DEFENSE COUNCIL IN LAST MEETING

According to Instructions, Local Organization Dissolved After Winding Up Business

RECORD OF COUNTY BODY

Money on Hand to be Used in Any Way Deemed Advisable for Benefit of the Returning Men

Members of the Wayne County Council of Defense met in the city hall Tuesday evening.

The following resolution was unanimously adopted:

"That prior to its adjournment, it be the policy of the council to resolve itself into a committee to have charge of nearly $1,000 on hand to expend for any worthy benefit for the returned soldiers and sailors."

"That in the event of Theodore Wood, the county council be a fearless patriot and a wise and courageous councillor, a leader who followed the path of duty, as viewed by the people of this county, in their welfare and without fear or favor, surrendering to no policy or circumstances that did not measure up to the highest standards of Americanism."

"That in the future days of great problems, requiring the greatest courage and sacrifice, our country has lost an able exponent of national purity and intensified patriotism."

The Wayne County Council of Defense was organized in the summer of 1913 and was working under authority granted by the governor.

The council consisted of twenty-one members.

During the life of the organization seventeen regular meetings were held.

The members gave their time without compensation and made many sacrifices in their homes and committee work and individual investigations.

FROM DAN BURRESS.

Paris, France, Dec. 16, 1918.

Dear Nebraska Friends: It is hard to realize that I am at last in "Gay France." Arrived December 9, and may stay several days yet. We received our assignments today. I am to report to the regional director at Dijon, a city of something like 17,000 inhabitants in Cote D'or about 200 miles southeast of Paris. This I will likely be located near the battle front and also near Switzerland. I am certainly pleased with Paris and the French people. They don't seem to understand my French, but nevertheless, with it and signs and what English they know, I am able to get enough to eat and to travel about. Many can speak some English and are eager to learn more, especially the young girls.

Nearly every young man in the army and women are either in streetsweepers, factory workers, conductors and almost everything else in England, so one does not notice the effects of war so much as one would expect. Of course there are thousands of soldiers on the streets and hundreds of ex-servicemen German guns, aeroplanes and tanks lined up around Place de Concorde, and Les Invalides.

At most restaurants one is asked if he has his bread ticket, but it is rarely taken up. Bread is plentiful and is uniformly good. The average loaf weighs 1 1/2 pounds in length. There is a very noticeable lack of butter, milk, sugar, fruit and eggs. Everything is scarce.

I was told that eggs were so short that they were only served in omelets. I didn't take the omelet. There is almost no fat of all kinds of meat and the Irish potato, too. Good pears are four francs, or 60 cents each and apples are three francs.

The French think we are queer ones for drinking water. All of them drink or less frequently, beer with their meals. One can get a good meal at from three to five francs and go as much higher as one wishes.

The French eat a light breakfast of rolls and chocolate. There are thousands of little wine rooms and many large ones where people sit out in front to sip their wine. I haven't tasted the wine and don't know to be better than the other. It cannot be obtained by the French and one could almost buy his way anywhere with a pocket full of them. If one shows gratitude for any favor bestowed, he is apt to be asked for a cigarette. Last night I saw a girl snatch a cigarette from a Sammie's mouth before he could light it. Oh, yes, many of the women smoke them. I was chewing gum tonight and was asked for a piece by a French. Gum is not on sale either. We are, almost completely, without paper. On every hand they cry "Save American Paper." As we went through Havre, an old lady waved the stars and stripes over a banner inscribed, "Watch and pray."

She has been educated here. French to some girls, who answered, "Why don't you speak English." Of course Sunday was a big day for Paris as it was approaching national holiday. There were more people here that day than ever before in its history. Many people were prevented from coming by the authorities. All the American organizations were given a place of honor around the great Arc de Triomphe, through which the presidential party passed. I never witnessed such masses of people and such a great parade and heard grand music, but the French believe in honoring their dead. Consequently there were only a few carriages with guards, horse and behind. The entire route was heavily guarded with cavalry and foot soldiers. I saw Wilson again this afternoon and thousands were lined up to see and cheer him. Chairs to stand on rented at one franc each.

I am using all my spare time to see the many beautiful and historic places of Paris, such as Notre Dame and Madeleine churches, Bastille, Les Invalides, Hotel de Ville, Luxembourg, the Bois de Boulogne and Tuileries gardens. All the noted museums and art galleries are closed, the pictures being removed for fear of invasion. The front of Notre Dame, Napoleon's tomb and his statue are banked deep with sand-bags and concrete, especially facing the direction of "Big Bertha," the long-range gun. Therefore it is not a good time to see Paris. Still, I can no longer be climbed and is guarded at a distance of 500 feet. I went to Versailles Friday, a distance of fourteen miles and saw the most wonderful figure in the world seen. This was the home of the selfish Louis XIV, who bankrupted France—making his wretched palace and immense gardens. Almost every room is of beautiful marble and frescoed with paintings of the great masters. The grounds are beyond description for beauty. Louis kept 6,000 horses and 36,000 men at work while creating them. I saw the royal bed on which he died and the table on which the German nation was begun and on which its military doom will soon be sealed. It is a table on which was placed, as one could spend unlimited time there. It is twenty-eight miles through the grounds of Versailles. I don't know how long it will last, but I wonder at the French people gubbing at its beauty. I have seen every building where bombs struck and several of the new great electric sirens for air-raid alarms. Also saw a big French submarine in the Seine, Thursday, December 19. The king of Italy and his son, Umberto, are here today and we have another holiday.

