuzek-oddood! Lam onds onds of coal, and so your name is Mud. For months it's grievous to relate, the dealers begged in vain, that you would buy your winter slate while slate you could obtain. The government backed up our spuel, and begged you 'Buy your coal!' And now the dealer's all dead—he has no goods to dole." The winter time will soon be sent, its storms will soon begin, and sad will be the freezing gent who has an empty bin.

CRUSHING THE YANKS.

Old Ludendorff bombastic cried, to gaping German ranks, "You saw how we the Russians crushed, so we shall crush the Yanks." Then to his weary warriors he said, with sickly smiles, "Fall back, my brave invincibles! Retreat a dozen miles!" It's true the German crushed, the Russ; the Russ was like a child, betrayed by his own parents and by Prussia. Ludendorff has got it in his head that citizens from freedom's shore can thus astray be led, that they will all for ever be dumb as fell the childlike Slav? Such phony joint visions in their heads the German leaders have. Oh, does the thought Ludendorff imagine for a space that he has strength enough at hand to whip the Yankee race? One Yank can whip a brace of Teuts; from war takes I've inferred, and if occasion calls for it, he will take on a third. Oh, Ludendorff, begin to crush! You've told what you will do so now hitch up your panicles, and put the marker through. You'll need your bombs and poison gas, and all your snicker-snacks; the crushing graft will prove a frost when Yankers are crushed!

THE PEACE OFFENSIVE.

When Prussia starts her peace offensive, with bows and becks and smiles extensive, don't let her fool you for a minute; her soul is false. There's evil in her. She'll say, "Oh, carnal of murder? My lords of war are more than willing to put a stop to all the killing, but our arms will help us meet us, and in a proper spirit greet us. Let's gather round the council table, and surely there we shall be able to frame the plan this world is needing, and stop the dying and the bleeding." It's when half whipped and shot to death that Kaiserdom, such boasts releases. It's when this foul and false deceiver sits near her neck the fatal cleaver, that she of peace begins to mumble, and tries to look abjectly humble. You know how trusty are her pledges; she swears an oath and then she hedges; you don't let her fool you for a minute; her heart is wrong, there's evil in it.

WINTER COMING.

The leaves are turning brown and red, the cauliflower and rose are dead, the onion gone to seed; the frost has touched the columbine, the drooping fern and pumpkin vine, and killed the jimson weed. This morning all the roofs were white, the frost had fallen in the night, the air was chill and keen; old winter once had covered his wings, and all the green and growing things were in the soup tureen. I'm glad that winter's on the way, and I shall greet the snowy days with rapture and applause; for I am tired of buying ice, which winter brings without a price, a gift from Santa Claus. And I am tired of men who fret because the weather is too wet for guinea hens and shotes; and I am tired of men who sigh because the weather is too dry for growing wheat and oats. The winter's sh of growing crops and so we hear no plaintive yaws from sad-eyed husband-men; and some curious old hoes, and one or two pipes, or diggs, or moss, or tries to set a hen. The leaves are turning red and gold, the frost lies white upon the wood. The winter is at hand when we shall sit before the fire, and read a book or punch a tyre, and sing to beat the band. Oh, winter! doubtless when you come I'll wear a fur and a furance drear, but, as I look ahead, methinks you are a precious boon the which I wouldn't trade for June with all its roses red.

THE SACRED SEVEN.

The Germans die in every style that they have, and to die they're around in rick and pit, they're borne away in box and crate. They fall before the roaring guns, and plumed, neck splitting, lie while the kaiser and his sons are posing for a photograph. In herds and swarms in droves and flocks, the German upward to the sky; they perish while the landscape rocks beneath the marching of their foes. At Wilhelm's word the gray-glad ones march forth, face the deadly storm; the while the kaiser and his sons are putting on new uniforms. Some guns now used are weird and strange, for countless leagues their missiles whoop; but no gun has so great a range that it can hit that sacred group. Though death may rot mid the Huns, and that the just survive, the kaiser and his staffed sons will be concealed behind a church. The Huns march forth, and few escape the raging fire that lays men low; most Prussian homes are hung with traps, and echo with the sounds of woe. At Potsdam, though, King Deutscher has won a victory, he will know grave; the kaiser, with each beery son, is hiding in the cyclone cave.

