Get Rid of the Cause

Medical Science for centuries has been studying effects. CHIROPRACTIC pays no attention to the effect of so-called disease but goes right to the root of the matter, i. e., the CAUSE. The Cause is the important thing. It is his hobby. He makes no pretense of studying effects. Having ascertained the CAUSE he proceeds to adjust it and the result is a normal condition which in its turn means HEALTH. If you are sick let your CHIROPRACTIC Doctor ascertain the CAUSE and adjust it. You will then wonder why you had not tried CHIROPRACTIC long ago. Consultation and Spinal Analysis Free. Phone 229.

UNCLE WALT

The Poet Philosopher

I TOLD YOU SO.
I told you, Wilhelm, how 'twould when you unshathed your snickers and nose, and looked out on the world. I said that any bonedead king who tried to pull so coarse a thing, would from his throne be hurled. And now on your pedestal, all are gone, your crown and scepter are in pawn, no homage do you know, and while, distressed, you walk the floor, I whisper at your bedroom door, "Oh, Bill! I told you so!" Your German Gott, to whom you call, has turned your wiggle to the wall. And while your craning brow, and while your fingers you chew, I whisper softly down the Hue, "Oh, Bill! I told you so!" You wanted to get Time-marching back along a dark dismal track to feudalism's age, you'd have the world no longer see the institutions of the free in you, blind, vengeful rage. I told you 'twas too big a stunt for 'one anguished Prussian runt and tried to stay your hand, but all my words to scold and blow a blast upon your horn, and started to beat the band. And now you go your gait alone, you have no center and no throne, no courtiers bending low and while you dream of seas of glory, I'm in the center of your door to say, "I told you so!" You'll hear me when the midnight rain is streaming down the window pane and when the breezes blow you, when you sleep and when you eat, you'll hear me whenever you repeat, the words, "I told you so!"

FREEDOM'S DAY.
Now Freedom on her mountain height is teeling gay and wearing her hooped skirts and her high-heeled gait, of which the page-blisters tells. We've seen the tyrant's scepter drop, the tyrant's crown in despoil, our burly heroes are still on top, our bulwarks right side up with care. We've seen our heroes' heads, and while we've seen right triumph over wrong, so let us, for the love of Mike, be happy as the day is long. I hear men say, "We're face to face with problems that will wear our souls, how shall we teach the Russian race to strive for better, higher goals? The flag of anarchy will fly, we fear us much, in every breeze; how can we throw our hats on high and face the convulsions such as this? I say, "One problem at a time; we'll solve them all, or break a stat, we've stopped the Prussian course, we've paralyzed the autocrat. This is our hour of our delight, our cause is gained, the battle's won!" And Freedom's eyes are bright as stars as she looks down from the mountain glare of Mars she won the jewels in her crown. Oh, may her course be calm and sweet in all the fatal days, we are not stirred by any... can amaze or make us tremble in our shoes. We push ourselves around the town, and hear the wisest fellows there, some might say, but I lost his crown, we say, "Well, well," or "I declare!" We hear of thrones that are no more, of captains on their bended knees, and... just what he asks for these. An ancient monarchy expires; we hear the news, and say, "By jings!" And then we talk of rubber tires and gasoline, and kindred things. We've heard so many wondrous tales of dreams of gold and wholesale death, the most exciting rumor of late to make us draw a longer breath. Perhaps in coming peaceful years we'll get our old time noise again, and learn once more to squabble, scrawl, and shudder at a tale of pain. We see the junkman haul away a load of scapings, thrones and crowns, and hee! because we have to pay high prices for our hand-me-downs. We've no perspective any more; we cannot grasp the news we read; we sit around the Blue Front store, and let our whiskers go to seed.