I am trying to get ready to leave Paris tomorrow but everything is closed, so I am delayed. If one goes to walk around, he is held up by the cavalry guarding the parade route. The only way to get through then is to go under; that is take a subway—there are some these days. If one loses his way on the "sub," he can keep transferring until he finds his destination. They lack the great speed of the New York express trains, however. The taxis are all of one type and quite ancient. There are quite a few Fords here. One hundred and fifty new "T" secretaries arrived today. They report that no more men will be sent from New York. There are around 100 here now. The M. O. A. A. has within one year, grown into a great business organization, doing over one million dollars business annually. They have thirty-five factories of their own and nearly one hundred hotels. Goods are shipped 150 carloads at one time, each man, whether he be a B. D. or John Jones, is used simply as a man and no special favors for the few.

I am well and enjoying my new experiences. Haven't received any letters or paper since November 22. If you anyone know how to get word or letter is appreciated over here, you would all take time to throw me a line.

My address will remain the same all the time I am in France, viz: 12 Rue d'Assommoir. Address me through D. P. or through the Post Office. My name is Charles Clouson of Carroll. Best wishes to all.

Daniel H. Burress.

Only an Edison Artist "Dares and Does" Submit Her Voice to This Test

—other artists won't, and the "talking machine" makers are afraid to compare voice and record—side by side. ¶ We prove that the Edison is natural—just like the original voice of the singer.

Don't waste your money on a "talker." All talking machines are unnatural, hollow-sounding, and Punch-and-Judy-like, and their makers know it, and lack confidence in their own machines.

This great singer and numerous others of the world's great artist, who have publicly sung in concerts—duets—side by side with their own voices on the Edison gave full proof that you should buy only the New Edison. Ask for a demonstration. Write for catalog.

Anna Case, America's greatest soprano, whose voice is recorded exclusively for Mr. Edison's instrument, has publicly sung with her own Edison Re-Creations to prove to her audience that they could not tell when she and the instrument were singing in unison, and when only one or the other was singing.

Buy an Edison; then you will have real music in your home. The Edison is a musical instrument. It positively is not a "talking machine." There's a difference. "Real music at last!"

UNCLE WALT

THE POET PHILOSOPHER

CUTTING LOOSE.

We learned to save some kopecks down, to do without new hat or gown, in war's forlorn days. I thought we'd learned the use of thrift and that we never more would drift to our old wasteful ways. I said, "The lesson war has taught could never be too dearly bought, it is of untold worth; we've learned the value of the yen, and we've blown the iron men while we've infest this earth. We've learned how good it is to own a surplus, to think an extra bone when copper is the time of stress; the lesson's sunk in our souls and we'll be careful of our rolls in future times, I guess." But when I heard that war was done, that we had camed the Kuls, another combing, and tell-old tales, I stripped him of his sword, I felt a wild desire to go to busy markets of trade and blow my little wartime hoard—"The id-ah-ah-ah," I told myself; "the merchant has upon his shelf a lot of junk I need; to be a miser in peace times, to go on hoarding plunks and dimes, were foolishness indeed." And so I went abroad to buy whatever doddad caught my eye, just bent on burning mon; and all my neighbors were abroad, each one resolved to blow the wand he saved ere war was done.

SOME OTHER THINGS.

Oh, partners, let us not forever discuss the war and what it cost; it is not wise or sane or clever—we're all convinced war was a frost. We'll have to turn our faces forward, and think of things that should be done, and not be always gazing backward or making faces at the flin. When we are resting in the gloaming we may trash out the facts once more, and give the Ticut another combing, and tell-old tales of bones and gore. But in the daytime we're expected to put up nineteen kinds of grass; in war days things were much neglected and now reforms should come to pass. The story of the past is written, and cannot be erased by men; words can't restore the countries smitten, and make the dead towns live again. All fellows should be up and doing while daylight hours with us abide; the evening is the time for chewing such muggin as great wars provide. There's now great demand for labor, in warehouse, workshop, mill and grange; but when the men of sword and saker come back there may be quite a change. Then he who did persistent talking, all day, around the village pump, will lose his number and go walking, and keep on till he hits the dump.