A SIGN OF AUTUMN.

The animal became frightened at some little boys playing along the sidewalk and turning short around upon the buggy, throwing Mrs. Ferguson out and bruising her quite badly besides breaking her nose. The horse ran a short distance before stopping and was quite badly hurt, one of the buggy shafts penetrating its side. PATRIOTIC DUTY.

To Republican State Chairman, district chairman, county chairman and all republican workers:

The mission of America is about to be accomplished. American soldiers in France are at this moment demonstrating to the world the reason for America and the stuff of which this republic is made.

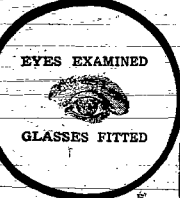

Their complete success and the consequent eternal establishment everywhere for the world of the integrity of American rights, interests and honor and the right of men to govern themselves, are all assured with the proper performance of the plainest duty of the citizenry at home.

The Fourth Liberty loan is our next objective.

There is no geography, political or physical in the patriotism of this country. Democrats and republicans alike love their flag and are ready to die for it. We continually insist for all parties that the war be kept out of partisan politics and that partisanship be kept out of the war.

Just as in congress, the republicans led the fight that made possible the passage of the great war measures, so now the party membership and organization has an immediate, definite war task in the accomplishment of which it can fully function. I repeat, let there be no contest in this country as to anything that touches the war except that contest—who best can serve, who most can give.

PATRIOTIC DUTY.

To Republican State Chairman, district chairmen, county chairmen and all republican workers:

The mission of America is about to be accomplished.

American soldiers in France are at this moment demonstrating to the world the reason for America and the stuff of which this republic is made.

Basic complete success and the consequent eternal establishment everywhere in the world of the integrity of American rights, interests and honor and the right of men to govern themselves, are all assured with the proper performance of the plainest duty of the citizenry at home.

The Fourth Liberty loan is our duty.

There is no geography, political or physical, in the patriotism of this country. Democrats and republicans alike love their flag and are ready to die for it. We continually insist for all parties that the war be kept out of partisan politics and that partisanship be kept out of the war.

Just as in congress, the republicans led the fight that made possible the passage of the great war measures, so now the party membership and organization has an immediate, definite war task in the accomplishment of which it can fully function. I repeat, let there be no contest in this country as to anything that touches the war except that contest—who best can serve, who most can give.

The success of the Fourth Liberty loan shall be the republican party's supreme motive of thought and action until that objective is attained.

PREMATURE.

Chicago Daily News: Just the other day the kaiser in expressing "my imperial thanks" to the owners, directors and workers of the trump gun plant at Essen, declared that "Serbia and Montenegro are finished." Yet the Serbian army today is setting the pace for the allied forces warring Bulgaria and that ally of the kaiser is suing for peace.

ARE THEN DOWNHEARTED?

B. L. T. in the Chicago Tribune: As cheerful, snappy reading, "Von Herer's" speech is suggested only by the prospect of a "necropolis de luxe." After taking it in the German it must feel like putting a bomb in his hat and diving into a brick wall.

NEVER TOO LATE TO LEARN.

New York World: Scheidemann's declaration before the main committee of the reichstag that Ludendorff and not the chancellor is the ruler of Germany shows that Germans are beginning to discover something that everybody else knew.

New York World: Hindenburg's advice to the German people—"Be hard"—will not feed them or furnish new reserves for her armies.

Some cars with ALL-YEAR TOP

Its Vital Parts are Built on Anti-Repair Lines

The Kissel engineers specified steel side rails of high carbon contents in the Kissel frame, and Chrome Vanadium steel in the springs. To make the Kissel driving shaft absolutely dependable, a special heat-treated steel forging is used, with nickel steel gears and pinion. This Kissel quality in all the vital-under-the-surface parts, keeps the Kissel Kar a stranger to repair men.