WALK-HARD-UP.
Walk-winter knocking at the door. I look my aim, possessions are and shed a brace of my slugs; I'm feeding bacon, meal and spuds, I'm needing shoes and hats and duds, and prunes and hooks and eyes. I'm needing cabbage leaves to smoke, I need the coat that is in soak, my need is urgent, sore, the shelves are bare of pie and cake, the icebox has no contents, stand with your arms at the door. But peace is also at the door, so let my soul be sad no more, and let my heart rejoice; the dove of peace is overhead, and what a thing, that's done and dead, she says, in cooing voice. And if the dove has got it straight, that man's a rascal, yellow shaves who whistles for or sighs, though he may find his cupboard bare, no Hoover bread or Goughnuts there, and no detoured riles. My shoes let the victory breeze, my pants have patches on the knees, they're shiny, aft and fore; but trifling things don't matter now. I should let the victory cry, my brow, for peace is at the door. The winter's coming, pretty swift, and soon the air cooled snow will drift and rattle tempters' round, and if we have no grub or coal there'll still be joy in every soul, for peace is at the door.

A WARNING.
You may be approached in the near future by a stranger who will propose to sell you stock, preferred stock in some corporation and he may propose to take in exchange therefor your Liberty Bonds. Your Liberty bonds are the best security in the world. True, they bear a low rate of interest, but both interest and principal will be paid when due. They are better than a mortgage on your neighbor's farm. They are non-taxable. You can sell them for cash any day, if you care to.

Stop and Listen.
How about the preferred stock? True it bears a high rate of interest. Who agrees to pay it? Will he, or they? Do it? Do you know these men? Do you know the security back of this stock? Do you know they will make a success of their business? Do you know that the man who is issuing it, make this deal is getting a ten per cent to twenty-five per cent commission on the sales he makes? Keep your Liberty Bonds, if you possibly can. It is better for your country than to sell them, but if you insist on disposing of them, take them to your banker and ask him to get them cashed for you on the market. W. S. Weston, president Nebraska Bankers association, Omaha, Nebraska, Bank building, Omaha, Nebraska.

THE SPINZERINKUM.

DEATH OF ISAAC POWERS.

A Prominent Northeast Nebraska Jurist Passes Away.

Norfolk, Neb., Dec. 10.—Isaac Powers, for forty-three years prominent in Nebraska politics, twice a state senator for Nebraska, one of the framers of the state constitution under which we are now living, once a member of the board of regents of the state university, formerly attorney general of Nebraska and district judge, passed away peacefully in his home here at 11 o'clock Friday morning. Bowel trouble from which he had been suffering for a number of years followed by complications was the cause of death. Funeral services were held at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon in the family home.

Judge Isaac Powers was a member of the convention that drafted the present constitution of Nebraska in 1875. He then lived at Dakota City. He was elected to the state senate in 1881 when he was elected to the senate. He was elected attorney general of Nebraska in 1883 and served two years in that office. His home was Norfolk in 1887 when he was elected judge of the district court for a term of four years.

STATE DIRECTOR WRITES.

Mrs. H. H. Hahn, secretary of the Wayne county chapter of the American Red Cross, received the following letter this week from L. M. Tresser, district director of the American Red Cross: Mrs. H. H. Hahn, Secretary of the Wayne county American Red Cross, Wayne, Neb. My dear Mrs. Hahn:

Yours of November 23 inclosing a check for $250, contribution from the Wayne county chapter of the American Red Cross to the second fund we are raising for the Nebraska base hospital, number forty-nine, is received. We appreciate this very much indeed. I wish you would thank your members for this excellent support of a most worthy organization. We hope to raise the entire $10,000 within a short period. While the act of fighting is over, there is much more work to be done by our base hospital as you can readily imagine. In fact, the Red Cross in most departments will be very busy for some time in connection with various activities.

Yours for the membership roll. L. M. Tresser.

INVITING A SPANKING. Seattle Times: "Miss and Mrs. C. G. are hiseously if they think a puny little 'South American' war will startle the world. The only place would be to stop carrying the palms to the administrator needed punishment in the way and place where it would do the most good."