BRACED UP.

"Once more I've had my trousers pressed, once more my shoes are polished bright; I feel quite nifty for I'm dressed as well as any gent in sight. When war was on the people looked with scorn on those who wore good rags; they derided, dogged, and galed, and they talked of treason to our flag. And so I wore a seedy coat and pants that wrinkled at the knees. I hoped to get the Prussian goat by wearing muffled duds like these. I bought cheap gingham at the store, with other patriotic men; the stovepipe hat my father wore, and a pair of vice once again. And when I'm quainted in the glass, I was a woe-broun sight to see. I often weep and said, 'Alas! No wonder horses shy at me!' But while I thought I'd whip the Teuts by cutting down the wardrobe bills, I gladly wore my eswhite boots, my gingham, and castors and twills. But when the armistice was signed, I hustled to the clothing store, and said, 'The notions will not mind, if I wear real' 'Hain. Some gents and worries, clothes once more.' The shadow 'd be it said my shirts have attacked it would bring an added curse to rest upon your jaded head. What write you when the night winds wails, and when the tempest booms and groans? Perhaps some little bedtime tales concerning blood and dead men's bones. How fine 'twill be if Bill devotes his genius to this sort of work." Kids used some spicy anecdotes of murders done by Teut and Turk. They're tired of rabbit, fox and owl of animals that talk and weep; they want to hear of murders foul before they close their eyes in sleep. What kind of stuff do you produce, oh, Walden, writing all the time? A version new of Mother Goose, with morals tacked to every rhyme? Perhaps you're writing household hints for busy wives who wish to know just how to get the proper hints, when dyeing rags of years ago. Write on, until your hand is lame, the sparkling ink will be supplied; and writing is a harmless game—the only one you ever tried.

WINTER DAYS.

The winter days are with us now, the winds are wild and chill, and my old idiotic cow comes trawling up the hill. To seek the wooden water trough she wandered through the gate, and had her ambers frozen off, likewise her priceless milk. The view outdoors is sad and bleak, the snow's heaped by the path. The Arctic winds came, the quick-flick, without a flick of sense. And I am not woe-begone, as I sit by my fire, and ply my pipe and denounce my cow-brother and my fire. Through all my window temptress beat, one thing I'm thankful for: I do not have to save the steel, to help to win the war. Triumphantly our banners wave, the long armistice is done; we are not asked to mind and save, that we may fight the bitter taunt and fling of ultra-patriotic men!

WILHELM WRITES.

All day the exile sits in woe, and pauses not for food or drink; his pen flows, and he writes, and writes; a tiny tear has peaking out. What occupies your guilty conscience? What sort of things do you select? What are you writing? Exile Bill—what gems of thought may we expect? I hope you won't attempt free verse; that sort of stuff is stale and dead, and meat diet we've evolved relieves the sword's distress." So long we've eaten pork and veal, the diet's grown stale, and we should all enjoy feel, when gnawing ribs of whale, boiled, roasted, poached and fried; in fact, the whale is wearing bells wherever it's been tried. I read and journey, unawares, to days when was young, when they were booming heads, and dizzy spells, and there was a feeling like a very weight pressing on my stomach and chest all the time. I felt miserable, heavy, massed food distressed me. I could not rest at night and fell tired, and worn out all the time. One little of Chamberlain's Tablets cured me and I have since felt like a different person."

ment anally, or puts up any ice; you cannot sell me any whales, however low the price.

Cured at a Cost of 25 Cents. "Eight years ago when we first moved to Mattoon, I was a great sufferer from indigestion and constipation," writes Mrs. Robert Allison, Mattoon, Ill. I could not rest at night and fell tired, and worn out all the time. One little of Chamberlain's Tablets cured me and I have since felt like a different person."

Omaha consumers are kicking about the cost of gas. Wayne consumers of electricity know how they feel.

The weather thus far this winter has been mild enough to satisfy the most particular. If this variety keeps up until spring we may then look back on the past year as 1918-1919
as a veritable open winter.

At its last meeting, the city council of Fairbury created seven new navigating districts. Fairbury, is one Nebraska town that is not slow in getting ready for the year's improvements. When Wayne gets started, it will be able to create new navigating districts from time to time. In the meantime, it must start.

Governor McKelvie had a session with sixty representatives of the state, admirably to make known his attitude toward public service—and party politics.
The governor insisted on greatest possible efficiency in all branches of the public service and invited all to put a ban on the game of selfish policy. He wants real service to the public, and proposes to have it if possible. As governor, he promises to come up to expectations.

After four years as ruler of Luxemburg, the duchess abdicated the age of 24. She may be old enough and smart enough to teach a group of thirty young pupils, but to put her at the head of a nation on account of lineage of course is a mistake and a farce. It is hard exercise of ruling power by members of so called royal families will succeed more in all countries, and that the world will become entirely and permanently free from the king business.