THE ALL-YEAR CAR

The sturdy construction of the ALL-YEAR top is that of a permanently closed car. The only difference is—it is built-in, not on, and entirely removable for summer touring. The Kissel policy of "Quality First" is back of every one of its Hundred Quality Features. A fine new Kissel Kar on hand, ready for immediate delivery.

Dearest Mother:
Just starting another week in this artillery. The same old it grows more interesting every day. Every day there is something new to learn and mistakes to correct from the day before. We are away at 5:30 in the morning first class at 6:30 and outside of a study period or two we are busy up to 10 o'clock every night. The instruction is excellent and our teachers are certainly good to us. We do not have an easy time here and more than one fellow is getting tired of this life and trying to transfer to something else. I am going to learn this game and learn it right. His spirit and willingness to learn that count, never forgetting the goal that is in sight, perfecting every little detail, so that when the time comes and you are called to do your work you will be found ready. All of us are green, and outside of a few we are usually on the job. We work and play alternately, but everything is done with this viewpoint, to cooperate the actions of the mind and body.

To me the horseback riding is one of the most interesting exercises.
We have just begun to jump and some are going to have a rather difficult time of it. The horses are trained and not quite as lively as the ones we have at home.

Talk about sugar, mother—we get none at all. We don't mind however, as we can have honey, jam, etc. to take the place of it.

The great feature in this whole thing is the feeling of satisfaction I have derived from going into this work. I feel that in my right place and that there is no objection to drive me to work. I live on it.
No trouble to get up in the morning to meet my first class. Now, one thing don't worry about me, I am going to come out of this game all right. I am looking forward, and I don't think it is far distant when we can go out and plant the garden and watch the things grow. Your loving son, Gerald Cross.

—From G. C. Osborne, director of transportation to G. E. Cross.

In handing you today your honorable release from the service of the American Red Cross in order to attend Artillery School at Camp Cantelero, I wish to take this opportunity to express my personal thanks and the thanks of the Red Cross organization to you for the faithful, efficient and excellent service you have rendered. You came to us at a time when we seriously needed help and you have given us the best from the beginning to the end in any manner that seems advisable. You may use this letter as a recommendation at any time for the best from the beginning to the end you have shown real ability, honesty, faithfulness and loyalty. With respected thanks, yours very truly, G.
C. Osborne, Director of Transportation.

checked the indigestion. I am now

U-S-A
DIED IN SERVICE
FRANCE
April 21st 1918

Avallant flyer
A true American Falling to earth
A deathless leaf

While Heads Are Bared.

LIEUTENANT ELY, it is ours reverently to acknowledge the service you have rendered.

To your country and ours, you gave all you had to give, a life, young and buoyant, offered when you had but just arrived at life's fullest understanding—and more than this no man can give.

But in the giving, sir, you gave as well the outpour of your stout young heart—that all of us to whom you pass along the touch might offer prayer, and carry on in better understanding of that ennobled cause for which no sacrifice shall be in vain.

Some of us are far behind the fighting lines of France today. For circumstance has made two battle lines, and there must be therefore those gone to fight, and others kept behind to carry on at home.

But as you say, both lines bring chance for deeds well done, and great investments too.

Little did you know, Lieutenant Ely, when you went to the post that day, that your last letter to those proud parents you left back home contained a message not alone for them, but, simple and sincere, for all your countrymen as well.

It did, indeed, for you uncovered the heart of all America when you wrote, "I want to say in closing, if anything happens to me let's have no mourning in spirit or in dress, for like a Liberty Bond, it is an investment, not a loss, when a man dies for his country."

The Fourth Liberty Loan is now announced.

Do you think, Lieutenant Ely, that we shall soon forget your admonition—or that we shall not proudly subscribe for all we possibly can of your country's Liberty Bonds, which you so nobly glorified?

Indeed, we can do no less, for it seems to us that each subscription blank must bear your parting salutation—"for like a Liberty Bond, it is an investment, not a loss, when a man dies for his country."