A NEEDED PLAN. Cleveland Plain Dealer: Now that the "work in fight" order can no longer be enforced it is to be hoped that some almost as effective method of discouraging loafers can be found.

REUBEN FAULK WRITES.

Reuben Faulk, who was at one time in the employ of the mail service at this place, writes Mr. and Mrs. Jane Conger of Wayne, as follows:

U. S. Naval Air Station, Le Croisic, France, November 18, 1918.

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Conger: Your encouraging and cheerful letter of October 20 was received Thursday and I cannot tell you how genuinely glad I was to hear from you again. It gives a fellow world's of good to get letters from the states, and especially such daily interesting letters as yours are always.

The world rejoices in the fact that at last the great war is over and it is hardly necessary for me to attempt to describe how happy I am, for I'm quite sure that all of us in our hearts have experienced the same sort of rejoicing, but I want to try and tell you how Le Croisic took the good news. The morning of the eleventh was bright and clear and was an ideal crisp autumn day. By wireless and other means the news came in during the morning that the armistice had been arranged and as soon as the French had made sure that it was true (they were very cautious you know) they began to bring out flags of the allies (mostly French and American though) and it was not long until they were waving from windows and doors and piazzas and even one big one was hoisted high up on the cathedral. Bells rang and whistles in the distance could be heard, and the grown up people and kiddies walked the streets joyfully shouting "Vive la France" and "Vive la Amerique" and it was a sight that I shall not forget as long as I live. At the station here a gigantic American flag and a French one, together with dozens and dozens of navy streamers and pennants were run up and early in the afternoon work was knocked off for the day. About 7 o'clock p. m. a company of about seventy-five of us was gotten together and marched over into town where we were met by a crowd that seemed to contain about all the people in this little city.

Above us flew one of the U. S. airplanes with an American flag suspended by a wire in mid-air and when the crowd saw it, they gave a magnificent shout of welcome. Then we formed another procession with wounded "Pollus" in the lead and with French civilians and us and more French soldiers following, and with flags flying and drums beating and the "Marsellaise" being lustily sung, we marched to the cemetery and there held a memorial service for the allied dead who have made the supreme sacrifice for this great victory. The orators, among other things, made it plain to the assembled throng that they owed a great debt of gratitude to the U. S. A. for the help it gave. After the service was over, we marched back to town and then things livened up considerably and the night Le Croisic had one of the biggest celebrations in its history. It was a great day. I have tried to picture how it was celebrated "over there" in the dear old U. S. A. I read in the paper from Paris of the big parade in Omaha and I imagine that the smaller towns had something on the same order on a smaller scale.

I am much disappointed in the fact that I didn't get to Paris, but hope to make it yet somehow. First it was the flu that prevented my going, and then an official order that stopped them all. It looks as though about half of the men here would leave for the school very soon, but of course, I do not know at this time whether or not I am one of the lucky fellows to get away first. I am in the reserves and it is assumed that the reserves will be the first class to be discharged. I am mighty glad that I did choose the reserve, for when I enlisted.

When I do get back I am certainly coming up to Wayne, believe me. I expect to go up to Boston before it comes next. I am certainly do like that burg after the best time that I have ever had in the Navy, while I was at the Perry school across the river in Cambridge.

The influenza seemed to be much more severe in the states that it was over here, although it was as bad enough at that in France. I had it at Fontenine, you remember, and I know how it feels. I would have just as snow ever here, yet, and from what I hear, this section of France rarely does have snow. It is pretty chilly though sometimes, but through it was especially around 6 a. m. to keep warm when we are getting up to the tune of "can't gettem up. A couple weeks ago when I was in Nantes on a short leave, the park was as pretty almost, with flowers, and the trees were still green as though it were summer time.

I wouldn't venture to say if the next letter you write would find me in France, but perhaps it would be best to play safe, and write to me over here, and the letter can follow me wherever I might go. Hoping that you are all well and happy, and that everything over there is well with you, I am, As ever, Reuben.