If a man has anything worth advertising and worth buying, it is worth his earnest attempt to get it proposition to the public, whether it be dry goods or groceries or real estate or a flock of chickens, is worth making into a paid advertisement, it should not be subordinated to every other business or social consideration. If a man is trusting to the sale of something for necessary revenue, presenting it to the public is the most important thing to contemplate and execute. Investing the advertising should have priority. It shouldn't be the last earthly thing thought of.

Some one has introduced a bill in the legislature seeking to abolish all parochial schools. This would be a step toward the progress of the bill an attempt to show that such schools are not essential and that from other side that they are essential. Those supporting the measure will no doubt contend that the public school and different religious denominations furnish all the necessary moral and spiritual instruction for the children of the state, and that parochial schools are superfluous. Those supporting continuance of parochial schools will necessarily show any benefits they think accrue to the young.

Are we drifting towards socialism? We don't want so much socialism that there will be no reward for ambition and energy. The trouble with some ultra rich people who are discontented and unhappy with their present position is that they do not cultivate their natural talents for intellectual attainments and enjoyments, failed to acquire habits of kindness and generosity, and with the need of wealth abundantly satisfied they have nothing to share with many around and find fault. So might it be for many if we had a degree of socialism which would enable people to divide the government and which would take away incentive for initiative and achievement. The social condition for the man who does not rise in the general accomplishments and who would like existence-socialism is an emancipation from his responsibility, would be a comfortable salary, a bright working day, and indifference
if employed and much rest and idle dividend inspiration and tendency toward socialism, we must avoid an extension that will rob life of its diversity and inspiration and purpose and enervate and weaken the race.

Winside Soldier Dies.
Winside community was shocked and grieved Friday, when Mr. and Mrs. W. Reed received an official notice of the death of their only son, Sergeant Roy C. Reed, in France, as the result of wounds received in the September 5, 1917, and trained at Camp Johnston before going overseas. He was with the 27th Infantry, 8th Division. Previous word had been received that he was wounded, but the degree uncertain. It is hoped that more details may be known later. Many friends extend cordial sympathy to the sorrowing family.

William E. Jones.
William E. Jones died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Granfield, near Kansas Friday, January 14, aged 81 years, 26 days. William
E. Jones was born in Clark county, Ind., December 15, 1837. He was a private in Company D, Fourth cavalry, 77th regiment of Indiana volunteers. He enlisted August 7, 1862 to serve during the war. He was discharged June 29, 1865 at Edgefield, Tenn., by reason of grand order 83, war department, May 8, 1865.

Federal services were conducted from the M. E. church, at 2 o'clock Monday, by Rev. William D. Smith, whose address is on "Citizenship." The only decorations were flags, as befitting an old soldier.
Interment was made in the Winside cemetery. Hearty sympathy was extended to the bereaved relatives.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.
Before using this preparation for a cough or cold you may wish to know what it has done for others. Mrs. D. Cook, Macon, Ill., writes: "I have found it gives the quickest relief of any cough remedy I have ever used." Mr. James A. Knott, Chillicothe, Mo., says: "Chamberlain's Cough Remedy cannot be beat for coughs and colds." Mr. J. Moore, Great Falls, Pa., says: "I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy on several occasions when I was suffering with a settled cold upon the chest and it has always wrought about a cure."

ORDER OF HEARING ON ORIGINAL PROBATE OF WILL.

The state of Nebraska, Wayne county, ss.
At a county court, held at the county court room, in and for said county of Wayne, on the 31st day of December, 1918.
Present: James B. Brittain, county judge.

In the matter of the estate of Reinhard F. Kaun, deceased.
On reading and filing the petition of Mathilde Kaun, praying that the instrument filed on the 30th day of December, 1918, and purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased may be proved, approved, probated, allowed and recorded as the last will and testament of said Reinhard F. Kaun, deceased, and that the execution of said instrument may be committed and that the administration of said estate may be granted to Mathilde Kaun, as administratrix with the will annexed.

Ordered, that January 18th, A. D. 1919, at 3 o'clock p. m., is assigned for hearing said petition, when all persons interested in said matter may appear at a county court to be held in said county, and cause may be shown why the prayer of the petitioner should not be granted; and that notice of the pendency of said petition and the hearing thereof, be given to all persons interested in said matter by publishing a copy of this order in the Wayne Herald, a weekly newspaper printed in said county, for three successive weeks prior to said day of hearing.

BIG REDUCTION ON CANNED GOODS

See Display, the Entire Center of Store

Sale continues One Week commencing

FRIDAY, JANUARY 17

We are not offering these big food values to raise money or for fear the market will weaken. Everything points to a higher market on food until another crop is raised. We are overstocked on several items, bought considerable less than today's market, but will be offered on the basis of our early purchase. Everything marked by the can and by the dozen, all on display in center of store.

