It's a Distinct Asset to be Well Dressed

Business and social life has raised the standard of clothes. Nowadays it is a positive asset for a man to be well dressed.

People judge a man by the clothes he wears, despite the fact that clothes may or may not make the man. The truth of the matter is that good clothes go a long way towards making the man who clothes give a man more confidence in himself.

Our line of Curfee Clothes are made for good dressers who want not only correct style, but also service-giving fabrics, correct fit, and careful tailoring.

Also, we carry a full line of Boys' ready-to-wear Suits and Overcoats, in all sizes.

Also the Florsheim Shoes, Oshkosh Overalls, Wilson Brothers Shirts, Wool and Cotton Underwear, Overshoes, Husking Mittens, Mackinaws, Leather-lined Vests, Sheep-lined Coats.

A Peace Meeting.
Under the auspices of the Wakefield Gospel Temperance union, there was held last Sunday evening a union service for all the churches in the community for the purpose of celebrating the cessation of fighting in the world war. The service was held in the Presbyterian church which was nicely filled by a most appreciative audience. From the attendance it was evident that many people are getting over the influenza scare which has afflicted us all of late, and yet the crowd was not by any means so large as would have gathered for such an event before the epidemic struck us.

All the local pastors took part in the service. Rev. M. Orr leading the singing. Rev. T. Kraft reading the scriptures, Rev. Frank Williams offering the opening prayer, and Rev. C. J. Helm singing the praise section of the meeting with a most instructive and helpful address. In this part of the gathering the following also participated: Messrs. Thomas Rawlins, L. D. Haskell, G. W. Henton, T. J. Beith, J. A. Seagraves, Mrs. Hurd, Miss Webster and Miss Edith Williams. Rev. Mr. Kraft, Rev. Mr. Orr, and Rev. Mr. Williams also spoke.

The church rendered special music, and Mrs. Green presided most ably at the pipe organ.

Together the occasion was worthy the great festival was intended to mark, and Wakefield is to be congratulated on the possession of a union which can bring its churches into such harmonious and helpful fellowship for this our common occasions.

Following his marriage in 1915 to Miss Minnie Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max Miller of Wayne, he moved to Wakefield where he was proprietor of the Palace meat market until a few months ago. Letter from "Over There"
The following from Bert Shellington in France was received this week by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Shellington, and will be read at the home on Wednesday, October 20, 1918.

Dear Folks: I can look out of the window and see nice green cabbage and lettuce growing. The trees are just beginning to change color. The French peasants are getting rich harvesting nuts and selling them to the buyers from the States. We can't buy any candy here as there is no sugar to make it. A bar of chocolate costs more than a Hershey costs two francs, or thirty-six cents. We are issued a small piece of chocolate occasionally by the Red Cross and we eat up all from the Red Cross when we get it. We get lots of smoking tobacco from the government.

When I was in France, I have been in, and it seems like I have walked all over it, the people nearly all live in small towns and farm country, and it and nearby. This makes the towns close together. Each one has its own church. The people get their fresh bread each day from a bakery, but they must first present a government stamp before they can receive any. There seems to be more money than anything else and it is not like our grape juice. It is nothing good about it as far as I can see, but all French people drink it. They carry it to the fields, have it on their tables, and generally strapped around their bodies. The French soldiers have their own water canteen that they carry all the time. When we go to a new town, and ask for water, the natives say they have no water. It is delightful where we are now as we are in a mountain valley with nice mountains and a view nothing right by the window. It would surely be a nice place to be in peace times.

I don't know where we go from here, and don't care very much if we can just get the job done. We have seen some grand scenery here, but I don't think I'll stay long. The mountain water and air seem at the Lowest Prices in Years

WE ARE closing out a big overstock of 300 coats which are left on our hands because the epidemic of "flu" prevented us from giving our usual special sales in many other towns in Nebraska and Dakota, where we sell hundreds of coats every year.

To sell such an overstock of coats in Wayne, we have cut prices so low that every woman within trading distance of our town will be attracted to come here for her coat.

We are going to sell them, too. With better roads and better weather, coat customers are coming from surrounding towns to attend this sale, and we have already closed out the first 100 coats of this big overstock. If you expect to buy a coat this winter or next, come now and get it at a great big saving.

W. C. Gamble shipped two barrels of cattle to Omaha Thanksgiving day.
His son was born at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Larnage, November 24, 1898.

The electric light plant is nearly completed. A few more days and the town will be illuminated.
Prof. R. Durin received word that the diploma awarded him on his statutory year is soon to arrive.
The ladies of the Minerva club and their husbands enjoyed a social afternoon at the Harry Lee hotel. Edgar L. Wayne and Miss Enola Caffee were united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents, November 30, 1898.

Justice W. P. Huff passed away at his home in Carroll, November 23, 1898. He was survived by his wife and eight children.
The new brick building soon to be erected will be constructed by P. L. Miller and R. E. Swan. It will be occupied by Wilson Brothers.

A large party of young people enjoyed a skating party at the lake east of town. Late in the evening, they assembled at the Little Demonstration where supper was served.

From Ponca Journal, November 30, 1838:
Speaking about coal is a reminder that there are coal mines and mining company here in Ponca. It was a duly organized company, properly officered, and with a capital of $1,000,000. There were twenty members, each of whom had certificates of stock purporting to be worth $50,000. The holes which this company bored into the ground created considerable excitement among them being bored. Professor Aughey came and examined them and smelt of them and pronounced them to be good holes, and rich. But after the holes were bored, and after the gas was bored, the excitement gradually died away and the work fell in value. Many of the certificates were traded or spotted, some were given away, and others were used for strapping iron. They were printed on strong linen paper so as to avoid tearing, while going through the stock market. Besides the stylish printing and figures representing the value and the owner's right in it, etc., there were several appropriate pictures, one of which showed a heavily loaded coal miner coming up out of a coal shaft. The miner's eyes were a little blinded and in some other respects he looked somewhat groggy, but he was cheerful, and the bucket he was bringing up into the shaft to the brim with excellent coal. These elegant certificates were properly filled out dated and signed by the president and secretary. They were stamped and numbered from ten dollars to one thousand dollars. It took the president and secretary two weeks to sign their names to such an immense pile of wealth. But now, as we have seen, the certificates are somewhat used and probably not more than half of them could be found again. How would it do for those who have certificates to get together some evening and by a ratification of a game of

AS TO FEEDING GERMAN.
"Umah, Neb., Nov. 27.—"Shall we feed Germany?" That is the question that is uppermost in everyone's mind. Opinion is divided, many favoring letting them starve without food.

"We have just two courses to follow with Germany," says Federal Food Administrator Wartles. "We can either permit them to starve by slow stages and have with it consequent anarchy and all the things that go with it, or else we can feed them and help them build up a stable government which can make reparation for its damage they did."

"Germany must pay and pay dearly for the ruin and desolation which she has caused. She must make reparation in full, but she must be fed that she can make these reparations."
"The assistance and humanity and selfishness is that Germany must be fed, and that is Mr. Hoover's policy. But she must pay for every ounce of food she gets and she must give a stable government which will make amends for her wrongs."
"Warfare and ruin come from starvation. We must prevent such in Germany and the surrounding countries."