Additional proof of the mercies character of the ex-kaiser is shown in the revelation of palace eunuchs hurried with food while his subjects were starving.

Strikes usually hurt most the helpless innocent who can least afford to be hurt. In the street, car, or in automobiles, the rich fortunate who have to go to work every day, must usually walk.

The saying, "Uneasy lies the head that wears a crown" applies with greater force now than ever. If we were so unfortunate as to have a crown, we would love it in the night and try to break into the ranks of ordinary citizenship.

People going to California for the winter, invariably invite copies of the Herald to follow them. The Herald is the only thing needed in the sunny clime of southern California to sustain them in happy content so far away from home.

It looks as though Chicago were trying to break into Wayne's class. It is a price list and over a year ago which says among other things: "The influenza is past. Chicago suffers less than other cities. Chicago continues to be the healthiest city in America." Such modesty! Why include the whole world? The Chicago commission says that influenza is past. So far as influenza and pneumonia are concerned, Chicago is the safest place in the United States. Chicago is the safest place in health appears to be restricted to influenza and pneumonia, whereas Wayne's matchless versatility enables it to include all diseases. As a health resort, the advantage is plainly in favor of Wayne and people will naturally come here in preference to going to Chicago.

CAPITAL AND LABOR.
"The American Press, published in the interest of American newspapers, calls attention at this time with great emphasis to impending disputes between capital and labor, and to the fact that the general public does not have adequate knowledge of the merits of either side to form clear, unbiased judgment. The Press urges, publicly as a means of impressing the public with the facts, and gaining for both capital and labor equal and exact justice."
Here are two paragraphs from the Press' note of alarm:
"Capital swears it is suffering untold injustices. It contends it is oppressed by legislation, bullied and sandbagged by labor; that its great creative power is crushed, its initiative stifled, its property subjected to assault. The man who paints the girders of the great skyscrapers in the heat of the day says the line of demarcation between him and the man who paints for the art gallery is far too wide. The skilled mechanic honestly believes he is being robbed. The man who has a firm is convinced that he is being blackmailed into unjust wages and hampered by unfair labor conditions. Which side is right? The man does not live who can answer the question with intelligence and with the promise of a peaceful solution."

"The only answer that can ever be made, the only answer that ever will be accepted, is the answer of public opinion and that answer can only be obtained by placing the issue in its entirety before the people in the newspapers. It is the only medium through which the public thought can be reached and the mutual understanding developed. The only way an issue can be squarely put before the people."

Of course there are many other articles you can find at this store, which will do just as well as Christmas Gifts as those mentioned above. For the smaller children there are only the two lines which count at all as Christmas Gifts—TOYS and CANDIES. Of both you can find a large supply at the Variety Store. In spite of very heavy early sales the stock of toys is in most lines unbroken yet and a large supply makes the selection of toys for your youngsters easier than conditions really warranted.

In Candy I really did not expect to have a large supply on hand this year. The fact is I do not have as much as in other years. But luck favored me in so far that a fairly large order of Christmas Candies and better grade of Chocolates slipped through and I think I will have enough for all my candy customers.

Red Cross 1919 Membership. The Red Cross will solicit its membership throughout the nation for next year (1919) from the 16th to the 26th day of December, 1918, inclusive.

The campaign is to be made under the name of the Red Cross Christmas Roll Call. No Red Cross Christmas seals will be sold this year, but ten seals will be given with each membership.

This campaign is not made so much for the purpose of raising money as for securing universal membership to the Red Cross.

This county is to be solicited in districts. The district will consist of a voting precinct in the county and each town will be a district of its own so far as practical.

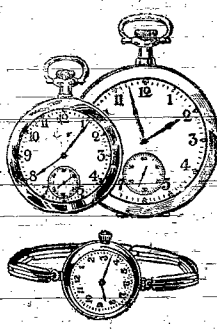

Each district will be in charge of a "team captain" who will appoint the solicitors and who will have entire supervision of that district.