This is an opportunity that will pay you to come for miles. Such prices will not be able to duplicate for many months. These goods were bought for cash and we sell for cash. That's why!

It's Been "Across"

Tons and carloads, yes, trainloads of "My Kind" have been sent across to feed soldiers and supply allied demands. During this period patrons conformed to federal wishes, using substitutes and victory wheat flours, doing their bit to save wheat and help win the war.

Carload My Kind Flour on Track This Week

Full patent, the good old time grinding that makes perfect bread. The two hundred patrons who used My Kind before the war, with satisfactory results, now have these opportunities renewed. Special prices on arrival of car. Phone No. 2.

Coffee in 25-Pound Lots

The result of early contracts before the big advances creates a pronounced activity in coffee sales from all quarters. This store meets mail order competitors on coffee or anything else in the grocery line. Bring your list, keep your money at home. We meet the price and you have the opportunity to see what you buy, without waits or delays. Just good basket store service. This store merits trade for long distances. The roads are good—load your auto with canned goods, apples and don't forget our special price on coffee.

800 Boxes Fancy Box Apples

Our sales are about 200 boxes per week—sales are active, price below the market and a good line of varieties to select from. Apples are sure going higher. Our next purchase means from 50c to $1.00 higher. On apples as on many other items, we are glad to be prepared to invite you to co-operate with the Basket Store and we will stand between you and the high market.

DR. WHITE SHOWS THEM

Council Bluffs and Army Officers Clash Over Wayne Man.

Council Bluffs news in Sunday's Omaha World-Herald: Military police from Fort Omaha, and city and county officials at Council Bluffs clashed Friday night when two military policemen attempted to arrest F. O. White, Council Bluffs dentist, because he was wearing a part of his uniform and was partly clad in civilian clothes. White was discharged from the service recently and county authorities say he has a right to wear all of his uniform or any part of it, that he may see fit for ninety days.

When White was stopped by the military police he showed them his discharge papers, he says, but they insisted on holding him for investigation, whereupon, according to the testimony of the sergeant of military police, White "poked him in the jaw."

Assistant County Attorney F. E. Northrup demands White be released and he was allowed to go home. The military policemen resented Northrup's action and were hot words followed. The military policemen would take the matter up with their commander at Fort Omaha, and Northrup told them he would welcome such action.

"We now have here in Council Bluffs probably 100 men who are wearing the military uniforms of the service and who are wearing parts of their uniforms," Northrup said.

"Soon we will have many more. We do not want to interfere with the operations of the military police, but there is no reason why they should make life miserable for these boys who are serving their country and who are willing to show their discharge papers when accosted."

A captain and a lieutenant from Fort Omaha in charge of military police, came to Council Bluffs and conducted an investigation Saturday afternoon and Dr. White was completely exonerated.

The officers said their men had exceeded their authority and expressed their regret and assure the Council Bluffs officials that such a thing would not occur again.

RELEASED FROM SERVICE

C. F. M. Clasen of Wayne has been released from going into Y.

M. C. A. service overseas, according to the following communication which he has received:

December 7, 1918.
Mr. Carl F. M. Clasen,
Wayne Neb.

My dear Mr. Clasen:
The changing character and requirements of our overseas work following the armistice and the reduced number of men required from this side, puts upon us the responsibility of a careful reconsideration of the applications service that have come to us with the approval of the departmental personnel committees. In this reconsideration we are compelled, in the light of recent cables from our overseas executive to deny the privilege of service to many who under war conditions would have been useful and greatly needed. The type of service will vary greatly from that of fighting period. Owing to this, many men who are eminently fitted for the war service will not now be required.

In the light of these new conditions which you will appreciate are beyond our control, we feel that we should not further encourage you to obtain further overseas and we ask you in all kindness to consider your application for such service withdrawn.

This request conveys nothing of personal discredit. It should not prove embarrassing to you since the changed conditions are clearly recognized by the people generally and no explanations should be needed.

In this period of readjustment by your association in your community and we are sure its officers will give you the assistance.

Trusting that the necessary readjustment of your personal affairs will not cause you serious inconvenience and assuring you of our deep appreciation of the patriotic and unselfish spirit you have shown with expressions of cordial regards, I am very sincerely yours,
Gay H. Albrigton,
War Personnel Board, Y. M. C. A.

The annual congregational meeting was held last Sunday at which time the following officers were elected:—Deacons: Robert Stranghaugh and Albert Bastian; Trustees—Albert Hansen, Reports presented by the various organizations of the church indicate that the year just closed was one of progress. In spite of the many calls for outside help, the finances are encouraging. Every society in the church closed the year with a nice balance on the right side of the ledger. The total amount of money on hand in all the organizations is $712.

Methodist Episcopal Church.
(Rev. D. W. MacGregor, pastor).
Last Sunday was a banner day for the Methodist church in Wayne it was not only over the world, it was a world day for Methodism in the centenary movement. The largest Sunday school, the largest men's bible class, the largest congregations, morning and evening in attendance for weeks. Come again.

With the excellent teachers, the ladies and men's classes have these classes should have double the attendance. Prof. I. H. Britell and Devin Hahn are among the very best teachers in Nebraska. Get to work classmate and make your classes boom.

The pastor will preach next Sunday, Jan. 17, both morning and evening.

The pastor will preach next Sunday, Jan. 17, both morning and evening.

Ladies' Foreign Missionary society will meet with Mrs. C. E. Gilchrist on Thursday, 7:30 p. m.

The Sunday school has about $130, on hand for the Armenian and Syrian sufferers. Send your money to William Beckenhauer for this fund. Methodist churchmen and missionaries ought to give a double portion of their gold and silver to those poor benighted people. Everybody help.

Come to church next Sunday morning and evening. The public is welcome to the best we can do and give for the help in building up a clean, healthy community, making Wayne a safe place for students to come and get their education. Come men, women and children, help us make our town the best on the map.

LIGHT PLANT FOR HEATING
Wayne, Neb., Jan. 13.—At a meeting of the city council Friday night, they decided to employ an engineer to survey and make estimates for enlarging the electric light plant and put in a system for heating the exhaust steam for heating the business part of the town, including the public school buildings, the hospital and public library. The business men had been invited to attend the meeting and about twenty-five of the leading ones were present and were unanimously in favor of the improvement, as it will be a source of revenue to the city as well as convenient for the consumer.

A CONSOLIDATION.

W. R. Ellis and son, Lesley Ellis, have bought the abstract business of J. P. Golden who has returned to his former home at O'Neill. Following the deal, Messrs. Ellis consolidated the business with that of Forrest Hughes, the new combination to be known as the Wayne Abstract company. Leslie Ellis will be actively engaged in the abstract work.

Carroll Orr, phoned from Camp Dodge, Ia., Monday morning, stating that he arrived there that day with other Wayne county soldiers and expected to be discharged and leave for home within a week.

was all safely tied into bags and put to steam. Fortunately we did not have to use a flat-night, as we were sure it was not good as it would be by Christmas; sorry I will not be there to see it eaten.

Next morning we were for the pudding, so I, all floury as I was, went in search of a cook book, and burst into the director's office, to find her entertaining a general. The general thought my pudding a great joke, and it took the whole canteen to prevent his going out and using all the eggs for the next morning's breakfast; in wonderful fairness to say nothing of sugar and butter.

Willard STORAGE BATTERY SERVICE STATION

Ever Kick a Battery to Pieces?

Of course you wouldn't do it intentionally. No good driver would. But a lot of experienced drivers of trucks and passenger cars have kicked their batteries to pieces without even knowing it by banging on the starting button when the motor didn't take hold at once.

AGRICULTURE NOTES.

Hog Auction Sales Profitable. Hogs valued at $100,000 were sold at a given facing superior sale in November by the California Farm Bureau Marketing association, which comprises the marketing department of the fair bureau in King, Tulare, and Kern counties. The prices received are described as more than satisfactory, being much better than those paid by local buyers. The auction sales have also taught the hog raisers the importance of raising better hogs, as they have seen that packers discriminate between hogs fattened on grain and those raised on skimmed milk and alfalfa pasture alone.

Show How to Grow More Corn.

The Clermont county (Ohio) Farm Bureau through the county agent, last year demonstrated how the yield of corn could be increased by using manure and acid phosphate and by liming. On a total of 75 acres of corn, twenty-two farmers produced an average increase of 10 bushels an acre by broadcasting right-rotted chicken manure and 200 pounds of acid phosphate an acre. From a group of fields on which three carloads of ground limestone were broadcast the yield was increased an average of 5 per cent. Two fine pulvers were purchased and last spring one farmer ground 200 tons and another 100 tons of stone from their farms.

Merchants Study Farming Problem.

Retail merchants by getting in close touch with the farmer and studying his problems can help themselves as well as the farmer. This belief was acted on by the Wisconsin Retail-Lumber Dealers' association in a recent conference with Wisconsin agricultural extension workers as a feature of which the president of the association, Mr. J. H. talks and saw demonstrations of better farming methods. The decision of the association to give information as well as to sell lumber to farmers is said to have been the first step yet taken in the direction of bringing retailers and farmers together.

How One County Fought Rodents.