The district lines will be broken on Friday morning, December 20, and the workers will solicit any adult not wearing a 1919 Red Cross button. These workers will not solicit those who will have been solicited through the January Red Cross.

The present war has demonstrated the value of the Red Cross.

the church-going habit, it's a poor time to lose it. If you have it not, now is a good time to get it.

Take for example, the Sunday school work, isn't it poor taste to say the very least to allow a few persons to hear the whole talk when there are two or three hundred interested. If each would do his little bit, there would not be such a big bill for the few.

These young ladies, Elizabeth Mines, Dorothy Feller and Edna Hansen, will jointly lead the Y. P. S. C. E. meeting next Saturday evening. The subject for discussion will be: "The Power of the Cross in the Philippines." This is a good time to do some map-studying, John C. E. class.

The Sunday evening service is the most important of the Sunday meetings. The hour is 7:30 sharp. The hour is just sixty minutes in length. There will be good music next Sunday evening under the direction of Mrs. A. R. Davis, chorister. There will be a hearty welcome for each one who comes.

Among the cases up for hearing was that of Rev. P. Grobbel, pastor of St. Anthony's church of St. Charles against whom complaints were made and had been filed on sedition conduct on the part of Rev. P. Grobbel. A large number of participants were examined with the result that the charges were declared to be totally unfounded and the permit granted on May 7. In the great war to be renewed, ratified and confirmed, giving him a complete exoneration. County Attorney J. C. Pihatt appeared for the state and John H. Laidlaw for the license. The trouble seems to have originated through petty spite and personal enmity and completely failed of its purpose.

The cases of sedition against Mrs. Paulina Dewees and Mrs. John Stempel were also up for hearing before Judge Welch. A jury was impaneled in the case of Mrs. Stempel and after hearing a few witnesses, Judge Welch directed a verdict for the defendant whereupon County Attorney Elliott asked for their dismissal. In these cases also, it was apparent that the trouble arose through neighborhood jealousy and enmity.

"There is a popular impression that it is best to postpone wearing glasses as long as possible, that is, until one feels forced to wear them. This is a great mistake. If an error of vision exists, the earlier it is corrected, the better. A slight error can be kept slight, at least its progress arrested, by the prompt fitting of glasses. Not only can the condition of the eye be improved and the error arrested, but much serious ill health can be avoided by relieving the eye-strain."

NAVY IS WIDE OPEN FOR ENLISTMENT REGARDLESS OF DRAFT.

The U. S. navy opened wide yesterday for the enlistment of all men between 18 and 35, regardless of the draft. Radio operators and apprentice seamen are especially wanted.

All calls for induction have been cancelled and the original procedure of enlistments was re-established, the system of handling naval enlistments through local draft boards having been abolished.

Previous service men wishing to enroll in the fleet naval reserve, may do so.

The term of enlistment for all branches is now four years.

Practically all branches of naval service are open for enlistment with the exception of the aviation branch, yeoman branch, moulders and pattern makers.

U. S. navy firemen are badly wanted. Others especially desired are machinists' mates, shipwrights, boilermakers, ship's cooks and hospital apprentices.

Applicants should go to the U. S. A. recruiting station, 200 Paxton building, Omaha, Neb. They will be sent to training at once.

NOT REPRESENTATIVE

Minneapolis Journal.—To represent the United States at the peace conference the president has named, besides himself, his secretary of state, his personal confidant, a veteran diplomat and a military expert. It is a grand delegation. His function is merely to work out in detail the president's formula. It is not especially representative of the American people.

ALWAYS A MENACE

New York World.—The dispute between Chile and Peru is little understood as long way off and unconnected with our own affairs appear on the surface. But it is also an illustration in the new world of the lasting menace now created by the great world created by the secure anywhere of Alaska, Louisiana.