On a team $2,000 worth of farm and stock was being raised. Some was a condition that the Huefano county (Colo.) Farm Bureau started out to change. With the co-operation of all agencies it is estimated that crops worth $38,085 were saved during the 1918 season, from 85 to 92 per cent of the pests were killed on the areas treated. Poisoned grain was placed on 50,780 privately-owned acres and 2,940 co-operatives at a cost of $854,20, and 11,150 acres of public lands were treated with poisoned grain by individuals who killed 200,000 rats, mice and saved crop and range pasture valued at $2,787. A co-operative with party treated 2,940 acres of public lands using 95,000 quarts of poisoned grain, killing 95 per cent of the dogs and saving crop and range valued at $6,806.

The Crystal theatre promises its patrons an unusual treat next Monday, January 20, when it will present for the first time the remarkable William Fox 1919 extravaganza, "Ali Baba and the Forty Thieves."

The story of Ali Baba is one of the most interesting in that famous old Persian classic, the Arabian Nights. The very fact that this tale has held its popularity for over a thousand years and has been translated into every modern language is a guarantee that it has a entertainment value enough to interest any audience.

The conception story, however, was not sufficient for the producer of this extraordinary photoplay. He has surrounded it with all the Oriental color and atmosphere of the great Caliph, Haroun-al-Rashid, whose magnificence was remarkable even in those days of extravagance. 161ad.

THE PRICE PROBLEM.

Sioux City Journal: It is unreasonable to expect changed conditions in trade and business in the central part of the country. The business and industrial world is slowly recovering from a long period of artificial stimulation in which prices advanced for a year of such stimulation beyond the collapse of the war which brought that condition about. The greater uncertainty of the reconstruction period is that it is coming gradually, more slowly than some desire, but none so slow as to be so essential to the future that it immediate experience. The conservation which means the conservation of business does not indicate a business-ness-ness. It hardly can be termed a caution. It indicates a refusal to plunge on the future when no one can foresee what changes may come at any time.

The big element in the business world now is the question of reconstruction. Will they remain, necessitating the adjustment of business to them, or will they fall leaving business to determine the point at which they will stop? If left to the principles of trade and commerce, supply and demand, the problem is as much a puzzle as ever. The country having been shut out of goods and markets for more than a year would seemingly have a demand that would hold up prices at the present level. On the other hand, the business man's present prices is mortgaging the future at a tremendous percentage rate of interest. This might stop buying and destroy the market. Prices reached a level so low that investment would be safe against cheap prices in the future.

Labor prices will be among the first to feel the cut if one is made. If lower—commodities are necessary to future business that price can be reached only by reducing the cost of production, and in this labor is the largest item, either by reducing the material or converting that raw material into finished product. If the cost of labor is reduced, the cost of living and other commodities reduced. Labor cannot live at the present prices of food and clothing and shelter if its remuneration is reduced in any marked degree. Just how the cost of living is to be reduced on supplies raised while the present wages are being prevented and which enter into their cost, without producing financial disaster approaching bankruptcy, has not been pointed out. If high prices are maintained until the old stock is sold, the new stock might be marketed at a lower price—reduced the cost of such production is lowered in the making of the new, but the line between these two conditions is a fine one which may be crossed by a step which would throw the tax have included in a twilight zone which cannot be reached without sacrifice by one party or the other.

This is the uncertainty which holds business in check and delays the immediate return to normal conditions.

WAYNE, NEBRASKA

General-Contractor, Carpenter, and Builder Heating and Plumbing

Plans and Specifications Made to Order

On account of the signing of the armistice, I have been released from the Motor Transport Truck service under the Y. M. C. A. war overseas. Therefore I am now returning to my business of General Contractor, Carpenter and Builder.

Building construction work has almost overnight leaped from a non-essential classification to the greatest of all activities. In the initial order of the War Industries Board lifting the ban on prohibited businesses and industries, construction work was first on the list of releases and within a week all restrictions on private or public construction were removed.

And that was not surprising for every student of the problems of reconstruction has predicted in his calculations that building would be the greatest of activities of the early peace times. Every indication points to these predictions coming true.

Soon there will be an unprecedented rush of building and the manufacturers of building materials will be crowded to the utmost to fill the rush of orders, not along for the construction work to be done in this country, but for the rebuilding of France and Belgium. Almost every ship that sails for Europe will carry a full cargo of building material, supplies and equipment.

It is idle talk to be talking of waiting for the report of this commission or that commission to proceed with the work of construction. Only the indolent material individual is content to sit back and wait for some body of men to do his thinking for him. The problem of construction of reconstruction is an individual problem.

The man who has been intending to erect a new building or alter or remodel an existing structure but who has deferred his work either because of the ban on construction or for certain other reasons, has exceptional opportunity for doing something definite now.

I have been watching this matter of building materials very closely and I find that many of the best authorities argue that the prices on building materials are not likely to make any decided change in the near future, perhaps not for some years to come.

On the other hand, it is possible, considering the high rentals prevailing that buildings erected now at the present prices of materials will produce a greater return to the owner than a building erected two years hence.

From every point of view, economic as well as social, it is the best of judgment to have plans for building made now, so that every individual will at this time put into actual practice a bit of work that is going to be a step toward the great work to be done. Such action will help to stabilize industry in this period immediately preceding and which will follow the formal declaration of peace.

Let us build—Let us create—Let us begin our plans of construction and reconstruction, also our plans to provide employment for the returning warrior and for the loyal warriors who remained behind and helped make possible the great success of his brother in arms across the seas.

Trusting to meet a share of your building construction, I will endeavor to give you honest service, best workmanship and materials and price right.

I wish you one and all a HAPPY AND A PROSPEROUS NEW YEAR.

Very truly yours,

C. CLASEN.

When we operate on your car we leave it in as good condition as when it left the factory.

That old car may need only a few minor adjustments, new cylinder rings or new balls. Bring it to us. We will tell you.

PERMALIFE SAVES TIME
The exchange requires but fifteen minutes. If you use an ordinary storage battery, your car is tied up for 24 hours or more every time it is recharged, unless you go to the expense of renting a battery to replace yours temporarily.

PERMALIFE SAVES MONEY
The cost of a PERMALIFE exchange is $125 everywhere—which is the same as the average cost of recharging an ordinary battery. One offsets the other. You never have to pay for inspection or repairs; never have to rent a battery—while yours is being charged; every two years, the average life of the ordinary storage battery, you save the cost of a new battery, and your car is always in service.

The ordinary type of a storage battery costs about $32, and to make it last two years, it must be overcharged at an average cost of $10, making a total cost of $42 for two years. This cost distributed over the two years' life of the battery makes your battery cost you $21 a year, exclusive of recharging. Assuming that you had your ordinary battery recharged four times yearly at $1 for each recharge, you have a minimum yearly cost of $25.

More About the Earthquake.
(From Ponca Journal, January 17, 1918.)

We find in the St. Louis City Journal the following report from Prof. Gustav Hinrichs in relation to the late earthquake:

"The earthquake of November 13 extended from Hitesburg, Colo., to Rocky Dakota, Wis., and from Olivet, Croix, to Topeka, Kas. The travel distance forms an ellipse, the major axis of which measures over 300 miles from north-northwest to south-southeast, while the minor axis of which measures over 100 miles from west-southwest to north-northeast over 600 square miles, and comprises fully 150,000 square miles.

The greatest intensity of the earthquake was manifested along the couragement and enthusiasm which helped to make him and us all better soldiers. You can now be a great help in keeping alive the good qualities he is bringing back from the army, in making him as good a citizen as he has been a good soldier.

He will receive all pay due him. He may, if he wishes, wear his uniform for three months from the date of his discharge. The government will also allow him to keep up for the benefit of his family, his insurance at the very low rate he is now paying.

His return to civil life will bring new problems for you both to solve. The quickest he brings back will help you now as your encouragement helped him while he was away, and in your hands and his rests the future of his country.

As his commanding officer, I am proud of him. He has done his duty well, and I would like to have had the pleasure and privilege of working with him and the other boys for a longer time. I, and his country, will bid him good-bye with deep regret, and wish him every success after he returns home—that spot in every man's heart he never places on any other man's shoulders. HONOR THRIFT EXPOSITION

"The memory of Benjamin Franklin, America's foremost exponent of thrift, will be given due honor by Americans this year. Not only has the treasury department placed Franklin's picture on the face of the 1919 series of thrift stamps—if you have not seen it, buy a lot of them, but the way was also made organization of the country will honor Franklin's 213th birthday anniversary on January 17, 1776.

The sage who invented the short phrase, "Save and have," and the longer one, "For age and want save while you may," sowed these seeds of thrift nearly two hundred years ago. But his own countrymen were slow to take advantage of his thrift stamps. It is the purpose of the treasury department to perpetuate the thrift stamp sale and thereby the thrift habit that was adopted so successfully by Franklin in his "Poor Richard's Almanac" and other writings.

"If you would be wealthy, think of saving as well as earning." This is the discoverer of electricity and endorser of thrift almost two centuries ago, and today the young sprout who spends his time and money entertaining his cronies with wild talk about the salaries he has received and expects to receive, would do well to keep that thrift-gram in his mind.

Nothing could have revived the interest in the saving doctrines of Franklin like the 213th birthday stamp and its larger brothers, the war savings stamps and the war savings certificates. Nothing could do this country a more permanent good than the continuation of the war saving habit throughout times of peace.

The war loan and savings organization of the tenth federal reserve district is urging the people of the district to observe Franklin's birthday as national war savings day on January 17. Schools will make one of the days in recognizing the life of our great patriot. Schools in their Friday afternoon school exercises. Thrift sermons are to be preached in many churches in the district. The people generally are urged to make use of the day as a reminder of the importance of thrift and thrift-stamps.
